To keep the face, neck, arms and hands truly beautiful and youthful in appearance, the treatment which seems most sensible is one which will actually remove the skin itself immediately it begins to age, fade, coarsen or discolor. The only known treatment which will do this, aside from a painful, expensive surgical operation, is the application of ordinary mercolized wax, which is as harmless as it is effective.

The wax is put on at night, just as you apply cold cream, and washed off in the morning. It absorbs the dead and half dead surface skin in almost invisible flaky particles, a little each day, no discomfort being experienced. With the disappearance of the old cuticle, the newer, healthier skin underneath gradually appears, richly beautiful with the flush of youth. This mercolized wax, which you can get at any drug store in original package, is indeed a veritable wonder-worker.

He received a letter from Mr. Enos Saunders, Solicitor for the Liquor Commission stating that he had sent a copy of Blade's letter to Mr. Stewart. He also suggested that both sides forget the past "because friction between the police force and the License Inspector was most undesirable."

Stewart's Reply.

Mr. Stewart's reply to the License Board's letter admonishing him to cease the friction with the police force stated that he tried to be on agreeable terms but that he found the police force not willing to call this truce.

"Is there any truth in Dunford's evidence which implicates you?" asked Mr. Hall.

"Absolutely none," replied Sergt. Blade.

Mr. O'Connell asked Blade if he knew the reputation of Hamilton, Sullivan and Akey.

He had.

He was asked if he knew Sullivan sold whiskey and he said he would have bet his life on Sullivan until the day he was fined.

Sergt. Blade said he never knew that the liquor seized on the Norwood Road was in Stewart's office.

Denied Jeering Him.

"If Mr. Stewart says I jeered at him behind my back he is lying," said Blade.

"Do you usually go around livery barns?"

"No, Mr. O'Connell, it is not my habit to hang around livery barns. It is not the place for a police sergeant. I am too busy to loaf."

"Did you ever call Mr. Stewart 'Gizzard' or a son of a——?" asked Mr. Hall.

"No, never."

Sergt. Jack Deannard stated that Mr. Stewart offered him $5 for information that would lead to a conviction before he gave it to the Chief Constable. Sergt Blade also stated that one night when he was walking the beat, Mr. Stewart asked him to give him information of illegal liquor dealings before he reported it to Chief Thompson and he would get a tip of $5.00.

Chief Thompson.

Chief Thompson next filled the witness box and stated that the Lev assuer beer was sent to St. Joseph's Hospital.

"No liquor of any kind ever went from the police station to my house," stated the Chief positively. He further stated that there was no truth in the statement that he wanted the liquor because his wife was ill. Chief Thompson also said that he saw two of his constables pouring the liquor which was supposed to go to his house, down the sink. Chief Thompson specifically denied all the charges of converting liquor to ihs own use and alleged conversations which Mr Stewart had made. The sack which was supposed to carry liquor carried the hunting boots, knives and other paraphernalia.

Chief's Opinion.

Chief Thompson, in his evidence, said one day in his office, he asked Mr. Stewart who had given the Liquor Commission the incorrect information that he had stolen three bottles of confiscated liquor. The Chief informed Mr. Stewart that he was the one to blame. Mr. Stewart is alleged to have retaliated by calling the Chief a liar and a thief.

When Mr. O'Connell cross-examined the Chief and asked him his opinion of Mr. Stewart he said that he thought he was malicious and would go to the ends of the earth to down a man if he took a dislike to him. Chief Thompson also said that he was of the opinion that Sullivan was not guilty in the Kendry liquor case.

"Do you think that Stewart sunk so low that he perjured himself in the Kendry case?" asked Mr. O'Connell.

An Opinion.

"If you ask my honest opinion, I do," stated the Chief. Sometimes when the Magistrate dismissed liquor cases, Mr. Stewart told me he thought the Magistrate was party to the liquor transactions, and that he wanted to report him to the Government."

"Mr. Stewart's judgment in my mind isn't good, he is irritable and follows a certain line of reasoning, which makes him think that the Court ought to be of the same opinion," said the Chief.

"Statements came to me," continued the Chief, "that Mr. Stewart said I wasn't fit for my position. I believe Adjutant Buntin told me this."

Police Protection.

The Chief further said that he heard of the statement which Hamilton was said to have made, which stated that he had police protection. He called Hamilton into his office and asked him about it. Hamilton denied making the statement and Hamilton said he never had police protection but he wished he had.

He later called Sullivan into his office and asked him about the affair. Sullivan denied that he had ever made such a statement to Hamilton and also said he never had or could get police protection.

Detective Newhall and Mr. Saunders of the Liquor Commission, who is coming down from Toronto, and Adjutant and Mrs. Buntin will be heard this morning.

Magistrate David Dumble did not preside with his colleagues but left for Toronto. Mr. Dumble was most anxious that the case be finished before he left but this was found impossible owing to the large number of witnesses.

CONGRESS REPEALED RECIPROCITY ACT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—In anticipation of a general ultimate revision of the tariff, the House to-day repealed the Canadian Reciprocity Act which President Taft made one of his issues in 1910, and nearly brought about the disruption of the Republican party. This country passed the so-called Canadian Reciprocity Act after President Taft had toured the country and fought with his party over it, but Canada never accepted it. A belief exists among Republican leaders that Canada is now preparing to pass legislation of acceptance, at a time when the pact made in 1911 might work to the disadvantage of commerce and farmers in this country.

Liberals and Prohibition

To the Editor of The Globe: Your editorial of October 3rd, entitled "Duty of Liberal Prohibitionists," and the letter quoted in that editorial from a Liberal Prohibitionist, seem to indicate a hesitancy on the part of some Liberal prohibitionists as to what candidates they should vote for. The position to my mind is quite clear. Every prohibitionist and every temperance man, no matter what his previous political leanings, who wants to insure no possible chance of the return of the bar to the Province of Ontario, should vote in all cases for the Liberal candidate. As you very clearly point out in the editorial in question, the Conservative party is committed to nothing in the way of temperance reform. Many of its candidates are openly opposed to prohibition. And Sir William Hearst says that "if question number one on the referendum ballot is marked 'yes' by a majority of the voters, Ontario will return to the wide open bar and liquor store as it was before 1916." There is no doubt then about the position Sir William Hearst and his party will take if they are returned to power on the 20th. On the other hand, the position of the Libral party is also quite clear. The Liberal party is against the return of the bar to-day as it was at the last Provincial general election, when it went down to defeat fighting for the abolition of the bar which was being upheld by the combined forces of the Conservative party and the liquor interests. As a life-long Liberal and reader of The Globe, I must say that I am disappointed with the lukewarm, half-hearted support you are giving the Liberal party, and particularly our honored and revered leader Mr. Dewart, on the prohibition issue during this campaign. Speaking at Ottawa on October 2nd, Mr. Dewart made his position quite clear. The following is an extract from his speech as it appeared in Ottawa Journal (Conservative) on October 3rd:

"We are face to face with two issues—the referendum and the issues so far as the general government is concerned. The Liberal party insists that the two issues should not be confounded. The Liberals stand where they always stood as the pioneers of temperance legislation. They stand on the same platform as they stood in 1914 when they favored the abolition of the bar. Where were the Conservatives then? There was not a barroom in Ottawa or Ontario that was not a Conservative committee room. The Liberals introduced resoltions curtailing the sale of liquor in 1915, but the Conservative Government resolutely refused to do anything. It was not until 1916, when a petition of three-quarters of the people of the Province was presented that Premier Hearst realized the seriousness of the situation, and passed the Ontario Temperance Act.

"In the by-election in South-west Toronto, in 1916, the Liberals won," said Mr. Dewart. "I stood for the Ontario Temperance Act. My opponent favoured wine and light beer. I stand now as I stood then, favouring the highest degree of temperance the Province has the power to enact. It is left to you people to decide, but I promise you to have the law enforced, as it has not been enforced."

And later on, after referring to Sir William Hearst's statement already quoted, that the bar would come back if the people vote for the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act, Mr. Dewart is reported as having said: "The Liberals won't stand for the restoration of the bar in Ontario. Never again, so far as the Liberals are concerned, will the bar be restored to thos Province."

It is, therefore, the plain duty of all opponents of the bar to vote for the candidates of the Liberal party. Being the father of five sons, I am much interested in the future manhood of our Province, and being the son of the man who secured the passage of the "Scott Act" through Parliament, I am proud of the fact that I have been a total abstainer all my life. The prohibition question is the paramount issue in this campaign. I am going to vote "No" to all four questions on the referendum. I am conscientiously convinced that that is the proper decision to arrive at. But my conviction is just as strong that I should vote for the Liberal candidate in my riding to prevent the return of the bar, in the event of a majority voting for the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act.

Ottawa, Ont. D'Arcy Scott.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Guy Brothers Minstrels paid their annual visit to Peterborough last night and were, as usual, greeted by a capacity audience at the Grand. For many years this attraction has annually entertained local play-goers, and its popularity never seems to diminish. This year's offering averages up well with other years, for although the first part fell considerably below the standard set last year, the ollo was considerably better. The singing of the company was not as good as it has been on other occasions, either in solo or chorus work, and the end men's gags and stories were pretty well in the superannuated class. The second part, however, made up for the failure of the first. Kelda, the frog man, did some great contortionist work, the Baum brothers scored heavily in a high class musical act, and Hugh Norton proved a clever quick change artist. The Agawam quartette and a dancing and singing number in which George R Guy presented his famous bones solo, completed the bill.

STANDARD TIME ELECTION DAY

Deputy-Returning Officer J. Fordyce Strickland has received word that standard time will govern in the voting on both sides the referendum the provincial elections on October 20. The polls will open at 9 o'clock in the morning old time and close at 5 o'clock in the afternoon under the same schedule.

The Real Issue!

The magician directs his audience to fix its gaze intently upon something else in order that his dexterous fingers may the more easily practise to deceive.

THE APOLOGISTS for the Liquor Traffic loudly protest that they are "absolutely opposed to the return of the old license system." At the same time they ask you to vote "Yes" to question No. 1 which, if carried by the affirmative, means a return to the Liquor License Act.

They have deliberately stated in their advertising that "the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act does not mean a return to the general sale of spirituous liquors."

Don't be fooled by this camouflage.

As the terms of the old License Act permit the general sale of spirituous liquors, it naturally follows that this statement is a transparent effort at camouflage.

The Bars Must Not Return!

The Temperance Referendum Act, 1919, specifically provides for the return of the old license system. What could be clearer or more to the point than the language of the statute? It plainly states that if there is a majority voting "Yes" on the first question that—

"The Ontario Temperance Act shall be repealed.... and the Liquor License Act....shall be revived and shall be in force in Ontario....and shall have effect until altered or modified by lawful authority as if the Ontario Temperance Act had not been passed." (See any copy of the Act for full text).

In a recent speech, Premier Hearst, the framer of the Act, interpreted question No. 1 as follows:—

"If Question 1 on the referendum ballot is marked 'Yes' by a majority of the voters, Ontario will return to the wide-open bar and liquor store as it was before 1916. If anyone is quoting me as saying anything different, then he is quoting me wrongly."

What will be the Situation after the Referendum?

The Ontario Temperance Act will be repealed.

On the day that this Act ceases to exist, the Liquor License Act comes into force.

The Traffic will again be licensed to sell all kinds of intoxicating liquors, as it was before Sept. 16, 1916.

The bars will come back.

The saloons will flourish.

Liquor stores will re-open.

The old "booze" conditions will return. It will be a black day for Ontario.

The Ontario Temperance Act will continue in force.

The danger of resurrecting the old Liquor License Act will have passed once and for all.

The Ontario situation will continue as it exists to-day—except in so far as it may be modified by Dominion legislation, or by an amendment to the Ontario Temperance Act in case a majority vote "Yes" for questions Nos. 2, 3 or 4.

The way to prevent any of these amendments from introducing intoxicating beer or spirituous liquors into Ontario is to vote "No" on every question.

What Will Happen If Majority Vote "No" on Question No. 1, and "Yes" on others?

(a) If a majority vote "Yes" on question 2—then the Ontario Temperance Act will be amended and 5.46% beer (proof spirits) will be sold through Government Agencies.

(b) If a majority vote "Yes" on question 3—Then 5.46% beer (proof spirits) will be sold in standard hotels even in localities formerly under local option where a majority vote favors such sale.

(c) If a majority vote "Yes" on question 4—Then we will have all kinds of liquor sold by Government Agencies.

Don't be fooled! Don't let your attention be distracted from the true issue by the arts of camouflage! Don't be misled into believing that the defeat of the Ontario Temperance Act will merely mean the so-called "light" beer for Ontario. Remember that it actually means bringing back the evil conditions ensuing from the return to the old Liquor License Act. Mark your ballot with

Four X's—One X only under each NO

Be sure you answer every question. Be sure you mark your ballot with an X after each question under the word "No," or your vote will be lost to Temperance.

'Twas on a bright summer day
When our brave hero sailed away,
The flags were flying,
The whole world seemed gay.
But oh! that dull, dull ache
With us has remained for aye.

That manly figure, straight and true,
Went forth to save his country, her honour, too;
No more those blue eyes flash,
No more that sunny, boyish smile;
There is a great stillness while the twilight creeps—
We bow our heads in reverence, for there he sleeps.

In that torn and bleeding country,
With others of his kind,
Where the blood red poppies sigh in the sunlight,
There is grave you'll find.
'Tis naught but a rough wooden cross;
But God, and God only, knows our great loss.

In loving memory of our dear son, Herman Sexsmith, who died one year ago to-day, Oct. 12th, 1919:

Peaceful be thy rest dear son,
'Tis sweet to breathe they name,

In death we do the same.
Dearest son you've been absent
From our midst a year to-day,
How we miss your loving presence
Aching hearts alone can say.

CALEDONIAN CLUB WAS ORGANIZED

With keen enthusiasm, the Caledonian Club was revived last evening at the first regular meeting held by the club since the beginning of the war, when so large a number of the members answered the call to the Colours.

The meeting, which was held in the W. O. W. Hall, was opened with a short sketch of the conditions of the club by the President, Mr. Robert French.

Elected Officers.

Honorary president, John Moyes.
President, Ed. Hardie.
Vice-president, Robert Hendry.
Secretary, Thomas McArthur.
Treasurer, James Reid.
Recording secretary, John A. Smith.
Committee: Harry Taylor, Robert French, Tom Smith, S. Leith, and Mr. Dick.
Auditors, D. Stewart and J. Grierson.

After the election of officers, routine business was attended to, and it was found that the club was in a very satisfactory financial condition. It is expected that the club will in the near future tender a banquet and dance to all local Scotsmen returned from overseas.

It was mentioned that 64 per cent. of the club membership went overseas and that nine of the number made the supreme sacrifice. A large number of new members were added to the club roll last night, and it is confidently expected that at subsequent meetings the membership will be very greatly increased. All kinds of attractions are in store for the members in the coming year.

The next meeting will be held on 24th October in the W.O.W. Hall.

GERMAN TROOPS FAIL TO CAPTURE CITY OF RIGA

LETTISH TROOPS STILL IN POSSESSION OF IMPORTANT CITY—RUSSIANS ORDERED TO TRAIN FOR MILITARY SERVICE—THE ALLIES' ANSWER TO THE LATEST GERMAN NOTE.

SOVIET GOVERNMENT TO EVACUATE MOSCOW

(United Press.)

HELSINGFORS, Oct. 14—The Soviet Government of Russia has ordered the entire population of that country to train immediately for military service, according to the reports reaching here from Russian sources.

All the peasants it is said must devote all their time which is not occupied with agricultural work to drilling.

HOLDING RIGA

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 14. — Lettish troops are still holding Riga was reported in the despatches received here to-day. They are said to have held the city firmly since Sunday night when the Germans failed repeatedly in the attempt to cross the Dvina River into the city proper.

Reports from Helsingfors to-day said that Col. Bermondt, cooperating with the Germans in their attack against Letts had crossed the river above Riga and was concentrating his troops on Dasfen Island.

A BLOCKADE.

(United Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 14. — Despatches from Berlin report that the entente powers have suggested to Germany that she join in the blockade against Soviet Russia. No report of this proposal has come from allied sources.

A Berlin despatch says the suggestion has not yet been officially considered by the German Cabinet but it is indicated that Germany will suggest the appointmen of an international commission to deliberate on the question.

ALLIES ANSWER.

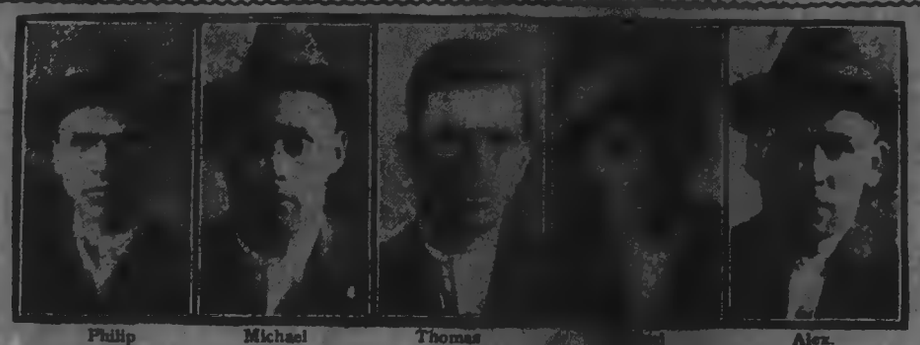
(United Press.)

BERLIN, Oct .14. — The allies' answer to the latest German note with regard to the Baltic situation, has lessened the tension in Germany. While the allied attitude was decidedly firm the Germans consider them fiamly and do not expect the blockade to be renewed.

EVACUATE CITY.

(United Press.)

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 14. — The Russian government at Moscow has been making preparations to evacuate that city ever since the fall of Kursk a month ago, according to a report from Helsingfors.



Philip Rotensky — Michael Bahri — Thomas Konek — Alex. Martinuque

With death staring them in the face the five foreigners at the County Jail are seemingly unperturbed, and hold an animated conversation between cigarettes during the day, and at night retire to their cells, where they fall asleep almost immediately.

During the day the five of them are allowed in the ward with the rest of the prisoners, but at night Rotensky, Bahri, and Konek are locked in one cell together and Zaluski and Martinuque in another.

They are still dressed in the street clothes in which they appeared in Court. Before their trials they were allowed half an hour's exercise each day in the Court Yard, but this has now been changed, and the whole room is the extent of their wanderings.

Five minutes after they were sentenced last Thursday evening—to be "hanged by the neck until you are dead," the five doomed men did not never a falter, lit cigarettes and talked quietly among themselves in their own language until time to retire. They are described as absolutely the coolest prisoners who ever slept in the County Jail.

They evidently have great hopes of clemency, and although Chief Justice Middleton told them to hold out no hope, "but be prepared for a Higher Tribunal," they are buoyed up with something, and their demeanour is unchanged since the day of their arrest.

They are still fed the same frugal fare as before their trials, but it will gradually grow better in quantity and quality until they are fed their last meal on 14th January.

ALLIES HAVE PROPOSED BLOCKADE OF RUSSIA

FIFTY THOUSAND GERMANS FIGURE IN THE BALTIC OFFENSIVE—WILL REMAIN THERE AFTER WAR AND SETTLE DOWN.

By Carl D. Groat.
(United Press.)

BERLIN, Oct. 14.—The Allies have proposed an International blockade against Soviet Russia. The suggestion was made to Germany to-day in a note which also was addressed to Austria and neutral countries. The notes receipt here followed the Allies' most recent note to Germany defining their attitude toward the Baltic situation and the presence of Gen. Von Der Goltz's troops in Mitau, Russia. At least 50,000 Germans figure in the present Baltic battle. "Do not dream of returning to Germany," scores of them told the United Press correspondent to-day that they intended to remain here and fight the Bolsheviki When the fighting is ended they intimated they will settle in the Baltic States and seek their fortunes in the development of Russian trade and resources.

The Investigation Closed Saturday

MR. ENOS SAUNDERS OF THE LICENSE BOARD WAS ON THE STAND—FINDING WILL BE READY IN A WEEK OR TEN DAYS.

Mr. Enos Saunders, solicitor for the Liquor License Commission, was asked some pertinent questions by Mr. R. R. Hall and also by the members of the Police Commission Saturday morning. Mr. Saunders told of the circumstances of the making of Hamilton's statement in the solicitor's office. Mr. Saunders said he refused to make the statement public because Hamilton said it was private. He gave a copy of the statement to Mr. Stewart.

"Why didn't you show the statement to the members of the License Commission?" asked Mr. Hall.

"Because he knew what was in it already I showed it to no one."

"Did you appreciate the gravity of these charges against the local police force?"

"Yes, I understood it was a grave matter," replied Mr. Saunders.

"Didn't it strike you that there was a duty cast upon you to investigate it?"

"No, not at all."

"Then you know that the members of the Liquor Commission knew what the statement contained?"

"I assume it. The object of the Board as to harmonize these difficulties, but apparently without success."

Lack of Harmony.

"There can be no harmony between justice and crime, can there?" asked Mr. Hall.

"Oh, I am not talking about it at all."

His Honour could not understand why the Liquor Commission did not send the statement to the Police Commission, knowing the gravity of the charges contained in it. Mr. Saunders replied that a wish for harmony was the object in withholding the facts. Mr. Saunders remembered the letter sent him by Sergt. Arthur Blade asking that the charges made against him be investigated. The letter which Mr. Saunders sent in reply asked that the past be forgotten as friction between the two officers was most undesirable. Mr. Saunders made no move in the matter.

"Did you believe that a crime had been committed by members of the local police force?" asked Mr. Hall.

"I don't remember."

"Did you care?"

"Now that is an improper question."

"Did you believe that Blade had not committed a crime?"

A Memory.

"I've answered you a dozen times that I don't know. A man would want a memory like a mule to remember that sort."

"Didn't Inspector Stewart see you after Blade's letter about the case?"

"I couldn't tell you whether he did or not."

"Did you hear of any charges against the police?"

"I've heard that the Chief was a good fellow," replied Mr. Saunders.

"Did Mr. Stewart tell you that?" asked His Honour.

Cards on the Table.

"We have put all our cards on the table about the affair," continued Mr. Saunders, "and have nothing to conceal."

"I've looked through the whole deck," observed Mr. Hall, turning over a mass of correspondence produced by the Liquor Commission, "and can't find my letter to the License Board."

Mr. Newhall's Letter.

Detective Newhall, on returning from his holidays last July, had seen the Hamilton statement and wrote Mr. J. D. Flavelle, chairman of the Liquor Commission, asking that investigation be made. Mr. Flavelle replied that "it was regretted that friction existed." Detective Newhall asked for a copy of Hamilton's statement, but the Liquor Commission refused saying that the statement was confidential. Newhall took up the matter and informed the Liquor Commissioners that Mr. Stewart had asked if it were then confidential. He asked that the License Board see that Mr. Stewart retract his charges. Mr. Saunders replied that it should not have been made public and asked that the matter be settled without litigation and arranged for a meeting with Detective Newhall and Inspector Stewart at the License Board office the first week in August. Detective Newhall replied that he was willing to have this meeting but he thought it should be public so that the public would be satisfied.

Mr. R. R. Hall, acting for Detective Newhall, then demanded an open and public apology from Inspector Stewart in a letter to the Liquor Commission.

The Review newspaper was also anxious to get a copy of the statement?"

"Perhaps you suggested that?"

"Didn't Mr. A. H. Stratton on behalf of the Review, call at your office for a copy of the statement?"

Wrote a Letter.

"No, Mr. Stratton wrote me a letter, asking for a copy to publish," replied Mr. Saunders.

"Didn't you suggest that this statement be brought out at the Rae Sullivan trial?"

"What do you take me for?" replied Mr. Saunders, indignantly.

Mr. O'Connell, cross-examining, read the letter of the Review to the License Board, asking for a copy of the statement. The letter was signed Alexander MacGregor. Mr. Saunders replied that it was not desirable to publish it, but that they could have a public investigation before the County Judge.

An Investigation.

Mr. Stewart also accepted the idea of an investigation, as he "could not stand for any wrong."

Mr. Saunders as he left the witness box, leaned against the railing of the petit jury box, which being insecurely fastened, fell, participating Mr. Saunders on the floor. Mr. R. R. Hall, in a joking way, said he would have to report it to the Liquor Commission.

Adjutant Wallace Buntin, of the local Salvation Army Corps, took the stand and recalled that last June he and Mrs. Buntin met Mr. Stewart, who said, "I just want to warn you against that crowd."

"What crowd?"

"The police force and the Chief, too. The Chief is a damn liar and a damn thief. He took three bottles of whiskey home and drank them."

Adjutant Buntin said Mr. Stewart also mentioned the Hamilton statement and gave the particulars of how Constable Archie Moore was to be decoyed out of the house, and a gang, with the protection of the police, were going to steal the whiskey. Mr. Stewart said that Sergt. James Reid should be Chief and that after a police investigation there would be a change in the Chief's job. Mr. Stewart further added that he could go and tell them if he wanted to. Mr. Buntin, who had entered a store, joined them, and Mr. Stewart "with tears in his eyes," sympathized with Mrs. Buntin for having to mix with such a crowd The Inspector named a

MEETINGS HELD IN BRIDGENORTH

MR. THOMAS TOOMS AND PARTY HELD TWO MEETINGS LAST EVENING.

Mr. Thomas Tooms, Farmer and Labour candidate, held meetings at Temperance Hall and Bridgenorth last evening. Mr. P. Loyd presided at the Temperance Hall, where the candidate explained the platform in a brief address, and questions were then asked and answered to the satisfaction of the inquirers. This meeting was well attended.

At the Foresters' Hall, Bridgenorth, Mr. R. N. Scott, of Smith, presided. This was an exceptionally enthusiastic meeting, the hall being well filled. Ladies were also present. The speakers were T. McMurray, F. Astes, T. Lane.

The candidate, T. Tooms, who was well supported by Mr. Anderson, of Warsaw, president of U. F. O., East Peterborough, explained how he was present at the executive meeting which decided to put up a Labour candidate for West Peterborough, and it was his personal suggestion, as West Peterborough U. F. O. was not quite so well organised; but with a farmers' candidate in the East and a Labour candidate in the West, by cooperation nothing but the best interests could be served in this sane action. Several points were made clear for the U. F. O.

The speakers were enthusiastic and well received. Three hearty cheers were given for Mr. Tooms when the meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

MANUFACTURER HAS BEEN ARRESTED

A TOTAL OF 36 BOMBS SENT THROUGH THE MAILS.

(Canadian Press.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—The Federal authorities at Gary, Ind., where military control was established after the situation growing out of the strike of the steel workers became too threatening for the State authorities to handle, have arrested the alleged maker of the bomb which exploded on the night of 3rd June last in the doorway of the home of A. Mitchell Palmer, the United States Attorney-General at Washington, and have obtained evidence clearing up the Terrorist bomb plots of May Day and 2nd June, according to authoritative information here to-day.

Evidence also has been obtained that revealed the entire Terrorist organisation, responsible for the attempts against the lives of the Law Enforcement officials throughout the country who had been active in the arrest and prosecution of Radicals.

The man held in connection with the Palmer bomb is believed to have been the manufacturer of the thirty-six bombs sent through the mails in packages wrapped in paper from Gimbel Brothers' store in New York, and timed to reach their intended victims on the first of May.

Since the sixteen hundred soldiers of the Fourth and Sixth Divisions took control of Gary, investigations have been shrouded in secrecy. There have been many arrests made and a strong stockade was made to keep the prisoners in.

A CELEBRATION ON HIGH STREET

CITY AND COUNTY POLICE CONDUCTED A RAID.

The usual post-holiday Police Court was held this morning, with Mr. Frank Adams and Mr. Harry Rush on the bench.

Thirsty ones numbered four. Milligan got tipsy on two bottles of blood tonic. It was the third time he has appeared in Court, and it cost him $16.10.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself," declared Mr. Rush.

The usual Thanksgiving dance was held at a house on High Street on Thanksgiving night—just outside the city. The police co-operated with High County Constable Archie Moore and three men spent the night in the police cells. A bottle was found in the back yard, and had just enough in the bottom to bring about a conviction.

"It's cider," declared Mr. G. N. Gordon, who defended one of the men.

The Chief declared it was the very latest in drinks.

The Thanksgiving hilarity cost each of the three men $16.10.

TWO ANARCHISTS PLACED ON TRIAL

PUBLIC PLACES HEAVILY GUARDED BY THE POLICE.

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Heavy police guards were placed to-day within and about the Criminal Court Building where two alleged anarchists are on trial following the discovery late yesterday of highly inceadiary circulars threatening the lives of Supreme Court Justice Bartow S. Weeks, Assistant District Attorney Alexander I. Rorke, and Detective-Sergt. James J. Gegan, head of the Police Bomb Squad.

Gegan, who had the novel experience last night of being guarded in his home by brother policemen, joinwith the detectives and agents of the United States Department of Justice to-day in an effort to run down the authors and circulators of dodgers, who called on all workers to "arm and fight back" against the capitalists.

The homes of Justice Weeks, who is trying the case of the two alleged anarchist newspaper editors, and Mr. Rorke, who is directing the prosecution, were closely guarded last night as a result of the declaration of a circular that they may as well drop their high positions, for they will have to pay the price for every worker killed or wounded.

Guards also were placed about the public buildings regarded as likely targets for anarchistic bombs.

S. J. FARMER WILL RUN FOR MAYOR

WILL REPRESENT LABOUR INTERESTS IN WINNIPEG.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Oct. 14.—S. J. Farmer is Labour candidate for Mayor, after Wm. Ivens, who declined to accept the nomination. The point was definitely settled at a representative gathering of labour men from all the wards of the city last night at the Labour Temple. The meeting also arranged for the formation of a Central Electioneering Committee, with F. J. Dixon as chairman.

The endorsation of Mr. Farmer as Mayoralty candidate is in line with the action taken at the Labour Nomination Convention held on 6th October. At this convention the names of Ivens and Farmer were placed in the nomination for Mayor, the former winning by about 16 votes.

The convention then went on record to the effect that if for any reason Ivens did not accept the nomination, Mr. Farmer should be the convention's choice.

HOME-MADE BREAD

Home bread-making reduces the high cost of living by lessening the amount of expensive meats required to supply the necessary nourishment to the body. The increased nutritious value of bread made in the home with should be sufficient incentive to the thoughtful housewife to give this important food item the attention to which it is justly entitled. Bread made with Royal Yeast will keep fresh and moist longer than that made with any other.

number of policemen of whom he did not have exactly golden opinions.

What About Blade?

"And what about Blade?" asked Mrs. Buntin.

"Oh he is the worst one in the crowd," and then Mr. Stewart went on to say how Blade had attempted to steal whiskey in his office. Detective Newhall inquired the next week what Mr. Stewart had said to him and Adjutant Buntin told him, as Mr. Stewart had told him "to go tell them if you like."

Detective Newhall was called to the witness box at twelve o'clock and told how legions of citizens inquired of him about the Hamilton statement, although no one would give him any definite information. Even in Toronto people asked him if he were importing whiskey into Peterborough now.

Detective Newhall denied each charge in the statement of Hamilton, which was read to him by Mr. R. R. Hall.

Police Protection.

"Did you ever have any conversation with Sullivan regarding police protection?" asked Mr. Hall.

"Never," replied Mr. Newhall. "I was barely on speaking terms with Sullivan."

"Did you ever speak to Dunford about the affair?"

"Hum, Dunford knows he daren't come near me. Because he knows that I know of his bootlegging deals," replied the detective.

"Have you sneered and turned into a doorway when you met Mr. Stewart?"

"No, I wouldn't be bothered sneering and the man isn't living yet whom I would turn in a doorway for."

Detective Newhall in his evidence, related how Inspector Stewart, with head down, "made like a shot" through the outer office up to the Chief's office. Upstairs he heard Mr. Stewart order the giving up of the Birdgenaw liquor. He went inside and Mr. Stewart was in the corner of the office with his hands before his face. He saw an opening and "made down the stairs like a shot."

Mr. Dan O'Connell, for Mr. Stewart, did not examine Detective Newhall.

Inspector Stewart was recalled to the box. He was asked if he offered $5 to Sergt. Deannard for information office wnth his hands before his face. O.T.A.

"I never did."

He also denied that he offered $5 for information, but added that he had offered $5 to P. C. Wigg for information.

Mr. Stewart denied that he ever poured liquor down the sink in the police station. He stated that Sergt. Reid, who said he helped Mr. Stewart to pour it into the sink, knew nothing of it.

Could Not Remember.

Of the Buntin interview Mr. Stewart would only say that he could not remember putting in "damn" in his characterization of the Chief, "damn thief and dam diar." Mr. Stewart said the Chief in his office called him "a damn low down sucker." Mr. Stewart repeated his evidence that the Chief told him that he took the whiskey home to his (the Chief's) residence.

"Did you ever tell Dunford that it was within the law?" asked Mr. O'Connell.

"I did not. I did not think it my business to ask Mr. Dunford what he was drawing," replied Mr. Stewart.

Mr. Hall asked Mr. Stewart when he made the agreement with Dunford to act as stool pigeon.

Mr. Stewart did not know the exact date, but it was after the Sullivan case. Mr. Stewart knew that Dunford was mixed up in liquor transactions and he confronted him with the fact and Dunford admitted it. Mr. Stewart then made the bargain with him.

Concluded Evidence.

This concluded the evidence.

Mr. O'Connell then presented his case to the court. He pointed out that the main points in the argument were the statement of William Hamilton, that Sergt. Blade had broken into Mr. Stewart's office to steal whiskey and that the Chief is alleged to have converted confiscated liquor to his own use. He stated that it was not incumbent upon Mr. Stewart to bring the matter before the Police Commission, but to the police who were the party charged. Mr. O'Connell mentioned Mr. Stewart's integrity of character and said that although perhaps he had made mistakes sometimes, he had only been animated by his sense of duty. He has been imbued with too much zeal. And when this extraordinary story which affected his duties came to his ears he placed it where he thought it should be placed. When he heard of the liquor being brought into Kendry and Norwood he hears that Newhall is the intermediary between this organized gang of bootleggers and the police force. In his zeal and in the course of his duties he cannot disregard it and he believed it." Mr. O'Connell made a scathing attack on Hamilton who ,living in the city among respectable people, carried on these liquor transactions. He admits that he is a liar and that he would have stolen the whiskey. Mr. O'Connell disbelieved Sullivan's story and classed Akey's evidence as impertinence."

Difficult Problem.

I frankly admit that such charges should not be made without substantial evidence behind it. These charges are simply the statements of Hamilton. I am not going to attempt to prove the charges against these men because I admit that the evidence points the other way. But it would be a difficult thing for the Board to come to a conclusion by the evidence of Dunford or Hamilton. One thing is the direct contradictory evidence of Mr. Stewart and the men implicated in the statement. Mr. Stewart is a man who is universally respected and even who the Chief himself admits was highly esteemed by him until recently. Mr. O'Connell said he was not going to pretend to explain the contradictory evidence of Stewart and the Chief in regard to the liquor which Stewart said went to the Chief's house. There evidently is a mistake some place."

What motive could Dunford possibly have in telling the story of Blade trying to steall wihskey from Stewart's office if it was not true? On the other hand Sergt. Blade denies it. There is no doubt that some of these men whose evidence was heard would not hesitate to commit perjury, but as to Mr. Stewart or the Chief, or any of the police officers implicated it is absolutely unthinkable.

Mr. Hall's Argument.

Mr. Hall understood how there could be rivalry between the License Inspector and the police force, because if the Inspector prosecutes the money goes to the Provincial Treasury. If the police institute proceedings the fine levied goes to the city coffers. Any man who hears Mr. Stewart give evidence cannot help believe that he is zealous ,an intense man, also intense in his likes and his dislikes, but mostly in his dislikes." Mr. Hall pooh-poohed the idea that there was any collusion between Hamilton and Newhall when only a few weeks before Detective Newhall was the means of having Hamilton fined $500. Can you imagine any more stupid thing in the way that it is said that Newhall and the rest of them were to steal Moore's whiskey. It was to be in broad daylight and boxes that weighed 800 lbs. It is only the intense dislike that Mr. Stewart had for the police that made him believe it. I am trying to show what a love of revenge beclouds a man's mind when he has an axe in enemies which he intends to push Quoted Dr. Johnson.

Mr. Hall quoted Dr. Johnson, who spoke of men thinking over affairs so long and earnestly that they soon roll from side to side on the bed.

Hamilton says there is no truth in the statement, Sullivan says there is no truth in it and so does Detective Newhall. The regrettable thing is that Mr. Saunders gave a copy of this statement to a man who, in his intense lose for revenge, showed it to others. As far as Detective Newhall is concerned there is not a vestige of truth in the statement, and it Mr. Stewart wishes to vindicate his [illegible] ogy in this court. That is the only course we can take.

Mr. O'Connell Objected.

Mr. O'Connell objected to some of the epithets ascribed to Mr. Stewart by Mr. Hall.

His Honour asked for better feeling between the police force and the Inspector if it were possible and that Mr. Stewart should try harder in that direction than he has heretofore. He thought this rapproachment should be initiated on the part of Mr. Stewart.

Mr. Hall then continued his argument.

"All the witnesses have denied any knowledge of these alleged plots except this creature Dunford and we needn't speak of him."

Saw Sullivan.

"Wigg said he saw Sullivan. Martin saw him. Both men have no interest in Sullivan. For the life of me I can't see how the Magistrate made a conviction in the Sullivan cases. To show this statement to the Magistrate while counsel for the other side was absent, exhibits this extreme zeal. I am of the opinion that Mr. Stewart made an honest mistake when he identified Sullivan at Kendry .That is another case of this extreme zeal.

The liquor which was said to have gone to the Chief's house went, according to the expressman and the police sergeant, to St. Joseph's Hospital. This took place four years ago and why didn't Stewart bring it to the attention of the Police Commissioners then. But no. he waits four years and then puts it in his evidence, but does not open himself to liability by preferring a charge. Mr. Stewart must have dreamt it in nursing his revenge which kindled his imagination. In psychology people imhagine things exist that never did. The source from whom Mr. Stewart seems to draw his information is from convicts and jailbirds. I ask Mr. Stewart to rise on his feet in this court and deeply apologize to the men whom he has wronged and slandered.

Not on Trial.

Mr. O'Connell rose and protested that Mr. Stewart is not on trial, but that Mr. Hall made charges against Stewart.

"Stewart did not ask for this investigation," insisted Mr. O'Connell. "The statement was given to him in good faith."

His Honour stated that judgment would be given as soon as possible. Magistrate Dumble is away at present and will not return until next Thursday and so. of a necessity, judgment will not be delivered for at least a week.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

A Simple Way to Reduce Wrinkles

Remember that wrinkles and bagginess of cheek or chin are due to the muscular tissue losing its strength and shrinking. The skin is then too large in area to fit such tissue smoothly. It wrinkles or sags.

To remedy this condition, there's nothing so effective, so quick-acting, as a simple wash lotion easily made at home. Just get an ounce of pure powdered saxolite at your druggist's, and a half pint of witch hazel, mix the two and bathe your face in the liquid. This at once tightens the skin and solidifies the underlying tissues —which, of course, smooths out the lines and draws in the sagging skin. It also stimulates capillary circulation, bringing natural color to faded cheeks.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 14TH, 1919.

THE MAIN POINT.

No voter should lose sight of the all-important fact that a "Yes" vote on the first question of the Referendum means a vote for the wide-open bar and shop just as they were prior to 1916 and that if the majority of the voters answer "Yes" to the first question, the other three questions on the Referendum ballot will not be considered at all.

LIBERALS AND LABOUR

No political party ever appealed to the people of Ontario with a more progressive and comprehensive platform than does the Liberal party in this campaign. Particularly is this true of the labour reforms which have been adopted as part of the Liberal policy and which will be added to the laws of the province if the Liberal are returned to power. The programme pledges the Liberal party to advocate a general minimum wage, not only for women and children but for men as well, and the appointment of a permanent commission whose duties shall be to inquire into the cost of living in different sections of the province and who shall have power to increase the minimum wage. The Liberal platform in addition calls for the eight-hour day for industrial occupations, better factory inspection, and a more rigid enforcement of child labour laws, recognition of the principle of collective bargaining, and the provision of insurance against sickness and unemployment.

The Liberal party also proposes that Provincial Industrial Council shall be appointed by the Government consisting of an equal number of employees and employers with a chairman also appointed by the Government, to consider and report on the necessary steps to promote the best interest of employees, employer and State and especially to consider questions relating to hours, wages and general conditions of employment, unemployment and its prevention; the best methods of promoting co-operation between Capital and Labour; the Government to substantiate the findings of the commission by passing the necessary legislation.

The labour men of West Peterboro will be consulting their best interests by voting for Mr. Gillespie and helping to put in power the party that has adopted the most enlightened labour programme the electors have had a chance to give their verdict upon.

THE "VISHICK" SCANDAL

So perturbed was Mr. J. D. Flavelle, chairman of the Ontario License Board at the charges made by Mr. Hartley Dewart of gross irregularities in connection with the sale of liquor to Toronto Hebrews for the Feast of the Tabernacles, that he wired, at the public expense a lengthy explanation to the newspapers of the province. The chairman's explanation, however, was one that did not explain. To have been complete it should have told why the Board saw fit to allow the distribution of the visitick to get out of its own hands and into those of a gentleman, who is known to be a very active native government worker among the Jews. There was no reason given either why brandy of over-proof strength should have been allowed to be sold, when native wine would have answered the same purpose. The chairman maintains that there was to have been only one bottle for each family yet there seems to be ample evidence that people got four, five and six bottles and one man claims to have succeeded in getting nine of them. It was bad enough to have stretched the letter of the law to the extreme limit and permitted the sale of very strong liquor for purposes apparently not purely sacramental. But when such a special privilege is made a scandal indeed when the distribution of the liquor is handed over to a Government worker in a riding in which there are many Jews, only a few days before an election. The Chairman of the Board hastens to declare that the Premier or none of the members of the Government had any knowledge of the incident. That may be so, but they know about it now and Sir William Hearst might stop telling the people of the province what a great temperance party he leads, long enough to take some action towards punishing those who are responsible for the irregularities in connection with this matter.

SMALL POLITICS.

Mr. R. J. Soden, the Hearst candidate, must be hard put to it to find weaknesses in the Liberal platform or cause when he has to drag into the present campaign an issue such as the manner in which the Liberal nominee conducts his business. To those electors of Bridegnorth who went to hear the public issues of the day discussed, only to have to listen to Mr. Soden talk about the price of milk, the Hearst candidate must have presented a sorry figure. There was nothing that he could tell his audience about milk that they did not know much better than he did, and Mr. Soden did not strengthen himself in the esteem of those who heard him by the attack upon the Liberal candidates's business. Assaults of the Bridgenorth type will only lose votes for the Hearst standard-bearer, for the electors will be quick to realise that a candidate who is not big enough to get above such petty irrevelent issues is not a big enough man to represent West Peterborough in Queen's Park.

Mr. Gillespie's reputation for honesty and straightforwardness in business makes the Soden insinuations ridiculous. The public knows that Mr. Gillespie's company has been selling milk in Peterborough cheaper than it has been sold in other Ontario centres of the same approximate size, and while and industry has been built up that is an asset to Peterborough and to the surrounding district.

Mr. Soden will win votes if he keeps up the tactics with which he has opened the campaign —but they will be won for Mr. Gillespie. The day has gone by when the electors could be reached by appeals of the kind the Hearst candidate is using.

NOT TO BE FOOLED.

The women voters of West Peterborough are too wise to fall into the trap that the local Hearst organ is endeavoring to set for them in mixing up the question of the referendum with the general election. The obtaining of political capital from this confusion of the issues was, of course, the prime reason for the Government's decision to bring the two votes on the same day. Now the party press, seeking to extract the last ounce of advantage from the situation, prints specimen referendum ballots for the benefit of the women voters, showing them how to vote four no's on the referendum and then immediately below publishes an election ballot with a cross opposite the name of the Hearst candidate. The motive is plain enough, but the attempt to delude the women into the idea that they must support the Hearst candidate as well as vote "no" on the referendum is bound to to be a failure. The women voter reads her newspaper even more thoroughly than the sterner sex and the strategy of the government press is too transparent to fool her. The women of Peterborough know that the Liberal party has consistently fought for temperance legislation and that the party at a representative convention unanimously pledged itself on the issue in the following unequivocal resolution:

"Where as the people of the Province of Ontario by referendum vote will decide the question of Provincial prohibition.

"And whereas after the referendum vote is taken it will be necessary to see that proper legislation is provided and the will of the people is carried out;

"Therefore be it resolved, that the Liberal party of Ontario, in convention assembled, affirms its attitude in favour of progressive legislation to the fullest extent of the provincial jurisdiction and pledges itself to take all necessary steps to vigorously and effectively carry into effect the will of the majority of the people as expressed by the said referendum vote."

The women of Peterborough know that no candidate in the province has been more consistent or straightforward in his stand against the liquor traffic than Mr. Gillespie and that in voting for him they will be helping the cause of temperance jus tas effectively as they will be in voting "no" four times on the referendum ballot.

THAT BY-ELECTION.

The Hearst press is so persistent in its abuse of Mr. Hartley Dewart on the temperance issue that it might be imagined that the editors who day after day continue to insinuate that he is an anti-prohibitionist and was elected by the liquor interests, have entirely forgotten the by-election of 1916 when Mr. Dewart was chosen by the electors of South-west Toronto as their representative in the Legislature. Have the Hearst editors also forgotten that on that occasion the government candidate favoured wine and beer licenses and on that policy was accepted as the nominee of the Hearts government, no fewer than three of the ministere speaking on his behalf? This wonderful temperance government not only endorsed a candidate who openly declared that he favoured a system of wine and beer licenses, but one of its ministers, Hon. Mr. Lucas, the Attorney-General, went into the riding and frankly told the electors that a majority in favour of Mr. Norris, the Hearst nominee, would be interpreted as a sign that the government had gone too far in its temperance legislation, the inference being that wine and beer licenses would be inaugurated if the government candidate were elected.

The words of the Attorney-General on that occasion are never re-published in the Hearst press, nor are they used by government orators during the present campaign—yet they are among the few interesting utterances that Mr. Lucas has ever made. Here is what he said:

"If you elect Mr. Norris what does it mean? It will mean that you say to the government of the province: "We think you went too far in this legislation. We think that Jim Norris is about right, and we put up a good majority for him." He is a good Conservative and you pile up a 3,000, 4,000 or 5,000 majority. Do you think that my friend Ferguson and myself won't have our ears to the ground and attach the weight we can give it in consideration of the sentiment of the province elsewhere."

Fortunately for the cause of temperance Mr. Dewart, who accepted the Ontario Temperance Act was elected. The voters of South-west Toronto failed to rise to the bait that was offered them by the so-called temperance government which, through its Attorney-General, practically pledged wine and beer licenses as a return for the election of the government candidate. The victory of Mr. Dewart saved the province at that time from a relaxation in the temperance legislation.

The prohibition voters of Peterborough should not lose sight of that fact on Monday.

THE GRATUITY QUESTION.

The agitation for what is loosely called the Two Thousand Dollar grant to returned men, but which is really a demand for a graduated grant of one thousand, fifteen hundred, and two thousand dollars to those who served in Canada, England France, respectively, still continues; and this week a mass meeting was held in Ottawa addresses by Comrade Flynn of Toronto, who is the moving spirit in the matter. This meeting was presided over by Col. Currie, M. P., who is also its advocate in Parliament. Col. Currie is a pretty hard-headed business man, and it is rather surprising to see him allying himself with a movement which can have no hope of succeeding. All the more so because, as a rule, officers both in and outside of Parliament have thrown cold water on the suggestion as being impracticable.

That the agitation has gained so much strength, and has even attracted some support among the more level headed of the returned men, is partly due to the impolite way in which the request of the G. W. V. A. representatives here was received. These men, Messrs. MacNeill, Tait and Maxwell, are sensible and fair; and have never at any time given any support to the agitation headed by Flynn. It was really to head off the agitation that they asked the Government to go into the question of gratuities and appoint a commission for the purpose. Their advances were treated rather summarily by the Premier, who does not seem to have properly understood the spirit in which they were made. It would probably have saved a great deal of trouble and misrepresentation had the commission been granted. Commissions have been granted galore for less serious and less important matters.

One wild story being pretty widely used is that Sir Arthur Currie has been given a grant of $500,000. If this had been done, it would not have been without repeated precedant in Great Britain; where military leaders have been granted much larger sums for less important military achievements than those of General Currie. A proposal was actually made in caucus that General Currie be granted $100,000. It emanated from Sir Thomas White, who, perhaps realized Canada's financial position better than anyone else, opposed it strongly, and the matter was abruptly dropped. He has not been granted anything, and he is not likely to be.

The members in the House as a rule, thoroughly realize that the demands on Canada as a result of the war not only in direct expenditure but in money spent in gratuities, hospital treatment, re-education and civil re-establishment, generally, are going to prove a very heavy burden. Very few members have the courage to raise a voice in the House against it, but many are looking anxious over the total and wondering where the money is to come from. This is not due to any sense of ingratitude; but purely a realization that there is a limit to generosity, and that the burden of debt being rolled up is a fearful one.

The attitude of the G.W.V.A. executive, as already stated, is a wise one, and very courageous, because it may possibly involve their own sacrifice if the Flynn movement gains sufficient strength. They realize that they are fighting for the future welfare and good name of veterans generally.—The Financial Post.

The BOYHOOD of NELSON

September 29th. 1758 — October 21st. 1805

"I thank God for this great opportunity of doing my duty."
—Horatio, Lord Nelson, at Trafalgar.

Aims of the NAVY LEAGUE OF CANADA

To emphasize Canada's opportunities and responsibilities on the sea.

To raise funds for the relief of our merchant seamen, injured in the war, and for dependents of those who were killed.

To maintain sailors' homes in our ports.

To train boys and young men for our merchant ships by the organization of Boys' Naval Brigades.

Patron: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES
Dominion President: COMMODORE ARTHUR JARVIS

Do you realize that you can satisfy some lad's yearning for the sea?

The boy Nelson longed to follow in his uncle's footsteps, and in giving the boy his chance Captain Suckling gave to the Empire its greatest naval hero. Far from robust at the age of twelve, Nelson rose early to rank, and it is of special interest to Canadians to note that as a young officer he served in Quebec and was familiar with that great highway, the St. Lawrence. In giving his life for his country at Trafalgar, Nelson, by his famous victory, assured Britain's supremacy on the sea.

Some boy in Canada awaits YOUR assistance. You may never see or know him, but your contribution to the Nelson Day Campaign for $500,000 will be the means of his joining a Boys' Naval Brigade at one of the eight branches now in operation or at others to be formed.

He will learn the elements of seamanship. He will take a summer cruise. He may get a year at sea. He will be a better citizen, and when the time comes that he is needed to help to man a Canadian merchant ship to carry Canadian goods to the markets of the world, he will be READY.

Should the day come when Canada and the Empire will again need defenders on the sea, let us have our own men trained and prepared. Let us have a body of our fellow countrymen ready to emulate the glorious example of our sea heroes from the time of Nelson to those of the last war.

So long as we are dependent on foreign sailors to man our merchant ships, there is no force to draw upon in case of an emergency such as confronted us in 1914.

The Navy League of Canada points out the possibility for service to every Canadian. Let us realize the opportunity by contributing liberally to the Nelson Day Campaign. May we all be able to say, as did Nelson with his dying breath:

"Thank God I have done my duty!"

Caramel Custard.

Cook 1-8 of 1 cupful of sugar in a saucepan over a hot fire, stirring until the sugar is dissolved and begins to a light brown or caramel color. Pour the cooked caramel into a tin or aluminum mold large enough to hold three cupfulls, and rotate the mold about until the inside is well coated with caramel. Then beat 4 eggs very lightly, adding 1-4 cupful sugar and 1-2 teaspoon salt. Beat again. Stir in 2 cupfuls rich, sweet milk, pour the mixture into the coated mold. Set the mold in a double boiler or pan of boiling water and let cook until the custard is firm. Col, then chill in the refrigerator: unmold and serve with whipped cream.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE WEST RIDING OF PETERBOROUGH

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN.—

Having again received the unanimous nomination of the Liberal Convention of West Peterborough, as a candidate for Parliamentary honours at the ensuing Provincial Election, to be held on October 20th, I desire to solicit your hearty support in favour of my election.

WAR WORK

Having represented you for the past five years (war years), I can safely say that during that period, while every effort was being made to win the war—my record is known to you all; and on that record I ask you to judge me on the position I have taken on all measures affecting the war work.

TEMPERANCE QUESTION

When I was elected in 1914, I stated my views on the Temperance question during that campaign; I pledged myself to vote for Temperance legislation on all occasions brought forward by whatever party, and the record in the House will show that I carried out that pledge.

The Referendum vote is to be taken on the same date as the Provincial election, October 20th, and if I am again elected your representative, I promise to give my whole-hearted support to the Government elected to carry out the will of the people, as expressed by their votes on the Referendum ballot.

AGRICULTURAL LEGISLATION

During the years preceding 1914, every one agreed that the Department of Agriculture was asleep. The very first opportunity offered in the House, I introduced the question of a forward movement in Agriculture, and, along with other Liberal members of the House, have earnestly advocated a more strenuous progressive policy in Agriculture.

The shortage of production, the problem of farm help, and the numerous perplexing questions affecting the farmer, cannot be solved unless we seriously consider the cause and apply the remedy.

During the past few years of unrest in the country, due mainly to excessive living costs, I have advocated that demonstration farms be established in different counties, and increased attention be paid to the education to be received in our Agricultural College and Experimental Farms, and that the knowledge gained at the Agricultural College be put into practice on Demonstration Farms, where a profit and loss account could be kept, and the costs of producing 100 pounds of milk, or a pound of pork, or any of the many products of the farm, could be ascertained and established, such information being sadly lacking to-day. By such a system of education, the farm would be looked upon as a business manufacturing plant, that would attract the best brains to the development of the greatest asset in Canada to-day, the Farm. Our production is unlimited. The markets of the world are calling for food, and our own citizens living from hand to mouth at tremendous prices, wondering what the next six months have in store for them.

PROVINCIAL HIGHWAYS

Our Highways need much repair. Auto and truck traffic is becoming daily increased, and we must develop a road policy which will make for hauling our produce to market as cheaply as possible. To this matter, I promise to give my best thought.

EDUCATION

Education, I am pleased to say, is in the hands of a new Minister, in whom we hope for great things. I believe in a separate education for the City and Rural districts. An Education in the Rural districts to educate the boy and girl the great lessons of Agriculture, making two blades of grass grow where one grew before, developing the average cow of Ontario to-day, which gives 5,000 lbs. of milk in a milking period to 10,000 lbs., producing a pound of pork or beef at a lower cost, and giving to the world the blessing which we most need: a reduction in the high cost of living.

THE LABOUR QUESTION

Regarding the important question of Labour, my own policy has been to treat labour as I would wish to be treated myself. I have had a good deal of experience with labour of various kinds and conditions, and have never had any trouble along that line, and do not expect to have any.

OUR RETURNED HEROES

To me, the welfare of the returned soldier and soldiers' wives, is one of the most essential duties of our country. Therefore, I promise that I will give my hearty support to every movement calculated to promote their very best interests. The soldiers who fought for me for five years deserve, and may expect to receive, my earnest consideration during the remaining years of my life.

THE WOMAN VOTE

I am delighted to know that women are to enjoy equal privileges with men in the use of the franchise at this election, and in the exercise of this privilege, I have the greatest faith in their good judgment and purifying influence. Their power with the ballot on October 20th, especially with the Prohibition and Labour problems, will, I feel certain, be of far-reaching effect. I will, therefore, consider the votes from the ladies counted in my favour at the approaching election, to be instruction to take high grounds on all matters calculated to elevate the morals of this community as well as of the whole Dominion.

CONCLUSION

These questions I have dealt with are, to my mind, the outstanding questions of the day. If I am elected again as your representative, I promise to give the best of my ability, my mature judgment on all questions affecting the interests of the West Riding of Peterborough, the Province of Ontario, the Dominion of Canada, and the British Empire, of which we, to-day, are so justly proud.

Thanking you, Ladies and Gentlemen, for your support in the past, and soliciting your support again on the 20th day of October. I remain,

Your obedient servant,

GEO. A. GILLESPIE

BAB APPROPRIATES A LETTER SHE SEES UPON NEIL'S OFFICE DESK.

I felt positive the letter inside that envelope was from Blanche Orton. I had received invitations and acceptances from her, and could not be mistaken in the writing. I blushed with shame, but I finally had the letter in my bag. Aunt had risen to look at the view as I spoke of it, and it had given me a chance to slip it in. I would find out what she had to say to my husband.

"Shall we go now?" I asked. "We do not want to miss the first of the play," I was anxious to get away before Neil came in. He might miss the letter, and ask me if I had seen it. I was ashamed of myself, yet I fairly ached to see what was in that letter. How could I wait until the play was over? I decided I would not. I would excuse myself and go to the ladies dressing room after the first act and then read it.

As we passed the stenographer going out she asked meaningly:

"Shall I tell Mr. Forbes you called?"

"Certainly!" I replied in my coldest tones. "Tell him Mrs. Forbes and his aunt were here."

She made no reply, but I saw a significant glance she threw to the bookkeeper. It angered me, and yet I was still more incensed at myself because of the flush which I knew she had observed.

"I don't like that girl's looks nor her manner. She seemed very pert to me," Aunt remarked as we gained the street.

"She is. I wish Neil would discharge her. But I don't like to speak of it. There is so much said of wives being jealous of good looking office girls, you know. He might think me jealous."

"Nonsense! you say you have only been there once before. I shall tell him that she isn't at all calculated to help his business if she acts with others as she did with us today." I made no reply, hoping aunt would be able to get Neil to discharge the girl, yet knowing all the time that it was due to my own actions the day I had visited the office in Neil's absence, that she had been pertly annoying.

Aunt chatted until we reached the theatre. I scarcely heard a word she said so anxious was I to read the letter that I had taken from Neil's desk. We had good seats, and aunt seemed to enjoy the play from the very beginning. I paid scant attention to the stage, so fixed upon the letter was my mind. To my disappointment there were but two acts. I should have to wait some time for the intermission. I spent the time speculating upon the contents of the letter, and whether Neil would return to the office and miss it. He had said something about club at luncheon. I wished I had listened more closely. I had not considered what I was to say if he missed the letter and his stenographer told him I had been in his private office. But now I commenced to worry about it, and wonder if there was not some way I could get the letter back on his desk after I had read it.

The first act ended. I excused myself to aunt and went to the ladies' room. I took the letter from my bag and finding a chair removed as far as possible from others who had sought the room for the sake of arranging their hair or using a powder puff, I commenced to read. First glancing at the signature. As I had expected Blanche Orton's name stared up at me.

"Dear Neil," it began, "I tried my best to get Frederick to come to-night. I got him on the telephone and urged him, telling him anything I could think of that would prove enticing. He was absolutely adamant. He pretended he would have liked to come if only you and Scott or Thompson were to be here. You know how blunt he is, and it was all I could do to keep pleasant when he intimated he thought I was doing wrong to receive T. and C." I knew he must refer to Tearle and Connor. "However I have asked H— He is very rich, and a bit crazy over me so perhaps I can help you land him. Anyway it was the best I could do. Nancy and Lulu will come, and Scott and Thompson. Try and be early as there are some things I want to tell you that I hate to put on paper. As ever, Blanche."

I sat with the letter clutched in my hand. What was this intimacy between my husband and Mrs. Orton? What did it mean? It was in no sense a love letter, yet really I felt more anxious, more fearful of what it might mean than had it been. I was so ignorant, and so much had been said to worry me about Neil. Not until the orchestra stopped playing did I remember that I had a guest. I crumpled the letter in my bag, and gained my seat just as the curtain rose on the last act.

The Walrus.

The walrus is one of the thickest skinned animals in existence, its hide being so thick that it is possible to split it in several layers, every layer tough and durable for the finest leather. The elephant, rhinoceros and hippopotamus also are very thick skinned, the elephant having such a tough hide that hunters of big game have learned to shoot it in the forehead for a fatal wound. There is a soft bone about the size of a saucer in the middle of the elephant's forehead that is the target of the experienced hunter.

"Life" Salutes England.

No American publication has been a more effective supporter of the allied cause than Life of New York. From the day that the Huns invaded Belgium this clever weekly urged the moral obligation of the United States to enter the war against the devastators of civilization. Life proved a thorn in President Wilson's side until after two and a half years he finally threw down the gauge of battle to the Germans. Now that the war is over it is foremost among those American periodicals which admit that Britain made the greatest contribution of all the allies to the achievement of ultimate victory. In a recent issue Life says:—

One hears that a tenth of the standing timber in France was destroyed in the war, out that in England one half of the standing timber was cut down for war uses. Kipling speaks of England as

The Bank of the Open Credit,
The Powerhouse of the Line.

So she was. "The Powerhouse of the Line" is about right. She put out money and power in quantity so vast that people still have the impression that she is an immense reservoir of might, and there is vicious talk in some papers of her pulling the leg of the United States in the Peace Congress and planning to use American power to rivet her dominion on the earth.

But that is either propaganda or nonsense. Britain has spent her very life-blood. If she is an obstacle to human welfare, now is the time to kill her off. If she is a great asset of civilization, now is the time to help her.

The "Irish" Karelians.

That war is still being waged in Russia and other parts of Europe is not so strange, perhaps, as the circumstance that there are peoples engaged in it little known to the rest of the world. For instance, while it was common knowledge that around the shores of the White Sea, the Finns formed one of the valuable auxiliaries of the allies opposed to the Bolsheviki, the existence of the Karelian as an allied soldier will come as something brand new to the average reader. The Karelian, however, is of the Finn family, and his country embraces the southeast corner of Finland and parts of the modern governments of Petrograd, Olenets, and Archangel. The Karelians are also known as the "Royal Irish Karelians," from the fact that their commanding officer is a British colonel of the Royal Irish Regiment. They are quartered about the town of Kem, and muster about 4,000, as against the 1,500 of the Red Finn Legion. Dressed in regulation khaki, the "Irish" Karelians, of course, have not forgotten the indispensable shamrock. This, be it said, is worn in the form of a badge cut out of Maconochie tins.

An Englishman's "Home."

When the Prince of Wales visited Southwark recently he and the mayor climbed the stairs of one house to an attic so low that neither could stand upright.

The only furniture consisted of two fourposts with a mattress on each and some rags for bed coverings. There was a window with broken sash frames and several panes of glass were gone.

The mayor asked the prince what he thought of it.

"It is damnable!" was the emphatic reply.

"Zam-Buk made it well"

Children never forget a remedy that ends their pain. That's why a child who has once had Zam-Buk applied to an injury will cry for it again when hurt.

Mrs. T. Fothergill of Ridge Farm, Bousman River, Man., says: "My children are constantly getting cut, bruised or burned and for these injuries I find Zam-Buk indispensable. The little ones even cry for it. For fifteen years we have used Zam-Buk in our family, and could not do without it."

Mothers should always keep a box of Zam-Buk handy on the medicine shelf, for not only does it quickly end pain and soreness, but it positively prevents festering and blood-poisoning and heals in the shortest time possible. Mothers can save themselves much anxiety and often much needless expense by immediately applying Zam-Buk to cuts, scratches, bruises, knocks, burns and scalds, and by teaching the children that the prompt use of Zam-Buk will prevent little hurts from growing into big ones. Zam-Buk is equally good for sores, rashes, eczema, ulcers, boils, pimples, ringworm and salt rheum.

Because of its absolutely herbal composition Zam-Buk cannot become rancid, but will keep indefinitely and still retain its purity and strength. Buy a box to-day, use what you require, put the remainder away, and when next you need it, it will be just as effective as when first bought. That is why Zam-Buk is always the choice of the thrifty house-keeper. All dealers 50c. box.

ONLY an artist can blend colors to match the beautiful Red Rose.

Blending teas is even more difficult.

It requires expert knowledge and a highly cultivated sense of taste to select teas from many different gardens and produce a uniform blend day after day.

Only the largest companies can afford to employ men who are expert tea tasters and blenders.

Red Rose Tea is an example of the fine art of tea blending, more than a dozen varieties of choice teas being used—principally rich, strong, full-flavored ASSAMS.

Its delightful and distinctive flavor is exclusive to Red Rose. And its rich strength means economy in your tea pot.

Try a sealed package of this expert blend.

RED ROSE TEA "is good tea"

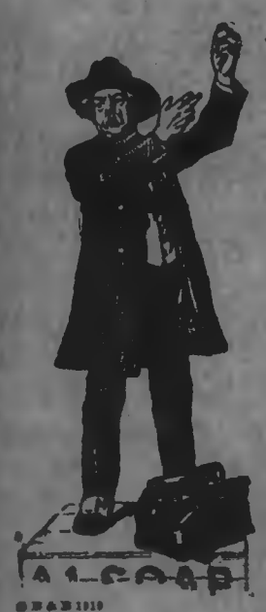
Do You Remember
The Old Corn Doctor?



He stood on the street, in the olden days, and offered a "magic corn cure."

The same ingredients, harsh and inefficient, are sold in countless forms today.

But they did not end corns, and they do not now. Nor does padding, nor does paring—methods older still.

The One Right Way

Modern scientists in the Bauer & Black laboratories have evolved a perfect method and embodied it in Blue-jay.

In 48 hours, while the corn is forgotten, Blue-jay completely ends it, and forever. Hardly one corn in ten needs a second application.

NOW IS THE TIME of the year when it is necessary to start fires in the furnace and range, the same to be kept up for the next six months, day and night, whether you are on hand to look after them or not. It is important to see that everything is kept in good condition to avoid accidents which may occur, and also more important to see that your fire insurance is in force and in a good company. Do not delay to get your policy made out and in your possession. You never know when or where a fire is going to break out. Be prepared for it at all times even if it never happens. The cost of maintaining a good policy is very small if you let us write it. But your protection will be perfect, and your loss, should one occur, promptly settled. The Way to say "No"

		YES	NO
1	Are you in favour of the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act?		X
2	Are you in favour of the sale of light beer containing not more than two and fifty-one one-hundredths per cent. alcohol weight measure through Government agencies and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?		X
3	Are you in favour of the sale of light beer containing not more than two and fifty-one one-hundredths per cent. alcohol weight measure in standard hotels in local municipalities that by a majority vote favour such sale and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?		X
4	Are you in favour of the sale of spirituous and malt liquors through Government agencies and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?		X

Everybody should study the four questions and realize exactly what they mean. Do not be misled by the insidious demand for "light" beer.

The beer of the ballot is 118% stronger than the Ontario Temperance Act now allows, and over five times as strong as the limit allowed for beer defined as non-intoxicating in Great Britain and the United States.

Must Answer Each Question

1. Unless you vote on every question your ballot is spoiled.
2. You must mark your answer to each question with an "X" only. Anything else would spoil your ballot.
3. Unless a majority vote "No" on question 1 the bars will be restored and the sale of all kinds of intoxicants permitted.
4. Unless a majority vote "No" on questions 2, 3 and 4 the Ontario Temperance Act will become almost worthless.
5. The only SAFE course is to mark your ballot as shown above.

"No!"—Four Times—"No!"

No repeal; No government beer shops; No beer saloons; No government whiskey shops.—Four X's, each under the word "No."

PRINCE ELECTED CHIEF

It was at Banff that the Prince of Wales was made Chief Morning Star, with the right to wear the shining buckskin robe with a blue belt of beads and a head dress of bright and nodding feathers of a chief of the Stoney Tribe.

When the Prince stepped off the train amid the high peaks and exquisite spruce clad valleys of Banff, he found himself among Indian braves clad in all the vivid colors of the spectrum, feathered and beaded from crest to moccasins and mounted on their small, swift horses.

At each branch road, a fresh body of Indians, a fresh splash of vermilion and yellow and cherry and blue and green moved out from amid trees and fell in behind the escort, so that as it went the cavalcade became a moving train of shifting color.

The procession went until it reached a big open race course where Indian tepees, red starred on white, and gay with flags, were set and where the ceremony was to be held. As the Prince came on to the grounds, braves whirled their ponies about and raced through veils of dust in a ride of welcome, while the low throbbing of tom-toms joined itself to the high, thin whoop of the Indian welcome.

On a dais and in the centre of a circle of braves, some with skins painted crome yellow so that they looked like masks of death; some daubed with red, some barred with blue, some with yellow paint on sleek hair, the Prince received the welcome of Young Thunder, the chief. He was a big roughly carved Indian clad in white, hairy chaps and cowboy shirt, and as he read his address in sing-song Cree, his body was curved back as though he still sat on a pulling horse.

He read first in his olden tongue and then in English of the honor the Prince was paying to them, and of their enduring loyalty to him and to his father, and he asked the Prince "to accept from us this Indian suit, the best we have, emblematic of the clothes we wore in happy days."

"We beg you to allow us to elect you as our chief and to give you the name of Chief Morning Star," he said. Then he handed the Prince a magnificent head-dress of feathers and beads and fine duck skin robes. The Prince, putting on the head-dress, spoke to the circle of braves of the honor he felt they had done him.

When he finished tom-toms were loosed again, and the high, thin whoop rose up from the ring which almost at once began to circle around in a dance.

It was a wonderful scene, this mass of Indians in the deep cup rimmed by steep and white crags and not the least picturesque of attractions there were the head and leather garbed babies, who grubbed about on the earth.

The GRESSMAN Company Limited

BOARD GAVE ITS DECISION

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—The Board of Arbitration, which arbitrated the difficulties between the Canadian Northern Express Co. and its employees, members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, has made its report to the Minister of Labour following sessions of the Board held at Winnipeg, Toronto, and Montreal. Probably the most important question before the Board was the claim made on behalf of J. W. Watson, one of the representatives of the Brotherhood of Railway Employees.

Representatives of the men urged that Watson, as general chairman of the Employees, had been refused the opportunity of exercising his rights under Clauses 5 and 13 of the Act, because of his participation in the Winnipeg general strike.

The general superintendent for the company stated quite plainly that he refused to meet Mr Watson during the strike period, claiming that he did not represent the employees, and that Watson during the Winnipeg strike, by refusing to return to work when requested to do so, lost his seniority and his rights as an employee.

The Board decided that Watson did not lose his rights as general chairman by his action, and held that Watson is at the present time general chairman of the employees. Furthermore, the Board recommends to the company that Mr. Watson be allowed to exercise his opportunities and his rights as general chairman in future.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE KISS BURGLAR

"The Kiss Burglar," the attraction at the Grand on Saturday, proved one of the most enjoyable musical comedies that Peterboro has seen in some time; catchy music, well handled by both principals and chorus, plenty of comedy, good dancing, and an attractive chorus all combined to make the production memorable. The plot was more logical than is usual the case with a musical comedy, and the costumes and scenic investiture were in keeping with the general excellence of the production.

"MICKEY."

"Mickey," the famous motion picture, which is being shown at the Grand this week, attracted huge audiences at both performances yesterday. The picture which comes from a sixteen weeks' run at the Grand Opera House, Toronto, where night after night capacity houses raved over the charming picture, and over "Mickey," (Mabel Normand), is one of unusual charm and based on an unusual theme. Miss Normand is seen in one of her strongest roles, playing to perfection the part of the little girl transplanted from the wild life in the woods into the home of a rich relative and who later disguising herself as a jockey takes part in a sensational race.

THE MUSIC.

The musical accompaniment to the picture was yesterday specially commented upon by the audience, who appreciated the good work of the Grand Opera House orchestra in handling the different selections accompanying the play.

AUBURN TEAM BEAT WARSAW

A most exciting game of football was played in Warsaw on Thanksgiving Day when the Auburn Woollen Company's team defeated Warsaw by a score of 2 to 1. This is the first time that they were ever beaten on their own grounds.

Warsaw scored in the first half but Auburn came back in the second and evened it up. Twenty minutes' overtime was required to break the tie.

The return game will be played here later.

Warsaw — Goal, W. Eggins; full backs, Crow, Loudsberry; half back, Dods, Payne, Alf. Darling; forwards, R. Payne, Jack Darling, Bell, James Bell, F. Darling.

POPULAR SALESMAN IS CONGRATULATED

THIS POPULAR TRAVELLING MAN'S CUSTOMERS ALL HAVE NOTICED HIS GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

"Many of my customers on the road have congratulated me on my great improvement since I started taking Tanlac," said William Goulding, a well-known travelling salesman residing at 178 Macdonell street, Toronto, Ontario.

"My stomach had been giving me trouble for a long time," he continued, "and I was greatly distressed with gas on my stomach. I had a tight, uncomfortable feeling after eating and would suffer from awful dizzy spells. My nerves were shattered and I was unable to rest well at all and I finally felt so miserable that I just had to stop work and go away for a rest.

"While I was visiting my sister at Galt, she persuaded me to try Tanlac and the way it has helped me is simply wonderful. I feel better today than I have in years. I am never troubled with indigestion and that tired, fagged out feeling is all gone. Tanlac has ended my stomach trouble, and put my nerves in good shape, my appetite is fine. I sleep well and have considerably more energy than I had before taking Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

"THE UNPARDONABLE SIN"
AT THE ALLEN THEATRE, TO-MORROW

WHAT IS "THE UNPARDONABLE SIN?"

THE ANSWER WILL BE GIVEN TO MORROW AT THE ALLEN.

There are "big scenes" without number in "The Unpardonable Sin," which is to be shown at the Allen Theatre to-morrow, but "biggest" in point of interest and suspense though, paradoxically, "smallest" in point of characters involved is the disrobing scene which has been attracting the attention of the public wherever the tremendous photoplay feature has been exhibited.

In the development of the story Blanche Sweet, appearing as Dimmy Pascot, an aggressive American girl, in company with Matt Moore, as Noll Winsor, an American working with the Food Commission in Belgium, find themselves entering the military lines and forced to submit to the most careful search of their persons for possible hidden documents. Methods used in making these military searches have received sufficient publicity to make the average man familiar with them and it is pretty generally known that but little respect was paid to the feelings of modesty which were natural on the part of women who fell into the toils of those ordered to make the search.

In "The Unpardonable Sin," Miss Sweet is shown alone in a room with one of the most repulsive characters that has ever been represented on the screen. Article by article, down to the last filmy garment, her clothes are removed, despite her protests and despite her desperate struggles. The scene has been photographed through a diaphragm of silk and the two characters appear in silhouette. It is remarkable, too, that so realistically has the situation been worked out that there is not even the slightest suggestion that this truly sensational bit has been "dragged" in by the heels to pander to tastes which are low or depraved.

Another exciting incident of the picture, entirely different in its nature, shows the escape of the principals from the clutches of those who would detain them. A regular automobile supply truck driven at breakneck speed crashes through rough and unbroken fields, across little streams, and through gulleys and ditches only a short distance in advance of a powerful military touring car which finally gives up the ghost when it finds the going too hard. What the little machine accomplishes is wonderful, and the situation is one that makes for progressive and spontaneous cheering on the part of any audience before which the picture is shown.

As "The Unpardonable Sin" is here for a limited stay only, the management has arranged to show this feature twice in the evening, commencing at 6.15 and again at 9.00 in order to accommodate all those who will be most anxious to see this wonderful super production. Those following the serial, "The Great Gamble," will have an opportunity of doing so, as this serial will be shown in addition to the feature.

"THE SILVER KING," FINE PHOTOPLAY

WM. FAVERSHAM, FAMOUS STAR, IN STELLAR ROLL.

When Henry Arthur Jones' celebrated melodrama was produced in London in 1882, its success was so pronounced that it was in great demand in this country. It was first presented in New York at Wallack's Theatre, within a few months after its London premier. The play achieved an instantaneous success and it toured the country triumphantly for several seasons.

This celebrated play has been picturized with William Faversham, the famous actor, in the stellar role and it is one of the best of the Paramount special pictures thus far produced. The scenarist was Burns Mantle, a well known dramatic critic of New York and George Irving was the director. One of the big features of the production is a presentation of Derby day at Epsom, and aside from this there are many other notable views of scenes in and about London.

Mr. Faversham is finely supported, his leading woman being Barbara Castleton, a talented actress, well known on the stage and screen. "The Silver King" is being shown to-day for the last time at the Allen Theatre and it is certain, according to Manager Rosenthal, that the S.R.O. sign will be in evidence throughout the run.

SPECIAL MUSIC AND EFFECTS

WILL BE USED TO PRESENT "THE UNPARDONABLE SIN" AT THE ALLEN TO-MORROW.

Special music has been secured to properly present the master photoplay "The Unpardonable Sin" which will be shown for a limited engagement only at the Allen at popular prices. This feature has been shown throughout the United States and Canada at from fifty cents to a dollar and a half; but the local manager, Mr. Rosenthal, is adhering to his policy of presenting the best features at popular prices, and no advance will be charged to see "The Unpardonable Sin" even though it cost the management more money than any other two features.

An overture will be played by the Allen Theatre orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. W. Leader, the well known Peterborough musician. The stage will be decorated with ferns and palms, and the boxes as well, making an attractive picture. Before opening the picture, a prologue will be rendered. This is an unusual innovation in the presentation of motion pictures, and the novelty of it will no doubt be appreciated by all those who have the fortune of seeing this masterpiece. To arrange for everyone wishing to see "The Unpardonable Sin," the management has arranged to give two performances nightly, commencing at 6.15 and the second showing at 9.00. This will enable the late comers to secure a seat, although everyone is advised to come early, as no reservation can be made. In addition to this stupendous 9 reel feature, the "Great Gamble" will be shown, so that those following this serial will have the opportunity of keeping up with each episode. In addition the Allen will show the Harold Lloyd Comedy, making a bill of twelve reels in all. The biggest and best show yet presented to local patrons by any theatre at popular prices.

"OH, BOY!" COMING ON THURSDAY

COMPANY HAS A NUMBER OF GOOD MUSICAL HITS.

The dainty, refreshing and delightfully pretty musical comedy, "Oh Boy", the New York Princess Theatre musical comedy success, under the management of F. Ray Comstock and William Elliott will be the attraction at the Grand, Thursday evening only. "Oh Boy", is unquestionably the brightest and smartest musical comedy New York has seen in many a moon. The book and lyrics are by Guy Bolton and P. G. Wodehouse and the music is by Jerome Kern. The story of "Oh Boy", is extremely interesting and concerns George Budd, a quiet, young professor of chemistry in a college town, whose friends surprise him on the eve of a great polo victory and just when he and his bride have returned from being secretly married. The bride goes to her home, but Budd having received a telegram from his old maid Quaker aunt, who controls his fortune, remains to welcome her. Meanwhile Jackie Sampson, a dashing actress who plays "Modesty" in "Experience", rushes into Budd's room, after a row in a restaurant and to avoid the constable she remains there calling herself Mrs. George Budd.

The comedy situations keep the audience in constant laughter.

The score, in keeping with the book contains a number of the brightest and tinkliest musical hits of the season, and are:

"Let's Make a Night of it"; "You Never Knew About Me", "A Package of Seeds", "An Old-Fashioned Wife", "A Little Bit of Ribbon", "The First Day of May", "Koo-la-loo", "Rolled Into One", "Oh, Daddy, Please!", "Words Are not Needed", "When It's Nesting Time in Flatbush", "Flubby Dub, the Cave-Man".

THE SAN CARLO GRAND OPERA COMPANY TO BRING 100 MEMBERS TO PETERBORO

PREMIER THEATRICAL ATTRACTION OF THE SEASON WILL APPEAR HERE ON WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 22ND—A DOUBLE PROGRAMME.

Announcement in these columns last Saturday that Peterborough music lovers will be permitted to enjoy a real grand opera event, and that the San Carlo Grand Opera Company, now appearing at His Majesty's Theatre, Montreal, would come to the Grand Opera House on Wednesday, 22nd October, has created something beyond pleasurable anticipation on the part of the cultural element of the community. This special theatrical and musical affair, however, was only made possible through the giving up of the Grand Opera House at London, Ont., by the San Carlo managers in order that His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, who is to be the guest of that city on the date mentioned, might have a suitable place wherein to hold his public reception. The San Carlo people then concluded that Peterborough's music lovers would be given the opportunity to hear the celebrated singers which make up this organization, acknowledged the largest and most complete of all touring companies.

Montreal opera enthusiasts have been packing His Majesty's Theatre to the doors for the past ten days, and the engagement in the Metropolis concludes next Saturday night. Then, after a two-day engagement in Ottawa, the San Carlo stars will come to Peterborough by special train, en route to Detroit, where the annual engagement of the organization in the Michigan Metropolis is to occur.

The entire membership of one hundred will be brought here, and in order that as many of the principals as possible might be heard locally, the famous double bill—two operas, "Cavalleria Rusticana" (Mascagni) and "I'Pagliacci (Leoncavallo)—was decided upon. Furnished with two different and distinct casts of leading artistes, the event takes on a double significance, and the event is calculated to prove the most superb, both from a musical and society standpoint, ever heard within the walls of the local playhouse.

Representatives of the San Carlo Company were in the city yesterday completing, with local Manager Dahn, the details of the opera engagement, making hotel reservations for the various stars, inspecting the stage at the Grand (which, by the way, they pronounced amply large for the big production), and attending to other affairs pertaining to the coming of the songbirds.

The Principals.

Soprani—Mmes. Queena Mario, the Greek-American coloratura; Haru Onuki, Japanese prima donna; Bula Ray Shull, dramatic; Rosina Zotti, from the famous Coliseo, Buenos Ayres; and Sofia Charlebois, lyric artiste.

Mezzo-Soprani—Mmes. Stella DeMette, former star with the original Montreal Opera; Ada Louise Armstrong, San Francisco songbird; Alice Homer, and Frances Morosini.

Tenori—Messrs. Manuel Salazar, eminent Spanish artiste; Franco De Gregorio, late of the Quinlan Opera forces, London, England; Guiseppe Agostini, distinguished Italian star; Luciano Rossini.

Musical directors: Messrs. Gaetano Merola, late of the London (Hammerstein) Opera, London, England; Ugo Barducci, chorus-master, of New York.

The detailed casts for the two operas scheduled for Peterborough will be given out at a later date. The subscription list is now open, and the regular public seat sale for this event will open next Friday morning.

"DUMBELLS" HAVE A BIG RECORD

The "Dumbells", most famous and best loved of all soldier-entertainers organizations, with a record of over five hundred performances given in the vicinity of the front lines in France, are now on a home-coming tour of Canada and will appear at the Grand on Saturday, Oct. 25 matinee and evening.

The company is composed entirely of soldiers who have served an average of sixteen months in the trenches before being chosen as members of the Dumbells.

In "Biff, Bing Bang", which is the title of the original overseas revue which they are offering, several of the boys don skirts and do everything from ballet dancing to singing arias from grand opera.

THE HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

One home is like a calm summer evening, or a bright, fresh, spring morning, because the mistress is full of restful sympathy or her mind of bright, fresh interest in those around her. Another home is a gusty, stormy morning or a fog laden afternoon, when the darkness can be felt, because the woman who makes its atmosphere is capricious, hasty and ill-tempered or dull and heavy, and careless of the comfort of those who depend on her and incabable of putting brightness and warmth into the hearts of those around her because there is none in her own heart. Let those who are house mothers look to it that they "keep hearts at leisure from themselves to soothe and sympathize" to create a restful atmosphere for those who come in tired and weary from the outside and to keep light and brightness alive in their own minds, that they may shed them over everyone who dwells beneath their roof or who sits beside their hearth.

SLANG.

Slang is a verbal vice. It is vile, even unto villainy. It taints. It is often used by young people who regard it as an evidence of smartness, which, in fact it is in direct evidence to the reverse. It pollutes. A young girl's character is questioned by a stranger when he hears her use slang. It encourages familiarity. It leads by direct route to wrong doing, shame and remorse. A youth who uses slang is not trusted by men who give employment. The ability and repute of the young man are at once in question. No employer wants a slang boy or girl about his office or store. They are not the kind of people to have about the safe and till. In the great cities, where the characters of people are known by their deportment and use of language as a book is known by its cover and contents, the slangy youth or maiden is at once set down as from some frogpond district. It is not regarded as smart. It is about as much evidence of smartness as wearing one's pants in his boots and adopting a swagger. Such a person is a butt of ridicule. So is a slangy person.

FRESH HEWN CHIPS.

If you would be happy as a child, please one.

Childish wonder is the first step in human wisdom.

To best please a child is the highest triumph of philosophy.

A happy child is most likely to make an honest man.

To stimulate wholesome curiosity in the mind of a child is to plant golden seed.

I would rather be called the children's friend than the world's king.

He that makes useful knowledge most attractive to the young is the king of sages.

Childish laughter is the echo of heavenly music.

The noblest cat is that of making others happy.

Innocent amusements transform tears into rainbows.

Amusement to children is like rain to flowers.

Wholesome receration conquers evil thoughts.

Sleep eight hours out of the twenty-four; eat three meals a day and walk on the sunny side of the way.

A woman's influence is very great for good or evil. A kind word from a wife or a mother may stay a man from untold evil, and one sharp, bitter, thoughtless word may drive him to desperation.

Nothing is truer than those who are passing through the "fires of adversity" need every expression of helpful sympathy from those upon whom such trials have not fallen.

When conversing, choose pleasant and interesting topics. If speaking of your acquaintances to strangers, mention their good qualities, not their faults.

Do not fret. If you want anyone about you to accomplish anything do not enfeeble them by fretting; do not destroy all their desire and crush out life itself by your fret, fret, fretting.

Spare the time young man, to go out with your sister: If she is a good girl she is much more desirable company for you than that other girl who flirts with you so desperately.

Witty sayings are as easily lost as the pearls slipping off a broken string but a word of kindness is seldom spoken in vain. It is a seed which, even when dropped by chance, springs up into a flower.

Life is a failure that looks back from a pleasureless age, and wishes for a return of the years that a different course might be pursued.

To the Voter

¶ It is a Fact that—when a man drinks beer, he drinks and eats at the same time just as when he consumes a bowl of soup—in fact one eminent Ontario Physician declares beer is a liquid beefsteak.

¶ It is a Fact that—beer contains all the elements of a typical diet with the exception of fat—a glass of good beer is approximately as nourishing as a glass of milk—a quart of good beer is equivalent in food value to nearly a quarter of a pound of bread.

¶ It is a Fact that—beer contains such a very small amount of alcohol and such a relatively large amount of food material that it would be difficult indeed to find a meal at once simpler and more nutritive than a glass of beer, a piece of cheese, and a slice of bread.

¶ It is a Fact that—90% of organized labor of Canada demands a beer of 2.51% strength because it is the healthful and refreshing beverage the working man needs—a quart of this beer contains one-sixth of the energy required daily.

¶ It is a Fact that—the beer for which you are asked to vote on October 20th is an absolutely non-intoxicating beverage—has been proven to be non-intoxicating by a board of fourteen experts—and contains the bare minimum of alcohol needed as a preservative to make it digestible and nourishing.

Vote "YES" to all Four Questions

Don't Split Your Vote on October 20th—a solid four Yes's will be your only guarantee that you will get that sane, fair and just compromise that is needed in Ontario—the sale of light, non-intoxicating beer and wine generally, and the sale of pure spirituous liquors through Government agencies only.

Don't Split Your Vote on October 20th—that is your only sure guarantee that you will get careful consideration to your vote on each question.

Don't Split Your Vote on October 20th—support to the limit the broad-minded men and women of the Citizens' Liberty League who conscientiously believe that the unsatisfactory Ontario Temperance Act must be repealed and new legislation enacted more in keeping with the demands of all sections of the people.

Don't Split Your Vote on October 20th—support the labor unions, soldier organizations and thousands of the rank and file of the citizens of this Province who want a more palatable yet absolutely non-intoxicating beer.

Don't Split Your Vote on October 20th—You can be assured that those in favor of the Ontario Temperance Act as it now stands will vote a solid "NO" to all four questions. The citizens of this Province who desire that changes should be made in the Ontario Temperance Act will actually kill one another's vote and so make ineffective their desire for a change, without they vote a solid "YES" on all four questions. If four voters who desire liquor in some form go to the polls and vote "YES" only to the particular question he or she favors, the following table will clearly show how these four voters will really be casting their vote in favor of retaining the Ontario Temperance Act, with a total of four Yes votes and twelve No votes.

Five Minutes To Eleven has not yet come for those who stayed at home

The last lap of the war for those men was indeed a smashing, glorious finish!

While the fighting ended at five minutes to eleven on the morning of the eleventh of November last year, the war has not yet ended for those of us who stayed at home.

Our "Five Minutes to Eleven" has not yet come. There is a great deal more for us to do, before our war job is finished.

There are still heavy demobilization expenses to clean up. In a few short months we have brought home the troops that were transported overseas during four years of war---four years' transportation expenses crowded into a few months.

Many millions are still required to complete payment of demobilization and for other purely military expenditures.

The Victory Loan 1919 which is necessary to meet these war obligations is the great objective in the last lap for those who stayed at home.

The Canadian Corps, during the war, never lost a gun,--never once retreated and never failed to take an objective.

Keeping that glorious record in our minds, and carrying that "no surrender" fighting spirit into the new Victory Loan campaign, there can be only one result:—Success, overwhelming and triumphant.

When the figures for the Victory Loan 1919 are totalled up, the result will show the world that those of us who stayed at home have taken another glorious objective on the road to our "Five Minutes to Eleven."

Victory Loan 1919

Issued by Canada's Victory Loan Committee in co-operation with the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBORO:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Owing to the uncompromising attitude of the Provincial Government in the past towards the claims of the Producers, Agricultural and Industrial Workers alike, it was decided at the above named convention to put up an Independent Candidate for the Provincial House. At that convention I had the honour of being nominated by ballot as candidate. The conditions under which we are living, the exploitation of the Producer and Consumer by the monopolies of industry, into the hands of a ring of Capitalists, who practically control the Government to the detriment of Democracy, should appeal to you that an Independent Candidate, not under any pledge to either of the old parties, is absolutely essential for the transaction of business to the best interests of the people, and clean government. Your candidate is nominated upon the plank of a Referendum and Recall, so that if his conduct when elected is not satisfactory to the Electors, his resignation can be called for, which, it is hoped, will keep your candidate up to the platform on which he is elected. Also at certain periods of each year, your candidate will visit the electors of the constituency to give an account of his stewardship, and from time to time receive the will of the people.

Owing to the short notice of the election date, the candidate will find it difficult to meet all the electors. If you will read the local press account of my nomination you will see that my ability to fill the seat is not questioned by my opponents. That should speak for itself. I therefore ask you to seriously consider, my appeal for your vote. As this is the time of Reconstruction, when initiative and progressive action is needed to carry on the work that was commenced on the Battlefields of Europe, "The War of Democracy," "Shall we break faith?"

Ladies, you have a vote; it is for you to help to decide. So mark your ballot for TOOMS, THE INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE, who stands for the will of the people.

Election Date, October 20th.

I am, Ladies and Gentlemen,
Your Obedient Servant,
THOS. TOOMS.

Secretary, L. L. P., President Building Trades Council, Member Trades and Labor Council, etc., etc.

Today there is no hardship in wearing glasses—either eyeglasses or spectacles—if they are properly selected and adjusted.

Say Chiclets!

—at the drug store or grocer's
—at the cigar store or fruit store, hand back the odd nickel and get a yellow-and-gold packet of ten Chiclets.

Between your teeth break the seal of candy-coating and enjoy the invigorating peppermint flavor. Note how it refreshes you, sweetens your mouth, drives away thirst.

In packets, ten for 5c. Everywhere. And most stores carry the generous size "Week-End" packet, 25c.

A Strange Water Hole.

A curious form of water-hole is found in the deserts of Western Australia, dry by day but yielding an abundant supply of water by night. The flow of water is preceded by weird hissing and sounds of rushing air. On examining one it was found that the water supply occurred in a long, narrow trench, at the bottom of which was a thin plate of gneiss, separated by a cavity from the main rock mass beneath. Apparently the heat of the day causes this plate to expand in the form of a depression, in which the water retreats. When it cools and contracts at night it forces first air and then water back into the trench.—Family Herald.

For Biliousness

Biliousness is a common form of indigestion. It is brought on by food-waste which the stomach, intestines and bowels fail to expel. If you will take a few doses of Beecham's Pills, when bilious, you will soon rid yourself of the impurities, relieve sick headache, stimulate the liver and bile and tone the stomach. Healthy conditions are quickly re-established by using

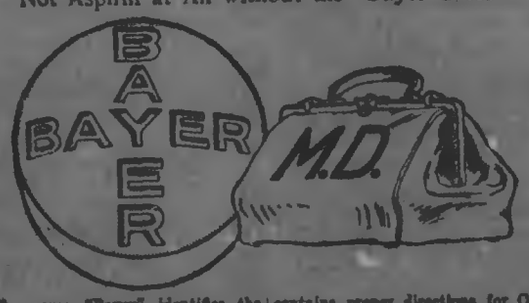
ONLY TABLETS MARKED "BAYER" ARE ASPIRIN

Not Aspirin at All without the "Bayer Cross"



The name "Bayer" identifies the only genuine Aspirin,—the Aspirin prescribed by physicians for over nineteen years and now made in Canada.

Always buy an unbroken package of "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" which contains proper directions for Colds, Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Joint Pains, and Pain generally.

Tin boxes of 12 tablets cost but a few cents. Larger "Bayer" packages.

There is only one Aspirin—"Bayer"—You must say "Bayer"

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of SalicyAcid. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assist the public against imitations, the Tablets of Bayer Company will be stamped with their general trade mark, the "Bayer Cross."

Sure Way To Get Rid Of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

ONLY HEBREW MEMBER OF COMMONS SAYS NO NECESSITY OF SUPPLYING VISHNICK FOR FEAST OF TABERNACLES

ELECTION DODGE

OTTAWA, Oct. 15. —Samuel W. [illegible], K.C., the only Jewish member of the Canadian House of Commons, and one of its most effective speakers, has made arrangements to speak in Toronto next Saturday to address the Jewish electors regarding the disclosures of the supplying of whisky by a vendor appointed by the Ontario License Commission.

No Necessity of It.

After reading the amazing statement of Mr. J. D. Flavelle, Chairman of the Ontario License Board," Mr. Jacobs in an interview last night, "there can be no doubt of the scandalous character of the proposal which he says he is authorized to make. There is no more necessity for supplying vishnick in this way for the Feast of Tabernacles than there is similarly supplying it for any other festival of the Jewish religion. It is deplorably significant," Mr. Jacobs proceeded, "that this festival, which happens to synchronize with a provincial election, should be the occasion upon which Mr. Flavelle and his associates have followed such a procedure. I am anxious that my compatriots and co-religionists should fully realize this, and resent it emphatically.

"When Mr. Flavelle talks about Communion in connection with the Jewish faith the makes himself a fraud. Mr. Flavelle is too good a Jewish scholar not to know this. I have been asked by members of the Jewish religion to come to Toronto to discuss this remarkable happening and its reason with them, and to address a public meeting [illegible] on this matter next Saturday evening."

A PART OF RIGA IS BURNING AS RESULT OF GERMAN BOMBARDMENT

MRS. DAVID LLOYD GEORGE TAKES PROMINENT PART IN THE CAMPAIGN

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, October 15.—Mrs. David Lloyd-George, wife of the British Premier, is taking a prominent part in the Prohibition campaign, addressing a meeting of two thousand women at Glasgow yesterday.

Despatches received here quote Mrs. Lloyd-George as saying that the success of the campaign depended upon women.

"It is the duty of women to help the victims of alcoholism at home as it was to help the victims of Prussianism in Belgium five years ago," Mrs. Lloyd-George is reported to have said.

"Scotland is on the eve of a great campaign, and next year the eyes of temperance reformers throughout the world will be focussed on Scotland. If Scotland is won, the victory will be a greater stimulus to the world to do likewise."

OREL CAPTURED BY ANTI-BOLSHEVIKS

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, Oct. [illegible]—A part of Riga is burning, having been set on fire by the German bombardment, a despatch from Helsingfors reported to-day.

The German attack on Monday is reported to have been less intense than previously, although it included the use of poison gas and trench mortar shells.

The Letts resistance has been accompanied by many [illegible]orous incidents. At one place a Lettish woman, Caroline Hanias, seized a rifle and entered the trenches alongside the men.

Reports from Reval indicate that Gen. Yudenitch, commander of the Russian North-western Army, is meeting with pronounced success in his advances against the Bolsheviki. On Sunday his forces captured Velasaava and Vruda, 25 miles beyond Yamburg. The town is 68 miles south-west of Petrograd, and has become Gen. Yudenitch's base of supply.

The Russians also occupied Pskoff, and advanced within three miles of Luga. In 24 hours they gained fifteen miles, according to despatches.

In the past two days a British destroyer has brought to Reval six German ships which were trying to run the blockade.

General Von der Goltz, according to the Berlin Tageszeitung, has resigned from the army as a result of the Entente's latest note.

FACING CRISIS.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—With General Denikine's Cossack army advancing from the south, and North-western Russian forces almost within striking distance of Petrograd, the Soviet Government of Russia appears to be facing a crisis.

The Bolsheviki headquarters were closed last Thursday, according to a despatch to the Daily Mail from Reval.

AN OFFENSIVE.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 15. — The Poles have begun an offensive against the German-Russian forces in the Baltic region, according to a message received here from Riga.

They are reported to have captured Kovno, sixty miles north-west of Vilna, near Courland border.

LIBERAL MEMBERS OF COMMONS DISCUSS PROPOSED G.T.R. LEGISLATION.

A SUIFF FIGHT

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—Liberal members of the Commons met in caucus here to-day and decided to strongly oppose the Grand Trunk legislation on the ground that it was unfair to the country to propose such legislation at the present time. The caucus was presided over by J. C. Ethier, M.P. for Two Mountains. Leader Mackenzie King attended. Statements of Sir Thos. White regarding the financial condition of Canada were freely quoted and opinion expressed that such legislation as the Grand Trunk purchase should not be put through at the present time. Liberal members declared that the debate on the question in Commons would last all week and well into next unless the closure is applied by the government. Liberal Senators present also promised a stiff fight in the Upper Chamber.

HEARST GOVERNMENT NOT PLEDGED TO PROHIBITION

SOLDIERS RAIDED CHICAGO I.W.W.

(United Press.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 15. — Headquarters of the I.W.W. in South Chicago was closed to-day. Two hundred former soldiers "raided" the place, mixed gasoline with the literature piled in the street and touched a match to it.

They warned Leo Muxen, the secretary, to leave the city. A warning sign "stay away from South Chicago," hung in the doorway to-day. Among the soldiers were many South Chicago business men and also striking steel workers.

MR. F. D. KERR SAYS PREMIER COULD HAVE REMOVED ALL DOUBTS BY CALLING A CONVENTION AND ENDORSING ADVANCE TEMPERANCE LEGISLATION AS LIBERALS DID.

AN IDEAL REPRESENTATIVE

"If the Hearst Government wished to show conclusively that they were a prohibition Government, Sir William Hearst could easily have called a convention of the party and could have obtained thereby the party's pledge to give this province the most advanced temperance legislation."

This was F. D. Kerr's statement at the meeting at Selwyn in the interests of Mr. G. A. Gillespie.

"Leaders come and leaders go, but parties go on forever", said Mr. Kerr. "Premier Hearst may be gone to-morrow. He may be elevated to the bench, and in that event who will take his place. Could the temperance people depend on J. Howard Ferguson, or Lucas with his ear to the ground or Megarry.

"I defy Premier Hearst or Mr. Soden to show where the Conservative Government has ever gone on record for prohibition", said Mr. Kerr.

"On the other hand, the Liberals of Ontario at their convention in Toronto had pledged themselves on the temperance question. To a man they stood by that platform, and the leader Mr. Hartley Dewart has repeatedly declared himself as entirely in accord with the party's decision.

"This is the choice for the temperance people of this country as between the two parties. In the one case Premier Hearst says he is going to vote four no's on the referendum, on the other you have the Liberal party from its leader down all endorsing the platform plank approved by the party."

Mr. Kerr said it was unnecessary to recommend Mr. Gillespie to the electors in Smith township. They all knew him for an honest, industrious, unassuming citizen who had been brought up in the country and who developed in the city. He held the confidence of the people. There was no doubt about that, and Mr. Kerr asserted that West Peterboro would never have cause to be ashamed of itself if it sent Mr. Gillespie back to Toronto.

If the Liberals secured a majority Mr. Kerr said he felt sure that Mr. Gillespie would stand an excellent chance for the ministry of agriculture.

Mr. J. F. Thornton.

Mr. John F. Thornton spoke briefly amplifying the point that Mr. Gillespie was an ideal representative of a riding that was about equally urban and rural. His experience had equipped him to speak with authority on agricultural questions. He was not a theorist but a practical farmer, and had worked on farms and in all the branches of the dairy industry. Mr. Thornton added that as an advocate of temperance he had the fullest confidence in Mr. Gillespie, in Mr. Dewart and in the Liberal party.

LAST WEEK OF THE CAMPAIGN

BOWMAN WILL BE OPPOSED IN MANITOULIN.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—With additional news to-day that the new man from Manitoulin, Beniah Bowman, leader of the United Farmers' Party, would have to fight for his seat, yesterday, the Ontario Provincial Election and Referendum campaign entered its last week, which promised to be a lively one in all corners of the Province. Mr. Bowman of Manitoulin sat in the last Legislature and it was thought in some quarters that he would get an acclamation from the rugged island in northern Lake Huron. There was no news from that isolated constituency when the morning newspapers closed their lists of nominations, but the Canadian Press despatches this morning indicated that another farmer, John W. Kinney, of Georgian Bay, had been nominated to run as a Conservative, despite Mr. Bowman's protests that Mr. Kinney, having acted as chief enumerator was not eligible to sit in the Legislature. Sir William Hearst, Premier, Hartley Dewart, Leader of the Liberals, and various Labor, soldiers and many other organizations who have nominated men for the Legislature, have arranged scores of meetings this week. In addition, leaders of opposing sides on the referendum question have prepared for a tremendous campaign this week.

LINDSAY MAN WAS KILLED BY HORSE

LINDSAY, Oct. 15.—A distressing fatality occurred on Monday afternoon on the ranch owned by Mr. Horatio Moore, north of Lindsay, when Mr. Albert Wilson, a well-known citizen and business man of Lindsay, was instantly killed.

It appears that Mr. Wilson, who conducted a barber shop in the store of Mr. Louis McGregor, and who lived on Bond street, went to the ranch on Thanksgiving day, accompanied by his wife. He intended to bring back his driving horse, which had been on the ranch. Being a lover of horses he generally kept a driving horse during the winter months and used his car during the summer.

He succeeded in getting the horse to the barn and was placing it in an enclosure in the stable. He had placed one end of a rail as a barrier and was holding the other up preparatory to placing it in place, when the horse suddenly kicked the rail, smashing it with terrific force against Mr. Wilson's neck and head. The unfortunate man was laid out cold and never regained consciousness.

Dr. Rich was sent for and was on the farm a few minutes later, but was unable to do anything for the unfortunate man, death having been instantaneous.

News of the accident soon reached town and cast a gloom over the entire community. Mr. Wilson was a popular young man and his untimely death is deeply regretted. He is survived by his beloved wife and two children.

SIR HENRY DRAYTON VISITS KINGSTON

(Special to The Examiner.)

KINGSTON, Oct. 15.— Sir Henry Drayton, Unionist candidate for Kingston in the coming by-election, has captivated the citizens during his short visit here. Sir Henry yesterday afternoon addressed the employees in several of the city's large industries about the Victory Loan. Kingston is interested in the fact that the Finance Minister was born in Tete Du Pont Barracks here in 1869, the son of an army officer. Sir Henry, after a trip over Kingston harbor this morning, is now in a position to advance this city's advantages to being created the eastern terminal for the grain transportation trade.

BEGIN CONSTRUCTION OF BETHUNE ST. BRIDGE

Bethune street, between Brock and Murray streets, will be closed for a week while the new railway bridge over the creek on the Lakefield line is being built. The company have asked the city to close Bethune street in that block while the construction is in progress, but the Committee of the Whole Council last night desired to keep the south end open to provide an approach to the Fitzgerald coal sheds.

MR. HUYCKE RETURNS TO MURRAY ST. CHOIR

Mr. Asa Huycke, who recently resigned from the leadership of Murray street Baptist Church choir for business reasons, has reconsidered his decision and will again resume the leadership beginning with the choir practice tomorrow night. Mr. Huycke is recognized as one of the most talented conductors in the city.

TWO MEETINGS FOR LABOUR CANDIDATE

Mr. Thomas Tooms, the Independent Labour Party candidate in West Peterboro, reports two successful and largely attended meetings in his interest at Selwyn and Young's Point last night. At the Selwyn meeting Mr. Peter McArthur presided, and the speakers were Mr. Asta and the candidate.

At Young's Point, Messrs. Tom Lane, Tom McMurray and the candidate addressed the meeting. There were cheers for the king and the candidate at the conclusion of the meeting.

Mr. Tooms is holding a meeting at Buckhorn to-night and at Middleton's school house to-morrow night.

FINDING THE BRIDE-LOCK

"The Mantle of Charity," in which the American Film Company presents sparkling Margarita Fisher, is also a mantle of mirth; for the popular star does some of the most effective work of her career as a comedienne. The story carries with it a delightful satire on ill-advised philanthropy. It shows, also, how the breadline may eventually lead by devious turnings, right up to the altar, with the flowers, lighted candles and bride-lock.

The comedy, which will be shown at the Empire Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday has an unusually interesting setting. It is also unique because two principal characters have the screen entirely to themselves for about fifty of the first scenes, without the entry of any other principal character, and without being tiresome.

In fact, they are holding the attention and it grows until the story suddenly changes to drama that deals with the pathetic side of life.

ALL SAINTS CHOIR

The choir of All Saints church will rehearse to-night instead of to-morrow night.

THE CAMPAIGN IN FRONTENAC

KINGSTON, Oct. 15.—Hon. Dr. A. E. Ross is devoting the remainder of the week in addressing meetings in Frontenac county in behalf of Anthony M. Rankin, Conservative candidate, who is having a hard fight. Mr. Rankin has been an energetic member of the Ontario Highways Commission and if the Hearst government is returned, as Liberals here think it will be, it is desirable that Mr. Rankin should be at the disposal of the government to continue the Provincial Highway work. The three men in the field in Frontenac are all Conservative in politics, although Dr. Spankie is running as an Independent and Mr. Fawcett for the United Farmers.

KNOCKED DOWN BY AUTOMOBILE

Miss Loretta L. Booth, 631 Water street, stenographer in the office of the Canadian Packing Company was run down by a motor car to-day at noon as she was alighting from a north bound street car at the corner of George and Edinburgh streets. The motor car was also travelling north bound street car at the corner she was taken into Mrs. S. Boyd's grocery store, Edinburgh and George streets, where it was ascertained that her injuries were only of a minor character and principally about the head. Dr. Edward Wood who was passing at the time gave medical attention and escorted her to her home.

The driver of the motor car stopped immediately after the accident occurred but as no constable was present to whom he could give his name and address he drove on and made no attempt to hide his identity.

MR. G. A. GILLESPIE AT MIDDLETON'S LAST EVENING

CANDIDATE REVIEWED HIS WORK FOR THE PAST FIVE YEARS.

Middleton's Schoolhouse on the 4th Line of Smith was packed last night with apparently enthusiastic supporters of Mr. G. A. Gillespie. There was a large representation of ladies present, and they took a keen interest in all that was said.

The chair was taken by Mr. T. A. Young, who stated that Mr. Gillespie was a farmer's man and a business man of the city also. He referred to the many years of dealing he had had with Mr. Gillespie, and stated that he had always got a square deal.

The first speaker was the Liberal candidate himself, who reviewed his work during the last five years, showing that he had been responsible for a good deal of the renewed activity in the Department of Agriculture. Mr. Gillespie also referred to a statement made by Mr. Soden that he had gone to Toronto on behalf of the Colonization of Roads grant for the county, and he pointed out that Mr. Soden might have saved himself the trouble because he had attended to the matter before Mr. Soden arrived on the scene. He also referred to the unfair and malfeious tactics adopted by the other side, and declared that he was prepared to stand or fall upon his public and private record as known to the public. Mr. Gillespie closed his speech by affirming his unalterable support to all temperance legislation.

Mr. J. F. Thornton followed with a rousing speech in favour of the Liberal candidate. He pointed out the need of public men of high moral character and integrity, and declared that in Mr. Gillespie we had a man who was sound and intelligent on all public questions, and a man who could be trusted to do the right thing on every occasion.

The last speaker was Mr. Joseph Wearing, who made a slashing attack upon the Government, showing that it had proved itself utterly incompetent to manage the affairs of the Province. Mr. Wearing dealt at length with the problems which the new Government will have to solve, and showed that the platform adopted by the Liberal party was fitted to meet the needs of every class. The speaker also pointed out that the Conservative party was at loggerheads on the temperance question, whereas the Liberal party was united in favour of progressive temperance legislation to the fullest extent of the Provincial jurisdiction.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem, and three cheers for Mr. Gillespie.

Eliminating Unnecessary Waste in Manufacturing

In most every manufacturing plant, there are a thousand little holes that soon become expensive leaks in the efficiency of manufacturing equipment, time, labor and materials.

The average manufacturer does not realize that these leaks exist, or that a part of his profits is running away and forming a stream of lost dollars.

Dominion Friction Surface Belting

for many years has helped manufacturers to eliminate a large part of the unnecessary waste in manufacturing by plugging the leaks.

For fifty years we have manufactured belting and our experts are conversant with every phase of transmission. Many of Canada's largest manufacturers find this service so profitable that they have made our engineers responsible for the efficiency of all their belting equipment.

We are ready to show you, without charge, how unnecessary waste in your factory may be eliminated.

VICTORIA COUNTY U.F.O. MAN ADDRESSED A LARGE MEETING

WOMEN WERE WELL REPRESENTED AT THE MEETING—WHAT THE FARMERS' CLUBS HAVE ACCOMPLISHED.

Dr. F. J. Sandy, the U.F.O. candidate for North Victoria, held a meeting in the school house at Orrs Corners, Emily, on Thursday evening last. The fifty seats each containing two persons, barely seated two-thirds of those present. About one-third of the enthusiastic supporters of Mr. Sandy were women. Mr. McFee occupied the chair. Mr. Smith, a farmer, was the first speaker. He touched on the tariff question and pointed out how the Canadian manufacturer was protected and asked the farmer how much more the farmer had to pay for his implements and clothing. Referring to Great Britain as an example of free trade, he showed how Canada could not compete with the world markets like Britain if she only could learn the lesson from the Old Land. Britain had free trade for five years.

He stated that the farmer would be more successful and the farm more attractive. He stated that the present Government does not approve of this policy. He then referred to an utterance made by Dr. Wood, Mr. Sandy's opponent who said that the farmers had no right to co-operative buying. Mr. Smith has known Mr. Sandy since he was a boy and stated that he always was honest and straight-forward.

The Woman's Vote.

The second speaker was Mrs. Thurston, a farmer's wife from near Bobcaygeon. She was there she said to urge the women to come out and vote. She looked upon the women as saviours of the political world, and stated that she wished to rouse them to a sense of appreciation of their duty. She stated that women had been classed with idiots for the law had been that no idiots or women should be allowed to vote. She thinks that the place of the woman is still in the home and likewise that the place of most men is still in the home, for most women and men are not capable of public life. She appealed to parents to educate their children and instill into their minds the value of it. She stated that women should not be quite so particular about their house work, for who will know twenty years from now just how and when they did their work. Have more cobwebs in their houses and less in their minds, was her motto. Mrs. Thurston stated that there was absolutely no reason for the women not coming out to vote, Put off baking bread and buy it or bring the baby along and some one at the poll will take care of it while she voted. Thus by bringing the baby along to the poll from year to year, it would become used to it and have overcome the timidness of voting when the time came for it to vote. She spoke of Mr. Sandy as a man among men who had come out of politics to lead the farmers, and whose word was as good as his bond. She made a strong appeal to all party men present to drop politics and vote for Mr. Gandy and quoted the following sentence from the Bible:

"Come out from among them and be ye separate."

Mrs. Thurston denounced the wholesalers and showed how they kept the high cost of living up. Before closing she also spoke on the referendum.

Mr. McNevean, from Peterboro, the third speaker, a farmer, and secretary of a large farmers' club in Victoria, told of the organization of this club and the work it had done. He pointed out that this particular club had shipped $200,000 of live stock from Omemee. It has been doing business for only six months but has $10,000 in the bank now. He pointed out that the U. S. pay 65c per bushel more for wheat than the Canadian Government, yet the price of bread in the U. S. is the same as that in Canada. The farmers want a square deal, he said, and proper representatives. He referred to the price of cheese, the milk in Toronto, the price of wheat as examples where the farmer is being exploited. He stated that he was glad to speak for Mr. Sandy and counted it a privilege to be able to stand before such a gathering of farmers.

Mr. Thurston, whose wife had spoken previously, was called upon and in a short talk told how the farmers were appealed to in the war time to produce and save the Allies. Mr. Thurston thinks they are still as important as during the war and should therefore be supported as such. The large debt of Canada, he said, will have to be paid by the top six inches of Canadian soil.

Mr. Sandy then came to the candidate platform, and was given an enthusiastic ovation. He thought he was honored by the presence of so many, and especially the presence of the women. He stated likewise that many times he had felt embarassed with the kindness shown him when canvassing in that part of Emily. In his speech he showed how agricultural facilities need to be improved. He stated that there were 30,000 less on the farms now than in 1914. He approved of the Government's idea of advocating people to go on farms. But he said they should be attractive enough for them to stay there. He thought it a calamity that so many young men should be leaving the farms. He stated that the average labor man in the city could just manage to make both ends meet. All at the meeting agreed with him that the average laboring man earns 50c an hour at an 8 hour day.

A farmer should, he said, be able to earn as much on his farm when working the same amount of time. But farmer's work on the farm average 12 hours per day. Therefore they should save the extra 4 hours' work of $2.00, that is $12.00 a week saved or $634 a year. Taking that the interest on the average farmer's investment in his stock, etc., should be $400 a year, his savings should amount to $1,024 a year. In twenty years he should save $20,480. But how many farmers saw $20,000 in twenty years? Mr Sandy showed how the British Government helped the farmer. The farmer gets $2.40 per bushel for his wheat, while the miller has to pay only $1.18 per bushel; the Government pays the difference. The candidate proved that the present Minister of Agriculture is not and was not with the farmers, for Mr. Henry, even though, an educated farmer, had opposed two farmer candidates in the bye-elections. Mr. Sandy thought that the colleges of agriculture were not going far enough into their work. The Government, he said should appoint men who were able to figure out to a cent what it costs the farmer to make a pound of butter, a pound of cheese, to grow a bushel of wheat, etc. Then the Government would have some facts on which to set the price of articles. Also the Government would be able to better set the minimum wage of the labor man. He urged the farmers to unite, for it was only by union that they could get what they needed. He asked for their support this time and if the U. F. O. does not prove successful, why the old parties will be there to go back to.

Mr. Lee, ex-Reeve of Fenlon, was the last speaker. He stated that he had confidence in Mr. Sandy's integrity and was pleased to speak for him. He also was pleased to see so many women present. He thought that politics would be purified and elevated by their entrance. He spoke of the strength of organization, pointing out that their club was able to buy chop at $61.00 a ton in large quantities, where it would cost $69.00 a ton in small quantities. He pointed out that 19 per cent of the taxes of Great Britain were obtained from duties etc., on articles of consumption, while in Canada no less than 75 per cent. of the taxes are obtained by duties, tariff, taxes, etc., on articles of cunsumption. He showed how the Harris Abbatoir Co. was able to build up watered stock, but alas, there was no opportunity of the farmer to increase the value of his farm in such a manner. It was his firm belief that anything that builds up agriculture builds up the country.

The formal part of the meeting closed with the National Anthem and three cheers for Mr. Sandy, but many debates were stayed afterwards by both men and women.

PRESENTATION TO LILY LAKE FAMILY

MR. AND MRS. OLVER REMOVE TO SELWYN.

A large number of friends and neighbours of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Olver met at their home on Thursday evening, the occasion being the eve of their departure from our midst, Mr. Olver having disposed of his farm and purchased Mr. A. McIlmoyle's farm at Selwyn.

The following address was read by Mrs. Harry Fowler and the presentation of a cabinet of silverware and a silver-plated round casserole was made by Mrs. F. Cann and Mrs. J. A. Middleton:

Mr. and Mrs. Olver and Family:

Dear Friends:

The time has come when we must bid you farewell. Your stay among us has not been long, but we have learned to admire your sterling qualities and your neighbourly spirit.

We will be ever mindful of the efficient help you have rendered in every branch of our community life. We remember too, how one of your family courageously went to fight our country's battles and we rejoice that he has been spared to return to you. May his splendid record in some measure atone for those long, anxious years when he was absent.

We sincerely hope that health and prosperity may accompany you to your new home and that the future holds things very bright for you.

Please accept the accompanying gift as a remembrance of Lily Lake.

SIGNED Mr. and Mrs. Cann.
Mr. and Mrs. Middleton.

Although taken wholly by surprise, the recipients made brief replies, after which everyone joined heartily in an effort to make the evening one of thorough enjoyment, after the true Lily Lake style. About 12 o'clock a sumptuous repast was served and with the singing of "God be With You Till We Meet Again," the guests bid farewell to the family.

WAR MEASURES COME TO END WHEN PEACE SIGNED

Some of the Restrictions Are Still In Force.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Decrees similar to those which have just been issued in France, officially ending the war, are not necessary in Great Britain it was stated to-day, as most of the war-time prohibitions and restrictions have already been removed. These include censorship, communication and trading with enemy countries, early closing of restaurants and other war measures. Among minor measures which remain are restriction of hours when liquor may be sold, a limited degree of rationing and regulation of aliens, all of which are likely to continue, regardless of peace.

To the Voter

¶ It is a Fact that—when a man drinks beer, he drinks and eats at the same time just as when he consumes a bowl of soup—in fact one eminent Ontario Physician declares beer is a liquid beefsteak.

¶ It is a Fact that—beer contains all the elements of a typical diet with the exception of fat—a glass of good beer is approximately as nourishing as a glass of milk—a quart of good beer is equivalent in food value to nearly a quarter of a pound of bread.

¶ It is a Fact that—beer contains such a very small amount of alcohol and such a relatively large amount of food material that it would be difficult indeed to find a meal at once simpler and more nutritive than a glass of beer, a piece of cheese, and a slice of bread.

¶ It is a Fact that—90% of organized labor of Canada demands a beer of 2.51% strength because it is the healthful and refreshing beverage the working man needs—a quart of this beer contains one-sixth of the energy required daily.

¶ It is a Fact that—the beer for which you are asked to vote on October 20th is an absolutely non-intoxicating beverage—has been proven to be non-intoxicating by a board of fourteen experts—and contains the bare minimum of alcohol needed as a preservative to make it digestible and nourishing.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBORO:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Owing to the uncompromising attitude of the Provincial Government in the past towards the claims of the Producers, Agricultural and Industrial Workers alike, it was decided at the above named convention to put up an Independent Candidate for the Provincial House. At that convention I had the honour of being nominated by ballot as candidate. The conditions under which we are living, the exploitation of the Producer and Consumer by the monopolies of industry, into the hands of a ring of Capitalists, who practically control the Government to the detriment of Democracy, should appeal to you that an Independent Candidate, not under any pledge to either of the old parties, is absolutely essential for the transaction of business to the best interests of the people, and clean government. Your candidate is nominated upon the plank of a Referendum and Recall, so that if his conduct when elected is not satisfactory to the Electors, his resignation can be called for, which, it is hoped, will keep your candidate up to the platform on which he is elected. Also at certain periods of each year, your candidate will visit the electors of the constituency to give an account of his stewardship, and from time to time receive the will of the people.

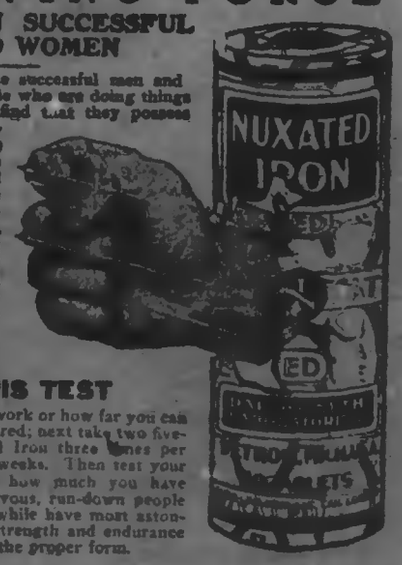
Owing to the short notice of the election date, the candidate will find it difficult to meet all the electors. If you will read the local press account of my nomination you will see that my ability to fill the seat is not questioned by my opponents. That should speak for itself. I therefore ask you to seriously consider my appeal for your vote. As this is the time of Reconstruction, when initiative and progressive action is needed to carry on the work that was commenced on the Battlefields of Europe, "The War of Democracy," "Shall we break faith?"

Ladies, you have a vote; it is for you to help to decide. So mark your ballot for TOOMS, THE INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE, who stands for the will of the people.

Election Date, October 20th.

I am, Ladies and Gentlemen,
Your Obedient Servant,
THOS. TOOMS,
Secretary I. L. P.; President Building Trades Council, Member Trades and Labor Council, etc. etc.
Peterboro.

NUXATED IRON A DRIVING FORCE BEHIND KEEN SUCCESSFUL MEN AND WOMEN



When you think of the successful men and women you know—people who are doing things worth while—you will find that they possess force, vim and energy—the kind that simply bring over when the blood is filled with iron. Nuxated Iron by enriching the blood and creating new red blood cells, strengthens the nerves, rebuilds the weakened tissues and helps to instill renewed force and energy into the whole system. Three million people use it annually as a tonic, strength and blood-builder.

MAKE THIS TEST

See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired; next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Numbers of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while have most astonishingly increased their strength and endurance simply by taking iron in the proper form.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 15TH, 1919.

THE MAIN POINT.

No voter should lose sight of the all-important fact that a "Yes" vote on the first question of the Referendum means a vote for the wide-open bar and shop just as they were prior to 1916 and that if the majority of the voters answer "Yes" to the first question, the other three questions on the Referendum ballot will not be considered at all.

AND ECHO ANSWERS, WHY?

"Why should any Liberal Prohibitionist go back on a Liberal candidate, who has fought for temperance for years?" pertinently asks the Toronto Globe.

NOT CONVINCING PROOF.

The Government press claims that the people are satisfied with the record of the Hearst administration. The fact that there are 300 candidates in the field, two-thirds of them in opposition to the government, is hardly a convincing proof of that satisfaction, however.

MR. DEWART'S PROMISE

"If the Liberal party is returned to power the open bar will never come back."—Mr. Hartley Dewart, Liberal Leader.

Doesn't sound very much like the promise of a friend of the liquor traffic, does it?

THE GOLDEN ERA.

"Let Ontario's golden era continue," reads a Hearst display advertisement in newspapers. "Golden era" is a phrase that will catch the eye of the reader and that will also certainly prompt the querry "Who got the gold?" Not the common people, the victims of high prices and profiteering, unchecked by the somnolent Attorney General's Department.

WHY WRITE ABOUT IT THEN?

"No one believes that the liquor interests would spend one dollar in West Peterboro, the rural section of which has been under local option for years, and where the city has twice recorded a majority for temperance," declares the newspaper mouthpiece of R. J. Soden. Quite so. But then why did Mr. Soden write to the temperance workers of the riding to tell them that the liquor interests were backing the Dewart candidates, and that "money was being poured out like water"?

THE "VISHNICK" INCIDENT.

The Review claims that The Examiner is insulting the Jewish race in commenting upon the "vishnick" incident in Toronto. Nothing of the kind. There have been no charges made against the Jews; the indictment is against the License Commissioners and against those who were foolish enough to think that there might be some political capital gained by a relaxation of the Ontario Temperance Act on this occasion. The insult to the Jews was caused by the Government supporters, who imagined the Hebrews of South West Toronto could be corrupted by bottles of cherry brandy.

MR. POTTS OUTDONE.

"Fighting like a cornered rat," "crepuscan editorial gush," "gruesome produces of unsophisticated adolescence," these are some of the tributes paid to The Examiner by the local Hearst organ in replying to the references made by The Examiner to Mr. Soden's circular letter to the temperance workers. Lovers of Dickens, reading these gems of editorial abuse, will not fail to remember of the Eatonsville Gazette, whose recall the famous Mr. Potts, editor of the Eatonsville Gazzette whose ability to heap vituperation upon the heads of his professional opponents, seems to have been inherited by the Review.

THE ONLY EVIDENCE.

The local Government organ has finally admitted that the Hearst party is not unanimous on the temperance issue. "The main part," says the Review "is that Premier Hearst is in favor of prohibition," which confirms Mr. Roebuck's statement that the only evidence adduced that the Government is a temperance Government is that the Prime Minister intends to vote "No" four times on the referendum ballot.

A DIFFERENT MATTER

"The Examiner has never lost an opportunity to discredit the Ontario Temperance Act," declares the Review. Our neighbor is wrong as usual. The Examiner has not found fault on any occasion with the Act itself, but with the manner in which it has been administered by the Hearst Government—which, as Kipling says, "is another story." The recent incident in South West Toronto does not reflect upon the Ontario Temperance Act, but it is a serious indictment against the License Commission, who permitted, what on the face of it, appears to have been a flagrant breach of one section of the Act.

NOT THE MAN FOR PETERBORO.

Mr. R. J. Soden, the Hearst candidate in West Peterboro, is revealing characteristics in the present campaign that are convincing the voters that he is not the man to represent this riding in the Legislature. His attempt to delude the temperance workers by sending them a circular letter, full of unfair and illogical statements, has cost him many votes among the prohibitionists of the riding who resent his tactics as insulting to their intelligence and as an unscrupulous attempt to gain political approval by giving an unwarranted twist to the temperance issue. On top of this blunder Mr. Soden made another grievous mistake in trying to make an issue out of Mr. Gillespie's private business. The spirit of fair-play, that is inherent in Britishers, resents the use of such tactics in a political campaign and if Mr. Soden has not realized that he made a mistake in his Bridgenorth address he will be convinced on Monday next by the verdict of West Peterboro. Mr. Gillespie is conducting his campaign along the line that might be expected of him. He is confining himself to the issues of the day, and has no abuse for his opponents and his gentlemanly, moderate fight is winning new friends for him as polling day draws near.

THE TEMPERANCE ISSUE.

Mr. Sam Clarke, the Liberal Candidate in East Northumberland, who has the faculty of talking in language that the man on the street cannot fail to understand, has summarized the temperance issue about as effectually as any speaker who has referred to it in the present campaign. In a speech to the electors of his riding the other day, he exposed the fallacy of the the Government claim to be the only bona-fide temperance party by showing that only five years ago the Government went to the country on the platform of retaining the bar.

"Every distiller, brewer, hotelman, and the man in the street who wanted his liquor, voted Tory and of course there must have been a big bunch of temperance Tories who voted for the bar. I even think the present Tory candidate, with his principal temperance voters did not vote for Sam Clarke," declared the Liberal candidate and no one can deny that the conditions he described were existant all over the province in the election of 1914. The Liberal party stood solidly for prohibition, for the abolishing of the bar, while the Government, many of whose present nominees were candidates on that occasion, fought the battle for the liquor interests, co-partners with the latter in a campaign from which the traffic emerged a temporary winner. And now this same Government, with many of the same standard-bearers in line, has the supremee audacity to claim to be the only real temperance party, and to appeal to Liberal temperance workers to desert the men who fought for the abolishment of the bar in 1914, and to support candidates who were at the last election as the Globe well puts it, "the political bed-fellows of the distillers, brewers and hotelmen." The Government will find that the people of the province are not so easily gulled and that the prohibitionists know that it was the Liberal party which consistently fought for temperance. West Peterboro's appreciation of this fact will be unmistakably shewn by the support that will be given Mr. Gillespie on Monday.

THE WOMEN VOTERS.

"Vote for Hearst, he gave you the franchise!" the Government press and Government speakers are telling the women voters. But the women know the history of the agitation for the suffrage and they know they have had little occasion to thank the Government for having at last reluctantly consented to the extending of the franchise to women.

"The claims of the Conservative party concerning women suffrage are trumpeted abroad with even less justification than that regarding prohibition," say the Toronto Globe. "It is true the the Legislature adopted a woman's suffrage bill introduced by the Hearst Government. But back of that measure are years of agitation by the women of Ontario and years of most cavalier treatment of the women's representatives by the Government. The Liberals were sympathetic, and on every occasion when the matter came up urged the claims of the women to equal suffrage. Before the election of 1914 the Conservative majority in the Legislature rejected proposals made by the Liberals to grant the municipal franchise to married women otherwise qualified, to extend the legislative franchise to those to those women qualified to vote in municipal elections, and to appoint a select committee to consider the entire question of woman's suffrage. Sir James Whitney would have none of it, and after his death a like attitude was persisted in until the sweep of the woman's suffrage movement became too strong longer to be resisted. Despite this tardy and grudging acquiescence in a measure of reform it seemed dangerous to deny, the women of Ontario are now told by the mouth piece of the Ontario Government that they 'will surely take this first opportunity to show their appreciation of the Government's confidence in them and justice to them by giving it their grateful support. In this case the promptings of wratitude and the dictates of civic spirit coincide. Even if the women had obtained the suffrage through some other medium than the present Government, they would still, as good citizens, be under a moral obligation to support the Government. We all believe that the giving of the vote to the woman was not only a kindness to them, but also a good thing for the province. It is for the women to bear out that view.'

"If the women refuse to support the Hearst Government the Mail and Empire may be shaken in its belief that the giving of the vote to women was a good thing for the Province. How characteristically Tory!"

GANDER SONG OF LIBERTY LEAGUERS.

"The electors of Ontario are going to bury the liquor faction out of sight, let us hope for good on October 20. It may be a pity perhaps, in a way, that some of the spice and humor of life may go out with the booze, and some of the art of life with rare old wines and their bouquet. But moral advance and the economic needs of the whole world are ringing the knell of alcoholic drink; you can hear the death-knells tolling everywhere, except where they have done tolling and the corpse is already laid away.

"It will not be a lugubrious funeral on the whole. There will be a distracted minority, wailing Ichabod for their liberty lost— liberty encased in a quart bottle. The great majority will rather make merry over the remains and the mourners. It will be quite a jolly wake, in which the victor participants will have brains enough to see the fun of the situation without the stimulant craved by Liberty leaguers.

The slogan of "personal liberty" is not an argument, but the death song of a gander. It can hardly be that this cry was intended to convince or persuade any one but a few engulfed in the hopeless thrall of alcohol; it simply is to rally in a beautiful last chorus all the faithful on the old sinking ship. Is it not a comic irony that the thralls go down singing so gamely a song of liberty? And yet their occasional "reasonings" are not consistent with this song. They object sometimes to the O.T.A. that it raises up illicit stills and all sorts of unauthorized traffic. So they draw back in a moral flurry from the shocking presence or possibility of unlicensed freedom. "Me this unchartered freedom tires, or frightens, they would say with the poet; they want to be curbed by a state regulation after all. What they want is not liberty, but a permit! They repudiate, puritanically, the sin of uncontrolled rum and its wild liberty. Some sort of tame liberty, shut up in a cage, is all they ask. What could be more modest and yet more inconsistent with the gander's death-song of "personal liberty."

And again, they are apprehensive of a general resort to drugs and dopes, when liquor is withheld. Robbed of their drink they won't be able to restrain themselves from other vices, these freemen. But why don't they protest against restriction on opium and cocaine? Perhaps their crowning inconsistency is the whimpering appeal made by a large number of them for just beer and wine. "We won't ask for whiskey, but for old sakes' sake let us have our beer and wine. Have a heart," they wheedle. "Whiskey is all wrong and must be suppressed, but we must have our liberty for beer and wine at least." The concession respecting whiskey wrecks their whole plea for "personal liberty" at all in the matter of intoxicating drink. Many of the personal liberty clan would themselves prohibit whiskey, brandy, vermouth, saki, rum, etc., and then haggle over beer and wine!

"The grand outstanding fact in this controversy is that the world has enough to do at present to feed and clothe everybody, without besotting itself with foolish drink, wasting substance, money, time, happiness and everything on drink. There is no question of "holy willies," as some impertinent person called the prohibitionists. The liberty-whiners are a laughing stock and an anacronism. Canada cannot afford to be foolridden.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Make sure of Gillespie's election.

The Liberal candidate's position on the temperance issue not only to-day but throughout his career entitles him to the temperance vote—and he's going to get it.

At what convention did the Hearst party adopt a temperance policy?

If Hon. Mr. Lucas still "has his ear on the ground", he must be hearing some lively rumblings of discontent at the inactivity of his department and he'll hear something else next Monday.

BUTCHERS' WAR ON IN SARNIA

SARNIA, Oct. 14.— Due to a butcher's war that opened yesterday, Sarnia housewives will cut down the high cost of living. In the case of rib roasts the decline is probably more marked than any other case. Last week they were selling for 38 cents a pound. To-day they are advertised for 18 cents. Pot roasts have dropped from 28 cents to 18 cents a pound, while picnic bacon has dropped from 28 to 23 cents.

After-war conditions, and the telephone. No. 7

Progress in the Telephone Art

TELEPHONE apparatus, intricate and delicate as it is, requires continuous supervision and frequent replacement. It is constantly wearing out, becoming inadequate or obsolete.

Telephone switchboards, in particular, wear out in a comparatively short time and must be replaced. Research and inventions by telephone engineers are constantly producing improved apparatus. Much of the material taken out of service is mere junk.

Present-day development in telephone apparatus for the larger centres is along the line of mechanical, as opposed to manual, operation. Mechanically-operated central office equipment, under certain conditions, has proven its efficiency, and as soon as it is available, we must include it in our plans of replacement and extension. The immense changes that such development will necessitate must be faced and provided for.

Meanwhile, our aim is to keep service at the highest pre-war standard and thus to do our full part in the work of reconstruction.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE WEST RIDING OF PETERBOROUGH

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN.—

Having again received the unanimous nomination of the Liberal Convention of West Peterborough, as a candidate for Parliamentary honours at the ensuing Provincial Election, to be held on October 20th, I desire to solicit your hearty support in favour of my election.

WAR WORK

Having represented you for the past five years (war years), I can safely say that during that period, while every effort was being made to win the war—my record is known to you all; and on that record I ask you to judge me on the position I have taken on all measures affecting the war work

TEMPERANCE QUESTION

When I was elected in 1914, I stated my views on the Temperance question during that campaign; I pledged myself to vote for Temperance legislation on all occasions brought forward by whatever party, and the record in the House will show that I carried out that pledge.

The Referendum vote is to be taken on the same date as the Provincial election, October 20th, and if I am again elected your representative, I promise to give my whole-hearted support to the Government elected to carry out the will of the people, as expressed by their votes on the Referendum ballot

During the years preceding 1914, every one agreed that the Department of Agriculture was asleep. The very first opportunity offered in the House, I introduced the question of a forward movement in Agriculture, and, along with other Liberal members of the House, have earnestly advocated a more strenuous progressive policy in Agriculture.

The shortage of production, the problem of farm help, and the numerous perplexing questions affecting the farmer, cannot be solved unless we seriously consider the cause and apply the remedy.

During the past few years of unrest in the country, due mainly to excessive living costs, I have advocated that demonstration farms be established in different counties, and increased attention be paid to the education to be received in our Agricultural College and Experimental Farms, and that the knowledge gained at the Agricultural College be put into practice on Demonstration Farms, where a profit and loss account could be kept, and the costs of producing 100 pounds of milk, or a pound of pork, or any of the many products of the farm, could be ascertained and established, such information being sadly lacking to-day. By such a system of education, the farm would be looked upon as a business manufacturing plant, that would attract the best brains to the development of the greatest asset in Canada to-day, the Farm. Our production is unlimited. The markets of the world are calling for food, and our own citizens living from hand to mouth at tremendous prices, wondering what the next six months have in store for them.

PROVINCIAL HIGHWAYS

Our Highways need much repair. Auto and truck traffic is becoming daily increased, and we must develop a road policy which will make for hauling our produce to market as cheaply as possible. To this matter, I promise to give my best thought.

EDUCATION

Education, I am pleased to say, is in the hands of a new Minister, in whom we hope for great things. I believe in a separate education for the City and Rural districts. An Education in the Rural districts to educate the boy and girl the great lessons of Agriculture, making two blades of grass grow where one grew before, developing the average cow of Ontario to-day, which gives 5,000 lbs. of milk in a milking period to 10,000 lbs., producing a pound of pork or beef at a lower cost, and giving to the world the blessing which we most need: a reduction in the high cost of living.

THE LABOUR QUESTION

Regarding the important question of Labour, my own policy has been to treat labour as I would wish to be treated myself. I have had a good deal of experience with labour of various kinds and conditions, and have never had any trouble along that line, and do not expect to have any.

OUR RETURNED HEROES

To me, the welfare of the returned soldier and soldiers' wives, is one of the most essential duties of our country. Therefore, I promise that I will give my hearty support to every movement calculated to promote their very best interests. The soldiers who fought for me for five years deserve, and may expect to receive, my earnest consideration during the remaining years of my life.

THE WOMAN VOTE

I am delighted to know that women are to enjoy equal privileges with men in the use of the franchise at this election, and in the exercise of this privilege, I have the greatest faith in their good judgment and purifying influence. Their power with the ballot on October 20th, especially with the Prohibition and Labour problems, will, I feel certain, be of far-reaching effect. I will, therefore, consider the votes from the ladies counted in my favour at the approaching election, to be instruction to take high grounds on all matters calculated to elevate the morals of this community as well as of the whole Dominion.

CONCLUSION

These questions I have dealt with are, to my mind, the outstanding questions of the day. If I am elected again as your representative, I promise to give the best of my ability, my mature judgment on all questions affecting the interests of the West Riding of Peterborough, the Province of Ontario, the Dominion of Canada, and the British Empire, of which we, to-day, are so justly proud.

Thanking you, Ladies and Gentlemen, for your support in the past, and soliciting your support again on the 20th day of October. I remain,

Your obedient servant,

GEO. A. GILLESPIE

BARBARA DECIDES TO WITHHOLD MRS. ORTON'S LETTER.

CHAPTER XCI

It was demeaning act to open a letter addressed to Neil, yet that view of it did not occur to me. I was so worried over the contents so anxious to know the meaning of my husband's intimacy with Blanche Orton that I had no thought for amenities.

After we reached home however, it came to me that by withholding the letter, Neil would know nothing of the party at Mrs. Orton's for that evening. I reread the letter carefully and saw the inference it contained that if Frederick —could not come she would write him. Evidently he would not go unless she telephoned him. I decided to say nothing of the letter. If he did not come home I would, of course, know he had gone to her, but if he did—why I would at least have kept him with me one evening.

He came in about six o'clock. Aunt and he talked until dinner was ready at seven. He had excused himself from dressing on the plea that he had had a hard day, and was tired.

We were scarcely seated at the table when the telephone rang. My heart almost stopped beating for a moment as I waited until the maid had answered.

"Mr. Forbes is wanted on the telephone," she said, a knowing look on her face I knew as well as if she had told me that a woman had called him. Her expression proclaimed it. I turned hot then cold. If it were Mrs. Orton would she tell him she had written and would he question me? Aunt had told him, we called at the office and how much she admired the way he had fitted up. She also had told him she thought his stenographer rather impudent, and that she would advise an older woman who would be more attentive to his business.

"But I have found her extremely capable, and alive to the needs of my business. Perhaps you mistook natural curiosity at two handsome women calling for impudence," Neil had returned so pleasantly that nothing more had been said. I had not joined in the discussion at all. If ever Neil found out I had taken that letter!

"You will have to excuse me," he said in a hurried manner. "I am obliged to join some business friends."

"But you will eat your dinner first," I exclaimed, in a measure relieved by his manner.

"No, unfortunately I cannot! they are waiting dinner for me." I shall be late so don't wait up for me," and with a hasty kiss he left us. I supposed he was going out immediately, but he ran up stairs, and I realized that altho he had claimed to be too tired to dress to dine with us, he was going ot dress before going out. It was one more cause for unhappiness. One more action to arouse jealousy.

He dressed quickly then called "good night" again as he went out. His aunt at once commenced to commiserate him.

"Poor boy! It is a shame to have to go out when he was so tired. I claim it is all wrong to attend to business in the evening after having been working all day. It makes a perfect slave of a man."

"I know, but everyone does it nowadays," I excused, thinking that if she knew Neil was probably joining a gay party of men nd women who drank and gambled she would not be quite so sympathetic.

"Then everyone does wrong. I shall have a good talk with Neil. He will break down. Then what good will all his money do him? He really looked worn out to-night."

I was very poor company for aunt. My thoughts were too busy. I was worried, jealous and a bit frightened. Of course Blanche Orton would tell Neil she had written him telling him to come early to her because she had somthing special to say to him He would be sure to speak of the letter at the office! Whoever laid it on the desk would mention that also. Then my presence in the office. The remembrance that once before I had tried to get hold of his mail would make him at once suspicious. What should I say if he accused me? I never had told him a lie—would I now?

Voice Of The People

REPLY TO MR. SODEN'S INSINUATION.

To The Editor of The Examiner:
Sir,

With regard to Mr. Soden's circular letter, making statements about temperance and his opponents being supported by finance from the liquor traffic, there is as great need for temperance of action and statements as in liquor. I hope Mr. Soden will please try "if possible" to act up to the moral standard of his opponents and so conduct an honorable election. Labor stands for plain justice. As we have no official organ to express Labor's opinion on these matters, I ask you to publish this refutation of Mr. Soden's remarks, in so far as the Labor candidate is concerned. We represent no interests, but the interests of the working people and producers of this Province, who are themselves financing his campaign.

THOS. TOOMS,
Who stands for The Will of the People.

Editor, Examiner,

Dear Sir:—It seems almost incredible that in view of the continuous explanations of the ballot by the press of the city, that any one should be in a quandary regarding any of the four questions of the referendum ballot.

I am sure Prohibitionists esteem very highly the public service The Examiner has rendered in this respect.

Our workers report more misconception of question four than of any of the others.

First let us state question four has no reference whatever either directly or indirectly to a place for obtaining liquor as a medicine of a place where prescpritions are filled.

Second, if you vote "Yes" on question four you are actually voting for a Government Grog Shop that will sell all kinds of booze, whiskey, gin, brandy, ale, etc., to anyone who would apply for it.

Third, we would have the same sad spectacle of four years ago, women and even children with their bottles, taking the stuff home to do its deadly work, again we would have the Sunday booze and the Monday incapacity for work with its consequent squallor and degradation, lower social standing, a damning array of losses we do not wish to incur, and can only avoid by voting No on this question. Make no mistake—happy, prosperous homes are at stake on this question four.

Five years ago, by actual count arragned for, to give definite information to the Ontario License Commissioners, over 600 people entered the liquor stores of Peterboro during five hours No should be our emphatic reply to a question that would bring back this curse to our homes.

Another popular error is the fear that if you vote four No's you will never have any more liquor for medical purposes.

The Government is taking special precautions that liquor for medical not be able to procure liquor for purposes shall be obtainable under adequate safeguard both as to quality and price.

At the last session of the legislature provision was made to take the sale of liquor for this purpose out of private hands. If the referendum receives the four No majority a Government agency for medical purposes will be established in Peterboro, where both quality and price will be fixed by the Government, and the purchaser protected from fraud both in quality and price.

A four No vote is the only safe course and insures protection at all points.

A. B. CUNNINGHAM.

POISON LIKE UNTO Venom of Snakes

Professor H. Stevens, M. D., of the Royal Charity Hospital, says, "The cause for an attack of gout, rheumatism, lumbago, is supplied by the increase of uric acid in the blood serum, the result of various causes, the most frequent of which is renal. Before an attack, one suffers sometimes from headache, neuralgia, twinges of pain here and there."

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead, when the back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; when you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach; or you have rheumatic pains or lumbago, gout, sciatica when the weather is bad, do not neglect the warning, but try simple means. Take six or eight glasses of water during the day, then obtain at your nearest drug store 'Anuric' (anti-uric acid).

This is the discovery of Dr. Pierce of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. "Anuric" is an antidote for this uric acid poisoning and dissolves uric acid in the body much as hot coffee dissolves sugar. "Anuric" will penetrate into the joints and muscles, and dissolve the poisonous accumulations. It will stamp out bodies.

The Navy League of Canada

Its Vital Work for Canada

THE Navy League of Canada fosters the splendid spirit that made the British the greatest of maritime nations. It organizes loyal Canadians so that practical work may be accomplished for the development of Canada's direct interests at sea.

The human side of Canada's Mercantile Marine is the League's especial interest—training Canadian boys to become the sturdy type of British manhood that won its laurels again and again in the great war—relieving distress among victims of the submarine warfare—and giving the sailor ashore an alternative place for rest and recreation to the places of doubtful entertainment that abound in port.

Why the $500,000 is needed

On Nelson Day, October 21st, starts a 3-day campaign throughout the Dominion to raise $500,000 necessary to finance the coming year's work of the Navy League of Canada. Help the work by giving liberally. As a nation whose expanding trade will depend on exports, we must educate our boys to the highest type of seamanship so that they will be equipped to man our ships to carry our exports to foreign markets.

You will do your part in this work by contributing liberally to the support of the Boy's Navy Brigades, the organizations by which the Navy League trains boys for our merchant marine.

Every dollar subscribed will be used to further the work of the Navy League in Canada—the work in which you are personally interested as a patriotic citizen. Help by giving.

WOULD IMPORT OSWEGO COAL

MUNICIPALITIES ASK FOR LOWER FREIGHT RATES FROM BELLEVILLE INTO INTERIOR.

Representatives of the municipalities of this district presented a petition to the Dominion Railway Commission in Belleville yesterday, urging a reduction in the freight rates on coal delivered over the G. T. R. from that lake port into the interior. Peterboro was represented by Ald. Edgar, chairman of the Railway Committee, W. S. Campbell of the Board of Trade, W. E. Taylor of the H. B. Taylor Company and J. E. Gregson of the Peterboro Fuel and Cartage Company. Lindsay, Campbellford, Sterling, Madoc, Trenton and other towns supported the request by letter, and Mr. E. Gus Porter, K. C., thoroughly and concisely stated the claims for a revision of the rates.

It was shown that the freight charges from the mines to Peterboro by way of Buffalo, amounted to $4.05 a ton, whereas from Oswego to Peterboro the cost would be $4.80. Freightage from Belleville to Peterboro, a distance of 64 miles, was $1.50, as compared with $1.80 for the 209 miles from Buffalo to Peterboro. The petition requested that the rate from Belleville should be reduced to a basis commensurate with the rate from Buffalo.

It also pointed out that coal could be obtained from mines near Oswego, loaded onto barges and transported across the lake to Belleville thus enabling delivery here within three days. By this route the detention of coal cars on this side of the border often for periods of two weeks and longer, would be obviated, these cars would be at the disposal of shippers for distribution to points that could not be reached by water carriage, and there would be other advantages that would rebound to the municipalities of Eastern Ontario.

HEROIC BELGIUM PRELATE ROYALLY WELCOMED

CARDINAL MERCIER GIVEN SPLENDID RECEPTION IN TORONTO—PAYS GLOWING TRIBUTE TO CANADIAN SOLDIERS—BISHOP O'BRIEN WAS PRESENT.

"The love and sympathy which I have met with on my tour through the United States and Canada have put new life in me," said the Cardinal to the press, though smilingly admitting that he was having a strenuous time of it.

It is his first visit to America.

"I am delighted to come to Canada and to acknowledge as best I can the gratitude of the Belgian people for the magnificent way in which the people of Canada came to their relief during the war, and also to express our undying thankfulness for the services rendered to Belgium and to humanity by the Canadian overseas forces," he said to the "Star".

"I have met many Canadian soldiers, and I found them all heroes and gentlemen. Their reputation is world wide. I have not heard a word of criticism of their conduct."

Praises Canadians.

The Cardinal turns repeatedly to the topic of the Canadian soldiers and their splendid war record. "The fact that you had so few men taken prisoner during the whole war—only 1,500 or 2,000, I believe—while your killed in action numbered over 50,000 is in itself very significant, and quite in contrast with the war record of any other nation. Most of the other countries lost as many men taken prisoner as they did in killed."

Regarding the condition of Belgium, the Cardinal stated that the same labor unrest existed there that seemed prevalent all over the world, but much of the trouble in Belgium was due to the deliberate destruction of machinery and manufacturing plant by the Germans.

On problems of politics and domestic questions the Cardinal will not talk. He is accompanied on his tour by Bishop Alphonse Wachter, Prof. De Wulf, of Louvain University, and his secretary, Mr. Dessain.

Among the church dignitaries to greet His Eminence were Archbishop McNeil, Bishop Fallon, Bishop O'Brien, Monseigneur Whelan, Rev. Father Carr, principal of St. Michael's College.

McDONALD LUMBER CO. WILL DOUBLE THE CAPACITY OF ITS BOX FACTORY

COUNCIL IN COMMITTEE DECIDE TO SELL THE COMPANY PART OF CRESCENT STREET THAT HAS NOT BEEN OPEN TO TRAFFIC BUT HAS BEEN USED AS A PILING GROUND.

WILL CONSTRUCT IT AT ONCE

That part of Crescent street extending from the south side of Rink street half way to Perry street will be officially closed and sold for $25 to the McDonald Lumber Company, Limited, as a site for their new box factory, which will give employment to at least fifteen more men than are now engaged.

The property lies east of George street. Both Rink and Crescent streets have never been opened to traffic. They are shown on the map of the city, however, and parts of them have been occupied by the company as piling grounds, at a nominal rental.

Mr. C. McDonald and Mr. Dick, representing the company, explained their plans to the Committee of the Whole Council last night. The company is preparing for the development of its box factory, planing mill and sash and door department. The new building will be 48 feet by 50 feet and will be erected on a concrete foundation for which a solid bottom is required. Soundings showed that most of the property is simply the sawdust filling that has been gradually spread over lots that were at one time under water. Mr. Dick stated that the part of Crescent street referred to was practically the only available location for a substantial structure. It was not used by the city for traffic purposes, and he believed that it would never be needed. It seemed to be an island around which the saw dust filling had accumulated.

To Double Capacity.

The McDonald Lumber Company, Mr. Dick, explained, intended to double the capacity of the box factory, and looked forward to other extensions, keeping pace with the growth of the city. Rink street east of George street would be kept open as at present.

The property on high ground that is immediately north of Perry street on the unopened part of Crescent street, is now used as a garden and is not sought by the McDonald company.

Ald. Edgar suggested that the city might some day build a bridge from McDonald's Point across the river to Burnham's Point, but it was remarked that this undertaking would not likely be needed for a hundred years, and in any event that there was other available property for an approach on this side.

"This part of Crescent street is no good to the city, anyway," said Ald. Morrison.

"When we are giving inducements to outside firms we should try to help those we have at home," Ald Crowe remarked.

Ald. Edgar moved, seconded by Ald. Morrison that the part of Crescent street required by the company be sold for a sum equal to the cost of executing the conveyance. This sum was estimated at $25.

It is understood that the company contemplates making the box factory the rear section of other extensions that will ultimately be carried out to George street.

PROF. GEORGE ADAM'S ADDRESS IN MURRAY STREET BAPTIST CHURCH

HOW HARRY LAUDER GOT TO FRANCE —THE SCOTCH COMEDIAN NEVER DRINKS WHISKEY AND WOULD VOTE FOUR "NO'S" ON THE REFERENDUM.

"The private soldier is the greatest institution that Canada has ever produced," declared Rev. James Rollins of St. Andrew's Church, at the lecture by Professor George Adam of Montreal at Murray Street Baptist Church. Rev. Mr. Rollins was Chairman of the evening, and in his opening remarks gave a short sketch of the life of the private soldier in the trenches as far as he was able to come in contact with them. He told one amusing story of the English aristocrat soldier, who, at a station hailed a passing train, stopped it and called out in great perturbation: "Is there a Canadian officer on board?" Shortly a soldier stuck his head out of the window and replied in the affirmative.

"Thank God," replied the monocal man. "Lend me your corkscrew."

Prof. George Adam is a speaker who believes in humor and his intensely interesting lecture would have been comparatively dry without the "bon mots" given in crisp Scotch, which interspersed his well-balanced address.

Dr. Adam declared that Harry Lauder was no clown, as some love to tell and Dr. Adam's lecture on "With Harry Lauder in the Trenches" showed clearly that the distinguished Scotsman is performing a serious duty, namely, to unite the Scotch and bring to them all over the world the heather and the hills and lochs and all that goes to make up "Auld Scotland."

Harry tried very hard to go to the trenches to sing to the soldiers. Sir Thomas Lipton and other famous men interceded for the famous Scotch comedian, but he was barred from crossing. At last Dr. Adam saw Lord Roberts, who gave him a passport. He told Lauder of his good luck in his dressing room in a theatre. Lauder cancelled a six months' contract at $5,000 a week and with Dr. Adam, after getting an extra good meal at the House of Commons by attaching themselves to an M. P., who paid for the meals themselves, left for Dover. After various experiences with insect powder and life belts they crossed the Channel.

He told of the great battle of Messines Ridge, where the whole contour of the countryside was altered by the mines. Thirty thousand Germans were buried alive and their hands, sometimes heads, could be seen sticking out the ground all over the battlefield. He gave a vivid description of a charge by the Kilties through the barb wire and into the Hun trenches. They discovered where the Campbells of Argyle and other clans had charged by the bits of plaid hanging on the barb wire.

Lauder and party arrived up Vimy Ridge and saw the Canadian batteries and the country on to Lorette and Lens. Lauder was very keen on Vimy Ridge and was busy the whole time looking for souvenirs.

"He collected so many that soon he was a cross between a Christmas tree and a junk shop. But he fell down the Ridge and lost all his souvenirs."

An example of the cruelty of the Germans was told by Dr. Adam, who declared that the Hun should not get in the League of Nations or be one of the brotherhood of nations. Thirty of the men of the Black Watch Regiment were captured by the Germans. They were stripped naked and ordered to stand on the edge of the trench stiffly at attention. If they stirred one inch they were given a probe in the ribs with a bayonet. It was a cold November night and all night they stood there. In the morning the Germans ordered the "dirty scweine Scotch" to get to their own trenches, but just as they reached the last wire entanglements the Germans opened up with their machine guns and killed every one of them.

Harry Lauder and party came to the former headquarters of Von Kluck, who, Dr. Adam's son declared, must have had a hen for a mother.

Several Scotch ditties, composed by Harry Lauder, were sang by Dr. Adam and were greatly appreciated. He also told of several pathetic scenes in the great military hospitals, of mere boys on their death beds calling for their mother.

He told one story which made the roof resound. A Jew and a Scotchman were talking of the famous men in Scotch and Hebrew history. They at last decided that the Jew would name one by one the famous men in Juda's history and at the same time pull a hair out of the head of the Scot. The Scot would do likewise.

"Robert Bruce," followed the Scot, doing the same thing. Then came Solomon and Isaac Burns. The Jew finally said Joseph and his brethren, and pulled out a handful of hair.

"Oh, you're counting them in handfuls are you?" asked the smarting Scot. He obtained a good hold on the Jew's beard pulled it out, and said: "The Highland Brigade."

The pathetic scene of Harry Lauder before the grave of his only son, Captain John Lauder, of the Argyle and Sutherland Highlanders, who was killed in action on 28th of December, 1917, was given vividly with Lauder's last wish that his boy were alive again, just long enough to shake his hand and tell how proud he was that he died for his country.

Lauder never drinks whiskey, but when they visited a very high Canadian officer, who had brought the best whiskey in London for the occasion, He refused.

"But what will you drink?"

"Water," replied Harry, "and it would be better for Canada and for you if you did too."

"If Harry Lauder voted on the referendum," declared Dr. Adam, "he would mark four "No's" and he is a man of the world who knows.

"Harry has a great scheme ahead of him, one which you will hear of and one which will advance the Kingdom of God. Harry is one of the best.' Miss Florence Scott sang a solo in conclusion.

TORONTO WOMAN PRAISES TANLAC

MRS. EMMA BENSON SAYS RESULTS SHE HAS DERIVED HAVE BEEN MARVELOUS.

"Tanlac certainly has proved to be one of the best friends I ever had," said Mrs. Emma Benson, of 688 Runnyside Road, West Toronto, Ontario.

"I had been in a badly run-down condition for a long time," she claimed, "suffering from neuralgia and such terrible headaches that I would have to go to bed and stay there for days at a time. My nerves were shattered and I would lie awake at night for hours before I could get to sleep, then often I would wake up feeling so weak and nervous that I would faint dead away. I was completely worn out and was simply miserable all the time.

"My husband had been relieved of stomach trouble by taking Tanlac so I decided to try it myself, and now that terrible neuralgia is completely gone. I haven't had a headache since I started on Tanlac, my nerves are quiet and I sleep like a baby. That tired feeling has passed away and I am stronger and better in every way than I have been in a long time."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Worne Drug Co., Limited.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE PETERBORO PROTESTANT HOME

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR THE ENSUING YEAR—ANNUAL REPORT OF THE SECRETARY.

THE INMATES

At the annual meeting of the Peterboro Protestant Home, held yesterday afternoon, the officers elected for the ensuing year were:

Honorary President:—Mrs. T. G. Hazlit.

President.—Mrs. Walter Roger.

Honorary Vice Presidents.—Mrs. Birdsall, Mrs. Nicholls.

1st Vice President.—Mrs. Robert Neill.

2nd Vice President.—Mrs. Dnucan Walker.

Secretary.—Miss Davidson.

Treasurer.—Miss Sara Robinson.

Assistant Treasurer.—Mrs. R. M. Waddell.

Congratulated Board.

The meeting was opened by prayer and reading of the Scripture by Rev. James Rollins, after which the reports of the Secretary and Treasurer were presented. In seconding the adoption of the reports His Worship Mayor Duncan congratulated the Board upon the splendid management made evident by the reports. He also spoke of the great privilege the old people of the city enjoy in having such a place to go to when the shadows commence to darken. He said, in paying a warm tribute to Miss Lancaster, that any of the inmates of the home to whom he had spoken spoke well of her and had no complaint to make of her administration. He concluded by speaking of the great opportunity those interested had of fulfilling their duty in life by helping the old people.

How Constituted.

Miss Lancaster in a short verbal report told of the constitution of the home, four of the inmates, she said, are blind, four are going blind, five are crippled, three almost stone leaf, one is dumb as the result of paralysis, while four are more or less feeble minded. With such a constitution she added, it is at times rather hard to get along, but always the feeling that the work is part of her life has comforted her and the kindness, confidence and trust the Board has always shown in her, has made it possible to go on for nearly seven years.

The Garden.

Following the report of the caretaker of the Home, J. C. Hamilton, the Mayor made a few appreciatory remarks upon the splendid manner in which he had run the garden during the year.

Haven of Happiness.

Canon Davidson spoke of the great comfort it is to those who are growing old in knowing that there is such a haven of happiness awaiting them in the Home, where they may enjoy the comforts and privileges of home. He referred to the administration of Miss Lancaster, saying that there are few who could do what she does with the old people. He concluded, after referring to the splendid quarters of the present home as compared to the former Home on Stewart Street, by assuring the Board that they might go ahead with the confidence that the people are behind them.

Satisfactory to Council.

Mayor Duncan assured the Board that everything at the Home is perfectly satisfactory to the Council and predicted that the grant they require will be forthcoming next year.

Mrs. Walter Roger referred to the courtesy she had always received at the hands of the Council, also to the kindness of the doctors and clergy in the city. Rev. James Rollins spoke of the pleasure he felt at being at the meeting and drew the attention of those present to the great pleasure old people feel at receiving any little attention. As a general rule, he said, the old people who come to the Home are those who have ceased to expect kindnesses therefore any such is doubly appreciated.

Those Present.

Those present at the meeting were: Rev. James Rollins, Canon Davidson, Mr. Henry Rush, Mayor Duncan, Alderman Taylor, Mesdames R. R. Hall, Robert Neill, S. R. Armstrong, Harvey, Robert Hall, E. F. Mason, E. L. Goodwill, John. Beatty, Walter Roger, F. L. Robinson, Duncan Walker, Mr. Aylmer, Miss Archer and Miss Sara Robinson. Afternoon tea was served previous to the meeting.

Miss Davidson's Annual Report.

In presenting the Annual Report of the Home for 1918-1919 I should like to state that the admissions have not been as numerous as last year, 39 being admitted, 22 men and 17 women, 10 being discharged for various reasons. The average stay in the Home per inmate is 281 days, with a total number of 10,965 days. The number remaining in the Home September 30th, 1919: Twenty-nine (29), Sixteen men (16) and Thirteen women (13).

The Board of Directors have had eighteen meetings with an average attendance of 8.

The Christmas season brought its usual donations and gifts to the old people. At the entertainment and Christmas tree, on December 24th Canon Davison addressed the old people in his customary cheerful manner. Mr. John Allan, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Parks, Miss Muriel Harvey and Master and Miss Collins, adding greatly to the program. On account of the epidemic last Autumn, the fruit and linen shower was not held until later in the year. It was very well responded to. The old ladies having pieced a great many quilts during the previous year, the members of the Board and Church representatives spent a busy but delightful afternoon quilting. The members of the Board are beginning to think that the lovely automobile drive and dinner at South Beach is an annual pleasure, as about twenty-five inmates and a number of the Board were again taken there in July. The Committee of the Royal Arthur Lodge of Masons having the afternoon in charge are to be congratulated on their efforts of giving everyone a good time. We, as a Board, owe them a hearty vote of thanks for the pleasure accorded the old people.

Higher Cost.

You will observe, from the Treasurer's report that all our indebtedness has been met this year; it is due to the hearty response of the City Council in granting an additional allowance per week for their inmates, which was rendered necessary by the high cost of all commodities.

The Board wish to express their appreciation of Miss Lancaster's untiring efforts to make the Home "A Home in deed as well as in name." They are most fortunate in possessing a person of such wide range of sympathy and efficiency. Not only does she fulfil her duties most capably but her heart is in everything she does.

The Garden.

You will notice by the treasurer's report, the small sum expended on garden produce. This is owing to Mr. Hamilton's able management of the garden, and although it has not been so productive this season, still he secured several prizes at the Exhibition. The Board appreciates his services and know they have a devoted and loyal manager.

In spite of the fact that the health of our beloved President, Mrs Roger, has caused considerable anxiety to her many friends for more than a year past, her unselfish interest in the affairs of the Home has never wavered. What this Board owes to her faithful and wise council cannot be measured in words.

The thanks of the Board are extended to the following:

The Clergymen of the city, who on Sunday morning make it possible for the inmates to have a service, who otherwise would not be able to attend a regular church service:

The Gentlemen who act as auditors:

The Press, who are always so courteous:

The many friends of the Home who by their donations show their kindly feelings towards the Home.

FLORA H. DAVIDSON,
Secretary.

X-RAY FAILED

Mechanic Gives Evidence

There are cases where science in its most profound phases is absolutely balked, yet other help is at hand.

This is proved by the testimony of a mechanic, 35 years of age, who suffered, at times, positive torture from stone in the bladder. After trying many remedies without result, he had an X-Ray photograph taken, which also failed to show where the trouble was. Fortunately, just at this juncture, when he almost had given up hope of any relief, Gin Pills were brought to his notice. These famous Pills in a very short time enabled him to pass the stone which was the cause of his trouble. We will give the name of this man on request.

Kidney and Bladder troubles should not be neglected. The first symptoms should be sufficient warning. Pain in the sides or back, constant headaches, neuralgic and sciatic pains, rheumatism, dizziness, constipation, gravel, highly-colored urine, specks before the eyes, all point to derangement. Gin Pills should be obtained without delay. Druggists and dealers carry them—50c—your money refunded if not satisfied. Free sample on request.

REPLY FROM MR. G. A. GILLESPIE

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—My attention has been drawn to some remarks made by Mr. Soden at a meeting in Bridgenorth held on the 11th inst., during which he accused me of "assisting to advance the high cost of living." In his effort to prove this statement he referred to the price of a case of 48 tins of condensed milk as sold by Armour & Co., of Hamilton, at 25 cents per case lower than our price to local grocers here. Let me put Mr. Soden right on this matter, so that if he is tempted to repeat it again he will be able to tell the electors the truth.

Armour & Co., of Hamilton, bought the condensed milk from us during the season of 1918, when milk and all that entered into the making of condensed milk was cheaper than it is to-day. Furthermore, let me assure Mr. Soden that not one case of condensed milk was sold to a grocer in Peterborough this year; but if we had sold the price would have been exactly the price quoted by Armour & Co., of Hamilton.

Discussing the local milk question, Mr. Soden also took occasion to state that we realised almost 100 per cent. on the price paid the milk producers. In fairness to the electors, as well as to himself, Mr. Soden should have told them:

1st—What it costs to haul the milk from the producer to the creamery.

2nd—What it costs to clarify and pasteurise and bottle the milk.

3rd—What it costs to deliver the milk to consumers.

The first principle of cost finding is that each item of expense must be charged to the department or operation for which the purchase was made or the cost incurred or which receives the benefit of it.

Mr. Soden, as a good business man, must know that before he sells any article out of his store he must first find out what percentage he has to add to the wholesale cost to cover the cost of selling.

My practice as always been to call in the farmers and consult with them on the price at which they can fairly produce the milk. And for two years, thanks to the patriotic farmers of this section, the Peterborough Milk Products Co. have supplied to the citizens of Peterborough good, pure pasteurised milk—the best food known for child or adult—as cheap, and in many cases cheaper, than in other cities in the Province. Our price to-day is 12 cents a quart. Toronto's price is 16 cents a quart. And other cities of similar size to Peterborough are higher than here.

The Peterborough Milk Products, Ltd., is in competition with fifteen or twenty milk dealers in the city, any one of whom would willingly go into the cost of milk distribution with any householder or politician who thinks the public is paying exorbitant prices, but it is a mistake that this question should have been brought under discussion at this time when in reality to the Peterborough citizens, it was in a most satisfactory condition as compared with other cities.

In conclusion, let me say to Mr. Soden that if he wants to discuss my personal business instead of the political questions of the day, I invite him to come over to the creamery, and I will be pleased to enlighten him, so that he may be able to talk more intelligently on the milk question.

Respectfully yours,

GEO. A. GILLESPIE.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using the well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

THE CAST.

Alice Parcot .....Blanche Sweet
Dimny Parcot
Stephen Parcot .....Edwin Stevens
Mrs. Parcot .....Mary Alden
Noll Windsor .....Matt Moore
Gen. Washington Sticker.....Wesley Barry
Col. Klemm .....Wallace Beery
The Brute .....Bull Montana
Boy Scout .....Bob Connolly

The Parcots— father, mother and two charming daughters — live in Southern California. At the time the action begins, Stephen Parcot, the father, is in the far North pursuing his avocation as an explorer. Mrs. Parcot has hurried home overseas to Belgium to bring back one daughter who had been placed in a convent there. Dimny Parcot (the lead in the picture, played by Blanche Sweet, who also appears as the other sister in several parts of the production) is alone in the beautiful Parcot home. She receives a letter from her loved ones abroad—a letter that almost sends her reason tottering from its throne—a letter that tells her that invading soldiers have committed against both her mother and her sister "the unpardonable sin." The letter has been one last note of explanation—and a plea that mother and sister be forgotten, a cry that their disgrace be shielded from the world.

With the letter carefully hidden in a wallet, Dimney, half crazed with grief and not figuring the difficulties of the task she has set for herself, sets out to find her loved ones.

Her train is delayed just outside a little town in the Middle West. A chance travelling acquaintance offers aid and, later as Dimny and her acquaintance are walking through a shaded street in the little village just at dusk, the acquaintance, smitten by Dimny's beauty, attempts to force his attentions upon her; Dimny collapses; her reason flees. Only a zephyr of the breath of life remains. Weeks later she recovers her strength, both mental and physical, to find that she has been nursed in the home of the Windsors.

Noll Windsor, an undergraduate at the college in the little town, has learned to love Dimny. She tells him her story—and torn between the fear of all men and the thought that she may waver from her path of chosen duty, leaves the home without announcement, to continue on her journey.

Soon after, young Windsor answers his government's call to serve Hoover's Belgian Relief Commission in the devastated country. He arrives in Washington to secure his passports and discovers Dimny, who has been in the Capitol city for some time, unable to continue her journey for the reason that the government has discontinued the issuance of passports to "unmarried women." Noll and Dimny effect a marriage of convenience, Dimny's passports being securable in no other way.

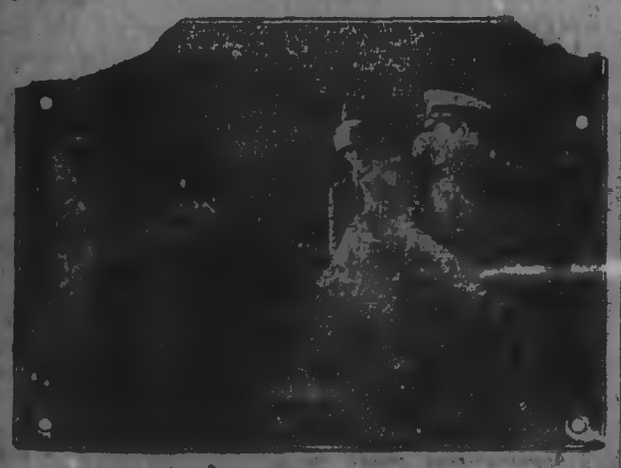
Upon their arrival in Belgium, Noll, husband in name only, finds it possible to do much to aid in her search for her people. Together they travel the devastated regions, even penetrating the enemy country—for in these days the United States had not entered the war.

A veritable pawn of Fate, it is Dimny's misfortune to encounter the very beast who had ravished her sister. When he sees the fresh young girl from California, Colonel Klemm mistakes her for the sister whom he had so shamefully treated in Belgium, he is mystified—and his passion still leads him on. Because he thinks Dimny a spy against his government and because he wishes to possess her again, as he thinks, Klemm hounds Dimny and Noll everywhere they go.

Klemm is outwitted. Dimny's mother and sister are found, but not before a second horror in her frail life has snapped the thread that tied the little sister to Earth and a bitter disgrace.

Dimny, her mother, Noll and an interesting group of refugees, who have been made members of the party, are making a mad dash for the Holland border when a bullet sends Mrs. Parcot close to the brink of death. When she recovers she takes back to her husband in the States only the story of her terrible experience.

Dimny and Noll find that their "marriage of convenience" must be re-enacted as a "marriage of necessity"— necessary because both have come to desire it.



Local Theatrical Events

What the Local Playhouses Have to Offer—News of the Movie World.

GOOD CAST WITH "MY SOLDIER GIRL"

COMPANY WILL APPEAR IN PETERBORO ON SATURDAY NEXT.

It will be interesting to local theatregoers to know that the forthcoming production "My Soldier Girl," a gorgeous spectacle, coming to the Grand, Saturday, matinee and evening, possesses every bit of stage-craft known to the modern producer, from the sublime to the ridiculous, from artistic stage settings to the bewildering effects by the aid of electricity, from the magnificient costumes to the decidedly diverting dancing numbers and stage pictures all combined to make this big musical show the success that the term implies.

The locale of the clever story is laid in two acts, opening at Colonel Stone's home, Miami, Fla., the scene is a lawn fete, arranged in honor of friends the Colonel met while "overseas" and to whom he had extended an invitation to visit him upon their return to America. The brilliant stage setting in this act is novel in design and the electrical effect presents a bewildering picture of flower and lights with Biscayne Bay in the distance shown in the silvery moonlight.

The last act presents a gorgeous spectacle, a Follies production in its entirety with brilliant electrical effects, gorgeous costumes, crisp and snappy comedy, tuneful musical numbers and a host of pretty girls in a dazzling array of frocks and gowns. The excellent cast selected especially for their particular ability present the solos, duets, dancing and comedy in such a delightful manner that it makes "My Soldier Girl" the most pleasing offering of the late successes.

"MY SOLDIER GIRL" HERE ON SATURDAY

COMPANY WILL MAKE SPECIAL RETURN ENGAGEMENT.

LeComte & Flesher, a successful theatrical firm, who in the past few years have presented many pleasing shows, but struck the final keynote to success when they sent forth for public approval the new musical comedy, "My Soldier Girl," which is coming to the Grand on Saturday, matinee and evening. This tuneful musical play holds the audience with its swinging lilting melodies and cleverly handled story, which lends just enough colour to its effective stage settings, to please the most blase theatregoer. The capable cast includes the chic and charming Dorothy Garrigue, as "Dixie Harris," the leading soubrette role. Miss Garrigue is a charming little girl, who sings, dances and gavottes about with an abundance of personality, magnetism, and ability galore. The leading comedy falls to the lot of Billy Moore, a clever black-face comedian of wide reputation, and in the comedy role of "Jasper Pebble," Moore is seen at his best. Maude Baxter, a prima donna with a voice of remarkable quality, is playing the role of Mabel Parker, and the most of the singing falls upon this talented artiste. A bewitching brigade of wonderfully clever girls present the novel drills and dance ensembles in a way that proves a revelation to theatre patrons. The favourite melodies in this new musical spectacle includes "My Soldier Girl," "Just For You," "Jasper's Ragtime Band," "Wrap Me In a Bundle of Love," and "That Dixie Wedding Tune."

QUEENA MARIO.
Coloratura.
SAN CARLO GRAND OPERA CO.,

MANUEL SALAZAR,
Spanish Tenor.
AT THE GRAND, WED., OCT. 22.

"OH, BOY!" WILL BE HERE ON THURSDAY

"Oh, Boy!" the smartest and brightest musical comedy hit since the days of "Floradora" and the fourth of a series of New York Princess Theatre musical comedies which began with "Nobody Home" and was followed by "Very Good Eddie," is announced by F. Ray Comstock and William Elliot as the attraction at the Grand, Thursday evening only. Not in the past twenty years has any musical comedy scored the success achieved by "Oh Boy."

"Oh, Boy" is of that intimate type of musical comedy in which there is that close connection and friendly spirit of appreciation between the players and the audience.

The book and lyrics are by Guy Bolton and P. G. Wodehouse and the music by Jerome Kern. The story deals with the adventures of an interesting group of people in a small suburban town. Jackie Sampson, an actress playing "Modesty" in the morality play "Experience" becomes involved in a fuss in a gay restaurant and during the trouble hits constable Simms in the eye. She secures his pistol and in making a get-away climbs a fire-escape that ends into the apartment of George Budd, a young college professor.

Young Budd has just been married to Lou Ellen Carter and they have determined, as the marriage was a secret one, that the bride shall go to the home of her parents for the night. It is just after the bride and groom have left the apartment that the actress arrives. Mrs. Budd has left behind her a suit of blue pajamas and other finery, which she intended to wear on her honeymoon. Constable Simms appears on the scene, but with rare presence of mind Jim Marvin introduces the actress as Mrs. Budd. What happens when the real bridegroom returns and finds a lady in the pajamas of his wife, together with the complications which ensue when the bride and her mother return and the bridegroom's Quaker aunt appears, can be better imagined than described.

Jerome Kern has written eighteen musical hits for "Oh Boy," and they are already being played on the Victrolas all over the country. Among the most notable are "An Old-Fashioned Wife," "Till the Clouds Roll By," "Rolled Into One," "Words Are Not Needed," "When It's Nesting Time in Flatbush" and "Flubby Dub, entire season at LlavoP', rgdkkffw the Cave-Man." "Oh, Boy" was an entire season at the Princess Theatre, and then continued its New York run at the Casino.

THE COSTUMING OF GRAND OPERA

If the expense of costuming Grand Opera was a costly feature of the production before the war, it constitutes a staggering financial outlay in these days of curtailed importations of rich fabrics—Italian, French, Oriental and Egyptian, while American-made materials have also soared almost as high in price. The monetary consideration involved in the wardrobe of an organization such as the San Carlo Grand Opera Company, soon to appear in this city, mounts to a surprising figure because of the unusual number of operas sung by the organization on tour. There are some fifteen of the standard and modern operas in the San Carlo repertoire, complete scenery and costuming for which is carried in special cars.

Furthermore the operas each season are equipped more lavishly both as to costumes and stage effects, and patrons have become so accustomed to magnificent productions that no product of the looms is too rich or rare; no costume too expensive for use on the operatic stage. Naturally, in Grand Opera, the costuming must conform to the period and locale of the theme, in order that traditional effects may be maintained. Few persons not more or less intimately connected with the theatrical or operatic world of today have any conception of the cost of such material, nor how each season it is becoming more and more expensive.

Half a century ago, in Europe, the productions were less gorgeously mounted and the grand operas and dramas were not one-tenth as expensively produced as they are today. In those days the managers relied chiefly upon the singer or actor to atone, by their art, for any deficiencies as to costuming or scenic equipment.

Fine feathers, however, will not make the singer or actor great. Art and intellect win where costumes fail. Beautiful plumage may make a songbird or rare attractiveness, but never a nightingale.

DOROTHY GARRIGUE,
Remarkably clever dancer with the big musical comedy success, "My Soldier Girl," coming to the Grand Opera House, for a return engagement, Saturday, matinee and night, October 18th.

"THE DUMBELLS"

The famous "Dumbells" all-soldier comedy organization with a record of over five hundred performances in France, will be the attraction at the Grand, Fri. and Sat., Oct. 24 and 25, matinee and evening. The vehicle, which will serve to introduce them to local audiences is their original overseas revue: "Hiff, Bing, Bang." It will be given here with the entire original cast and chorus, including "Marjorie" and "Marie."

How Much Tobacco Will My Heart Stand

A Question Vital to Every Man Who Smokes or Chews

IT MAY COST A PERSON'S LIFE TO FIND OUT BY EXPERIMENT.

The heart of every user of tobacco bears a double burden. It does its allotted task and then fights nicotine for supremacy. As long as the heart wins he lives; when it loses he dies, but before the final victory or defeat he has gone through many stages of dueling and defy and suffer many pangs. Hearts are not blessed because some are stronger than others; therefore, some hearts will stand more tobacco than others, but there is a limit to what any heart can stand. The man who puts this additional strain on his heart a dozen times a day by smoking cigarettes, a pipe or cigars, or chewing tobacco, is taking a needless chance with health and life to boot and nothing to win but the chance that he may get less than. He is indulging in a costly habit at the expense of precious health. Ask any doctor anywhere and he will tell you that using tobacco is injurious and that it is far better to quit the habit than to experiment to find how much tobacco your heart will stand without serious results.

But the thought of quitting is unpleasant to most men—even to those who know that tobacco injures them—and to really quit takes more will power than their lips and tongue have suffering that

Habit make it easy for yourself by getting Nicotol tablets and taking them as directed. The habit really quits you, and its departure is a pleasure equal to its acquirement.

If you want to know how much easier it is to quit the habit with Nicotol than without it, go twenty-four hours without tobacco and note what an effect it exerts you; then begin using it as usual and take Nicotol tablets. At the end of a week discontinue smoking or chewing for a day, and it is probable you will have no desire to resume. At first your desire with be greatly diminished, and another week or two should make it not only possible, but a pleasure, to quit.

Note.—Dr. Cramer, formerly of Johns Hopkins Hospital, under whose advice Nicotol has often been used, said when this statement was shown to him: "I have known Nicotol to conquer the tobacco habit in less than ten days' time, and I can therefore recommend it highly." When the doctor's statement was shown to one of our leading druggists he said: "Nicotol is truly a wonderful remedy for the tobacco habit, and ahead of anything we have ever sold before. We are authorized by the manufacturers to refund the money to every dissatisfied customer, and we would not permit the use of our name unless the remedy possessed unusual merit." Nicotol is sold in this city under an iron clad money back guarantee by druggists everywhere.

SPECIAL SERVICE AT KNOX CHURCH

TWO EXCELLENT SERMONS BY REV J. A. MACKENZIE.

The Thanksgiving services at Knox Church on Sunday last were well attended. Two excellent sermons were preached by the Rev. J. A. MacKenzie. In the evening Mr. MacKenzie stated his position with regard to the four questions submitted in the Referendum. He took as his text Romans xv., 1: "We then that are strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, and not to please ourselves." The matter was treated in thorough fashion, arguments for and against being dealt with and no uncertainty left as to what the speaker believed to be the duty of every Christian and well-wisher of his fellow man. That duty was clearly shown to be to mark the ballot with four X's in the "No" column. The choir, under the able leadership of Mr. F. E. Wladon, did their part to make both services pleasing and profitable. In the evening Mrs. B. Hughes kindly assisted the choir and her voice was heard to good advantage in a duet with Mr. Waldon. Other pleasing numbers in addition to the anthems were selections on the 'cello, both morning and evening, by Mr Tom Smith, and a quartette by Misses Pearson and Williamson, and Messrs. John Anderson and Tom Smith, with the choir taking the chorus part. Mr. Waldon and the choir are to be congratulated on the excellent music rendered throughout the day.

BETHEL CHURCH HAD A CHICKEN SOCIAL

THERE WAS AN OVERFLOW CROWD AND MANY FAILED TO SECURE ACCOMMODATION.

At the Bethel Methodist Church, Emily, last Tuesday evening a very successful chicken social was held. It was stated the affair was the most successful in years in that locality. There were 588 who partook of the supper. The tables would only seat 84 at a time and there were seven sittings. As the church parlor would not hold the crowd many were unable to see the entertainment. $173.25 was taken in at the door.

The event was under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of the Church. There are twenty-five ladies in the Society and they are to be congratulated for the work and time they spent in making the event so successful. Mrs. Herrington, the pastor's wife, who is president, deserves praise for her leadership.

The programme for the entertainment was put on by a number of musicians from the local Salvation Army Temple, who gave their services free. Each number was much enjoyed, though special mention must be given to Miss White, who was encored for her reading. The pastor, Mr. Herrington, who occupied the ihair, gave much praise to the ladies for their good work and thanked them heartily. Mr. Gandy, speaking for the party from the Salvation Army, also thanked the ladies for the sumptuous supper provided them. Those present from the Salvation Army were as follows:

Mr. M. Braund—Cornet.
Mr. James—Saxophone.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The entire London press, with the exception of the "Morning Post" to-day acclaimed the birth of the League of Nations in commenting on the meeting yesterday of a union formed to promote the league. The expressions of opinion are noticeably serious and thoughtful as compared with the flourishing applause in the early stages of the League discussion.

The editors now soberly review the League as a commendable achievement, but one which they realize is merely the first step on a road that is neither easy nor short.

HARVEST FESTIVAL SERVICES HELD IN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, LAKEFIELD

REV. W. H. WHITE OF THIS CITY WAS THE SPEAKER AT THE EVENING SERVICE—SPECIAL MUSIC

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 15.—On Sunday the Harvest Festival services were held in St. John's Church which was suitably decorated for the occasion.

The rector, Rev. W. Archbold, D. D. was in charge of the services, and in the evening Rev. W. H. White of St. Luke's Church was the preacher. Dr. Archbold spoke feelingly in the morning on the great importance of Thanksgiving this year, as it is the Peace Year Thanksgiving, when we have a special reason for giving thanks to Almighty God, for His goodness to us. More than anyone else, the returned soldier, wearing the little service button—the badge of honor—has reason for thankfulness as he is restored to his home after attaining the objective they had striven for. Here in Canada we always had enough food, even when millions in Europe were starving, and that too, we must thank God for.

In the words of the Psalmist we should say: "Let the people praise Thee, Oh God, yea, let all the people praise Thee. Let the earth bring forth her increase, and God, even our own God, shall give His blessing."

Evening Service.

Rev. W. H. White, who preached the sermon at the evening service, spoke of his pleasure at being present for the first time at a service in St. John's Church, Lakefield. He had often admired the beautiful little church, which was such an ornament to the village. Mr. White spoke on the words of our Lord to His church: "Fear not, little flock, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the Kingdom."

He spoke of the part of the church in the reconstruction of our country and that though some men thought the world had overshadowed the influence of the church and Godly things, that we, the "little flock" must exert ourselves to carry on the Saviour's work, which was left to His Apostles—a sacred trust.

Even in the days of the church's greatest prosperity, the band of workers — earnest, self-sacrificing workers, was a small one. In about a week's time, in a crisis in our country's history, the church will bear its part, for while the church has taken no radical stand and has not joined the extremists of either party, its influence will be felt.

Both services were well attended and the choir rendered Harvest music in an acceptable manner.

The anthem "Praise Ye the Lord" was rendered at both services, Mrs. FitzGerald taking the solo parts.

ONE MAN'S VIEW OF PROHIBITION

The following extract from a letter, written by a doctor well known to many of our citizens to a freind in Peterboro, is published, not because any part of it is endorsed by The Examiner, but rather as an example of the views that some people have of liberty.

"How are you on the referendum—wet or dry? I am for freedom and liberty. I stand where dear old England stood—on the side of freedom. It is better to put up with the abuse of a thing than to abolish the use. Prohibition is Prussianism. It is the forcing of your opinion on the other fellow. Regulation and rule govern his life and conduct. Germany said she was going to force her "Kultur" upon the rest of the world whether they wanted it or not. England, the champion of liberty, stood in the way. The prohibitionists say they are going to force their "Kultur" upon the rest of the people, whether they want it or not—no difference. The principle is the one and the same thing. Freedom and liberty is the right of a man to pursue his own life in his own way, for his own happiness, as long as he doesn't interfere with the rights and freedom of his neighbors. The right of a man to be able to buy spirituous liquors for his own use, under his own roof, beside his own fireside, where he does not interfere with his neighbor, surely should be an inalienable right that should not be taken away from him. Hurrah! the wine must undergo the foul and turbulent process of fermentation before the pure and generous spirit is produced."

The article on the Personal Liberty League, re-published from the London Advertiser, in yesterday's issue, is an admirable answer to the above.

R. R. HALL TELLS ELECTORS WHERE SOME OF THEIR HARD EARNED MONEY HAS BEEN SPENT BY HEARST GOV'T

IT COST THE PROVINCE $1,250,000 TO PROVIDE A HOME FOR THE LIEUT.-GOVERNOR IN WHICH TO ENTERTAIN "LADY PORK" AND OTHER WELL-KNOWN GUESTS.

Mr. G. A. Gillespie held a well attended meeting at Lakefield on Saturday evening, presided over by Mr. Harrison as chairman.

Mr. J. J. Duffus, ex-Mayor of Peterboro, said he had known Mr. Gillespie for many years and no matter whether it was as an opposition in business or as an associate in the Council, he always found him to be a capable business man upon whom you could safely trust.

Mr. Joseph Wearing said that in 1914, Mr. Gillespie supported a leader whose leading plank was "To abolish the bar," and at the same election Mr. R. J. Soden supported a leader, Sir James Whitney, whose leading plank was not to abolish the bar.

The temperance issue is as clear cut to-day as it was then. Sir William Hearts says that if the Ontario Temperance Act is defeated, he will restore the open bar. On the other hand, Mr. Dewart, the Liberal Leaders says, no matter whether the Ontario Temperance Act is carried or not the open bar will not be restored.

11th Hour Repentance.

Mr. Soden, with all his 11th hour repentance, is still supporting a leader who is holding out hope to the liquor men and the upholders of the open bar. That is the reason Mr. Gooderham, the distiller of whiskey, is running as a supporter of Hearst in Toronto, and Mr. Soden is running jus tas hard in West Peterborough.

Mr. Gillespie pointed out that the Minister of Agriculture took little interest in his department and still less in the farmers whose interests he was well paid to promote.

The Province has been paying for years large sums of money on the Agricultural College at Guelph. Young men have been educated at expense to the people, but the Province has not received a corresponding advantage, because these young men invariably leave the Province and get good positions on the other side of the line.

The service of these young men could be retained to great advantage to the farming community, by having them in charge of demonstration farms.

Their services would be valuable in laying our drainage systems both large and small. Drains would be laid out at the best places to reap the greatest advantage. It would be a great advantage to a farmer to have a field produce twice as much produce for the same labour.

These young men would have the advantage of being on the ground, observing the crops, growing and observing what kind of fertilizer should be used to bring the crop up to a higher standard. He could observe what properties the soil lacked and could advise what would be the best fertilizer to buy and thus avoid waste and increase production for the same labor.

These young men in the live stock branch could give most valuable advice. The most improved methods of housing and feeding stock could be shown. The best milkers could be early selected and the poor ones fattened and sold. The fat calf and the lean kind could be early determined before expense is incurred and money would not be wasted on raising a lean runt beyond a few weeks.

The most approved methods of the care of orchards, gardens and root and corn crops could be explained and demonstrated.

A practical college training could be brought to every farmer's door at little expense, but to the great advantage of the farmer and those who consume this products. Production would be nearly doubled and labor would not be wasted. These demonstration farms must be established if the Provincial Government is to do its share in reducing the high cost of living.

Mr. R. R. Hall.

Mr. R. R. Hall was the last speaker. He said that our Government, both Dominion and Provincial, are spending money like spendthrifts. A man who inherits a farm worth $6,000 may borrow money and spend it foolishly, but he soon lands on the edge of the road where he may "jibe and curse when he meets his claims with an empty purse." So with a nation. It too may waste its money, exhaust its credit and find paper money pronounced worthless in foreign markets.

"Let me give you a warning," said Mr. Hall. "Our Provincial debt is $75,000,000. Our Municipacl debt in Ontario amounts to hundreds of millions."

The assessed value of Ontario is equal to our national debt, that is Ontario sold by auction, would not pay our national debt.

Our Governments are borrowing and spending like prodigal sons without any thought of the husks that the prodigal must eat.

We should call a halt before it is too late. We should take warning and ask ourselves the question—Why is it that a promissory note, made by the Dominion Government in the U. S. is only worth 95 cents on the dollar, even though gold may be demanded in payment the next day?

It is because our Governments are spending the people's money recklessly and extravagantly, and we are short of gold on settling days.

Take the Lieutenant Governor's mansion as an illustration. It has cost no less than $1,250,000. The money was borrowed to build it. The interest on this sum is $62,500 per year. It costs $17,500 per year to keep it up. It takes 976 tons of coal to heat it. Women and children may suffer from cold, but this favored millionaire abode must be kept warm at the public expense.

The shed to keep his motor car from the sun and rain has cost the Province $14,637.00 to build.

The building of the fire places to keep warm his toes and his friends the Sir Grafters, the Sir Parasites and the Sir Profiteers has cost this Province $34,088.29.

To level the grounds around the mansion has cost $34,000 and to assist to level to the ground the flat-headed Government that has spent the people's money on this work will only require the voter's X for Gillespie.

But let us get inside of this mansion and take an inventory, for the people who are paying the bills, the great Sir William Hearst has paid out of your pocket to furnish it. Let us first enter the ball room and see what is really interesting to the women of this Province—to the women voters who look well to the ways of their households, and who eat not the bread of idleness.

There the women voters will see ball room curtains costing $448.00 and the furniture costing $3,597.00

The women's curiosity will lead them to see how their money is spent and who will enjoy the fruits of their honest toil.

In this mansion they will see Donegal rugs for the state room costing $1,429.00; Donegal rugs for the Drawing-room costing $1,380.00; rugs and tapestries costing $2,405.00; bedroom suite for one room costing $1,589.00; chairs costing $240.00 apiece; Elizabethan tables at $150.00 apiece and gorgeous adornments from Eastern lands.

In this gorgeous mansion will be found Lady Pork, Lady Money, Lady Cotton, Lady Railway, Lady Steele, Lady Commissioner and Lady Cleigh, Lady Silver and Lady Gold, each and all clothed in purple and fine linen and thoroughly enjoying the high cost of living.

But hark! Sir William Hearst appears and says: "You women voters have now seen our georgeous mansion, where some of your hard-earned money is lavishly spent. You have only one duty to do, to your Sirs and Ladies—vote for Hearst candidates and let the merry dance go on."

"We have fought," said Mr. Hall "for democracy, for the rights of the common people, for those who toil and work, but not for Sir William Hearst and his coterie, who toil not neither do they spin."

Our duty, out interest, and our self respect as liberty loving people, is to vote for Mr. G. A. Gillespie and assist in turning out of power the Hearst Government—the hot-bed of the weeds that grow rank in the shadow of the Lieutenant Governor's mansion.

This Mansion should be turned into a hospital for returned soldiers. It would then be a blessing instead of a curse.

FERRYMEN HAVE RETURNED TO WORK

NEW YORK HARBOUR STRIKE CAME TO A CLOSE LAST EVENING.

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The strike of the Long Shoremen and other harbor workers, which has paralyzed port activities here for several days and threatened a serious food shortage, was broken to-day when the ferry workers returned to work and fifteen thousand of the eighty thousand Long Shoremen resumed their labours. Union leaders predicted that by Friday all of the Long Shoremen would be at work. The ferry men at midnight unexpectedly decided to return immediately, accepting with reservation the government's compromise wage increase offer. Before dawn all of the ferries were plying the Hudson as usual.

STRAIGHT FIGHT IN ST. CATHARINES

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 15.—The singular situation has developed in this one-time Tory hive, of it being a straight fight between J. E. Masters, Liberal, and Frank Greenlaw, Independent Labor, with F. R. Parnell, Conservative, practically out of the race. That is the statement of Liberal managers to-day. At last night's Conservative meeting in the Grand Opera House, where Tory conclaves are always held, was the smallest on record, showing little interest in the fight on the part of Conservatives. Addresses were given by Brig.-Gen. Ross, Senator Blain and Brig.-Gen. King. The place was only half filled.

WOULD EXEMPT RETURNED SOLDIERS

G.W.V.A. DEPUTATION ASKS FOR RELIEF FROM POLL TAX.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, speaking for a deputation from the Great War Veterans' Association composed of Messrs. H. J. Saunton, S. Whatley, R. E. Layfield and W. S. Finlay, requested the Committee of the Whole Council last night to exempt from the poll tax the men who had served as soldiers overseas, and also to exempt the men's homes from all taxes except those for schools and local improvements. This proposal was referred to the Legal Committee, Mayor Duncan promising that it would receive sympathetic consideration.

Mr. Gordon pointed out that the Legislature had provided municipalities with the power to relieve returned men from the customary poll tax. This applies almost exclusively to unmarried men, many of whom, Mr. Gordon said, had not received pensions, but whose earning powers had been depreciated from the effects of their service at the front.

He believed that the people would regard this as a fair and generous act, and that the Council would commend for it. The taxes thus removed from the ex-soldiers could be diverted to the men who had not been overseas, and who would be quite willing to assume this means of assistance.

Mr. Layfield and Mr. Staunton added that there are thirty of the Veterans who had expressed their readiness to take advantage of the housing scheme which has been proposed for Peterboro.

THE AUTHORITY OF LAW

Repeal of Ontario Temperance Act Does Not Necessarily Mean a Return to the Old License System

THE Citizens' Liberty League contend that the unsatisfactory Ontario Temperance Act must be repealed and new legislation enacted. Further, they declare that the repeal of The Ontario Temperance Act does not necessarily mean the return of the Old License System.

The Referendum Committee contend differently.

To settle the matter once and for all, the Citizens' Liberty League herewith submits a signed statement by I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., of the law firm of Hellmuth, Cattanach & Meredith, Toronto, and by D.L. McCarthy, K.C., Toronto, son of the late Dalton McCarthy, and member of the legal firm of McCarthy & McCarthy, Toronto. Mr. Hellmuth and Mr. McCarthy are two of the outstanding King's Counsel of Ontario.

"Our opinion is asked as to whether a majority vote of 'YES' to question One of the Referendum, necessarily repeals the Ontario Temperance Act now in force and at the same time brings into effect the Liquor License Act which was in force prior to the passing of the Ontario Temperance Act, and our answer is unhesitatingly No.

"It is true that in case of such affirmative answer, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council can, by proclamation, bring into effect the prior Liquor License Act, but until this is done the present Ontario Temperance Act continues in force. It is not obligatory on the Lieutenant-Governor in Council to issue any such proclamation within any fixed or definite time, and there is no reason to suppose any action in this respect will be taken until after the meeting of the Legislature.

"Notwithstanding, therefore, an affirmative majority vote to question One of the Referendum, the prior Liquor License Act will not necessarily be in force when the Legislature meets, and the Legislature can, at the next session, pass such legislation as it deems proper in regard to the whole question. It can bring into effect any Act that the majority of the members of the Legislature approve of, irrespective of any laws in force up to that time.

"There is nothing in the Constitution as laid down by the British North America Act which prevents the Legislature from validly enacting a law which would be a compromise between the Liquor License Act and the present Ontario Temperance Act and any such Act being entirely within the competence of the Legislature would, when passed, supersede any prior laws."

WEDDING BELLS

LONSBERRY—SMITH.

A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. John's Church, Wednesday, Oct. 8th, when Miss Florie Smith of 195 Auburn street, was united in marriage to Mr. Arthur Hayward Lonsberry, also of this city. The groom was assisted by his brother and Miss Clara Lonsberry acted as bridesmaid. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The happy couple left the following day for a short honeymoon, after which they will reside in this city. They were the recipients of many beautiful and useful presents, including a reading lamp and mahogany table from the Dressing Department, Auburn Mills and a mohagany clock from the groom's fellow-workmen of the Picking Room, Auburn Mills.

SENSATION CREATED AT NEWMARKET RACES

Outsider Won the Event Handily.

(Canadian Press.)

NEWMARKET, England, Oct. 15.—The running of the Cesarovitch stakes here to-day, furnished a sensation when an outsider, Ivansoe, owned by J. White, against whom the odds were twenty to one, took the event. Golden Melody, owned by V. Stewart, was second and Bridgend, owned by W. Griggs, was third. Nineteen horses ran.

Probably there is no girl on earth who is able to look unconcerned the first time she wears her engagement ring in public.

May Lift Embargo

CANADIAN FARMER MAY FIND A LARGER MARKET FOR HIS WHEAT.

BILL INTRODUCED

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Oct. 16.—A despatch from Washington regarding the possible lifting of the embargo against American wheat and probable import duty being placed on Canadian wheat should the embargo if lifted, was the occasion of much discussion in grain circles here. The prices being paid in the north-western States are very tempting and the lifting of the embrago would generally look good to Canadian farmers. It is hardly likely, however, that with any large volume of Canadian wheat available for shipment to the United States that the present high premiums will be maintained. Further, if the import duty of 30c. a bushel is imposed, as provided for in the bill introduced in the House of Representatives by Congressman Young, of North Dakota, it would greatly reduce the possibility of profits from the extreme spread between No. 1 dark northern wheat at Winnipeg and Minneapolis wheat. Even with the import duty of 30c. a bushel this would leave the handsome profit over the amount at present being advanced to the Canadian farmer for his wheat. It must not be borne in mind, is the final value of his wheat. The whole question turns on how far American prices for hard spring wheat would drop if any volume of Canadian wheat was available.

ELECTION POSTERS ARE BEING DEFACED

THE SAME THING HAS HAPPENED IN PETERBORO WITH A LITTLE VARIATION.

TORONTO, Oct. 16.— Several reports of the defacing of election posters in various parts of the city have been received by the authorities within the past week. One case, that of a Liberal poster of the Referendum variety, illustrating the marking of the ballot with four "No's" on which a piece of paper had been placed over the "No" in the "no" column and similar "X's" substituted in the "yes" column. A case of even more deliberate defacement has been observed by many persons on Bay street. Three Conservative posters portraying Premier Borden handing the referendum ballot to a soldier, are posted, one above the other, and in each of the three, the face of the Premier has been deliberately blotted out by a smear of black paint. None of the display advertising of the Liberty League appears to have suffered as yet. There is no special penalty for the defacing of election posters, but if the culprits are apprehended, action may be taken against them on a charge of doing malicious damage to property.

MR. GILLESPIE REPLIES TO MR. SODEN'S INSINUATIONS

ADDRESSED THE LARGEST CROWD OF THE CAMPAIGN IN THE COUNTRY AT BRIDGENORTH LAST NIGHT—FARMERS PRACTICALLY SET THE LOCAL PRICE OF MILK AT CONFERENCES WITH MR. GILLESPIE.

MILK CHEAPER HERE THAN IN MOST CITIES

Replying to Mr. R. J. Soden's speech at Bridgenorth, in which he cast certain insinuations upon the business dealings of the Peterboro Milk Products Limited, Mr. G. A. Gillespie, speaking from the same platform last night, stated that he was reluctant to discuss personal matters in an election that involved such important issues as those before the people of Ontario at the present time.

"Mr. Soden intimated that I was in some way responsible for the high cost of living. When he spoke here he produced two cans of condensed milk which he said contained the same material, put up by the same company, and different only in brands. That much was true. We sold a shipment to the Armour Company, but Mr. Soden did not tell you that we sold that milk in 1918 at a time when the cost of milk and sugar, the cost of labor and delivery and of other conditions entering into the manufacture were lower than they are to-day. We sold half a dozen cases to the Armour Company for $3.75 a case. Mr. Soden said that was 25 cents lower than we have been charging in Peterboro. We have never sold our condensed milk for more than $3.75 this year, and we have never sold one case to a grocer in Peterboro, to the best of my knowledge. Where Mr. Soden obtained our can is more than I can tell, but he has certainly tried to mislead the electors here without trying to obtain the facts."

MILK CHEAPER HERE THAN IN MOST CITIES.

"He also said that there was a spread of 100 per cent. in the cost of milk between the producer and its delivery in Peterboro," Mr. Gillespie continued. "I felt that the people here know something of the cost of delivery and what it takes to handle milk, but I also felt that some of the consumers of the city might not understand the conditions and might be ready to think that there was some undue spread in the price. You understand that out of that spread we have to pay for the clarifying, pasteurizing, bottling and delivery of the milk, and I can say that we sold milk in Peterboro during the last two years at a cheaper price than in many, in fact in nearly all, of the cities of Ontario. I am not taking credit to myself for that. It is due to the farmers that the local price was less than in so many other communities during these years.

FARMERS PRACTICALLY FIX PRICES.

"The farmers practically set our prices. We take them into our confidence, discuss with them the price that is ultimately agreed upon and in that way the price at which the milk is bought and sold is practically fixed by the farmers. I need not mention the selling price to the consumer by other vendors than ourselves, those in competition with us who sell, in many cases, from the can, without the expense of bottling, clarifying, pasteurizing and all our care to provide the most sanitary milk we can for the consumers of Peterboro. Every milk dealer in Peterboro has legitimate costs for distribution. If there is any criticism to make it might be said that we sold milk during the past two years cheaper than we should have sold it.

NO DIVIDENDS DURING THE WAR.

"I don't want to refer to my opponents other than as gentlemen worthy of support. Mr. Soden can give the Hearst Government all the credit he likes, but I think my private business is beneath the thought of the electors at this time. I don't think Mr. Soden had any business coming here and misrepresenting me as a profiteer. I am not concerned about his business; that is his own affair. The facts in this matter could have been easily obtained.

"I am thankful for the support you have given me in the past, irrespective of politics. If I am again elected I will endeavor to carry out the duties entrusted to me to the best of my ability. To the ladies, who will have the first opportunity of voting in a provincial election I want to express my appreciation of their presence in such large numbers to-night. I thank you for your co-operation in the past, and I solicit your support again."

"GOD WON'T LET MY BABIES DIE" DECLARES GRIEF STRICKEN FATHER

MOTHER HAS BEEN ADJUDGED INSANE AND WILL BE REMOVED TO AN ASYLUM—DOCTORS HOLD OUT NO HOPE.

MICHIGAN TRAGEDY

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 16.—Five-year old Edna Luickhardt, her crisis over, will recover, and her sister, Shirley, is fighting for her life, with an even chance for recovery from the subtle poison that the mothers of the two baby girls administered to them more than a week ago, when she came to feel that her children barred her path to a stage career. Dr. Thomas H. Carter held out this hope to-day at Columbus Hospital, where the children are under treatment.

Edna called constantly this morning for her "mamma," Mrs. Roy Luikhart, who is in a cell in Detroit. The grief stricken father, leaving the bedside of the little patients for the first time in hours, telephoned Mrs. Luickhart a promise to aid her in her trouble, but did not reveal the condition of the sufferers. Believing that she was not in her right mind, Luickhart has forgiven his wife for her act, and stoutly maintains hope for the recovery of the children.

"God won't let my babies die," he said to-day.

Shirley's condition was not satisfactory, but affords grounds for hope. If able to prevent a hemorrhage within the next twenty-four hours she will have an even chance, said Dr. Carter.

In a hospital room heaped with flowers and toys the father, a nurse and the physician watched over the little patients.

Shirley was listless when not delirious and was too weak to stroke the fuzzy animals and the doll beside her. A wan smile was her only response to caresses and endearments.

Dr. Carter shook his head. "It's the way they go," he said, out of his experience with a hundred cases of mercuric poisoning. "Death comes gradually. The occasionary flaring up of life is just another sign of the poison's work. Only a miracle can save the little girls. It's only a question of hours—days at most.

Both Luickart and Dr. Carter wanted Mrs. Luickhart brought to Chicago, in the belief that her presence might help the babies, for they do not know it was the "medicine" she gave them that took them to the brink of death.

MOTHER TO BE SENT TO INSANE HOSPITAL

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 16.—While her babies foubht death in a Chicago hospital from the effects of poison she gave them, Mrs. Hazel Luickhart is preparing for her trip to the State Hospital for the Insane at Ionia. She has been adjudged mentally ill by a commission at Pontiac.

She will not be permitted to see Shirley and Edna, to whom she gave heavy doses of bichloride of mercury more than a week ago. She often asks to see them. She was told of Dr. Carter's verdict that neither can recover. She believes they will live.

The woman has repented of her deed as far as her disordered brain will permit. At times she fitfully paces the room in which she is detained and is despondent, at others she is happy in the thought of her girl's recovery.

"All I ask if that I may be permitted to work for them—that is all," she pleads. "But I suppose they will not love their mother now."

LIBERAL LABOUR POLICY AS COMPARED WITH THE I.L.P.'S

SOUND, REASONABLE AND PROGRESSIVE PLATFORM HAS THE LIBERAL PARTY'S ENDORSATION—HAS BEEN CAREFULLY THOUGHT OUT TO MEET THE VAST CHANGES IN THE INDUSTRIAL SITUATION GROWING OUT OF THE WAR.

ONTARIO MAY FEEL PROUD OF IT

A comparison of the platforms of the Liberal and Independent Labour parties outlines two policies, both of which should strongly appeal to all workers, men and women. Those who are dissatisfied with the Hearst Government's neglect of Ontario's problems and of the welfare of Ontario's workers are demanding and looking for a change in this election. Men and women, too, who believe in principles as the soundest medium of political progress, have no reason to depart from their old allegiance at this time when forward movements should be tempered by a saving caution.

It must be remembered that the war has completely upturned the industrial conditions in practically every country in the world. The Hearst Government in these latter years has blinded its eyes to the new light. It has had no chance, but the old rank and file of the Liberal party have every reason for standing stoutly for their old principles and beliefs with that the present situation should call forth.

The ... staunch support on problems pertaining to Labour deserves the ... has pledged itself ... Liberals, but of all working men. The party same sincerity ... programme of industrial and social reform in the carry out the ... which it promises the electorate of this Province to ... for advanced temperance legislation.

Reviewing the ... terms of the two democratic parties in their proposed Labour ... the main planks may be set out as follows:

INDEPENDENT LABOUR PARTY

The eight-hour ...

National health and ... unemployment insurance.

Pensions for ... dependent children.

Equal pay for equal work.

That adequate equal pensions be granted to all disabled soldiers, either officers or men, or their widows and dependents.

Old-age pensions.

LIBERAL PARTY.

A law fixing the eight-hour day for all industrial occupations throughout the Province, as applied to both men and women.

Insurance against sickness and unemployment based on the principles of English law.

Mothers' pensions, to be administered by the Department of Labour, with power to provide medical attendance and necessaries whenever required for the proper birth and upbringing of children.

A general minimum wage for both men and women to apply generally to all industry throughout the Province.

The appointment of a permanent commission to inquire continuously into the cost of living in various localities and from time to time, with power to increase the minimum wage to such a rate as will, under all conditions, provide a respectable living to all wage earners.

Better inspection of factories and other industries where men or women are employed, particularly with a view to the protection of women, and a more rigid enforcement of child labour regulations.

A law prohibiting employers from compelling their employees to enter into agreements not to enter into labour unions, and a recognition of the principle of collective bargaining.

Abolition of imprisonment for debt; the increase of the exemption of married men's wages from attachment from $25.00 to $40.00; the revision of the list of articles exempt from seizure for debt, so as to leave the actual necessities of home life.

Equal pension for equal disability, minimum pension being $10.00 a month. Insurance for enfeebled. Pensions for wounded and for dependents of soldiers and sailors.

MERCHANTS' BANK OPENED TO-DAY

The temporary office of the Merchant's Bank of Canada, on Simcoe street, was opened for business today. It is very difficult for the banks to secure fixtures and this bank has been obliged to make use of a few counters as office equipment, meanwhile, rumor has it that the Merchant's Bank have secured a stand on a permanent site and will be removing there before spring.

BUSINESS CHANGE

The boot and shoe business which has been carried on for some time at No. 880 George street, under the name of Walk-Easy Shoe Shop, is about to change hands. The successor is Mr. H. B. White, a practical shoe man from the City of Boston, who will take over the business and lease of premises after a sufficient reduction has been made in the present stock to permit of the addition of a new range of the finer grades of footwear for ladies and gentlemen, including the most fashionable styles that are in the pinnacle of favour at the present time. To obtain the necessary room, the Walk-Easy stock must be reduced to about $10,000 at once. For this purpose a sensational stock reduction sale will be inaugurated to-morrow, when nothing will be reserved, and everything cut in price to encourage a speedy break down of the stock to the desired limit. The footwear required for winter is offered at prices so much below the regular as will likely cause a rush during this sale. See large advertisement elsewhere.

It is not pleasant to have to part with any of our successful business men, and the removal of Mr. Friedman of the Walk-Easy Store will be regretted by many. His successor, Mr. White, will be a welcome addition to the merchantile community.

BATTLE IS EXTENDING IN THE RIGA DISTRICT

OPPOSITION KEPT DEPARTMENT ALIVE

THE INADEQUACIES OF THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE—MR. GILLESPIE IN SMITH TOWNSHIP.

A large and enthusiastic audience including many ladies greeted Mr. G. A. Gillespie last night at the Hall on the 4th line of Smith Township. The chairman, Mr. T. H. Graham extolled the merits of the candidate and stated that he was known to everyone in Smith as a man of the highest reputation and ability. Mr. Gillespie briefly outlined the needs of the people at the present time and dealt with the problems the next legislature would be called upon to solve. He showed how utterly incompetent the Conservative Government had been in the Department of Agriculture and pointed out that it was only through the efforts of the Opposition that the Department was kept alive. He promised if elected again to support all good measures, no matter from which side of the House they were introduced.

Mr. Joseph Wearing.

The next speaker Mr. Joseph Wearing delighted the audience with a description of the Government known as "The Seven Sleepers". "I am like Anthony at the grave of Caesar", he said," I have come not to praise the Government but to help to bury it, the last rites of which will be performed next Monday. Mr. Wearing pointed out the seriousness of the times and the need of putting in a Government fully alive to the needs of the people and capable of solving the problems of the hour. "The Liberal platform," he said, " is broad enough for Liberals, Labour and United Farmers", and he predicted that Mr. Gillespie would receive a solid vote from the rural sections of the constituency and a majority of the working glen of the city.

"The name Gooderham smells to me like whiskey," said Mr. F. D. Kerr, the last speaker and he pointed out that the liquor forces had concentrated by getting behind Mr. Gooderham, who had changed his seat to oppose Mr. Hartley Dewart Mr. Kerr made a masterly presentation of the temperance situation showing that the Conservatives were absolutely divided on the issue while the Liberals were as one man for the cause of temperance. The speaker made a hit when he referred to the last election and described how he had seen men pouring from the different barrooms of the city to vote for Mr. Soden, who was against the abolition of the bar and who now held himself up as a temperance man.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem and three cheers for Mr. Gillespie.

GERMAN TROOPS HAVE WIDENED THEIR FIGHTING ZONE—ESTHONIAN FORCES HAVE GONE TO AID OF THE LETTS.

SEIZED LAND

MITAU, Russia, Oct. 16.— As the battle in the Riga district continues with intense fighting, the battle line is extending.

Col. Bermondt's German troops widened their fighting zone when they captured Uatk, Dvinsk and Bolders, according to advices received here.

Lettish troops are holding their positions on the other side of the Dwina river, north of Riga, which they succeeded in crossing after persistent fighting. The Germans are not answering the cannonading, although the Letts continued a heavy bombardment of the German positions. The Germans repulsed a Lettish attack with armoured cars.

Esthonian forces have gone to the aid of the Letts and are reported to be concentrating at Friederichstadt, 46 miles south east of Riga. Their aarival endangers the German flank from the east.

Gen. Von Der Goltz is reported to have left the Baltic region for Konigsberg, in East Prussia.

(United Press.)

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—Only one-third of the Germans in the Baltic district are obeying the evacuation order, according to the "Zeitung Am Mittag." The rest of them are being transferred to the Russian army.

Reports from Reval, capital of Esthonia, says that the peasants, who are former soldiers, in that district have seized 200,000 acres of uncultivated land and have begun the cultivation of the land. The owners offered no resistance.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Forced back by enemies on fourfronts, the armies of the Soviet government of Russia appear to be facing a period pregnant with disaster. Armies of Russian Cossacks from the south, Polish forces from the west, Northwestern Russian Legions on the north-west and Northern Russian troops from the north, have, during the last few days, forged ahead until it seems the Bolshevik armies are between the upper and nether millstones. Petrograd is doomed to capture, in the opinion of observers, General Yudenitch being at Gatchina, only 28 miles south of the former Russian capital. Production is on the increase, they declared, and the situation, so far as companies are concerned, is assuming a brighter aspect each day.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. HARRY FLINDERS BADLY INJURED

FELL INTO EXCAVATION ON HUNTER STREET BRIDGE.

Mr. Harry Flinders, 280 George street, was severely injured yesterday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock while working on the construction of the Hunter street bridge. He was standing on top of the derrick which is bringing earth to the surface for an abutment on the west side of the river. His duty is to signal the engineer when the scoop has been filled and it was while he was doing this that he slipped and fell into the excavation, severely injuring his ribs on the concrete wall in the excavation. Mr. Charles Townsend, who is in charge of the work, rushed Mr. Flinders to St. Joseph's hospital, where it was ascertained that no ribs were broken. Dr. J. V. Gallivan is attending him. He was reported to-day as resting easily.

DR. GEORGE ADAM AT MURRAY STREET

The people who attended Murray street church last night heard a sermon from Dr. George Adam that they can never forget. As one said when the congregation was passing from the auditorium, "That is oratory without noise." The text was taken from the words of Apostle John, "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you" and certainly the hearers were convinced that this earth has no gift comparable to that of "the friendship of Jesus." Without any suggestion of bitterness or any word that would call for criticism, the fact was laid bare beyond all dispute, that church membership and loud professions and superficial deeds would never secure this great friendship while there is present the grasping selfishness that robs men of the value of their labours and families of the right to live respectably and comfortably in the world that belongs to God and not to man. "Ye are my friends if"—if! if! quoted the great preacher with most telling effect. That "if" separates us not only from our Saviour and from each other, but from anything like abiding peace.

The theological positions of the Roman church, the Anglican church and the Free churches were all delineated with the quiet and scholarly precision of a master; then the doctor turned to say, "None of them are complete; John had it right when he said, "In Him was life and the life was the light of men." At times the people were brought to the point of tears, and again a compelling passage would kindle indignation against the injustices which exist in this world under the cover of the name "Christian."

Peterborough will be the better for the visit of Dr. Adam and those who heard him can never be quite the same after it.

Such a sermon and such service rendered by both the lecture and sermon, coming from a man who never profits a dollar by such work, but deprives himself of home comforts, and rest which many enjoy because of his passion to feed, clothe and educate the orphans that he has voluntarily taken under his care, gives him a hearing and enduring influence where others would be listened to with scant patience. Dr. Adam is himself a man of means, and has no need so far as he and his family are concerned, to ever spend an hour in work for money, but regarding his possessions as well as his talents as the Lord's goods "lent him for a season," he uses all for the helping of the weak and needy among the children of men

It is generally safe to judge a man's brain by the action of his tongue.

WOMEN VOTERS' LEAGUE.

The executive of the Women Voters' League endeavored to secure Mrs. Ralph Smith, member of Parliament for Vancouver, B.C., to address an open meeting this month. Mrs. Smith, however, was obliged to curtail her time in the east, so it has been impossible to secure this interesting speaker. There will, therefore, be no meeting this month.

Early in November the attention of the League will be turned to municipal affairs.

"S. T. S."

The Men's Bible Class, "S.T.S." of All Saints' church, will hold a Fellowship Banquet at the Parish Hall Thursday evening, Oct. 16th, 7 o'clock sharp. All members and intending members are cordially invited to be present.

The speaker of the evening will be Dr. Fredericks. A splendid musical programme will also be offered.

Come for an enjoyable evening and get acquainted with the "bunch."

To the Electors of East Peterborough

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Having received the unanimous nomination of the United Farmers of Ontario, of East Peterborough, and believing I can serve the Electors of this Riding in a manner satisfactory to them, I solicit your Vote and kindly interest in my behalf.

I am a practical Farmer, and as East Peterborough is a typical Farmers' Constituency, I believe a resident Farmer would be more of service to the Riding than a representative whose material interests are elsewhere.

Thanking you in advance for any favours you may do for me, I beg to remain,

Your obedient Servant,

R. N. McDONALD.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

THURSDAY, OCT. 16TH, 1919.

THE MAIN POINT.

No voter should lose sight of the all-important fact that a "Yes" vote on the first question of the Referendum means a vote for the wide-open bar and shop just as they were prior to 1916 and that if the majority of the voters answer "Yes" to the first question, the other three questions on the Referendum ballot will not be considered at all.

A WINNING SLOGAN.

Gillespie for West Peterboro.
West Peterboro for Gillespie.
A slogan that will be endorsed on Monday.

NOT AN EXPERIMENT.

Sending G. A. Gillespie to Queen's Park is not an experiment. He has performed five years faithful service there on behalf of West Peterboro and his record entitles him to re-election.

A GOOD DAY'S WORK.

By voting NO — NO — NO — NO on the referendum ballot and placing a cross opposite the name of Mr. G. A. Gillespie, the prohibitionist, all West Peterboro can rest confident that they have done everything in their power to advance the cause of temperance.

NOT LIKELY.

"We are investigating the whole matter thoroughly" announced Chairman Flavelle of the License Commission, in referring to the vishnick scandal in Toronto. But, if Mr. Dewart had not exposed the episode, is there anyone credulous enough to belive that the License Commission would have done any probing in this regard?

LOOK SOUT OF PLACE.

To those who were accustomed to see the name of Gooderham displayed on bottles of whiskey and who associate it with the once famous "G. and W" brand, a self-termed temperance party that includes George H. Gooderham as one o fits most prominent candidates, must have a peculiar look. However, political expediency is responsible for many paradoxes.

THE PRICE OF MILK.

If Mr. Soden's attempt to persuade the farmers that they are selling their milk too cheaply results in higher prices for the consumer, the people of West Peterboro will know where to lay the blame. The Hearst candidate can do less harm to his fellow citizens by discussing public issues. And he would be held in higher esteem.

SOMETHING WRONG HERE.

"Labor has always backed Sir Adam Beck in his fight for public ownership. It is now with him in his fight for radial railways," declares an election sheet issued on behalf of the Independent Labor party's candidates. The article, however, fails to explain why the Hydro Independent candidate is being opposed by a Labor representative in London.

HELPING THE SOLDIERS?

The Government's promises to the returned soldiers are too general in their nature to include any reference in the Hearst press to the Government's soldier settlement in New Ontario. Even the local organ of the Hearst party has kept discreetly silent concerning this specimen of Hearst mismanagement, which has cost the Province nearly $500,000 and has not yet succeeded in establishing a hundred soldiers on the land. The returned men are judging the Government, not on its promises but on its records, and those who have investigated the land settlement scheme have their own opinion of that record.

NOT THE TIME FOR A PLUNGE.

Sir Thomas White's disturbing summary of the condition of Canada's finances was a poor introduction to the Government's proposal to purchase the Grand Trunk Railway. If the ex-Finance Minister's figures are accurate, and there is no reason to doubt their correctness, the present is no time for a further plunge into the railway business.

WOMEN CAN VOTE.

There seems to be an impression among many women, despite the frequent references to the matter in newspapers, that while women have the privilege of voting on the referendum they have not a vote in the Provincial election. The women of Peterboro should understand that they are entitled to vote for a candidate in the election as well as to express their views on the prohibition question. They cannot do better than vote for Mr. Gillespie.

WHAT ABOUT LABOUR?

The Labour interests and the United Farmers have joined forces in a number of ridings. The alliance is a strange development of an unusual political situation, and the majority of the electors fail to see where they can find a common platform. And when the official organ of the farmers, the Farmer's Sun, declares that the election of a large U.F.O. delegation will mean that "agriculture, instead of being the last interest to receive consideration in legislation, will be the first," a good many Labour men will ask themselves where that result will leave organized Labour.

FOUR TIMES "NO."

Peterboro's answer to the four questions on the referendum ballot on Monday should be a quadruple "No." No other verdict would be in the best interests of the city or of the Province. Peterboro can continue to do without the open bar, the Government beer shop, the beer saloon and the Government whiskey store. None of the four would be an asset to the community—none of them would bring happiness to a single home in the city; none of them are wanted by the women and children; none of them are asked for except by those who, to satisfy their own thirst, are willing to bring back something that was never anything but a curse. A cross in the "No" column, opposite each of the four questions is a vote for the continued banishment of the evils of the liquor traffic. There should be no uncertainty in the reply of Peterboro. Make it a straight "Four No" vote and you will have accomplished more for the Province of Ontario and more for your city and district than by any half dozen ballots you have deposited in the ballot box in previous campaigns.

MR. GILLESPIE'S STAND.

Mr. Gillespie is not asking for the support of the Temperance people of West Peterboro on promises, but on his record as a temperance man. He was elected on the abolish-the-bar platform in 1914. He supported every temperance measure that was introduced into the House including the Ontario Temperance Act, and is also pledged to assist, whatever Government may be in power after election of Monday to put into effect the will of the people in regard to the issue. Make sure of his return to Queen's Park.

MIGHT HAVE PROVED IT.

Mr. F. D. Kerr uncovered one of the most glaring weaknesses in the Hearst attempt to picture the Government as a temperance Government, in his address at Selwyn the other night.

"If the Hearst Government wished to show conclusively that they were a prohibition Government, Sir William Hearst could have easily called a convention of the party and could have obtained thereby the party's pledge to give this Province the most advanced temperance legislation," declared Mr. Kerr.

Everyone knows that Sir William, although urged by many of his followers to call a convention preparatory to the launching of an election campaign, refused to do so. The Government supporters were given no opportunity to stat their views on the temperance issue or on any other matter.

BUT THE WOMEN KNOW

The Government's attempt to secure the support of the women voters by the plea that the Hearst Administration gave them the franchise is one of the most entertaining features of the campaign. The Hearst speakers and the Hearst press solemnly claim credit for the concession which the government grudingly made after being forced by the pressure of public opinion to take action. The women of Ontario have not forgotten the number of times their deputations were flatly turned down by the government. They will not fail to remember, too, that Sir William Hearst made the unequivocal statement that he doubted that public opinion was behind the agitation for the extension of the franchise to women, and that no such legislation would be introduced during the war. But a few months afterwards Sir William was forced to change his position on the matter and the women came into their rights. And now the Government tries to gain the profit of the women's vote on the strength of having finally yielded to a demand that had been made year after year.

GOD SAVE THE KING.

THE U. F. O.'S POLICY.

The leaders of the United Farmers of Ontario have hitherto sonsistently denied the charge that their organization was a selfish class movement, and have maintained that their entrance into th. political arena was to establish a government founded on the principle of fair play to every citizen.

But the official organ of the party rather gives the game away in its current issue when it declares that the election of a large number of U. F. O. candidates will mean that agriculture will be the first interest to receive consideration in legislation. The farmers first—the rest of the province a secondary consideration—that is what the U. F. O. movement means, according to the confession of its own mouthpiece.

PUTTING IT BACK IN THE BUSINESS.

The canny investor who is asked to buy Victory Loan 1919 will perhaps want to know what was done with the proceeds of the 1918 Loan completed shortly after the armistice. As was inevitable, and as was promised in the appeals then made to the public, the major portion of it—three fifths in fact—went to the soldiers for no war really ends for any country so soon as fighting ceases. But—and this is a big But—one third of the $207,750,000 was advanced to Great Britain and our Allies for the purchase of Canadian wheat and other foodstuffs. That is to say that is was expended for the promotion of Canada's basic industry, agriculture.

Every farmer who bought a Victory bond, not only secured to himself a handsome return on the whole investment but put one third of it back into his own business. The debt of Great Britain and Allied countries stands to the credit side of Canada's account and will help to reduce her bond indebtedness to her own people in future. Just now it is necessary that the Canadian people as a whole should continue the credit system to Great Britain and the 1919 Loan will help to provide the working capital to make the continuation of this system possible. The farmer who buys Victory bonds puts money into his own industry.

THE MILK QUESTION.

The reply of Mr. G. A. Gillespie to Mr. Soden's introduction of the milk question in the present campaign should effectually dispose of the matter. Mr. Soden in his Bridgenorth speech, claimed that condensed milk, prepared by Mr. Gillespie's company for Armour and Company of Hamilton, was sold by that company at 25c a case lower than the price charged by the Peterboro Milk Products Limited to local grocers. The milk that Mr. Soden talks of as being sold to Armour and Company was sold, Mr. Gillespie explains, in 1918 "when milk and all that entered the making of condensed milk was cheaper than it is to-day." And to completely knock the bottom out of Mr. Soden's insinuation, Mr. Gillespie declares that his company has not sold a case of condensed milk to a grocer in Peterboro this year.

Then Mr. Soden tried to convey the impression that Mr. Gillespie's company was realizing almost 100 per cent on the prices paid the milk producer. Two interests are involved in that statement—the farmers who produce the milk and the consumer who buys it from the company. As to the first Mr. Gillespie has always consulted the farmers as to the price at which they can produce milk at a fair profit to themselves. That they have no complaint to make is evident from the fact that they continue to supply the Peterboro Milk Products Limited with all the milk that is required.

How about the consumer? The fact is that after paying the producer for his milk, and paying the cost of hauling it to the creamery, clarifying, pasteurizing and bottling, the milk and delivering it to the consumer, Mr. Gillespie's company has supplied the people of Peterboro with safe, pasteurised milk at a lower rate than in other cities of the Province—12 cents a quart in Peterboro, 16 cents a quart in Toronto. This satisfactory condition of affairs has been brought about by Mr. Gillespie's knowledge of the dairy industry and the business-like methods that he has used, which have resulted in keeping the price to the consumer down as low as possible.

TRIMMING HIS SAILS.

There is one and only one sure way to make Ontario certain of prohibition and that is to elect only Prohibitionists. It must be borne in mind that though Premier Hearst says he is going to vote "No" four times, he also says if the first question of the Referendum gets a "Yes" majority he will restore the bars as they were before the war. He appeals, therefore, in an indirect way for the votes of all who want the wide-open whiskey, beer, brandy, rum—brands of all kinds sold over the bar. He says, in effect, if you can get a "Yes" majority to No. 1, you will get the whole show, the genuine "Come-on-boys-Name-Your-pizen" bar of olden days.—The Farmers' Sun.

ITALY HAS WOMAN LAWYER.

First of Her Sex to Plead in Court Then Saves Soldier.

ANCONA, Italy. — For the first time in the history of Italy, a woman lawyer has pleaded before a court. She is Signora Elisa Orsi Comani and she defended before a military tribunal Corporal Giuseppe Francinella, accused of cowardice during the war.

The Crown Prosecutor asked for conviction and a sentence of twenty years in prison; after a splendid defence by Signora Comani the court acquitted her client. The decision was cheered by those in the court room.

Farm and Country Life in Canada

FARMING is a basic industry in Canada. From the first days of its publication, The Globe has always strongly advocated the development of scientific agriculture.

When the breeding of pure-bred stock in Canada was first deemed necessary, The Globe, by example and precept, showed what could be done.

The late George Brown was a leader in experiment. At Bow Park Farm, near Brantford, he bred from imported cattle so as to place pure-bred stock at the disposal of his neighbors.

From those days to the present, the furthering of the interests of the Farm and Country Life of Canada has been an important feature of The Globe.

The Weekly Farm Department has always been a source of inspiration to the farmers to improve their knowledge of agriculture.

The Globe believes that one of the best ways of teaching a man is to show him what his neighbor is doing. This is the policy The Globe adopts in its Farm Department. Two members of The Globe staff devote their whole time to the collection of material for this Department and in so doing spend several days each week in the country. They visit good farms all over Ontario and attend Fairs and Conventions. They report all developments in rural life as reflected in these gatherings as well as in the personal experience of successful farmers. Through its "Farm and Country Life" Section, The Globe has identified itself with every movement calculated to improve the conditions under which farmers and their families do their daily work.

This is the service thousands of Farmers in Ontario and elsewhere receive and appreciate, and one of the reasons why many thousands of them read The Globe.

But that is not all. Keen competition, and the continued fluctuation of prices make it necessary for the farmer and his family to keep in touch with current produce and other commodity prices even from day to day.

The Globe has a well-merited reputation for accuracy, because in nothing is it more dependable than in its market reports. All prices quoted in The Globe are verified by the highest authorities SIX TIMES EVERY WEEK.

But besides all this, The Globe is a Great Family Newspaper. It is as much a necessity and convenience in the Farm Home as anywhere else. The coming of the daily paper to the Farm Home ranks in importance with the rural mail delivery, the telephone, electricity, and the good road.

It broadens the outlook of those who live on the farm. It keeps them informed on current events the world over. Not only does The Globe do this, but it serves the agriculturists of Canada in a peculiar and appropriate way.

The service The Globe has already rendered three generations of Farm Life is a guarantee of what it will do in the days to come.

This is why The Globe should have a place in every Farm Home in Ontario.

NEIL ACCUSES BARBARA OF TAKING THE LETTER

CHAPTER XCII.

At ten, aunt excused herself and retired. I sat in the library, pretending to read until half past twelve, when then I too went to my room. It might be three or four o'clock before Neil would be home. I was tired, and in spite of my anxiety I soon fell asleep, and did not awaken when Neil came in.

He was up even earlier than usual. I could see that he was not entirely at ease, altho he did his best to disguise the fact. In view of what Frederick had said, and the letter Mrs. Orton had written, I imagined it had something to do with the business of the preceeding night; that Neil had not gone to his satisfaction.

The postman came while we were at breakfast and immediately he left Neil commenced to speak about the delivery of city letters. I trembled with apprehension. Was he going to tell of the letter which he should have had the day before? But he said nothing, save in a general way, and once more I breathed freely. After he left for the office I wandered about the house, too nervous to set myself at anything. All I could think of was the attitude Neil would take when he found no letter from Mrs. Orton was at the office. It was too much to hope that no one had noticed it. It had been too prominently displayed on his desk.

Lorraine Norton came over about ten, and never was I more delighted to see her. She was full of news, and we gossiped until luncheon, which I had persuaded her to stay with us. She and aunt got along harmously together, and made it quite unnecessary for me to exert myself.

"Shall I tell Neil the truth, that I took that letter, or shall I deny all knowledge of it?" This question was in my mind all day. I hated to tell an untruth, especially to Neil. He might never trust me again should he discover it. That blonde girl at the office—had she noticed the letter particularly? If so she would be sure to tell him; sure to put the blame of its loss upon me. Someway I knew that girl did not like me; she did not even respect me because of my actions at the office when Neil was West. Intuitively I felt she would be glad to humiliate me.

"I will tell the truth if he asks me," I said aloud. I was alone in the library. Lorraine had gone, and aunt was dressing for dinner. I had dressed early and hurried down. If Neil came in I preferred to see him alone, always supposing he had missed the letter.

It was only a little after five when I heard his key in the door. I picked up a magazine and tried to act indifferent. Little Robert was sitting on the floor with a picture book.

"Send him away," Neil said sternly. "I wish to talk to you."

I called the nurse and gave Robert to her. Then as innocently as I could I asked:

"What is it, Neil? Anything happened?"

"Yes, something has happened. Why did you take a letter from my desk yesterday?" I was not to have the chance of denying it. He knew I had.

"Because I recognized the writing," I spoke in a low voice which I vainly tried to keep steady.

"That is no reason. What did you do with the letter?"

"Here it is." I had kept it about me, not quite daring to destroy it. Neil took the letter from me, looked at it, then said in a rage:

"So you opened and read it, did you? You pretend to be so punctilious about what I do, and you stoop to do a thing a servant would not do! I am glad I have found out the sort of a wife I have. Talking to me about what I should not do, what is honorable or dishonorable, and you doing something that the lowest kind of a crook looks down upon. Opening and reading a letter not intended for you. No—don't speak! but from this time I absolutely forbid you my office. I have told the bookkeeper and stenographer that you are never to go inside of my private office again. And"—

"You told them that?" scarcely believing.

"I certainly did and emphasized the fact. Another thing! don't you ever dare find fault with anything I choose to do. I never want to hear you preach to me about business methods, or anything else," as he finished he turned and before I could answer went on up to his room.

I had made him despise me, and had learned nothing. It would be a lesson to me. Little did I know what anguish my foolish act was to cause me.

You Can't Brush Or Wash Out Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this to-night and by morning, much if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completey dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky, and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

STEEL STRIKE ARBITRATION.

Organised Labour Is Putting Up Big Fight.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15. — Demands that organised labour's proposal for arbitration of the steel strike be made an immediate issue in the National Industrial Conference, was made to-day by the capital group through Chairman Harry A. Wheeler.

Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the public group, has proposed that action on the steel resolution be postponed until Thursday.

INFLAMED GUMS— A CAUSE OF LOOSE TEETH

Pyorrhea is undoubtedly a vital danger to both gums and teeth. Tender gums indicate it, and with it come loosening teeth. Imperceptibly, at first, the gums recede from the normal gum line. They inflame. They present many tiny openings for millions of bacteria to attack the unprotected tooth base. Tooth-base decay quickly follows. Even if the cavity be filled and the tooth saved, the gums continue to recede. Remember, too, that inflamed and bleeding gums act as so many doorways for disease germs to enter the system—infecting joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments.

Against this Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease) ordinary tooth-pastes are powerless. Yet Pyorrhea attacks four out of five people who are over forty, and many under this age. But Forhan's—if used in time and used consistently—positively prevents Pyorrhea. It is a scientific tooth cleanser as well. Brush your teeth with it. See how promptly bleeding or gum tenderness ceases and how your teeth are kept white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

LAKEFIELD NEWS

Carters in Lakefield may organize a trucking system whereby the Grand Trunk line to Lakefield would be discarded for carrying freight or express. The C. P. R. line is favored by the merchants as goods ordered in Toronto arrive a week afterwards on the present railroad to Lakefield. The Shunter which goes to Lakefield every day at noon will carry 17 baskets of grapes for $1.20, a charge which the Lakefield merchants believe can be greatly lessened by a regular truck service.

The Price of Milk.

The village to the north is now in the 12c a quart line for milk. Lakefield enjoyed the privilege of a charge of 10c a quart up to Oct. 1, but then the dealers decided to follow the crowd and get in the swim of rising prices, and this is the reason for the extra two cents lying on the doorstep, not as some believe a bribe for an extra thimblefull of milk.

The Town Hall.

The new village hall is progressing at a rapid rate although it will be some time before it is completed. Some of the villagers are of the opinion that it is built too near the street line and that it would be a great improvement if it were built farther back on the lot.

Back of Canada's Victory Bonds

WHEN you loan money you make sure the borrower is able to repay the loan and that he will pay you the interest regularly as it falls due.

When you loan money to Canada you know your money is absolutely safe.

Back of Canada's Victory Bonds is the entire wealth that Canada possesses—all her industries and all her resources in minerals, fisheries, forests and lands.

Canada has one-third of the area of the whole British Empire; she is larger than thirty United Kingdoms; twice the size of India; eighteen times as large as France. She is practically as large as all of the European countries put together.

Canada is larger than the United States including Alaska (Canada, 3,729,665 square miles; United States and Alaska, 3,617,673 square miles).

Canada has over 440,000,000 acres of farm lands—and only one-eighth of it is yet under cultivation.

Canada has the most extensive and best stocked fisheries in the world—232,000 square miles of fishing waters.

Canada has over 225,000,000 acres of commercial timber—she is the great forest resource of the Empire.

Canada's field crops have doubled in five years—from $552,771,500 to $1,367,909,970.

Canada's people have increased their cash balances in Banks and Post Offices nearly seventy per cent. in five years—from $1,026,013,704 to $1,740,462,509.

Canada's trade has more than doubled in five years—from $1,085,175,572 to $2,564,462,215. Canada emerges from the war one of the world's greatest and strongest nations—her natural wealth equals $2,000 for each man, woman and child of her population.

Canada's Victory Bonds are the finest possible investment where safety is the chief consideration.

Moreover, when you loan your money to Canada you know that the interest will be paid every six months—all you have to do is to go to the nearest Bank and get it.

Canadians will soon be given another opportunity to buy Victory Bonds.

This will probably be the last time you will be able to purchase Canada's bonds on such favorable terms.

Prepare to buy—All Canada is Your Security.

Wives Will Vote "No!"

Mothers of Ontario's Children Will Not Compromise With "Booze"

Do not spoil your ballot by marking it with anything but X —four times.

		YES	NO
1	Are you in favour of the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act?		X
2	Are you in favour of the sale of light beer containing not more than two and fifty-one one-hundredths per cent. alcohol weight measure through Government agencies and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?		X
3	Are you in favour of the sale of light beer containing not more than two and fifty-one one-hundredths per cent. alcohol weight measure in standard hotels in local municipalities that by a majority vote favour such sale and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?		X
4	Are you in favour of the sale of spirituous and malt liquors through Government agencies and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?		X

Simply put an X after each Question under the word "No"

BOOZE" is an ugly word in the ears of a woman. Millions of women have had all hope of happiness in this world blasted by "booze."

"Booze" has starved little children and clad them in rags.

"Booze" throughout history has made fiends out of men and rewarded the tender affection of women and children with curses and abuse.

Wife Murderers "Booze-Crazed"

"I have never known of a single case of wife murder that was not committed under the influence of drink," said the late Dr. J. T. Gilmour, Chief Warden of the old Central Prison, Toronto, and subsequently Superintendent of the Provincial Prison Farm at Guelph, a man of life-long experience with criminals.

Seventy-five per cent of the suicides have been set down to drink.

"Booze" shortens lives. Insurance experts calculate an average increase of 35 per cent. in the death rate for even moderate drinkers.

"Booze" Brings Poverty and Sickness

"Booze" decreases the household income, lessens the husband's earning power and kills his ambition to succeed.

"Booze" and degenerative disease go hand in hand. Fifty-four per cent. of the divorces in Germany, the great beer-drinking country, and 50,000 deaths a year are directly traceable to "Booze." No less than 50,000 cases of alcoholic insanity are admitted to German Asylums yearly. And yet drinking in the homes or in cafes and beer gardens as practised in Europe is held up as ideal for Ontario!

"Booze" Dooms Children to Insanity

Children of both alcoholic fathers and mothers are doomed to be mentally backward, feeble-minded, morally degenerate, epileptic or insane.

Alcoholism affects the child unborn, and alcoholic degeneracy may descend to the children of the third and fourth generation.

Beer drinking in the home makes the home a school for future drunkards.

Domestic beer drinking has made German women coarse and vulgar, German children feeble, and German men bloated and brutal.

Ontario Women Have Power to Vote

Once women of this Province suffered "booze" to wreck and destroy in silent sorrow or bitter pride. Today in Ontario they have a vote. On October 20 they can order that "the Menace of Booze shall be forever ended."

REPLY TO MR. R. J. SODEN'S LETTER

To the Editor of The Examiner:
Sir:

There are a great many people under the impression that the Conservative party of West Peterboro have made a great mistake in selecting Mr. Soden as their representative.

Apparently his tactics are underhand and beyond comprehension. The Conservative supporters (if there are any now) must certainly see the dirty insinuations contained in his letter, which are against him gaining any sympathy or support, and are certainly doing him more harm than good.

"The liquor interests of Ontario are making every effort to defeat the Hearst Government. Money is being poured out like water, and Dewart candidates are being put in the field, and in many cases are cleverly camouflaged as Labour Men, Farmer candidates and even as Temperance Liberals."

Fortunately the working classes of the present day, even if they have not had college educations, have common sense, and that is better still, therefore they will not believe such utter rot, but will think the more; and less of the writer of such epistles.

Take another example of his attack on Mr. Gillespie at Bridgenorth, and this taken from the "Review" dated 11th October:

"Mr. Soden exhibited two cans of condensed milk, both made in Mr. Gillespie's establishment, the one with a Peterboro brand; and the other prepared in the city for the Armour people of Hamilton. Both kinds are made of the same material. The one is sent to Hamilton, shipped back here and sold to retailers for $8.75—a case of four dozen cans. The product which bears the local brand and on which no freight is paid, is sold to the retail dealers for 25 cents a case more than that charged for the other.

"Mr. Soden also called attention to the fact that while Mr. Gillespie pays the farmer a fraction over 6 cents a quart for milk, he retails it at 12 cents—a spread of one hundred per cent. between the buying and selling prices."

No doubt Mr. Gillespie can reply satisfactorily to the above. However, when you come to think the matter over seriously, would any gentleman attack and probe into another person's personal business if it were not for political gains?

Oh, what a game it is boys!

Would the same have been done had no election been on? It certainly can be construed as profiteering or swindling (if such is the intention). But, is it not the Government's place to probe into such a case and not Mr. Soden, who is simply a humble citizen like many others at the present time, and certainly no credit is due to him whatever, as we have only heard his side; we have yet to hear the other side.

I have already stated, no doubt Mr. Gillespie can reply satisfactorily to Mr. Soden's charge. But what about the profiteering going on for five years? Have the Conservative Government imprisoned or fined any of them, or even tried to suppress it till the Election approacheth? Certainly not. In the eleventh hour they formed a commission to pacify the electors—simply bait for voters—and whether it does any good or not, depends on the men returned to Parliament. Many of the present Government are shareholders of the profiteering concerns.

The temperance question or referendum, is simply switched on for the workingman to forget the 5 years profiteering—that is if they can forget it—on election day, and the Government that would not interfere to stop it are now asking for your votes.

Seems funny, does it not?

Probably you may think I am a Liberal, or follower of Mr. Gillespie, by writing this letter, but such is not the case. But I like to see fair play and a clean election contest at all times and admire those who fight such, on principle; and without using spite, or malice for political gains, without a thorough reason for doing so.

Yours,
CHAS. DUGGAN.

COMPLETE CURES OF LEPROSY MADE

Twenty Patients have been Paroled From Hospital in Hawaii.

HONOLULU, Hawaii, Oct. 15. — Announcement has been made here that complete cures of leprosy are being made at the Kalihi Territorial Hospital in this city, and that within the past few months twenty patients have been paroled without one recurrence of the disease.

Blood tests of the discharged patients have revealed no trace of the leprosy germ. Patients now under treatment are showing marked improvement.

Chaulmoogra oil, obtained from the seeding chaulmoogra kurzii, for 30 years known as the specific cure for leprosy, was the only medicine used in effecting the cure, the oil having been perfected by a refining process discovered by Dr. A. E. L. Dean, professor of chemistry, and president of the University of Hawaii.

To the Voter

¶ REMEMBER—Beer is the most nourishing beverage we possess. It contains such a very small amount of alcohol and such a relatively large amount of nutritive material that it would be difficult indeed to find a meal at once simpler and more nutritive than a bottle of beer, a piece of cheese and a crust of bread. One eminent physician proclaims Beer to be a liquid beefsteak.

¶ REMEMBER—The Beer of the Ballot must not be confused with the beers sold in Ontario before prohibition. The beers sold in this Province under the Old License System had an alcoholic content as high as 7% and over—the beer for which you are asked to vote on October 20th is but 2.51%.

¶ REMEMBER—The Beer of the Ballot is absolutely non-intoxicating—beer of even .24% stronger has been proven non-intoxicating by scientific experiments and thorough research by a board of fourteen qualified experts. The Beer of the Ballot is nothing but a mildly stimulating, healthful and refreshing non-intoxicating beverage—brewed from a high grade of malt and hops—containing only sufficient alcohol to make it digestible and nourishing.

EXPORTS— Canada Must Build Up Trade Overseas

Aims of the NAVY LEAGUE OF CANADA

To emphasize Canada's opportunities and responsibilities on the sea.

To raise funds for the relief of our merchant seamen, injured in the war, and for dependents of those who were killed.

To maintain sailors' homes in our ports.

To train boys and young men for our merchant ships by the organization of Boys' Naval Brigades.

Patron
H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES
Dominion President
COMMODORE EMILIUS JARVIS

CANADA is vitally interested in trade extension overseas, for this so closely affects our national wealth. We are daily losing export business in favor of foreign competitors, because we lack shipping facilities.

Our Dominion is undertaking a great shipbuilding program, recognizing that we must build a fleet to build our trade.

The Navy League of Canada is straining every effort to prepare Canadian boys to man Canada's ships which will carry Canada's goods to the waiting markets of the world.

This is the work of the Boys' Naval Brigades, and it is a matter of primary interest to every Canadian that this movement should not be handicapped by lack of funds.

Nelson Day Campaign for $500,000

OCTOBER 21st, 22nd, 23rd

"Canadians Must Sail the Seas"

Boys' Naval Brigades are already established and operating in Charlottetown, Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Saskatoon, Calgary, Victoria and Nanaimo, and many other branches must be organized from East to West in order that the younger generation of Canadians may have the opportunity for free training in seamanship and so will be ready to meet Canada's great need.

You will help. You cannot afford to withhold interest in the outcome of this campaign; it is too vital to future issues. For the sake of our boys and of our export trade you will give, and give liberally to the cause. By helping the work you will be helping yourself.

FARMERS HAULING WHEAT TO STATES

ELEVATORS IN MANITOBA ARE COMPELLED TO CLOSE DOWN.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 16.—It is reported here in grain circles that farmers in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, to a distance of forty and fifty miles north of the international boundary line, are this fall hauling large quantities of wheat across to the United States' market points and receiving sixty cents or seventy cents more per bushel than would be possible if they sold their wheat in Canada.

This International trade has assumed such proportions that a number of elevators located at southern points in two provinces are being closed as the amount of business they are receiving does not warrant the expense of keeping them open.

FLYING PARSON ON THE WAY BACK

Maynard, the flying parson, to-day was well in the lead of the four other homeward bound flyers who had doubled back after soaring from coast to coast. Lieut. Maynard, having reached Sydney, Nebraska, was almost a day's flight in the van of his nearest pursuer from San Francisco, and his closest opponent in the point of acutal flying time for the transcontinental flight, Captain Lowell Smith, temporarily was out of the contest, as his ship was damaged by fire last night shortly after he landed at the Buffalo control station.

"I am a farmer and was overworked, run-down and weak. My druggist recommended Vinol. It built me up and made me strong. I also gained in flesh. Other members of my family have also used it with splendid results."—Joseph J. McDougall, Kelvin Glen, Cape Breton, N.S.

"I was weak, run-down and had no appetite so I could hardly keep about my work. I heard about Vinol from home friends and after taking it for two weeks it built me up so I feel better than I have for many years."—Mr. Bartholomew, 12 Salisbury Ave., Galt, Ontario.

EXPLORER ESCAPES SAVAGES; RETURNS HOME ENGAGED TO ONE WOMAN; LOVES ANOTHER

Strange Drama of Errors in "Choosing a Wife" at the Allan Theatre.

The thrilling adventures of a scientist among the savage natives of the South Sea Islands are realistically set forth in "Choosing a Wife," the First National attraction which will be shown at the Allen Theatre next week, commencing on Monday.

Andrew Quick is an explorer backed by wealthy interests which send him into the South Seas to study the natives and various aspects of the country. Travelling in one of the remote islands with a small bodyguard, he is set upon by fierce savages who kill off his followers and take Quick prisoner.

Saved by Native Girl.

Held by the natives he is visited by a dark-skinned girl who longs to go to the lands of the white men, of which she has heard in a vague and distant way. She begs to be allowed to go with him, and secretly gives him the means of freeing himself. A native lover of the woman witnesses the escape. Killing the woman who was responsible, the huge savage chases Quick to the top of a high cliff, where they fight to the death.

By superhuman strength Quick throws the savage into the sea. Later he is rescued by a relief expedition. It is then he goes back home to face the most remarkable situation imaginable that of answering to a woman who thinks he has proposed to her, while in truth he had been trying to propose to her niece.

When we compare modern spectacles with the kind our fathers had to wear we are not surprised that wearing glasses was considered a hardship.

Today there is no hardship in wearing glasses—either eyeglasses or spectacles—if they are properly selected and adjusted.

OVER TEN THOUSAND TOOK IN NORWOOD ANNUAL EXHIBITION

AERIAL FLIGHTS AND SPEEDING IN THE RING WERE TWO FEATURES ON THE PROGRAMME—A FEW OF THE PRIZEWINNERS.

A BABY SHOW

With an attendance of over ten thousand persons the Norwood annual exhibition broke all records of previous years and the gate receipts, approximately $2,000, were several hundred dollars in advance of last year. The entries with very few exceptions were much larger and of a much improved grade from those in any previous fair making the show of particular interest to the exhibitors. One feature of particular interest was the horse races which while the track at Norwood is far from ideal, were keenly contested and the entries for the green race so numerous that the Commitee found it necessary to put on an additional race; the track being too narrow for all the entrants to run at once.

Another attraction which the enterprising committee had provided, Captain Vic Dallin with his Curtis and Fokker planes, proved a big success and a considerable number of the Norwood people including the Secretary of the Fair, Mr. J. E. Roxburgh and his daughter, took a trip in the air. Mr. Roxburgh on alighting assured the rest of the officers of the Fair that his experience was most enjoyable with the exception of the "elevator" sensation on coming down.

TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL ENDORSED THE CANDIDATURE OF MR. TOOMS, LABOUR MAN

THREE MORE LABOUR CANDIDATES WILL ENTER THE MUNICIPAL CONTEST.

MR. DRURY'S SPEECH

The Trades and Labor Council at their regular meeting last evening, endorsed the candidature of Mr. Thomas Tooms of the Independent Labor party for election in the coming Provincial Elections. The Independent Labor party, in a letter to the Council, asked for the support of Mr. Tooms, both moral and financial. The Council decided to donate $25 towards the expenses of the campaign and to co-operate in every way to secure Mr. Tooms' election. The Carpenters' Union have already given $25 and the Machinists $50 toward campaign expenses. Mr. Peter McArthur representing the I. L. P. denied the rumor that the Citizen's Liberty League was supporting Mr. Tooms in any shape or form and stated that Mr. Tooms was supported solely by the workers of Peterboro.

Hearst Bans Slides.

The meeting was enthusiastic for Mr. Tooms, and one member advanced the idea of putting a lantern slide on the screens of the different theatres in the city. A committee was appointed to look into the matter and reported back in less than half an hour that political slides were not allowed on the screen by the Hearst Government; the Government took action and now no slides of a political nature are allowed to be shown. Exception was taken to the form of the electoral ballots, which show Mr. G. A. Gillespie as Dewart candidate, Mr. R. J. Soden as Hearst supporter, but as for Mr. Tooms no organization is recorded as supporting him. One member declared the Hearst Government did not want it to be generally known that Mr. Tooms was supported by Labor.

Rousing Speech by Mr. Drury.

A union man from Quebec, Mr. Drury of the International Typographical Union of Montreal brought an inspiring message to local workers, and predicted that the next mayor of Peterboro would be a labor man. He said he was very agreeably surprised to learn that there were four Labor men in the City Council and thought their election was a good augury for the success of Mr. Tooms. Mr. Drury said there were very few Labor organizations in Quebec, but this was due to the mixed population, but not to lack of enthusiasm. He was at the National Conference at Ottawa, but admitted that practically no results were obtained. He stated that the Conference showed clearly the issues between Capital and Labor, and that if peace was to come the eight-hour and collective bargaining must be conceded. The Typographical Union won it after a hard fight and ever since peace has reigned.

"Labor doesn't go out on strike for the fun of it," declared Mr. Drury. "There must be a serious grievance if men will vote to walk the streets." He scored the New York printers, 3,000 of whom went out on a "vacation" without the sanction of the International.

Three More Candidates.

President A. J. Bolwell, in tendering a vote of thanks to Mr. Drury, intimated that three more Labor men would run for the City Council next January.

ACTION AGAINST WHYTE ESTATE

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Oct. 16.— Action for $10,000 against the estate of the late Sir William Whyte will be commenced in the courts to-day, by Edwin P. Allen of St. Paul. Sir William, prior to his death, invested $5,000 in the O. W. Kerr Co. of St. Paul. This company recently went bankrupt and was placed in the hands of the Allen receiver. When the liquidation of the company was taken in court it was ordered that all shareholders should pay twice as much as they had invested in order that the company could pay off a debt of approximately $450,000. This system of assessing shareholders for debts of a defunct company is on the statute books of the State of Minnesota. Sir Wm. Whyte's estate consists largely of Winnipeg Electric Railway shares, which are quoted at 40.

WERNER HORN ON WAY TO CANADA

NEW YORK, Oct. 16. — Werner Horn, who has been held in New Jersey since Sept. 27 for extradition to Canada, where he must answer a charge of blowing up a bridge over the St. Croix river on the New Brunswick side, was brought to New York late yesterday by two officers, who will take him to Canada. Under the Canadian law, Horn is liable to life imprisonment.

Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis

If there is an ailment in the throat or chest it is surely essential that the remedy be conveyed direct to the affected parts. It's because the healing vapour of Catarrhozone is breathed into the sore, irritated throat and bronchial tubes that its balsamic fumes kill the germs and destroy the cause of the trouble. These are the reasons why Catarrhozone never yet failed to cure a genuine case of Catarry, Asthma, Bronchitis or Throat Trouble.

The wonderfully-soothing vapor of Catarrhozone instantly reaches the furthest recesses of the lungs, produces a healing curative effect that is impossible with a tablet or liquid, which goes merely to the stomach, and fails entirely to help the throat or lungs.

Catarrhozone

Just Breathe It

To permanently cure your winter ills—your coughs, sneezing, and Catarrh—by all means use a tried and proven, remedy like Catarrhozone. But beware of the substitutor. Large outfit lasts two months, costs $1.00; small size 50c; trial size 25c—at dealers everywhere.

BLISS NATIVE HERB TABLETS

Many thousands of old and young keep their systems free from the dreadful consequences of constipation by taking Bliss Native Herb Tablets at regular intervals. Those who lead an active outdoor life take one occasionally while others whose work is confining and laborious and are more subject to this condition, retain their health by using them more frequently. Bliss Native Herb Tablets not only relieve constipation, but stir up the liver and kidneys, cleansing them of all fermentation, and restore them to a natural, healthy, active condition. They also purify the blood, and have a general tonic effect on the whole system. One tablet at night will make the next day bright.

Bliss Native Herb Tablets are put up 200 in a box, enough to last the average family six months. Every box carries our money back guarantee. Take no substitutes. Look for trade mark on every box. Price $1.00.

MR. WEARING SAYS LIBERAL PARTY IS ALIVE TO THE NEEDS OF LABOUR

SUMMARY OF HIS BELLEVILLE SPEECH ON COL. E. D. O'FLYNN'S PLATFORM—SAYS WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION BOARD IS DESPOTIC.

The Belleville Ontario gives the following report of Mr. Joseph Wearing's address on behalf of Col. E. D. O'Flynn, the Liberal candidate in East Hastings:

Mr. Joseph Wearing, of Peterborough, speaking for Colonel O'Flynn, made a stirring speech. This was the first after-the-war election. We are living in the most serious times in the world's history. The election should be faced with gravity. A great financial burden is weighing us down. The Liberal convention in Toronto condemned the Government for its failure to restrict profiteering. The problems of agriculture and soldiers' re-establishment and labour unrest pressing. The problem of labor unrest that must be solved; no government can neglect it. There never was a time when there was a greater demand for intelligent men, men enough to grapple with every problem.

The Seven Sleepers in Toronto

We have a government that has been in power for 14 years. It has become a byword as "the government of the Seven Sleepers." There may have been a time when it was a strong, virile government, but that time is long past. I have not come to praise the present Government, but I have come to participate in the preliminary rites; the burial will be next Monday.

Sir James Whitney was a respected leader. When he died, two great Tories were found — Hanna and Beck. But the Government compromised on William H. Hearst. Hanna left the Government, and Beck is running as an Independent.

Sir Adam Beck is very much alive and he does not want to be tied to a dead Government. (Laughter.)

Many people regret that the referendum and election are on the same day.

Liberal Stand on Prohibition.

The Liberal party is absolutely united in pledging itself to carry out the will of the people. The Liberal party in June favored the highest temperance legislation. Every Liberal candidate stands on this plank.

The Tory party is divided on temperance. Sir William Hearst is flat-footed on prohibition, but he has not his party united with him.

Why did the Government get Dr. Cody? Because the Department of Education was the ridicule of the Province. Dr. Cody will not be willing to sit in the Opposition from now on. (Laughter.)

Compensation Board Despotic.

The Workmen's Compensation Board is most despotic and many injustices have resulted to injured workmen.

The Government has done almost nothing for Labor. Liberalism is awake to all the needs of Labor.

We have a bad habit of leaving governments in office too long.

"Can we do any worse than this Government that is dead? Next Monday we are going to put in a real live Liberal Government." (Cheers)

Mr. O'Flynn wishes to give himself for public service. He had known him as a straight young man and a wideawake young man, who can intelligently grapple with problems.

Soldiers had told him that Col. O'Flynn was a brave soldier and efficient officer at the front. He had known him in Peterboro as an officer of the 247th Battalion. He had himself offered his services as a private but was rejected as unfit.

The dealer was at once cut off the firm's selling list.

To The Electors Of East Peterborough

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

Farmers should be represented in Parliament according to population, and represented by a resident farmer having a first-hand knowledge of local as well as general agricultural requirements.

Since Mr. Thompson's election as member for the East Riding, the same being a rural riding, he has become allied and engaged in the Real Estate business in the City of Toronto and the Pulp Wood Companies of New Ontario, which of course is his own business, and no doubt good business for him. He is spending two months of his time now continuously in the riding, which he will not deny is his longest sojourn in the riding, to explain to the farmers why they should elect him in preference to a farmer who lives and moves in the riding 365 days in the year, and to do so he must detract your attention from the U.F.O. platform.

The U.F.O. are not contesting urban ridings, believing that all classes deserve representation in the Legislature and are making no distinction with regard to the old political parties, nor casting reflection on any individual representative, but acting in conjunction with other rural ridings. East Peterborough has placed a candidate in the field pledged to a platform that means progressive legislation for all and the suppression of the hoarder and profiteer that are bleeding the masses to-day. Mr. Thompson did spend sometime in the riding, to sell stock in a joint-stock pulpwood company in New Ontario. He also spent a short time after the 1917 election to urge upon the farmers the necessity of greater production of flour, meats and fats, explaining how the residents of the cities were digging up their lawns to produce cabbages, lettuce, etc. He also spent some time in assisting to railroad a system of highway building through the County Council, without the ratepayers having a voice in the terms. He knew that Quebec voted a straight grant of $10,000,000 to main highways in the Province, and that the States of the Union made millions of dollars straight grants to main highways, and that the only straight grant made to main highways by the Provincial Government of Ontario, was $5,000,000 made and expended in New Ontario where the said pulpwood is in abundance and for which New Ontario is famous. Did Mr. Thompson ever make himself heard in the House with regard to making a straight grant to the highways in old Ontario where he was elected to represent one of the rural ridings? It is not on record. Mr. Thompson knows that the Government is collecting $2,000,000 this year (auto fees) from the various Municipalities, that properly belong to the respective Municipalities, and should be returned to the different Counties (less cost of collection) to be expended on the main roads of the County, and he knows that Peterboro County is losing $20,000 a year due to such legislation, yet he defends such a policy.

Not being able to attack the U.F.O. platform, and in order to divert the attention of the farmers from the $20,000 lost, referred to above, he makes an attack upon the County Council by stating that the County had lost $10,000 a year by not adopting the Highway System. He knows that in order to get the $10,000 he refers to the County Council would have to tax their ratepayers for $15,000, in the face of the following. He knows that the Minister of Highways, through his Deputy, sent out a warning to all Counties "not to expend any money on roads other than absolutely necessary, due to scarcity of help and the rqnirements of money for patriotic purposes during war time." What were those requirements for such purposes? He knew that 7 per cent. of the population of the County enlisted to fight for their Country, leaving many deserving dependents behind. He also knows that the Provincial Government placed a tax of one mill on the dollar on every ratepayer in the Province, known as the "Provincial War Tax." He must have recognized that the County Council were loyal and provided for the emergencies that confronted them by taxing their ratepayers with the following: $36,000 to meet the "Provincial War Tax" and $121,704 to meet the patriotic purposes.

At the same time the farmers, due to scarcity of help, were in many cases carrying their Statute Labor over, and operating their farms with a little over an average of one man to the 100 acres, with the loyal support of their wives and daughters in the fields and stables.

The Local Municipalities, by Municipal grants and private subscriptions, raised an amount equal to the above, yet Mr. Thompson would have the County Council load the people with an additional $15,000 a year. Why did Mr. Thompson refuse to support the Highway System when he was a member of the County Council? Was he working for the farmers then and a different "boss" now?

Between 8 and 10 millions was collected by the Government as "war tax." During 1916-1917 Toronto and York County Patriotic Association received $40,613.91 and Lincoln County Independent Patriotic Fund, $10,166.60 assistance from the Province. Was Mr. Thompson heard in the House with regard to getting assistance from the Province for Peterboro County Patriotic Association? It is not on record. During 1917-18, extensions to milling and meat packing establishments exceeded by 70 per cent. such extensions, in the same time, in the history of Ontario heretofore. Why? As a result of huge profits, similar to those filling contracts for war supplies and ammunition, they could pay wages beyond the reach of any save the lucky parties engaged in the above.

During the war the farmers were struggling short-handed, with the assistance of their wives and daughters, and in many cases their aged fathers, to provide food for the Allied armies and their brave boys at the front, and raise money to meet the patriotic obligations, did Mr. Thompson raise his voice in the House, demanding an investigation that would remedy matters? It is not on record. He comes back to the riding to point out the investigations that are taking place now, on the eve of an election, when the immense extensions to these establishments are completed and the profiteer and hoarder have millions in their pockets that will have to be raised by the people, including the returned soldiers, to wipe out the war debt. There is only one farmer on all of these pre-election investigations. Mr. Thompson has introduced his partner Mr. Heyland, of the firm of Heyland & Thompson, to address the ratepayers of the East riding during the campaign to tell them how prosperous the farmers are. Will Messrs. Heyland & Thompson invest part of their wealth in farming operations in East Peterboro? No immediate danger; their money will remain invested in pulp wood operations in New Ontario and real estate in the City of Toronto. The presence of Mr. Heyland in the riding, during an election campaign, is convinceing evidence of their desirability of electing Mr. Thompson. Did Mr. Thompson ever raise his voice in the House to get the Government to build a railway from Norwood or Havelock into the northern parts of the County to provide the farmers in such part of the County with facilities that would enable them to convert into cash the hundreds of thousands of cords of wood that is now going to waste. It is not on record. Not only has $5,000,000 been expended on the Highways of New Ontario but a Government subsidized Railway has been built into that Pulp Wood territory. Agriculture is the most important industry in Canada and the laborer and mechanic the backbone of commercial enterprises. The three classes are the majority of producers and consumers in Canada. Then why so much unrest among these classes? One reason, it appears, is that there is no provision for the stripping and punishing of the hoarder and profiteer. It behooves the farmers to stand united and elect a sufficient number of U.F.O. candidates from the rural ridings to force the hands of the Government to enact laws, consistent with the U.F.O. platform, that would suppress the hoarder and profiteer, thereby doing away with expensive investigations. Investigations have not proved satisfactory, and much in accordance with the pork investigation prior to the 1917 election, that was followed with the soaring of almost three times the price to the consumer to that paid the farmer. Politicians view the U.F.O. movement with alarm and old political opponents may quietly stand together and discountenance it, yet the carrying into effect of legislation embodied in that platform means an evolution of prosperity for all classes (save the hoarder and profiteer) beyond the most sanguine expectations. For the last forty years the farmer has enjoyed low wages for his own time, low rate of interest for his investment, worked long hours and practiced strict economy in living. "It is time for a change." The County of Peterboro has the most up-to-date permanent bridges in the Province, according to Assessment, also County Buildings second to none, and always made liberal grants to Agricultural and Charitable causes, and according to Government report has the fourth lowest rate of taxation per capita in the Province. Consequently, I say that Mr. Thompson is not justified in attempting to draw the cobwebs over the farmers' eyes, to detract their attention from the U.F.O. platform or from the fact that his interests are in Toronto and New Ontario, by condemning the County Council for not imposing $15,000 a year more on the farmers, when they and their wives and daughters were straining every nerve to provide food for the brave boys at the front and raise funds to meet the demands of patriotic purposes.

Yours respectfully,

ED. M. ELLIOT.

DOROTHY GISH GOES TO POLICE STATION IN A PATROL WAGON

INTERESTING INCIDENT PICTURED DURING THE FILMING OF "PEPPY POLLY."

The city of the four millions bids fair to lose its title to being the most wicked city in America if things keep on as they are in Los Angeles. Movies police department to give the vivacious little star a ride in the real patrol wagon that carries everyone from peace disturbers to international crooks to the central station.

The scene to be taken was for Miss Dorothy's Paramount picture, "Peppy Pally," which will be the attraction at the Allen Theatre on Friday and Saturday. The star was to be arrested and sent to jail, and of course it was to be made as realistic as possible. An officer on Main street was informed that he should arrest Miss Gish and send in the regular call. She would be picked up by the "Hurry-Up" wagon and taken to the station.

It so happened that the wagon was out at the time the call arrived, and the driver, calling in, was told to go to the reported station before he returned. When the patrol arrived, Dorothy found that she had company, consisting of a drunken tramp, a woman arrested for fighting and a shoplifter. She says the ride to the station was nothing like the chummy affair it should have been.

pictures have reformed and regenerated the town and it now becomes a rare and unexpected thing to have anyone stop and look at an out of the ordinary occurrence. The passer-by merely says "moving pictures" and lets it go at that.

So it did not create much of a sensation recently when Dorothy Gish's director arranged with the Los Angmountains, where she devotes her summers.

While in college Miss Shull was voted the most versatile of girls. Her voice is rich, opulent and powerful, with unusual carrying power. She is of the brunette type of southern beauty.

Miss Shull's talents also share generously in other directions, the soprano having, during her studies abroad, mastered the languages of France, Italy, Spain and Germany. In addition to these accomplishments the singer, who has just turned twenty-four, developed a hobby for photographing, and her pictures, all taken by herself, have brought her a number of highly-valued prizes.

Motoring is a favorite pastime with this charming girl of Virginia—a daughter of one of that old state's best-known and distinguished families, and she knows nearly every high-way and by-way and pike road throughout its beautiful hills and

"MY SOLDIER GIRL" HERE SATURDAY

GORGEOUS STAGE SETTINGS AND BEAUTIFUL COSTUMES.

It must be gratifying to the authors of a new play to see the word "success" stamped on their book, lyrics and music as was the case with "My Soldier Girl" upon its first presentation. This delightful musical play will no doubt create as much interest as any of its predecessors, proving equally as big a drawing attraction as "High Jinks", when that delightful comedy was offered the public for their approval. Every producer has one or more successes during his career that brings a small fortune, for the producing business is not unlike the mining business—more money is usually invested than is ever realized, for it requires much capital to produce a big musical production.

When "My Soldier Girl" was suggested to Le Comte and Flesher they requested the authors to produce the manuscript and score and immediately upon hearing the music accepted the play. Money was no object in building this big spectacle, for this firm realized as soon as they heard the score and read the book that it was another success equal to the well known "Chocolate Soldier." The success of this play is well known now and theatregoers who desire to see it when it comes to the Grand (Saturday matinee and evening) should make their reservations early, for capacity business prevails everywhere and should prove the same big drawing vehicle here. The original cast and bewitching chorus together with the three gorgeous stage settings and beautiful costumes will prove a new and novel entertainment for those who are fortunate enough to secure seats for the one performance offered in this city. There are some twenty musical numbers, of which the title song "My Soldier Girl" is the favorite, "Jasper's Ragtime Band," "That Dixie Wedding Tune," "Wrap Me Up in a Bundle of Love," "Won't You be My Beau," "You're My Loving Sugar Baby," are some of the real hits.

"Biff, Bing, Bang," the greatest musical comedy ever written and played by any military organization, and claimed by many to have been the greatest success ever offered to the boys in France, will be the attraction at the Grand, for Friday and Saturday matinee and evening, October 25. The company presenting this unique revue in Canada, was known in France as "The Dumbells" and has a record of over five hundred performances given immediately behind the front lines during the war. After the Armistice they gave forty performances in Brussels for the benefit of the wounded and disabled soldiers and sailors. These performances were under the royal patronage of King Albert of Belgium, who has since presented Captain M. W. Plunkett and his "Dumbells" with a medal and address in commemoration of their splendid success.

Their only other public appearance before coming to Canada was in London, where they played a month, two weeks of which they appeared in the famous Coliseum, where they played to 91,200 people.

All of the original company, who survived the war, are now in Canada and their forthcoming appearance here promises to be one of the finest and certainly the most unique and interesting theatrical engagements ever staged in this city.

When the nights begin to get wet and cold the cows and calves are better in the stable than huddled beside a wire fence.

CRITICS PRAISE "THE UNPARDONABLE SIN,"

LARGE AUDIENCE THRILLED AT THE ALLEN WHEN PRESENTED YESTERDAY.

Mr. Julian Johnson, editor of Photoplay after seeing "The Unpardonable Sin", at a private showing remarked of the picture.

"An impressive photoplay, filled with splendid characterizations, remarkable photography and a thought ful perfection of detail which honors the intelligence of the beholder. Rupert Hughes novel is perhaps the most stark fictional incident of Teuton terrorism and brutality yet written by an American, and is a work fairly familiar, now, to the whole story reading public.

The outstanding performances in "The Unpardonable Sin" are Blanche's Sweet's, in the roles of the sisters Dimmy and Alice; and Mary Alden's as the mother. Although Miss Alden has far less to do than Miss Sweet, it is an equally significant perfotmance. Miss Sweet as the outraged Alice evidences to the full her capability for a sort of tragic futility—a lifelike thing which is not acting, and which is not the pompous manifestation of self-sorrow which many of our players think is tragedy—that is the very mirror of real despairing existence. So does Miss Alden remain perfectly in the picture. On the other hand as Dimmy, Miss Sweet is altogether the adventurous girl-sensitive, refined, but always unafraid and ready to battle for her own honor or the honor of those she loves.

Matt Moore is delightfully human—a likeable sort of young fellow—as Noll Windsor. Wallace Beery vouchsafes a piece of portraiture as the German Colonel Klemm for the like of which we will have to go back to the early Griffith plays.

Marshall Neilan rises to a standard of direction he has not touched since, "Stella Maris". He has departed from Hughes story ending, and while I can see that the new version is more expedient for the screen, and perhaps more popular, in a certain sense, Hughes' original seems far more legitimate and logical. If the Germans had been as easily outrun and outclassed as they are in this picture—to say nothing of being outmaneuvred by a couple of small boys in their own head-quarters—they would never have crossed the Rhine. However—it's a master picture if you pardon these playful weaknesses of the playful Mr. Neilan. And little freckle-faced Wes' Berry, as the indomitable George Washington Stickler is going to sweep the country with a wave of personal popularity rivalling Robert Andersons' after the birth of "Hearts of the World."

"The Unpardonable Sin" will be shown to-day for the last time, and judging from the capacity house yesterday, a record attendance can be expected to-night. As usual two performances will be given to take care of the late comers, altho everyone is advised to come as early as possible. The comedy and serial "The Great Gamble" will be shown in addition to the big feature.

THE OUTCASTS OF POKER FLAT

What reminiscences this must bring to old-timers who remember when this famous Bret Harte story was first published! How it stirred the entire United States and brought everlasting fame and immortality to the beloved Harte! And now it is in photoplay form and is to be projected on the screen of the Empire Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday for the first time in this city. The mere mention of Bret Harte's name would doubtless bring an audience of large dimensions, but coupled with the fact that it is the famous author's "Outcasts of Poker Flat" to be shown, and furthermore that one of the screen's most fascinating and true-to-life stars, Harry Carey, is to be seen as John Oakhurst, the gentleman gambler, diplomat, and self-sacrificer, is enough to warrant that a pint-sized theatre will have to accommodate a quart-sized audience at the opening.

Besides its commanding star, Harry Carey, the cast includes Gloria Hope as Sophy, the beautiful girl whom Oakhurst gives to his ward, Tommy, because Tommy wants the girl! Tommy, played by Cullen Landis; J. Farrell McDonald, Virginia Chester and many others. H. Tipton Steck wrote the scenario and Jack Ford's master hand is seen in the directorship. The photo-play among other wonderful outdoor scenes includes a snowstorm, taken in a raging snowstorm in Truckee, California, in the middle of winter.

Bringing about a happy ending to the immortal story without interfering in any way with the original is a gratifying surprise of the film.

"OH, BOY!" HERE THIS EVENING

With its delightful book and captivating lyrics by Guy and P. G. Wodehouse and melodious score by Jerome Kern, "Oh, Boy," the smartest of musical comedies will be presented at the Grand to-night only.

"Oh, Boy" is the fourth of the series of New York Princess Theatre musical comedies which began with "Nobody Home," and was followed by "Very Good Eddie."

Not in the past twenty years has a musical comedy scored such an absolute knockout as "Oh, Boy." It was at the Princess Theatre, New York for over a year and then continued its New York run at the Casino.

Some of the most popular musical numbers are "An Old-Fashioned Wife," "Rolled Into One," "Till the Clouds Roll By," "The First Day of May," "Kick-a-loo," and "Nesting time in Flatbush."

On many of the irrigated farms in southern Alberta the policy of raising crops for the live stock carried is being followed with much success.

MR. JOSEPH MARKS ADDRESSED LABOUR MEN LAST EVENING

DESCRIBED SOME OF THE ACROBATIC FEATS OF THE HEARST GOVERNMENT.

"Premier Hearst turned down a delegation, of which I was one, asking for women suffrage," declared Mr. Joseph Marks, General Secretary for Ontario, for the Independent Labor party. Mr. Marks is a powerful speaker and has delivered addresses in all parts of the Province in support of I. L. P. candidates.

"Hearst replied that he didn't believe that women wanted the ballot and that he didn't intend to put vexatious legislation on the statute books and that there was no chance of the delegation ever succeeding in their object."

This delegation interviewed the Premier some time before election and received a point blank refusal. delegation and informed the Premier that he was entirely mistaken, that the women were in favor of the ballot and that either he (Hearst) or his successor would give the right to vote, which it turned out later did happen.

"If the Conservatives deny this," declared Mr. Marks, "I have the goods right out of Conservative papers and I was there."

Mr. Marks reviewed the work of the Independent Labor party and told of the fights put up by I. L. P. candidates in the Province. He was very optimistic about their success in Northern Ontario, around Iroquois Falls, Sudbury, Timmins and Cochrane and asked that a strenuous fight be put up in Peterboro and that if even Mr. Tooms is not elected, that he be backed up by a solid labor vote, "which will make the politicians sit up and take notice." He thought that it was inadvisable that a Labor man oppose Sir Adam Beck in London, but they have freedom of action and he wished them success.

"You know the rotten enumeration system which we are up against" pointed out Mr. Marks, "this Government, like the Union Government is trying to steal this election by keeping off names by the thousands —23,000 in Toronto. They are up to the same rascality as in the Welland by-election and are leaving no stone unturned."

He told how Premier Hearst is fidgeting for women's votes although some time before election he described it as "vexatious legislation."

A resume' of conditions in North Bay where a strenuous fight is being put up by an I.L.P. man, was given by Mr. Marks. He told how at the last election the government put up a camouflaged labour man, but now Labour is behind the I. L. P. man and are backing him up to the limit.

You ask how we can pull with the farmers, but I am telling you that you will be surprised how intelligent these farmers are," declared Mr. Marks, after telling how in many constituencies the U. F. O. and I. L. P. have on candidate.

EAT LESS AND TAKE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Take a Glass of Salts if your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter but, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged ot seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in very home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

SOME STRIKERS ARE RETURNING TO WORK

(Canadian Press.)

PITTSBURG, Oct. 16. — Large numbers of workers who went on strike September 22nd last when the nation-wide walk out of steel and iron employees became effective are returning to work daily in the Pittsburg district, according to representatives of the companies, who claimed today that the mills in this region were fast returning to normal conditions.

Union leaders countered the employees' claims to-day with the statement that strikers were not deserting ranks and that the strike is as effective at this time as it was during the early days of the walk-out. Leaders at Union headquarters were considering plans for carrying their free speech and free assemblage fight into the courts to-day. A test case on this question, they said, was provided last night when the police refused to allow strikers to meet on the south side of Pittsburg without a permit.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBORO:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Owing to the uncompromising attitude of the Provincial Government in the past towards the claims of the Producers, Agricultural and Industrial Workers alike, it was decided at the above named convention to put up an Independent Candidate for the Provincial House. At that convention I had the honour of being nominated by ballot as candidate. The conditions under which we are living, the exploitation of the Producer and Consumer by the monopolies of industry, into the hands of a ring of Capitalists, who practically control the Government to the detriment of Democracy, should appeal to you that an Independent Candidate, not under any pledge to either of the old parties, is absolutely essential for the transaction of business to the best interests of the people, and clean government. Your candidate is nominated upon the plank of a Referendum and Recall, so that if his conduct when elected is not satisfactory to the Electors, his resignation can be called for, which, it is hoped, will keep your candidate up to the platform on which he is elected. Also at certain periods of each year, your candidate will visit the electors of the constituency to give an account of his stewardship, and from time to time receive the will of the people.

Owing to the short notice of the election date, the candidate will find it difficult to meet all the electors. If you will read the local press account of my nomination you will see that my ability to fill the seat is not questioned by my opponents. That should speak for itself. I therefore ask you to seriously consider my appeal for your vote. As this is the time of Reconstruction, when initiative and progressive action is needed to carry on the work that was commenced on the Battlefields of Europe, "The War of Democracy," "Shall we break faith?"

Ladies, you have a vote: it is for you to help to decide. So mark your ballot for TOOMS, THE INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE, who stands for the will of the people.

Election Date, October 25th.

I am, Ladies and Gentlemen,
Your Obedient Servant,
THOS. TOOMS.

Secretary I. L. P.; President Building Trades Council, Member Trades and Labor Council, etc, etc.
Peterboro.

Will You Cast Your Vote for More Drug Fiends?

DO YOU REALIZE that the fiendish drug habit is spreading through the fair Province of Ontario at an alarming rate?

DO YOU REALIZE that doctors and apothecaries are so appalled by the insidious growth of this terrible evil that appeals are being made to the authorities to take most drastic action?

DO YOU REALIZE that this canker worm is eating its way through every strata of society, high and low, poor and rich—men and women of all grades and conditions in ever increasing numbers are becoming addicts of the terrible habit?

DO YOU REALIZE that these poor unfortunates are being supplied, by vast importations of opium, cocaine, morphine, heroin, through the dark ways of the underworld that baffle the police?

DO YOU REALIZE that this terrible condition is due largely to the sudden enforcement of a too drastic prohibitory legislation? The Toronto Telegram only a few days ago quoted a prominent physician as declaring: "Some of the addicts have stated that when cut off from alcohol they had drifted around to the use of drugs."

DO YOU REALIZE that in voting for the continuance of The Ontario Temperance Act you are voting for the continued spread of this deadly traffic? The despicable creatures of the underworld who live by pandering to the weakness of their drug-victims, are hoping for a solid four "No's" on the ballot. The responsibility must rest with you,

		QUANTITY	VALUE
COCAINE	1916	5,381 ozs.	$ 18,307
	1919	12,323 "	142,123
MORPHINE	1916	15,495 "	72,199

OPIUM	1916	1,741 "	11,800
	1919	34,263 "	534,555

These figures show only what came in legally—the enormous quantities known to have been smuggled in and sold through underground channels would swell the total to an appalling figure.

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—General Ludendorff is reported to have refused to appear before the Parliamentary Commission investigating the responsibility of German leaders for the war, which will begin its session early next week. The judicial status of the Commission and the extent of its powers to enforce attendance by witnesses, is still uncertain, and it is the opinion in some quarters that General Ludendorff cannot be compelled to submit to examination.

NOW IS THE TIME of the year when it is necessary to start fires in the furnace and range, the same to be kept up for the next six months, day and night, whether you are on hand to look after them or not. It is important to see that everything is kept in good condition to avoid accidents which may occur, and also more important to see that your fire insurance is in force and in a good company. Do not delay to get your policy made out and in your possession. You never know when or where a fire is going to break out. Be prepared for it at all times even if it never happens. SMITH TOWNSHIP GAVE GILLESPIE FINE WELCOME

MEETINGS AT BRIDGENORTH AND ON THE 4TH LINE WERE THE LARGEST OF THE CAMPAIGN—CANDIDATE UNFOLDED HIS CONSTRUCTIVE AGRICULTURAL POLICY

LADIES WERE NUMEROUS

Smith Township received Mr. G. A. Gillespie last night with all the warmth and cordiality that are usually bestowed upon a native son. At the 4th line Temeprance Hall, and at Bridgenorth, he was greeted by auusences much larger than those of his opponents combined. The respective chairmen, Mr. T. H. Graham, and Mr. John Telford, referred to Mr Gillespie as the former cheesemaker of Central Smith factory, who had worked among them and developed the knowledge of the dairy industry upon which he has built up a successful business in Peterboro.

The large representation of ladies at both meetings was a striking evidence that the new voters in the country are taking a deep interest in their first provincial elections. In fact it was shown conclusively that the farmers' wives and daughters are going to the polls practically in a body and that they are becoming informed upon provincial questions even more eagerly than their sisters in the cities. Mr. Gillespie expressed his gratification that the ladies of Smith township were alive to their new opportunity and responsibility. He assured them that as in the last election he stood for advanced temperance legislation and also remarked that they knew him well enough to trust him to carry out in the tuture the same promises he had given in 1914.

Mr. Gillespie regretted that Premier Hearst had injected the temperance question into the present campaign. However, he said, the Liberal party was not afraid of the situation thus superimposed upon the big, industrial, agricultural and other issues facing this province. The Liberal party, its leader, Mr. Hartley Dewart, and its candidates, were pledged to carry out the mandate of the people as expressed in the referendum and otherwise to give the province advanced temperance legislation.

Mr. Gillespie unfolded his plans for demonstration farms to be located throughout the province on which the results of the experimental investigations and studies at the Agricultural Colleges could be brought to the farmers and thoroughly demonstrated to them. These farms would be entirely practical, about the size of the average farm, and with the latest ideas in operation so that the farmers could see for themselves the advantages that had been obtained by science at the Guelph College.

Mr. Gillespie contended that the District Representatives and the Board of Agriculture had outlived their usefulness. The agricultural industry of Ontario needed to be stimulated with new and broader and more efficient and practical assistance than they have obtained under the old system. A series of demonstration farms would be one step in that direction, and if elected Mr. Gillespie promised to strive to bring it into effect.

Good Roads.

Captain C. R. Widdifield said that the great need of the Province of Ontario today is good roads. Proper assistance to the building of good roads has been denied by the Hearst Government.

All the farm produce has to be drawn over the roads and if the roads are poor the cost of marketing farm produce very rapidly increases. The better the roads the cheaper, the farmer can market his goods and the more money he makes.

The Government have spent over $600,000 on the Hamilton highway which is principally used as a pleasure ground for the rich of Toronto and Hamilton. The Liberal party are pledged to improve the highways that will be of the greatest benefit to the farmer and what will benefit the farmer will benefit both City and Town and will enable the farmer to bring to the Town his eggs and butter and poultry and vegetables and other farm produce at the least expense and will enable him to sell them at a reasonable price to the consumer.

Mr. R. R. Hall.

Mr. R. R. Hall said that he was personally acquainted with Mr. H. H. Dewart, the Leader of the Liberal Party for over twenty-five years and that he is without doubt one of the few great leaders of the Canadian bar and stands right at the head and front of his profession.

Mr. Dewart was elected to succeed the late Honourable J. J. Foy, as member for South West Toronto. Mr. Foy had been elected by a majority of nearly four thousand as the Attorney General in the Whitney Administration. Mr. Dewart cut down that majority to the vanishing point and was elected as a Liberal by a large majority in Tory Toronto.

Since Mr. Dewart has been elected he has proved himself to be the most valuable and capable member of the legislature. Since he has been a member he has saved this province or brought into its coffers over $540,000 per year by reason of his insisting upon the Canadian Copper and Nickel Company being taxed for a reasonable sum but not as much as what it should be.

The Nickel Company

The Nickel Company was only paying $40,000 a year for its taxes and mining rights. Mr. Dewart exposed the situation and the enormous graft that surrounded this Nickel Trust and had its taxes raised to $680,000 a year. This is the Nickel Company of evil fame in the late war and Sir William Hearst and his Government are responsible for thousands of tons of Canadian Nickel finding its way to Germany after the war began to be used by the Germans to shoot down our own soldiers.

The Nickel produced by this Company according to Mr. Dewart's contention should be refined in Canada and Canada would have full control of the nickel industry of the world because Canada is the chief source of supply of nickel.

The Nickel Trust has a capital of $53,834,600.

From 1911 to 1918 its net profits ranged from $3,000,000.00 per annum to as high as $12,000,000 per annum and it paid a war tax to the United States Government in one year of $3,500,000.

If it had not been for the short sightedness of the Hearst Government this valuable industry would now be established in Ontario and can still be established in Ontario if the Province only asserts its rights.

DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS RESUMED.

PARIS, Oct. 16.—Diplomatic relations have been resumed between France and Germany. Part of the German Legation is now installed in Paris.

PARIS, Oct. 16.—By ratification of the Peace Treaty Germany must sink all warships under construction and deliver her aerial fleet and evacuate Silesia and Eastern Prussia.

Women Control Town's Destiny

Can Make or Break a Community Through Exercise of Their Buying Power

They Hold Purse Strings

It is Estimated That at Least 60 Per Cent of Retail Purchasing Is Done by Femine Shoppers

It has been said that the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world and nowhere is this more literally true than in the world of trade. The woman is the purchasing agent of the household and man, as a rule, is very glad to have her handle the job.

It has been estimated by some students of the merchandising game that 80 per cent. of all retail buying is done by women. This may be a high estimate but a visit to the retail stores of any town or city is enough to convince one that the figures are not too high. The preponderance of women among the buyers is sufficient, at any rate, to make not only the retailer but the manufacturer and the wholesaler realize that it is the women that they must please with their merchandise.

Because they do the far greater part of the buying in any community, the women have a responsibility that they do not always appreciate. The women of a town, through their buying power, can make or break the merchants of it and as a natural consequence they can make or break the town. It is in their power to make it a prosperous town or a dead town. When the women of a town acquire the mail order habit, the town may just as well begin making arrangements for its own obsequies.

Hard to Understand.

Just why a woman, who is a shopper by instinct and a shrewd judge of values in merchandise, should succumb to the lures of the mail order house it is difficult to understand but unfortunately some of them do. No one knows better than the woman who has had some experience in the buying of merchandise how difficult it is to distinguish between the genuine and the imitation even after a close inspection. The good shopper, when on buying bent, does not always take the first article that is offered for inspection. In fact this is the exception rather than the rule. The merchants know it and expect it. They expect a woman, if she is a good shopper, to "look around a little."

If a woman should walk into a retail store and purchase the first suit that she tried on, for instance, the shock probably would prove fatal to the storekeeper or the saleswoman. The chances are that she will try on a dozen suits and look at as many more before she selects one that suits her taste or pocketbook, and the storekeeper not only expects but wishes her to do this. He wishes her to be satisfied as he knows that a satisfied customer is the best advertisement that he can obtain.

Taking a Chance.

This same woman, however, may order a suit from a mail order house on the strength of nothing more than a pretty picture and an alluring description. She has not even the opportunity to try it on, to say nothing of the chance of examining the fabric, noting the exact shade of the material and inspecting the workmanship. She is taking chances on the suit fitting her, on the material being good and durable, the shade becoming to her and the workmanship of such a character that the suit will not fall to pieces. The woman who takes such chances cannot be called a shrewd shopper.

It might be more easily understood why mere man, unaccustomed and averse, as a rule, to shopping excursions, should fall a victim to the catalogue habit. He might find it easier to order from the picture in the catalogue than to go to a store and look for the article that he wanted or he might take the position that he wouldn't know wha the was getting if he went to the store and he might as well take a chance on the mail order gamble, but why the woman who knows what she wants and knows that she is getting what she wants when she gets it should buy on the "sight unseen" plan—well, that's another question altogether.

Woman's Greatest Opportunity.

Women are taking a more and more prominent part in public affairs all the time. They are aiding now in many parts of the country in running the affairs of state. Even where they do not have a ballot they are playing a big part, individually and through their organizations, in the conduct particulagly of local governments, yet in the one field where they can do most to help build up their communities they may be overlooking their opportunity. With the buying power in their hands they can do more for their community by stanchly supporting their home business men than they can possibly do in any other way.

Man may think he is a very important element in the progress and development of his town but when he reflects that 80 per cent. of the buying power of the community is in the hands of the women he is apt to realize that he is a very insignificant atom.

Trade at Home Notes

Has it ever occurred to you that the profit on merchandise bought by our citizens from stores in other cities would soon start a mammoth industry employing 200 to 500 men at good wages? Would you like to see such an industry in Peterborough? Then, trade at home. Here's just one instance related by a lady recently returned from Toronto: Fine velour hats that are selling for from $12.00 to $18.00 in that city can be bought in Peterborough for from $6.00 to $12.00. Proof of this may also be seen by reference to the millinery advertisements in The Examiner of a few days ago.

A VICTORY BOND IS SAFETY FIRST

In making an investment, two chief things are to be considered. First you ask what stands behind the bond as guarantee, and second you want to know what interest the bond pays.

"Safety First" has become a national slogan. So it is in buying bonds. You want to be sure they are safe above all else. In buying Victory Bonds the same question is asked.

What is the guarantee behind the Victory Loan 1919?

Back of the Victory Loan stands the wealth of Canada, her industries and her natural resources. These latter have hardly been scratched. The mining industry is in its infancy in Canada yet in 1918 the yield from the mines was $810,204,970. Only one-eighth of the farm land of the Dominion is under cultivation, yet no one doubts the immense value of Canadian farm lands. The fishing waters of the Dominion extend over 282,000 square miles. The greatest forest reserve of the Empire is Canada which has over 225 million acres of commercial timber.

Undoubtedly Victory Bonds 1919 are the best guaranteed investment that can be bought to-day. All Canada stands back of them—prepare to buy to your limit.

A PIMPLY FACE OR POOR COMPLEXION QUICKLY RESTORED

Thousands of young men and women would be handsome and attractive were it not for unsightly pimples, blackheads and rough uneven skin. Custom seems to recommend lotions and salves, but unfortunately their effect is but temporary. These disfiguring blemishes do not originate in the skin—their birth in every case goes further back, to the blood, which must be cleansed of humors before the pimples depart for good.

A physician who has made a careful study of such cases, says that the best cure comes from a blood-building medicine like Ferrozone. The minute Ferrozone strikes the blood its good work begins. Poisons and foul matter are expelled. Every trace of humor is driven out, and the whole life current is supplied with nutriment and health giving qualities You can always tell a Ferrozone complexion when you see it—the cheeks are clear and rosy, no signs of sallowness—the eyes are bright and expressive because rich, red blood is circulating through the whole system carrying health, energy and strength with it. Not only will all skin eruptions disappear, but an increase in vital strength, an all-round improvement will be apparent. No rebuilding tonic could be more efficient. Get Ferrozone to-day—Good for young and old, for well folks and sick ones, too. 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or direct by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

LAPOINTE WILL CONTEST QUEBEC

"YOUNG MEN" WILL FIGHT IT OUT AT THE BYE-ELECTION ON OCTOBER 27TH.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 15.—The resignation of Ernest Lapointe as representative of Kamouraska in order that he may run as Liberal representative in Quebec East at the coming by-election on the 27th, is regarded here as having considerable significance. In fact, it is interpreted as foreshadowing a new and interesting alignment in the Province of Quebec.

Mr. Lapointe has given up a seat which he has held since 1904 to contest a constituency which at the outset promised to have at least 4 candidates in the field. His acceptance of the nomination was, however, practically to limit the fight to two men, namely, himself and Armand Lavergne, a former lieutenant of Henri Bourassa, Nationalist leader. And now there is no certainty that even Mr. Lavergne will be in the field when the polling day comes, for the elimination of Mr. Lavergne is the chief purpose of the fight.

Coupled with the definite announcement of Mr. Lapointe's intentions comes the rumour that the Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, formerly considered Sir Wilfrid Laurier's first lieutenant in Quebec, and who will in a few days leave for France to visit the grave of his son, will shortly retire altogether from public life, and will accept a position as lecturer in Laval University.

The very fact that Mr. Lemieux has held aloof from the contest in East Quebec gives color of belief to that report. As a matter of fact, since the death of his only son in action, and the passing of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, his former leader, Mr. Lemieux has taken but a half-hearted interest in the affairs of the public.

It is to be noted also that Sir Lomer Gouin, Premier of the Province, has apparently decided not to participate in pending by-election or to commit himself in any way on behalf of either of the candidates.

So the "young men" will fight it out.

That the mantle of Sir Wilfrid Laurier as Federal leader in Quebec has fallen upon the shoulders of E. Lapointe is unquestioned. If he secures election on 27th inst. he will not only succeed the old Chief as the representative in Quebec East, but he will also succeed him as Federal leader in the Province.

PROROGATION DELAY HAS GIVEN RISE TO MUCH SUSPICION

MANY EXPRESSIONS OF OPINION THAT GOVERNMENT PLAYING POLITICS.

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—The suspicion is being voiced in the corridors, especially among Opposition members and among others who desire to go back home to their business, that delay in prorogation is not free from political motives. Nobody appears to be very clear in his mind in the first place as to the purpose of the railway legislation which the Government has in contemplation. It is pointed out that negotiations have been going on for many months with regard to the acquisition of the Grand Trunk and that no enabling legislation was hitherto considered necessary.

Opposition members declare that the bringing down of railway legislation at this time is intended for the consumption of the Ontario electorate, and that the Government hopes for a full-dress debate on public ownership, with certain members of the Opposition voicing disapproval.

There is a further suspicion that there will be delay in the bringing down of the report of the special commitee on civil re-establishment. Judging from the general attitude of the committee and from the statements made by Sir Thomas White, Hon. J. E. Calder and others as to the financial status of the country, neither the demands of the gratuity association nor of the G.W.V.A. for further bonuses will be recommended. And there are politicians who would like to see the report shelved until after the 27th.

Altogether, the unexpected announcement that prorogation, which was expected to take place at the end of this week, has now been delayed for perhaps another fortnight, has given rise to much adverse comment and many frank expressions of suspicion.

BORROWED DARLINGS FOOL THE GROCERS

Boston Women Use Trickery to Get Sugar.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 16.— "Oh, Mrs. Jones, please lend me your baby for a few minutes; I want to get a pound of sugar."

Retail dealers here, whose supply of sugar is practically exhausted, suspect that babies are being used as "sugar bait." Many grocers displaying the "no sugar" signs are capitulating to the smiles of cherubs whose mothers must have "sweetening for the baby's food."

There was practically no sugar in Greater Boston yesterday.

THREE MURDERERS IN REGINA ARE ORDERED TO BE HUNG FRIDAY

REGINA, Oct. 16.—Dr. J. Gervais V. Carmel and J. B. St. Germain, found guilty of murdering Sheriff's Officers McKay, Charles Morsley and Lajoie at Steep Creek, were to have hanged Sept. 17, but postponement was ordered, and the latest instructions from Ottawa are that they must die on Friday, between six and seven o'clock in the morning.

Backache only a Symptom

"It Seems as Though my Back Would Break."

This is a common expression among women, yet they toil on day after day heedless of the significance of this distressing symptom.

Backache is often a warning of some inward trouble that requires attention, and which unless relieved will sooner or later declare itself in more serious ailments.

If it is caused by female derangement Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is what you need. It quickly asserts its curative powers in all those peculiar ailments of women.

For more than thirty years this good old fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring women to health.

The Splendid Recovery of Mrs. Fleet

Brantford, Ont.—"I have been a user of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find there is nothing better for female troubles. I was taken sick with sharp pains in my right side and up over the hip to the back and the doctor said I would have to be operated on. I was in the hospital three weeks and did not get any better so I went home and took the Vegetable Compound. I stayed in bed three weeks more, then I was able to get up. Now I am all right and I have recommended your medicine to several friends and my daughter is taking it and all are pleased with the results from its use."

MRS. FRANK FLEET, Brantford, Ontario.

Mrs. Hunt tells how it helped her

Detroit, Mich.—"I was in a general run-down condition, was very nervous and tired, had backache and other troubles. I suffered for several years, was not able to work at times and tried doctor's medicine with no results. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised, and after taking it a short time I was much better. I am still taking it myself and giving it to my daughter, and am glad to recommend Vegetable Compound at any time."—Mrs. M. E. Hunt, 171 Davison Ave.

WEDDING BELLS

TENNYSON—BRADLEY.
THOMPSON—BRADLEY.

Park Street Baptist Church, at ten o'clock yesterday morning, in the presence of an exceedingly large number of relatives, friends and acquaintances, marriage of the daughters of Mrs. M. Bradley, 33 Lafayette avenue—Ethel May to Melville Tennyson, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Tennyson, Otonabee, and Violet Pearl, to Grant H. Thompson, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson, Maple Lake, Ont., the pastor of the church, Rev. Dougal Brown, officiating. The church was most gorgeously decorated with autumn foliage. The two very charming brides, who were unattended, were given away by Mr. Hugh McLaughlin, cousin, and Mr. Jim Bradley, brother of the brides, who were both gowned alike in white silk crepe de chene, with tulle veil in Juliette cap effect, caught with a bandeau of orange blossoms, and carrying huge sheafs of roses and carnations. After the ceremony the guests motored to the home of the brides' mother, where a reception was held, when she was wearing black silk and georgette crepe with corsage bouquet of of roses. Mrs. Philip Tennyson was gowned in black charmeuse satin and wore a corsage bouquet of violets and sweetheart roses. After the reception the brides quietly slipped away and later appeared in their travelling costumes of navy blue serge with hats alike of black silk velvet edged with salmon pink of the same material, leaving amid showers of best wishes on the wedding trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls and other points.

The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Tennyson, Toronto, the latter in navy satin and georgette crepe, and bouquet of Killarney roses; Mr. and Mrs. John Tennyson, Toronto, the latter in taupe satin and wearing Orphelia roses; Mrs. John Shier, Kincardine, Ont., wearing silk poplin and bouquet of Killarney roses; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McLaughlin, Collingwood, Ont, the latter wearing white silk crepe de chene; Miss E. McLaughlin, Collingwood, wearing white flowered georgette; Ernest Thompson, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Sedgwick; Mr. and Mrs. Graham Weir and others. The numerous and costly gifts testify to the high esteem in which they are held.

Upon their return from the wedding trip will reside in Peterboro and be at home to their friends after November 1.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Dr. and Mrs. Greer have returned to the city after spending the summer at Gore's Landing.

The dance and card party given last evening in the Great War Veterans' Hall under the auspices of the Social committee of the Great War Veterans assisted by the Woman's Auxiliary, proved a splendid success and was attended by about two hundred persons. Progressive euchre, for which suitable prizes were awarded, was played in the early part of the evening, after which, with music supplied by the Allen orchestra, a most enjoyable dance was held.

Rev. Mr. Leach, of North Dakota, who spent a pleasant visit with Mr. D. McQuaig, 474 Sherbrooke Street, returned to his home yesterday.

Mrs. H. A. Wood, of Edmonton, Alta., arrived in the city on Tuesday, and is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bradburn, Stevens Apartments, George Street.

Mrs. Lenore James Kennedy, who will take charge of the vocal department of the Conservatory of Music, has arrived in the city, and commenced her duties to-day. Miss Laura Newman, pianiste, has also arrived in the city.

Mr. J. Kenny of Toronto, is visiting his aunt, Mrs. James Kenny, 368 Downie street.

Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh of Toronto, are visiting Mrs. McIntosh's sister, Mrs. Kenny, 368 Downie St.

Miss Phyllis Robertson left to-day for New York, where she will resume her profession.

Mrs. E. J. McCarthy and Mrs. K. G. Lech were the patronesses of the weekly dance given last evening in the Conservatory of Music Hall by the Peter Robinson Chapter I.O. D.E. The affair which was attended by a large number of the young people proved a decided success. Music was provided by Moher and FitzGerald.

IN MEMORIAM.

SIMPSON.—In loving memory of my dear Son, Herbert L. Simpson, who was killed in action 11th October, 1919.

If we could have raised his dying head
Or heard his last farewell,
The grief would not have been so hard
For us who loved him well.

We think of him in silence,
And his name we oft recall;
But there's nothing left to answer

Friends may think we oft forget him
When at times they see us smile;
But they little know the sorrow
Which that smile hides all the while.

PLUARD.—In memory of Jas. Pluard, who died 13th September, 1918.
Gone, but not forgotten

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our dear son, Lieut. Percy L. Brown, R.A.F., who died October 16th, 1918, from wounds received in an aeroplane accident, while instructing:

On Brandon Hill they made his grave,
Laid him aside with other brave,
His life for King and right he gave,
Our only son.

A handsome, happy, loving boy,
His soldier spurs yet hardly won,
A father's pride, his mother's joy,
Our only son.

He answered to the nation's call,
We ill could spare our one and all,
And prayed God would not let him fall,
Our only son.

But fortune failed him in the strife,
Our pride was in a moment gone,
We are alone, just man and wife,
Without our son.

—Father and Mother.

IN MEMORIAM.
A TRIBUTE
To Lieut. P. L. Brown, R.A.F.

Oh, sirs, don't say he can't return—
That he is far beyond the stars—
The stars which look so far, so cold.
I want him nearer, nearer still;
Just somewhere close in our own sir,
Not far above this thin, grey hair.

Don't tell me I commit a sin
To steal into that other room,
That all I see is his dear face—
That fair, sweet face and manly form.
To me that room is sacred ground,
Or else I would not feel my heart
Grow bigger, bigger with pure joy
At having spoken with my boy.

And if—and if—don't turn away—
I might just see that precious face,
And catch once more that tender smile
Which warmed me like the summer sun,
Then, sir—oh, sir!—I know right well
This lonely heart with joy would swell.

And still you say it were not kind
To wish to keep him here below,
Where hunger is, and sin, and pain.
It may be, if the ache grows less,
For his own good I'll let him be;
But not just yet, dear Lord—not yet
—I'll see.

—Mother.—

NEW COMPANY PREPARES TO INSTALL MACHINERY IN LOCAL PLANT.

PROSPECTS GOOD

Mr Watson, engineer for the Gummed and Coated Paper Company, has been here for the past few days inspecting their new premises (Stickney Motors Ltd.) Mr. Watson has just returned from Leicester, England, where he established a plant there for the same company. He also superintended the removal of the paper company's plant at Middletown, Ohio, three years ago, which is at present being assembled.

Mr. Watson came to the city for the purpose of measuring the building and making a thorough examination so that if the bylaw carries next Friday they will be ready at once to begin the installation of machinery.

They will put in machinery valued at $30,000 to $40,000 at the outset.

Judging by the business they have done in Canada now and their prospects for further business they expect to increase their capacity here in the near future.

ANTI-BOLSHEVIK FORCES SWEEPING OVER RUSSIA

SOME AUTHORITIES CLAIM PETROGRAD HAS FALLEN—END OF BOLSHEVIK REGIME.

A WIDE FRONT

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Petrograd and Kronstadt are reported fallen, according to a State Department despatch from Consular sources on the Swedish border. The despatch gave no details, but said that Gen. Yudenitch's army was reported to have captured two cities.

An Iron Ring.

(United Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The collapse and downfall of Bolshevism—unless saved by the intervention of winter—was considered imminent here to-day with the receipt of reports that on every Russian battle front the foes of Bolsheviki are meeting with victory. Along vast fronts, approximating more than 1,200 miles, armies estimated at half a million men, are battling in a desperate effort to overthrow the Bolshevik forces. From the White Sea to the Caspian there are almost uninterrupted lines where half a dozen nationalities are closing in upon the strongholds of the Soviet regime. The Bolsheviki armies, estimated at between 500,000 and 600,000 in strength, are fighting in the last ditch. Apparently they are crumbling swiftly. The fighting is proceeding on a scale of distances unprecedented in history. At two points the anti-Soviet forces are deeply penetrating the Bolsheviki country, while a stupendous circle of armies is enclosing all of Western Russian and gradually drawing in toward Moscow.

A Huge Wedge.

With remarkable speed, Gen. Denikine is pushing a huge wedge in the plains of South-western Russia, toward Moscow, while 300 miles to the north General Yudenitch has reached Gatchina, the gate to Petrograd.

Along hundreds of miles of other fronts various armies are advancing on the other side of the circle, seven hundred to a thousand miles away. Admiral Kolchak's Siberian armies have recovered from the recent Bolshevik blows and have renewed their advance. Conflicting interests and lack of news make the situation most obscure, but an expert of the War Office supplied the United Press with a general outline to-day. The armies are in the field:

The Fighting Forces.

The North Russian army, holding the Murman and Archangel regions, and operating on all fronts of approximately two or three hundred miles, has an estimated strength of between 20,000 and 30,000 men. Within the last three days it has been advancing along the Vologda railway to the south.

Finnish Troops.

Further south the Finnish troops in Lake Ladoga, on a front of 50 to 75 miles north of Petrograd. Owing to conflicting interests it is standing still, although officials here believe the Finns are capable of capturing Petrograd with some aid.

A Mixture.

To the east of Petrograd, from the Gulf of Finland to the Dwina River, is General Pudenitch's group, styled the North-western government. Yudenitch's army is composed of Russians, Esthonians, Letts and Lithuanians. It finds its movements complicated by Col. Bormondt's Murman Russian forces. Bormondt claims he also wishes to fight the Bolsheviki, but the Letts and Esthonians and the Allies prevent him from getting at them.

Still further south the Lithunians and Poles are holding a couple of hundred miles of front along the Dwina river and astride the Pripet Valley, where the Poles are advancing slightly.

Situation Uncertain.

On the Poles' right is Gen. Petlura's Ukrainian army. The situation there is uncertain owing to Petlura's clashes with the Poles and his disagreements with Denikine continuing the battle lines across the great plains.

To the east is Gen. Denikin's forces, estimated at 200,000 to 300,000 men and supplied with Allied munitions. Denikine's front stretches over 450 miles, covering the richest regions of Southern Russia. Since the opening of his campaign in May, Denikine has advanced over 300 miles, capturing 200,000 prisoners and huge quantities of spoils. He now holds the most important town of the south, and is within 200 miles of Moscow.

Near a Collapse.

Farther eastward are the Cossacks

The closing meeting of the campaign in Mr. Gillespie interests will be held in the G. W. V. A. Hall, Murray street, to-morrow, Saturday evening at 8 o'clock and promises to be the biggest rally in the campaign. The speakers will be Mr. Lindsay Crawford, the eloquent editor of the Statesman. Mr. G. N. Gordon and Mr. Gillespie, who will discuss the main issues of the campaign. The electors of West Peterboro are cordially invited to be present at this meeting to hear the addresses. Ladies are especially urged to be present. The committee can be counted to give you eloquent and forcible exposition of the issues that are before the people.

VOLUNTEERS HIS AID TO MR. GILLESPIE

One of those little incidents that help to brighten the toilsome round of campaigning in the country occurred at a Gillespie meeting in Smith this week when a farmer, known to the neighborhood as a Conservative, entered the hall. The meeting was about to open and this man dropped into a rear seat. Significant glances donated surprise and something of delight that this farmer should attend a Liberal meeting, but the audience did not know that when Mr. Gillespie was leaving this farmer approached him and said "George, I'm going to vote for you because I think we need a change of Government." Mr. Gillespie remarked on the way home that nothing was more encouraging than to meet men who had formerly opposed him but who were now promising their support, and were not trying to conceal their intentions from their friends.

EVERYONE A MUSICIAN

One can hardly appreciate what the invention of the Heintzman & Co., player piano means to thousands who have not had the privilege of a musical education. Anyone without any knowledge of music can sit down before this piano and play the choicest selections of whatever class may be wished. You will never appreciate how true this is until you do play it. At their main warerooms in Toronto and in all their branches throughout the Dominion Heintzman & Co., Limited. George and Hunter street, Peterboro, are making a fine showing of their famous player pianos.

GERMANY'S REPLY TO ALLIED NOTE

By Carl D. Groat.
(United Press.)

BERLIN, Oct. 17.— Germany, in her reply to the Allied note, demanding evacuation of the Baltic provinces, declared she had induced 15,000 troops to return home. They will begin withdrawing Saturday. The note also declared that Gen. Von Der Goltz was returning. The note expressed the hope that the Allied mission to the Baltic would visit Berlin on its way to court and discuss the situation with German government authorities. Germany pointed out in her reply to the Entente, that she was powerless to do anything with the Germans who had joined the Russian armies or had become Russian subjects.

Germany hasn't yet answered the Allied request that she co-operate in a blockade against Soviet Russia, but will send her reply in a few days, it was stated to-day. In the reply the German government will declare its opposition to the Bolshevik regime, but will add that it does not approve of a hunger blockade as a method of conquering the Soviet. Germany also will express her desire to consult the neutral countries before reaching a decision and will suggest a conference with the Entente over the conduct of the proposed embargo.

TREAT FOR THE LITTLE CHILDREN

Due to the kindness of interested friends the little inmates of the Children's Shelter enjoyed a rare treat recently when, as guests of the Management of the Strand Theatre, they witnessed the Baby Mary Osbourne films at the theatre and followed up the treat by ice cream and chocolates at Coleman's bought with part of a cheque for $6 sent by Mr. N. Tobin on behalf of the local agency of the Metropolitan Insurance Company.

HUNTER STREET BRIDGE PROGRESS

TEMPORARY STRUCTURE WILL SOON BE READY.

The abutments under the old Hunter Street Bridge will soon be removed, and a gang of men are constructing temporary wooden abutments further out in the stream. The present abutments interfere with the construction of the spans of the new bridge.

The roadway approaching the temporary bridge, which will soon be constructed at a point directly north of Riverside Park to the end of Simcoe Street, is now nearly completed. It reaches Burnham Street, just east of the brewery, and cuts directly in front of the ticket office at Riverside Park.

The temporary woodwork has been completed on one of the spans in the bridge approach, and a high tower has been built to drop cement on the top. The retaining wall reaching from Burnham Street to the old McAllister mill is now smooth with the rubbed finish. A granite crusher is busy at work preparing the granite for the bridge proper when it is built.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Sergt. Major C. E. Hardwicke returned home on Tuesday afternoon after spending the last five years overseas.

Dr. C. D. McCulloch, Mrs. McCulloch and little daughter, spent the holiday with relatives in Peterboro.

Mrs. Marling, Lakefield, was a guest in the city to-day.

Mr. M. Milburn, of Saskatoon, Sask., formerly of Peterborough, is visiting his brother, Mr. Walter S. Milburn, 218 Stewart Street.

Mrs. Finnemore and Miss Finnemore of Lakefield, were in the city to-day.

Mrs. Flester of Winnipeg, is in the city, visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stocker.

MR. M'DONALD WAS WELL RECEIVED IN LAKEFIELD

EAST PETERBORO'S U.F.O. CANDIDATE DECLARED THAT HE STOOD FOR THE ASSERTION OF THE RIGHTS OF FARMERS WHICH HAD BEEN TOO LONG IGNORED.

ENLISTED IN 93RD BATT.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 17. — A fair crowd ,but not fair weather, greeted Mr. E. N. McDonald, the U.F.O. candidate for East Peterborough, on Thursday evening at his meeting.

Mr. E. J. Galvin occupied the chair. He referred to several statements made at Mr. Thompson's meeting the previous evening which struck him as being inconsistent. For instance the Hearst government taking credit for giving the ladies the vote. The Conservatives were opposed to it and the Grits approved and it was only because the women of Ontario made a big fuss that they got the franchise. Also the astounding statement made by Mr. McWhinnie that Ontario nickel was shipped to the States in war time and then found its way to Germany to make bullets to shoot holes in Canadian soldiers and that Ontario did nothing, but left it with the Imperial authorities. And then the government asks the returned soldier for his vote.

What U. F. O. Want.

The U.F.O. are out not to assist any party, but to demand and get fair representation for the basic industry of this country. The agricultural industry even last night was admitted to be the backbone of the country. They want sane and economical expenditure of public funds. The Dominion of Canada has agricultural possibilities greater than any in the known world, and Ontario, the banner province, has only been touched on. And yet there is a decrease in the rural population of 20 per cent. in the last twenty years. In 1899 the population of Peterborough county (outside the city) was 39,000—last year it was 19,000. In every crisis in the country's history the farmer is appealed to to save the day. It is put up to the farmers. October 20th will be a day of fate for the farmers of Ontario.

Mr. Galvin called on Mr. Ellis. The Ontario Council of Agriculture was the first society to indorse woman's suffrage, he said, so that in these days of claiming credit for getting the women enfranchised, the rightful claimant is the farmer. Mr. Ellis felt fully competent to address the farmers' meeting in the town, as he himself, while he runs a farm, lives in town. The farmers want a square deal for all. Maine led the way in establishing bone-dry legislation, and it was

All returned soldiers who so far have failed to get their names on the Voters' Lists will be given another opportunity to-morrow.

Men who have returned since the lists were closed are asked to give their names to Mr. S. Whatley, secretary of the G. W. V. A., not later than this evening, and their names will be placed on the lists.

SPECIAL RECORD SALE

For one day only we will sell records at greatly reduced prices, such as the following: Pathe, Victors, Columbias, Lyric, Brunswick, O. K. and Gennett. EVERY RECORD is serviceably perfect. They will be offered at 40c each. At the price we will eliminate playing. A choice may be made from Record Cabinets direct. NELSON'S RECORD EXCHANGE. OUR NEW OFFICE is 332½ GEORGE STREET. Phone 229. Entrance by Victoria Hall LANDING, Room "C."

LIBERALS AND COST OF ROADS

One of the chief concerns of the farmers of Peterborough County is the development of its roads. The position of the Liberal Party on this important question is expressed in its stand for "the immediate and vigorous prosecution of the County Roads System, with increased grants for construction and maintenance, so as to remove as far as possible, the present burden from the rural municipalities."

This is only part of the Liberal policy, and it recognizes the justice of farmers' complaints against the share of the cost of road development imposed on them by the Government.

PROHIBITION BILL PASSED BY CONGRESS

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—An increasing interest in the affairs of state is being manifested by President Wilson, it was learned at the White House to-day. He is keenly concerned with the next treaty clash in the Senate, Senator Hiram John's amendment to equalize the vote of the United States and the British Empire in the League of Nations Assembly. Wilson has been informed of the defeat of the Shantung amendment.

Early information from the Executive Mansion to-day was that the President was still asleep and that he had rested fairly well during the night.

The prohibition enforcement bill, one of the important measures which has been passed by Congress, and is now before Wilson for his signature, has been sent to the Attorney-General for an opinion.

HUSBAND SAID TO BE MILLIONAIRE

MRS. SARAH KIDD IN TROUBLE IN HAMILTON—NEARLY BLIND.

HAMILTON, Oct. 17. — In the case of Sarah Kidd, 115 Rebecca street, Inspector Shain stated in the police court yesterday that two houses owned by the defendant were considered by the Board of Health to be unfit for habitation.

Dr. Roberts, the M.H.O., said the case had not been brought up with the idea of punishing Mrs. Kidd, whose physical condition prevented her from looking after her affairs properly. He thought that she being practically blind, should be placed where she would be properly looked after.

"I understand that this woman's husband is practically a millionaire, and is giving away a lot of money to charity, and for the erection of memorials and so forth. It would be much better if he were to contribute to her support, even if he is separated from her," said the magistrate, who instructed Inspector Hunter to communicate with her husband. He reserved his decision in the meantime.

PERSIAN PROVINCE REVOLTS.

Does Not Like Government Agreement With Great Britain.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, Oct. 17.—A despatch to the Daily News from Geneva reports that the Persian province of Azerbaijan has revolted against the Central government at Teheran, as a result of the agreement concluded between the British and Persian governments. The Governor-General of the province has been expelled from Tabriz, the capital.

Bandits Hanged

THREE MEN IN PRINCE ALBERT PAY THE SUPREME PENALTY.

GAVE NO TROUBLE

Canadian Press.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Oct. 17. —For the murder of James McKay, sheriff's officer, in November last, three Steep Creek bandits, Victor Carmel, Jean Baptiste St. Germaine, and Joseph Gervais were hanged in the jail yard here this morning under the supervision of Arthur Ellis. They gave no trouble and death was instantaneous, all being hanged with a single fall of the trap. The murder occurred when McKay went to seize a pair of horses. McKay was shot to death in a brutal manner. The murderers took refuge in a dugout on the bank of the Saskatchewan, and it took a siege by police and part of an overseas battalion to capture them, one man being shot in the attempt.

LIBERALS WILL OPPOSE THE RAILWAY BILL.

Say Country Cannot Afford It.

Canadian Press:

OTTAWA, Oct. 17.—The Liberals will, on the second reading of the Grand Trunk Purchase Bill, move an amendment opposing the passing of the bill on account of the financial condition of Canada and because of the need of more mature consideration. It is expected that a division in the Commons will be reached about Tuesday evening next, and the Senate will take it up next week. Saturday and morning sessions of the House may soon be commenced in order to hurry prorogation.

IF THIN AND NERVOUS TRY PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force

When one stops to consider the host of people who are searching continually for some method by which they may increase their flesh to normal proportions by the filling out of ugly hollows, the rounding off of intruding angles with the usual bloom of health and attractiveness, it is no wonder that many and varied suggestions along this line appear from time to time in public print.

While excessive thinness might be attributed to many and subtle causes in different individuals, it is a well-known fact that the lack of phosphorous in the human system is very largely responsible for this condition.

It seems to be well established that this deficiency in phosphorous may now be met by the use of an organic phosphate known throughout English-speaking countries as Bitro-Phosphate. The assimilation of this phosphate by the nerve tissue soon produces a welcome change in our body and mind. Nerve tension disappears, vigor and strength replace weakness, and lack of energy, and the whole body soon loses its ugly hollows and abrupt angles, becoming enveloped in a glow of perfect health and beauty and the will and strength to be up and doing.

CAUTION—While Bitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for the relief of nervousness, general debility, etc., those taking it who do not desire to put on flesh should use extra care in avoiding fat-producing foods.

A PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS

An address and several pieces of silver were presented to Miss Edith J. Avery at her home, 176 Park street on the eve of her wedding. The address was read by Rev. Mr. Neville, superintendent of Trinity Methodist Sunday school and the presentation was made by Mrs. Bookout on behalf of the teachers of the Trinity Methodist Sabbath school, where Miss Avery was a faithful teacher. Hearty congratulations were extended wishing her much happiness in her new home.

The same evening a number of friends of the bride to be made her the recipient of many valuable and useful presents. All spent a very enjoyable evening with music and games. Coffee and cake were served, after which the guests said good-bye, wishing the young couple many years of happiness and prosperity.

IF those who are willing to assist, either as scrutineers or with their automobiles, will leave word at Mr. Gillespie's Committee Rooms on Hunter Street, west of the Post Office, it will be appreciated. Telephone 1500, or names may be left with C. R. Widdifield, G. N. Gordon, Joseph Wearing or J. E. L. Goodwill.

WALES VICTOR OVER ENGLAND

SEVERAL UPSETS IN OLD COUNTRY SOCCER—PROMINENT TEAMS ON BOTTOM.

LONDON, Oct. 14. — In the first international game of the season on Saturday, Wales defeated England, 2-1, after a hard fought game. In the first division of the English League West Bromwich by reason of a 4-1 victory over Bolton retain the leadership but are being hard pressed by Middlesboro and Burnley. Manchester and United are going strong and are now the only team in this division which has not lost a game. Both Everton and Liverpool went down to defeat, as did Aston Villa. It is an unusual experience, both for the "Toffees" and the "Villans," to be at the bottom of the league ladder. In previous seasons they were usually found fighting for premier positions.

The "Spurs" are still going strong in the second division and have yet to lose. The same applies to Birmingham. Fulham have improved wonderfully during the past few weeks and are right on the heels of the leaders. Coventry have not yet registered a win. They have lost seven straight games and have only scored thrice.

In the Southern League Reading have jumped to the top by reason of a win over Portsmouth by 2 goals to 1. Queen's Park have improved wonderfully of late and are tied with Reading; Newport and Northampton have yet to win a game. Gillingham accomplished a great performance in defeating Millwall 2-0.

In the Scottish League Celtic scored the highest number of goals for the day when they defeated Hibernians by 7-3. The "Celts" have won every game played this season. The Rangers lead the League but they have played three more games than Celtic.

Y.M.C.A. BOYS LAUNCH THEIR NEW CAMPAIGN

OBJECTIVE IS 150 NEW MEMBERS BY 25TH OF THIS MONTH.

A great rally of the Boys' Department of the Y.M.C.A. took place Wednesday evening when about 45 boys gathered to supper at 6.30. After each had settled accounts with the inner man the annual membership campaign for the Boys' Department was organized and launched.

The Campaign this year will take the form of a race across the Atlantic between the Olympic representing the White Star Line sailing from Southampton and the Empress of France of the C.P.R. Line sailing from Liverpool. Quite aptly the teams which are out to send the respective ships over the ocean—each resolved to be in the lead—are named after the different departments of the vessel. The teams as chosen last evening are as follows:—

Olympic.

Signallers — Melcolm Davidson, Capt.
Deck Hands — Howard Young, Capt.
Engineers——Horace Rose, Capt.
Stewards——Grant Miller, Capt.
Stokers—Not Chosen.

Empress of France.

Signallers—Bert Cowan, Capt.
Deck Hands — Jack Pulkinghorn, Capt.
Engineers — Harold Davidson, Capt.
Stewards— Bernard Graham, Capt.
Stokers—Not Chosen.

The campaign will last till the 25th of the month and has for its objective 150 new or renewed memberships in the Boys' Department. The progress of the race may be seen daily on a large map hung on the walls of the Boys' Department. At the finish the side having the greater number of points shall be judged the winner. As the race proceeds the temporary results will be published for the information of the contestants and those interested.

FLED NAGGING WIFE.

LONDON.—John Woodhams was sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment for leaving wife and family chargeable to the parish of Camberwell. He told the magistrate that he had nothing but "nagging" night and morning for two or three months before he left home. "My head," said he, "was going round and round, and it fairly shook up my nerves."

DRINKING A GLASS OF HOT WATER IS A SPLENDID HABIT

Cleanse and Sweeten the System Each Morning and Wash Away Poisonous, Stagnant Matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise; splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back, can, instead, both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink, before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimetary tract before eating more food.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a fine appetite for breakfast. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store, but it is enough to make anyone who is bothered with billiousness, costipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism an enthusiast on internal sanitation.

The potatoes in some sections of New Brunswick are rotting badly, and will not be more than half a crop.

SOCIAL PLANKS IN LIBERAL PLATFORM

Realizing the public's broader conception of the State's duty in the field of social and moral reform the Liberal Party has committed itself to the following basic platform:—

The granting by the Dominion Government of Ontario to a widow with dependent children, ordinarily resident in Ontario, of a pension from the public funds, sufficient to ensure that such widow will not be compelled to neglect her children and leave the home in order to gain a livelihood;

That where a man is sent to prison it is the duty of the State to allow him a certain wage for his work, and that such wage be paid over by the State to the wife or such incarcerated person for her maintenance and that of dependent children;

That steps be taken of an effective nature to prevent the mortality which exists amongst infants and that more care and attention should be given to the feeble-minded.

A vote for Gillespie will be a vote for this programme.

ATE A $40,000.00 CHEQUE.

NEW YORK. — A cheque for $40,000.00 made just one good mouthful for Percy Bristol, a negro bank messenger, who joined the ranks of New York's "wandering" messengers last August.

The police say that Bristol admitted that after his arrest in Stamford he tore up the cheque and swallowed the pieces rather than be caught with it in his possession. Bristol's first story, the police said, was that he had been robbed in a saloon.

WILL SUPPORT THE PURCHASE PLAN

MONTREAL TRADES COUNCIL IN FAVOUR OF PLAN TO PURCHASE GRAND TRUNK.

(Special to The Examiner.)

MONTREAL, Oct. 17.— Montreal Trades and Labour Council, in a session which lasted to midnight and which was characterized by strong speeches of all the leaders of organized labour, decided last night, with only one dissenting vote, that as it had always stood for the principle of state ownership of all public utilities, it must support the government in its proposed purchase and opertion of the Grand Trunk Railway. The resolution as adopted, was:

"Whereas, there is at present an agitation in certain parts of the country against the nationalization of the G.T.R.;

"And whereas some of the opponents of nationalization are advising the people not to subscribe to the Victory Loan if the G.T.R. is taken over by the Government;

And whereas, the Montreal Trades and Labour Council has always been in favour of the nationalization of all public utilities;

"Be it resolved, that this Trades and Labour Council approve the policy of the Government in its move of taking over and operating all public utilities."

The Council also decided to apply to the courts for an injunction against the decision of the Public Utilities Commission increasing the tramway fares from five to six cents and the withdrawal of workmen's cheaper rates.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 17TH, 1919.

THE MAIN POINT.

No voter should lose sight of the all-important fact that a "Yes" vote on the first question of the Referendum means a vote for the wide-open bar and shop just as they were prior to 1916 and that if the majority of the voters answer "Yes" to the first question, the other three questions on the Referendum ballot will not be considered at all.

THE ONLY PARTY.

"Support the party that has a leader whose following is united," advises the Review. The Liberal party is the only one that comes up to this standard.

ONE ANSWER.

"Can anybody point to a single department which has not progressed during the years of the Hearst government?" is a question in some of the government propaganda. Page the Hon. Mr. Lucas and have him tell the people how many combines the Attorney-General's Department has prosecuted. That is one way of answering the query.

EVERYBODY KNOWS IT NOW.

The Review remarks that the Examiner stands discredited as a counsellor and a prophet because "two years ago it declared the candidate to which it was opposed was not the man to represent West Peterborough and the electors took its advice by rolling up a majority of something like four thousand." We, however, have no reason to change our opinion. The candidate the Examiner opposed two years ago was not the man to represent West Peterborough, and a few thousand more people realize that fact now than was the case in December, 1917.

THE REAL REASON.

The Hearst organ in West Peterborough attempts to ridicule the argument of Mr. F. D. Kerr that the government should have pledged itself to prohibition before attempting to claim laurels for itself as a temperance party. It is not in accordance with political procedure for a government that has confidence in its own record to call a convention immediately before an election, remarks the Review. This opinion, however, is not shared by the Conservative Toronto World, which frankly declares that the Premier and the Cabinet were afraid to face a party convention.

A POINT TO REMEMBER.

The Review affects to ridicule the idea of Mr. Gillespie having a chance to be elected Minister of Agriculture. "The farmers of West Peterborough are encouraged to hope that if the Liberals are returned to power a milk dealer will be appointed Minister of Agriculture." The farmers have not forgotten, even if the Review's memory is bad, that the government thought so little of the department that for many months the Premier, who is a lawyer, acted as Minister of Agriculture, as a side line to his duties as Prime Minister.

MR. GILLESPIE'S QUALIFICATIONS.

The possibilities of Mr. Gillespie's being chosen as Minister of Agriculture if the Liberal party is returned to power are sneered at by the Review. "For Minister of Agriculture a practical farmer should be selected rather than a merchant," declares the Hearst paper. The Review ignores the fact that Mr. Gillespie was for years a farmer, and that there are few men in the province who have such an intensive knowledge of the dairying industry as the Liberal candidate.

THINK IT OVER.

If the majority vote "yes" on Question No. one the Ontario License Act will be revived and liquor will be sold in the open bar and in shops just as it was prior to 1916.—Sir William Hearst.

If the Liberal party is returned to power the open bar will never come back.—Mr. Hartley Dewart, Liberal leader.

Prohibitionists, after contrasting the two statements, should have no hesitation in voting for Mr. G. A. Gillespie.

THAT PETITION.

Under the heading "Misleading Statements by the Liberals," the Review charges that a report is being circulated by the local Liberal workers and speakers "with the object of injuring the chances of Mr. R. J. Soden," that Mr. Soden signed a petition to have a liquor dispensary established in Peterborough. The Examiner has heard of no Liberal speaker making use of this fact as a charge against Mr. Soden, but as a matter of fact was informed earlier in the week that the same actuation was being made against Mr. Gillespie. The latter, it may be mentioned, did not sign the petition, although three times requested to do so. Mr. Soden did affix his signature to the petition— an action that has no bearing whatever upon the present campaign. If Mr. Soden has any reason to believe that an attempt is being made to affect his chances by a circulation of this story, which the Examiner begs leave to doubt, he can have the satisfaction of knowing that the identical report is being used against Mr. Gillespie.

TAKE NO CHANCES.

Outside altogether of the records of the two parties on the temperance issue, the present position of the Hearst government on this question is in itself a refutation of the government's claim to be the only real temperance party. Can Mr. Soden or his journalistic supporter tell the people of West Peterborough what would be the attitude of the government towards the prohibition issue if the temperance voters were to be outnumbered on Monday next? Would the Hearst party continue to fight for prohibition and temperance reform? The questions cannot be answered satisfactorily because the Hearst party, as a party, has never committed itself on the issue. While temperance legislation has been adopted by a Liberal convention as a party plank, the government has made no such pledge. Upon the promise of Sir William Hearst to vote four "no's" on the referendum, the government bases its claim for the support of the temperance forces. That is a slender reed when the number of luke-warm, last-minute, ante-election "temperance" candidates wearing the Hearst tag is considered. Do the friends of prohibition think that any party which includes such doubtful "temperance" supporters as C. H. Mills, George H. Gooderham, T. H. Lennox, the Hon. Mr. Lucas "with his ear to the ground," and others of that ilk can be trusted to be enthusiastic in their support of prohibition once Monday's election is over.

The thoughtful temperance worker will decline to take the chance and will vote for G. A. Gillespie, the candidate who has never wavered in his stand for temperance, and the standard-bearer of the party which has fought faithfully for temperance reform and is pledged to continue that fight.

TO THE WOMEN VOTERS.

The women of West Peterborough should thoroughly understand that their voting privileges on election day are exactly the same as the men, that is that they not only have a vote on the referendum, but in the provincial election as well.

Women have a vote in the Legislature election and another separate vote on the temperance question. The impression that they can only vote on the later but not on the former is, of course, a mistake. Women have a vote on each.

Every woman voter will be given two ballots to cast, two separate slips of paper, not connected in any way with each other.

On the election ballot will be the names of the candidates for West Peterborough. There will be nothing to indicate the party to which each candidate belongs, but the women will find that the name of Mr. G. A. Gillespie, the Liberal candidate who fights now as he has always fought for prohibition, is the first name on the ballot. The voter should place an X opposite Mr. Gillespie's name. That is the only mark to be made on this ballot paper and anything else will destory your vote.

The other ballot paper is for the vote on the referendum. On this the voter will find the four questions dealing with prohibition. To the right of the questions are two narrow columns, one headed "Yes," and the other "No." Each of the four questions has to be answered separately. If the answer is yes, to a question, put a cross—"X"—in the "Yes" column to the right of the question. If the answer is no, put a cross—"X"—in the "No" column after that particular question. All four questions on the referendum ballot must be answered with an "X" in either one or other column opposite the question, or the ballot will be spoiled. It is not enough to answer only one or two of the questions.

This referendum ballot has nothing to do with the Provincial elections, either one side or the other. The ballot paper will be placed in a separate box altogether.

AN EFFECTIVE ANSWER.

"If there is any criticism to make it might be said that we sold milk during the past two years cheaper than we should have sold it"—Mr. Mr. G. A. Gillespie. Mr. Soden had better drop the milk question, he should never have introduced it into the campaign.

KEPT THE DEPARTMENT ALIVE

Mr. G. A. Gillespie's statement that it was only the determined efforts of the Opposition that kept the Department of Agriculture alive cannot be refuted. And Mr. Gillespie was among the most persistent of the Opposition in goading the Department into action. The farmers of West Peterborough could not have a more fitting representative.

MR. GILLESPIE'S MESSAGE.

"Mr. Gillespie's message to the women voters of West Peterboro in conection with Monday's voting leaves no doubt as to the position of the Liberal candidate. "First of all, I would expect your first thought would be to place your vote on the referendum ballot, and I am sure that every mother of a family and every young women, who has a brother, will cast her ballot by voting 'No' four times on this occasion."

THE SEVEN SLEEPERS.

Let the Seven Sleepers finish their sleep—but let them do their slumbering in the Opposition benches. A sleeping administration is a poor Government to be in power in Ontario just now with the great problems that have to be faced. A vote for Mr. Gillespie will be a vote to substitute a wide-awake Government for the present somnolent concern.

THE BALLOTS.

The complaint of Labor men against the for of the electoral ballot shows a surprising lack of knowledge of the conditions. Speakers at the meeting the other night declared that the ballots showed Mr. Gillespie as the Liberal candidate, and Mr. Soden as the Hearst supporter, but there was nothing to indicate what organization was supporting Mr. Tooms. As a matter of fact the ballot contains nothing but the names of the candidates, with nothing to indicate the party affiliation of the nominees.

THE REAL SENTIMENT.

According to the Hearst press, there never was such a remarkable Government as this which now appeals to the people for re-election. But it is a strange thing that these tributes are paid only by the party papers. A better indication of the real sentiment of the Province is to be found in the discontent of the farmers, in the ranks of labor and among the returned soldiers.

INFORMATION WANTED.

The temperance workers of West Peterboro are intitled to know whether the Assistant-Secretary of the West Peterboro Conservative Association is still at the head of the local branch of the Citizens' Liberty League. This is a case of a man holding two positions that seems to have escaped the vigilant eye of our contemporary.

THE LOGICAL CHOICE.

Investigated by any test that the electors care to make, Mr. G. A. Gillespie stands out permanently as the logical choice of West Peterboro to represent this riding at Queen's Park. On his record as a temperance man, on his record as mayor of Peterboro and member of the City Council, on his record as a citizen, on his record as a business man, on his record as a farmer, Mr. Gillespie is entitled to the support of the electors of West Peterboro. His public and private career have always been open and straightforward; on the issue of the day, he has never failed to make his position clear and unmistakable. The people have always known where Mr. Gillespie stood; they know that his promises have inevitably been redeemed. They have confidence that the pledges that he makes the electors now will be faithfully carried out. He has been a representative that West Peterboro has been proud of and on every count is entitled to a big majority on Monday.

EXACTLY.

(Belleville Ontario.)

The Liberals fought for prohibition as a permanent condition, seeking to achieve a great social advance. The Conservatives under compulsion of an extraordinary situation made prohibition a temporary measure. On the records of the two parties the voter who desires prohibition and the prosperity, happiness and communal good health that go with it, should cast his or her ballot for the Liberal candidate.

THE PLAIN TRUTH.

(Toronto Globe.)

The plain truth is that many of the candidates who wear the Hearst label are known in their communities as recent and in some cases doubtful converts to prohibition, whose efforts in support of temperance reform would end abruptly were the bar by any chance to secure a majority next Monday, while their opponents are men who have labored in season and out of season for temperance when advocacy of the abolition of the bar was regarded by party leaders as poor politics.

MAKING THE GOVERNMENT A BARTENDER.

While the opinion of the electorate appears to be pretty nearly unanimous against the restoration of the old-time bar in Ontario yet, strange to say, there are considerable numbers of electors who desire to make a bartender of the government.

There are many who have stated to The Ontario that they will vote "no" on the first three questions of the ballot but will vote "yes" on the fourth which reads like this:—

"Are you in favour of the sale of spirituous and malt liquors through government agencies?"

Sale by government shops, or dispensaries, sounds well but it has never worked out so well in practice.

Government liquor dispensaries were tried out for a period of thirteen years in the state of South Carolina. No liquor could be drunk on the premises where it was sold. A pint flask was the smallest quantity supplied to any customer. The dispensers were paid their salaries the same as clerks in the post office and were therefore supposed to have no financial interest in sales or the production of the drinking habit among new customers.

Theoretically the law looked good but how did it work out actually? At the end of nine years a sworn statement made before the court of records of the state had this to say about the practical results of the dispensary system:

"The consumption of liquor is increasing at the rate of about $300,000 worth per year.

"Under the present plan the illicit sellers are practically immune from prosecution. They buy their liquors from the dispensaries and the officials controlled by the dispensary political machine do not seriously prosecute the dispensary's best business customers.

"The dispensary is not a temperance measure in any respect whatever. The operations of the dispensary has had a disastrous influence upon the morals and sobriety of the people. The fact that the state itself was the dispenser gave a standing and responsibility to drinking customs that they had not known before.

"The dispensary management encouraged and pushed the sales of liquor in the same way and for the same purpose as private dealers would. Local dispensers who were unable to sell enough liquor to pay their salaries and expenses and return a profit were discharged. Dispensaries that could not be made to pay a profit were closed up."

In 1906 South Carolina repealed its dispensary law, later to adopt total prohibition as the only proper method to deal with the liquor business.

An experiment with the dispensary system was undertaken in the province of Saskatchewan shortly after the beginning of the war. But after a trial of eighteen months the elector of the province decided by a vote o seven to one in favour of having the act repealed and full provincial prohibition adopted.

The Gothenburg system as administered in Sweden and elsewhere has been similarly unsatisfactory.

The liquor business can never be dealt with by compromise. The "sane, moderate" measures advocated by the Citizens' Liberty League, wherever tried, have resulted in all the evils that were rampant under the reign of the licensed bar. Often the "sane, moderate" substitutes have been worse than the original.

The only effective place to cut this this particular dog's tail is immediately behind the ears.—Belleville Ontario.

CANADA'S FINANCE.

In a statement made at Ottawa last week the Deputy Minister of Finance said that the net financial debt of Canada is now $1,950,000,000. That is, roughly, $245 for every man, woman and child in the country or nearly $1,000 per family.

The interest payable on out Dominion indebtedness for the present year will, the Deputy Minister further stated, amount to $102,767,000. That is, in round figures, $13 for each individual in Canada or $50 per family.

Proceeding with his statement the Deputy Finance Minister placed the pension charge for the present year at $30,000,000, the cost of the soldiers land settlement scheme at $25,000,000, and soldiers' re-establishment, which includes vocational training, at $10,000,000. On top of this, although it is nearly a year since armistice day, our "war expenditures" for the current year are estimated at $350,000,000.

Pensions, land settlements, re-establishment, interest on public debt and war expenditures combined make a total of $517,000,000 Against this the Deputy Finance Minister places the anticipated Dominion revenue for the current financial year at [illegible] Thus the expenditures directly arising out of the war will amount to at least $260,000,000 more than our revenue from all sources and on top of all this the country must provide for the ordinary public expenditures—legislation, civil, government, administration of justice, public work, deficits on national railways, etc.

How is the difference between income and expenditure to be met? The Government can probably float another loan to meet the deficit of this year. But no government can go on floating loans indefinitely, regardless of income, without in time (and a comparatively short time at that) finding its bonds of little more value than is possessed now by bonds issued by the Confederate States during the American Civil War. And when that stage is reached the next step in order is repudiation with the wreckage of national and individual credit involved. With our interest and pension charge alone absorbing over half of the national income for this year, and with a prospect of these charges swallowing up at least 60 per cent. of the national income next year, the danger point has already been passed. Unless there is an immediate right about face and a policy of rigid economy submitted for one of reckless spending, national bankruptcy is inevitable.—The Farmers' Sun.

NEIL REFUSES BAB HIS USUAL CARESS

CHAPTER XCIII

When Neil came down his aunt was with me, so I could say nothing to him of a private nature. I was terribly humiliated by the stand he had taken, and—I had discovered nothing. Had I, perhaps I would not have felt so chagrined But the idea that he would tell his office force that I, his wife, was not to be allowed in his private office was so belittling. Then came the thought that he might only have said that to frighten me, that he had not given such orders. Really it wasn't quite sensible to think that he would. It would humiliate him as well as me to say such things to his employees. I breathed a bit more freely after this thought came to me, and tried to join in the conversation as usual.

All through dinner Neil chatted with his aunt in his ordinary manner, but not once did he address me, nor as far as I could see did he look at me. Several times I tried to attract his attention but to no purpose. Just as we finished I heard Robert crying.

"I wonder if he is sick," I said as I hurried up stairs. He was such a good boy, so bright and cheery, that I could not imagine him crying unless badly hurt or ill. Neil and aunt had both followed me he immediately, she more slowly. Robert had fallen out of bed. The nurse already had quieted him, and was making him laugh at the idea of so big a boy being so careless as to roll on the floor. As Neil and I stood together in the door of his room watching the litlte scene, I slipped my hand into his and said:

"Please don't be angry with me, Neil. I know I did wrong, but I have been so unhappy about—her. Won't you forgive me, and take back those unkind things you said "

"I do not wish to discuss what you have done, now or ever. I shall expect to be obeyed however in that you need never attempt to criticise me again." His tone was filled with a sort of disgust that hurt me terribly, but aunt joined us, asking what had made Robert cry, and so affectually preventing my reply.

I remained up stairs a few moments. Tears were very near and I must not give way to them. Aunt would at once notice and ask the cause. When I went down to them she was making good her threat to urge him to give up attending to business in the evening because of the injury it was bound to be to his health. He was fidgeting and altho he said nothing I felt he welcomed an interruption.

"Bab says all men attend to business in the evening now-a-days," she remarked, "but I cannot believe it is right." Did I see a fleeting look of relief on Neil's face as she spoke or did I imagine it. I concluded the latter as he rose almost immediately and told her that in spite of her "business lecture," he spoke facetiously, he must leave us on a very important business matter. I followed him out into the hall. I held up my face for his usual kiss.

"Don't sit up for me, I shall be late." he said as he opened the door, ignoring my silent plea for a kiss.

"Aren't you going to kiss me good night?"

"No. I have no wish to caress a woman whose sole purpose seems to spy upon me, and use underhand methods to gratify a vulgar curiosity."

Tears fell in spite of me as he closed the door. It seemed such a cruel speech. I don't think the full enormity of my act had occurred to me until he refused to kiss me. We women are often like that. A little thing said, a caress refused means more to us than something of far greater import.

"Aren't you coming in here Bab?" aunt called. "Suppose you play for me a little while. You have scarcely touched the piano for the last few days."

I was thankful she was in the mood for music. I asked her not to switch on the lights as she followed me to the music room. As I often played so in the evening she said nothing and seated herself to listen. While as I played a symphony I knew she loved, scalding tars fell upon the keys.

VON ALVENSLEBEN'S DEBTS.

Owes Three Million, and His Assets are $30,000.

Alvo Von Alvensleben, reputed representative of the Kaiser in British Columbia, had liabilities of over $3,000,000, and assets of no more than $30,000, stated K. Kerr Houlgate, liquidator of Von Alvensleben Ltd., before the court in Vancouver this week. Alvensleben once had ambitions of being governor of British Columbia, and was picked for that post by the Kaiser. But the Germans did not win the war, and Von Alvensleben's ambitions were foiled. He lost between seven and ten million dollars in the province, spent three years in an internment camp, and today is penniless and in debt.

The thought of being dependent some day, when illness or old age takes away one's ability to earn, is rightly distasteful to the Canadian mind.

The simplest, surest way to offset this is to open a Savings Account and add something to it every week. Come in and we will gladly explain.

BEAR SHOT IN WARSAW VILLAGE

AEROPLANE DROPS LITERATURE IN FAVOUR OF EAST PETERBORO U.F.O. CANDIDATE

WARSAW, Oct. 15. — A large bear has been wandering around east of the village for a few days, and on Sunday Bruin drew quite near the village and jumped over the fence into Mr. John Tucker's place, where Mr. Tucker shot him. The bear's visit caused quite an excitement. At present it is hanging in Mr. Alex. Watt's slaughter house.

A few years ago a bear was in the woods to the west of the village, and even took a walk past a farmer's gate on the Lakefield road.

On Tuesday afternoon an aeroplane visited the village. It dropped literature in favor of Mr. E. N. MacDonald, the U.F.O. candidate. This was gotten up neatly as a souvenir of the first aeroplane delivery in East Peterboro.

Memorial Service.

On Sabbath, Oct 19th. at 2.30 in the afternoon, in the Warsaw Presthe Warsaw Presbyterian Church, there will be a memorial service at which a tablet, bearing the names of the four boys, once connected with the church, who fell for the sake of their country, will be unveiled. Rev. Mr. Jull of Lakefield, will preach the sermon. The Rev. Mr. Archibald has kindly withdrawn his service usually held at that hour in St. Mark's church, and will be present at that service. Permission has been obtained for all ranks to wear uniform at that service.

This will be the only service in the Presbyterian church on that day.

The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid will have a special meeting in the Church on Friday afternoon at four o'clock.

In the Baptist Church.

A student conducted the services in the Baptist church on Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Clare of Colborne addressed some of the members of his old charge in the Methodist church here. He told of the work that he had mapped out for himself. He wants to increase the membership of his church and raise a good deal of money and he thinks he can do it. Rev. Mr. Knox gave a thoughtful and thought-provoking address on the martyrdom of Stephen.

On Sunday Rev. Hugh Brown preached a Thanksgiving sermon in the Presbyterian church.

Mr. Ben Oliel, who has been overseas, was with Mr. Archibald, at the Anglican church last Sunady and gave a very interesting talk about his work as chaplain among the boys overseas.

There was a large congregation present.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Choate's little daughters were baptized.

The whole service was interesting and inspiring.

The Referendum.

The executive of the Dommer Referendum Committee met on Friday evening. On account of the bad roads few were present. It was learned that Mr. King, the new Methodist minister, could not get his name on the voters' lists here. It appears that there are a great many in the country in the same plight. The distance to the old charges makes it impossible for many of these ministers who were moved in June to return to their last residence.

There will be a meeting in the cause of prohibition on Thursday evening, Oct. 16, at 8 o'clock, in the town hall.

Ratepayers Meet.

At a meeting of the ratepayers of Warsaw school section last Wednesday evening, it was decided to let those people whose children could more conveniently attend the Warsaw School be taxed in the Warsaw section. Perhaps the other sections may object to such transfer. Two families who pay no taxes in the section have been sending their children to Warsaw School, also two children who are spending several months with their grandparents, attend the school.

The subject of hot lunches was taken up, and soon a meeting of the parents will be called to consider ways and means.

The Girls' Club.

The Girls' Club met at the home of Mrs. Robert on Friday afternoon. Some business was done. New officers were elected: President, Miss Emma Batten; vice-president, Miss Alice Wasson; secretary, Miss Helen Morgan; treasurer; Miss Stella Douglas; and librarian, Miss Emma Payne.

Mrs. Turriffe, who is to return to Toronto shortly, addressed the girls.

The next meeting will be in Mr. Calder's Hall, and bandaging will be the lesson in First Aid.

God Save the King.

After the programme refreshments were served by the ladies and all went home well content with the evening.

A Bad Storm

On account of the bad storm there was no regular meeting of the Woman's Institute on Thursday last. On Tuesday there was a special meeting for business. Mrs. Robert Moore is appointed delegate to the convention Nov. 12, 13 and 14. Ladies were appointed to go to the polls on Monday. The Institute will do all in its power to help the Teachers in the matter of hot lunches.

U. F. O., Meeting

On Tuesday evening, Oct., 14, Mr. E. N. MacDonald, U.F.O. candidate, held a meeting with Mr. Wallace Anderson in the chair.

Rev. J. P. D. Knox gave a very interesting and impressive address on Temperance. Mr. Barrie, Secretary of County, U. F. O., gave a short history of the U.F.O.

Mr. Brethern, Norwood, gave a short address on party prejudice also in work done by U.F.O., and on the system of voting according to the whip.

Mr. Thomas of Bracebridge, then gave a litle lecture. He spoke of the number of ladies present. He spoke on the worth of the Government on Prohibition and of the Jewish festival just past. He pointed out that we must make the Temperance Act stronger.

Mr. Wm. Payne asked to say a few words, his subject was "That we gain nothing by ridiculing the faults of the present act." He rather favored the Hearst Government.

Mr. MacDonald spoke for a very few minutes.

Personals.

Rev. Clare, wife and family of Colborne, were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Taylor last Wednesday enroute to Omemee to visit Mrs. Clare's mother.

Mrs. Chas. Foster has her mother visiting with her.

Mr. and Mrs. John Deen took in Keene Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. John Selkirk, Peterboro were in the village on Thursday

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. David Miller and Mrs. Charles Foster attended Keene Fair and found motoring pleasanter in Otonabee township than in Douro or Dummer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Selkirk were in the village last Thursday.

If you could not tell a man everything in your past life—would you marry him?

Should one youthful mistake overshadow a woman's whole life?

WAS one youthful mistake to cast its shadow over Harriet Field's whole life? Beautiful, adored, her story utterly unsuspected, was she to risk telling the man who loved her now, of that terrible secret of her youth?

Read this extraordinary story of a supreme struggle in a young and ambitious woman's heart. Should she have told? And given up wealth, position, luxury, a good man's love—all that she longed for?

Or should she have married the proud, honest man, in the fullness of his success, without giving him a hint of the risk he ran?

"If you dance, you must pay the piper," the old saying has it. Did Harriet Field have to pay?

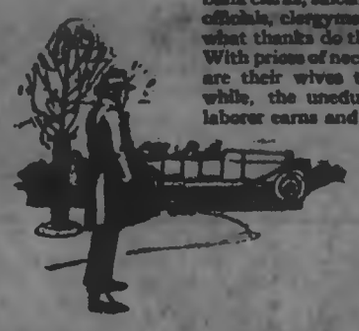
Skillfully, with sustained interest, Kathleen Norris develops this absorbing situation. It is one which must stir every woman's heart. As you turn page after page eagerly, will you be moved with profound pity for the beautiful young woman overshadowed by the dark reality that sprang out of her youth and inexperience? Or will you denounce her?—Don't miss a line of

HARRIET AND THE PIPER
by Kathleen Norris

(Author of "The Heart of Rachael"; "Josselyn's Wife," etc., etc.)

The first stirring instalment—a big, generous one—appears in Pictorial Review for November. The remainder follows swiftly, powerfully, with intense feeling in three succeeding issues. It is the most absorbing love-story Pictorial Review has ever published.

Will the salaried man sit by and see the uneducated day-laborer earn twice as much as he?



WILL the architect be forced to work as a carpenter? Must the journalist go back to the print shop? Our bank clerks, salesmen, buyers, actors, public officials, clergymen and college professors—what thanks do they get for their services? With prices of necessaries "shied" high, how are their wives to manage? And, meanwhile, the uneducated, foreign-born day-laborer earns and spends as much in a day as the salaried man does in a week or so!

How to build your own house without going broke

BUILDING a home is usually the most heart-breaking thing in the world. You start out with a fixed budget of expenditure. You think everything is provided for, and then you find you need all kinds of things you didn't dream of.

Do you know that by a new way of planning your space, you can save all this trouble and expense?

In Pictorial Review for November, N. M. Woods begins a new series on Economy in House Designing. His idea is entirely new and has already met with extraordinary response. Experts declare that no magazine has ever published anything so helpful and practical.

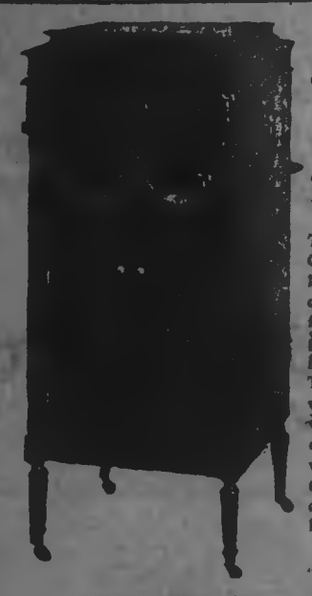
CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head and ear noises or are growing hard of hearing go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength) and add to ia ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.



The "Corona" Has Latest Type of Motor

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBORO:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Owing to the uncompromising attitude of the Provincial Government in the past towards the claims of the Producers, Agricultural and Industrial Workers alike, it was decided at the above named convention to put up an Independent Candidate for the Provincial House. At that convention I had the honour of being nominated by ballot as candidate. The conditions under which we are living, the exploitation of the Producer and Consumer by the monopolies of industry, into the hands of a ring of Capitalists, who practically control the Government to the detriment of Democracy, should appeal to you that an Independent Candidate, not under any pledge to either of the old parties, is absolutely essential for the transaction of business to the best interests of the people, and clean government. Your candidate is nominated upon the plank of a Referendum and Recall, so that if his conduct when elected is not satisfactory to the Electors, his resignation can be called for, which, it is hoped, will keep your candidate up to the platform on which he is elected. Also at certain periods of each year, your candidate will visit the electors of the constituency to give an account of his stewardship, and from time to time receive the will of the people.

Owing to the short notice of the election date, the candidate will find it difficult to meet all the electors. If you will read the local press account of my nomination you will see that my ability to fill the seat is not questioned by my opponents. That should speak for itself. I therefore ask you to seriously consider my appeal for your vote. As this is the time of Reconstruction, when initiative and progressive action is needed to carry on the work that was commenced on the Battlefields of Europe, "The War of Democracy," "Shall we break faith?"

Ladies, you have a vote; it is for you to help to decide. So mark your ballot for TOOMS, THE INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE, who stands for the will of the people.

Election Date, October 20th.

I am, Ladies and Gentlemen,
Your Obedient Servant,
THOS. TOOMS,
Secretary I. L. P.; President Building Trades Council, Member Trades and Labor Council, etc. etc.,
Peterboro.

Voice Of The People

To the Editor, and the Women Voters of Peterboro:

May I take the liberty of reminding you of the great responsibility facing you Monday next, and every day thereafter if you have not fully considered your duty. At the time of the last Dominion Elections many of us cast our first vote. Am I not right in saying that vote was cast with a thought of our men then overseas fighting against great odds, and sorely in need of assistance, and we thought we were helping them! or were we thinking of the Germans reaching our shores, and possible danger to ourselves? At any rate we tramped the streets and solicited votes, cheered at meetings and quite approved of the stand our clergy took, and were there any who did not say it was the duty of the boys to go? Did any of us realize what we were sending those boys into? At the time we could not assure their safe transport to Halifax many of them will never return. We had no qualms then, and NOW why should we consider—what is it we are thinking about? It is illness—some slight pain? Think of the men suffering many a wild night on the battle field and SURVIVING.

This present enemy who threatens our Province (who has more advocates in Germany than in the Liberty League even)—an enemy who kills both body and soul. Do you ever look at those men and boys who are in our town now with that little button on the lapel of their coat, "Lest we forget." Shall we not keep our town clean for them?

Is there anyone in Peterboro suffering in any way because the whiskey business was taken from them? NO.

The boys who spent their evening at the Veteran's Club—rows of boys having their pie and coffee over the Greak's counter last night,—will they not be as happy to-day, as the young men who a few years ago spent their evenings in some dirty bar room, club, or back lane? I have confidence in the men of to-day, but this is our opportunity to do a little housecleaning. We may not be satisfied with the man we elect, but I assure you we shall never regret the four No's XXXX.

I would like to say a word to the man of money who seems to be such a sore sport because he can not import. There was a rich young man years ago who was asked to give up a great deal—brotherhood then was the same as it is now, I am thinking.

Will our clergy help? Every clergyman of every denomination has more than once been asked to help a family brought low by drink. Will they all ring true? Who will interpret Prov. XX:1, same chapter, ver e 29. I am not quoting scripture someone else should do that IN THE PROPER PLACE. My sisters, think carefully; decide wisely; act PROMPTLY, and may God help us to win.

Scrutineer.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—In to-day's paper I notice that George H. Gooderham, the whiskey king, Dr. Cody, the Minister of Education, and the eminent divine, were on the same platform, and that Dr. Cody was supporting Mr. Gooderham's campaign. Although I am of a Conservative family and intended voting for the Hearst Government on account of Dr. Cody being Minister of Education, all those in the house, where I am boarding including myself have decided to vote against mixing religion with whiskey.

If Dr. Cody is going to keep that kind of Company he cannot have my vote, so I intend to vote for Mr. Gilleaple and against the barrel and pulpit combination.

Yours truly,
School Teacher.

PREDICTS ANOTHER WAR.

Already Appearing on Horizon, Says Exiled Austrian, Count Berchtold.

Paris—"Another war is already appearing on the horizon. It seems as inevitable as that which has just ended."

Such is the statement of Count Leopold Berchtold, who was Foreign Minister in Austria-Hungary at the outbreak of the war and is now living in exile in Switzerland, as reported in a dispatch from Vienna via Basle.

Count Berchtold, when asked for details regarding the recent revelations in the Austrian White Book on the origin of the war, said that this was made inevitable by the fact that Germany and Austria were menaced with envelopment and destruction. Efforts were now being made, he said, to bring about a reconciliation in Europe by throwing responsibility for the outbreak of the war upon the "two great dead from the conflict," namely the Empire of the Russian Tzars and the Double Monarchy of the Hapsburgs, but responsibilities for the war were already fading away before the responsibility of peace.

"I can await with confidence," declared the statesman who sent the momentous ultimatum to Serbia, "the judgment of history."

FOUND GUILTY OF NEGLECT

THREE YEARS' PUNISHMENT FOR MAN WHO ALLOWED A SERIOUS SITUATION TO DEVELOP.

Failure to take proper precautions has been responsible for many deaths, and is the cause of much suffering and hardship to-day.

Take the case of Wm. Dunn, 313 Gerrard St. East, Toronto, Ont. Mr. Dunn was a chronic rheumatic sufferer for ten years. Three years of that ten he spent in bed suffering indescribable torture. Picture the joy of this man on finding that Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules were restoring him to normal health again. Here are a few extracts from his letter to us: "During the past ten years I have been laid up with Rheumatism. One attack confined me to my bed for a year, and a second attack left me helpless for over two years. After I had tried almost everything, a friend got me a box of T.R.C.'s, and a few doses convinced me that I had at last found the proper remedy for my trouble. T.R.C.'s improved my condition rapidly, and I feel that had it not been for T.R.C.'s I should have been laid up for years."

Ask your Druggist or write us for our new booklet; it is interesting and costs you nothing (Templetons, 142 King West, Toronto). We mail T.R.C.'s anywhere on receipt of $1.50.

THIEVES REFUSE TO SEE NEW AUTOMOBILE DEVICE

LONDON. — Motor car thieves were invited to attend a recent demonstration here of a device invented by a British naval engineer to check the thieves' activity. So far as known, none accepted the invitation.

The invention consists of a box containing a gong, which is adjusted by means of a key. Thereafter the slightest movement of the car will set the gong and it will continue its clamor until the car stops.

London's police have been notified of te invention and in future they will detain the driver of any car whose bell is ringing.

A SUGGESTION FOR COUNTING THE BALLOTS

MIGHT WELL BE TRIED BY ALL THE SCRUTINEERS AT THE POLLS.

A suggestion has been offered by the Referendum committee that might well be taken up and used by all the different scrutineers at the polling sub-divisions in order that the referendum vote might be correctly and quickly counted.

It is suggested that the straight vote of 4 yea's and 4 no's be separated at the outset, and for the mixed vote the following drawing of a sheet for each clause of the ballot be used:

1		2		3		4
Yes.	No.	Yes.	No.	Yes.	No.	Yes.	No.
	1		1		1		1
1		1			1		1
1			1		1		1

The Path to Health

For many thousands of women the Path to Health has certainly been through Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When this great remedy was first introduced, and for many years after, skeptics frowned upon its curative claims, but as year after year has rolled by and the little group of women who had been cured by it has since grown into a vast army of hundreds of thousands—doubt and skepticism have been swept away as by a mighty tidal wave, until today this purely vegetable medicine is recognized as the greatest remedy for woman's special ills in the world. This is because it is a wonderful tonic and reconstructor which acts directly and favorably upon the feminine organization and is a specific for that purpose.

Women in All Countries Depend Upon

THE ALLEYS ARE CALLING.

I hear the alleys calling in accents sweet and low,
And other "bugs" just like me have heard the call I know.
The summer days are over, and gosh, things do look punk,
Such foolish games as baseball are packed in winter's trunk.
But football strong and sturdy, will last a month or two,
And some will chase the pig skin, who've nothing else to do.
The fishing days are over, mosquitoes are all dead,
And some poor souls are dreaming of hockey days ahead.
The cricket crease is punctured, and golf is buried deep,
And those who dote on tennis, now sit and sigh and weep.
The rowing shells are canvassed and croquet mallets hung,
And bowling greens are covered, the kitty's neck is wrung.
But say, if summer's welching, and things look on the bum,
When five pin games get going, it's then that things will hum.
I see the pin boys sneering, at those who think they're it,
I hear the silent cussing (he's missed a simple hit,
You'll miss the four pin, sometimes, better men have done the same,
If you will keep your temper, you'll learn to play the game.
So cheer up chappie, cheer up, bright days are now ahead,
The five pin game will soothe you when other games are dead.
Though vines are full of pumpkins and frost is in the air,
The five pin game still lingers, then who the—blank—should care.

LOCAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN COMPLAIN OF MAIL DELIVERY

OBJECT TO THE ACTION OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION—PICTURES FOR CHILDREN.

While the attendance at the monthly meeting of the Local Council of Women yesterday was small, the indignation of the members was large principally over the mail delivery in the city, the grade of pictures shown at the local shows and the action on the part of the Board of Education in ignoring Mrs. Morris in filling the place on the Board of Education left vacant by the resignation of Mr. G. N. Gordon.

Mail Delivery

Following the recitation of a number of complaints on the part of several of the women, who were unable to obtain mail during the holidays, following the Saturday afternoon holiday, it was suggested that the women of the city start a campaign whereby mail delivery be discontinued and the public call for mail at the Post Office. Miss Lancaster, who started the agitation concerning delayed mail, said that following her protest of last month, she had been called up and congratulated by a lady of the city who had also suffered the inconvenience of not being able to obtain her mail over the holiday. It was stated by one member of the Council that to her own knowledge the people of Norwood received invitations to a recent function twenty-four hours before the people of the city the delay caused by the postmen's Saturday afternoon holiday.

On motion of Mrs. W. R. Morris, it was decided in consideration of the fact the Board of Trade is the most representative body of men in the city, the Local Council of Women should draw their attention to the mail delivery conditions existing in the city and to ask them to discover if the matter is Dominion-wide, and if it is a Federal regulation, to ask them to communicate with other Boards of Trade with a view of discovering a remedy.

Picture Films.

In reporting her progress in securing films more suitable to the children of the city at the local picture shows, Miss Walton said that she had communicated with the managers of two of the theatres who had received her with marked cordiality and that she had been promised by Mr. Maurice Rosenthal of the Allen Theatre that if the Local Council of Women wished, he would put on one children's film on Saturday with one of the regular films. "One fit for children and the other not," one member interrupted. The manager of the Grand promised to put a children's film on occasionally, after explaining his position as regards to three days' contract. A three days' children's film would not pay, he said.

On motion of Mrs. S. T. Medd, it was decided to ask Miss Walton to talk over the proposed children's film with Mr. Rosenthal, and if he guaranteed that the film to be run with the children's film is suitable for the children to see or that the two films will be run as two separate shows, the Local Council will gladly co-operate with him in the showing of the picture.

Illusions were made to the class of pictures shown recently at the shows which were said to be obscene and wholly unfit for children to see. "Any child who thinks it funny in a show to see a naughty boy draw the chair from under his grandpa is well on the way to becoming a criminal," one lady remarked, in speaking of the low class of wit displayed in some of the plays.

Prepare to Organize.

At the conclusion of the meeting Mrs. Medd spoke in no uncertain terms about the action of the Board of Education in excluding a lady candidate from the vacant seat. She moved that the Local Council of Women place themselves on record as indignant at the Board of Education. "It is the most high handed thing that they ever did," one member remarked. It was agreed that women were not sufficiently organized at the last election and that at the next the women will see to it that two women are elected to the Board of Education.

SHIN BONE GRAFTED TO A GIRL'S SPINE

(Watertown, N.Y. Times.)

With a portion of her shin bone replacing what had previously been a diseased section of her spine, Irene Hughes, aged 18 years, of Alexandria Bay, is recovering at the Sisters' Hospital from one of the most difficult operations known to the medical world. The little girl, who came to the hospital last July, is now healthy and plump, able to walk, and the plaster cast that was worn for the previous year or two has been discarded. Within two or three weeks the young woman will be discharged from the hospital as fully cured of the tuberculosis that had developed years ago and found lodgment in the girl's spine.

The case has been one that has been watched with great interest by the medical farternity of this city. In the history of the Sisters' hospital, however, there has been seven such operations and in each case there has been a full recovery without the slightest infection or trouble developing.

Miss Hughes has been a resident of Alexandria Bay for about three years making her home there with a married sister, with whom she came from Rochester. For several years the young woman suffered from spinal trouble that gradually became worse, requiring a heavy plaster cast being worn at all times.

The girl's condition became so bad that it was finally decided to operate as a last resort. When Miss Hughes was brought to Watertown, little hope was held out for a recovery. The operation consumed nearly three years, during which time a splinter was taken from the shin bone, the spine was notched, after the diseased part had been removed, and the healthy bone was then grafted into place. Miss Hughes has been up and around for several days and is now able to walk with very little difficulty.

To the Electors of East Peterborough

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Having received the unanimous nomination of the United Farmers of Ontario, of East Peterborough, and believing I can serve the Electors of this Riding in a manner satisfactory to them, I solicit your Vote and kindly interest in my behalf.

I am a practical Farmer, and as East Peterborough is a typical Farmers' Constituency, I believe a resident Farmer would be more of service to the Riding than a representative whose material interests are elsewhere.

Thanking you in advance for any favours you may do for me,
I beg to remain,
Your obedient Servant,

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE PETERBORO BRANCH WOMEN'S ART ASSOCIATION

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR THE COMING YEAR—ANNUAL REPORTS READ.

The annual meeting of the Peterboro branch of the Women's Art Association was held on Tuesday last. The president, Mrs. Eastwood, occupied the chair.

The secretary's report for the year 1919 was read and adopted.

The election of officers then took place and resulted as follows:

President—Mrs. Mercer.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. A. E. Sherwood.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. V. Eastwood.
3rd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Mowat.
4th Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Roland Wadsworth.
Secretary—Mrs Roland Denne.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. E. Jamieson.
Archivist—Miss M. Rush.

Honorary members' representatives—Mrs. Goodwill, Mrs. Neal, Mrs. George MacDonald, Mrs. Pretty, Mrs. Gordon, Mrs. K. S. Wightman.

Convenors of committees: Lecture—Mrs. F. J. A. Morris. Exhibition—Miss Hatton. Social—Mrs. R. H. Turner. Musical — Mrs. Gliddon. Public School Medals—Mrs. Rush. Reading Club—Mrs. Rollins. Press Com.—Mrs. Kenner.

A hearty vote of thanks and appreciation was voted to Mrs. V. Eastwood for her untiring efforts on behalf of the association during the four trying years of the war, in keeping the society together, as in so many places the Women's Art Association died out entirely. A vote of thanks was tendered to all the Executive who had so ably assisted the president during that time.

14th Annual Report.

Members of the local branch have every reason to be gratified with the success which attended their efforts throughout the past year to fulfil the purposes for which the association exists. During the period of the war they carried on in a very restricted manner, but when the war came to an end an energetic campaign was launched to arouse interest in the association.

For four days, beginning February 19th, an exhibition was held, which was well attended. Old members expressed themselves as delighted at the revival of the local branch, and many new names were added to the members' list. We must thank Miss Bertram, of Toronto, for getting together this most interesting collection of members' pictures.

About the middle of March we had on view, in the studio, a collection of charming etchings by Canadian artists. This exhibition was open during one week, and was much admired. On March 26th Mr. Frank J. A. Morris of the Collegiate staff gave a lecture, entitled "Wordsworth and the Romantic Revival," which was a delight to those who listened to it.

On April 1st, "The Pioneer Literature of Canada and the United States" was very ably dealt with by Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Langley; and on May 1st the Rev. F. E. Malott delivered an address, entitled "A Little Trip to the Art Galleries of Europe," which was both interesting and instructive and beautifully illustrated.

During the year there were nine executive meetings.

Our treasurer reports a balance on hand of $73.83.

Medals were again donated to the public schools, and there were many competitors, which shows that prizes act as a stimulus to childish effort.

One of the goals for which the local branch strives is that it may give to our fair city a picture worthy of it and of the association.

The picture is to be the work of a recognized Canadian artist, and it is hoped will be the nucleus of a future gallery.

Miss Defries, of Washington, when speaking in Toronto before the Social Service Department of the University, said: "This cry of the people for shorter hours was that they might have time to work at the things they love.

Might one not add that it also is that they may have time to see and enjoy that which is beautiful and thus satisfy the unconscious craving of their souls and develop the aesthetic and spiritual side of their nature?

Every city should have some good pictures which belong to the people.

Is it not possible that our progressive City Fathers will help us in our efforts to have the city possess a gallery?

Canadians have yet to learn to cease to regard Art as a luxury.

To quote in this connection the words of Him Who planted in each one a love of the beautiful were surely not irreverent; "Man shall not live by bread alone."

Charlotte A. Sherwood,
Cor. Secy.

MR. AND MRS. WM. TAYLOR CELEBRATED 60TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY TO-DAY

MR. TAYLOR CAME TO PETERBORO FORTY YEARS AGO AND HELPED TO CONSTRUCT THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY THROUGH THIS CITY.

IN GOOD HEALTH

Sixty years ago to-day, October 17th, 1859, at Old Wensfield Anglican Church, in Staffordshire, Wm. Taylor was united in marriage to Mary Ann Copson, and to-day at their home, 279 Sherbrooke street, the bride and groom of over half a century, celebrated their diamond wedding, surrounded by their children, grand children and friends.

The auspicious occasion was observed by a reception in the home, which had been fittingly and beautifully decorated with flags, flowers and maple leaves, followed by a wedding breakfast served on a table of which the centre piece was a wedding cake bearing the inscription, "Married 60 Years."

While the groom is fast approaching 80 years, and the bride 79, both enjoy good health, and entered into the celebration of their diamond wedding with quite as much enthusiasm as the youngest guest, and showed every promise of living to celebrate many more anniversaries together. Mr. Taylor was delighted to hark back to the early days of the city to which he came in the town's infancy, forty years ago.

Shortly after his arrival in the city to which he and Mrs. Taylor came on the Grand Trunk Railway Mr. Taylor became an employee of the C. P. R., and helped to construct the line of that railway to Peterborough. He was later appointed to a position with the railway at Manvers and after serving the company for 25 years was awarded a life pension.

During his long life in the city, Mr. Taylor has been an enthusiastic worker for the Sons of England and was largely responsible for the organization of the local lodge in which he has held many of the more important offices. In recognition of Mr. Taylor's faithful services, the Lodge last evening presented him with a handsome smoking outfit and Mrs. Taylor with a beautiful bouquet of roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor were the recipients of several very handsome presents from admiring friends in the city.

Many a woman walks on her pride because she has small feet.

GOOD ADVICE FOR NERVOUS PEOPLE

What Worn, Frazzled, Unstrung, "jumpy" Nerves Really Need.

When you are run down, out of sorts, tire easily, have lost confidence in your ability to do things, and ambition seems to have deserted you, it's a sure sign your nerve force has run down and that your nerves need a stimulant to restore to your system its old-time strength and energy, and bring back the good old pep that used to make you famous.

All of the leading drug stores in Peterboro and vicinity, are selling a wonderful nerve remedy called Ferro-Peptine on a positive guarantee of satisfaction or money back. It's amazing how quickly Ferro-Peptine tones up the entire system, calms and steadies the nerves, and puts vim, vigor and vitality into men and women who are fagged out, nervous, despondent and ambitionless.

Thousands testify to their remarkable value in cases of severe mental depression, nervous prostration, nervous dyspepsia, trembling "jumps," "fidgets," and the generally unstrung nerves that come from excess work, worry, lack of sleep or overindulgence in drinking, eating or smoking. They ever fail to benefit. If you are blue and feel as though you didn't give a hang, or are cross, irritable and your nerves are right on edge, get a package of Ferro-Peptine right away. It comes 42 tablets to a box. Eat one with every meal for a few days and see what a wonderful improvement they make in your whole nervous system.

in the Ural region, and completing the circle are additional Kolchak's Siberian armies stretched across Siberia.

As a result of these formidable alignments the menace of Bolshevism appears to be nearer a collapse than at any time since it reached its ascendancy. What will be the new Russian power? That is the question that Allied diplomats are beginning to wrestle with now.

Petrograd Fallen?

Petrograd has fallen to forces of General Yudenitch, commander of the Russian north-western army, it was reported here to-day in advices from Helsingfors.

At the same time reports received here said that Kronstadt, the great Bolshevik naval base, has capitulated to the British fleet after intense bombardment which lasted all day yesterday. The reported capture of Petrograd was celebrated by the Russains in Helsingfors, for there was official confirmation of the fall.

An official announcement from Helsingfors reports General Yudenitch has occupied Krasnaya Gorka and Krasnoe Selo, the latter about fourteen miles from Petrograd. The announcement says the British are bombarding Kronstadt.

Nothing Official.

(United Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 17.—It was stated at the Admiralty to-day that no information had been received of the reported capture of Kronstadt. Admiralty officials say they were inclined to doubt the report.

Conflicting Reports.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Oct .17.—The march of General Yudenitch at the head of North-western Russia troops on the city of Petrograd was still progressing favourably at latest advices. Some reports of his advance, however, have apparently outrun his actual progress. There appeared, for instance, some doubt to-day whether the fortress of Kronstadt and the water approach to Petrograd had capitulated to British naval forces as indicated in reports during the night. The British Admiralty sent no confirmation advices, and the accuracy of the news was questioned in Admiralty circles. Despatches from Scandinavia have announced the capture of Gatchina, 25 miles south of Petrograd by the Yudenitch forces and stated that he was advancing on Tsarkoe Selo, former summer residence of Emperor Nicholas, and Krasnoye Selo, nearby. Reports of the capture of these places by the anti-Bolshevik army, however, seemed of doubtful accuracy. A Bolshevik wireless station is located at Tsarkoe Selo, and announcement was made by wireless press here this morning that the Bolsheviki were apparently still in possession of it, as Soviet propaganda was yet being sent out from the station during this forenoon.

Not Credited.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Confirmation of reports that British naval forces have taken the fortress of Kronstadt, on the Gulf of Finland, west of Petrograd, has not been received at Admiralty offices here. Despatches telling of the capitulation of Kronstadt are not credited, it being said that the British have only light cruisers in the vicinity, which are incapable of successfully challenging the fortress. Admiralty officials state there was no reason for a British attack on the place.

Into the Gloom.

By J. W. T. Mason.

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The reported capture of Petrograd by Russian north-western army would mean that the evacuation of Moscow, and with it the overthrow of the Bolshevik government, are now inevitable.

The Bolsheviki cannot continue to rule Russia while Petrograd is in the possession of forces which owe supreme allegiance to Admiral Kolchak. Not only is the prestige of Lenine and Trotsky fatally menaced by the loss of Petrograd, but it is now possible for anti-Bolsheviki forces to begin a decisive encirclement of Moscow.

Denikine's army, advancing from the south, is preventing the Bolsheviki from moving away from Moscow in that direction. The loss of Petrograd makes it impossible for the Bolsheviki to move northward from Moscow, and if they retreat to the west they will encounter the armies of Poland.

Their only method of operation left, therefore, is to retire eastward; that is, further away from Europe and into the gloom of Asia.

(Canadian Press.)

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 17.—General Yudenitch, whose Northwestern Russian army is marching on Petrograd, has been reinforced by troops commanded by Prince Peter Lieven and volunteers from Archangel, who form the vanguard of the advance on the former Russian capital.

WOMAN'S HAIR REACHES TO KNEES

A Year Ago Was Threatened With Baldness. Tells How She Made Her Hair Grow.

Mrs. Esther Emery, now visiting friends in the city, is the fortunate possessor of marvelously beautiful hair, which, when loosened from its coils, falls to her knees. Moreover it is of soft, silky and fluffy texture and in colour a glorious, glossy gold. Yet just one year ago she was threatened with baldness. Urged to tell how she had obtained this wonderful growth in so short a time, she said:

"Twelve months ago my hair, which then reached barely to my shoulders, was falling out at an alarming rate and growing very thin, actually exposing the bald scalp in several spots. It was dull and lifeless in colour, turning grey in patches, and very dry and brittle. My head was covered with dandruff and itched like mad all the time. I tried fully a dozen different hair tonics, but they never did me a bit of good. One day I chanced to read in my home paper of a simple home prescription to make the hair grow that was recommended by a well-known physician. It is said that by taking ordinary Lavona de Composee and mixing with Bay Rum and Menthol Crystals, and applying to the scalp each night with the finger tips that new hair would grow very rapidly. I decided to try it and had my druggist mix 2 ounces of the Lavona de Composee with 6 oz. of Bay Rum and 1-2 dr. of Menthol Crystals, and started to use it. My how quickly my hair did grow. First the hair stopped falling, the itching ceased and the dandruff disappeared. Then tiny little hairs appeared all over my scalp. These grew and grew as though nothing would ever stop them. They are growing yet and, while, of course, I have used the treatment steadily and expect to continue it at least until my hair reaches the floor, I might have stopped and been perfectly satisfied at the end of three months. I think that any woman can get long, thick, beautiful hair by using this prescription as I have recommended it to several friends and all are delighted with the result. The prescription is very inexpensive and any druggist can fill it."

Those who use it should be careful not to get it on the face or where the hair is not desired.

Put plenty of horses on the heavy implements so the work will not be too hard, and then keep them moving.

THIEVES IN MAY IRWIN'S CELLAR

Took Liquid and Passed Rest—Only Two Empty Bottles Left.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Telegraph says:

Of all the mean, low-down tricks ever played upon a perfectly kind and good-natured actress, the one just perpetrated upon May Irwin is the most tragic.

On one of the Thousand Islands, about three miles from Clayton, N. Y., Miss Irwin owns a summer home of beauty and pretentiousness. Safely —as she thought — there was stowed away in the cellar thereof a case of the rarest, the oldest and the most expensive of hard stuff which it is difficult to acquire since July 1.

A day or two ago Miss Irwin went to her summer home to close it for the winter, and, having a cold, a toothache, a thirst, or some other malady, she went down to the cellar to have her prescription filled, and discovered her liquid treasure had disappeared.

Nothing but the stimulant had been touched. All her lacey things, her table linen and even her silverware had not been removed. Two empty bottles where an entire full case once stood gave proof that the interlopers had first gorged themselves before they had carried away the remainder.

Naturally, Miss Irwin swooned. Being a temperamental actress, it is strange that she didn't do worse. But she is a violent and lusty swooner, once she starts at it, and she did justice to this bereavement, probably the most tragic she has suffered in her whole active stage life.

ASK RELEASE FROM PRISON OF GIRL AIR FORCE WORKER.

London, Oct. 15.—A deputation called at the Home office to-day bearing a petition containing thousands of signatures for the release of the young air force worker, Elsie Kathleen Smith, aged 22, sentenced to four months' imprisonment for attempted child murder. It was stated at the trial that the prisoner had been betrayed and afterwards deserted by an officer who had since returned to Canada.

The Best Health-Insurance Is a Clean Colon

THERE ARE TWO WAYS of insuring yourself against disease. One is to pay big premiums to an insurance company which will pay you so much a week when you get sick. And if you get sick, most of this money will have to go to the doctor who tries to make you well again.

THE BEST WAY is to keep the disease-resisting forces of the body so well organized and equipped as to guarantee health. Then you can enjoy life right along, and make it pay you premiums instead of paying premiums on a policy.

This can be done only by keeping the colon clean and free from clogging. For the most eminent medical authorities tell us that about 90% of the sickness we have is directly or indirectly due to constipation.

Nujol is the best health insurance "policy" in existence, because it keeps the colon clear and clean without deranging or weakening any of the other organs. It is the only foe of constipation which has no unpleasant or dangerous "come-back".

Nujol is not a drug. Every particle of it that goes into the body comes out of the body. But on its journey it softens any mass that may be impacted in the colon and lubricates the way so as to make it easy for nature to move the obstruction and properly get rid of it.

Nujol never interferes with digestion or any functions of any organ. It is not absorbed by those millions of little "mouths" in the intestine which suck in nourishment from the food passed along by the stomach. Its sole job is to keep things moving in an orderly, comfortable way. And it does this without any pain—does it equally well for babies, children, adults and aged folk.

Warning: Nujol is sold only in sealed bottles bearing the Nujol Trade Mark. All druggists have or can get Nujol. You may suffer from substitutes.

ONLY ONE DEER FOR THE HUNTER

SEASON CHANGED TO OPEN NOV. 5TH, BUT DOESN'T END TILL NOV. 20TH—NO PARTRIDGE SHOOTING THIS YEAR.

In spite of the fact that Mr. H. C. O'Living is still with us, the Ontario Government has decided that this year the deer hunters will have to go back to the old rule of one hunter, one deer. Last year, as a "war measure" and to ensure the public a little meat in Ontario, the law was changed to allow two deer per hunter.

There have been reports that there was a large slaughter of deer last year, but many an old hunter will tell you that last year was the first of many that he didn't get his count, and many didn't even get one deer. This was accounted for because the wolves were bad in the northern hunting grounds of Ontario, and the deer were chased down to southern portions of the hunters' paradise. Those who hunted there got their count as a rule.

Date Is Changed.

Another change that has been made this year is that deer hunting does not start until November 5, instead of November 1. Many hunters are rather opposed to this, but the majority are satisfied. They can have their fifteen days' shooting just the same, as the season does not close to November 20.

The season for moose, reindeer and caribou, south of the C. P. R. is set for the same dates—November 5 to 20, but north of the C. P. R. line shooting has already begun, for the first day was October 1, and the last day is November 30. Again only one of these can be taken, but no cow moose, young moose, reindeer or caribou under one year of age may be shot.

No Partridge This Year.

Partridge hunters must wait another year before they can shoot this game, as there is no open season this year, but ducks, squirrels, rabbits and hares are ready for the hunters' trusty shotgun.

Wild turkeys may be shot; that is to say, if any can be found in Ontario, but a real wild turkey is almost as scarce in Ontario now as hens' teeth. It may be well to state that the Government has fixed the hours for shooting game, and hunters are forbidden to use their rifles between sunset and sunrise.

Every hunter, whether a resident in Ontario or not, must make out a license before he can go after deer. Non-resident licenses for deer and moose are $25, while resident licenses are $3 for deer and $5 for moose.

Don't Waste Meat.

There was a time when dealers could sell wild duck and wild fowl, but new regulations have been made during the past two years which forbids this sale. The bag allowed for a duck hunter is 200 ducks a season, but hunters must remember before they take this amount that there is a game law which says: "No person who has taken or killed any bird or animal suitable for food shall allow the flesh thereof to be destroyed or spoiled."

Further Proof that 2.51% Beer is Non-Intoxicating

Conclusive Findings of Interest to Ontario Voters

IN a news despatch to the Toronto World last Saturday, announcement was made for the first time of the result of exhaustive tests made by Professors H. L. Hollingworth and R. S. Woodworth of Columbia University, New York, into the effects of 2.75% Beer on the human system.

The tests were made upon six students of the law school over a period of twelve days. A corps of assistants, men and women, collaborated with the two professors of psychology in conducting the elaborate experiments that had been devised.

"The effect of the beer on the students was said to have been almost negligible," says the despatch.

Word has just come from Wisconsin that as the result of a test case, the courts of that State have declared beer of 2.75% alcoholic content by weight measure to be non-intoxicating. As a result of this decision 2.75% beer is now on general sale throughout Wisconsin.

The 2.75 per cent. beer proven non-intoxicating by the professors of Columbia University, and declared non-intoxicating by the Wisconsin Courts, is .24 per cent. stronger than the Beer of the Ballot—the 2.51 per cent. beer for which you are asked to vote October 20th. These findings must be conclusive to every man and woman who has an open mind—who is willing to vote on the truth as proven.

How absurd it is then for the Referendum Committee to continue to declare that this mild and light beverage is intoxicating.

DRINK 2.75 BEER AND REMAIN SOBER

Tests to Determine Intoxicating Qualities Made on Columbia Students.

New York, Oct. 10—The story of how two Columbia professors, using the laboratories of the university, tested the effect of 2.75 per cent. beer in studying the result to be used as evidence in a suit to force the government to legalize the manufacture and sale of such beer, came to light yesterday after having been kept secret for more than three months. The effect of the beer on the students was said to have been almost negligible.

The tests, in which all students of the law school were used, were held in the early part of June under the supervision of Professors H. L. Hollingworth and R. S. Woodworth, both of the department of psychology. A corps of assistants, men and women, helped in conducting the elaborate tests that had been devised. The experiments were designed to show whether 2.75 beer, drunk to the limit of a man's capacity, would render him intoxicated or would affect in any degree his steadiness, his ability to coordinate, or his power to think rapidly and clearly.

The experiments lasted for 12 days. The same procedure was followed each day. In the morning the students drank as much cider as they could hold, and then were tested to learn their normal reactions [illegible] and afternoon of [illegible]. In the afternoon, without having had lunch, they were given as much beer as they could drink. The same tests were then given at in the morning.

The experiments were in other parts, each one used to determine some particular effect of the beer. During each day's test the students were not allowed to eat or smoke.

Toronto World, October 11th, 1919.

This is the non-intoxicating beer that Labor in particular is demanding. Is there any fair or just reason why you should stand in the way of the working men obtaining their favorite beverage? Just because the beverage is labelled "Beer", is no reason for you voting against it. This is not a time for prejudice but a give-and-take spirit that sees the "other fellow's" viewpoint. Give the working men the more palatable and nourishing, yet non-intoxicating beer they are asking for.

MAGELLAN FINISHED TASK OF COLUMBUS

Found Pacific by Sailing Through Straits.

Four centuries ago Ferdinand Magellan sailed from Seville, Spain, on the voyage during which he discovered the Pacific Ocean, named the Straits of Magellan, and opened the islands of the Pacific Ocean to the people of Europe. His was the first circumnavigation of the earth. Had he not been imbued with the desire to be the governor of a new world, in keeping with the promise accorded him by Charles V., the great geographer might have attained even greater heights. Instead he died in battle, before the three years' cruise was completed, while in battle with natives of a group of the Philippine Islands. He had discovered them along with Ladrone and Guam Islands, and was intent on making them Spanish.

The discovery of America by Columbus had not completely convinced Europeans that the earth was round, but the finding of Magellan clinched the argument. He started with a crew of 270 men and five vessels, but the one ship that survived the cruise only took back a remnant of that party. Many died of scurvy, and some fell during mutinies and battles with natives.

Magellan added much to the world's geography. He outlined the entire eastern coast of South America. His discoveries offered the Spaniards new opportunity, and they started to further explore the Pacific. Spaniards found and named California, after a character in a Spanish novel. Then for some unaccountable reason they rested on their laurels.

We must have in the future mares which will work and breed at the same time. They are the most profitable.

before purchasing a baking powder that may possibly contain injurious ingredients. Many food scientists claim that baking powder containing alum is unsafe for use in food. The mere fact that some brands of baking powder have the words "No Alum" on the label is not sufficient proof that they are what they are represented to be. Our chemists find a good many have "No Alum" on the outside but large quantities of it inside.

GOLD NEAR SCHREIDER; VALUABLE DISCOVERY

Port Arthur, Oct 15.—A great deal of interest has been stirred up among mining men of this district by finds of gold some five miles north of Schrieber. The original discovery was made by William Longworth, who uncovered some white quartz and saw the free gold glittering on the surface. As the work of prospecting proceeds, the magnitude of the deposit appears to grow. The vein, which varies in width from 40 to 90 feet, has been traced for a distance of three miles, with free gold showing on the surface at various places. Assays run into all sorts of values, from $22 to $55 per ton for common ore from the channels, to thousands per ton from the hand-picked stuff. Expectations are that considerable development work will be done, and mining men are making all sorts of predictions about the future of the district.

If you have a number of brood mares some of them should be rearing foals and fall colts can be handled conveniently on a good many farms.

Some towns have refused to avail themselves of their power under the Act and have not formed tribunals, stating that there is no profiteering in their neighborhood.

SHAMROCK IV.

Sir Thomas Lipton Will Make Attempt to Bring Cup Back to England.

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.— America has two candidates to compete against Sir Thos. Lipton's Shamrock IV, in the International yacht races, set for June 24 next, in a challenge from the Royal Yacht Club of England. The trial races will be conducted early in the summer by a committee of the New York Yacht Club to decide between the Vanity, owned by Alex. S. Cochrane, and the Resolute, owned by a syndicate of New York sportsmen. Both yachts were built as entrees in the 1914 races, which were prevented by the war. The Shamrock IV, which sailed by the British colours in the race, has been in American waters since last time.

NATURE'S MIRROR

When a woman is well and healthy—there's a sparkle in her eyes, a rose tint in her cheeks, and she has rich red blood. There's elasticity in every movement and a spring in her step. Love comes to every woman who has bounding health—but when she is pallid, dull eyed, languid, she has no magnetism nor does she appeal to any man.

Such a change in feelings and looks!

After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged down by weaknesses of her sex—with eyes sunken, black circles and pale cheeks—such a woman is quickly restored to health by the Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce. Changed, too, in looks, for after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the skin becomes clear, the eyes brighter, the cheeks plump. It is purely vegetable, contains no alcohol.

Druggists sell it in tablets or liquid. Send Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y., 10c for trial package.

SIR WHITTEN BROWN COMING TO PETERBORO

WILL TELL STORY OF NON-STOP TRANSATLANTIC FLIGHT.

Grand Opera House manage[illegible] ve the rare privilege of presen[illegible] on Thursday evening, Oct. 23rd, Lieut. Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, K.B.E., one of the only two men who have ever stood on the continents of America and Europe on the same day, who will tell his original story of this great accomplishment of peace times—the story of the non-stop, trans-Atlantic flight as made by Capt. Sir John Alcock and Lieut. Sir Arthur Whitten Brown.

The navigator, Lieut. Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, K.B.E., A.M.E.E., M.I.M.E., A.M.F.A.I.E., was born in Glasgow. His parents were both American citizens. By profession he is an engineer. He received a thorough knowledge of surveying, and being interested in aviation, devoted his time to the study of aerial navigation as applied to surveying. It was this hobby which, in frequent crossings of the Atlantic by steamer, led him to persuade the captains to allow him on the bridge to take a shot at the sun, that made it possible to so direct the course of the plane that, notwithstanding the mists and the fog, he performed what is acknowledged to be the greatest feat of navigation in the history of this science.

The full story of the flight has never been read or told in America. Sir Arthur tells details that are entirely unknown to us. His story will be illustrated with slides and pictures, showing all parts of the flight that could be taken.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"OH! BOY".

"Oh! Boy" the Wodehouse-Polton-Kern combination of funny situations witty lines and tuneful music which delighted Peterboro when seen here last year was a welcome visitor at the Grand last night and confirmed the golden opinions it won on its previous appearance. "Oh! Boy", is an unusual musical comedy inasmuch as it possesses a logical plot and has a half dozen song hits in place of the one winning number that the average musical attraction of to-day offers. The complications that arise when Jackie Sampson an actress after swatting a rural constable in the eye takes refuge in the rooms of a young man who has just eloped provides material for a most laughable production. Miss Charline Mayfield in the part of "Jackie" invested the role with the necessary vivacity and abandon and scored a tremendous hit. Miss Marie Dilworth was altogether charming as the demure little bride. Franklyn Graham was successful in his presentation of the part of the bridegroom and Harry Hoyt was equally effective as the bachelor friend. George Williams' portrayal of the role of the constable was an amusing characterization responsible for many laughs and Jere McAuliffe was very funny as a comedy valet. The other roles were in good hands. Principals and chorus were alike successful in the musical numbers. Every song was good with "Till the Clouds Roll by," and "An Old Fashioned Wife", probably the most appreciated while the duet "Nesting Time in Flatbush" scored heavily.

The sparkling musical play "My Soldier Girl," plays a return engagement at the Grand to-morrow, giving matinee and evening performances.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

What the Local Playhouses Have to Offer---News of the Movie World.

"MY SOLDIER GIRL"

"My Soldier Girl," the brilliant musical spectacle coming to the Grand Saturday, matinee and evening, in all its alluring splendor, offers an interesting story, together with its tuneful musical score, that creates more than the ordinary interest offered in the musical play, for, since its first performance the word success does not convey to the public what wonderful box office attraction it developed into, playing to capacity houses month after month. There are six real big musical hits in the popular score, among them "My Soldier Girl," the title song, which, no doubt, has been favored with the same popularity as the hits from many of our light operas.

The two gorgeous settings offer wonderful scenic environments—so clever have the artists blended the colours that the result pleases the eye and new and novel is the effect. The flash and blending of shades in the gorgeous costumes puts the finishing touch to the artistic groupings of the latest designs from the Modiste' studios.

The story is laid in two acts, opening with gay festivities during a lawn fete' at Colonel Stone's home, Miami, Florida, who has recently returned from two years active service in France, and is giving the party in honor of the boys and girls whom he met "over seas." Dixie Harris, his ward, who likewise has served the country in France, and Lieutenant Carter, whom it was her pleasure to meet abroad, are the real guests of honor. There is a sprinkling of a love affair which has developed between Dixie and Carter, which wends its way through the entire performance. The Colonel during the festivities makes it known that he is to produce a big musical show on Broadway, entitled "My Soldier Girl," in which he is to star Dixie, and offers the many talented guests engagements in his big venture. The fete closes brilliantly and the second act finds many of the visiting guests now assigned leading roles in his new show, which is rehearsing on the roof of a New York theatre. The production is magnificently mounted and the excellent cast including Dorothy Carrigue, Maude Baxter, J. C. Le Roy, Billy Moore, James Baber, Milly Murphy, Leslie Jones and others of equal merit, present this splendid play excellently. There is a wonderful "pony" ballat that forms the back ground for this bewildering spectacle.

THREE FIGURES AT ODDS IN AN EXTRAORDINARY HUMAN HEART TANGLE

Scientist, Woman and Girl Struggle With Fate to Find Happiness

How his love for a young and beautiful girl was weighed against his affection and admiration for a fine, true woman more nearly his own age is told of its central figure, an explorer, in "Choosing a Wife," the First National attraction which will be seen at the Allen Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

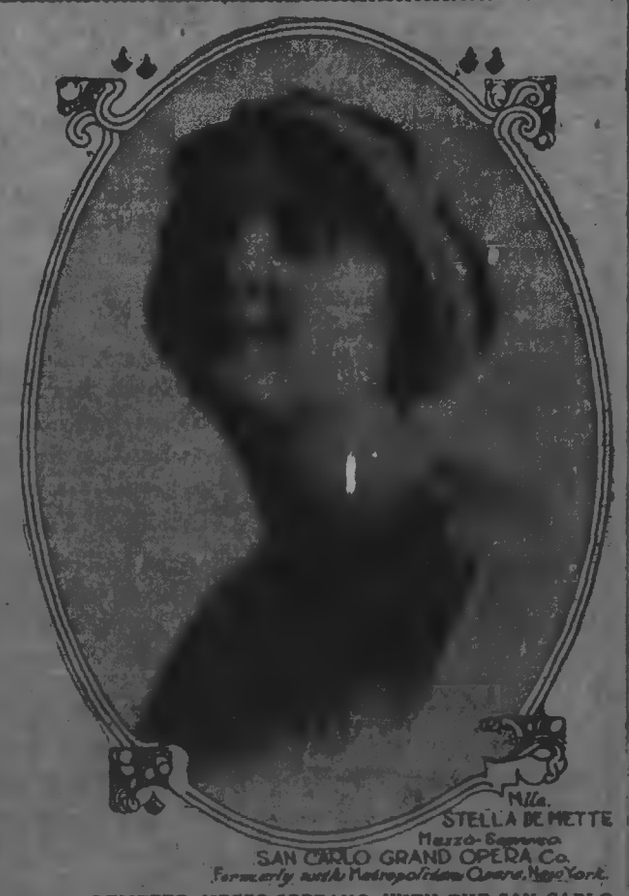
The three figures about which this very unusual love story revolves are Andrew Quick, the scientist; Barbara Blossom, a girl of twenty; and her aunt, Dorothy Blossom, who is just approaching middle age. Just before starting for the South Seas, Quick sends a letter of proposal which he intends shall be for the younger woman, with whom he is in love. By mistake, for which nobody was to blame, the letter falls into the hands of the older woman who had previously had an intimation that Quick was in love with her.

Faces Dramatic Problem

In the South Seas, where he has many adventures among the natives Andrew Quick has received what he thinks is an answer from the young girl he loves. He is planning to marry her as soon as he returns. Meanwhile at home the aunt and not the niece is preparing for his return. When he gets back he is called upon to face a situation of remarkable complexity.

How he answered the big question, that of choosing a wife, is told in the closing situations of this gripping picture ,the action and the plot of which are quite unusual among the features of to-day.



Mlle. STELLA DEMETTE
Mezzo-Soprano
SAN CARLO GRAND OPERA Co.
Formerly with Metropolitan Opera, New York.

STELLA DEMETTE, MEZZO-SOPRANO, WITH THE SAN CARLO OPERA COMPANY—ONE NIGHT ONLY, 29ND OCTOBER, AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

SAN CARLO GRAND OPERA COMPANY

MISS STELLA DE METTE
Contralto

The brilliant personnel of the San Carlo Grand Opera Company, whose forces will visit here this season, would scarce appear complete without the name of Stella De Mette, the rich-voiced singing actress. This talented girl, now serving her fourth consecutive season with the organization, is purely an American product, being a native of St. Louis, where she received her early training. A lengthly period of study with leading Italian and French masters, was followed, immediately upon her return to this country, by extensive engagements with the Metropolitan, of New York, and the Montreal opera.

Then the San Carlo secured Miss De Mette who, distinguished for her beauty and vivaciousness no less than for her histrionic skill, has received an abundance of discriminating praise and to-day occupies a place of deep affection in the hearts of the country's theatre-goers. As leading contralto with the San Carlo she has gathered laurels in nearly every state in the Union and the Dominion. Following last season's tour with this organization, Miss De Mette was engaged as first contralto for the great Municipal Open-Air Theatre, St. Louis, where she continued her successes in such operas as "Robin Hood," "Fra Diavolo," "Bohemian Girl" and "Carmen." Her voice is rich and opulent in quality, even throughout the register and possesses a dramatic ring that conforms finely to her rare histrionic abilities.

"THE RED GLOVE" STILL MISSING

The mystery of the plot of "The Red Glove" starts to thicken notably in the fourth episode. Gentleman Geoff, shot to death by the Vultures in defense of the Blue Chip saloon, makes a confession in which he admits that he is not the father of Billie—the role played by Marie Walcamp. The fourth episode will be shown to-day at the Allen Theatre both matinee and evening.

"THE DUMBELLS"

Direct from France, where they played over five hundred performances immediately behind the lines, for our Canadian boys; the crack bunch of entertainers known to the entire C. E. F. ad B. E. F. as "The Dumbells," are now on a limited tour of the larger cities of Canada, and will appear here at the Grand next Friday and Saturday, matinee and evening.

This brilliant organization of fighting funsters is still under the personal supervision of Capt. M. W. Plunkett, to whom great credit is due for making them into the favorite of all soldier attractions in France. For this home coming series of performances they are offering the best of their original overseas musical comedy revues, "Biff, Bing, Bang." It will be played here exactly as it was presented to the soldiers in France, the difference probably being in the manner of staging and the comfort with which the audiences can sit and view the performance. There is really a lot of difference between a real stage and comfortable opera chairs and a make-shift stage built out of packing cases and lighted by candles. However, special care has been taken to maintain the atmosphere of the trenches, and while there will be no air raids nor bursting German shells to liven the performance the audience are promised some real thrills in the way of scenery and costumes, songs and dances, and most of all "girls," for "Marjorie and "Marie" are still with the original cast, as well as the famous "beauty brigade"—each member of which has had at least sixteen months actual experience with a line regiment before dropping back a few miles to entertain his comrades

EVER TRY TO GET ARRESTED? NOT SO EASY POLLY FINDS

Dorothy Gish Forced to Break Jeweler's Window in "Peppy Polly".

Almost anyone will tell you it is not a deuced hard job to get arrested. Dorothy Gish, whose latest Paramount picture, "Peppy Polly" is coming to the Allen Theatre on Friday and Saturday tells an entirely different story, at least, with regard to motion pictures.

She just had to get arrested in order to have the people who were abusing girls in the Melville reformatory shown up in their true colors, but although she stole a coat from a pawnshop and ran down a whole block, no one paid any attention to her. Reluctantly she went back and ran down the street again, with no greater success than before, and so she marched back to put the coat away for the third time.

Just as she was putting it back the owner ran out and grabbed her by the arm. A policeman emerged from a doorway and ran to them. But instead of arresting Dorothy, he shoved the merchant back into the store and apologized to Dorothy for the way she had been treated. Dumfounded, she went down the street looking for more trouble.

And finally she had to break the window of a jewelry store with a brick and take out two watches in order to attract enough attention to be put in jail.

But Dorothy says she doesn't think that would happen if she tried it in real life, for every time her speedometer shows half a mile over the limit there is sure to be a traffic officer in sight. Miss Gish is finely supported in this absorbing photoplay, her leading man being Richard Barthelmess.

"Peppy Polly" is described by Miss Gish as being even better and funnier than "Boots".

NEW ASSESSMENT SYSTEM.

Hamilton Standardizes Basis of Assessment and Taxation.

Hamilton Board of Control has adopted the new system of assessment and taxation formulated by the city's assessment commissioner. The plan provides for an increase in all assessments of 33 per cent., and a reduction in the tax rate of 6 mills on the dollar. The net result would be an increase of about $150 per $1,000 in taxation. The basis of assessment is also changed by dividing the city into areas according to their desirability as residential or industrial locations. Buildings are also classified according to size, and type of construction and fixed rates of assessment per cubic foot have been drawn up. The scheme was brought forward as the result of demands for a more equitable basis of assessment and taxation.

The more land turned under this fall the easier it will be to get the crop in on time next spring.

HOUSING PROBLEM IN PETERBORO

(F. H. Dobbin.)

Attention is drawn to the advertisement inserted in the local press by authority of the Mayor, asking that citizens who would entertain the idea of having dwellings erected for their use, under the Ontario Housing Act, advise of such intention and give assent. Replies, in very brief form, to be sent to the City Clerk, who will receive and hold for further action.

Members of Council have been pressed to revive the project of building under auspices of the Act. Quite rightly, Council wishes to know, before going to any expense, indeed before appointing a Housing Commission, if there may be enough in number to warrant such action. If there be a sufficient number to warrant further careful enquiry into the bona fides of the proposition, well and good. If not then the matter can, and will be, set aside. It is for citizens to say.

Those who are interested and who apply will, it is understood, be called together and all details fully explained as to loans, probable costs, plans and properties. This can be done verbally and will avoid explantion to each in detail. All enquiries should be in by evening of 18th inst.

Present Conditions.

In the meantime it will do no harm to look at the situation now present in this community with regard to lack of housing accommodation, prospect of additional building, claims put forward why building may not be undertaken, chances of such being brought forward by private enterprise, the bearing that lack of housing has, and will have on the matter of rental amounts, and the situation as it affects the city as a city, both for itself and in the eye of the Province and country. Discussion of these points may seem a large order, but it need not be prolix and dreary.

First as to the municipality.

We hope that our city will grow and expand. We hope to induce additional industries to locate here. What for? To furnish employment, and for themselves, to make money. If they do not make money then they will likely cease to operate and employment cease. One thing bears on the other.

New industries will bring people with them. They will induce others to come and live here. Both classes must be housed. It is admitted there is a scarcity of houses, and little to offer to the new man coming in. The Manufacturers' Committee of Council is struggling with this proposition, presented on behalf of every projected addition to our number of industries: "What can you offer to house our men?" City Clerk Armstrong, who is indefatigable in good work in the direction of bringing in new propositions finds this a very pertinent point in negotiations. There is no better fact to present to the enquiring manufacturer than the statement that Peterborough has at disposal a reasonable number of dwellings at a not unreasonable rental cost. It is often the determining factor.

City Has to Grow.

This city has to grow. It is the only way out of the excessive municipal rates and exactions. Additions to the assessed value of the city, as a whole, have not in the past four years been anything up to pre-war standards. True the reasons have been apparent, and need not here be discussed. If the assessment remains moderately stationery, does not expand by growth, by additional real property which to assess, we will have a tax rate that will discourage location here. When the full force of the taxes additions, consequent on financing the bridge, the new school, the sewage disposal plant, the water filtration plant develop you will have a rate that will, so to speak, put your eye out. Better try and get ready for the infliction while there be time.

If we do not have a substantial increase in the assessed value of the city the burden will go over to the property owner, and by him paid, or if a landlord, passed on to the tenant. For if the tenant enjoy the privileges of the bridge, school, clearer water and sewage safety, he should pay for it. Whether he wishes to or not, he will. There should be no illusion on the part of the community that these additional charges can be dodged. Next to death, there is nothing surer than taxes. The property has to bear it. And those using pay.

Now as to situation as it affects the cost of erecting houses, of a class. Moderate class, let us add.

Field of Thought.

There is a field of thought, and expectation, that hopes the blessed day is coming when the costs of building will fall. Drop to within reasonable distance of pre-war prices. Why should there be a drop? Let us reason this thing out. We may come on some distasteful facts, probably will do so. Shutting our eyes to the situation will not help. Better face the proposition and try to meet it, if we are to live, be fairly housed, work and be reasonably comfortable. To gain this the other fellow has to do a lot of things for us, but he has to be paid. Paid what he thinks is fair, viewing the cost of living.

It is inferred that we have about reached the peak of advance. Also the peak of labor and manufacturing disputes over wage advances. Presently we shall enter on the counter proposition against reduction of wages. From the man who, for instance, fells the trees in the forest to the manufacturer who turns out the matched flooring, each and every one will fight to hold what he has. Perfectly natural. And in the hope that in some mysterious way the cost of living will fall and he will ultimately find himself better off and retaining his high wage. Don't run away with the idea that employers will be ready and anxious to reduce wages. Higher producing costs affords the excuse for higher pro-rata percentages. See the case of the shoe jobbers, in Toronto, that made $800,000 in three years.

So if wages do not fall, and they will not, the lumber, brick, glass, shingles, plaster and cement work will stand just where it is. Excavation, carting, painting, etc., will claim all a share, to say little of the plumber. Get out of your mind the idea, if you have it, that any product making firm, or any trade or occupation, is lying awake nights trying to reduce the cost to you of building a house. It's troublesome, but friends, it's so. There are only three things in this city, that have not been raised, and for which the Canadian dollar still buys one dollar's worth, as before the war: postage stamps, water and electric light.

Christian Endeavor.

There is a further field of Christian Endeavor that holds to the belief that it is cheaper to buy a house now, erected some time ago, than build. Quite so and very consoling, if there were houses enough of a class to go around. But necessarily that sort of exchange finds its level. It is useless to tell the workman that he can get a good house for $4,000.00, he hasn't the money and interest charges are high. Or to tell him he can get a dwelling for $1,500.00. He might, but he wouldn't live in it. Possibly the people going out of that house, or to be turned out, won't live in it any longer. One house is too high, the other away too low. The workman needs something in between. It is the field and endeavor of, this time, Practical Endeavor, to try and supply him, if he will extend himself to help. If he ever expects to own his own house he must bestir himself, and practice the very virtues that gave to people now owning their own homes, the houses they live in.

NOT EVEN A SCAR

is left when my little son cut his forehead so badly by running against a cross-cut saw," writes Mrs. T. G. Miller of Winona, Ont.

"I had never used Zam-Buk, but had heard how good it is for injuries, so I got some, and applied a dressing at once. It was quite wonderful the way it soothed the pain. I renewed the dressing twice a day for three days, by which time the cut was so much better the child was able to go without the bandage. From then I had no more trouble with the wound. It healed up very quickly, and not even a scar is left. Needless to say, I shall never be without Zam-Buk again."

Mothers should always keep Zam-Buk in the house, as nothing can take its place for cuts, scratches, bruises, burns and scalds. For rashes, eczema and all sores, blood-poisoning, ulcers, abscesses, boils, pimples, scalp sores, salt rheum and piles Zam-Buk is equally good. All dealers 50c. box.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR WEEK

October 19, 1919.

Jesus in Peter's Home. Mark 1: 29-39.

Golden Text: Jesus said upto him, To-day is salvation come to this house. Luke 19:9.

1. Verse 29. Would you say or not and why that Christians to-day practice as free and open hospitality as they did in the days of Jesus?

2. What are the advantages and the disadvantages of the present day method of keeping sick people from having any visitors (including the pastor) except the nurse and the physician?

3. Verse 30. If this sickness of Peter's wife's mother had been that of any other woman, would Jesus have been equally interested?

4. What benefit is it to us or our loved ones to tell God when they are sick?

5. Verse 31. If Jesus were to come now in the flesh what is the degree of probability or improbability that he would cure sick people as he did when he was here?

6. Some claim that Jesus still cures sickness when we exercise faith in that behalf; what are the arguments for or against that theory?

7. Verses 32-34. Jesus appears to have cured all the sick people that were brought to him regardless apparently of the degree of faith of those that brought them; how is it that he does not do the same in these days?

8. Verses 32-34. Which is the better method for mankind, and why, for God to cure our sicknesses miraculously or through the means which he has placed in nature?

9. How do you account for the fact that the devils all seemed to know Jesus and generally seemed to fear him?

10. There appears to have been many devils in that day—would you say or not and why that there are as many to-day?

11. Why was it necessary for Jesus to get up a great while before day and in a solitary place engage in protracted prayer?

12. What would you say was the nature of the prayers of Jesus?

13. What comes in us or over and around us, from protracted prayer, that cannot come in any other way?

14. Verse 35. Is it obligatory or optional for us to follow the example of Jesus in protracted prayer, and why?

15. Would you say that Jesus had certain set times for prayer or did he pray only or for the most part when he felt the need? Why?

16. Verse 36. Did Simon and the rest of them do well or ill, and why, to disturb Jesus while at private prayer?

17. Verse 36. Are there times in a Christian's career when instead of praying to or seeking Jesus for his own pleasure, he ought to be working in his master's vineyard? Give your reasons.

18. Verses 37, 38. What difference is there, if any, between the mission of Jesus and that fo any of his true followers?

19. Verse 39. Should a man with a special message confine his work to any one church, or to one town?

20. What different results would there be better or worse, if preachers should itinerate say, with ten or fifteen preachers on a circuit sufficiently large?

HEART-TOUCHING PATHOS WHEN LUIKART CHILDREN PASS CRISIS

DR. THOMAS A. CARTER, POISON EXPERT, REPORTS A "NOBLE RESPOSE TO TREATMENT"---SHIRLEY IS STILL HANGING ON.

MOTHER'S PLIGHT

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—The two little Luikart sisters, whose struggle against death at the Columbus hospital has gripped the sympathies and interest of the nation, probably will live once more to frolic with their "daddy" in the yard of their Royal Oak home. Dr. Thomas A. Carter, the poison expert, reported a "noble response to treatment," and said the recovery of five-year-old Edna is assured. Shirley has "every chance in the world," he added.

The shades were drawn in the children's room this morning, and the sisters slept. But when the doctor came for one of his frequent visits they awoke, and the spirit of the Sunshine Fairy that is in the book of that name on Edna's bed, seemed to fill the ward, mingling with the scent of innumerable roses there.

Forces Doctor to Smile.

The smaller girl's colour is as vivid as the paint on her beloved toy atuomobile; as the Mother Superior placed a finger on Shirley's titled nose and wagged it playfully, the flush of new blood in the elder sister's cheeks brought a smile of satisfaction to the doctor's face.

Edna's spirits have been high since her arrival here last week, but on the doctor's last visit her playfulness brought a smile even to Shirley's faded lips. For when the physician came into the sick room there, Edna's arms clung about his neck as if she never intended to let go.

"You stay here," she cried.

And Their Father Grins.

"Oh, I can't," he protested, while Roy Luikart, the children's father, stood by and grinned cheerily—he has ever been certain that his babies would get well.

"I bet I'll get a rope and tie you to my bed," Edna pouted. "Then you'll have to stay, I guess. Now say 'good morning' to Shirley."

The doctor did, and Shirley's interest in things apparently mounted. She played with Dr. Carter's wrist watch and asked him if she could have it because she liked to look at it light up in the dark, "like when I rub a match on my hand."

"Oo-O-Oh, Shirley laughed," Edna cried as the doctor withdrew the big firs tonce more. "Do it for her. She hasn't laughed for the longest time."

Shirley Has Her Inning.

Shirley, the older sister, was lying still, a wee smile fluttering about her lips. Dr. Carter strode to her and played his little game again.

"Whose little girl are you?"

"Yours"—weakly. Her father was delighted and when he left the room gripped Dr. Carter's hand.

"I can't thank you enough for what you've done," Roy Luikart said. "You've saved their lives."

As the children slept later in the morning, Dr. Carter explained that Shirley's colour was growing better daily, an indication of new vigour. Her red blood corpuscles, however, still are below normal. Where she should have 5,000,000 red corpuscles to each cubic millimeter of blood, Shirley's tests show only 800,000.

"But She Gains Every Day."

"But she's gaining every day," the doctor said. "She seems on the road to recovery, although she probably will feel the effects of the poison for years, since her constitution is not naturally so robust as Edna's."

The doctor's wife has planned to go shopping soon to buy some clothes and a coat for Edna who soon will be well enough to romp about the hospital for needed exercise. Since the girls were poisoned by their mother, two weeks ago, the hearts of all who read of Shirley and Edna's fight for life have been touched and gifts of flowers, toys, dolls and picture books have fairly inundated the ward where the children rest.

Dr. Carter is keeping everyone except the girl's father from their room to-day, determined they shall enjoy complete rest and quiet.

Mother's Plight.

IONIA, Mich., Oct. 7.--Mrs. Hazel Luikart, confessed poisoner of her two daughters, arrived in Ionia, accompanied by Deputy Cross, wife of the sheriff of Oakland county, and was taken to the Ionia hospital for the mentally unsound, where she had been committed by Judge Rockwell, of Pontiac.

She was met by a large crowd at the station, was laughing and chatting, and carried a bouquet of carnations.

Dr. Haskell, of the Ionia state hospital, stated that the woman would be received as would any patient and put through the usual examination for the first several days including being kept in bed for two or three days while mental and physical tests are made.

READING JAIL WILL BE CLOSED

London, Oct. 15.—Reading Jail is to be closed in about a month. At present there are only five prisoners and no criminals have been housed there since the war began. They have been sent to Oxford instead. The present building is about 70 years old. It was here that Oscar Wilde wrote the "Ballad of Reading Jail," and part of "De Profundis."

SOLDIERS OF FORTUNE ARE MENACE TO PEACE OF WORLD

NEWSPAPERS OF EUROPE CRY OUT FOR STRICT MEASURES AGAINST THESE GENTRY WHO ROAM THE WORLD.

LONDON.—The "soldier of fortune" once regarded as such a picturesque figure—a daredevil who organized revolutions in Central and South America, the Balkans, and the wilds of Turkestan—is at a discount. There are too many of him, and far from being considered picturesque, he is now voted a general nuisance.

The "Sunday Express" recently went further, and voted him "a renegade, an enemy of civilization, and an international criminal" deserving of short shrift and no ceremony in suppression.

Thoughtful statesmen and leaders of public opinion recognize that one of the greatest dangers to the preservation of world peace is the vast horde of adventurers turned loose on a world trying to turn from destruction to reconstruction. The break up of the Central Empires, and the compulsory reduction of their huge armies, has flooded Europe with an army of jobless officers whose only profession is that of the sword. Russia, Germany and Austria are the principal contributors, but England, France, Italy, Turkey and the Balkan States, now officially demobilizing, may also be held guilty of "contributory negligence."

What Can They Do?

What are these soldiers of fortune to do? If they were numbered in tens they could probably get a congenial job in Mexico. But even the French Foreign Legion could not take a fraction of their number. As it is, they are "carrying on," and are more largly responsible than statesmen and policies for the continuance of the three-and-twenty or so wars still raging in Europe.

The recent real war naturally attracted all the original soldiers of fortune from all parts of the world. You can't legislate a born adventurer to the fireside, and when the armistice was signed last November many of these enthusiasts found another opening in the extraordinary crop of campaigns being waged in Russia and the Baltic provinces. When the British War Office called for volunteers to rescue the marooned Archangel and Murmansk forces, it easily obtained all the men it wanted. The number of officers and ex-officers applying was remarkable. They were of the old adventurer type, and were so determined to get back to war that they resigned commissions wholesale and enlisted in the ranks. All the units of the relief force had bunches of privates who had commanded battalions, batteries and companies in France and elsewhere.

Fastened on New Nations.

Were they content to stay in such units there would not be too much harm done, and they could doubtless obtain their fill of fighting, but the soldier of fortune abhors routine, and the ex-officer hungers for command. He usually obtains it in "native levies" who can be brought to efficiency by his experience and methods of instruction.

The new nations, like the Esthonians, Letts, Lithunians, Czecho-Slovaks, Jugo-Slavs, Silesians, Ukrainians and others who had not hitherto had much opportunity of fighting as independent peoples, were flattered by the invasion of military instructors, men who had won fame on the field of Armageddon, and once the soldier of fortune obtained a footing he soon found openings for men of his own kidney.

Profession Overcrowded.

But the profession has become overcrowded, and already the world, tired of war, is objecting. In the Australian Parliament recently, members protested against the presence of Australian soldier in the British North Russian force, and the Minister of Defence had to promise to endeavor to secure their return. The London "Daily Herald" protested against the attempt of the Lithuanian Military Mission in Paris to recruit a brigade of 6,000 Yankees for service against Germans and Bolshevists alike. Incidentally the Lithuanians are said to have secured many United States and British volunteers, but there is a strong movement afoot for international action to prevent this armed intervention in the affairs of other nations by international would-be Napoleons.

The "Sunday Express" said: "These individuals are irresponsible, their own native countries have no control or authority over them, and they are a perpetual menace to the maintenance of peace. They are the enemies of civilization, and civilization will have to concert measures to deal with adventurer as an international criminal."

There is a fine chance for the League of Nations to draw up a new and drastic list of penalties for violators of an international "Foreign Enlistment Law."

Getting Too Eat? Try This--Reduce

People who don't grow too fat are the fortunate excention. Ask your druggist or if you prefer, write to the Marmola Co., 864 Woodward Ave., Detroit Mich., for a large case of Marmola Prescription Tablets. $1 is the price the world over. By doing this you will be safe from harmful drugs and be able to reduce two, three or four pounds a week without dieting or exercise.

THE FLYING PARSON FORCED TO LAND

(Canadian Press.)

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 17.— Lieut. B. W. Maynard, leader in the transcontinental air race, who was forced to land near Wasoo, Nebraska, yesterday when the crankshaft of his machine broke, hopped off about 6 o'clock htis morning for Omaha, according to information received here early to-day.

TRADE IN GERMANY.

Do you remember, baby dear, those nights
When mother snatched you from your little bed,
When all the sky was lit by moving lights
And aeroplanes were droning overhead,
Scarce heard amid the crash of bursting shell?
Possibly not—and that is just as well.

But, anyhow, the Hun is here again,
Arrived in just the old insidious way,
Disguised it may be, as a clockwork train,
He only seeks to aid you in your play;
And though we know the fellow is about,
There are no guns to-day to keep him out.

The crawling tank upon the nursery floor,
The khaki Tommy with his winkle pin,
The mimic howitzers that almost roar,
Are fashioned maybe of Teutonic tin,
Types of that other war, that now is made
By sly industrial foes on British trade.

And if, when patient Britons have to shut
Their factories and bid their workmen go,
Another British industry goes phut,
What are teh odds to you? You will not know.
Only to those who suffer it is plain
That Fritz's foot is in the door again.

SIGN YOUR BALLOTS "NO"!

Away, away, with Booze and Beer; Ontario shall be dry,
Beneath the grinding chariot wheels, fast bound with captive chain,
Of that relentless Juggernaut, too long we've passive lain;
But now King Alcohol must go, with all his vicious train,
For over us, we are resolved, he shall no longer reign.
Canadians worthy of the name, be sure will never choose
To lift the flood gates, and let loose the venomed tide of Booze.
Nay, we'll put the direful Demon down in all Ontario,
On the twentieth of October, when we sign our ballots "No."

Intemperance, on our escutcheon, has left a foul deep stain,
Of darksome dye, as ever marked the guilty brow of Cain,
Shame on the callous selfishness, that sees on ruin's brink
Brothers, or sons, and passes by, unheeding, tho' they sink;
Shall we, whose boys have faced the foe on many a distant strand,
That never tyrant's power might blight our dear, loved native land
Forget that 'twas for Freedom's sake, some now fill lonely graves,
And bow our necks to this vile yoke like abject, homeborn slaves?
Forbid it Heaven, and help us deal the Booze a final blow
On the twentieth of October, when we sign our ballots "No."

Ah, would in characters of flame, that I might trace the sum
Of youth's bright hopes and prospects fair, blighted by Demon Rum,
Untimely deaths, and drunkards graves, where tears in torrents fall
The ruined lives and broken hearts, life's sweetness turned to gall,
Who may recount the ills that spring from the freeflowing bowl:
The wreck of manhood's ideal, high of body, aye, and soul:
The wreck of homes by his base spell than Circe's more malign,
Changes God's image to a fiend, worse than the besotted swine,
But now a potent charm is ours to lay the monster low,
On the twentieth of October when we sign our ballots "No."

Mothers and sisters, be it yours as erst in days gone by,
To lend your aid to banish booze, and keep Ontario dry.
Ye, whom to suffering most it dooms, may well abhor and hate
The liquor traffic, that on you brings woe, of crushing weight,
It robs sweet childhood's years of joy, theirs by undoubted claim,
And leaves them but an heritage of poverty and shame.
But, see, the dawn is breaking of the glorious day to be,
When from the curse all Canada shall be forever free.
Then, if success upon our cause, we'd have kind Heaven bstow,
On the twentieth of October we must sign our ballots "No."

REAL "INSIDE" INFORMATION

When Constipated, Bilious, Headachy, Take "Cascarets" for Liver and Bowels—No "Shake Up"

Are you keeping your bowels, liver and stomach clean, pure and fresh with cascarets, or merely whipping them into action every few days with Salts, Cathartic Pills, Oil, or Purgative Waters?

Stop having a bowel wash day. Let Cascarets gently cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the colon and bowels all the constipated waste matter and poisins so you can straighten up.

Cascarets to-night will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken or cause any inconvenience, they cost so little too.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE WEST RIDING OF PETERBOROUGH

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

Having again received the unanimous nomination of the Liberal Convention of West Peterborough, as a candidate for Parliamentary honours at the ensuing Provincial Election, to be held on October 20th, I desire to solicit your hearty support in favour of my election.

WAR WORK

Having represented you for the past five years (war years), I can safely say that during that period, while every effort was being made to win the war—my record is known to you all; and on that record I ask you to judge me on the position I have taken on all measures affecting the war work.

TEMPERANCE QUESTION

When I was elected in 1914, I stated my views on the Temperance question during that campaign; I pledged myself to vote for Temperance legislation on all occasions brought forward by whatever party, and the record in the House will show that I carried out that pledge.

The Referendum vote is to be taken on the same date as the Provincial election, October 20th, and if I am again elected your representative, I promise to give my whole-hearted support to the Government elected to carry out the will of the people, as expressed by their votes on the Referendum ballot.

AGRICULTURAL LEGISLATION

During the years preceding 1914, every one agreed that the Department of Agriculture was asleep. The very first opportunity offered in the House, I introduced the question of a forward movement in Agriculture, and, along with other Liberal members of the House, have earnestly advocated a more strenuous progressive policy in Agriculture.

The shortage of production, the problem of farm help, and the numerous perplexing questions affecting the farmer, cannot be solved unless we seriously consider the cause and apply the remedy.

During the past few years of unrest in the country, due mainly to excessive living costs, I have advocated that demonstration farms be established in different counties, and increased attention be paid to the education to be received in our Agricultural College and Experimental Farms, and that the knowledge gained at the Agricultural College be put into practice on Demonstration Farms, where a profit and loss account could be kept, and the costs of producing 100 pounds of milk, or a pound of pork, or any of the many products of the farm, could be ascertained and established, such information being sadly lacking to-day. By such a system of education, the farm would be looked upon as a business manufacturing plant, that would attract the best brains to the development of the greatest asset in Canada to-day, the Farm. Our production is unlimited. The markets of the world are calling for food, and our own citizens living from hand to mouth at tremendous prices, wondering what the next six months have in store for them.

PROVINCIAL HIGHWAYS

Our Highways need much repair. Auto and truck traffic is becoming daily increased, and we must develop a road policy which will make for hauling our produce to market as cheaply as possible. To this matter, I promise to give my best thought.

EDUCATION

Education, I am pleased to say, is in the hands of a new Minister, in whom we hope for great things. I believe in a separate education for the City and Rural districts. An Education in the Rural districts to educate the boy and girl the great lessons of Agriculture, making two blades of grass grow where one grew before, developing the average cow of Ontario to-day, which gives 5,000 lbs. of milk in a milking period to 10,000 lbs., producing a pound of pork or beef at a lower cost, and giving to the world the blessing which we most need: a reduction in the high cost of living.

THE LABOUR QUESTION

Regarding the important question of Labour, my own policy has been to treat labour as I would wish to be treated myself. I have had a good deal of experience with labour of various kinds and conditions, and have never had any trouble along that line, and do not expect to have any.

OUR RETURNED HEROES

To me, the welfare of the returned soldier and soldiers' wives, is one of the most essential duties of our country. Therefore, I promise that I will give my hearty support to every movement calculated to promote their very best interests. The soldiers who fought for me for five years deserve, and may expect to receive, my earnest consideration during the remaining years of my life.

THE WOMAN VOTE

I am delighted to know that women are to enjoy equal privileges with men in the use of the franchise at this election, and in the exercise of this privilege, I have the greatest faith in their good judgment and purifying influence. Their power with the ballot on October 20th, especially with the Prohibition and Labour problems, will, I feel certain, be of far-reaching effect. I will, therefore, consider the votes from the ladies counted in my favour at the approaching election, as instruction to take high grounds on all matters calculated to elevate the morals of this community as well as of the whole Dominion.

CONCLUSION

These questions I have dealt with are, to my mind, the outstanding questions of the day. If I am elected again as your representative, I promise to give the best of my ability, my mature judgment on all questions affecting the interests of the West Riding of Peterborough, the Province of Ontario, the Dominion of Canada, and the British Empire, of which we, to-day, are so justly proud.

Thanking you, Ladies and Gentlemen, for your support in the past, and soliciting your support again on the 20th day of October, I remain,

Your obedient servant,

GEO. A. GILLESPIE

SWIMMERS' GARB COLOURFUL

By Margaret Rohe.

CORONADO, Calif.—Since prohibition has put the ban on being in an intoxicated state, California is certainly the next best state to be in. It's so free and untrammeled and close to nature, with its silver sands along the sea and purple hills amid the zone. Take it from one who knows, however,—you really get closer to nature along the silver sands, and there, too, Nature is so apt to be a perfect 36.

After a well-spent season at the California beaches, Annette Kellerman or Mack Sennett's beauties would cause us as little thrill as a well-turned limb did the historic London 'bus conductor who pulled that antique wheeze, "Legs is no treat to me."

Way back in the effete east, where bathing suits are complicated and fussy affairs of gingham, trimmed taffeta or yarn embroidered satin, this season Dame Fashion fairly revels in a perfect orgy of bathing suit designs.

Out here among the wild waves, and the wild women of the wild west Dame Nature takes full responsibility for the omnipresent one-piece, all-wool jersey bathing suit of one design, but oh! what a designing one. You just slip in or at least you slip in as much of you as you can into the snug little, close-fit knit garment, and let Nature take its course. Sometimes it's a bit too coarse, but not often.

To be brief and verily brevity is the soul of it, the California bathing suit is a snappy little affair that snaps on one shoulder, thereby doing away with the necessity of getting in or out of it with a shoe horn. Even as it is universally one piece, so it is one design and the little changes to stamp one suit a little more daringly or more originally than another is the stripe of color that bands it round the quick finish, the middle and the shoulder straps. Sometimes this stripe is of solid contrasting color, sometimes Roman stripes of divers hectic tones go roaming round it. Yet others stick to one plain all round color, without a bit of relieving trimming, and these rely for their bit of dash on a chic headdress of some sort. For the bathing millinery of these bare limbed bathing nymphs is as intricate and varied as their bathing suits are simple and frank. Jockey caps for riding the waves, oriental turbans like a Persian bey for still water bathing in the bay, and Russian serf headdresses for surf bathing ,don't you know.

To vision these fascinating bathing costumes in their native clime were well worth a trip across the continent. They are indigenuous to the Pacific slope and transplanted to the Atlantic would be subject to a sudden seizure and soon succumb to the rigors of Puritanicus hypocriticus blight. The one-piece bathing suit is as characteristic a part of California as her golden poppy and her native sun.

Speaking of the latter, I never fully appreciated the true value of a California native sun till I sat in my California bathing suit on the sands last Sunday sans an umbrella.

Since then even my girlish laughter is pegging.

Girdles may be softly draped.

MORAN AND GLEASON LUCKIEST MEN IN GAME ACCORDING TO DONOVAN

FORMER MANAGER OF NEW YORK YANKEES ALSO TAKES SLAM AT JOHN M'GRAW—RELATES HISTORY OF TO-DAY'S POPULAR MANAGERS.

That Dame Fortune is a stingy old hag who showers smiles upon her favorites and turns a cold shoulder on all others is the opinion of Bill Donovan, former Yankee manager and pitching star of the American League ten years ago. As evidence Donovan offers the success of Pat Moran at Cincinnati and Kid Gleason at Chicago, the two managers who are leading the opposing forces in the present world series contests.

'All this bunk about the miracles of Moran and he was turned loose makes me tired," says the practical Donovan.

"Instead of being exceptions in the leadership of men, Moran and Gleason are about the luckiest baseball men I ever heard of," added Donovan. "Both were wicked out of baseball only a year ago and now the fans are ready to immortalize the pair. Philadelphia had enough of Moran and he was turned loose without a regret. Gleason was only a coach of the White Sox and set so few worlds afire he was allowed to walk out in the middle of the season."

"I'd like to know what kind of a charm Moran and Gleason carry," was the way Donovan rambled on. "They must be looked after by that unknown power every Irishman can feel exists but cannot tell why he feels that way. Moran is a quiet, likeable fellow who gets work out of his men by the simple process of patting them on the back and playing to their vanities. Gleason is the exact opposite. Gleason will fight any one any time and he makes his men work. While I do not think that any White Sox players really fear Gleason, all have a wholesome respect for him.

"Gleason did not need to be a manager to win the pennant. He had a team that figured to win the pennant. Any time such stars as Collins, Jackson, Weaver and Schalk can be placed on one team that team will be there or thereabouts when the season ends. Even with my poor luck I think I could have shoved the White Sox into the championship this year.

'The National League must be in a dilapidated condition for the Reds to come through. Only last spring the Reds and Tigers played a series of games and Moran did not have a pitcher that could put out Detroit let alone win games. We hammered Eller, Reuther and the rest of the so-called star pitchers of the National League all over the lot. The Reds could not even make the issue close. Now this team is being pointed to as one of the great machines of baseball. Rot!"

UNITED STATES MUST MAKE A DECISION FIRST.

Should Accept Mandate Over Turkey, Says Lloyd George.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Oct. 17.—In his speech at Sheffield last night, Prime Minister Lloyd George attributed the delay in conclusion of the Peace Treaty with Turkey to the uncertainty as to the attitude of the United States. It was impossible, he said, to settle the destiny of Turkey before knowing whether the United States was going to share the burdens of civilization outside of the United States.

TRACES PERFUME TO MODEL'S ROOM, SEEKS SEPARATION

New York.—Perfumery and a significant paragraph in a trade publication were contributing factors in an action for separation brought by Mrs. Clara Louise Renard, of No. 305 West Seventy-second street, against Maurice Renard, for years head of the modiste establishment of Maison Maurice, at No. 661 Fifth avenue.

First Mrs. Renard read the trade publication item which follows:

"Doesn't Maurice Renard think Maud Mason a wonderful model for the display of his wonderful creations? And isn't it a great advertisement to take her around to the theatres?"

She questioned her husband about the young woman, who was employed by him as a model, but he satisfactorily explained a "platonic interest" at the time. Later Mrs. Renard returned from Atlantic City, found that her bottle of perfume was missing from its accustomed place, and with a woman friend gained admittance to Miss Mason's apartments, just around the corner from her own home. There on a dresser was a bottle of perfume similar to Mrs. Renard's.

Asks $1,200 a Month Alimony.

All of this and more was related yesterday before Justice Gavagen in the Supreme Court upon Mrs. Renard's application for alimony of $1,200 a month, pending trial of her separation action. Before the curtain descended upon the domestic drama the Renards met outside the court room, where a colloquy ensued:

"Come over here a moment dearie. I wanted to speak to you," pleaded Mr. Renard of his wife.

Mrs. Renard's dark eyes flashed. She is a statuesque beauty.

"Don't bother me—I don't want to talk to you," she replied.

"I want to have a conference with you," beseeched her husband. "You won't, then good-bye, dearie." He tried to clasp her hand, but she turned from him.

Mrs. Renard said she was married to the defendant eight years ago and lived happily with him until 1915 when her suspicions became aroused because of his interest in one of his models. Their differences were adjusted, however, and last August Mrs. Renard took a trip to Atlantic City.

Says Model Had Her Gowns.

When she went to Miss Mason's apartments in West End avenue, Mrs. Renard avers she not only found the exotic perfume that was like her own, but several of her gowns which Mr. Renard had induced her to display.

That night Mrs. Renard questioned her husband about the perfumery and gowns, whereupon she says in her affidavit, he admitted his infatuation for Miss Mason, whom he described as "the most beautiful woman in the world." Then he asked her forgiveness and proposed that they continue to live together, although he acknowledged his interest in the model would not be dimmed.

Mrs. Renard said she was indignant at the suggestion, and a few days later her husband accepted her invitation to leave the house and went to a hotel.

Mrs. Renard said her husband's income permitted him to maintain their home at the rate of $25,000 a year, while he spent an additional $10,000 yearly on his favorite model. The latter was the recipient of gifts of jewelry, dogs and other articles, she alleged.

Mr. Renard's lawyer denied the greater part of the wife's story, but said the defendant was not opposed to a separation decree. He declared Mr. Renard could afford to pay his wife $1,200 a month alimony. Justice Gaegan reserved decision.

GERMANS HIDE HUGE GUNS.

Those Used on Paris Are Secreted on Coast, says Major.

PARIS — Where are the big guns with which the Germans bombarded Paris during the last few months of the war? is a question frequently asked both in and outside of Germany. A recent issue of the Berliner Tageblatt shows that this question was propounded by one of its representatives to Major Trepper, formerly attached to the German War Ministry, and a participant in the armistice parleys, the Major also being asked whether Germany had pledged herself to hand over these guns. Major Trepper is quoted as replying that Germany had given no such pledge and as adding:

"If the French newspapers want to know here these guns are they can be told that they are well hidden and guarded in our fortresses on the coast."

SCANDALOUS NEGLECT

Anything that affects the welfare of the returned soldier should be a matter of concern to all good citizens. The Province owes a deep debt of gratitude to the hundreds of thousands of her sons who valiantly and gloriously assited in preventing the Hun from destroying civilization. That debt is so great that it never can be adequately repaid, but it is the unanimous opinion of all classes of the people that everything humanly possible, and in a spirit of just generosity, should be done to restore these brave men to civil life, happiness and comfort. Obviously the Government of the Province should lead the way because of its power and authority, and because the welfare of the people is the special function of Government. The Hearst Government has not failed to recognize its manifest duty in this respect, but from the evidence before us its performance of that duty is so deplorable as to amount to a scandal of grave character, which should arouse the just indignation and censure of all right-thinking and humane people.

We refer particularly to the Soldiers' farming colony at Kapuskasing. A few years ago the Government promulgated a land settlement scheme for returned soldiers and sailors, which on paper looked reasonably attractive. A farm colony on the community basis was to be founded at Kapuskasing in Northern Ontario. Returned men, physically fit for the life, were first to be retained by the Government in farming operations, and were afterwards to be located on lots of eighty acres each, ten acres of which would be cleared at the Government's expense, the returned men doing the work and bein gpaid for it. While being trained the men were to be given maintenance allowances for themselves and families, and while clearing operations were going on and until a suitable house for each man and his family was erected, the men were to be provided with suitable living quarters. Roads were to be built at the Government's expense and school accomodation and medical and religious services provided. A pulp mill was to be erected so as to provide work for the men in Winter. Suitable barns were to be erected and a stock of horses, cattle, sheep and swine maintained. It was also promised that in each centre there would be a number of horses and a complete outfit of heavier farm implements, for common use, upon easy terms. An advance of $500 was to be made to each settler to assist him generally in improving his location, which advance was to be repayable in twenty years with interest at 6 per cent, after the first three years. After the settler had performed settlement duties for five years he would be entitled to a patent for his eighty acres.

When making these promises the Government declared its belief that any returned man entering into the scheme with a determination to succeed, would have no great difficulty in establishing a comfortable home for himself in Northern Ontario.

Performances Contrasted With Promises.

It has been said that Hades is paved with promises and good intentions. If you substitute the Kapuskasing Government Colony for Hades, the statement would be correct.

Look at the facts and judge for yourself.

Up to March, 1919, when a Government return was forced down, no less a sum than a half million dollars ($499,500, to be exact) was spent in developing (?) the Colony, and only seventy-seven returned soldiers were located in it, nearly all of whom are dissatisfied with their conditions. 186 returned men tried the scheme, 111 of whom got disguested with their treatment and quit. The strong likelihood is that through maladministration, failure to keep promises, and lack of sympathetic consideration of the settlers, the whole scheme will become an absolute failure with a huge loss to the Province.

We have taken pains to investigate the conditions on the ground and this is a condensed statement of what we ascertained:

(1) Although the Government expressly promised the settlers free medical services, no such service has been provided. The only medical man available is a Dominion Government official who is a Military Doctor at the German Internment Camp in the neighborhood, and this doctor charges the returned soldiers and their families for his services.

(2) Although there are three distinct parts of the Colony:

(a) Kapusgasing

(b) Kitigan—6 miles distant from Kapuskasing.

(c) Harty—14 miles distant from Kapuskasing.

there is only one school, which is located at Kapuskasing. The children of families at Kitigan have to travel to and from the school at Kapuskasing in a bus. In the winter they suffer terribly from the cold. One of the returned men, who acted as driver last winter, stated that if he had not taken some of the children off at his home (about mid-distance) to thaw out the ice from their boots and to warm themselves at the fire while he collected the other children going to school, they would have frozen in the bus. Another man, who has acted as driver, declared that he had had to deprive his horses of their blankets in order to keep the children from freezing.

Although the Government kitchen is just outside the school house at Kapuskasing, nothing is offered the children who come from Kitigan, and these children leave their homes between 7 and 8 in the morning and have nothing but a cold lunch until they reach home about 6 in the evening.

There is no school at Harty and at present there are thirteen children growing up there in ignorance. It is impossible to reach the place except by a ten mile walk over the railway ties, and a further 4 mile tramp into the bush.

Charged for Rent.

(3) Returned men were definitely promised by the Government free housing accomodation in a community house until their own homes were erected, but instead of getting this accomodation free, they have been charged fifty cents a day for rent.

(4) About two acres of ground were set aside for a cemetery, one-half to be for the Protestants and one-half for the Catholics. A priest came over from Hearst and consecrated the ground for the Cathólics. A little Catholic girl died and was buried in the Catholic plot. The inconsiderate officials of the Government ploughed up the sacred ground to within two feet of the child's grave.

(5) The pulp mill which was promised and which would enable the men to dispose of the pulp wood on their lots, thereby giving them much needed revenue and providing them also with employment in the winter months, has not been erected and no steps have been taken towards its erection. The result is that the men face the coming winter with practically no work in prospect, which is a most serious and alarming condition for them. The superintendant of the Colony has been repeatedly asked by the settlers what are the prospects of work for the winter and his reply invariably is, none at all.

(6) Foreigners have been engaged in clearing the land in the colony and their work has cost the Government as high as $800 an acre.

(7) No provision has been made by the Government for religious instruction, and it is a matter of deep concern to the mothers at the settlement.

(8) The instruction in farming given to the men was of the most meagre character and was practically of little value to them. Some of the men were not given any instruction at all.

No Colony Farms.

(9) It was provided that a colony farm would be maintained at Kapuskasing. This was in midsummer, 1917. There is no farm there yet. A stock of horses, cattle, sheep and swine were to be maintained. There are a few horses for teaming but the rest of the promises were empty.

(10) It was promised that there would be an outfit of the heavier farm implements, but although 1,000 acres have been cleared the only implement in the Colony is a mowevr.

(11) The returned men and their families are compelled to purchase the necessaries of life at the Government store. No competition is allowed. It was expressly stated and understood that the settlers would be supplied at cost and that no profit would be made by the Government, but there is evidence that substantial profits are being made.

(12) A laundry equipped at an expense to the Province of over $1,000, which was understood to be for the benefit of the women of the settlement, has not been allowed to be used by these women.

(13) There is no communication with Harty—10 miles away—except over the railroad ties. There is not even telephone communication in case of sickness, and there are several women and thirteen children. The Superintendent refuses to put in the telephone. In the event of illness someone would have to walk ten miles down the tracks and back. There is no store there and supplies have to be purchased at Kapuskasing and either carried over the tracks or held until a local train passes through twice a week at inconvenient hours. There is no school or dormitary. There is no road between the two settlements and men whose families are in Kapuskasing have to walk from 20 to 28 miles week-ends in order to visit them. These men were discharged from the army as physicaly unfit.—The Standard.

BOOT AND SHOE SALE

AT THE LITTLE STORE THAT IS FILED HIGH WITH A BIG STOCK AND GIVES THE BIG VALUES.

The Routly-Braund Store has half as much more stock crowded into the same space as any other shoe store in town. The storeroom upstairs is piled to the ceiling, the basement shelves are full to capacity, and still we must find room for more new stock that is arriving daily.

Our shelves must be cleared entirely of a great many lines, and we want to emphasize the fact that this big stock was bought at last Winter's prices, and we can keep down the high cost of boots for several months. In this way we protect our customers and we strongly advise the purchase of a good supply of footwear for future needs, as our stock is worth a third more to-day than we bought it for, and we give our customers the benefit.

DURING THIS TWO WEEKS' SALE, WE OFFER THE LINES THAT MUST BE CLEARED AT SPECIAL REDUCED PRICES TO MOVE THEM OUT QUICKLY.

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antiacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestent. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralise the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and health fully without need of pepsin pills or artificial digestents.

Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate and in the bisurated form is not a laxative. Try this plan and eat what you want at your next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."

116 LIVING DESCENDANTS.

LONDON. — John Manning, of Northamptonshire, who as just celebrated his ninetieth birthday, has had 130 descendants, of whom 116 are now living. His married life started at the age of 17 years, and lasted 69 years. His present occupation is that of housekeeper for one of his sons.

Mr. McDonald Was Well Received in Lakefield

said there that the tramp of the cowside boots was the decisive factor in acquiring it. The farmer has always been an advocate of prohibition. Local option was good as far as it went, but it did not go far enough. To clear away any misconceptions on the first question of the referendum ballot, he said, that if the Ontario Temperance Act was repealed it would mean the open bar once more. On the question of the 2 1-2 per cent. beer which is claimed to be non-intoxicating, Mr. Ellis assured the audience that it is very intoxicating indeed. What made the Germans the sordid brutal nation they were with no high ideals? Why, the drinking of beer. Beer drinking tends to lower one's standards. As to the question of the liquor shop, a man in Peterborough said the other day that there was very little doubt but that that would carry in the city of Peterborough. Now it's up to rural Peterborough to vote that down. The U.F.O. candidates are pledged, every man of them, to temperance. In the house of parliament in Toronto, there are 111 members, and only 17 of these are farmers, and of that 6 are "joy farmers."

Farmers Were Ignored.

The Federal government called an industrial conference in Ottawa, which was the largest ever held in Canada, and Labour and Capital each elected their best men as representatives, the farmers' representatives were elected for them and all were employed by the government. The right of the farmers to elect their own representation was not recognized.

In the world's conference of industry, held in Toronto, farmers were allowed no representation because they were not an industry.

Both Liberals and Conservatives oppose the U.F.O. on the ground that the group system of government is no good. Britain has had it for 24 years and France for 80 years and the Germans had it since far back in their history. A few years ago it was carried on in the States when the Progressives flourished.

For Proportional Representation.

They represent the independent party; they stand for proportional representation so that all classes will be represented. Looking over the members from Toronto, one would say, "Are there any Grits in Toronto?" And yet records show there are 40,000, and these have no representation whatsoever. The remedy would be to make Toronto one constituency electing six members instead of six constituencies each electing a member. Too big majorities for either party do not make for good government. Switzerland, the best-governed Republic in the world, has proportional representation, also Belgium.

Another aim of the U. F. O. is direct legislation. That is the truly democratic form of government as it makes the people the court of last resort They would have the initiative, the Referendum, and the recall. In the case of reciprocity, it was more of a party issue than a national one. If submitted to a referendum, the true voice of the people would be heard. In case a member proves unsatisfactory, the recall provides for his being withdrawn.

The speaker was recently in Chicago, where he was greeted in the usual American way—that as a Canadian he was a stranger to democracy, for he was governed by a King. As a matter of fact, the British are the most democratic people on the face of the earth, and the greatest autocrat (since the overthrow of the Kaiser) is the President of the United States, who is elected for four years and chooses his Cabinet from outside the Legislature, and not from elected members, as is done in Canada. Switzerland adopts the direct legislation system, and finds it most satisfactory. Of course, it's the enemy of politicians, as they lose their power by it.

Tax Reform.

Tax reform was another issue. It is not fair to tax a man for the improvements he puts on his place. It is fair to tax land values. A case in point is in Lakefield, where a superb water power, worth, according to the owners, $200,000, is not taxed, nor is the village deriving any benefit from it; while, if it was taxed according to value, the owners would be compelled to use it, and it would be of benefit to the municipality. The acre of ground in use by the T. Eaton Co., in the heart of Toronto, is worth more than many acres in the rural districts, and instead of the rural districts paying 65 per cent. of the taxes they should be only paying about 20 per cent. less, if the corporations, mines, and water powers were taxed.

Mr. McDonald's History.

Mr. E. N. McDonald, the U. F. O. candidate for East Peterborough, was the last speaker. He gave a short sketch of his life to satisfy the curiosity of some of the electors. He lived in Hastings County, near Stirling, with his grandparents, as his mother was dead. They were Methodists and Liberals, and he followed in their footsteps, although his father was a Conservative. For four years he has lived within seven miles of Norwood. He was nominated at the convention, and his opponents for the U. F. O. nomination have been true and loyal to him all through the campaign. Mr. Brethen has really worked night and day for him.

Hearst's Cabinet Not Prohibitionists.

When Mr. Thompson, the Conservative candidate, was approached as to the standing of the Hearst Cabinet on Prohibition, he was forced to admit that only four were Prohibitionists. The soldiers deserve the very best we can give them, and we must redeem our pledges to them. The speaker enlisted in the 93rd Battalion, but was rejected.

A personal canvass is impossible, but Mr. McDonald made a modest, though decidedly manly, appeal for support from the electors.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

REFUSE APPEAL OF KINGSTON.

"Two Spot" Will Not Be Run by Grand Trunk.

OTTAWA, Oct. 17.—The Board of Railway Commissioners, in a judgment handed out to-day, refuse the application of the city of Kingston and towns of Gananoque and Brockville for an order directing the Grand Trunk to restore train service between Belleville and Brockville, which was discontinued at the end of September.

SMARTEST MEN BORN IN EARLY MONTHS OF YEAR

LONDON. — Men born between January 1 and March 31 are stronger, taller and, superior in intelligence to those whose birthdays fall in other months, according to researches completed by Dr. Marcello Boldimi, one of Italy's greatest scientists.

This view is also borne out by the researches of another Italian scientist, Dr. Deela Rovera, who found that the proportion of children of inferior intelligence is lowest among those born in January and February and highest in August and September.

FEW FACTS CONCERNING THE TEMPERANCE ISSUE WHICH IS A FEATURE OF THE PRESENT CAMPAIGN.

POINTS AT ISSUE

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—So much effort is being made by the local candidate to capture some part of the temperance vote here that it would be well to bear in mind the following facts: The Liberal party was the first in the Province to champion the cause of temperance, and has consistently instituted and supported temperance legislation throughout. The system of Local Option was introduced by a Liberal Government upon the failure of the Scott Act, and it was left to the Whitney Government to put the brake on the advance of temperance by the tacking on of the three-fifths clause which prevented Peterborough going dry when a large majority of the citizens were in favour of it.

In 1914 the Liberals went to the country on the issue of the abolition of the bar, and were again the first to show the way for more advanced temperance legislation. Mr. Gillespie was defeated at that election and Mr. Tooms, who now warns the temperance people of Peterborough that his cause is would be in danger under a Liberal Government, was defeated because he opposed the abolition of the bar.

Were Scoffed At.

In 1915 the Liberal party introduced proposals into the Legislature curtailing the liquor traffic, which was constantly weakening our war efforts. These proposals were scoffed at by the Conservative members and Premier Hearst was among those who protested against any curtailment of the traffic.

Then a monster petition, representing three-quarters of the voters of the Province, was presented to Sir William Hearst, praying for Prohibition, and the exigencies of war became such a nature that the Government were forced to pass the Ontario Temperance Act. The Liberals welcomed the passage of the Act in all possible manner.

Some months after the passing of the Ontario Temperance Act the bye-election in South West Toronto was fought on the issue in this bye-election the Ontario Temperance Act was supported by Mr. Hartley Dewart and on an amendment in favor of beer and wine supported by his Conservative opponent. The Conservative Government which now takes the credit for the Ontario Temperance Act did everything in its power to secure the election of their candidate pledged to beer and wine and Hon. I. B. Lucas and Hon. Howard Ferguson, two members of the cabinet, assured the electors of South-West Toronto that "they had their ears to the ground" and that if the Conservative candidate were elected the Act would be amended. Fortunately Dewart and temperance were triumphant at the polls.

Mr. Hartley Dewart, the Liberal leader, has been slandered unremittingly because in his exposure of the importation of nickle from this province to Germany during the war he made deadly enemies of those who benefited by this exportation and they have vowed "to get him" in some way or other. His stand on the temperance question at this election is shown in his own words at the convention in South-West Toronto, which nominated him as reported in the Globe of October 9th. He then said: "I accept the policy of the Liberal party as adopted in June in its entirety. We are declared as a party in favor of the highest degree of temperance legislation this province has a right to enact." No statesman could go further than this as leader of a party. It is clear, too, that the liquor interests have entrenched themselves behind George H. Gooderham in South-West Toronto, who changed his constituency in order to run against Mr. Hartley Dewart. The man so maliciously slandered is considered by the liquor interests to be their most dangerous opponent and right there in South-West Toronto is the real battle ground of temperance, with Dewart the son of a Methodist minister, pitted

MONDAY'S ELECTION WILL BE MEMORABLE

MONDAY'S ELECTION

(Canadian Press)

TORONTO, October 18. — Sunday promises to be a day of vigorous campaigning throughout the province of Ontario as a result of the very active part many church organizations are taking in the Ontario Temperance Act referendum, which will be the direct issue for the people to decide at the polling booths on Monday next when they vote at the same time, in general elections for the Ontario legislature.

The churches having adopted referendum questions as a moral issue a large number of church services will be along that line. In addition there will be many public meetings also advocating the "four no's" on the referendum ballot in an effort to keep Ontario dry. On the other hand, the anti-prohibition leaders, particularly branches of the Citizen's Liberty League in various points will also carry on their campaign with several meeting tomorrow. Both sides this morning express the greatest confidence in their prospects of success. In regard to the general elections campaign it will be practically closed tonight. Sir William Hearst, premier, and H. H. Dewart, K. C., leader of the ocial opposition, will speak in their own ridings, Sault St. Marie, and Southwest Toronto respectively, and there will be many other 11th hour meetings of candidates of all the various parties, to give their final argumenats.

ONE CAR OF LIQUOR STILL LYING ON A SIDING IN TORONTO—OPEN CHALLENGE TO THE PREMIER OF ONTARIO.

TEMPERANCE WORKERS TAKING NO CHANCES

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—Charges of most serious character, which would seem to demand immediate investigation, and which, although coming late in the campaign, will, unless quickly disproven, militate against the Hearst government at Monday's election, were made at Bowmanville last night by J. W. Oakes, former organizer of the Committee of One Hundred.

Mr. Oakes who for two years has not only been actively engaged in organizing the prohibition forces of Ontario, but has also looked after the interests of the Committee of One Hundred when prosecutions under the O.T.A. came before the Ontario License Board, last night openly challenged the Premier of Ontario to say that the Ontario Temperance Act had been impartially enforced. He knew, he said, that the government had juggled with the Act since 1916 for political purposes.

He knew of hotel keepers convicted three times and their fines remitted. He knew of hotels where whiskey was sold for months and nothing was done. In certain districts this had been going on continuously and Mr. J. D. Flavelle, chairman of the Ontario License Board, knew it. Mr. Flavelle had told him on one occasion, said Mr. Oakes, that there was a German vote in a certain constituency and they did not want to disturb it until after the elections; and at another time, said Mr. Oakes, Mr. Flavelle told him that there was a French vote in a certain constituency and they did not want to disturb it until after the elections.

NOT THE FIRST OFFENCE.

Talking of the vishnick distributions, Mr. Oakes said it was not the first time that the Ontario License Commissioners had attempted deliberately to bribe the Jews with liquor. He told of Mr. Dewart's speech in the House criticising the enforcement of the liquor laws. "A few days after that speech," said Mr. Oakes, "I saw typewritten instructions to permit the Jews in Toronto to have brandy, rum, gin and wine any old time they wanted it." Mr. Oakes said that later, having power of attorney as inspector, he personally went out and seized $250 worth of liquor consigned to other than private houses and consigned to Jews. "I put the seal on the seizure. The Jews did not get that liquor and I was never questioned by Mr. Flavelle, "why did you do it?" The word "vishnick" has conjured imaginations akin to what the word Bolshevism did when labour troubles were at their height. "Have you had your vishnick to-day?" is a comman remark when elector meets elector.

Hartley Dewart, the Liberal leader, at Oshawa last evening gave some more information about the "vishnick" distribution, stating that two loads of liquor had been shipped from Montreal and the ordinary capacity of car is 750 cases or 9,000 bottles. They have dispensed only one carload, said Mr. Dewart, because the other carload is still lying on a freight siding in Toronto, and has not been unpacked. It is stated that many of the rural ridings through the distrust engendered by the "vishnick" exposure, is causing the independent temperance vote to swing in an unlooked for direction. The Liberal candidates will receive the benefit. Many temperance voters who care nothing in this election for the fate of either of the old political parties and view the carrying of the referendum as the great object of Monday's polling, state that they will support the Liberal candidate in their constituency because it is the only organization which has absolutely placed prohibition into its platform.

These charges, coming on top of the sale of "vishnick" to Toronto Jews, presumably for sacramental purposes, will have a disturbing effect on the electorate beyond a doubt.

Prohibitionists to-day admitted that this would be the case as a denial, if forthcoming, would be too late to wholly overtake the charge with a Sunday intervening before election day. The "vishnick" episode, despite government denials, has caught hold of minds of the electors province wide, and in itself has caus-

Manitoba Campaign

LIQUOR HOUSE PROMISES EARLY SHIPMENTS OF WET GOODS INTO THE PROVINCE.

PRICE LISTS

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 18.—Consumption of liquor in the province has been reduced 80 per cent., drunkenness 85 per cent., and all crime 33 1-3 per cent., declared Rev. J. N. Maclean, Administrator of the Manitoba Temperance Act, in a public address last night. He predicted that in ten years, with the aid and backing of the medical profession and the general public, intoxicating liquor, even for medical purposes, would be prohibited by law.

Referring to the abuse of the Temperance Act by some medical men, the speaker declared 90 per cent. of the profession in Manitoba is innocent. One doctor alone was credited by the speaker with having written and issued one-half of all the beer prescriptions for the province.

The age of drunkenness and the bar-room was past, said Maclean. The public did not want it back, he asserted. The habitual drunkard was not being reproduced, but he was still in existence. While anyone with a "thirst" was left there was need for the utmost vigilance by temperance forces. In contrast to these assertions, Winnipeg mail is being flooded with business announcements of liquor houses that shipments of liquor will be resumed in a few days from Kenora and Montreal into Manitoba. Price lists are enclosed in letters, the quotations being two-thirds of that now charged by druggists with accompanying prescriptions.

SIR WM. HEARST OPPOSED BY LABOUR

PREMIER WILL REMAIN IN HIS OLD HOME TOWN UNTIL AFTER ELECTION.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Oct. 18.—After nearly two weeks of strenuous battling with the stormy political seas in various parts of the province, Sir Wm. Hearst is back once more to home, sweet home, but he was landed in no peaceful haven.

True, in his own riding he has neither Liberal nor U.F.O. candidate against him, but a rose by another name will smell as sweet, and so the opposition rears the head under the initials I.L.P.

J. B. Cunningham carries the standard. He is familiarly known as "Bert." During the Premier's absence the Labourites have been working their heads off. A. W. Roebuck, a Toronto lawyer, has been foremost in the fray.

POSTER APPEAL.

Cunningham's posters appeal for support from the Independent Labour Party and farmers, but he has not received the endorsement of U.F.O. o rany other political party. There is a very big Labor vote in the constituency and, as one prominent Conservative put it, "if they would only stick together the returns on Monday might tell a surprising story." But there are signs that the stick together policy will not be in evidence on election day. The Government supporters report that has tweak things looked more than favourable for the Labour men. Since then, however, there has been a steady veering round in favour of the Premier. Already, Sir William's partisanhs are beginning to figure out his majority. The Women's Committee is working herd in his favour, and the temperance workers are lined up boldly behind him. Sir William will remain in the Soo until after the election. Arrangements have been made by a number of bodies to receive the election returns promptly whatever impression the Labour man may make on the final result.

SINN FEIN ELECT OFFICERS

DUBLIN, October 18.—The secret convention of the Sinn Fein held here this week, besides re-electing Eamonn De Valera, president of the organisation, chose these other officers — Vice-presidents, Arthur Griffiths and Father O'Flanagan; honorary secretary, Austin Stock and Harry Boland; honorary treasurers, Mrs. Wyse Power and E. W. Duggan. Stock is an English prison; Boland is with De Valera in the United States.

AN INTERVIEW BY MR. J. H. BURNHAM, M.P.

To those who being assured that they are right would compel others to submit to their opinion I would like to say that God allows us to do wrong if we so desire. Beware of trying to stifle that freedom of action and of opinion which is the foundation of truth itself. Remember those who, like beacon lights of history, have fought for the right to think for themselves. Think twice before you set the match to the faggot of compulsion.

As for myself I was born free and will die free, with the help of God if not of man.

A WINNIPEG MAN SHOT AND KILLED

STOREKEEPER SHOT THROUGH THE HEART AFTER HE LEFT HIS STORE.

Special to the Examiner:

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 18. — W. J. Deforge, 657 Maryland Street, was found murdered at 2 o'clock a.m. (Saturday). He was attached to the Military Intelligence Department during the war, and was shot through the heart outside of 659 Maryland Street at that hour. The police state clearly he is a victim of murder. He was 25 years of age, married, and since severing his connection with the military, had conducted a confectionery store at the corner of Maryland and Wellington Streets. He left the store shortly after 1 a.m., and though he had $200 or more on him, the murderer did not get it. The shot alarmed the neighbourhood in Kenwood Apartments, who rushed out and found Deforge lying dead on the sidewalk. A widow and a son, three years old, survive. There is no trace of the murderer. The city is infested with daring gangs of automobile bandits.

ANTI-BOLSHEVIKI FORCES REPORTED TO BE ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF PETROGRAD—TROOPS STILL ADVANCING.

RUSSIAN SITUATION

(United Press.)

HELSINGFORS, Oct. 18. — Surrender of Kronstadt, naval base defending Petrograd, was announced officially to-day by the Finnish General Staff. The white flag was hoisted over Kronstadt at 4.45 yesterday afternoon, according to a Finnish news agency.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The white flag was hoisted over the Bolshevik fortress of Kronstadt on Friday night, according to a Helsingfors despatch quoting a Finnish General Staff report. General Yudenitch has captured Kraanes Selo and Gatchina, south of Petrograd, where he met working men from the city who asked that the Northwestern Russian army refrain from shelling Petrograd, and pledging if his promise was given, to join the anti-Bolsheviki, according to a Helsingfors despatch received here.

Conflicting Reports.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Forces of the Soviet government of Russia are, according to latest advices, still desperately defending the city of Petrograd, toward which anti-Bolshevik troops have been advancing since October 11. Confirmation of despatches telling of the fall of the former Russian capital, has not been received in official quarters here.

Over the whole situation around Petrograd there is considerable obscurity due to conflicting and contradictory reports. There seems to be little doubt that the army commanded by General Yudenitch is within comparatively short distance of the city.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Oct. 18. —Reports of the capture of Kronstadt by the British, which have not been confirmed, and of further advances by General Yudenitch toward Petrograd, have intensified peace conference's interest in the Russian situation and emphasized the fear of the Entente, especially of the French, that General Von Der Goltz may entrench himself in Northern Russia and give Germans an important part in directing Russian affairs should the Bolsheviki government fall.

The Drug Traffic

		Quantity	Value
COCAINE	1916	5,381 ozs.	$ 18,307
	1919	12,333 ozs.	142,123
MORPHINE	1916	15,495 ozs.	72,199
	1919	30,087 ozs.	178,194
OPIUM	1916	1,741 ozs.	11,880
	1919	24,343 ozs.	534,555

These figures show only what came in legally—the enormous quantities known to have been smuggled in and sold through underground channels would swell the total to an appalling figure.

Remember that in voting for the Ontario Temperance Act you are voting for the continued spread of this deadly traffic. The despicable creatures of the underworld who live by pandering to the weakness of their doped whiskey and drug victims are hoping for a solid four No's on the Ballot. Responsibility must rest with you.

LETTER FROM ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S DEPARTMENT DENIES ALLEGED STATEMENT BY PREMIER.

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—An emphatic denial of the statement credited to Premier Hearst in his speech at Guelph of Wednesday evening to the effect that the voters' lists would be re-opened for returned soldiers who had been left off the lists and that this opportunity would be extended to such men up to Saturday night, has been issued by the Attorney-General in a letter to the secretary of the Grand Army of Canada. The letter reads:

I have been instructed by the Prime Minister to write you with reference to your letter of Oct. 14th. The law on the subject is quite clear All soldiers in the service of Great Britain, Canada, or the allies, were entitled to be placed on the voters' lists where they resided or enlisted by the enumerators, and the latter were instructed to that effect.

Provision was made for the holding of revision courts where names that have inadvertently been left off should be added, and these courts have been held and reopened several times at the request of the Government. The authority to hold these courts was given by the Ontario Elections Act of 1918 to the Voters' Registration Boards in each county, and owing to the nearness of the elections, and the necessity of having the lists in the hands of the deputy returning officers. It is probably too late for any further names to be added.

You will understand that the Government has absolutely no authority whatsoever, and if they decide to pass on an order allowing returned soldiers to vote on a discharge certificate that the order would be of no effect.

I agree with you that this is a most important matter, but it was thought when the Act was passed that the returned soldiers would probably all be home long before elections, and considered that the provision made would be amply sufficient to ensure the placing of all names on the lists.

Yours faithfully,
(Signed) E. BAYLEY, Solicitor, Attorney-General's Dept.

The Attorney-General's Department when called up yesterday about the matter, and asked to explain the contrary statement issued the other evening by the Premier himself, declared that the instructions outlined in the above letter to the G. A. C. were definite and final, and that they had been given the Department by the Premier himself.

The Soul of a Vision

So then—
My part is ended. Other men,
And women, too, still play their part,
With courage resolute and dauntless heart.

My broken comrade—
Scared by scars that time can not efface,
Is not the jest of fortune; for his aid
A nation's mighty forces doth provide.

And those who live—
To carry on our story down the years.
Face not their "quiet days" in bitter pain;
(Forgotten, now they've stilled the nation's fears)
Dwarfed by the lust of pride and selfish gain.

My Canada—
Thou fair land for whom great love
Inspired my youth to ancient sacrifice;
Grant that our serried ranks in realms above
May witness bear thee, worthy of the Price.

To Pay Debts of Honour

TO the Dead and to the richness of their dying, we must give pause, and in humility confess a debt beyond redemption.

Before the altar of their sacrifice, Canada is consecrated to make its dominion worthy. The Torch that illumines Victory so dearly bought, must burn eternally. Each year of peace must record an added lustre to our heritage.

But to those who have come back in suffering, Canada owes a debt which money can, in part, repay.

It is a Debt of Honour. Canada was pledged to the end, that the wounded and the sick be adequately cared for, until they were fairly fitted for the competitive existence of civil life.

For this purpose, our medical services, and our vocational training schools must be maintained until the need for them is no more.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 18TH, 1919.

THE MAIN POINT.

No voter should lose sight of the all-important fact that a "Yes" vote on the first question of the Referendum means a vote for the wide-open bar and shop just as they were prior to 1916 and that if the majority of the voters answer "Yes" to the first question, the other three questions on the Referendum ballot will not be considered at all.

MONDAY'S PROGRAMME.

Vote "Four No's" and Vote for Gillespie.

ESPECIALLY IN AN ELECTION CAMPAIGN.

"The members of the Government are in the habit of doing business without a brass band accompaniment."—The Review.

MUST ANSWER ALL.

Each voter must answer all of the questions on the referendum, if his or her ballot is not to be spoiled. The only safe course is to mark an X in the "No" column, opposite each of the four questions.

VOTE WITH AN X.

Vote "Four No's" on the referendum ballot Monday, but if you don't want to lose your vote, don't write "No". Simply place an X in the "No" column, opposite each question.

A FINAL REMINDER.

Women voters—you may vote in the Provincial election as well as on the referendum. Vote for G. A. Gillespie, whose name is the first on the ballot paper.

A QUEER COMBINATION.

"Gooderham and temperance"—this is one of the strangest developments of the Hearst party's attempt to pose as the only hope of the prohibitionists. A leopard may not be able to change his spots but then George H. Gooderham is not a leopard.

A DOUBLE DUTY.

If you don't want the bars back or Government beer shops or beer saloons or Government liquor stores, Monday gives you the chance to say so. Vote "Four No's" and then vote for G. A. Gillespie, the candidate who is pledged to fight for prohibition.

A BANNER GOVERNMENT.

The banner province of the Dominion deserves a banner Government. A vote for Gillespie is a vote for a live administration of Ontario's affairs. For evidence as to what Liberal direction of provincial business means, it is only necessary to study the Gouin administration in Quebec.

"FOUR NO'S" IS THE ANSWER.

The fact is that the propaganda methods of the gentlemen who profess to be ardent advocates of personal liberty are based on the correct assumption that the majority of people have only a hazy knowledge of the details of the Ontario Temperance Act's provisions and regulations. No one should be deceived by their campaign of whispers and innuendos. It is all part of the despairing effort to stem the tide of prohibition on which the people are riding to the goal of economic and social progress and prosperity. The answer to every trick and subterfuge adopted with a view to trying to secure the repeal of the Otario Temperance Act and to restore every evil associated with the licensed liquor system is to put a cross in the "No" column of every question on the referendum ballot.

—Toronto Globe.

HOW TO VOTE.

Four no's and for Gillespie; one is as necessary as the other for the prohibitionist voter.

A MONTREAL VIEW.

One out of six ballots in various "straw votes" on the liquor referendum in Ontario has been found to be spoiled. It takes so much intelligence to register a valid vote that the defeated party will be unable to claim that the victory of its opponents was due to the ignorant and illiterate elector.—Journal of Commerce.

USEFUL FOR ONCE.

The Sarnia Labour Party, instead of distributing a quantity of leaflets sent it by the Citizens' Liberty League, has turned over the supply to the Red Cross to be disposed of as waste paper. This seems to be the first case on record where the Liberty League's propaganda has had a useful effect.

"THE BALLOT IS SECRET."

A Toronto weekly, which is one of the very few papers in the province to take an anti-prohibition attitude in the temperance issue, tells its readers "not to be intimidated by your wife or by your minister". The suggestion of a guilty conscience can easily be found in this advice. The champion of the liquor traffic practically admits that voting for a return of the drink evil is something to be ashamed of. "The ballot is secret" it reminds its readers. What a travesty!

TO RETURNED SOLDIERS.

Have you, in view of the Hearst mismanagement of the soldier colony at Kapuscasing, any confidence that the government will satisfactorily carry out its promises of special consideration for you? "Special consideration" as you have already learned, means with the Hearst government the $2.00 pick and shovel job for the soldier and the $3,000 a year job for the party heeler. Vote for Gillespie, who has been a warm-hearted friend of the returned men and who can be counted upon to exert every effort to see that they obtain justice.

MAKING AN ESTIMATE.

Making guesses as to the result of an election is at best an unsatisfactory task, but on the eve on the voting in West Peterborough, the statement that Mr. G. A. Gillespie's re-election would seem to be assured can be regarded as a comparatively safe one. The fact that three men are in the field complicates the situation to some extent, but the reports from all parts of the riding indicate that Mr. Gillespie's candidature is being most favourably received. His meetings throughout the County have been invariably large and enthusiastic and he can be counted upon to poll a very large vote in the city. Mr. Soden has injured his chances by attempting to show that the opposition to the Hearst government was being financed by the liquor interests, and by his equally unwise endeavour to make an issue out of the price of milk. In using these tactics he has shown a lack of judgment that has been marked by the electors and many who were undecided have swung over to the Gillespie standard.

A LAST WORD.

The campaign is almost over, winding up to-night with the rallies being held in the interests of the different candidates. On Monday the electors of West Peterboro will be called upon to give their verdict. That that verdict will re-elect Mr. G. A. Gillespie, as the riding's representative at Queen's Park, seems assured, if the friends of the Liberal candidate see to it that their votes are polled. There must be no over-confidence, no staying away from the polls under the impression that there will be plenty of votes without yours. In a triangular contest it is essential that the vote should be got out and so every admirer of Mr. G. A. Gillespie and of his public and private career should exercise the franchise on behalf o ftheir candidate.

The Examiner urges the election of Mr. Gillespie on the following grounds:

Because he has faithfully served this riding for five years as a member of the Legislature.

Because he stands pledged to support the temperance cause.

Because he is the standard-bearer of the Liberal party that has consistently fought for temperance.

Because he possesses the necessary qualities to make him an ideal representative.

Because his promises have been redeemed 100 per cent.

Because he is a representative of the calibre that is needed in rural life—a man of sincerity of purpose and possessive of the moral stamina that makes his position on any issue emphatic and understandable.

Because a vote for Mr. Gillespie is a vote of protest against the lethargy and inaction of the Hearst Government.

Because the only hope for better things in Ontario is to send representatives of Mr. Gillespie's standing to Queen's Park.

Vote for G. A. Gillespie—the candidate who has earned your support in his record.

THE TEMPERANCE ISSUE.

The Examiner wishes to take this last opportunity of exhorting its readers to answer all four questions on the referendum ballot on Monday emphatically in the negative. A cross in the "no" column opposite each question will mean four votes for a better, happier province. There should be no parleying with the liquor traffic—no legalized re-entrance of the evil in any form into Ontario. The arguments of the anti-prohibitionists, plausible as many of them may seem, fade into insignificance alongside the improvement in conditions that has been apparent since the Ontario Temperance Act became law. The merchant who has seen the bad debts disappear from his books, the mother who knows that her children have been better dressed and better fed, the children themselves who know that the home life has been happier than in the old days, the parents of young boys who are grateful that the temptations of a few years ago have been removed, all are living testimony to the benefit that the abolishing of the bar and the liquor shop has been to the community.

There are four questions. The first asks for an opinion as to the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act. If the majority of the voters answer yes to this question, the license law will be revived and the answer to none of the other questions will be considered, so that both the prohibitionists and their fellow citizens who believe in one or other of the amendments in the other three questions should vote "no" on this question.

The second question asks for an expression of opinion on the sale of beer of twice the strength now permitted under the Ontario Temperance Act in government shops. To this question the Examiner recommends that its readers answer "no." We do not consider that a government beer shop would be an asset to the community.

The third question deals with the sale of beer of twice the strength of the present temperance beer in standard hotels. To this question, too, "no" is the answer that will be in the best interests of the community and of the individual. Peterborough got along handily in war time without beer of that strength and the city does not need it now.

The fourth and last question provides an opportunity to get the views of the people on the sale of liquor, beer and wine by government shops. Peterboro should emphatically answer "no" to this question like the other three. The government sale of liquor has not been such a success where the system has been tried as to warrant a wish for its introduction in Ontario on the scale involved in this question.

There are several important points to remember. In the first place every question must be answered or the ballot will be spoiled. There must not be anything written on the ballot except to mark an X as an answer to each of the questions. Simply mark an X in the "no" column opposite each question and you will have done your full duty.

A Suggestion for Saving

CASH in the pocket encourages careless spending.

You will find it a much easier task to save if you keep your "Spending" money in a Savings Account with The Bank of Toronto. There it is safe and can be drawn upon when really needed.

A reluctance to draw from that account will grow upon you, and protect you from many needless expenditures.

Once the saving habit is acquired, the account, with its earnings of interest, will steadily grow to a substantial amount.

The Promoter's Wife

BY JANE PHELPS

AN UNEXPECTED VISITOR

CHAPTER XCIV

I had played but a short time before the bell rang, and Mr. Fredericks card was brought to me. I was calmer. Music always soothed me, so I asked aunt to receive him, telling her I would be down in a moment. I could not forget that this man, kindly, clever, if a bit uncouth at times, cared for me. Woman-like I wished to appear to advantage to him even while I thought of him only as my very good friend.

I smoothed my hair, just touched my pale cheeks with rouge and powder then joined him and aunt.

"I heard you playing; do not let me interrupt you," he said after greeting me warmly. "I am very fond of music altho I know nothing about it—I simply know when I like it."

"You probably are a better judge than most people who claim to know," I said lightly. "I was playing in the dark. Mr. Forbes is out, and so aunt and I were amusing ourselves."

"I had hoped to find him at home." I sensed an undertone of disappointment in his voice, and felt anxious at once. What was it he had to say to Neil I so wished he would tell me. Perhaps he would if I tactfully led up to it.

"Aunt has been trying to impress Neil with his duty to himself. That he really does wrong to attend to business in the evening She hasn't yet been successful, however, as his absence shows."

"It is too bad that we men have that habit." He turned to aunt. "But sometimes it seems necessary. There is so much competition now-a-days and so often men come from a distance and have to make the most of their time. That is especially so in New York with big concerns, or with men of large interests. I guess it does make it sort of lonesome for the women folks," he added in his kindly way, "but most of them are willing to put up with it, if it means more money."

"All women are not mercenary, Mr. Frederick," Aunt returned in her most severe manner.

"No indeed! many of them not enough so. But it costs a lot of money to live in New York —to live well. It keeps men hustling pretty lively. I often think how lucky I am not to have to live here. It's a great town all right—the greatest in the world. Fine to come to and let off steam. But after a few days of it I am ready for my little western town, where a man can wear a soft shirt, and let his manners correspond with his shirt. Here every one seems to be starched up, all glossy and shiny on the outside anyway. A bit uncomfortable for some of us who are used to being well—just sort of natural human beings without the frills."

"But society calls for form and for manners, I should think those Western mining towns would be, well, rather demoralizing," aunt replied. I could see she did not understand at all Mr. Frederick's timile, or his point of view. She was most conventional in all her ideas and actions.

"Not at all dear madame! sometimes I think they bring out the very best there is in a man—a real man. The one who becomes demoralized in a mining town would become equally so in New York or any other place. Water seeks its level you know. I am a great believer in the theory that often hard knocks in the beginning of a career bring out the best there is in a man, easy places of the world make men soft."

I loved to hear him talk, to watch the play of expression on his strong face. But just then I was more interested in knowing what brought him, than in hearing him discuss theories with aunt. So I interrupted: "Have you seen Mr. Scott lately?" I would find out if he had changed his mind and been with Neil the night before.

"No, not for a few days. Scott is a good sort, common, perhaps, and a bit vulgar sometimes," with a depreciating glance at aunt, "but honest all the way through."

"Yes, I have heard you say so. I think him a good influence for Neil," I replied a bit timidly.

"I don't know about the good influence in some ways. But he is straight as a string in business. A bad man to make an enemy. That was one reason I hoped to see Mr. Forbes to-night."

"There he comes now. He expected to be late— Iam so glad. Neil, Mr. Frederick is calling," I rose to meet my husband.

"Just the man I want to see Frederick! Excuse us please, we will go into the library." Neil had ignored me, addressing his remark to aunt. I so wished they had remained in the music room. I wanted to hear what they said. As I bade aunt good night a few moments later I wondered what had happened—had Neil offended Mr. Scott, and would he be his enemy?

Tomorrow—Frederick Tells Neil That Scott is Dangerous.

ANARCHISTS HERDED IN SQUARE MADE TO KNEEL AND KISS FLAG

WEIRTON, W. Va., Oct. 10.—Encircled by a squad of heavily-armed deputy sheriffs, 118 alleged exponents of anarchy knelt down in the public square here, herded together like sheep, and pressed their lips to the folds of the Star Spangled Banner.

Sheriff Armour Cooper, of Hancock County, then ordered all but six or seven of the gang to pack bag and baggage and depart forthwith from the town.

To-night the red flag which these 118 are alleged to have waved freely flies no more in Weirton. The radicals are gone, some to Pittsburg, some to Steubenville, Ohio, some to parts unknown. Seven alleged ringleaders are held in the Hancock County Jail at New Cumberland awaiting action of Federal authorities, which may mean their deportation. In another section of Hancock County rests half a ton of literature, banners, circulars, cards, streamers, all painted in red ink, all decorated with the red flag, and all preaching the same red rule.

The raid started at noon to-day, when Sheriff Cooper, aided by fifty picked men, suddenly fell upon an old barn about a quarter of a mile south of the town, arrested all the occupants and confiscated the literature.

Among the papers and books confiscated was the membership roll of the organisation. Armed with this, Sheriff Cooper went forth, determined to stamp out, with one sweep, all red agitators, I. W. W.'s, Bolshevists, and anarchists. Within an hour, as one deputy after another brought in men, the public square assumed the aspect of a prayer meeting, 118 men were upon their knees under an American flag and deputy sheriffs were passing another flag among them, commanding each man in turn to kiss it.

There were protests galore but all in vain. Woodlawn is said to have been the original home of many of the men arrested, and it is reported among these forced to kiss the flag were many who, during the war, were tarred and feathered in Woodlawn for refusing to purchase Liberty bonds.

A MYSTERIOUS MEMORIAL.

Stonehenge, on Salisbury Plain, Dates Back to 1700 Years B.C.

Stonehenge, the greatest and oldest of the nation's memorials, situated on Salisbury Plain, has been presented to Great Britain by its owner. As the remains of a long gone-by civilization, Stonehenge has a value and an interest equalled by no other monument in the United Kingdom.

The historic monument is composed of huge stones, some of them weighing tons, and in some instances piled one atop of another. How the great blocks were got to their positions, or their age or purpose is a mystery, but it is believed that the monument dates from as early as 1700 B.C. It has been a place of pilgrimage for generations.

Evelyn and Pepys, Johnson, Emerson and other great men visited it, and some of them left records of the impression which the great stones made upon them. Johnson pointed a delightful contrast between the Cathedral of Salisbury (the spire of which can be seen from the Plain) and "those girt big stones" as they are called by the natives.

Johnson said: "These were two eminent monuments of art and rudeness, exhibiting the first essay and the last perfection in architecture." Evelyn, it is evident from a remark in his diary, made an unsuccessful attempt to count the stones. "To number them exactly," he wrote, "is very difficult; they lie in such variety of posture and confusion, though they seemed to exceed 100; we counted only 95."

Pepys found the stones "so prodigious as any tales I have ever heard of them. God knows what their use was." One large stone, known as the "leaning stone," was, in 1901, restored to the perpendicular. During the excavations made then a number of implements were found, believed to have been used by the builders. They were of stone and flint.

Under various private ownerships the ancient memorial has been wrangled over in the courts, robbed of its trilithons to make bridges and mill dams, and allowed to suffer needless damage from storm and ruin hunter, and has been either a white elephant or a mere source of gain.

Stunning Whales.

With his airplane equipped with a machine gun, an army lieutenant recently went out on a whale hunting expedition. Flying at an altitude of about a thousand feet above the Pacific ocean, the airman saw his quarry about four miles out at sea, and swooped down before the great animal could submerge. A short round from the machine gun was sufficient, and a motor boat was soon on its way to pick up the carcass, which yielded the hunter a considerable profit.—Popular Mechanics

RECONSTRUCTION PERIOD

The years immediately following the war are testing times for the nations engaged in it. For the second time in less than half a century France is face to face with reconstruction. While Canada has to solve the problem of restoring her fighting men to their places in the industrial life of the nation it is easy of solution compared with the great task which lies before France.

Philip Gibbs, who has been revisiting the great French industrial city of Lille, which was stripped of its factory outfit by a ruthless enemy, was told by one of the principal manufacturers that it would be three years before the industry of which he is the head could get back to normal conditions.

'This waiting period," said the manufacturer, "is hard on the people of France—on masters and men. Some of my workmen almost cry to come back. On Sundays they come out to look through the windows, wistfully, and say 'When can we get to work again?' They are good fellows, many of them, and do not like idleness. But the outside world goes its way and gives us no help, and does not understand our desperate plight."

Just think of it—tens of thousands of men and women in Lille condemned to involuntary idleness for three years, because the Germans took away the machinery of her factories. There is reason for thankfulness that there is no such severe handicap to industry in any Canadian city as that which is making reconstruction a bad time for workers all over Northern France.

Canada's prosperity rests on you. In the measure of your contribution to the Victory Loan 1919 will the industrial machinery of Canada continue to hum and her workers earn good wages.

NOW IS THE TIME of the year when it is necessary to start fires in the furnace and range, the same to be kept up for the next six months, day and night, whether you are on hand to look after them or not. It is important to see that everything is kept in good condition to avoid accidents which may occur, and also more important to see that your fire insurance is in force and in a good company. Do not delay to get your policy made out and in your possession. You never know when or where a fire is going to break out. Be prepared for it at all times even if it never happens. Letters full of Praise—
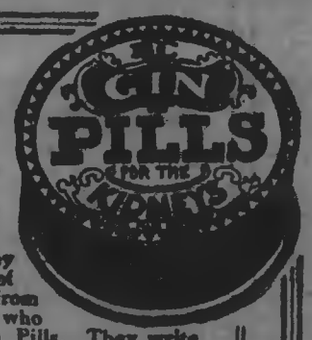
A Wonderful Record of Healing



Gin Pills, the greatest help in overcoming Kidney Troubles, have relieved so many thousands of people throughout Canada, that the verbal praise, from mouth to mouth, is not enough to satisfy those who have suffered and been made well by Gin Pills. They write continually to us, and here are some extracts from the letters which have reached us recently:—

Sid Castleman, a prospector in the Larder Lake District, wrote thus:—"I am writing to thank you and to tell you the good your Gin Pills did for me. I had been suffering for some time with my kidneys and urine. I was constantly passing water, which was very scanty, some days as many as thirty times, and each time the pain was something awful, and no rest at night. I began to feel quite worn out. I sent my chum out to get Gin Pills (about 60 miles) for me, and in less than six hours I felt relief. In two days the pain had left me altogether. I took about half a box, and to-day feel as well as ever I did, and my kidneys are acting quite naturally."

Mrs. E. Dean, Whiting, Ind., had this to say: "When I sent for the last box of Gin Pills, I was all crippled up with rheumatism and my face was so badly swollen that I could hardly see out of my eyes. After taking six of the pills, I felt better. After a few days I had no more pain."

"I beg you to publish my letter," writes Isidore Thomas, of Tilley's Road, N.B., "so that people may know what Gin Pills did for me. Everybody expected my death. I tried Gin Pills and in a short time was well again, and soon had gained 20 pounds."

Gin Pills FOR THE KIDNEYS

John B. Whitson, Stevens, B.C., says: "I have been troubled for years with weak kidneys. One box of Gin Pills cured me. I recommend them as an absolute and reliable cure."

"I suffered untold misery," writes Louis MacPherson, from Halifax, N.S., "My trouble was inflammation of kidneys and bladder. I finally determined to go to the hospital for treatment. Two days before my intended departure, a neighbor called and happened to have some Gin Pills with him and insisted on my taking them. Six hours after the first dose the effects were simply miraculous. Instead of going to the hospital I sent for a box of Gin Pills, with the result that I felt a new man. I recommend Gin Pills to everyone suffering from Kidney trouble."

If you have pains in the back or sides, constant headaches, stiff and swollen joints, rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, dizziness, constipation or stone in the bladder, take no chances. Get Gin Pills at once. They may save you from a critical operation.

GEORGE WALSH HERE IN CUTTING COMEDY

George Walsh, in what is described as a cutting comedy, will head the photoplay bill at the Empire Theatre for three days beginning Monday. "Help! Help! Police!" is the name of the play ,and the story, it is said deals with safety razors, the police and a love affair. It is denied that the safety razors are introduced to give George a chance to cut up—the police provide that opportunity. However, it is obvious that if it hadn't been for the razors George would not have gotten into so many scrapes.

George, it seems, falls in love with the daughter of his dad's principal business rival. Both fathers consider this a stroke against the grain and one of them is rather inclined to assist the police in ticketing George "over the road." To this cause a keen edged sharper contributes an abundance of circumstantial evidence and George is afforded a great opportunity for display of athletic prowess in parrying and dodging this steady bombardment.

ONLY TABLETS MARKED "BAYER" ARE ASPIRIN

For Colds, Pain, Headache, Neuralgia, Toothache, Earache, and for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuritis, take Aspirin marked with the name "Bayer" or you are not taking Aspirin at all.

Accept only "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" in an unbroken "Bayer" package which contains complete directions. Then you are getting real Aspirin—the genuine Aspirin prescribed by physicians for over nineteen years. Now made in Canada.

Handy tin boxes containing 12 tablets cost but a few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer" packages.

There is only one Aspirin—"Bayer"—You must say "Bayer"

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assist the public against imitations, the Tablets of Bayer Company will be stamped with their general trade mark, the "Bayer Cross."

MABEL NORMAND STARS IN "WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE"

"When Doctors Disagree" is the intriguing title of Mabel Normand's new Goldwyn Picture to be seen at the Grand Theatre on Monday and Tuesday. There is every reason to predict that the vivacious comedienne will strike the high spots of fun and originality in the piece because it is a genuine farce, so well wrought that it will be a surprise if it doesn't find its way to the stage.

Miss Normand is Millie Martin accompanying her father on her first railroad journey. On the same train is a worthy young carpet layer who is fleeing from an imaginary crime. Armed with a doctor's pass, he pretends to be a physician but is terrified when addressed as "doctor." He is too scared to respond to Millie's blandishments so she hits upon a way to enlist his professional services Feigning toothache she begs her stingy parent to summon a doctor Instead, her father forces a wad of chewing tobacco into her mouth. A sharp curve, a sudden lurch and —Millie swallows the "medicine." Then the "doctor" has to come. He orders an operation, the train is rushed to the next station and Millie is hurried to a sanitarium, with the mock doctor forced along too. The ensuing events are laughable in the extreme, and Millie's escape from the knife is miraculous.

Spanking Doesn't Cure

Don't think children can be cured of bed-wetting by spanking them. The trouble is constitutional, the children cannot help it. I will send FREE to any mother my successful home treatment, with full instructions. If your children trouble you in this way, send no money, but write me to-day. "MY SOLDIER GIRL"

The most talked of musical show of the entire season is the brilliant musical spectacle, "My Soldier Girl," at the Grand to-day. The gorgeous costumes are fashion plates of the latest design, the novel numbers are staged under the careful direction of one of our best ballet masters, and the feature novelties are many—"Flirtation Walk," an illuminated runboard extending from the stage nearly half-way to the rear wall of the theatre, and the many numbers introduced on the "walk" offer new and amusing entertainment, while an aerial flight, moon dance at the lawn fete, a grand illumination of New York City, and bewitching "pony" ballet in the Follies, are a few of the feature novelties. An elaborate production with gorgeous costumes forms a background for a brilliant cast and big "pony" ballet, which presents the big spectacle in all its merrymaking. There are some twenty musical hits, including "My Soldier Girl," "Jasper's Ragtime Band," "That Dixie Wedding Tune," "Wrap Me In a Bundle of Love," and "Won't You Be My Beau?" which are popular favorites.

Encourage Swallows.

If you want to free the neighborhood of mosquitoes encourage swallows to make themselves at home. These birds feed almost entirely upon obnoxious insects and they will do much toward protecting orchards and other trees from insect pests. No better investment can be made, therefore, than some houses set out for martins or other swallows. Of the blue swallows the purple martin is the largest, the male being entirely blue above and below, while the female is blue above with a grey breast. Swallows are highly migratory, most of them spending the winter in South America.

"The Standard of Excellence"

The Way to say "No"

Mark Your Ballot with an X after Each Question under the word "No."

		YES	NO
1	Are you in favour of the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act?		X
2	Are you in favour of the sale of light beer containing not more than two and fifty-one one-hundredths per cent. alcohol weight measure through Government agencies and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?		X
3	Are you in favour of the sale of light beer containing not more than two and fifty-one one-hundredths per cent. alcohol weight measure in standard hotels in local municipalities that by a majority vote favour such sale and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?		X
4	Are you in favour of the sale of spirituous and malt liquors through Government agencies and amendments to The Ontario Temperance Act to permit such sale?		X

Above is an exact reproduction of the Referendum ballot, showing the correct way to Vote in order to sustain the Ontario Temperance Act as it stands.

Everybody should study the four questions and realize exactly what they mean. Do not be misled by the insidious demand for "light" beer.

The beer of the ballot is 118% stronger than the Ontario Temperance Act now allows, and over five times as strong as the limit allowed for beer defined as non-intoxicating in Great Britain and the United States.

Must Answer Each Question

1. Unless you vote on every question your ballot is spoiled.
2. You must mark your answer to each question with an "X" only. Anything else would spoil your ballot.
3. Unless a majority vote "No" on question 1 the bars will be restored and the sale of all kinds of intoxicants permitted.
4. Unless a majority vote "No" on questions 2, 3 and 4 the Ontario Temperance Act will become almost worthless.
5. The only SAFE course is to mark your ballot as shown above.

"No!"—Four Times—"No!"

No repeal; No government beer shops; No beer saloons; No government whiskey shops.—Four X's, each under the word "No."

FARMERS WIVES INTEND TO VOTE

MR G. A GILLESPIE AND MR. E. N M'DONALD ARE THE FAVOURITES IN THE COUNTRY.

To a woman the farmers' wives are strong for the four "No's," and will come out on Monday to vote. Conversation with practically all the women on the market this morning found them all to be strong prohibitionists and eager to have their first experience at the polls. "Of course we'll vote," each woman assured the Examiner. "Why not?"

In the voting for the Provincial candidate in the West Riding Mr. G. A. Gillespie has won the confidence of the women, who are fearless in stating they are coming out for him. Many of them, like their husbands, are departing from the old system of "hereditary voting" and marking their ballot for the first time in the history of their family for the Liberal candidate. In the East Riding Mr. McDonald, the U.F.O. candidate, is the favourite. "I think Mr. Thompson is a good enough man," one of the women voters remarked, "but we all know that Mr. McDonald will represent our interests."

PAINFUL NEURALGIA

Most people think of neuralgia as a pain in the head or in the face but neuralgia may affect any nerve in the body. Different names are given to it when it affects certain nerves. Thus neuralgia of the sciatic nerve is called sciatica but the character of the pain and the nature of the disease are the same. The cause being the same the cure to be effective must be the same. The pain in neuralgia is caused by starved nerves. The blood which carries nourishment to the nerves has become thin and impure and no longer does so, and the pain that you feel is the cry of the nerves for their natural food. You may ease the pains of neuralgia with hot applications but you can only cure the trouble by enriching and purifying the blood. For this purpose we know of no medicine that can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills actually make new rich blood, and these act as the most efficient of nerve tonics. If you are suffering from this most dreaded of troubles, or any form of nerve trouble give these pills a fair trial and see how speedily you will be restored to good health.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

against Gooderham, the son of a distiller. It would be pretty hard to camouflage Gooderham so as to make him look like a supporter of the Ontario Temperance Act. As a matter of fact he makes no attempt to hide his hostility towards any form of temperance legislation.

Cause of Temperance.

To a lesser extent the cause of temperance will be fought out in West Peterborough between Mr. Gillespie, the Liberal candidate, and Mr. Soden, the Conservative. Mr. Gillespie is an out and out temperance man. Mr. Soden is a supporter of whatever policy his government decides upon. One speaker this week stated from the platform that at the last election he had seen men pouring from the different bars of the city to vote for Mr. Soden against the abolition of the bar. I am not able to verify this statement, but one thing certain those men did not vote for Mr. Gillespie then and will not vote for him on Monday. Mr. Gillespie stands or falls by the temperance vote of this city. The question is whether the forces for temperance are as strong here now as they were in 1914. A vote for Gillespie is a vote for a man who will support temperance legislation no matter which party introduces it.

Yours truly,
Joseph Wearing.

SAYS THE GOVERNMENT HAS JUGGLED

ed no distrust. So much is it talked about even along the concession lines of rural Ontario, that party workers continue to make prognostications as to election results.

ISSUED A REPLY.

Huron Liberals have issued a reply to Wm. Proudfoot, former Liberal leader, now running as Independent candidate, against the charge by Mr. Proudfoot that he had been unfairly treated in being censured by the Liberal Association of the riding. The statement in part reads: "No Liberal disputes Mr. Proudfoot's right to do as he pleases in his private capacity, but his course as a representative of the people, always open to criticism as representative government, is a mockery. Mr. Proudfoot stayed with the Liberal party until the Provincial Liberal convention of June last failed to elect him as leader, after which he stated that he would never again attend a Liberal meeting. He is now running practically as the Conservative candidate. The truth of the matter is that for some years there has been growing dissatisfaction with Mr. Proudfoot as the representative of this riding. His actions have been too much swayed by Toronto influence. We want a member who will represent Centre Huron—Toronto has ten or a dozen members of its own. Mr. Proudfoot went out of his way in 1917 to support the Unionist government, whose Franchise Act was an insult to seventy-five per cent. of the women of this province."

BECK MEETING.

An attempt was made by persons hostile to public ownership to stampede a meeting being addressed by Sir Adam Beck in London last night. After many interruptions Sir Adam stopping suddenly in his speech, shouted angrily: "This is the first time I have ever been denied the right to speak in a public meeting in Ontario. British fair play goes in this country yet and I demand it now. There are only two or three of these men and I call on the audience to preserve order."

The audience responded to the summons with almost complete unanimity, women joining with the cries of 'Shame, give the speaker a hearing." For a moment it seemed probable that the pro-corporationists would receive rough handling, but a policeman took a more prominent position. Thereafter the hecklers did not attempt any further interruptions.

THE ORGANIZERS HAVE ARRIVED

MR. W. H. BRADBURN WILL ACT AS CHAIRMAN FOR A THIRD TERM.

Messrs. Harold Fry and F. N. Blackador, both of Toronto, who were appointed Victory Loan Organizers for the City and County of Peterborough, have arrived in the city, and are busy with the preliminary work of preparing the way for the Victory Loan campaign which will open throughout Peterborough on Monday, October 27th, and continue for two weeks.

The headquarters for the local campaign are at 336 George street, which premises have been secured through the courtesy of Mr. J. Wells Fraser, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, the bank having removed to the original quarters across the street.

Mr. W. H. Bradburn, who as city and county chairman, carried the Victory Loan to success in 1917 and again in 1918, has consented to act as chairman for a third term. Mr. Vincent Eastwood, manager of the Royal Bank, and Mr. J. J. Turner, president of the Board of Trade, will act as vice-presidents; and the secretarial work will once more be in the capable hands of Mr. Felix Brownscombe. Assisting them will be a strong organization of committees and canvassers.

The Government in this, its third appeal to the people of the Dominion, for money to help meet Canada's obligations arising out of the war and to provide for peace times, is asking for $300,000,000. Peterborough's share is $1,800,000.

RETURNED SOLDIERS WERE ENTERTAINED

BY THE WOMAN'S FRIENDLY BIBLE CLASS OF ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

A very pleasant social evening was spent last night in the Sunday School of St. John's Church, under the auspices of the Women's Friendly Bible Class. The class had very thoughtfully, decided to entertain the returned soldiers and had sent out invitations to as many as they knew to be present at a Social Tea to be given specially in their behalf. The ladies scored quite a success and were heartily thanked by the soldiers The visitors were received by the President of the Bible Class, Mrs. M. A. Errington and wlecomed by the members of the class, who proudly escorted them to the well filled tables of refreshments. A very varied and appetizing spread had been provided, which the soldiers evidently enjoyed with greater zest than they could have done in the trenches. After tea, music, singing and speeches followed. Piano solos were given by Miss Flowers, organist of All Saint's Church and by Mrs. M. A. Errington and congratulatory speeches delivered by Canon Davidson, who honored the company with his presence, as well as by the esteemed Bible Class teacher, Mrs. May, and the President of the Class. Other pleasant incidents followed, after which the evening was brought to a close about 10 o'clock by the singing of the National Anthem. The only regret was that more of the returned soldiers has not responded to the invitation: for they do not know what they missed—not only the smiles and congratulations of the ladies, but several of the tables, laden with delicacies of the season, were left untouched.

BACK FROM THE KINMOUNT TRIP

ENGINEER WILL MAKE REPORT TO COMMISSION.

The Hydro Electric Engineer Wrong, Mr. G. N. Gordon and Alderman Morrison returned from a trip over the proposed Kinmount Road, to-day.

Mr. Wrong obtained considerable data as to the possibilities of the road, the population served and the agricultural interests affected, as well as the possibilities of assisting such enterprises as mining and laboring. He stater that he would prepare a report for the Hydro Electric Power Commission immediately and he would send a copy to Mr. Gordon who told our reporter to-day that he would have copies made and forward them to the City Council, the Trades and Labor Council and the Board of Trade, for consideration by these bodies.

Voice Of The People

Peterborough, Ont.
Oct. 18th., 1919

The Editor of the Examiner,
City,

Dear Sir, — Miss Constance Boulton, a Toronto society woman, is coming to address the women voters to-night on behalf of Mr. Soden. When the women who do not pose as society women, were fighting for prohibition all over the province, Miss Constance Boulton did not lift her voice to assist them.

Miss Constance Boulton has been supporting G. H. Gooderham and the other liquor interests when these politicians were opposing Prohibitory Legislation in Toronto.

Miss Boulton has in this city, openly advocated the uses of liquor in the drawing-room, and has adhered to the old ideas of Toryism although now she is coming from Toronto to tell the women in Peterborough how they should vote.

It would be probably in better taste if Miss Boulton would remain in Toronto where she is known and tell the women there how to vote.

Yours truly,
WOMAN VOTER.

Our Master Instrument— The Organola

THE test of the control Pipes of the Organola is a Band Record or a Quartette.

The ordinary talking machine will reproduce a record of band instruments or quartette as one co-ordinated sound and in doing so loses the beauty and character of the individual instruments or voices. The tone control pipes of the Organola are so tuned that each individual sound—instrumental or voice—is distinctly reproduced because the pipes embrace every note in the scale and vibrate in sympathy as their notes are given forth by the record which happens to be playing.

"Phonola" REGISTERED

Our magnificent "Organola" model is the only phonograph equipped with a full set of tone control pipes. The aid of these pipes in the true and harmonious reproduction of tones has made the Organola the master instrument of the phonograph world and a triumph to the true lovers of music.

If you have not heard the "Organola" an artistic treat is awaiting you.

LIBERAL PARTY'S BROAD AND PRACTICAL LABOUR POLICY

INTERPRETS THE ASPIRATION OF THE MEN AND WOMEN OF ONTARIO AND ACCEPTS THE OPPORTUNILIES FOR PROGRESSIVE LEGISLATION AS REVEALED BY THE NEGLECT AND FAILURE OF THE HEARST GOVERNMENT.

The general policy of the Liberal party in Ontario, upon which it confidently appeals for the election of its candidates, comprehends the needs and aspirations of every section of the people. To no department was more careful thought given than to that of Labour. The refusals of the Hearst Government to consider the petitions of organised Labour during the last two years accentuated the demands of the workers to meet new conditions, to provide relief from burdens that had accumulated during the war, such as the increasing cost of living and the meagre and disproportionate advances n wages, and finally to remove from Labour's path those obstacles to the social and industrial advantages that were revealed as just rights and claimed as part of the fruits of victory.

The Liberal party has shown its realisation of the dawning of the new era and its sympathy to the demands of Labour by committing itself to a programme that is leagues in advance of the ideas of the Hearst Government, and that should receive the approval of organised Labour everywhere in this Province. Comparisons have proved that it fully expresses the hopes and desires of the workers, men and women, that it extends not only to shop and factory conditions, but even to home life and to those things that make for social betterment and happiness.

The Liberal party seeks the opportunity to give effect to its practicable, reasonable, and broad policy even as in England previous to the war Lloyd-George demonstrated the democratic leadership and initiative of Liberalism by passing legislation that was inspired by the old spirit of Liberalism—government for the people and by the people—and was applauded by the Labour group that accorded him willing support.

THE LIBERAL PLATFORM IN ONTARIO.

The following Labour programme has been approved by the Liberals of Ontario, and endorsed by their leader, Mr. Dewart, and their candidates:

A general minimum wage for both men and women to apply generally to all industry throughout the Province.

The appointment of a permanent commission to inquire continuously into the cost of living in various localities and from time to time, with power to increase the minimum wage to such a rate as will, under all conditions, provide a respectable living to all wage-earners.

A law fixing the eight-hour day for all industrial occupations, throughout the Province, as applied to both men and women.

Better inspection of factories and other industries where men or women are employed, particularly with a view to the protection of women, and a more rigid enforcement of child labour regulations.

A law prohibiting employers from compelling their employees to enter into agreements not to enter into labour unions, and a recognition of the principle of collective bargaining.

Insurance against sickness and unemployment, based on the principles of English law.

Abolition of imprisonment for debt; the increase of the exemption of married men's wages from attachment from $25.00 to $40.00; the revision of the list of articles exempt from seizure for debt, so as to leave the actual necessities of home life.

And generally in dealing with protection of men and women, and the improvement of social conditions, the committee recommending the following: "Mothers' pensions to be administered by the Department of Labour, with power to provide medical attendance and necessaries whenever required for the proper birth and upbringing of children."

The amendment of the Dower Act, so as to ensure to a married woman a fair and adequate share of her husband's estate which he cannot will away from her.

PROVINCIAL INDUSTRIAL COUNCIL.

The Liberal party has also gone on record as favouring the passage of legislation to give effect to proposals relating to the maximum hours of the labour day, insurance against sickness and unemployment, old-age pensions, and the harmonising of the interests of employer and employed, and generally, by means of a Labour Department, to keep in touch with the labour situation with a view to avoiding disputes between employers and employed.

And further, that the Government create a Provincial Industrial Council consisting of an equal number of employees and employers, men and women, together with a chairman appointed by the Government, to consider and report on the causes of the present unrest and the steps necessary to safeguard and promote the best interests of employees, employers, and State, and especially to consider:

(1) Questions relating to hours, wages, and general conditions of employment;

(2) Unemployment and its prevention;

(3) The best methods of promoting co-operation between capital and labour;

And that the Government shall undertake to give legislative consideration and effect to the findings of such Provincial Industrial (Advisory) Council.

ITALIAN MINISTER SITS IN COUNCIL

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, October, 18.—The supreme council today adopted a resolution that delegates of the Great Powers may sit on various commissions created under the German peace treaty and may vote on questions before these commissions whether or not their governments have ratified the treaty.

If the United States does not object, it is stated to be probable that American delegates will take places assigned to United States on such commissions.

Germany is anxious to have a commission begin their work fully organized, it is declared. Signor Tittoni, Italian foreign minister, sat in the council today for the first time since his recent return from Rome. He has been ill for the past two days. The subject of Fiume was not taken up at the council this meeting.

When you buy a suit of clothes, you do not choose because the price is low. You examine the quality of the fabric, the workmanship, the style—you buy service and wearing quality, not merely something to wear.

Then, in the name of real economy, buy your car the same way. Price alone is no gauge.

You must get service, freedom from trouble, beauty of design and finish, comfort, power, speed—balanced against the price.

On just this basis we build and sell the Gray Dort. On this basis we have won the friendship of a great body of car owners. See and ride in the Gray Dort before you decide.

The touring car is $1245; the Gray Dort Special—the car with added refinements and extra equipment, is $135 extra; there are also a coupe, and a sedan. All prices f.o.b. Chatham and are subject to change without notice.

Instant relief from pain, soreness, stiffness, follows a rubbing with "St. Jacobs Liniment."

Stop "dosing" rheumatism.

It's pain only; not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Liniment" right on the "tender spot," and by the time you say Jack Robinson—out comes the rheumatic pain and distress. "St. Jacobs Liniment" conquers pain! It is a harmless rheumatism liniment which never disappoints and doesn't burn the skin. It takes pain, soreness and stiffness from aching joints, muscles and bones; stops sciatica, lumbago, backache, neuralgia and reduces swelling.

Limber up! Get a small trial bottle of old-time, honest "St. Jacobs Liniment" from any drug store, and in a moment you'll be free from pains, aches and stiffness. Don't suffer! Rub rheumatism away.

CATTLE MARKET PROSPECTS GOOD

MR. H. P. KENNEDY FORECASTS A GOOD FEEDING SEASON FOR THE FARMER.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy, well-known live stock dealer of Toronto, who is in the city to-day, reports a heavy movement of stock. Mr. Kennedy is shipping a number of feeding cattle from Toronto and other points, and heavy shipments are going to the United States. The firm handled about two thousand head, principally feeders, during this week. The prices range from ten dollars to ten and a quarter for strictly choice heavy feeders, nine dollars to ten for good feeders and six dollars and a half to eight and a half for common medium stockers.

PILES Do not suffer another day with itching, Blind, or Protruding Piles. No surgical operation required. Dr. Chase's Ointment will relieve you at once and as certainly cure you. 60c. a box; all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Sample box free if you mention this paper and enclose 2c. stamp to pay postage.

With the American markets going higher every day on strictly choice fat cattle, Mr. Kennedy believes the prospects are good for farmers who intend to feed cattle during the winter months. The H. P. Kennedy Company is sending a shipment of heavy export steers to France at the end of the month, and expect to ship a load every two weeks to that country. The export demand is good.

Mr. Kennedy is visiting his parents in the city, who reside at 600 Water Street.

AS OTHERS KNOW IT

Because of its Perfect Tone, the

HEINTZMAN & CO. ART PIANO

GRAND OR UPRIGHT

has stood the test of the most exacting musical critics at home and abroad. It is what they say that is worth while telling:

"It afforded me the greatest pleasure to know that so fine an instrument as the Grand Piano of Heintzman & Co., used at my concert in the Armouries, is manufactured in Canada."—Pol Plancon, the great French Basso.

"The tone is delightful, the elasticity of touch marvellous — every note ringing out in clear, pearly and limpid quality."—Albani.

"I found the tone massive in its sonority and of very excellent quality, with a particularly limpid tone in its mezzo tints."—Friedheim.

"I don't hesitate to say that the Heintzman & Co. piano surpassed in beauty of tone any piano I have us... anywhere."—De Pachmann.

Words equally as appreciative have come, from Tetrazzini, Calve, Nordica, Melba, the Cherniavsky Brothers, and many others who have used and known this world famous Piano. Nothing is ever withheld that can add to the completeness of this piano, whether in architectural construction, or in beauty, power, sweetness and perfect rounding out of tone, making it the choice of those who are satisfied only with the highest in a piano.

INDEPENDENT LABOUR PARTY MEETING IN G.W.V.A. HALL

LABOUR CANDIDATE DECLARES POLITICIANS ARE MAKING A FOOTBALL OF TEMPERANCE.

The Independent Labour party had a good house last evening to listen to the different speakers expound the virtues and stability of the Labour platform. The Great War Veterans' Hall resounded with cheers and laughter—mostly laughter— as P. C. Lloyd spoke of peanuts at five cents a bag and matters relating to the Welsh Miners' Strike in 1866. He was sure, in fact positive, that Mr. Tooms would be the next representative of West Peterboro in the Ontario Legislature. Mr. Tom McMurray, although he had a bad cold, was certain that Mr. Tooms would be elected to the Seats of the Mighty at Queen's Park on Monday and that on that day the I.L.P. would be celebrating the funeral of the old parties. They would not be content with one hundred or even two hundred majority for Mr. Tooms in this riding of approximately ten thousand voters. In fact he was of the opinion that Mr. Tooms would poll as large a vote as his two opponents together. He took on a pacifying air and assured his listeners that if the I.L.P. were returned to power they were not going to turn the country upside down but like Monsieur Robespierre of the Red Terror were going to see that the people had equality, fraternity and liberty. Mr. Peter McArthur, President of the Independent Labour Party of this constituency, was chairman of the evening, and prefacing his brief remarks stated that he was glad to see so many ladies and gentlemen at the meeting. Other members of the executive of the I.L.P. were on the platform.

Gillespie Has 8-Hour Day.

Mr. McArthur acknowledged that Mr. Gillespie had the eight-hour day as a plank in his platform but he was of the opinion that it was only to catch votes and he thought that Mr. Tooms would be a better representative.

Mr. Tooms recalled the victory of the Labour men at the municipal polls.

"I stand for a new era, an era of freedom, an era of reason, when every one is going to think for themselves."

Mr. Tooms thought the present system of industrialism could not be tolerated. The worker wants a fair return for his labour. He reminded his listeners that if not elected they must wait another four years and conditions, industrially and agriculturally, would lapse back to conditions previous to the war. The capitalists, parasites Mr. Tooms termed them, lived on the vitality of the workman.

"It was through labour that you got your franchise, ladies," declared Mr. Tooms. "We have the late Allan Studholme, M.P.P., and the ladies to thank for your franchise."

Labour Not Perfect.

Continuing he confessed that Labour was not perfect but that practice makes perfect. "There is no end to the aspirations of Labour. We hear many times that this Labour agitation is merely class legislation but we stand for fair representation of all bodies on the floor of the House. Premier Hearst was greatly mistaken when he said Labour and the farmers could not get together, because both farmers and labourers are producers. There are a great many planks of the farmers in common with those of Labour." He assured his audience that the farmers in this constituency are firm for Labour.

"No sane Labour man in the Labour world expects that the farmers can work out the eight-hour clause but it is different in the city.

Mr. Tooms is authority for the statement that neither of the old parties stood for public ownership. He declared that Labour was behind Sir Adam Beck but did not answer an unasked question—Why a Labour man was opposing Sir Adam Beck in London? He liked the idea of a farmer candidate in East Peterboro and a Labour candidate in this riding.

The labour platform of both the Liberal and Conservative parties was held up to derision by Mr. Tooms, because, he said, they stole it from the Labour platform.

"The Labour party is an evolutionary party and not a revolutionary party and I believe that the constitution of this country gives every opportunity for what is needed," said Mr. Tooms.

Mr. Tooms didn't think that the liquor business has anything to do with politicians and declared that the other parties are making a mere football of temperance. The Labour party, according to Mr. Tooms, is in favor of a referendum on all vital questions.

He banged the late Andrew Carnegie for accumulating his vast fortune, and contrasted the conditions of others depending on charity for a living.

DISTINGUISHED SONGBIRDS COMING WITH SAN CARLO OPERA COMPANY

BRIEF STORY OF THE TWO OPERAS THAT WILL BE PRESENTED IN PETERBORO ON WEDNESDAY EVENING NEXT.

Musical and social Peterborough and environs await Wednesday the coming of the San Carlo Grand Opera Company, greatest of all touring opera organisations, whose forces gave up their engagement at London, Ontario, that His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, might enjoy the freedom of that city's leading playhouse for his reception. London's musical contingent and theatre-going element had counted long for a visit there of this superb array of big talent, and now that Peterborough's cultural colony is to have opportunity of hearing grand opera upon a big scale, there is every reason why it should be taken advantage of. The exchanges have been telling in brilliant terms of the triumphs of the San Carlo stars in Quebec, Montreal, and Ottawa, in all of which places immense throngs turned out to hear the celebrities.

It is barely possible, stated one of the San Carlo representatives, that if success develops the fact that there is a sufficient following in this community for an attraction of this fine character, the event may be made an annual affair. Peterborough is, perhaps, the smallest city that will enjoy this superb treat upon the present tour of the San Carlo, which reaches from New York and Quebec to San Francisco and Los Angeles, and embraces all the big music-loving communities en route. Winnipeg will have the San Carloans for two weeks during the holidays; then Calgary, Edmonton, and Vancouver and Victoria—all places where the love of music is deep and genuine.

SENOR MANUEL SALAZAR,
Dramatic Tenor, San Carlo Grand Opera Company, at the Grand Wednesday.

The Two Operas.

The two operas to be presented at the Grand on Wednesday evening—"Cavalleria Rusticana" (Rustic Cavalier), by Mascagni, and "I'Pagliacci" (The Players), by Leoncavallo, have been inseparably linked together ever since their inception, and in the large cities where grand opera is a regular feature of the cultural life, no repertoire of song is accepted as complete without them. And as these works, the first in one act and the second in two acts, call for two separate casts of principals, the chance of hearing a great number of the leading singers of the company is doubled. The identical scenic and costuming effects used in New York and Montreal, will be in evidence here on Wednesday night, and the casts have been most carefully prepared. It will be splendid to hear the brilliant soprano of Bula Ray Shull in the Mascagni opera, for the work calls for some brilliant vocal and dramatic action in the part of the leading feminine artiste. And the fine tenor of Franco DeGregorio, the new Italian star and late a favourite with London (England) audiences.

In the Leoncavallo opera, all the stars will be changed about with the exception of Signor Paolo Galazzi, the baritone, who will be heard in both.

All who keep in average touch with opeartic doings of the country are familiar with the little stories of the two productions scheduled for presentation here on 22nd October. The opportunities of many, however, are limited in this respect; so in order to prepare these so that they will thoroughly understand the action of the story, a synopsis of each opera is herewith given. It will then be found a simple matter to pick out the characters and understand the progress of the vocal and dramatic combination.

Following are brief outlines of the operas:

The casts of principals, in detail, are as follows:

First Opera.
"Cavalleria Rusticana"
(in One Act).

Santuzza .. .. Bula Ray Shull
Lola .. .. Ada Louise Armstrong
Turiddu .. .. Franco DeGregorio
Alfio .. .. Paolo Galazzi
Mama Lucia .. .. Alice Homer

The Mascagni opera, however, is rather divided in two parts, because the beautiful and immortal Intermezzo, by the orchestra—one of the most brilliant instrumental passages ever written into an operatic score—is played while the curtain remains up.

The cast for "I'Pagliacci" is as follows:

Second Opera.
"I'Pagliacci"
(In Two Acts).

Nedda .. .. Rosina Zotti
Canio .. .. Manuel Salazer
Tonio .. .. Mario Valle
Silvio .. .. Paolo Galazzi
Beppe .. .. Luciano Rossini

Signor Gaetano Merola, chief musical director, will conduct both operas, which will start at 8.15. It is desirable that patrons be in their seats on time, as the Mascagni opera opens with some brilliant preludal music by the orchestra, whose beauties should not be marred by undue noise. The performance should be over not later than 11.10 or 11.15.

Brief Story of "Cavalleria Rusticana"

The scene is laid in Sicily on Easter morn. The curtan rises on Easter festivities of the peasants. Turiddu, son of Dame Lucia keeper of the village inn, having returned home from service in the army, soon becomes the favourite of all the village maidens. Among these is Santuzza, who is the chosen one, but who is soon betrayed by Turiddu. Previous to his joining the army, Turiddu had courted the pretty Lola, the village belle, but on his return finds her wedded to Alfio, the carrier. Wounded in love and vanity, he takes up Santuzza.

When Turiddu and Lola meet, they are reconciled, and he neglects Santuzza, while Lola is faithless to her husband. Santuzza, distracted at being abandoned, informs Alfio of the intrigue of the guilty pair. He challenges Turiddu to mortal combat. The latter unwillingly accepts the challenge, bids his sorrowing mother adieu, and is killed in the duel.

Brief Story of "I'Pagliacci."

Prologue—The story is introduced by the clown Tonio, who sings before the curtain, of the tragic sorrows and passions that sway buffoons as well as the great and noble.

Act I.—Canio is the chief of a little band of strolling mountebanks. His wife, Nedda, is a vain, pretty baggage, and he does not trust her. Tonio, a humpback, malicious, the clown, makes desperate love to her in the village where they are to play on the day of their arrival. She repulses him, laughs at him, and finally strikes him with a whip. In revenge he brings Canio upon Nedda and her lover, Silvio, a farmer in the neighbourhood. The latter runs away and Canio does not see his face. There are bitter words between man and wife, and Canio, in agony, prepares for his clowning.

Act II.—The people gather to see the show, and Silvio is in the crowd. The play is the old story of Pantaloon's jealousy and the love of Columbine and Harlequin. The crazed Canio acts with such realism that the peasants are enraptured. Suddenly he asks the name of the lover. Nedda defies him. He then stabs her, and kills Silvio, who starts from his place in the crowd.

Laughing madly, he cries out, "The Comedy is Finished."

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Healthy and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth); then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, this mixture saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

LACE HANDKERCHIEF IS CAUSE OF A REMARKABLE ROMANTIC LOVE TANGLE

Property of Aunt, Loaned Niece, Brings Startling Situation Into Lives of Three.

A dainty lace handkerchief is to blame for all the troubles which nearly break the hearts of the leading characters in "Choosing a Wife" which will be shown at the Allen Theatre on Monday and Tuesday only.

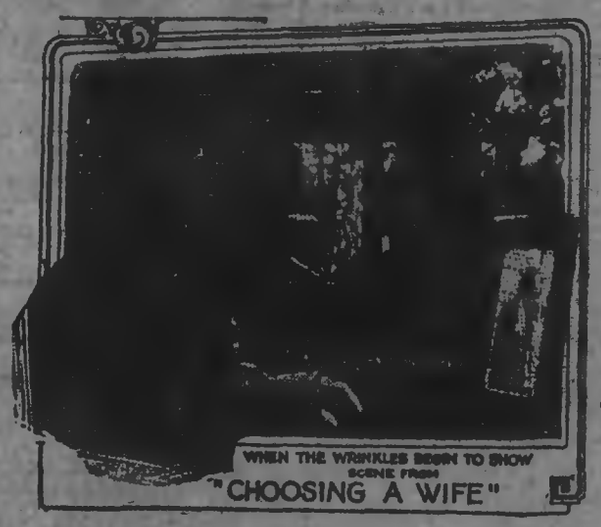
Dorothy Blossom, who has devoted many years to helping her brother, Christopher Blossom, bring up his beautiful daughter, Barbara, who is just making her debut, offers to loan the pretty niece a lace handkerchief which has long been a treasured possession of the older woman.

Social Event Brings Rival.

The girl carries it to a party where she is much sought after by a distinguished elderly explorer, Andrew Quick, who is about to leave for a tour of the South Seas, and by a young minister, Rev. Arthur Leacroft. Quick confesses to the elder Miss Blossom that he is in love, but leaves her in doubt as to whom he loves.

Later, at the railroad station, he sends back a letter, proposing marriage, addressed to Dorothy, known as Dolly Blossom. It develops that he inteded the proposal for Barbara Blossom. He had picked up her aunt's handkerchief, marked "Dolly", in the garden, and this leads him to believe that Dolly is the name of the younger girl.

This is the cause of misunderstanding which grows to a tragedy as Quick returns and, without suspecting his error makes it plain that he has been loving the younger girl all the while he has been away, never suspecting the pitiful trust and devotion which the elder woman has been living.



Shows Tragedy of Womanhood.

This clash of purposes gives rise to a series of situations which are intensely dramatic in their picturization of a woman innocently deceived. In the end, by a startling development, the story is settled to the satisfaction of the spectator, answering at the same time one of the serious problems which frequently arise when a man is called upon to choose between the freshness and beauty of a young girl, and the maturity of mind and fine qualities of an older woman.

While "Choosing a Wife", which is a First National Picture, is primarily a story of love, it is not without excitement and adventure. In the interval in which the older woman is waiting, the man she thinks loves her passes through a most thrilling series of adventures in the South Sea Islands which include capture, imprisonment, escape and a duel to the death high above the sea.

FACES WRONG JUDGE! GIRL GETS THREE YEARS!

Dorothy Gish's Sad Experience In "Peppy Polly"

One of the most disconcerting situations ever put into a photoplay occurs in Dorothy Gish's latest picture "Peppy Polly" when Polly (played by Miss Gish), after planning with the judge of the juvenile court to sentence her to three months in a reformatory, so she may obtain evidence of graft in the institution, comes into court and finds the wrong judge on the bench.

The Melville reformatory had needed investigation for years but every committee sent there had returned with a report that things were all right. Polly and the Judge had decided to have a real investigation from the inside. Accordingly she got herself arrested for stealing and was expecting to be sentenced for three months. But the judge was taken with a stroke of paralysis the night before and had left no instructions. The judge who took his place sent her to the reformatory for a period of three years.

"VIRTUOUS MEN" THE GREATEST MELODRAMA OF THE YEAR

"Virtuous Men" was directed personally by Ralph Ince, responsible for the biggest screen successes of the past few years. It stars E. K. Lincoln, one of the most popular film favorites of the motion picture public. The production was eleven months in the making, cost over one hundred and fifty thousand dollars to produce and contains a brilliant array of celebrities of both stage and screen, appearing in support of E. K. Lincoln.

"Virtuous Men" abounds in spectacular scenes, magnificent sets, tremendous climaxes and real thrills. Among the outstanding features which make "Virtuous Men" the great melodrama of the year are scenes in which 10,000 supernumaries actually appear, a tremendous forest fire, a society ball of gorgeousness and beauty, the most realistic and terrific hand to hand fight ever witnessed. The ball room scenes are the most pretentious and magnificent ever filmed. Beautiful women, exquisite gowns, rare jewels and massive settings make these scenes one of the finest spectacles ever seen on the screen. Suspense, action, beauty and finely played drama—all these have their share in making "Virtuous Men" the great melodrama of the year.

"Virtuous Men" comes to the Allen Theatre for the first time in Ontario next Wednesday, for two days only. It is a stupendous melodrama lavishly staged in 7 reels. It is bigger than "Sporting Life" and better than the "Hearts of a World". It is a picture that will arouse the most blase from his seat and send him away thrilled to the marrow.

"THE DUMBELLS"

"The Dumbells" was the title given to the most famous aggregation of soldier-entertainers in France, bestowed upon them in infancy, because they had their inception with the 3rd Division, and although they soon broke out of all divisional bonds and became the favourites of the entire C. E. F. and B. E. F., even going as far as a month's run in London, the name, which was derived from the said marking of their division, stuck to them, and it is under that title that they are now appearing in Canada on a coast to coast tour.

In addition to their success entertaining the boys immediately behind the front lines, for which they hold a record of over five hundred performances, they also hold the distinction of being the only company to appear by Royal command in Brussels, have given several performances of "Pinafore" there for the benefit of the wounded soldiers and sailors, and in commemoration of which they were presented with a medal and address by King Albert of the Belgians. One outstanding feature which has been a big factor of their success is the fact that they were fighters first, the members of the company having served an average of sixteen months in the trenches. Acting is a sideline, or was, with them, but they do it so well that their triumphant tour of Canada promises to break all theatrical records. Wisely relying upon the axiom that "What's good enough for Tommy is good enough for you," "The Dumbells" are giving their performance of the most successful musical revue. "Biff, Bing, Bang," on their tour of Canada in exactly the same way they gave it to the boys in the "Y" huts in France, the only difference being probably a little better stage facilities and lighting effects, many performance over there having been given by candle light on a stage built of packing cases.

Much charity ends with the bestowal of a sympathetic smile.

WEAVERS TAKE UP FARMING AND MAKE REAL SUCCESS

PEN PICTURES OF SETTLERS EXPRESSING JOY AT CHANGED CONDITIONS

(By F. H. DOBBIN)

In an article previously published, reference was made to early emigration into this district and to the expressed opinions, after an interval of settlement, by those who had located in and about the district. These views were reflected in letters written to friends and relatives in the Old Country, picturing conditions and surroundings in which those who had ventured now found themselves. In reading such communications we may appreciate the condition of life as it existed at the time in parts of England, much better than if some one had tried to describe the situation for our edification. For to the immigrant the contrast was always before him. He was removed from that one poignant anxiety, the finding of his daily food and his subsistance for the future.

England was just in the beginning of its manufacturing progress to capture the markets of the world, and that advance was on account of securing abundance of raw materials and a superabundance of cheap labor. But living conditions for the masses were poor, and privation was rampant. Districts were crowded and people were elbowing one another for chances to work, even at the pittance that was paid. So in the beginning of 1830, it being a time of much distress in several parts of England, a voluntary emigration to Canada was resolved upon by a number of the laboring population of the parish of Corsley, near Warminster, in Wiltshire.

Finding Means to Emigrate Here.

For the accomplishment of their purpose many sold what little property they had, others, after much importuning, got the parish officers to raise them some assistance, and they, finally, to the number of sixty-five persons, embarked for Quebec in a vessel which sailed from Newport, in Glamorganshire, on the 7th of April, 1830. In course of the end of the same year and during the next (1931) many had written home, as England was affectionately referred to, and on paper related to relatives and friends experiences. The followin extracts from the letters from these, for the most part unlettered individuals, give an account of the country and of their ow nsuccess, extremely interesting to the poor man at home as well as to those who were promoting immigration. These letters were originally collected and published by one, G. J. Scroope, in 1832, and a few are given here in condensed form, parts of family interest and as to private affairs being ommited.

Warminster was the home of the hand-loom weaving industry. A fair proportion of the immigrants were of this occupation and on arriving followed it for a living. So in the years afterward the clack of the hand-loom weaving flannels, tweeds, cloths for fulling and the popular and durable rag carpet, was heard through many a humble home. The industry of these men gave the old time flannel sheets and blankets that fought off the winter's cold on the long wintry nights. Others at once took to the land and made settlement under conditions as described in the letters. These were afterwards instrumental in inducing others to come out to the land of plenty.

In picturing the conditions the reader will remembre and consider that the district was practically covered with forest and that all land was cleared by strenuous labor. The compiler of the letters states that he had mended the spellings, as many of the immigrans, as may well be understood, were deficient in education.

Will Make a Ton of Sugar.

From W. Clements, (day laborer of Corsley, Wilts) dated, Upper Canada, October 10, 1830.

My Dear Father:—I thank God I am got to the land of liberty and pleaty. I arrived here on 9th of July. I had not a single shilling left when I got here. But good friends took me in and I went to work at 6s. per day, and my board, on to this day.

And now I am going to work on my own farm of 50 acres, which I bought at £55, and I have five years to pay it in. Also I have bought me a cow and five pigs, and sowed 5 acres of wheat and 2 more to sow. If I live I shall build me a house this fall, and if I had stayed at Corsley I never should have ad nothing. I am at liberty to shoot turkeys, quail, pigeon and all kinds of game, which I have in my backwood. A sugar bush will make me a ton of sugar. Sowed one bushel of wheat to the acre and the increase is about fifty bushels. My wife and two boys are well and happy to be safe over, and I do wish father and mother were as well provided for as we. If the laboring men did but know the value of their strength they would never abide in the Old Country. The wheat that is left in the fields would keep a whole parish. Joseph Silcox lives within two miles.

A Chance for the Poor Man.

Dear Friends:—This comes with my kind love to you all. Thanke be to God for health, which is a beautiful thing. Was it in the hands of man health would decline, as many other things have in England, as labor and victualling, which is as plentiful with us as the scarcity is with you.

We have plenty of good beef and mutton and pork, flour, fish, fowl and butter. By one day's work a man can supply himself with sufficient of all these necessaries for 3 days.

You have a good many cold bellies to go to bed with, I know, ot things is greatly altered from the state that it was when I was with you. But if you were with us, if you liked, for three half-pence your belly would be so warm you would not know the way to bed. Butcher's meat, here, is from 2d to 3d per pound. Cousin Henry, you may depend that all here at half a dollar a gallon, and as strong as any gin you get n England.

We have eight English families within about two miles, all from Westbury or Corsley. This part of the country is very fine.

More Need to Rejoice Here.

From Thomas Hunt (day-laborer of Clapmanside, in the parish of Corsley) November 13, 1830.

We are in a good country for poor folks, plenty of good fire and grog. Wheat 4s the bushel. Good boiling peas, 3s. 6d. Potatoes 1s. 3d. Rum 10d the quart. Good whiskey 7d the quart. Tea 3s. 6d the pound. We make our own sugar, soap, candles and bake good bread. Mutton 2d the pound. Fat geese 1s. 3d. Best fowls are 1s. 3d the couple. Wages £3 the month and our keep. We dine with our masters. The prices of lands is one pound the acre, some way back it is cheaper.

I see in the paper that great many lamented our departure from Chapmanside. More need to rejoice. We three brothers have bought each 200 acres of lands at 12s. 6d. the acre. We pay on these £6:13s:4d the year. We have thousands of tons of stone for building, no sickness, and is stouter than when we left England. Sarah wishes to see all of her friends here. We cut trees about 3 ft. above ground and then put fire to it and burn root and branch. We are about 700 miles above Quebec, but then that is little here. Sarah and all is very stout and never wishing to return to England Thank God we are here. We all wish that our fathers and brothers, and mothers and sisters was here, for there is great plenty of room for all there is in England.

But if our fathers and mothers was here they should never be obliged to do a day's work, for we could

EVERYDAY READING.

True religion is not derived from creeds and theories, and opinions of people who now live, or of those who lived in the past. True religion is that which produces true righteousness. God is the author and giver of true religion. God speaks and it is man's work to hearken; God calls and it is for man to respond to the call. Jesus, who is called the "Word," which is God manifest in the flesh, said, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy-laden and I will give you rest." Jesus (the Word) and the Holy Spirit always agree. The rest Jesus gives is not an imaginary rest, but is real rest. Man cannot be in a state of sin and have rest. True rest is obtained by being brought into a state of righteousness. It is a living truth that Jesus saves from sin. Being delivered from the guilt, power and pollution of sin brings to us a life that is free from laboriousness. True it is that the yoke of the Lord Jesus is easy and His burden is light. His commandments or requirements are not grievous. A willing service is easy. A compulsory service is irksome. When we hear the voice of the Holy Spirit and respond to the call we are led into the state of true religion. —Victor.

RED DIVORCE DECREES ANNULLED BY THE HUNGARIAN GOVERMENT

BUDAPEST.—The Hungarian government has issued a decree invalidating all divorces granted under the regime of the Soviet, during which period very liberal divorce legislation was put into effect.

The only divorces not invalidated by the decree are those in which remarriage of one or both parties has taken place.

6,000 MILES OF BARBED WIRE DISENTANGLED

PARIS.—Captain Andre Tardieu, member of the French Peace Commission, speaking at a meeting of the French-American Club, gave interesting figures on the reconstruction work accomplished since the armistice. Sixty thousand of the 550,000 houses wrecked by shell-fire have been rebuilt: 2,016 kilometres of the 3,246 kilometres of railway destroyed have been repaired and 700 of the 1,675 kilometres of canals rendered useless are again in commission. Of the 1,100 plants destroyed, 568 have been repaired.

Equally remarkable progress is being made in restoring to cultivation in the devastated regions the vast areas which the end of the war left with their rich surface soil plowed under by artillery fire, sown with dangerous unexploded shells and cut up by trenches and thousands of miles of rusting barbed wire. The devastated areas which the end of the war left approximately 1,00,000 acres have been returned to the farmers and 500,000 acres are ready for seed. Ten million metres, over 6,000 miles, of barbed wire have been disentangled and carried away in the operation.

The yield of taxes, which was five billion francs in 1918 has been raised to 12,000,000,000 in 1919.

Commissioner Tardieu added that a country which had lost nearly 2,000,000 workers, killed or incapacitated by war; which had been deprived by invasion of one-fifth of its productive capital and which nevertheless of its own efforts had accomplished such a showing had a right to rely on the effective help of its Allies to restore completely its economical and financial status.

SCHOOL TEACHER WAS COMMITTED

The young woman who on Monday last abandoned her baby by leaving it in the ladies' lavatory at Bonar Law station, near Marmora, was later found at Kaladar, and taken into custody. She admitted she was the mother of the child. At Madoc a preliminary trial took place when the accused was committed to jail at Belleville to stand her trial on a charge of desertion. She was for some time engaged in teaching at Kaladar.

Look to the Future

Begin with the Boys

THE glorious victories of Drake and Nelson were destined to be the foundation of our Empire and the guarantee of the freedom of the seas, which makes possible the vast international trade of Britain and her Dominions.

And yet when Drake and Nelson chose the sea as their life-work, who was there to know what would be the overwhelming consequences of their decision?

Today, if you have any question in your mind as to whether you should support the work of the Boys' Naval Brigades, study the matter with an eye to the future. Get clearly in mind the tremendous importance of Canadian products reaching foreign markets, which can only be assured by the building of a great Canadian Mercantile Fleet, manned with Canadian Seamen!

We may build ships by the thousand, but if we cannot man them ourselves our position is still economically unsound. If we do not train Canadian lads to man our merchant fleet, we shall be left behind in the race for export markets —we shall have missed the greatest opportunity for trade expansion in all history!

What will YOU do to help some Canadian boy who is anxious to learn seamanship, and so be of the greatest service to his country?

Let your contribution to the fund be a worthy answer. Help them by giving!

Aims of the NAVY LEAGUE OF CANADA

To emphasize Canada's opportunities and responsibilities on the sea.

To raise funds for the relief of our merchant seamen, injured in the war, and for dependents of those who were killed.

To maintain sailors' homes in our ports.

To train boys and young men for our merchant ships by the organization of Boys' Naval Brigades.

WHAT ARE THE YOUNG LADIES SAYING ABOUT THEIR FRANCHISE?

SCENE: — Any home where a group of girl friends are spending an evening together.

Ethel—Now that you've got it girls what are you going to do with it?

Amy—With what?

Ethel—Your vote, your new responsibility the politicians and the papers have been trying to tell us about.

Amy—I might have known "it" was something that was no good.

Kathryn—What I'm wondering is whether Dad would survive if I asked him for a new coatee.

Amy—If some one has left him a million you might try it. A knitted scarf looks like my limit.

Ethel—But really we should take this seriously.

Jean—Are you talking politics or prohibition. Dad says Mr. Hearst has done his best to make a cocktail of them. I'm for the four "No's", and after that I'm with Dad for Mr. Gillespie.

Amy—I never asked for the vote and Will says the women have taken all the fun out of elections. I told him he needn't blame me, that I didn't want to spoil his fun.

Jean—Dad says the "dear ladies" are too easily led, that they follow the dictates of the heart, and not of the head, and that we don't know anything about political parties and principles.

Ethel—Well I'd have a poor opinion of women if I thought they didn't know as much as the loafers that decorate the street corners, and spend their time studying pool and poker, or that self-satisfied bunch we saw in the front rows at the Grand on Thursday night.

Kathryn—Hear, hear. Isn't that a good political term, Ethel? You'll qualify for the Women's Council, right now.

Amy—I don't want to vote and I don't want to go into some room crowded with men, who'll stand and gawk at me.

Ethel—They might have appointed women assistants in the polling booths. It would make it easier for those like our blushing, bashful Amy, but I could mention a few men who I think would be very acceptable polling clerks. That's an idea we might suggest for the next election. But there's nothing to be afraid of. What you don't know ask about.

Jean—You speak from experience; everybody wasn't as fortunate as you Ethel. Dad was too old, and I had no brother to go, and knitting and sewing for the soldiers and doing without things because Dad gave to the patriotic funds till it hurt, that didn't count. Dad said voting for Mr. Burnham was one of the horrors of the war, and that the only thing Mr. Meighen overlooked in that election was the goose-step.

Ethel—They say women have a highly developed faculty of intuition, but I'm not sure that it applies to politics. I did what I believed to be my duty and I have no regrets. The referendum and the election are new problems for us.

Kathryn—Mother says every woman should vote four "No's" because it's a real pleasure to walk on the streets now without meeting any drunken men—or dogs.

Ethel—But think of the happiness that has been brought to so many homes.

Jean—That's just what Dad says. He admits that the bar was a curse, but he says he never saw so many cars loaded with wild grapes coming in from the country as this fall.

Ethel—Don't be cynical, Jean. You're far too young yet.

Jean—I'm not a bit cynical. I'm just telling what Dad said, and he's going to vote to keep the bars barred, but he says there's more homemade wine now than you could shake a stick at. Dandelion, rhubarb, chokecherry, raspberry vinegar, beer they make from hops, grape wine, even beet wine, and stuff they make from parsnips that looks just like brandy. Dad says it's going to be dry all right, but it won't be exactly a Sahara.

Ethel—We've done our duty when we vote the four "No's" and have aroused courage that's inclined to waver like Amy's.

Jean—Dad says he's voting under protest. He wouldn't trust Mr. Hearst because of the muddle the four questions have caused, when only one or two were needed. But Dad says no Government would dare go contrary to the will of the people on the referendum. And we have three perfectly good votes for Mr. Gillespie.

Amy—I hear a lot of people are going to vote for Mr. Tooms, but they say John Barleycorn won't have a chance, whoever he is.

Ethel—Oh! after that nice bouquet I handed you and the rest of us.

Amy—What's the matter?

Ethel—Barleycorn is a term that will soon be obsolete. It's another word for whiskey and other intoxicants.

Amy—I know as little about booze as I do about politics. Everything was lovely, Ethel, until you started this, but if you'll take me we'll go to Mr. Barleycorn's funeral together.

Kathryn—Let's all go and make it a procession.

Ethel—We can't do that because no two of us will vote at the same place. I am pretty sure of that.

Jean—Dad says the ballot will mean about as much to most of the women as the libretto of Pagliacci.

Amy—Will got tickets right under the balcony. I wish I had a decent dress, he says everybody fusses up for grand opera.

Jean—I wonder if the gay young bachelor we saw in the front row Thursday night will be there, Ethel?

Ethel—I doubt it. Most of them probably think Pagliacci is the name of a Bolshevik.

Kathryn—That's positively cruel. They're so fond of music they miss none of the musical comedies and few of the dances.

Ethel—And some of them will probably vote four "Yesses" because they think it's smart and devilish.

Amy—Will says some boys are getting as much whiskey as when the bars were open.

Ethel—We heard something about that a week ago. But no law is perfect, and we simply have to make sure of the best we have.

Kathryn—Carrie Nation must rest peacefully while you are carrying on the good work, Ethel.

Ethel—Jean can vote for Mr. Gillespie with her father, Kathryn will probably vote Conservative with her Dad and I don't know whether Amy will reach a polling booth for Mr. Toom's sake or not, but we should be all together for sixteen "No's".

Jean—It will be my first vote. Dad says that when I was small he was out walking with me one day when he met an old Scotch friend of his: "Too bad she's not a boy, David, so you could bring him up a Grit," his friend said. That's why we're going out together. Last night he tore up the Toronto "Star"—said it was neither Grit, nor Tory, nor anything else.

Ethel — Remember four "No's" Amy. Don't get flustered. Remember it's your ballot and you must make it count.

Kathryn—When the women have a party of their own, Ethel, like the farmers and labour men, I'll propose you as leader.

Ethel—But I won't promise you the best position in Queen's Park.

Amy—Wherever that is.

Ethel—I'm for the abolition of patronage. It would be funny if we carried our franchise to the possible end of electing women to the Cabinet and managing the country. There are more women than men in Ontario I believe. We would make Amy a license commissioner. How would you like Mr. Flavelle's job?

Amy—The salary is satisfactory, but I can't accept. My intentions are "matrimony" and I am not trying to hide them.

Jean—So are mine but the prospects might be a whole lot better.

Kathryn—Ethel can't deny that she expects to be Premier in a "House" of her own.

Jean—Minister of Education or something very intellectual and dignified like that.

Amy—Have you been up to Cressman's tearoom yet. It's just lovely. Say we go up on Tuesday afternoon to celebrate Sam Barleycorn's end.

Ethel—It used to be John, Amy, but it won't matter next week what you call him as long as he's safely laid away.

Jean—As Dad says, his name will be Dennis.

The Hearst Candidate

To the Electors of East Peterborough

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Having received the unanimous nomination of the United Farmers of Ontario, of East Peterborough, and believing I can serve the Electors of this Riding in a manner satisfactory to them, I solicit your Vote and kindly interest in my behalf.

I am a practical Farmer, and as East Peterborough is a typical Farmers' Constituency, I believe a resident Farmer would be more of service to the Riding than a representative whose material interests are elsewhere.

Thanking you in advance for any favours you may do for me,

I beg to remain,

FARMERS AND INDEPENDENT LABOUR PARTY CONVENTION, OCT. 3RD, 1919

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBORO:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Owing to the uncompromising attitude of the Provincial Government in the past towards the claims of the Producers, Agricultural and Industrial Workers alike, it was decided at the above named convention to put up an Independent Candidate for the Provincial House. At that convention I had the honour of being nominated by ballot as candidate. The conditions under which we are living, the exploitation of the Producer and Consumer by the monopolies of industry, into the hands of a ring of Capitalists, who practically control the Government to the detriment of Democracy, should appeal to you that an Independent Candidate, not under any pledge to either of the old parties, is absolutely essential for the transaction of business to the best interests of the people, and clean government. Your candidate is nominated upon the plank of a Referendum and Recall, so that if his conduct when elected is not satisfactory to the Electors, his resignation can be called for, which, it is hoped, will keep your candidate up to the platform on which he is elected. Also at certain periods of each year, your candidate will visit the electors of the constituency, to give an account of his stewardship, and from time to time receive the will of the people.

Owing to the short notice of the election date, the candidate will find it difficult to meet all the electors. If you will read the local press account of my nomination you will see that my ability to fill the seat is not questioned by my opponents. That should speak for itself. I therefore ask you to seriously consider my appeal for your vote. As this is the time of Reconstruction, when initiative and progressive action is needed to carry on the work that was commenced on the Battlefields of Europe, "The War of Democracy," "Shall we break faith?"

Ladies, you have a vote; it is for you to help to decide. So mark your ballot for TOOMS, THE INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE, who stands for the will of the people.

Election Date, October 20th.

I am, Ladies and Gentlemen,

Your Obedient Servant,

THOS. TOOMS,

Secretary I. L. P.; President Building Trades Council, Member Trades and Labor Council, etc. etc.

NOW FEELS 20 YEARS YOUNGER

"TANLAC IS FINEST THING I EVER HEARD OF," SAYS WILLIAM THOMPSON

"After eight years of suffering, Tanlac has put me on my feet and made me feel twenty years younger," said William Thompson, a well known mechanic employed by the City of Berkeley, Cal., and who lives at 1110 Glen Ave., the other day.

"Acute indigestion bothered me so bad,' he continued, "that I would have violent pains in my left side, and I was afraid to eat anything because it always caused me awful suffering. Gas would form on my stomach and I would feel as tight as a drum, and I would get so short of breath I thought every minute would be my last one. I was so constipated that I had to take a laxative every night, and at times I would get so dizzy I couldn't walk and would have to lean up against a building until this feeling passed over and I came to myself. I never slept good at night and my kidneys were out of order and many a night I would have to get up four or five times and I had awful pains in my back that were caused by my kidneys.

"This was my condition and I might still have been in this shape now, if it hadn't been for a friend who recommended Tanlac to me so highly that I decided to try it at once. It seems too good to be true that after all these years I finally found a medicine that can do what Tanlac has done for me. Why, I never have the sign of a pain now and no matter what I eat I digest it perfectly and don't suffer from gas or from pains in my stomach. Those dizzy spells never come on me and I'm not constipated and sleep like a log every night and get up feeling like a young man. Tanlac is the finest medicine I ever heard of, and it was a lucky day for me when my friend told me about it, and you can count on me to pass the good word along whenever I get the chance.

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Oelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

INTERESTING NEWS FOR WORKING MEN

AN ARTICLE WELL WORTH YOUR WHILE TO READ

AN ARTICLE WELL WORTH YOUR WHILE TO READ

This is a nerve-racking age—not a man in an office or behind the counter, striving hard to get on in the world, that does not feel the strain.

If nerves are in order, a man is strong, eats and sleeps well. Unstrung nerves means weakness, worry sleeplessness and a general decay of bodily strength.

Most men are careless of their health. They trust to luck and that kind of thing, instead of taking Ferrozone for a few weeks when they feel dull in the morning, or when they sleep poorly or lose appetitie.

Ferrozone quickly brightens up the mind. It creates an appetite and improves digestion. Ferrozone makes blood, quiets the nerves, makes muscle like steel and induces refreshing sleep.

Ferrozone is a body builder, thousands have proved it. If you are sick or out of sorts, use Ferrozone and enjoy the splendid health it so surely brings.

Permanent in its results, the greatest health-giver in the world is Ferrozone. Because nourishing and perfectly harmless, all can use it, even children. Get Ferrozone to-day, 50c per box, at all dealers or by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

keep them without work, if they was not able. Better come. But if any of you should come, they must make up their minds not to be faint-hearted. You may expect rocking, but I don't fear the raging seas. For more may come and as safe as we. But I thank my God that I and we are here.—Thomas Hunt, James Hunt, Jeremiah Hunt.

Noticeable as running all through the letters is the undercurrent of relief at the finding of abundance of food, of a complete absence of the fear of privation, of a sense of personal independence, such as never could be evolved in England. Expressions of great thankfullness abound. Some in trying to picture the contrasts give only crude ideas of the situation, and again resume talk as to food and the trifling prices asked for the same. Cheerfully profess to put up with privation, hold out confident for the future, implore those at "home" to come as quickly as possible. All entirely in the spirit of the immigrant who found in Canada a haven and a home.

Wishes for Three Hands.

Space will not permit of excerpts at greater length, but a few may be summarized. James Treasure, a shoemaker, proclaims, "I see plainly that there will be work enough if I had three hands," (meaning three men to help). He is overjoyed at getting 13s. 6d. for making a pair of Wellington boots, with the leather found. He is satisfied at getting 3s. 6d. for making a pair of men's or women's shoes. Then switches off to the theme of the abundant food and its trifling cost, and hopes that many will come at once from home. He concludes by apologizing for ever doubting the advantages of Canada.

Philip Annet, a day-laborer, urges his brother to sell his cabin, get a little off the parish and come to Canada, "if you don't soon come you will starve, and if you don't your children likely will." He buoyantly promises as to the future by proclaiming "whilst if you was to come hither with your family, any one would be glad to take 1 or 2 of teh children and keep them as their own children, until of age, and then give them 100 acres of land and some stock besides." He realizes that children will be an asset instead of an incumbrance. He stoutly affirms "that I would rather be here and take my chances than be in England with 100 in my pocket, for it do sore grieve me as concerning you at home in much and sore poverty and hard labor."

One William Aylsbury, having sold a few goods and so raised some money, made his way to Canada. He reached Quebec on 5th of June, with twenty shillings in his pocket. After proceeding what he called "up country" he found work on a government road. He stayed at this work till the end of the following October and then with seven pounds in his pocket started back to England to get his wife and children. Reaching home he was quite an object of interest and he spoke so well of the country and the sure prospects in moving across the seas many consented to emigrate. But to his great sorrow and to his infinite chegrin his wife refused to leave friends and home and he, regretfully had to go back to limited wages, poor conditions with the prospect of ending his life in the workhouse and to remain in the village of his birth.

F. H. DOBBIN.

WOMEN VOTERS

"How do you feel about voting for the first time," the Examiner asked several of the women and in nine cases out of ten was told, "Indeed I can't be bothered with voting, I'll leave that to my husband or father," while the tenth woman showed no reluctance about going to the poll and voting as she thought fit. While admittedly the Referendum committee has done its utmost to educate the women of the city on how to use the ballot, a large majority when cornered as to just why they would not come out to vote admitted that they really did not understand the meaning of the referendum ballot and wouldn't take any chances. "I wouldn't actually mind voting, some claimed, if I could take another lady into the booth while marking my ballot, but I don't like to go alone."

Left Off List.

Apparently some of the most ardent would-be voters have been left off the voters' list. One case which came to the notice of the Examiner is that of a woman who years ago was forced through the poverty due to drink to undertake the support of her little family. As years passed her six sons followed in their father's footsteps and now when the time had come to take her part in stopping the sale of liquor she found, to her horror, that she had been left off the voters' list and will be unable to vote. This is only one of several cases.

New Experience.

Being canvassed for votes, a new experience to the fair sex; is pleasing them immensely, and the candidate conducting a street campaign, is leaving a long line of self important smiles as he passed down the street.

Labor Reaffirms its Demands for a Better Beer

OVER 900 delegates of Organized Labor, representing every section of industrial Canada, reaffirmed at the big convention in Hamilton three weeks ago, their demand for a better; more palatable, non-intoxicating Beer.

President Tom Moore reviewed in a most comprehensive manner the resolution for better Beer adopted at the previous Congress and the representations made to the Dominion and Provincial Governments for the non-intoxicating 2.50 per cent. (alcohol by weight) Beer of the Ballot. He said in part:—"On the 3rd of March, this year, at the request of representatives of a number of affiliated organizations I arranged an interview with the Dominion Cabinet, and attended with them to present the resolution passed at our last Convention, relating to the increase in the alcoholic strength of beer. This resolution had been endorsed by many hundreds of affiliated bodies throughout the Dominion, and these endorsations were presented to the Government."

The following statements by leaders of Organized Labor in Ontario, are at once a categorical refutation of false interviews credited to them and published in certain newspapers, and an indication of the practically unanimous stand of workmen in this Province:—

TOM MOORE,
President, Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

"Nearly 1900 of the organizations affiliated with the Trades and Labor Congress have passed resolutions in favor of the sale of light wines and beer. On this evidence and from my own personal observations I believe that the best aid would be given to true temperance by the granting of the above moderate request."

J. MUNROE,
President Ontario Provincial Council of Machinists, and President Toronto District Labor Council.

"I would not favor return to conditions we had before the Ontario Temperance Act came into effect, but am with the fifteen hundred Labor organizations in Canada who favor the manufacture and sale of light Beer and Wine (The Beer of the Ballot) and believe best aid would be given true temperance by voting for legislation to this effect."

JOHN DOGGETT,
Secretary, Toronto Building Trades League.

"The present Prohibition Law on the statute books of Ontario is, in my opinion, class legislation. A law that is applied to operate against the workers and not against the wealthy is an unfair law and should be repealed by the votes of the people. I believe the workers who desire to have a glass of beer should have the opportunity of obtaining same."

JOHN NOBLE,
International Organizer, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

"In reference to statements appearing in many Toronto papers, I desire to emphatically deny having given such statements, or even having been interviewed in the matter. I voted for a Resolution in the American Federation of Labor Convention, held in Atlantic City in June last, for the right of the workers to have beer if they desired it. I contend that the worker should have this right."

HERBERT WRIGHT,
Business Agent, International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Shipbuilders, and Helpers of America, Local 128.

"In traveling around Ontario since the Ontario Temperance Act came into force, I am firmly convinced that the workers are only asking their rights when asking for a better beer. I personally believe that if the people could obtain a better beer there would be less dope in use in Ontario."

W. F. BUSH,
Organizer, United Garment Workers of America.

"The Labor movement has gone on record repeatedly in favor of a stronger beer and protesting against that right being taken away. Last Spring no less than 1500 labor organizations, out of a total of 1900 organizations in Canada, voted in favor of a stronger beer. I think that in this question, as in the great majority of questions they have been called upon to decide, that they have been proven to be absolutely in the right. As the prohibitionists have not seen fit to compromise on a stronger beer, the way that the workers can teach THEM a lesson is to defeat them absolutely by voting 'Yes' four times."

JOHN SUTHERLAND,
Ex-President, Bricklayers' International Union No. 2.

"I have always been opposed to prohibition. After seeing three years of the Ontario Temperance Act in operation I am more than ever convinced that it is a direct attempt to take away the comfort and pleasure of the worker more than of the leisured or privileged class—and I will vote four times 'Yes.'"

JOHN T. VICK,
President of Industrial Banner.

"I am in favor of a better beer for the workers, with proper facilities for handling same. Knowing the workers as I do, there are times when a glass of beer would be beneficial."

JAS. T. GUNN,
Electrical Workers' Union.

"I am opposed to prohibition because I believe that the individual does not derive his rights from the State, but that the State is created to preserve the individual's right.

"Prohibition is affirmed in general by those who have reasons to continue the exploitation of the masses. No thought is given to the matter as to the right or wrong of it, but it is urged—and it is urged in general—because of economic efficiency. In other words, because if enacted it will bring greater profits to the manufacturer, the financier, and the capitalist generally. Prohibitory legislation as to what one eats or drinks is the earmark of a servile State and, therefore in antagonism to working-class interest."

J. A. YOUNG,
Secretary, Provincial Council of Machinists

"I have no desire to see a return to the conditions that obtained previous to September 1916. At the same time I am far from satisfied with the measure of temperance now in effect in this Province.

"I would favor a measure whereby it would be possible for a citizen to obtain a light, refreshing and palatable beer as well as wholesome, pure liquor for medicinal purposes and for use in his own home. I am therefore in favor of substantial amendments to the present Ontario Temperance Act."

JAMES J. RALPH,
Chairman, Ontario Executive, Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

"I desire to say that as Chairman of the Ontario Executive of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada I am following out the declared policy of the Trades Congress and the A. F. of L. in protesting against prohibitory legislation."

WILLIAM FORDHAM,
Supt. Labor Temple.

"This is to certify that I will personally vote four 'Yes's,' regardless of what any paper says, in the coming Referendum."

The workmen of Ontario do not ask for intoxicating or harmful liquors—they only want a more wholesome, nourishing and palatable beverage that has been incontestably proven absolutely non-intoxicating.

Is there any fair or just reason why you should not grant this fair request of Labor? Even though YOU do not care for beer as a beverage, is this a time for selfish insistence that OTHERS SHALL NOT have it?

Look at this matter in a broad light—intolerance will breed widespread discontent and resentment among workingmen. Ontario cannot afford to have her workmen dissatisfied. Support Labor in its just and reasonable request.

Vote "YES" to All Four Questions

Mark your ballot with an X. Any other marking will spoil it. Remember, also—every voter must vote on every question or his ballot will be spoiled.

Citizens' Liberty League

THE RESOLUTION

"Resolution No. 21.—By John Young, Lodge No. 235, International Association of Machinists, Toronto: Whereas, the Ontario Executive of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada did on the 20th day of January last, wait upon the Premier of the Province of Ontario, the Hon. Sir William Hearst, and the members of his Government, and asked that a proper definition of an intoxicating liquor be made.

"And, whereas, the said Committee were able to show that a beverage containing up to 2.50 per cent. of alcohol by weight was a non-intoxicant, and were therefore justified in asking that beverages containing up to 2.50 per cent. of alcohol be allowed to be sold under the Ontario Temperance Act.

"And, whereas, at a convention of upwards of ten thousand labor men from all parts of the Province of Ontario, held in Toronto on Saturday, March 2nd, for the purpose of considering the question of Provincial and Dominion temperance legislation, a resolution was unanimously passed appointing a committee to go to Ottawa to wait on Sir Robert Borden and the members of his Government, and ask that a uniform definition of an intoxicating liquor be made, for the whole Dominion, and that 2.50 per cent. of alcohol by weight be fixed as such standard, and that it may be legal to manufacture and sell anywhere in Canada any beverage not exceeding 2.50 per cent. of alcohol by weight.

"And, whereas, at the annual conference of the representatives of the different International Trade Union Organizations held in Ottawa on Monday, the 18th of April last, for the purpose of considering legislative matters, the resolution above referred to passed by the labor men at the Convention in Toronto on the 2nd day of March last, was endorsed by the Conference, and a copy of the resolution handed by the Conference to the War Committee of the Government; and whereas, the working men of Canada have been asked by the Government to co-operate with them in increasing production, and the working men have expressed a willingness to do so, even to the extent of working longer hours.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved, that this Convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada endorses the action of its Ontario Executive and other resolutions as above referred to, and requests the Dominion and Provincial Governments to enact legislation whereby it may be legal to manufacture and sell anywhere in Canada any beverage not exceeding 2.50 per cent. of alcohol by weight."

CONCLUDING WORDS FROM MR. GILLESPIE

To the Electors of the West Riding of Peterborough.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Now that the election campaign is drawing to a close, I can truthfully say that I have personally conducted this contest without having said one unkind word of either of my opponents, and, so far as I know, I can say the same regarding the conduct of my supporters.

have endeavored, as plainly as possible, to fairly present my views on the various public questions of the day, and feel that I can trust you to act on your best judgment when you come to mark your ballots.

My policy all along has been to give impartial credit to the best views entertained by either party, on all questions that appeal to the better judgment of the electors, and that would appear to be for the general welfare of our country.

If again elected as your representative, I will endeavor, as in the past, to assist in carrying out all legislation calculated to result in the best interests of the Province and of this Riding.

Believe me, Ladies and Gentlemen,
I am your obedient servant,

GEO. A. GILLESPIE

TOM M'GARRY WILL HAVE HARD FIGHT

U.F.O CANDIDATE WILL GIVE THE PROVINCIAL TREASURER A REAL BATTLE

Special to the Examiner:

RENFREW, Ont., Oct. 18.—Mr. John Carty, the U.F.O. candidate, who is opposing Hon. T. W. McGarry in this riding, held a well-attended rally here last night. As the day of the election grows near, there is a feeling that it will be a very close contest unless Mr. McGarry can split the vote of farmers. He will, according to the political prophets, have a very hard job holding his seat. It is generally conceded that the temperance forces will have a big majority on all four questions in this riding.

Canadian Press:

MONTREAL, Oct. 18.—It is reported that a local syndicate has secured possession of a chain of theatres from Montreal to the Pacific Coast. It plans to make Canadian productions, establish a theatre in London and bring British productions to Canada. The deal involves four million dollars. Among the interests taken over, the report states, will be those of A. J. Small in Toronto, Hamilton, London, Peterborough, St. Thomas and Kingston, and several in the West. Montreal will be the head office of the concern, but producing centres will be established for Canadian plays in Toronto as well as Montreal.

OBITUARY

MRS. GODFREY LACOMBE.

The death occurred at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. James Warde, 198 Aylmer street, yesterday morning, of Mrs. Godfrey Lacombe, a well known and highly respected resident of Bobcaygeon. Mrs. Lacombe, who had lived in Bobcaygeon for thirty-five years, came to Peterborough a week ago. She was sixty-six years of age.

The deceased is survived by her husband, two daughters, Mrs. James Warde of Peterborough, and Mrs Herbert Deutcher of Winnipeg, and three sons, Messrs. George Lacombe of Prescott, C. D. Lacombe of Oshawa, and Harry of Ingersoll.

The funeral took place this morning to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to St. Peter's cemetery.

MRS. FERGUSON.

Mr. P. A. Ferguson, of the Dominion Life Assurance Company, well known here since his term of service commenced six years ago, recently suffered the extreme loss in the death of his mother. Mrs. Ferguson was a resident of Woodville, Victoria County, esteemed and revered by all who knew her during the increasing years of her life. She was a life-long member of the Presbyterian church, which she zealously and regularly attended. Born at Inverness, Scotland, in 1848, she came with her father, Mr. Donald Nicholson, at nine years of age to Canada, where they settled in Glengarry, moving nine years later to Woodville, where she married Angus Ferguson, who has predeceased her by twenty-three years. The first break in the family was suffered in the death of a daughter in June six years ago. Another daughter's death preceded her mother's by just three weeks. Mrs. Ferguson enjoyed the best of health all her life until Friday, October 10th, she under went a serious operation from which she did not recover. Her death on Tuesday, October 14th, came as a sudden shock to the remaining members of the family and the sympathy of all is extended to them. Besides Mr. P. A. Ferguson, there survive to honor the memory of their mother, five sons and two daughters.

RELATIONS BETWEEN EMPLOYER AND LABOUR

Comprehensive Programme is Outlined.

By Ralph Couch.
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—A comprehensive programme of principles to cover all relations between employer and employe will be placed before the National Industrial Conference Monday, if plans go through on which the leaders are working to-day. The programme will bear a label indicating it is favoured by the government. With this move leaders hope to hold the conference in session all next week and bring complete agreement between the two big major groups representing Capital and Labour.

The programme will include clauses dealing with collective bargaining, machinery for settlement of strikes, the question of women and children in industry and all vital industrial issues on which workers and employers are at disagreement, it was learned.

DRASTIC PROHIBITION LAW WILL TAKE EFFECT THIS MONTH.

NO VETO

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20. — The prohibition law, deemed one of the most sweeping acts ever passed by Congress, was expected to be sent to the White House to-day by Attorney-General Palmer, who has been investigating its constitutionality.

The plan it was learned, is to have the bill remain at the White House until Oct. 28th, when it becomes effective even without the President's signature. From responsible quarters there has been no hint of a veto.

Under this law, on Oct. 28th at the latest, it would become illegal to manufacture or sell liquor having more than one-half of one per cent. alcohol, or any patent medicine or other compounds, fit for beverage purposes containing more than that amount of alcohol.

Violations are to be investigated by commissioners of internal revenue and reported to local united attorneys. Commissioners are authorized to swear warrants giving them a right to search for liquor and arrest the offenders. The alcoholic liquids not deemed illegal are denatured alcohol medicinal preparations if unfit for beverage purposes, which must have the quantity of alcohol contained printed on each package, flavoring extracts, unfit for beverage use, vinegar and preserved sweet cider. Liquor manufactured before the bill goes into effect may remain in the United States bonded warehouses, and the alcohol reduced to bring it within the law or withdrawn to be denatured.

Beer containing less than one-half of one per cent. alcohol may be sold but not under the name of beer, ale or porter.

Common Nuisances.

Places where intoxicating drinks are sold are to be declared as common nuisances and the fines imposed shall rest as liens against the property if the owner has been guilty of having knowledge of what is going on in his building. When such a place is discovered the law provides that an injunction may be issued to stop the illegal sale and prevent removal of liquor.

Liquor which is seized may be destroyed or delivered to any government agency for medicinal, mechanical or scientific uses, or sold to persons having permits to purchase it for such purposes.

Distillers and bonded warehouses may, under the law, upon the filing of a bond and the obtaining of a permit, be used as industrial alcohol plants. The commissioner of internal revenue is authorized to issue regulations governing alcohol plants, to prevent illegal use of alcohol and develop the home beverage alcohol industry.

The Penalties.

Penalties under the dry law are varied, ranging from prison sentences to fines, according to what section of the law is violated.

When the eighteenth amendment to the constitution goes into effect next January, many more provisions of the law become operative. These include the regulation of physicians, who cannot prescribe liquor unless they are in active practice and licensed and the physician must believe it will afford relief to the patient, not more than one pint may be prescribed within ten days.

Prescriptions must be made out on a form supplied by the internal revenue commissioner, with stubs, like a check book to be turned in after all blanks are used for the official records. No prescription may be filled more than once, and druggists must keep a record, similar to a poison record of each sale, time, place, etc.

Advertising, manufacture and sale of tablets or formulas for making liquor at home is prohibited.

Advertising of liquor in any way is made illegal.

Even the giving of information as to where it may be obtained is lawbreaking. Vehicles used for transporting it shall be seized.

With regard to the possession of intoxicating drinks, the Act says after Feb. 1st, 1920, it shall be prima facie evidence of intent to violate except liquor in private houses, legitimately purchased before the law went into effect. This liquor may be used only for the personal consumption of the owner, his family and guests.

Private houses cannot be searched unless it is suspected the beverage is being sold in them or part of the house is used for business purposes. Hotels and lodging houses rooms which are transiently used may be searched. These permanently occupied by the same persons are regarded as private dwellings.

Buildings used for selling liquor may be sued or the one who told the of the court.

If anyone is injured by a drunken person, the one who sold the liquor may be sude, or the one who told the drinker where to get it may be sued.

There are many other sections, regulating the business of analyzing suspected drinks, effilc., and setting up the legal machinery to enforce the law.

WOOD FOR SALE.

A HUGE VOTE WILL BE POLLED IN THE PROVINCE

ELECTION RESULTS AT THE EXAMINER

SPECIAL WIRE HAS BEEN INSTALLED FOR THE PURPOSE--EXTRAS WILL BE ISSUED.

The election and referndum returns will be received at the Examiner office by telephone, and a special wire service, which is being installed for that purpose. The telephone will carry the local results, and the Canadian Press wire that is being installed in this office, will carry the provincial returns. Just as soon as the results are received they will be megaphoned to the waiting crowd. Mr. Joseph Wearing has kindly consented to act as official announcer, and in this capacity will occupy a box seat at the second storey window of the Examiner Office. Supplementing this will be extra editions of the Examiner issued from time to time as the information available warrants. Before the evening is over it is expected that practically complete election returns will be received and probably also fairly complete referendum figures, although instructions to deputy returning officers are to count the election ballots first.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 20. — A million dollar depot and a heavy programme of expansion will be undertaken by the Canadian National Railway in Edmonton, according to authoritative information. Plans are already under way and the company will commence the station next year. It will be seven stories high and will be located near the present one. WOMEN ARE DISPLAYING A KEEN INTEREST IN THEIR FIRST VOTE.

GLORIOUS WEATHER

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Oct. 20.—Probably one million men and women of the total of 1,695,000 who are eligible to vote will cast their ballots in the Ontario general election to-day. This will be the greatest ballot casting day in Ontario's history. The electors are expressing their verdict upon the most momentous moral question which has ever come before Ontario voters, the repeal or continuance of the Ontario Temperance Act. The fate of any of the great parties is a minor matter to the carrying of prohibition in to-day's balloting.

It is a glorious election day as far as weather is concerned with bright skies everywhere throughout the province and a crisp autumnal air which lends vigor to the election workers. Excepting Toronto and East and West York the polls opened at 9 a.m. and will close at 5 p.m. standard time, or in places where daylight saving time is observed, at 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. In Toronto city and the two Yorks, all the polls opened at 7 a.m. Toronto time and will close at 8 p.m.

Women First.

The polls were no sooner opened in Toronto at 7 o'clock this morning than a stream of women voters to the polling place began. In some polls women were the first to ask for the ballot slips. There is unmistakable evidence that the women electors will make good use of the ballot on the first occasion that they have been privileged to exercise the franchise in a provincial election.

The "pep" and the organization in the campaign is largely supplied by the Referendum commitee, "the four no's." They have hundreds of women acting as scrutineers, both inside and outside.

Women As Scrutineers.

Women who never were near a polling booth before, who never touched a ballot paper, went out in the morning darkness to-day and took their places in the booths almost like seasoned veterans, guarding the interests of the "drys." It is asserted that the temperance forces were never so well and thoroughly organized as they are in this campaign, and a big Toronto majority of "four no's" is predicted. The Referendum committee had hundreds of motor cars speeding over the city streets carrying voters to the polls. All these were volunteer workers. Men with business interests took the day off in order to serve the cause and drove their cars where the women scrutineers directed them to go to get the balloters. The temperance workers had the party workers as well as the Liberty Leaguers 'backed off the map' when it came to zeal and energy and enthusiasm. A careful canvass of almost the entire city had been made in the last few weeks by women workers. Consequently the outside scrutineer at each poll had a typed list of the voters at his or her poll, with certain markings opposite each name. These favourable to the "drys" were so marked and they were the voters that had to be routed out.

A Big Vote.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Oct. 20. — Reports from all corners of the province of Ontario, as received this morning, indicate bumper crops of votes in elections to-day for the fifteenth Ontario Legislature and balloting on the referendum for the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act and its three kindred questions. Generally fair and cool weather throughout the province, with harvesting completed and roads in good shape in country districts are contributing in some measure to a big vote being brought out to-day. The principal incentives, however, are additional interest of the referendum and the general extension of the franchise to women. The polls opened in Toronto and neighbouring rid-

A BIG TIME AT THE G.W.V.A. HALL

ELECTION RETURNS WILL BE GIVEN OUT OVER A SPECIAL WIRE.

There will be a big time at the G. W. V. A. Hall to-night when the election returns will be given out. For the benefit of the members a special telegraph wire has been installed giving the details from all over the province. In order that the news may be followed more intelligently score cards have been provided. In addition to the election returns there will be a presentation of the special presidents' badges to President H. J. Staunton and Past President Morrison. Every Veteran will be given a copy of the G. W. V. A. re-establishment scheme.

It is expected that there will be a record attendance at the G. W. V. A. Hall to-night.

MASS MEETING IN THE G.W.V.A. HALL

MR. LINDSAY CRAWFORD OF TORONTO WAS THE SPEAKER OF THE EVENING.

The mass meeting held in the G. W. V. A. rooms on Saturday evening was quite largely attended. The speakers included Mr. G. A. Gillespie, Mr. R. R. Hall, and Mr. Lindsay Crawford, Toronto. Mr. J. J. Hartley, president of the Liberal Association, presided.

In a brief address Mr. Gillespie reviewed the campaign of the past two weeks and commented upon the fairness that had characterized the activities of the candidates on all sides. Mr. Gillespie concluded with a reference to a number of the most important issues in connection with the campaign.

The next speaker was Mr. R. R. Hall who gave a few examples of the extravagance practiced by the Hearst government, which included a palatial residence in Toronto for the accommodation of Sir John Hedrie, and other exalted personages. He was followed by Mr. Lindsay Crawford who gave a stirring resume of the principles for which Liberalism stands. "God save the rich, and let the poor take care of themselves." This said Mr. Crawford appears to be the prayer of the big interests to-day as they exist under the care and guardianship of the Hearst government.

Without Trafalgar there could have been no Waterloo; without either there could have been no Armistice Day. It established the sacred right of mankind to breathe the breath of freedom the world over.

The Navy League of Canada is celebrating Nelson Day by launching its Dominion wide campaign to secure funds to educate the people to the vital necessity of sea power and to the creation of a vast merchant marine.

The Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire will hold a tag day for this purpose on Saturday, Oct. 25. Will you do your share?

ANTI-BOLSHEVIK FORCES CONTINUE TO ADVANCE

SEVERAL IMPORTANT POSITIONS CAPTURED BY ADMIRAL KOLCHAK--LETTS PROGRESSING.

RUSSIAN NEWS

(United Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 20. — The various anti-Bolsheviki forces continue their crushing pressure upon Trotsky's armies on all fronts of the rapidly narrowing territory dominated by the latter, according to advices received here to-day.

While the fall of Petrograd unofficially reported last week had not been officially confirmed, the city was said to be completely isolated and General Yudenitcha's forces were on the outskirts, according to a Helsingfors despatch.

A news agency despatch from Helsingfors to-day said that Yudenitch by a rapid stroke east of Gatchinan yesterday succeeded in blowing up the railway bridge over the Tosna, cutting communication between Petrograd and Moscow.

A Copenhagen despatch said it was officially announced that Yudenitch has taken Ligor, nine miles from Petrograd.

WILL DEFEND CITY

According to the Copenhagen Tiende a despatch from Reval declared the Bolsheviki are prepared for a desperate defence of Petrograd. It is said the city has been divided into ten defensive sections, and that all streets had been barricaded with 250 picked soldiers at each barricade.

Admiral Kolchak was reported today to have captured the important railway junction at Liski, commanding communications between the Bolshevik front on the Don and Tsaritsin. At the said time General Shkuro was said to have occupied Grafskaya Junction.

Meanwhile Stockholm advices declared that the Letts were progressing rapidly in their offensive against the Germans on the Dwina front.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 20.—While the flag was hoisted over the Russian fortress of Kronstadt on Friday it was announced by the British War Office today, Petrograd is virtually isolated, the War Office announces to-day, anti-Bolshevik cavalry having cut the railroads leading from Petrograd to Citebak, Moscow and Vologda. The Petrograd-Vitebek road is cut at Viritsa, and the Petrograd-Moscow railroad at Tosna, south and southeast of Petrograd, respectively. Line at Vologda is cut south of Lake Ladoga.

GRAND TRUNK PURCHASE BEFORE THE PARLIAMENT

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Oct. 20.— Sir George Foster, representing the Dominion government, to-day stated that legislation for the government acquirement of the Grand Trunk would be pressed to a conclusion. This was in reply to a Montreal deputation which interviewed members of the cabinet and expressed strong opposition to the proposal.

QUEEN'S PARK WAS BOMBARDED

(Special to Examiner.)

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 20. — The airplane has become a factor in political warfare. Queen's Park, the stronghold of the Hearst government, this morning underwent an enemy bombardment from the air. Shortly before ten o'clock an aviator flying comparatively low, circled over the Parliament buildings and proceeded to bestrew the landscape with cards inscribed: "The Seven Sleepers have slept long enough. Vote for Dewart and a square deal."

The coup of the intrepid birdman created little short of a furore among the inmates of the building. None of the Cabinet Ministers were present to witness the bombardment, but some doubt is expressed whether even a campaign of such novelty would have induced them to cast their ballot for a Liberal candidate.

PRESS COMMENT ON GIBRALTAR

PAPERS REFER SOMEWHAT VAGUELY TO THE PROPOSAL.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 20. — Statements made by Henry Morgenthau on his return to the United States, suggesting that Great Britain share control of Gibraltar with the United States, was not generally reported here. The Morning Post alone carries something like a full report under the headlines "Gibraltar: a naive Suggestion," but does not comment on Mr. Morgenthau's words. A brief news agency account is printed by Graphic, which refers somewhat vaguely to the "Gibraltar proposal." One paper comments in general terms, urging the United States to accept a mandate for Constantinople, Armenia and Anatolia, but passing by the Gibraltar recommendation as a little obscure."

Other papers do not mention Morgenthau's statement.

ACTION TAKEN BY THE DRY FORCES

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEB, Man., Oct. 20.— Action will be taken by the dry forces against the latest mail order booze drive which anticipates the early lifting of the war time prohibition and the resumption of pre war inter-provincial traffic.

Inter-provincial traffic in liquor is entirely outside the jurisdiction of the Provincial government, said J. N. McLean, chief inspector in the Manitoba Liquor Dejartment. The question has been raised as to the legality of the mail campaign which the liquor houses have inaugurated by flooding the mails with price lists.

WANT A SHARE IN MANAGEMENT

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Railway employees ask a share in the management of companies, and it is hoped the companies will consider this proposal, said D. J. H. Thomas, secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, in a speech at Derby last night. He expressed belief that the railway employees could contribute to the management by reason of their experiences and ability and that in this capacity their services would be valuable to the railroads and country.

PERSONAL TO THE ROY STUDIO

"Mr. Roy,—I am writing to thank you for the photos, which are very beautiful. All who have seen them highly praised your work, and wished they were near your studio to have some such lovely pictures taken. Indeed, I am greatly pleased with my photos, and my friends have been so insistent that I find I must increase my order."

MR. W. H. DUNSFORD IS TREASURER

The need of assistance for the Merchant Marine in Canada is very pressing. In thankfulness for your protection from starvation, torture, and defeat will you send a donation to the Navy League of Canada. Mr. W. H. Dunsford of the Bank of Commerce is the Honorary Treasurer of the fund.

Many Lett Off Lists

SHARP CRITICISM AND MUCH DISSATISFACTION OVER THE ENUMERATING SYSTEM.

FLOCKS OF OFFICIALS

Criticism of the enumeration system of preparing the voters' lists was heard at practically every polling booth in the city to-day. From the reports of scrutineers and other officials it is believed that the omissions will run into a comparatively high total. Of course it is recognised that the citizens were frequently advised to make sure that their names were on the lists, and also that ample corrective means were provided. But many electors paid no attention to the warnings, and some of them perhaps did not see the advertisements in the press, or did not understand the responsibility that rested upon themselves. Some of those who found themselves deprived of voting have been life-long residents of the city.

It was also stated that forty-three soldiers who have returned within the past month, and public opinion will agree that these men deserved some expedient that would have automatically put them on the lists. The Examiner obtained quite a number of names of citizens disfranchised by the Hearst Government's bright idea, and there is a general opinion that the old system of adopting the municipal list was altogether better than the present plan. It is impossible to determine whether one candidate suffered more than the others through the omissions from the lists, but there is a great deal of dissatisfaction over the enumerating system.

Another criticism that was frequently heard during the day was directed toward the number of persons, officially or otherwise, in practically every booth. If they were all entitled to be there, it was remarked, this election would prove an excessively costly one. If they had no official business, it was contended that they should not have been permitted to clutter up the little booths.

Azores Islands Are Now Aerial Half-way House For Transatlantic Fliers

THE Azores Islands, the mid-Atlantic respite for the transocean airplane flight have been an oceanic half-way house ever since Columbus halted there to offer thanks for his success upon his way home after discovering America.

Farthest from a continent of an Atlantic island group, the islands lie 830 miles west of Cape da Roc, Portugal, and more than 1,000 mil southeast of Newfoundland, nearc North American land.

Volcanic eruptions and eart quakes, while the former were a tive, made the Azores objects scientific interest akin to that evinced in the now famous Mt. Katmai region in Alaska. Sub-oceanic eruptions, sometimes piling up island which soon disappeared were chai acteristic phenomena. One early description of such an event tells how the earth and waters were rocked for eight days by earthquakes, followed by a vast cauldron of fire that seemed to sweep the sea's surface and consume the clouds, spewing enormous masses of earth and rock. Then there appeared a group of rocks, ever growing higher and wider until an area of several square miles was contained in this "no man's land." Later it was shattered and subsided as the result of more earthquakes.

Most of the inhabitants are Portuguese. The rest are Flemish and Moorish, with a few immigrants from the United Kingdom.

Fruits and fish constitute the principal exports. Oranges are supplanting pineapples, but the other products—lemon, citron, Japanese medlar and bananas — maintain their popularity. The principal fish are the mullet, tunny and bonito.

St. Michael's, largest island of the group, has lava beds, caves, which may be traversed for miles, and a mammoth crater with two jeweled lakes, one azure, the other emerald, at its bottom.

On Santa Maria is the church where Columbus knelt. Of Terceira a submarine volcano made its appearances as recently as half a century ago. On Corvo have been unearthed coins which suggest Carthaginian visits, and an Arabian geographer of the twelfth century described islands of the Western Ocean thought to have been the Azores.

About the middle of the fifteenth century the Portuguese sent expeditions to settle upon them. One island, Fayal, was presented by Alphonso V of Portugal to his aunt, Isabella, Duchess of Burgundy. It was upon her marriage to Philip the Good, Duke of Burgundy, that he founded the famous knightly order of the Golden Fleece.

In 1829 supporters of Maria da Gloria against Miguel, in the struggle for the Portuguese crown, established themselves on the islands and for the three years following Queen Maria lived at Angra, one of the seaports of importance. Others are Ponta Delgada and Horta.

Treasure fleets from the West Indies in olden days put in at the Azores. Celebrated in British naval tradition is the exploit of Sir Richard Grenville, whose ship, Revenge, accidentally separated from its fleet, held out for 15 hours against 15 Spanish ships.

Previously Grenville commanded the fleet sent out by Sir Walter Raleigh, his cousin, which landed on what now is North Carolina. The doughty commander died shortly after he was taken aboard the Spanish flagship. The Revenge had borne Drake in his battle with the Armada, of which Tennyson says in a poem about this famous encounter:—

"Ship after ship, the whole night long, their high built galleons came,
Ship after ship, the whole night long, with her battle thunder and flame;
Ship after ship, the whole night long, drew back with her dead and her shame;
For some were sunk and many were shatter'd, and so could fight no more—
God of battles, was ever a battle like this in the world before?"

Adventurous Photography.

The adventures, reported recently, of an expedition that penetrated British East Africa to secure motion pictures of big game in its native jungle reminds one strikingly of the change that has come over the vocation of photography. In the beginning photography was as mild an occupation as any; it called for a pleasing address in the photographer, and for conversational tact to encourage the sitter to forget that the camera was watching him, but it was not adventurous, and the timidest might excel at it. Then the newspapers began to use the camera, and the photographer had often to be a man of courage. But the motion picture industry goes even farther. Bold and brave must be the man who successfully takes pictures of lions, tigers, and other denizens of the jungle in their native haunts.

ARCTIC WEALTH

Musk, Oz and Reindeer Herds Proposed by Stefansson

In an address a few days ago before members of the Senate and House of Commons, Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Canadian Arctic explorer, presented a scheme for converting the Arctic and sub-Arctic regions of Canada into a great wool, milk and meat producing area.

The Stefansson scheme involves the introduction of large herds of reindeer into the Canadian north; and the domestication and development of large herds of musk ox. Both these animals will furnish a milk and meat supply. The musk ox in addition will furnish a wool supply. The situation in the north is briefly this:—

In the summer there is an abundant vegetation, which forms nutritious food for grazing animals in winter as well as summer. It is estimated there are at least a million square miles of such grazing grounds in northern Canada. The winter climate of these areas is too severe for ordinary domestic cattle, but musk ox and reindeer can graze there in the open the year round.

Mr. Stefansson said that most people who know reindeer meat consider it is the best meat on earth. In regard to musk ox meat he said that for a year when he was in the north this meat constituted ninety per cent. of his party's food supply, and that they found it indistinguishable in taste from beef. In view of these circumstances Stefansson claimed that the Canadian north can be utilized to help solve the problem and in addition that the development of this industry will naturally expedite the development of the mineral and other resources of the north.

In his opening remarks Mr. Stefansson said:

It is curious that the whole world should be as densely ignorant as it is of the climate and resources of the north, but it is deplorable. If it is not pathetic, that Canadians generally should share in the same impression. Fifty years ago it would have been difficult to convince the ordinary inhabitant of Montreal or Toronto that Manitoba was a fit place to live in or could ever be of value. And it is interesting to find that to-day the people of Manitoba have toward the country just beyond them the same attitude which the east had towards Manitoba fifty years ago, and with a similar lack of justification. The Weather Bureau can tell us that in general the climate of northern Canada is similar to that of Manitoba. If a person who has lived through his bringing up on Lake Winnipeg were to migrate to Great Slave Lake, he could tell the difference in climate, not by his vague general impressions, but only through a careful study of the thermometer and a careful checking of the calendar to show that the winter is a little longer and a little colder than in Manitoba.

The north has undoubted resources in the well-known departments of mines and fisheries and has in addition the greater resource of a million square miles of excellent grazing land. These things taken together mean that the northern half of our country is on the threshold of the same sort of steady development as that which has made our middle west one of the great food producing regions of the world.

We have in the musk oxen animals three times the size of our domestic sheep, that produce three times as much wool, two or three times as much milk, and two or three times as much meat. When we realize that these animals need no barns to shelter them, no hay to feed them, and no care or coddling of any kind, and when we know from their habits that it is only man that has driven them out of northern Canada, it becomes evident that, should we care to, we can reinstate them in all of their former range to our great profit.

There are, we estimate, about four thousand of them in Melville Island and there may be ten or twenty thousand of them altogether in the various other Canadian islands, with a few thousand in the least accessible portions of our mainland.

It is obvious that if lions and giraffes, full-grown, can be captured and brought out of Central Africa, the comparatively mild and clumsy musk ox cannot be difficult to bring out from such places as Melville Island. If we do it and do it on a large scale, and if we take up the reindeer as well, we shall through these two animals within the next twenty-five years convert northern Canada, from a land of practically no value, to the great permanent wool, and milk and meat producing country of the western hemisphere. Of course, there will sometime be a parallel development all over Northern Siberia and there already is such a development in northern Europe. When the rest of the world has ceased to produce considerable quantities of meat and wool because of the greater profit to be obtained for cereals and orchards, this belt of the world will attain an importance unrealized to-day, if we continue to be eaters of meat and butter and the wearers of woollen clothes.

War Now Being Cheated By Modern Civilization Of Its Terrible Aftermath

PERHAPS no barometer holds so sure a sign of our advancing civilization than the success of efforts now being made to avert the hitherto inevitable handmaidens of war—pestilence and famine.

One refutation of the "always has been therefore always must be" argument for war is the fact that civilized nations are emerging from the greatest war the world has seen and averting the two other consequences always deemed inevitable — plague and starvation. True, nations which represent ancient civilizations also exhibit the old phenomenon; hence these peoples, more highly organized economically not only must withstand the shock for themselves, but must help feed other lands.

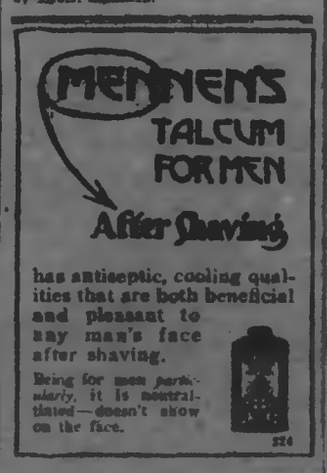
Ralph A. Graves gives a picture of past famines in England, in striking contrast to her present condition after the terrible strain she has withstood. The writer states:—

The story of famines in England has been a gloomy one from earliest times. At the beginning of the eighth century a dearth, which extended to Ireland, drove men to cannibalism. It was not until the reign of Ethelred the Unready, however, that "such a famine prevailed as no man can remember," from 1005 to 1010.

These chroniclers who were wont to see bad conditions at their worst declared that half the population of the larger island perished. But it must be remembered that much of the mortality of this period was occasioned by the wars between Ethelred and Sweyn the Dane, the latter being forced by the famine to retire from England for a time.

Naturally, the era following the advent of William the Conqueror was one of widespread starvation and pestilence among the English peasantry. During the last 30 years of the eleventh century nine were years of dire distress.

So great was the dearth in 1068 that the peasants of the north, unable longer to secure dogs and horses to appease their hunger, sold themselves into slavery in order to be fed by their masters.



has antiseptic, cooling qualities that are both beneficial and pleasant to any man's face after shaving.

Being for men particularly, it is neutralized—doesn't show on the face.

324

There were sporadic periods of suffering during the succeeding reigns of William Rufus and Henry I, in the civil wars of Stephen's times, and under Henry II. But the next dearth which especially quickens the sympathy was that which befell the people in the days of Richard Coeur de Lion, the Crusader. There is a brief reference to the famine in this period in "Ivanhoe."

Starvation was followed by a pestilential fever which sprang "as if from the corpses of the famished." Ceremonial burial was omitted except in the cases of the very rich.

While backward seasons were contributing factors, the responsibility for the two great famines of Henry III's reign is to be laid at the door of the Government itself. In the first of these (1235) 20,000 persons are said to have died in London alone. The suffering in 1257-59 was even worse.

It was during this famine that England for the first time imported from Germany and Holland grain to alleviate the suffering of her poorer classes. The first ordinance in English history designed to curb the greed of the middleman was passed during this time of shortage in food supplies.

Few English kings have lived through greater periods of distress than Edward II, who was scarcely able to secure food for his own immediate household when the heavy rains of 1314 spoiled the harvests. Everything imaginable was eaten—dogs, horses, cats and even babies.

With the exception of the world war perhaps no other calamity that ever befell the human race can be compared with that of the Black Death and the accompanying famine, which afflicted all western civilization during the middle decade of the fourteenth century. Its toll has been variously estimated at from one-fourth to three-fourths of the entire population of Europe. Certainly it was not less than 2,000,000 people.

Out of the situation which resulted from the impoverishment of the labor resources of the kingdom grew the first great clash in England between capital and labor. The peasants became masters of the situation. In some cases they demanded double wages.

Parliament hurriedly passed drastic laws in an effort to meet the new condition. Anti-loafing statutes, which also fixed wages at the scale paid a year before the first appearance of the plague, were enacted. Runaway laborers were to be branded with an "F" as a perpetual sign of their falsity.

Drop the Manx Tongue.

It is doubtful whether the efforts of the Manx Language Society to revive Manx as the common speech of the Isle of Man will succeed, says the Manchester Guardian. Manxmen are of Celtic stock, with a strong dash of Scandinavian, and their native tongue belongs to the Goidelic group of Celtic languages, but it has failed to produce a great or an extensive literature, and it has almost entirely ceased to be spoken even by the peasantry. The Bible and prayer book were translated into Manx a century and a half ago, but it is long since church services were conducted in the vernacular. Enthusiasm, however, can accomplish wonders, and that quality certainly is not lacking among the various Manx societies.

Noah's Ark.

It has been estimated that Noah's ark was 547 feet long, 91 feet broad and 54 feet high. Its capacity, according to Bishop Wilkins, was 73,616 tons.

The Vedda of Ceylon.

Students have long been interested in the Australian aborigine, the African bushman, and the Ceylonese Vedda. The Veddas are recorded as far back at 543 B.C., and their customs and beliefs are thought to have changed but little since the Stone Age. But the Veddas, on report of a traveler lately returned from the wilds of Ceylon, are reaching the end of this peculiar interest. For now "hardly a Vedda faithful to the traditions of his ancestry survives; not one, perhaps, that wears leaves for clothing and depends for subsistence solely on the products of the jungle." The bow and arrow are still sometimes used, but have been largely supplanted by old-fashioned muzzle-loading guns, and the skillful archery for which the Veddas were notable has become a lost art. In the Ceylon jungle a few typical Veddas are left, but these are isolated specimens. In any circumstances it has been held that the Veddas are incapable of civilization. But then that depends, of course, on what is meant by civilization.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

MONDAY, OCTOBER 20TH, 1919.

PROBABILITIES.

Continued very dry in Ontario.

A GOOD REASON.

Many a man said "No" to-day on the referendum because he was afraid he might not be able to say "No" later on.

ANOTHER CAMPAIGN.

With the wind-up of the campaign to-day, a new one looms up — the Victory Loan drive. This will be one platform on which Liberals, Conservatives, Wets, Drys, United Farmers and Labour Men can all find a common footing.

CURIOSITY.

There seems to be a lot of thirsty inquisitiveness as to what will become of that second car load of vishnick that the exposure made by Mr. Dewart prevented from being sold.

"TWADDLE."

The Review's definition of "twaddle" seems to be any article not written by a member of our contemporary's staff. The Review should know. It prints enough to be a judge.

ONE FOR THE BALL-FANS.

The political campaign brought the usual number of orators to Peterborough, but the most famous Speaker of all around on Saturday—to fish, however, and not to talk.

HE DIED HARD.

All indications point to an obituary notice to-morrow on John Barleycorn. There will be a few mourners, but the majority of the people will be able to hide their grief very easily.

A CREDITABLE EDITION.

The 110th anniversary number of the Kingston Standard published last week was an edition that reflected most creditably upon the enterprise and resource of the well-known Kingston daily. Not only is it magnificently printed on the Standard's new 28-page Goss colour press, but the historical sketches, the references to the men and events of other years, make this special number one of great interest and value. The editorial and mechanical staffs of the Standard are alike to be congratulated upon the success of their efforts.

WHAT ABOUT THE CANAL?

A few days ago a Peterborough deputation went to Belleville to urge upon the Grand Trunk officials the advisability of lower freight rates for the carrying of coal brought across in barges from Oswego to Belleville, to the city. The citizens will readily appreciate the advantages to be gained by cheaper transportation of coal which should result in lower prices to the consumer here; and on that account the efforts of the deputation will be applauded.

Arising out of this matter, however, comes the query voiced by a number of citizens: "Why not use the Trent Canal to move coal from Belleville or Trenton to Peterborough?" The canal has been open to the Bay of Quinte for over a year, but there has been practically no commercial use made of this section. If the Trent Canal is to be of any business value whatever—and deputation after deputation from this city and district has gone down to Ottawa and urged upon the various Governments the necessity of completing the waterway—it seems high time that an investigation of its possibilities should be instituted.

A WELCOME ANNOUNCEMENT

Both from an artistic and from a patriotic viewpoint, the announcement that Peterboro is to be included in the new theatrical syndicate formed to produce Canadian plays and bring British theatrical productions to Canada, should be a welcome one. Too long has Canada been dependent upon the United States for her theatrical attractions; too few have been the opportunities given the Canadian people to see the best of England's artists on the stage. The majority of plays that have been seen in our theatres have necessarily been of American origin; they have been written and produced with a view to pleasing United States audiences, and naturally they play up the United States in a manner that would be perfectly understandable across the line, but that sometimes grates upon Canadian audiences. The references to Old Glory and Uncle Sam that sprinkle many of these productions have been it is true philosophically accepted by Canadians because they preferred shows with American trimmings to no shows at all, but they will be delighted to learn that the formation of a big Canadian syndicate will doubtless make it possible to bring to Canada many of the great British actors as well as to introduce Canadian productions. Artistically, our theatres will be the gainers by the exchange of British for American companies for the few visits this country has had from Cyril Maude, Martin Harvey, Lena Ashwell and other artists of that calibre, have left the hope of more frequent opportunities to see them before the footlights. Local playgoers will be glad to notice that the Grand Opera House is included in the chain of theatres to come under the control of the new syndicate.

THE PRINCE IN CANADA.

(Seattle Post-Intelligencer.)

We are close enough to Victoria and Vancouver to hear the echoes of the reception given our neighbours to the Prince of Wales. There is no denying the enthusiasm that was shown to this young man, who has nothing more in himself than a hereditary claim to popular approval. In the course of time this youngster, essentially no different from any well-bred young fellow of his years, will be the titular head of the world-encircling British Empire. He will be a king, verbally the ruler of an empire more vast than was ever conceived, over 12,000,000 square miles and over 400,000,000 souls.

In our scheme there is no room for a king, but the British Empire could not exist without a king. Any one of its component parts could easily exist without a monarch, but as a whole it requires a king to bind them together. Canada may have differences with England, Australia with South Africa, New Zealand with Newfoundland, but they all trace their relationship to each other through the king, who is the living symbol of the empire.

Americans are likely to overlook this fact when they consider the enthusiasm shown on the occasion of a princely visit by our friends across the line. It is no mere personal adulation that inspires the throngs in Canada who cheer the sight of the young prince; it is no theatrical weakness for the pageantry that one way or the other accompanies royalty on its travels. It is something deeper than all this; it is the love of the British Empire; the love that sent thousands upon thousands of men overseas, sent them thousands of miles to die in Flanders, to Egypt, on the Tigris, on the Strumitza, or wherever the Empire was in danger.

It is wrong, therefore, to consider the reception given to the Prince of Wales by the Canadians as primarily a personal affair. It is an affair of the Empire, and is significant of much more than any personal attachment to the Royal House. The young prince is of course immensely popular in his own right, but he is more than that, and his visit to Canaad amounts to more than a personal visit.

The ties that bind the British Empire together are plainly as strong, if not stronger, than ever. Between the Englishman and the Canadian there is no uniform identity of interest, no certain attachment. The same may be said of the Australian and the Afrikander. But they have one thing in common: the vast, loosely-jointed, haphazard Empire; and how dear this is to the Canadians has been conclusively demonstrated within the past few weeks.

Voice Of The People

Peterborough, Oct. 17, 1919.

The Editor, "Examiner":

I am enclosing clippings of advertisements of prominent Montreal firms, who sell meats, provisions, etc., taken from Thursday's issue of the Montreal "Star," Oct. 9th; also of a local butcher taken from your issue of the 10th instant. All were specials for Thanksgiving, but compare one prominent firm's prices, (which, by the way, has branch stores in Peterborough) with the local butcher whose advertisement is taken from your paper:

Montreal Firm.

Sirloin Roasts	18c.	per lb.
Sirloin Steaks	20c.	per lb.
Round Steaks	20c.	per lb.
Rump Roasts	16½c.	per lb.
Fillet Roasts	20c.	per lb
Choice Tender Steak	14c.	per lb

Local Firm.

Sirloin Roasts	35c.	per lb.
Sirloin Steaks	35c	per lb.
Round Steaks	35c,	per lb.

You will note by other copies of the advertisements enclosed, that this firm was not the only one which was selling meat almost half a cheaply as we get it here.

What is the reason? Probably the fact that the Board of Commerce has been in session in Montreal. If this surmise is correct, maybe the Mayor could get in touch with these gentlemen, and arrange for a sitting in this city.

Why Kut Surrendered.

Maj.-Gen. Sir Charles Townshend, speaking at Holborn, England, said he would like to tell something of what was done by the men under the command. He was not going to describe the Tigris or the desert, but he would remind them that they took 300 miles, fought three battles, the last one a very desperate battle, and they had to retreat upon Kut.

They retreated over 90 miles, with the Turkish army on their heels, but his disciplined veterans never faltered. He did not lose a man or a gun, nor did he leave a wounded man behind, and in that retreat he turned round and wiped out the whole of the Turkish advanced guard of ten thousand men.

He described the terrible days of the siege when his men were dying of starvation at the rate of 35 and 38 a day. Finally he had a wireless from the commander-in-chief in Mesopotamia: "I cannot relieve you: make the best terms you can."

Sir Charles spoke with contempt of the whisperers who were afraid to come out into the open, but who hinted that he did not care what became of his men, and said if he lived to be 100 years old he should never forget how his men cheered him till he was out of sight when he was taken prisoner and removed to Constantinople.

New Games for Old.

Whether the progressivists in English cricket, who have so far annihilated venerable tradition as to cause the new season to open with two-day instead of three-day county matches, will prove triumphant in the end, remains to be seen. They declare the game had become dull; that public support was waning; that some "hustling" was needed. They maintain that the movements of the game were too slow and that if, among other examples, the outgoing batsman's disconsolate saunter to the far-distant pavilion and the incoming batsman's confident stroll from pavilion to pitch were modified by way of a little "speeding up," then the game would become more interesting to the spectators, and two days would become ample for a county match. But there are arguments on both sides. The assertions of the revolutionaries are met with stout denial by many prominent supporters of the game who are not prepared to admit that the two-day match or the element of hustle were necessary to the prosperity of the game. They are firmly convinced, moreover, that such changes as have come into operation for this experimental season may make an interesting fixture, but that that fixture is not the grand old institution, the county match.

FREDERICK TELLS NEIL THAT SCOTT IS DANGEROUS

CHAPTER XCV.

I undressed and slipped on a kimona. I did not attempt to go to bed. It would be no use. I could not sleep. I wept a little as I sat in the dark. Wept over my foolishness in taking that letter, which not even yet would I admit was such a heinous sin as Neil seemed to think. I also cried a bit over the thought that in spite of my lovely home, and all our money, I never could realize my social aspirations. I had asked Mr. and Mrs. Powers to a small dinner I gave aunt and received their polite regrets. Neil had been really angry. I think he was more disappointed than I, although he showed it differently.

"Give me a few years more and I'll show Powers and that old-fogy bunch where they got off!" he had declared when without a word of comment I laid their regrets before him.

"They don't even plead a previous engagement," I returned. "It wouldn't have hurt quite so much if they had."

"It doesn't hurt me! they are snobs anyway. Family doesn't count for everything now-a-days."

"But Neil, both your family and mine are as good as his." Then, "it can't be that," I added.

"What is it then? I haven't quite so much money as he has perhaps, but I will have in time."

"It isn't the money either Neil. I am sure of that."

"What is it then? You aren't thinking of that fool idea that it is because"—he stopped and I could not get him to talk further.

This all came back to me as I sat waiting for Mr. Frederick to leave. Waiting also to question Neil as to what he had meant when he said Mr. Scott was a bad man to make an enemy.

I also thought of my plans for my son. I think that hurt worst of all. To know that I could not do what I wished for him. I wanted him to have as companions the children of people like the Powers'. Educated, well brought up, refined boys and girls, not those whose parents were merely vulgarly rich, and so could afford the same schools as the others.

Then I recalled what father had said about 'going slowly.' I wondered if I had tried if I could have held Neil back—tried when we were first married. I had spent money as he made it, increasing our expenses —those which I controlled —with each year. Yet money, save when I had planned a society campaign, had never been a sine qua non with me. Neil, his love, our happiness together, had always been first. Had anyone asked me to choose I should have chosen poverty with love, rather than riches without it. But I had had no choice. Neil's insatiable ambition had urged him on and on until money had seemed to come as easily that I really gave no thought to my spending, or to my charge accounts.

But only that very day I had received a polite note from a large firm, one with whom I had spent thousands, to please remit. It had been the first appeal of the kind from a firm of standing, and I rather wondered at it. I had not mentioned it yet to Neil, but must do so in the morning, I thought as it recurred to me. My own account was not equal to such a demand upon it although Neil was always most generous.

Finally when I almost despaired of their conference ending before morning I heard the library door open, and their voices in the hall as Neil followed his guest down to the door. I crept half way down the stairs to listen.

"It's bad business, Forbes. Scott never bluffs. He declares he will publish you unless he gets his money back, and won't promise not to, even if he does. He says he feels it his duty to others whom you may swindle as you have him. Plain words Forbes, you know how true they are. He threatens to bring in Mrs. Orton too—it looks bad."

"There is nothing he can say about Blanche—as far as I am concerned. Can prove, I mean?"

"Who do you suppose will believe there is nothing between you? Gad, I shall be sorry for your wife, Forbes, if Scott keeps his word. It's tough on her." Neil did not answer, but I thought I heard something very like a groan. "Will she believe there is nothing but business taking you to spend your time at Mrs. Orton's, with the sort of men and—women one sees there? I know the men are asked because they have money. Those beautiful—if one likes that sort—women to help drag it from their pockets, but will the world, will Mrs. Forbes believe that?"

I felt like shouting 'I do believe it! I believe Neil is true to me, and nothing else matters. Instead I went softly back to my room and when Neil came up a moment later I was in bed.

"I thought you would never come," I said, as he switched on the light.

"Perhaps it would be better if I hadn't." which enigmatic remark was all he said to me, not even replying when I asked a question. I buried my face in the pillow and cried myself to sleep.

To-morrow—Bab is at last convinced that something is wrong.

HUN SPY DEFENDED BY YANK LAWYER

WERNER HORN ACCUSED OF BLOWING UP C. P. R. BRIDGE.

(Special to The Examiner.)

FREDERICTON, N.B., Oct. 18.—Werner Horn, German army officer, held here for the blowing up of the C. P. R. bridge in 1915, may be defended by American lawyers who took his case when he was before the United States Courts on the same charge.

Dr. H. Carlton Allen, Deputy Attorney-General of New Brunswick, states that these lawyers, though having no status in Canadian Courts, would probably be allowed to defend him, as the courtesy of allowing United States lawyers to attend Canadian Courts had always been extended.

City and Farm Equally Benefit

The man in the city and the man on the farm is each concerned with the other's prosperity, and each has equally strong personal reasons for supporting the Victory Loan 1919.

Last year Canada shipped to Great Britain and our European Allies $496,932,191 worth of the products of our farms.

The future of Canadian Agriculture depends upon holding and extending its export trade in farm products, and the future of city and town prosperity is interwoven with agricultural prosperity.

Great Britain and our European Allies provide a ready market. But as a result of the strain of war, they are short of cash. They must buy on credit for a time.

The British market particularly, we must not,—dare not—lose, because we have spent many long years in cultivating it, and establishing a prestige there for Canadian products.

Great Britain asks for a credit to buy our surplus food stuffs, and Britain always pays her debts. Our ability to extend this credit depends upon the success of the Victory Loan 1919.

Just think what it means to all of us to keep Canadian agriculture prosperous.

Canadian farmers form a large porportion of the buyers of Canada's manufactured products, resulting in trade for the manufacturer and retailer, and employment for the man in city and town.

With the money from the sale of his products the farmer buys agricultural implements, gasoline engines, tractors, wagons, seed, wire fences, fertilizers, milk cans, building material, roofing, furniture, carpets, furnishings, stoves, clothing, boots and shoes, groceries, drugs, pianos, talking machines, automobiles, papers, and scores of other things.

The city and town man makes these goods, and his wages are spent in his local stores, so that starting with the farmer the chain of trade travels through every class of the community.

The city again furnishes a home market for the farmers. Our cities have been built by our farmers—by those farm boys who have developed genius in organization, business and finance, and who do not have to leave Canada to find a field for their activities. The farm and city are interdependent the one upon the other. Canada requires both, and both prosperous.

Then upon both the man in the city and the man on the farm there rests a direct responsibility. Both must shoulder it and unite in making an overwhelming success of the

MESSAGE FROM CANON DAVIDSON

At both morning and evening services in St. John's Church yesterday, a message was given by Canon Davidson in regard to the Referendum. From the full discussion of the subject in the public press, from your own observation and commonsense, and from the principles of religion within us, all should be able to come to a reasonable conclusion. After referring to his personal line of action, the rector said the Church's business was chiefly to inculcate principles and create an atmosphere rather than to insist on particular applications of these principles in complicated situations. One great determining principle, said the speaker, I fling forth with all confidence. It is our duty to act, not selfishly as individuals, but as patriotic citizens and Christians. The Government has handed over the country's welfare in this respect to be decided by the united judgment of the electorate, and it is therefore our responsibility to give an opinion with our eyes fixed on the interests of the country. As Christians, our eyes should also be fixed on the Kingdom. It would seem that few, if any, wanted the return of the pre-war bar, and no one wanted drunkenness made easy. But there was an honest difference of opinion in regard to the sale of liquor under Government regulations and control. Some objected conscientiously to its sale in any way. These had a right to their opinion. Some quite as conscientiously believed that entire Prohibition was a mistake on national and moral grounds . . . . and that the sale was advisable, but only with careful safeguards. These persons also had a right to their opinion—unworthy motives need not be imputed in either case.

Lastly, it was up to us to do this act of duty without the least antagonism or hard feelings towards those who voted in a different way, and surely this was quite possible. Great friends often had opposite opinions. It was enough for us to come thoughtfully to our own conclusions and act accordingly. There was no reason for the language of excitement, but much for easy good humour and broad-minded religious toleration.

SHARP-TONGUED JUDGES.

Just a Few Anecdotes of the British Bench.

Innocent, but inexperienced litigants who have gone through tortures in the Law Courts sometimes derive a little consolation for their woes, says Answers. When, for instance, their newspaper chronicles epithets like "bad summing up," and "palpable misdirection," fired out recently by Mr. Justice Darling as he quashed a sentence passed by Judge Rentoul at the Old Bailey, London, England.

"My learned brother" is the term invariably used by High Court judges when referring to one another. Legal brethren, like blood brethren, sometimes fall out. Having been trained in a profession which sharpens the tongue, cutting remarks then ensue, much to the enjoyment of the general public.

Lord Justice Bowen, a famous wit of Victorian days, proved a constant source of terror to his colleagues in the Court of Appeal, where three judges usually sit on the bench together.

After hearing a painfully long appeal case, the presiding judge delivered a brief judgment, concluding with the words: "I consider the verdict should be quashed." "I agree," said the next judge. Bowen promptly snapped out: 'And I agree, too." "But I have not given my reasons!" indignantly exclaimed the judge he had interrupted, and thereupon took half an hour to give them. When he had finished, Bowen said: "I still agree." Then he stalked out of the court, leaving the sarcasm to make its impression.

This unhappy judge was chosen to draft an address from himself and his colleagues, congratulating Queen Victoria on her first jubilee. Bowen fastened on the sentence, "conscious as we are of our own unworthiness for the great office to which we have been called." "I think it would be better," he objected, "to say, 'conscious as we are of one another's unworthiness.'"

Although Scotland has its own system of laws, differing widely in many cases from the laws of England, the House of Lords serves as the final Court of Appeal for both countries. This arrangement is deeply resented by certain fervid members of the Scottish bench.

Lord Young, who recently died after nearly thirty years' service as judge of the Edinburgh Court of Session, used to be fond of expressing his contempt for the House of Lords as a legal tribunal. When told that the Lords had, on appeal, confirmed one of his judgments his comment was, "It may be right, for all that."

At a dinner given by the Benchers of the Middle Temple, Lord Halsburg tried to make himself agreeable to Lord Young by praising the Advocates' Library at Edinburgh. "It is the best law library in the United Kingdom," he said. "Unfortunately we have nothing approaching it at the House of Lords." "That accounts for some of your decisions," was the prompt reply.

One of Judge Rentoul's predecessors at the Old Bailey, Judge Arabin, was even more severely glanged than the former judge by his legal brethren. The specimens of his judicial utterances, preserved in our legal records, show that Arabin deserved all he got.

"What can we think of a judge," exclaimed a Lord of Appeal, "who tells an elderly prisoner that it is in his power to sentence him for a period very considerably beyond the term of his natural life, but that he will mercifully impose a sentence of fourteen years instead?"

Another of Arabin's judgments, quoted in the Court of Appeal, contains a still greater absurdity. He told the prisoner: "There are mitigating circumstances that induce me to give you a chance of redeeming a character that you have irretrievably lost."

The neatest thrust ever delivered at the bench came from a barrister, the victim being Sir Arthur Kekewich, who was notorious for having his judgments reversed in the Court of Appeal. To show that he was compelled to decide against a trustee in a case before him, the judge said: "I am myself a trustee. If ever I committed such acts I should be compelled, if they were brought to my notice in court, to give judgment against myself."

"But your lordship would appeal," remarked counsel for the trustee.

Huns Well Treated.

German prisoners of war interned in the Isle of Man have given tangible proof of their appreciation of the interest taken by the Bishop of Sodor and Man (Dr. Denton Thompson) in their spiritual welfare.

On the occasion of the last service he conducted they presented him with an illuminated address, which read:—

"A token of our lasting appreciation and sincere gratitude for the many blessings received from his encouraging addresses in the camp. The lofty ideals and high aims which he always so untiringly and masterfully held up before us have proved to many of us to be an unfailing source for reflection and aspiration. We wish him all happiness, and pray that God's blessing may be upon his labors in the Master's vineyard."

The address was artistically executed in black and gold by prisoner artists.

Bitter Tea Expresses Disapproval.

The etiquette observed in tea drinking in China is very curious. If a lady asks you to drink tea with her — and especially if the tea be sweetened—you can count yourself as well received and much loved. If she does not like you, the tea is bitter, and report has it that in cases of this sort drainings are often used. After one sip of such tea the unliked visitor makes a prompt exit!

When paying a call; if the servant should bring in a cup of tea there is no need to take any particular notice of it. Allow the servant to place it where he likes near you, and continue your conversation as though nothing had happened. If your business is pleasant and agreeable to the mistress or the master of the house, he or she will pass the beverage to you; if not, you are expected to leave it untouched, otherwise you are likely to have a quarrel on hand, and a Chinese quarrel —either with a man or a woman— is unpleasant.—Tit-Bits.

A Familiar Phrase.

"The sun never sets on the British Empire" is the proud boast of the modern Englishman. The expression is found in Schiller's "Don Carlos," in which Philip II boasts, "The sun never sets in my dominions." The boast was a common one of the Spaniards of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Headache.

An American physician recently addressed a congress of doctors, in which meeting he condemned the use of medicine to quiet headaches without attempting to discover their cause.

Many forms of headache are susceptible of prompt relief or entire cure by timely and sensible regulation of the life of the patient, his habits, surroundings, influence of occupation and by the correction of diseases and disorders on which the headache depends. In these various ways may be influenced the headaches of indigestion, biliousness and constipation, of cerebral overwork and emotional excitement, of insolation and eye strain, of many cases of debility, of bad ventilation, malaria and overstimulation of various sorts, of uterine and ovarian disease and of chronic blood diseases.

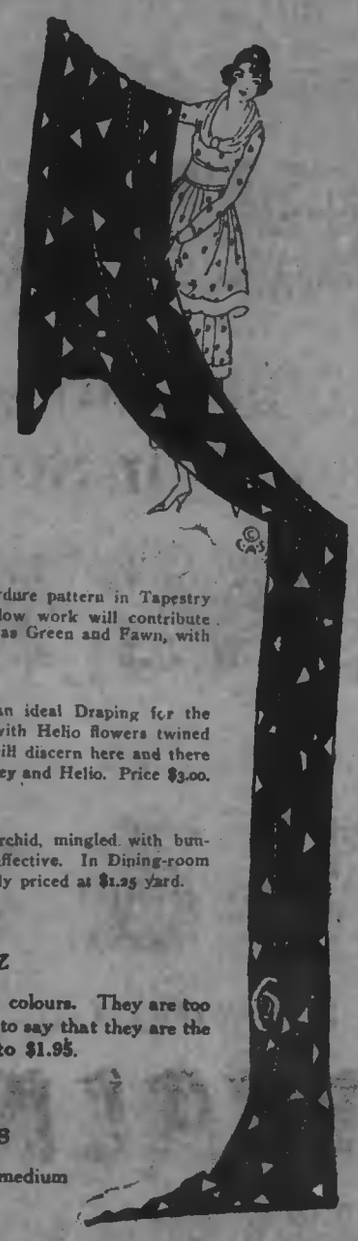
Tapestries, Chintz, Curtains, Nets, Etc. To Gladden, Enliven and Enrich Your Home

Whether It Be Cottage or Mansion

Just the other day these tapestry patterned shadow cloths arrived, resplendent with masses of gaily tinted flowers and foliage and unpretentious subdued tones that portray the dense intricate foliage of a jungle. Then there are genuine tapestries, curtains and nets that will contribute greatly to the room—no matter where its location or what its use.

Fifty-inch Shadow Cloths



If you prefer your Bedroom or Sun Room as bright as sunlight can make it, your Windows and Upholstering must be done accordingly, and this Shadow Chintz, with its light ground, wide misty Black stripes, clusters of Rose and delicately tinted foliage, will create a most desirable harmony. Price $3.50 yard.

Another suitable for Bedroom or Sun Room possesses a light ground, and presents itself in stronger, bolder colours, with huge flowers, whose centres are Rose, and shade to a deep, rich Red at the petals' edge. Vines run here and there throughout the pattern. Price $1.75 yard.

This Tapestry-patterned Shadow Cloth offers an interesting study—it is such a medley of Sea Green Vines, Lavender Flowers in bud, full bloom, and falling petals, and mingled with all are bunches of Grapes in dull Fawn tones; but Lavender and Green predominate throughout. Such a note of refinement and light airiness prevails that it suggests itself for Breakfast-room, Bedroom, or Sun Parlour. Price $2.00 yard.

If your colour scheme is Pale Green or Fawn, this verdure pattern in Tapestry effect, with the misty appearance so characteristic of shadow work will contribute greatly to the effect. It is a floral pattern in pastel shades, as Green and Fawn, with ever so little Black. The Price is $3.00 yard.

A dark tone Tapestry Shadow Cloth that will make an ideal Draping for the Living-room or Den. The ground is a dull Grey, littered with Helio flowers twined with Grey and Brown foliage; and if you look closely you will discern here and there a bird with much plumage. The predominating colours are Grey and Helio. Price $3.00.

A Floral Chintz on Navy ground, with vistas of Pink Orchid, mingled with bunches of Helio Violets and Grey Vines. The result is very effective. In Dining-room or Living-room it will achieve a notable success. Moderately priced at $1.25 yard.

Single Width Chintz

A choice of a multitude of patterns, light and dark colours. They are too numerous to describe in detail, but we do not hesitate to say that they are the finest range ever shown in this city. Priced from 69c to $1.95.

Fifty-Inch Tapestries

A wide selection of floral and verdure patterns in light, medium and dark tones. Priced from $2.75 to $7.50.

This Chinese patterned madras furnishes a pleasing relief from floral verdure designs. The ground work is black and the quaint Chinese pagoda, figures and scroll work are in grey. The width is 50 inches and the price is $1.50 Yard.

This number is a rich shade of brown and the design is conventional with a square panel pattern, edged with open work floral effect and the centre open work outlining a floral medallion. The width 50 inches and the price is $1.85 Yard.

NOTES OF THE ELECTION

A Night Worker.

One man who has resided in the city for three years and whose parents were United Empire Loyalists, discovered that he was not entitled to a vote when he reached the polls this morning. For some reason or other his name was not on the list. A friend advised him to demand a vote by being sworn in but this advice was not acted upon for the reason that it is not accepted in practice. This particular citizen had a vote at the last election and he concluded that he would be similarly favoured on this occasion. He works thirteen hours every night and consequently found it difficult to get out in the daytime in order to get his name on the list.

Enumerator Called

Another would be voter was surprised when he learned that his name was not on the list. The enumerator called at his house and secured his complete family history. The enumerator forgot to take his victim's fingerprints but he did forget to put his name on the list and one whole family was left off the list as a result.

"That's a proper game!" was one elector's disgusted exclamation when he looked in vain this morning on three different lists for his name, and finally decided that by the enumeration system he had been disfranchised. "Why I've voted here for ten years," he said. There are probably many others who discovered to-day that they had been overlooked by the enumerators.

The employees of the Quaker Oats Company were given two hours at noon to enable them to cast their votes.

IN WEST WARD.

Up to noon to-day the vote in the West-end was considerably smaller than was at first expected, and the workers for jitney, runners for all parties found getting the women to leave their house work and come out a more difficult task than was anticipated.

THE ITALIANS.

At Routley's and at Lynch's, scrutineers posted outside the polls had considerable trouble with the Italians, who not only all wanted to get in first, but wanted no interruption to their progress once inside, where they were intercepted to swear.

At both polling sections the scrutineers found it no easy matter to identify most of the voters by the manner in which their names were spelled.

A SODEN VOTE.

At Paskins' store, the second vote polled was cast for R. J. Soden by Mr. MacGregor, editor of the Review, who claimed he could not settle down to work until he had voted.

A BIG RUSH.

At Dawson's store, so great a rush was made to vote that a line of waiting would-be voters reached half the length of the block, and at a late hour this afternoon it was feared that, with the mix-up two sets of scrutineers made, the whole vote could not be taken before closing the polls.

THANKS, OLD TOP!

The women take so long to thank the men who drive them to the polls that I don't see how we are going to bring them all down, one scrutineer remarked at Cowling's store on Charlotte Street. There, like all the rest of the West-end divisions, the voting was not rapid.

HAD NOT VOTE.

The Y.M.C.A. to-day is humming with activity. It is headquarters for the Referendum Committee, with Mr. A. B. Cunningham in charge. People are continually going and coming, and many are the laments that their names are not on the list. Many people whose names are not on the lists did not take the trouble to inquire when the lists were open, with the consequence that in a short time this morning thirty people found that they could not vote on either the Referendum or elections.

Mrs. James Kendry, Mrs. A. J. Thomas, and other strenuous workers for the cause of temperance were on hand early this morning at the "Y" to take chrage.

WILL WE HAVE A SEVEEE WINTER?

Some weeks ago the Examiner published an item, headed "Severe winter is predicted by weather sharp." The item reads as follows:

Prof. Albert F. Porta, a weather prophet living in St. Paul, Minn., makes some dire predictions concerning next winter. He says:

"Owing to a strange grouping of six mighty planets, such as had not been seen in a score of centuries, the United States next December will be swept by the most terrific weather cataclysm experienced since human history began.

"It will be caused by the hugest sun spot on record—a sun spot that will be visible to the naked eye.

"Since man first began to make records of events no sunspot has been large enough to be seen without the aid of instruments. This one will be.

"The sunspot theory appears December 17, 1919, will be at least would in the side of the sun.

"It will be a gigantic explosion of flaming gases, leaping hundreds of thousands of miles out into space. It will have a crater large enough to engulf the earth much as Vesuvius might engulf a football.

"Such a sunspot will be rich enough in electro-magnetic energy to fling the atmosphere of our planet into a disturbance without precedent or parallel.

"There will be hurricanes, lightning, colossal rains.

"It will be weeks before the earth will regain its normal weather conditions.

"There will also be gigantic lava eruptions, great earthquakes, to say nothing of floods and fearful cold."

The item in question aroused considerable interest and one reader of the Examiner sent it to Professor C. A. Chant, of the Astronomical Department of the University of Toronto, and in return received the following interesting reply:

Dear Sir,—Referring to the clipping sent me I would make the following remarks:

In the first paragraph the weather prophet says that the severe storm which he predicts will be "owing to a strange grouping of six mighty planets." The arrangement of the planets on December 17 can hardly be described as a "strange grouping." There is a fairly close conjunction of four of them, but it is not be considered as remarkable. Further, scientific men have made many attempts to trace a connection between our weather and the grouping of the planets, but entirely without success. No connection whatever has ever been demonstrated. But in contradiction to the statement about the planets, the next paragraph says: "It will be caused by the hugest sun spot on record." He is afraid the planets may fail him and wants also to tie up to the sun. He also says that hitherto no sun spot has been large enough to be seen without a telescope. In this he is entirely in error. Such a phenomenon is not uncommon; I have seen several myself.

Without doubt there exists some relation between sun spots and terrestrial phenomena, such as the aurora and the earth's magnetism, but no direct connection with our weather has been proved. However we do know something about the occurrence of sun spots. They follow a sort of cycle. At the present time they are diminishing in numbers and although it is possible, yet is not probable, that there will be a huge spot to be seen on the sun on December 17. We shall see. If it does come it will not seriously affect our weather.

The whole article appears to be an attempt to achieve notoriety and perhaps a few dollars by supplying sensational news to a newspaper syndicate.

You may use this letter as you may think best.

Very sincerely yours,
C. A. CHANT.

ENTIRE FAMILY IS GRATEFUL FOR IT

FRIENDS SAY THEY NEVER SAW SUCH A CHANGE IN ANY ONE AS TANLAC MADE IN MRS. SPRUITT.

"My friends all declare they never saw such a wonderful change in anybody as they have in me since I began taking Tanlac," said Mrs. Martha Spruitt of 290 Runnymede Road, West Toronto, Ontario.

"Two years ago," she continued, "I suffered such a serious breakdown that I had to be taken to the hospital. I was there for several weeks under treatment but got no better. They took me home again and I was almost as helpless as a child. I had no appetite and my nerves were in such a wretched state that I couldn't stand any kind of noise. My friends said that they never expected to see me recover and they even prepared my daughter to look for the worst at any time.

"Nothing I took did me any good, and after hearing so much about Tanlac I decided to try it and it was not long before people began talking about my big improvement. I eat most anything now and my food is doing me good. My nerves have become quiet and I sleep all night like a child. I am getting stronger and better every day and all my family feel so grateful for what Tanlac has done for me that we are praising it all the time."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Limited; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

CHARLES GARSIDE KNOCKED DOWN

PIECE OF STICK FORCED THROUGH BOY'S TONGUE.

On Saturday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock Charles Garside, the four-year-old son of Mr. Berdine Garside, 300 Dalhousie street, was seriously injured when a horse knocked him over, kicking his head.

The little boy had just run out of his home to play on the sidewalk when a passing horse took fright at Dunsford's car and ran away. Its course was intercepted at a nearby lane at which the child was standing, and the animal jumped over the sidewalk, and in its wild course knocked the child over, the back of the hoof evidently striking the top of his head, from which the skin was torn. A gash, which necessitated the putting in of seven stitches, was also inflicted over one of the boy's eye brows. A piece of stick which the boy had been carrying was forced through his chin, pierced his tongue and his lower teeth struck with such violence his little teeth were forced up into the upper jaw. The wheel of the carriage passed over his feet, but otherwise than bursting his boots, did little damage.

King Billy and the Pope.

King William III and the Pope of his day were not enemies. In his book, "Revolutionary Ireland and Its Settlement," Rev. R. H. Murray, a Protestant writer, says that there was a special "Te Deum" of thanksgiving in St. Peter's at Rome in honor of the victory of King William at the Boyne in 1690. But the news caused dismay in Paris and rejoicing in the Roman Catholic strongholds of Madrid and Vienna. At that time France was the dominant power in Europe, and Louis XIV brought her ambitions to a climax. He aimed at the over-lordship of Europe; much as Napoleon did more than a century later, and as William Hohenzollern did in the past few years. He aimed also at a Gallic Church—a National Church of France—of which he was to be the head, after the manner of Henry VIII in England nearly two centuries earlier. In this aim he was opposed by the whole force, temporal and diplomatic, which was at the disposal of the Vatican. In his ambition to be an over-lord, Louis had bought the House of Stuart, and King James II was merely a tool in the French king's hands. When James fled to France, and his nephew and son-in-law, William Prince of Orange, landed at Torbay, matters came to a crisis. Louis planned to entice William into Ireland, and hold him there by a continual pretence at fresh invasions of the French army in full force, and so to wear him down in fruitless guerilla warfare so as to give Louis the chance of re-establishing his puppet, James, on the British throne. But the Battle of the Boyne defeated Louis' ambition. Had William lost the battle, the enemy would not have pressed home their advantage, but would have held him in Ireland while Louis worked out his scheme for shaking the Pope off the Church of France and for conquering the rest of Europe. But the battle—a decisive battle for the Pope—was won by William III "of glorious, pious, and imortal memory!"

Russia's Population.

By the latest census taken the total population of Russia three years ago was 178,378,800. The population of some of the largest cities was given as follows: Petrograd, 2,183,190; Moscow, 1,817,100; Odessa, 621,030; Kiev, 626,313; Riga, 558,000. Fourteen other cities in Russia had a population of more than 100,000 each.

DON'T JUMP TO CONCLUSIONS.

What is the difference between remedy and cure? Any disease which is liable to recur cannot be indefinitely "cured." You may dispel the germs from the system—but that is simply remedying it.

A man suffers for years with Rheumatism. After trying numerous treatments without success, he takes Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules, and is restored to perfect health again.

A year or so later Rheumatic symptoms appear again. What does he immediately conclude? That it is his old trouble returned; that the medicine he took had only a temporary effect; that he will never again be well. This impression is the one we wish to eradicate—because it is entirely false. Whenever Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules are given a fair trial they remedy Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Neuritis, Neuralgia, or any of their kindred diseases.

T.R.C.'s won't make you immune from the above diseases. They will remedy them and drive them from your system, but whenever you feel an attack coming on, start using T.R.C.'s again.

Baby Bear is Afraid of People

The smooth, hard, dustless road wound about through the sylvan depths of giant ferns and mighty timbers in a district round Spirit Lake, Vancouver Island. Far away a smoke smudge on the blue above the heaving ocean showed where a Canadian Pacific passenger liner was ploughing the heaving Pacific, bound for the Orient. On the right Spirit Lake gleamed in the bright sun. There was a gentle rustling in the darkness of the undergrowth, the ferns swayed gently. Then there came a sound of scratching and clawing, and finally the head of a three-months' cub rose alongside a great Douglas fir bole. As he cleared the ferns he paused and glanced eagerly about. He sought sight of his mother, who was so wrapped up in some luscious salmon berries that she had forgotten him. Higher and higher he climbed, widening his scope of view. Then came a terrible sound that paralyzed him where he clung to the ragged bark. It was the raucous challenge of a motor horn. Hugging the tree tightly he hoped to be overlooked. On the smooth road a few yards away there rolled into sight a terrible engine carrying ladies and gentlemen. He held his breath and hoped more strongly. But sharp eyes were peering every way from under the auto canopy and a scream of pleased excitement showed that feminine eyes had spied him. He hunched himself closer and bent his head on his shoulder to watch the awful creatures in the big iron animal that always had such a bad breath. A man crashed through the ferns and pointed a black box at him. The cub darted high in the branches of the towering fir tree. The bad-breathing iron animal then grunted several times and crawled swiftly away, and down from the dizzy heights the baby bear hastened his painful backward climb. Arriving at the base he found an anxious mother who had remembered her forgotten maternal cares and followed the scent trail of her pride and her joy. She nuzzled him all over in solicitude while he whimpered his story. Then side by side they waddled away deeper into the forests where motor trails did not exist and bears can live in comfort.

THE RECORD CONTRASTED

I was in conversation with a lady the other day and dropped on a sweet little scheme that is being enacted by the Tory machine for the purpose of catching the women's votes.

Our Conservative fjrends, banking on the hope that the ladies are ignorant of even the most recent political history, are issuing literature, which claims that the Hearst Government is the father of every good move in the temperance cause.

In fact they pose as being the only party which has done anything for temperance and that Toryism and Temperance are synonymous terms.

Now, the ladies are new in the field of politics, but those of them who read the papers know that until they were forced into taking action the Tory party was the hope and glory of the liquor interests throughout the entire province.

Gallantry obliges me to insist that all ladies are young, of course they are, but many of them are old enough to remember back to 1914.

In that year there was a Provincial General Election between the Tory party led by the late Sir James Whitney, and the Liberal party, captained by Mr. N. W. Rowell.

Before that election, Mr. Rowell had tried to induce Whitney to enact some legislation towards improving the License Act, but every attempt to interfere with the liquor monopoly was turned down by the majority which the Conservatives had in the House.

Then came the general election in 1914 when the Liberal Party went to the Country on the cry of "Abolish the Bar," and the Tory party went on the defensive without any particular platform.

Were they the advocates of temperance then? No, they were not only against the abolition of the "bar" but they went into the arms of the liquor party and secured the financial and vigorous assistance of that body to get returned to power.

And what has been the attitude of the Tory party since 1914? Sir James Whitney died and Sir William Hearst took the reins of office but not one single step was taken for temperance until—

Until the exigencies of war made it absolutely imperative if Canada were to do its duty in the munition shops, that the liquor traffic must stop! A cry was raised for prohibition, not from amongst the Conservatives, but by the country at large, headed by the Liberal leaders, with the result that Mr. Hearst brought up a war measure called the Ontario Temperance Act, abolishing the liquor traffic altogether and he had the solid support of the Liberal members in the House in passing it.

But that act was a war measure for war time only, and he pledged himself to submit it to a referendum after the war was over.

Now, ladies, to whom did he make that pledge? Not to the Prohibition Party. They did not wish the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act. By it they had secured prohibition and they were satisfied. His promise must have been addressed to the anti-prohibitionists then. Isn't that so?

And here is another point. The Liberal Party held a great Provincial Convention in Toronto at which, led by the lady delegates, the party unanimously passed a resolution—

"Affirming its attitude in favour of progressive temperance legislation to the fullest extent of the Provincial jurisdiction, and pledging itself to take all necessary steps to vigorously and effectively carry into effect the will of the people as expressed by the referendum vote."

There you are. A clear cut pledge to do as the majority of the people wish.

Where is the Tory pledge? They never held a convention. Why? Because they are divided amongst themselves and daren't hold one. Therefore the Tory Party is under no pledge to enact the will of the people and every single Conservative member returned to Parliament can vote for or against the will of the people at his own sweet desire. It is all very well to hear Sir William Hearst making laud and unctuous protestations as an individual regarding his intentions but we would like to hear an official declaration from the Tory party.

In fact of these facts which cannot be gainsaid, I cannot see how the Tory party can claim the vote of the true advocates of Temperance, and I don't think they will get it.—Parry Sound Star.

A LAURIER FOUNDATION.

Mr. Alex. D. Bruce, of Unionville, Ont., in a letter sent to a number of newspapers in reference to the memorial to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, suggests the creation of a Laurier Foundation "for the purpose of carrying on an educational work throughout Canada with the purpose of bringing the two racial divisions to a better understanding. A memorial of this kind would, as Mr. Bruce points out, continuously exert an influence for good, and be in keeping with the lifework of the great statesman.

Memorials are of two kinds—those which remind us that a man is dead and those which serve to perpetuate his life in the work which he lived to do, says the Canadian Courier in discussing Mr. Bruce's proposal. The bronze statue of Sir John Macdonald in Queen's Park, Toronto, is a very good reminder that the great statesman and Father of Confederation is dead. But there is no tangible memorial to Sir John that interests living Canadians except Confederation itself. Confederation as a political fact is a lasting memorial to Macdonald—along with Cartier and others who served with him in the great compromise. But there was and still is a greater federation to accomplish in the unity of Canada. Any monument to Laurier which does not merely remind us that he is dead must embody the great pivotal fact for which he stood, which was

The Spiritual Unity of Federated Canada.

This is a two-race country. The harmony of the two historic races in Canada is a necessary condition to the assimilation of all other races in a country which must depend largely upon the migration of peoples for a sufficient population. Laurier interpreted the genius of Anglo-Saxon ideas and British statesmanship. It translated both into his own academic and political career, as he remained a French-Canadian. Not all men, not even all Liberals, can be Lauriers. But all men can fairly endorse the effort made by a great French-Canadian to interpret in Canada the genius of the first Anglo-Saxon nation.

Having been in common with other papers sent the accompanying memorandum, we take the opportunity to suggest that Mr Bruce's idea is a good one; that there are a hundred ways of carrying it out, ninety-nine of which may be as good as the hundredth, which we hereby propose for purposes of discussion among our readers on both sides of politics:

That a good way to keep alive the best Laurier ideals in Canada would be to establish a yearly writer's competition, offering a prize for the best book of the year on some phase of Canadian development, in politics, in education, in scientific advancement, in music and art, in economics, in public administration, in civic betterment, in socialogical advancement, in the harmonious fusion of races with due respect to the national characteristics of each — and in any other subject which may seem to be of a suitable national character.

That the prize offered for the best book of the year in any subjects decided upon for the year should be $1,000.00.

That the book be produced one year in English and the next year in French alternately;

That the judges of French books should be of British extraction and the judges of British books should be of French—making necessary the very desirable translation of each into the language of the other;

That the book securing the award should be announced in all the newspapers of both languages friendly to the scheme, and that the names of all near-winners of the award should be also published;

That no book be given the award which does not measure up to standard literary qualifications;

That a committee be formed as soon and in as many parts of Canada as possible for the work of organisation and raising the necessary funds;

That for this purpose a provisional Laurier Foundation Committee be struck, consisting of these:

Hon. Sir William Mulock, K.C., M.G., Toronto; Hon. W. L. M. King, Leader of the Opposition, Ottawa; Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Montreal; Father J. E. Burke, of Newman Hall, Toronto; Hon. Sydney Fisher, Knowlton, Que.; Hon. George P. Graham, Brockville, Ont.; Hon. W. S. Fielding, Montreal; Hon. Sir Lomer Gouin, Premier of the Province of Quebec; Mr. Aime Geoffrion, Montreal; Hon. Dr. Beland, St. Joseph de Beauce, Que.; President H. M. Tory, of the University of Alberta; President Murray, University of Saskatchewan; Prof. A. T. DeLury, University of Toronto; Principal Wm. Grant, Upper Canada College; and the proposer of the memorial idea, Mr. Alex. D. Bruce, Unionville, Ont.

DRUGS EXCITE YOUR KIDNEYS, USE SALTS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water— you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

WEATHERLY HAD NARROW ESCAPE

LIVE CARTRIDGE WAS THROWN INTO THE FURNACE.

W. Weatherly, an employee at the incinerator, narrowly escaped death by accidental shooting last week while employed at his work at the plant. Upon opening the door of one of the huge furnaces at the lower floor, a cartridge thrown into the garbage by some careless citizen, exploded, the shot coming through the door with such force a large piece of brick was torn from wall. Had Weatherley not drawn aside when opening the door the shot would undoubtedly have pierced his chest.

ings at six a.m. (standard time) and 9 a.m. in all other parts of the province. This meant 7 a.m. in Toronto, where daylight saving time is still being used. At that hour there was at a large percentage of the polling booths in Toronto quite a line up of men and women awaiting the advent of the deputy returning officer and his staff, to record their votes. Indeed women were nearly as prominent as the men in the early hours at the polling booths. They were acting as scrutineers as well as voters and it was no ballot box secret that they were more posted and more interested in the referendum than in the general elections and as far as most of them were concerned the four no's had it. Independent opinion here and betting (of which there seems to be little this morning) is that the Conservative government of Sir Wm. Hearst will be returned with a largely decreased majority, due mostly to incursions of the United Farmers of Ontario. As to the referendum, opinion is considerably mixed. It is believed that voting all over the province will be generally four yes's or four no's; and that the split ballot voter has been in most cases won over to one side or the other as the result of the campaigns of the last week or two. Both sides of prohibition question express greatest confidence this morning and the leaders of all parties in the general elections are likewise in high hopes of success. The polls close all over the province at 8 p.m. (standard time.)

SIR H. W. BROWN HERE THIS WEEK

The story of the first non-stop, trans-Atlantic flight, to be told at the Grand on Thursday eve by the navigator himself, Sir H. W. Brown.

(Landed at Clifden at 8.40 a.m. Greenwich mean time 15th of June. Vickers Vimy Atlantic machine, leaving Newfoundland coast at 4.28 p.m. Greenwich mean time, 14th of June. Total time 16 hours, 12 minutes.

(Signed, Alcock and Brown.)

Such was the first brief and modest message flashed from the airmen in Ireland that startled the entire world. The complete tale of adventurous and amazingly hazardous enterprise was to be told to the world later, and for this reason the navigator, Sir Henry Whitton Brown, K.B.E., is making a limited tour of America— very few cities in Canada are to be favoured with this famouse airman's visit, and Peterborough is fortunate in being included in the itinerary.

Sir Arthur Whitton Brown tells details that are entirely unknown to us His story will be illustrated with slides and pictures, showing all parts of the flight that could be taken.

MABEL NORMAND IN "WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE" GOLDWYN PICTURES

AT THE GRAND TO-DAY AND TUESDAY.

MABEL NORMAND'S "GOINGAWAY" GOWN A SHOW IN ITSELF

GOLDWYN STAR'S COSTUME IN "WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE" UNEQUALED FOR QUAINTNESS.

With Mabel Normand the costumes she wears in her Goldwyn Pictures have a meaning all their own. She maintains stellar dignity—and lavishness— when playing such parts as were found in "Dodging a Million" and "The Venus Model," yet who can forget the sartorial outrage of her "Sis Hopkins"? She does the latter again in "When Doctors Disagree," her newest Goldwyn Picture, as she did in "The Pest." However, there is a difference both outward and symbolical.

Once more she is the comic village ne'er-do-well, but this time she has certain aspirations and a bit of sophistication. Millie Martin is sufficiently different for Mabel Normand to characterize her by means at at least one decidedly extraordinary costume. It is the girl's "going away" gown. It is most striking.

Millie has never been on a train and when business calls her father from Ferryville his daughter prevails on him to let her accompany him. All night she spends in "beautifying" herself with lotions and creams, preparing to don a costume which for quaintness has never been equaled.

As usual, it is difficult to describe. Its simplicity is baffling. The effect however, is simple in its laughter-provoking ensemble. Millie's dress is a rag bag in inspiration.

The material is striped sateen, made full and with a black ruffle on the edge of the skirt. An odd apron effect falls in front, also edged with a black ruffle. The waist is never seen because Millie wears a funny, tight little jacket with cuffs of sateen. A muff hangs by a cord from her neck and an old-fashioned tippet gives a finishing touch, enhanced by a stiff "sailor" hat with a fuzzy bit of plumage projecting from the front. Millie wears flat-heeled, button shoes and white stockings. She is as proud of herself as if she had emerged from a Fifth Avenue shop.

Beyond this Miss Normand had not much to think of in the matter of clothes. Millie's repertoire is extremely limited. But the sprightly funmaker gave a great deal of thought to her heroine's best dress. It was made by the studio wardrobe workers, who got the idea from Miss Normand's vivid description. There was no worry as over her "Sis Hopkins" get-up, yet the effect is equally laughable if not as grotesque. There is a charm and a certain wistfulness in Millie Martin and her little attempts at beautifying herself and her home which will be enjoyed when Miss Normand comes in "When Doctors Disagree" to the Grand Theatre beginning to-day and Tuesday.

"THE DUMBELLS"

That the performance of the famous "Dumbells," were appreciated by the boys in France, is amply evidenced by the following letter from General Sir Arthur Currie, which was written by him immediately prior to the commencement of the Canadian tour in their orginal overseas revue, "Biff-Bing, Bang."

The letter dated September 11th 1919, reads as follows:

Captain M. W. Plunkett,
O. C. Dumbells Concert Party,
Toronto, Ont.:

Dear Plunkett: It was with great interest and pleasure that I learned to-day of the projected tour of the Dumbells.

I cannot speak too highly of the part your party played in the necessary entertainment of the fighting boys in France and I feel sure that the performaces which met with such enthusiastic appreciation over there will be enjoyed quite as much by the "home folks" as well as by the returned boys themselves, who should welcome this reminder of some of the brighter moments of their wartime life.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) A. W. Currie.

"Biff, Bing, Bang," will be the attraction at the Grand for Friday and Saturday, matinee Saturday.

"CHOOSING A WIFE" IS DRAMATIC PRESENTATION OF MAN'S GREATEST PROBLEM

Is Surprising Story of Woman whose Belated Happiness in Marriage Offer is made Bitter by Girl.

The question of whether an elderly man of means and vigorous health should seek a young girl in the first blush of beauty or a woman of maturity and ripened mentality for his wife is surprisingly treated in "Choosing a Wife," which will be seen in the Allen Theatre to-day and to-morrow.

Barbara Blossom, daughter of a wealthy man, is loved by a young minister. But she is flattered by the attentions of Andrew Quick, a scientist about to leave to explore in the South Sea Islands. To Barbara's aunt, Quick confesses he is in love, and wonders if he dare speak to the woman, knowing she will have to wait until his return for marriage.

Error Gives Aunt Happiness.

Explaining no further at the time Quick later sends a letter proposing marriage. Through singular circumstances the aunt, Dorothy Blossom, gets the letter and is led to believe it a proposal of marriage to her. She accepts and all during the absence of Quick, who has many adventures on his trip, she prepares for their marriage.

Quick returns and the mistake is explained in a series of highly dramatic scenes. The question of what a man's choice in such a case should be, and how the oldest woman should regard the younger one, who is able to win out because of the talisman of youth, is convincingly and realistingly handled.

"Choosing a Wife" is dramatic, and gives a positive answer to a question daily becoming more significant as advancing living costs make more men bachelors until late in life when they are called upon to choose between the woman in the flush of youth, and the older woman of richer mind.

MARIO VALLE, Baritone, San Carlo Opera Co., at the Grand, Wed., Oct. 22nd.

CONDUCTS OPERAS WITHOUT SCORE

MUSICAL DIRECTOR WITH SAN CARLO COMPANY HAS REMARKABLE MEMORY.

Signor Gaetano Merola, late musical director of the London (Hammerstein's) Opera House, but now chief maestro with the San Carlo Grand Opera Company, to visit here, Wednesday evening, is an Italian by birth. He was born in Milano, and from early childhood displayed a remarkable memory. This faculty so developed in the young man that well-known musical authorities took a hand in his development and furnished him the means for pursuing his cherished hobby. Today Signor Merola enjoys the distinguished ability to direct upwards of fifty grand operas without the use of the score.

Following his splendid successes at the London Opera, Merola journeyed to America to conduct the Hammerstein performances at the Manhattan Opera House, New York, when that institution became active in opposition to the Metropolitan. In New York Signor Merola repeated the successes he had scored in the English metropolis, creating a marked impression with the seasoned opera enthusiasts there by his wonderful ability to inspire and control the forces under his baton.

In securing Merola as first conductor of the San Carlo company, the management once more discloses its ever foremost aim to make this organization the most artistic and complete ever assembled for touring purposes. Merola's memory is by no means confined to affairs musical, for it was noted that when he inaugurated the San Carlo engagement in New York in September he had been with its forces but three days when he could call every one of the more than hundred members by their first names. He is the envied possessor of many valuable tokens of admiration and esteem presented him by eminent personages in recognition of his brilliant displays of memory in directing the operas.

E. K. LINCOLN STARRING IN "VIRTUOUS MEN"

THE BIGGEST MELODRAMA OF THE SEASON.

One of the biggest melodramas of the season, "Virtuous Men," produced by the newly-formed SL Pictures, and starring the popular E. K. Lincoln, will be shown as a star attraction at the Allen Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday.

"Virtuous Men" was written by Arthur Sawyer, together with Ralph Ince, who also directed the production, which is itself a guarantee of being a production of the better class. It presents a virile, fighting tale of the lumber camps and shipyards, in which Bob Stokes is the principal figure. Stokes drifts into a lumber camp in the northern part of New York State and secures employment. Brummon, the boss of the camp, immediately becomes his enemy, for he sees in Stokes, the "makings" of a real man. And Brummon has his reasons for not wanting any real men about the place.

It is only a short time before Stokes makes himself felt in the camp. Brummon is there for a sinister reason, and one night after passing out liquor to the men, he stirs them to rebellion, preaching to them about being underpaid and overworked. Bob takes the mob in hand and appeals to its patriotism to finish the job. The lumber is needed for ships that are being built for the government. And he is successful in his plea.

After that the scene shifts to the shipyards, where Bob again comes in contact with Brummon's gang, known as the Red Radicals. After many thrilling fights he finally triumphs in the cause of justice.

"Virtuous Men" is filled with the most thrilling and spectacular sort of action. There are many fights, both personal and mob, while the scenes in the shipyards show masses of men at work on the construction of vessels. While a few patriotic scenes are shown, "Virtuous Men" is not a war picture—has nothing to do with the war, with the exception of showing the great need the governments had of speeding up production. Many of the forest scenes are taken in the Canadian lumber regions.

Mr. Lincoln is supported by an exceptional cast headed by Grace Darling, Clara Joel, Robert Cumming, John Wade, William B. Mack and Danny Hayes.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

MY SOLDIER GIRL

"My Soldier Girl", the bright musical comedy seen here earlier in the season played a return engagement at the Grand on Saturday to appreciative audience both at matinee and evening performances. Distinguished visitors on Saturday night were Tris Speaker and Leslie Nunamaker, the well-known American League ballplayers.

The production confirmed the impression made on its previous visit. Miss Dorothy Garrigue again carried off the honors by her magnificent singing, her rendition of "Annie Laurie" and "Dear Old Pal O' Mine" delighting the audience. Billy Moore and Billy Murphy proved two most capable fun-makers. The music throughout was bright and catchy and the production moved at top speed.

NOW IS THE TIME of the year when it is necessary to start fires in the furnace and range, the same to be kept up for the next six months, day and night, whether you are on hand to look after them or not. It is important to see that everything is kept in good condition to avoid accidents which may occur, and also more important to see that your fire insurance is in force and in a good company. Do not delay to get your policy made out and in your possession. You never know when or where a fire is going to break out. Be prepared for it at all times even if it never happens. The cost of maintaining a good policy is very small if you let us write it. But your protection will be perfect, and your loss, should one occur, promptly settled. The leading British, American and Canadian companies represented. Call or phone. Your order will receive immediate attention.

BLOOD TRANSFUSION

(By DR E. V. FREDERICK)

Owing to the great public interest in the subject of blood transfusion aroused by the newspaper reports of the Chicago cases of Mercury poisoning and by several local cases, we have asked Dr. Ernest V. Frederick of this city, who has had a great experience with this matter, to give us a short article on the subject.

"This article is written for the purpose of public instruction because I think it is the duty of men in any walk of life to inform their fellow men concerning any line of knowledge which is of general benefit.

It is believed by many doctors that there is as much need of the co-operation of the public in this great life saving discovery as there is need of co-operation between the public and the law and judiciary in preservation of morality, or between the public and the fire department in the protection of property. The fire department, the police and the medical profession, exist mainly for the specialized handling of crises in the life of organized humanity. A crises is that series of circumstances which arise occasionally in our life when we are at our wits end to know what to do or where to turn for help. It is at the time of these crises in life as a result of accident or disease that medical men resort to transfusion of blood from human being to another.

Two Classes

We can divide mankind into two classes. One class who by accident or disease has lost most of their blood, and the other who have a normal amount or even too much.

Formerly transfusion came into disrepute owing to the bad results which occasionally followed its use. Now we know the reason of this and can avoid it.

All people fall into one of four groups according to certain substances in their blood called agglutinins. If a man is transfused with blood from the group which does not suit his own the result is harmful

That is the reason why it is necessary to get the public interested in this subject so that all people in a community, who have too much blood and to whom the loss of a pint or so would be beneficial, may be grouped or classified so that in case of urgent need we will know on whom to call for help.

One can best explain this by describing the arrangement in the city of Rochester, Minn., with 15,000 of a population.

There they have 300 people whose blood has been tested and classified, and lists of these are kept in the hospital. When an emergency arises demanding transfusion, a nurse calls up a "donor" of the right group and he or she hurries to the hospital with the speed of a fire engine. It only means the inconvenience of a needle prick and the patient's life is saved and the healthy "donor" makes up the loss of blood in a few days.

The medical profession of Peterboro are striving to develop the same thorough system here. A certain amount of education of the public is necessary to get the public sympathy to make the system efficient. There seems to be a slight public nervousness against it, but there is no ground for that under modern scientific methods. The loss of a pint of blood is not detrimental or harmful to the giver, but is the means of saving the life of a friend or valuable citizen. In the army, blood was obtained whenever it was possible and kept on ice to be used as occasion arose, and later this system will doubtless be adopted in our civil practise.

CANUCK SOLDIER BRUTALLY MURDERED

MUTILATED CORPSE FOUND IN ARIZONA.

(Special to The Examiner.)

HAMILTON, Oct. 18.—Shot in the back, his head beaten in with a stone, and his body partly burned on a lonely desert, about 130 miles from Prescott, Arizona, that has been the fate of an unidentified Canadian soldier, thought to be named Fulton, and to have been a member of the 20th Battalion, C.E.F., recruited in Toronto.

A fire was made on and around the body, which was so badly burned that Sheriff Davis, of Prescott, found it impossible to recognise any details of the face or hair.

The man was dressed in Canadian uniform and the name Fulton was found written in indelible pencil on the inside of his trousers. What was left of the clothing was entirely uniform material, even to the C. E. F. issue of suspenders. A badge of C Company, 20th aBttalion, was found on the tunic. Sixty dollars in currency were concealed in the fold of one of the spiral puttees, and for that reason robbery was not considered as the motive for the crime. Some silver was discovered also in one of the trouser pockets.

The corpse was found by a sheep herder about two miles from an automobile road which passes through the desert, and was taken into Prescott, where it remains unidentified.

WAITRESS THOUGHT JACK DEMPSEY A SHIPYARD WORKER

SUNBURY, Pa., —There's one person in the world who never heard of Jack Dempsey, world's champion heavyweight pugilist. She's Miss Mary Smith, fair of hair and face, and a waitress in a local restaurant.

"Jack" rolled in late one night recently with a friend on the way to the vicinity of Wilkes-Barre, where he expected to spend a week fishing, he said. After separating a large-sized beefsteak from its bones and storing away a generous portion of other things good to eat. Dempsey insisted on tipping the young woman just 100 per cent. of his bill, which was $2.50.

In pop-eyed wonder she stared at this amazing stranger who would willingly give such a tip in these days of high prices.

"That's Dempsey," vouchsafed a friend.

"Who?" asked the girl.

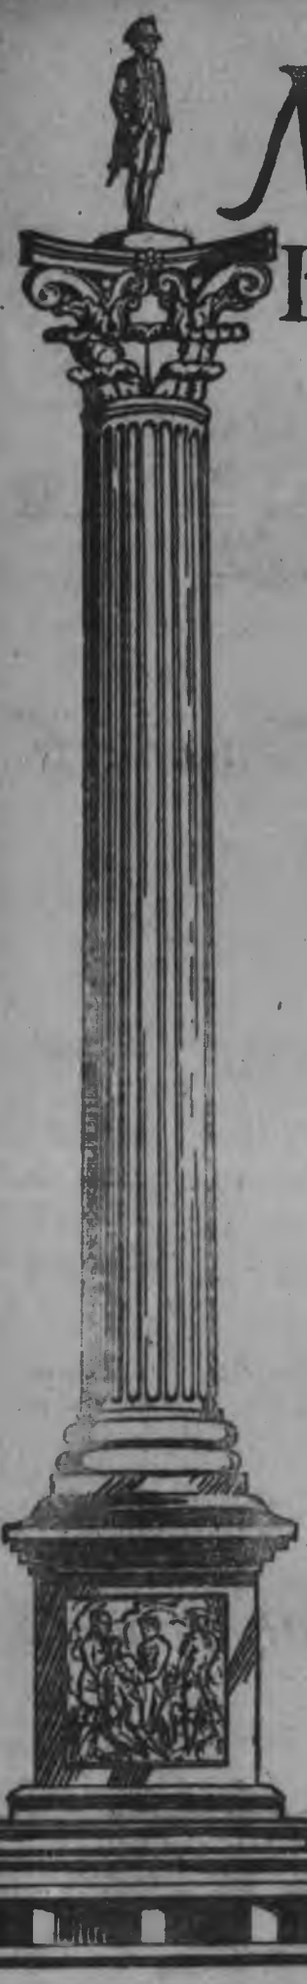
"You know, Jack Dempsey," he replied.

"Who's Jack Dempsey? I never heard of him. Is he some shipyard worker?"

Dempsey didn't hear it, and left soon in his automobile.

KRONSTADT IS CAPTURED.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The Daily Express Helsingfors correspondent says that Kronstadt has been captured after a bombardment by the British fleet.



Nelson Day
Its Message to Canadians

ONE hundred and fifteen years ago tomorrow Nelson achieved his great Victory at Trafalgar and decided Britain's supremacy on the seas.

Today we eagerly strive for the commercial supremacy of the seas, and to that end we MUST train our Canadian boys to man Canadian ships to carry Canada's exports.

Canada Expects that Every Man will do his Duty

Tomorrow and the two following days you will be given an opportunity to insure the success of the Boys' Naval Brigades, on which rests the continuance of the type of trained seamen Canada must have.

The Navy League Campaign for $500,000 must be an unqualified success so that the great work undertaken may be carried forward during the coming year.

Every dollar subscribed will be used in Canada to aid Canadians—to provide relief for Canadian seamen injured in the war and their dependents—to conduct comfortable homes on shore for our seamen in port—to organize Boys' Naval Brigades and give our boys the necessary training so that if they decide their livelihood is on the sea they will be ready for Merchant Service.

Tomorrow the campaign starts. For three days, many of our best citizens will give all their time and attention to the raising of the fund. Help them. Respond liberally. There is a great issue at stake. Do your part to the utmost of your ability.

VETERAN REFEREE ANALYZES BECKETT; DOES NOT CONSIDER BRITON CLASSY

CLAIMS M'GOORTY IS A SECOND-RATER AND HIS DEFEAT DOES DOT SIGNIFY THAT BECKET IS AMONG TOP NOTCHERS.

(By Jack Sheehan.)

"The money for a fighter," says Jack Dempsey, "is in fighting.

"I do not mind working at the various theatres as the job is interesting and does not, as a rule, require any hard work, but nevertheless my natural inclination is to meet the best that the Old Country has, and if the inducements are sufficient I will be more than pleased to meet Carpentier or Beckett either in France or in England.

Dempsey Better.

"There is no question but that the great American public would really like to know whether the Englishman, Beckett, is the better man."

The writer is of the opinion that Dempsey will have but little trouble in proving to the British sporting public that he is the master at the game of boxing. Beckett's performance against McGoorty, who he defeated in 17 rounds, did not impress the sports on this side of the big ditch as a very masterful performance and did not serve to enhance the reputation of Beckett as any wonderful job.

McGoorty as a boxer of the first class has never been recognised in America, and the best that ever could be said of him in the heyday of his fame was that he was a runner-up as a middleweight, but never by the greatest stretch of imagination could he be classed with any of the leading heavyweights of America.

If it took Beckett 17 rounds to dispose of Mac, I am firmly of the opinion that Jack Dempsey will wade through him like a house afire. Beckett, by this performance, did not, I think, make any forward movement toward the world's championship. On the contrary he fell back, and the American students of fistic form on that performance will, in the event of his matching with Dempsey, make the American champion an almost prohibitive favourite.

Just how good a man Beckett really is seems to be an open question, and it would appear to a man up a tree that the British boxer is in for one sweet and fast hiding if he gets afoul of the Colorado wild cat. Dempsey wants to fight, and will fight any man in the world if the man shows that he is of sufficient botton and has any real merit.

I am inclined to think, however, that Beckett will be instilled with the wisdom of "Dennis McBride" and pass up the world's champion as being too tough for him. A real good line on the Britisher could be had if the English promoters could be induced to match him up with our second string man, Fred Fulton who is now over in England seeking a match. If such a contest could be arranged and Beckett should be returned a winner we could then be sure that an international match that was worth while could be arranged.

Who Is Goddard?

The fighting career of Beckett briefly summarized thus far has been to seek and obtain a match with Dempsey. His defeat of Joe Goddard was sharp and clean cut, of that there can be no doubt, but the question has often been asked, "Who is Goddard?" And the answer is damfino. He was never heard of that I can remember and the only line that can be had on him was that he was in the army and had won a few pitch and toss scrimmages. He has as far as I know never shown any pugilistic class and was never heard of as a boxer in his own country. And it was on this one battle that the English champion was heralded as a fell swoop destroyer.

Dempsey will find plenty ready money backing if he should decide to cross the pond and meet up with any of the present crop of fighters who now adorn the ring. It would seem to a good prudent pugilistic manager like Jack Kearns to pass up the trip over the sea and stay in this country and make hay while the sun shines. The theatrical world offers to the champion more real money at this time that at any other period, and it would be unwise to forego the harvest that it offers to match up and take a chance

The sporting public of the world does not demand the match and will not until the Englishman can show more pugilistic class than he has done up to the present. Beckett may be a great deal better boxer than I have given him credit for being, but I am open to conviction, and if Beckett can prove by actual downright battling that he is all the English sports claim he is he can have the opportunity to prove it by matching up and defeating Fulton.

Fulton was defeated by Dempsey, and if Beckett can repeat the dose then the great American public shall call on our boy Jack to go over or offer a princely purse that might tempt Beckett to come over here In either event, the coin will be abundant to back Dempsey.

BEWARE OF TENDER, INFLAMED GUMS

Pyorrhea, with a premature loss of teeth, is almost inevitable if you do not properly care for your gums. Here is the explanation:

As you age, the body tissues naturally relax. You see this tissue loosening in the neck. It goes on in your gums, too. As you grow older, your gums shrink below the normal gum line. Through lack of care they become spongy and inflamed. Then you have Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease). Four out of five people over forty have Pyorrhea. And many under forty, also.

Don't let a tender gum spot develop. These tender spots breed disease germs which enter the system through tiny openings—infecting the joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments. Immediately get Forhan's, which positively prevents Pyorrhea if used in time and used consistently. Forhan's tones the gums and hardens them. They in turn keep the teeth healthy. Brush your teeth with Forhan's. It cleans them scientifically—keeps them white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment. 35c and 60c tubes. All Druggists.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our dear Mother, Mrs. William Fleetwood, died Oct. 21st, 1918.
In a near and silent cemetery
Where the trees their branches wave,
Rests a true and loving mother,
In her cold and silent grave.
She bid no one her last farewell,
She waved her hand to none;
Her spirit fled before we knew,
That she from us had gone.
When we leave this world of changes,
When we leave this world of care,
We shall find our missing loved one
In our Father's mansion fair.

DAWNING OF A NEW DAY FOR LABOUR SAYS T. TOOMS, M.P.P.

IS ELATED WITH LABOUR'S NEW SPIRIT AND GRATEFUL FOR SUPPORT RECEIVED.

"It's the dawning of a new day", said Mr. Thomas Tooms, M.P.P. to the Examiner at his home to-day. "Labour has used its potential power but not so fully as it could have done. The plurality for the Labour candidate was greater than I expected, but there never was any doubt of the result. It showed what the working people can do if we all stand together.

The campaign was largely educational rather than a matter of electing a Labour candidate. The results in the country were splendid and more than recompensed us for the time and the money we spent in meeting the farmers. In many rural sections they said that they had never heard Labour and general questions discussed as we presented them, and also that they had never seen them in that light before. In Ennismore they told me they never had such enthusiasm as at our meetings, and some of the electors in that township said I was another J. R. Stratton. They assured me that if I would carry out our promises they would always stand by me.

"There is no end to the aspirations of Labour. We are all looking forward to better social conditions for the labouring class and for a higher social standard."

Mr. Tooms said he deeply appreciated the support he had received. He intended to give the most careful attention to the trust the people had reposed in him and to the obligations of his position. The new M.P.P. is just as modest as ever, and this morning was out early working in his capacity as business agent for the Labourers' Union.

Mr. Tooms gave the impression that he regarded yesterday's victory as a triumph not so much for himself but for the cause for which he has worked ceaselessly since coming to Peterboro.

CRERAR MAY LEAD ONTARIO FARMERS

FARMERS HAVE RETURNED FORTY FARMERS AND ARE LOOKING FOR A LEADER.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Oct. 20.— Hon. T. A. Crerar, former Minister of Agriculture, left Ottawa last night for Toronto, after having heard the results of the Ontario election. While the primary purpose of Mr. Crerar's departure was to speak for President Halbert of the U.F.O. in North Ontario, where the latter is a candidate in the Federal by-election, it is stated to-day that the former Minister of Agriculture will confer with representatives of that body with regard to their further action in the light of the responsibility placed upon the farmers by the electorate in the Provincial election just held. The responsibility is none other than to form a government in conjunction with whatever body the farmers may desire to affiliate with.

While the farmers have returned over forty members to the Provincial Legislature, they have at present no leader. As above mentioned, their president, Mr. Halbert, is running in the Federal by-elections. It is now strongly rumored that Mr. Crerar will be requested to take an honorary seat with a view toward supplying leadership to the dominant group, if necessary toward forming a government from that and the other progressive groups elected. Mr. Crerar is a native of Ontario, having been born at Molesworth. He has had considerable Parliamentary and Departmental experience and the rumor is therefore taken somewhat seriously here. He describes himself in the Parliamentary Guide as a Liberal.

Latest reports indicate that all questions on the prohibition referendum have carried by large majorities.

More returns have been received from the East riding of Peterborough than the tabulated form would indicate. Many of the returns gave the majorities for E. N. McDonald, and consequently they could not be tabulated as the vote polled by Mr. Thompson was not given. The totals given above are more complete than the figures by polling sub-divisions.

THE DEFEAT OF THE HYDRO POWER KNIGHT.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, October 21.—The defeat of Sir Adam Beck in London is one of the greatest surprises in the day, says the Toronto Star editorially to-day. All over the Province it was assumed that this was something that could not happen.

It is not going too far to say that Sir Adam Beck could have been nominated in any one of a dozen other constituencies and elected against all comers.

He is without a seat in the House, for some years he has belonged to the Province rather than to his constituency. And the municipalities which are banded together in the Hydro undertakings will with one voice insist that he shall retain office and carry on.

The energy with which Sir Adam Beck has driven the Hydro enterprises along the way to success is so widely known and so generally admired, the confidence of the allied municipalities in him is so great, that the de-the special interests should have particular representation had much to do

If, as leader of the Hydro, he is out of politics, this may in course of time come to be regarded as the best thing that could have happened. It is, for instance, highly fortunate that his post is not a Cabinet one, a department of Government, from which he would necessarily go out along with a defeated administration.

STANDING OF THE VARIOUS PARTIES.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, October 21.—If the United Farmer candidates should vote in the House according to their former affiliations, the Liberals would have a slight lead in the Legislature. Several of the U. F. O. seats are doubtful, but conceding the election of 43 farmers, they would divide, according to their previous politics, as follows:

Former Conservatives 18, former Liberals 23, former Independents 2. Six ridings where a U. F. O. was thought to have won are doubtful. These are East Hastings, South Lanark, East Kent, East Northumberland, Russell, and East Simcoe.

Taking the standing as given early this morning, the line-up of Liberals and Conservatives of the U. F. O., noted according to their former politics, would be: Liberals 27, U.F.O. Liberals 23; total 50. Conservatives 26, U. F. O. Conservatives 18; total 44. Majority for Liberals, 6.

Another element that would come into play is the Labour Party, of which 11 or 12 are elected. In regard to the Labour men, it is claimed that most of them have always been pure Labour. This is applicable to M. M. MacBride, Brantford, H. Mills, Fort William, W. R. Rollo, Hamilton West, and C. Swaze, Niagara Falls. Peter Heenan is said to have been at one time a Liberal. Dr. H. A. Stevenson is also credited with the same inclinations. Should these vote on the old Party lines, the Liberals' lead will probably be increased by a small margin.

MAY FORM UNITED FARMER GOVERNMENT.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, October 21.—Beniah Bowman, the U. F. O. member who snatched Manitoulin from the Conservatives in the by-election over a year ago, is likely to be an aspirant for the leadership of the U. F. O. Party in the Legislature, and if chosen for the U. F. O. leadership, will be called upon to form a Government.

While Mr. Bowman is an aggressive fighter, it is not at all certain he will get the leadership, as among 43 U. F. O. members elected yesterday there are a number who appear to be more suited, both by education and political experience, to head the United Farmer Government.

Mr. Bowman's seniority in the Legislature, being the first U. F. O. man to sit in the House, may, however, bring him recognition for the leadership.

STEVENSON MAY LEAD THE LABOUR PARTY.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, October 21.—The leadership of the Labour Party in the Legislature will probably fall to ex-Mayor Stevenson, of London, who defeated Sir Adam Beck, although G. G. Halcrow, East Hamilton, and J. B. Cunningham, of the Soo, who beat Premier Hearst, are also both mentioned.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS FULL OF SURPRISES.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, October 21.—Yesterday's election in Ontario was one of many surprises, due in the main to the fact that the Government was the victim of two landslides, one of the "drys" in the country towards the U.F.O. and the other of the "wets" towards the non-Government candidates. The Government fell between these two Governments in opposite directions.

Here and there, there were exceptions to the general movement; in most

MR. E. N. McDONALD,
The Successful U.F.O. Candidate in East Peterborough.

ANOTHER ELECTION MAY BE NECESSARY

MR. G. A. GILLESPIE CANNOT SEE HOW A GOVERNMENT CAN BE FORMED OUT OF THE PRESENT GROUPS.

"I appreciate the honour of being this riding's representative for the last five years and I trust that my services may have been of some benefit to the West Riding of Peterboro and the province," stated Mr. G. A. Gillespie, when seen this morning.

"Permit me to thank the electors for their support at the polls although not successful", continued Mr. Gillespie. "At the general result I am not surprised. I expected exactly what has happened and on all platforms I pointed out the need of the present time especially of sober, sane thought. I do not see any possibility of forming a Government out of the different parties elected. By the pledges of the U.F.O. and Labour (if they are sincere in their utterances) I cannot see how they can make any coalition with either of the old parties, and their forces are not strong enough to form a government against the two old parties.

"It is regrettable to think that Sir Adam Beck has been defeated, the man who has done more for the people than any other man in the province."

Mr. Gillespie then pointed out the great possibility of another election. "Adding the United Farmers and Labour and one Independent we have fifty six members and combining the Liberals, Conservatives and one Independent we have fifty five members. My view is that before we have a government we must again appeal to the country."

Roy Photos Appreciated

From the Royal Victoria Hospital, Barrie, comes the following pleasing testimony of Roy Studio high art photography, written by a nurse-in-training in that institution, formerly of Peterborough:

"Mr. Roy,—I am writing to thank you for the photos, which are very beautiful. All who have seen them highly praised your work, and wished they were near your studio to have some such lovely pictures taken. Indeed, I am greatly pleased with my photos, and my friends have been so insistent that I find I must increase my order."

SIR WILLIAM HEARST EXPECTED IN TORONTO TO-MORROW.

THE SITUATION

Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Oct. 21. — Sir Wm. Hearst is expected in this city to-morrow and will immediately meet his colleagues of the defeated Conservative government and formulate plans for future action, following the general elections of yesterday. Until this meeting is held and a statement given out the political possibilities of the Ontario situation are largely a matter of conjecture. Leaders of the United Farmers of Ontario who yesterday elected forty-two or forty-three members to the Legislature and have the edge on either Liberals or Conservatives in the House by fourteen or fifteen seats, are planning an early convention to set a course to be taken by this organization. Hartley Dewart, K.C., Liberal leader, said this morning that so far his party had made no plans for future action.

The Labour men, of whom there will be eleven in the new House, are energetically preparing to make their presence felt in the Legislaitve body.

The standing of the parties this afternoon appeared to be as follows: U. F.O. 42, Liberals 26, Conservatives 23, Labour 11, Independent Liberal 1, Soldier 1. (One seat here credited to the Conservatives appeared to be doubtful between the Conservative and U. F. O. columns). The constituency mentioned in the above list as in doubt is East Wellington, with Lieut.-Col. Pritchard, Conservative, and A. Hillyer, U.F.O., contending for the seat.

STATEMENT FROM MR. R. J. SODEN

Mr. R. J. Soden stated at noon to-day that if he had the election to fight over again he would do so with the same principles and would stand for four straight "No's."

He said that if the people are satisfied with the result he is likewise and added that they slew the only man who ever gave them prohibition simply because they differed from him in politics.

BECK ON JOB

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Oct. 21. — Sir Adam Beck was at his office in the Hydro Commission building this morning, wearing the same air of inscrutable nonchalance which he has borne through so many triumphs for the cause of Hydro. His defeat at the hands of a Labour candidate in London appears to cause him little or no concern, and immediately upon his arrival he busied himself with Hydro matters. Sir Adam declined to make any statement to the press, but there is reason to believe that he will continue in office as chairman of the Hydro Commission.

An Eye-Opener.

LONDON, Oct. 21. — Sir Adam Beck's defeat by Dr. Hugh A. Stevenson, Labour candidate, which turned his majority of 1,400 into a minority of 1984, startled London as bewilderingly as it did the rest of the Province, Labour's most optimistic supporters never dreaming of such a turn-over. To-day hundreds are asking: "What is the explanation," and replies cover a varity of reasons. Curiously, no one outside the city is willing to accept the real reasons, but all, believing the weird stories sent out and published by the Toronto Globe, are inclined to look for the hidden hand of London, Toronto and Montreal Corporation interests. The search is absolutely futile as Sir Adam would be the first to declare. Unfortunately he left the city, according to a statement made at his house this morning, and will not return before to-night at the earliest. Possibly some London financial interests may have helped quietly to bring about the result, but it can be said without any equivocation that Toronto, Montreal and other corporations kept their hands off entirely.

THE ARCTIC TERN.

Birds Are Greatest Daylight Savers In the World.

The greatest daylight saver in the world—the Arctic tern!

Many years before the Clumsy Mortal began to puzzle his brain with a scheme to utilize an extra hour of daylight, the Arctic tern had discovered how it is possible to spend over half the year in regions where the sun never sets. Could the above mentioned C. M. follow his example, the lighting problem would vanish into nothingness. And this is how the ingenious bird manages:

He has his summer home in the Arctic circle, the Land of the Midnight Sun, where, for many weeks, darkness is unknown. When he sees the sun making its way alarmingly near the horizon, finally dipping for a few hours each day out of sight, he begins to think of his winter home in the Antarctic circle, even though twilight and dawn still overlap so that it is never dark.

"This is God's own country in the summer, but it belongs to the Prince of Darkness in the winter," he says to himself, and bids Mrs. Tern and the children prepare for their yearly trip south.

Nor do they stop at Palm Beach, for the tern is one who does everything thoroughly. If he wants daylight and sunlight, it is not for an eight-hour day, but for the whole twenty-four hours. If he goes south, he stops barely short of the South Pole. It is an eleven thousand mile trip, but the Tern family are good fliers and can easily make two or three hundred miles a day without motor trouble.

By the time he reaches the Antarctic, he finds his home basking in the sunlight for virtually the whole day. About June 15 he is back in his Arctic home. His summer estate is on the most northern land in the world, as far north as he can find anything stable on which to construct his nest. So arctic are the conditions under which the terns breed that the first nest found by man in this region, only seven and a half degrees from the pole, contained a downy chick surrounded by a wall of newly-fallen snow that had been scooped out of the nest by the parent.

About fourteen weeks later, August 25, when the little terns are full grown, and have become experienced aviators, the entire family start out for that long journey to the regions of greatest heat, across the equator, and then on to the southern edge of the Antarctic continent. They probably spend a few weeks longer in their winter than in their summer home, and this would leave scarcely twenty weeks for the round trip of 22,000 miles.

In the north, the midnight sun, which has already appeared before their arrival in the middle of June, never sets during their entire stay at the breeding grounds. In their Antarctic sojourn the birds do not see a sunset for two months, and the sun dips only a little way below the horizon during the rest of the time, while broad daylight during the winter and summer, and with more daylight than dark during the spring and fall.

A second record they hold, as champion migrators of the world. In order to cover 22,000 miles of their round trip in twenty weeks, 150 miles in a straight line must be their daily task, and this is undoubtedly multiplied several times by their zigzag twistings in pursuit of food. What their track is over this great distance no one knows. The great flocks of thousands and thousands of these terns which range from pole to pole have never been noted by ornithologists competent to indicate their preferred route and their time schedule. They are slender and graceful, long-winged, and with irregular and hovering flight. First cousins to the gull, they are gray sea birds with red bills.

SERIOUS WRECK ON GRAND TRUNK NEAR REARBORO SUNDAY

A serious railway accident occurred on the G.T.R. on Sunday morning at about 4.30 o'clock on the Reaboro siding just west of the station. A mogul engine (1231) in charge of Engineer Chas. Golden and Fireman B. Watson, was on its way to Lindsay, when the engine and six cars of steam coal left the track, the engine being completely overturned. Fireman Watson was buried between the boiler and tender. His left arm and leg was burned by escaping hot water. His shoulder was also dislocated.

Engineer Golden was indeed lucky. When the accident occurred he was thrown out the cab window. His injuries consist of bruises and a few cuts.

The train was in charge of Conductor James McElroy. When the accident occurred he was thrown about the caboose and sustained a few minor cuts in the head. Brakemen Slater and Shuttleworth escaped unhurt.

The accident, it is said, was caused by a rail spreading. As a result of the wreck traffic was tied up badly. The Lindsay auxiliary and the Belleville auxiliary was hurried to the scene with all possible despatch.

Hundreds visited the scene of the wreck on Sunday in autos.

Fireman B. Watson, who is at present in the hospital, as well as the other injured men, were attended to by Dr. White, G.T.R. surgeon, who lost no time in reaching the scene of the accident after being notified.

PRESIDENT WILSON GETTING BETTER

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 21.—President Wilson's physicians were hopeful to-day that no further complications—like the gland swelling and indigestion from which he suffered—would develop to retard his progress toward recovery.

Both these ailments have responded to treatment and, it is believed, have been conquered. They may, of course, return, but the physicians believe this will be less likely as the President's general condition improves and his strength grows.

and Crow's Feet Quickly

If your face is disfigured with wrinkles, no matter what the cause, you can quickly dispel every line, even the most obstinate, by using a simple, home-made wash lotion. Merely dissolve an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel—ingredients found in any drug store. Bathe the face in this, and—presto!— you scarcely believe your own eyes when you look into your mirror and behold the marvelous transformation!

The remarkable astringent action of the saxolite so tightens the skin, wrinkles are literally pressed out. Best of all, this result is not purely temporary, for the lotion also has a healthful, tonic action, which tends to strengthen and tone up the weakened tissue, and added benefit may be expected with continued use. Use this once a day for awhile; it cannot injure the most delicate skin. The treatment itself leaves no trace —no one guesses the secret of your increasing youthful appearance.

VISCOUNT ASTOR DEAD.

Britain's Wealthiest Citizen, an Adopted Son, Passe Away.

LONDON,—By the death of Viscount Astor at the Western Hospital, Brighton, Britain loses one of her richest inhabitants. Viscount Astor, though born in the United States was a naturalized British subject. He was the son of John Jacob Astor, who founded the Astor fortune mounting far up the scale of the millions. At the time of his death, Viscount Astor held large properties in New York, but had bestowed upon sons, or otherwise, much of his English real estate. This was done, it is said, to avoid death duties, and to mitigate the pressude of immense income tax burdens.

GEE, BUT IT'S GOOD FOR A BAD COLD

Nothing Can Touch Catarrhozone in Curing Quickly

You may dislike taking medicine—but coughs are best cured without medicine. The modern treatment is "Catarrhozone"—it isn't a drug—it's a healing vapor full of pine essences and healing balsams. It spreads over the surfaces that are weak and sore from coughing. Every spot that is congested is healed — irritation is soothed away, phlegm and secretions are cleaned out, and all symptoms of cold and catarrh are cured. Nothing so quick, nothing so sure, so pleasant as Catarrhozone. Beware of dangerous substitutes meant to deceive you, for genuine Catarrhozone. Large size which lasts two months, price $1.00; small size 50c.; sample size 25c., at all dealers.

MAY GET MILLIONS FROM ASTOR ESTATE

N. Y. State Will Endeavour to Collect Inheritance Tax.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The state of New York will attempt to collect an inheritance tax amounting to millions of dollars from the $50,000,000 estate of William Waldorf Astor, who died Saturday in London.

Eugene M. Travis, state comptroller in announcing the intention of the state, declared that the one point on which hinged the effort to collect a tax was proof that Astor transferred his property "in anticipation of death." If this can be proven, Mr. Travis said, the state can collect.

"We can go back as far as we like in an effort to prove that the transfer was made in anticipation of death," Mr. Travis said. "We are, of course, handicapped in this as we must get our evidence from those close to Viscount Astor; from his own physicians, nurses, members of his family and so forth."

The Astor property in New York had an assessed valuation of $50,000,000 in 1916.

ADMIRAL'S GOOD STORY

How a British Fishing Smack Sank a German Submarine.

Many things had happened in this war, said Admiral Sir Henry Jackson at Leeds recently, which the public never knew of and never would know.

There were records of men who had been torpedoed five and six times!—one man seven times, and he wanted another ship!

The admiral told how some fishermen asked for a gun for their vessel, which wa sonly a sailing smack. A gun was mounted and concealed in the hold, to be raised when necessary. The ship had no motor or auxiliary power, and depended entirely upon its sailing.

It went in the usual manner to the fishing grounds and waited. Then a calm came, and a German submarine appeared nd commenced to destroy the ilect ship by ship. The crew of the smack lay low until the submarine came alongside to investigate her; then a whistle blew on board the smack, the bulwarks fell away, and the gun appeared. One shot was sufficient to finish the submarine.

A battleship of 25,000 tons, steaming 25 knots an hour, could not have done more.

REPORT THAT ESKIMOS IN DESPERATE STRAITS

DUNDEE, Scotland, Oct. 21.—The Eskimos are described as in desperate straits from lack of supplies in reports brought by the crew of the Norwegian steamer Mercurius which has arrived here from Cumberland Sound where they found the Eskimos resorting to ancient seal killing methods and melting up tin cans to make bullets.

The Mercurius, it was said, was only the second vessel to visit the Cumberland Sound trading post since the outbreak of the war.

THOMPSON'S DEFEAT.

...he farmers of East peterboro ...ved by the vote yesterday that ... want to be represented by a ...ber who lives in the riding.

A RECORD.

For the first time in their history the two Peterboros are not represented by either a Liberal or a Conservative member.

A REGRETTABLE DEFEAT.

One of the biggest surprises of the campaign was the defeat in London of Sir Adam Beck, running as an independent on his Hydro policy. There will be regret throughout the province among Liberals, Conservatives, Labour and United Farmers alike at the retirement from the Legislature of the Hydro knight, whose efforts on behalf of the public ownership of power and radial railways had stamped him as a friend of the people. It was against the wishes of the Independent Labour party that he was opposed in London, the local labour leaders there persisting in running a candidate against him. Local issues undoubtedly entered into his defeat.

THE REFERENDUM.

The majority of the people of Ontario are satisfied that the Province can get along without Government beer shops, beer saloons and Government liquor stores. The result of the referendum yesterday, although the figures are by no means complete, show that there was a negative vote on all four questions, the fourth question securing more support than the others. As expected, most of the cities gave a wet majority—although the vote in the larger centres was closer than was looked for. The smaller towns and all rural sections were strong for prohibition and the "No" vote they piled up easily saved the day for the cause of temperance.

Ontario is to be congratulated upon the result and the referendum committee has every reason to feel satisfied at the culmination of their campaign.

THE GOVERNMENT ROUTED.

The Government of Sir William Hearst appealed to the people of Ontario yesterday on its record. The answer was complete and crushing defeat for the Government—a defeat in which Sir William Hearst himself and half the members of the Cabinet lost their seats. From one end of the Province to the other, the Government candidates were buried under an avalanche of votes. In the rural ridings the standard-bearers of the new force in Ontario's political life, the United Farmers, wrested seat after seat from the Government

...hile in the cities Liberal candidates ... the representatives of the Labour ...arty, were chosen in ridings in ...hich the Government had had big ...ajorities in 1914, "Tory Toronto" ... "Tory Toronto" no more. In that ...itherto almost impregnable citadel ...f the Conservative Government the ...iberal candidates succeeded in ...inning five seats, while Sergt.-Major McNamara, running as a returned ...oldier, captured another, leaving ...nly four successful Government can...idates in the Queen City. Mr. Hartley Dewart, the Liberal leader, ...swamped George H. Gooderham in South-west Toronto and his running mate, Capt. Jack Ramsden, M.C., captured Seat "B" from Major McBrien. Lieut.-Col. Cooper, M.C. defeated the Provincial Secretary, Hon. W. B. McPherson, and Messrs. John O'Neill and J. W. Curry, the Liberal candidates in South-east Toronto, were triumphantly returned. In the rural sections seats that had been Conservative strongholds fell easily into the hands of the United Farmers. East Peterboro saw the defeat of James Thompson, M.P.P., and in East Durham J. J. Preston, who had represented the riding for eighteen years, was badly beaten by Staples, the young U.F.O. candidate. So, too, in both Victoria and generally through the Province. The verdict leaves no doubt as to the dissatisfaction of the people of the Province and the mismanagement and lack of energy and vision of the Government. The success of Opposition candidates no matter what label they wore, indicated that the administration had failed to realize its opportunities or to carry out the full measure of all its duties. No fewer than fifty seats previously held by the Government were lost in yesterday's land-slide. On the face of that figure there can be no other diagnosis of the situation than that the people of Ontario were satisfied that the Government, having been given a fair opportunity to make good had utterly failed to do so and that it was useless to expect more of them in the future.

THE LOCAL RESULT.

To the majority of the electors, probably to many of those who worked for his election, the success scored by Mr. Thomas Tooms, the Independent Labour candidate in West Peterboro, was undoubtedly a surprise. The Labour nominee easily headed the polls in a three-cornered fight, had a majority of over one thousand over Mr. Gillespie, while Mr. Soden, the Hearst standard-bearer, was nearly as far behind the Liberal candidate.

The triumph of the Labour nominee furnishes much food for thought. Comparatively unknown in the city and a complete stranger in the country, save for the few acquaintances he made during his visits to the rural sections of the riding in the short campaign, Mr. Tooms made a remarkable showing. It was conceded that he would poll a big vote in the city, especially in view of the proof of the voting strength of united Labour, as shown by the last municipal elections, but it was felt that in the country, Mr. Gillespie's popularity with the farmers would ensure his election. The Labour candidate, however, not only secured a much larger vote in the city than was expected, but made a surprising record in a number of the rural sub-divisions, notably in Ennismore, usually a Liberal stronghold, which on this occasion gave Mr. Tooms a big majority. The Hearst candidate, Mr. Soden, was never in the race, the first few polls showing that the victory lay between his two opponents.

It is evident that the Labour men were united on this occasion as never before in a political campaign in this riding. The old party ties were dropped and the old standards were deserted in favour of the new party. The strong stand taken by Mr. Gillespie and Mr. Soden on the temperance issue, too, undoubtely had its effect, and the Labour candidate, whose position on this issue was merely to pledge himself to carry out the will of the people, got the benefit of much of the anti-prohibition vote. It is but justice to Mr. Tooms to say that he did not make an appeal for that support, but under the circumstances it came his way, and was a factor in the result.

It is the first occasion on which West Peterborough has been represented by a Labour candidate. The Banks are ready to loan money on Canada's Victory Bonds.

Canada's Victory Bonds may be turned into cash at any time.

There is no other way in which you can invest your money with such absolute security—paying such a good rate of interest.

CINCINNATI, Ohio., Oct. 20.—Dr. Clarence T. Dr. Wilson also took occasion to declare that the "forces of reform are lined up for Sabbath observance."

BAB IS AT LAST CONVINCED THAT SOMETHING IS WRONG.

CHAPTER XCVI

I have heard people frankly envious of those with money even tho in every other way their own lives were far happier. That money alone never brings happiness I was fast learning, and I think Neil was also beginning to realize it. But it was his boundless ambition which kept him going, his determination to 'show people' that blunted his senses to all else.

In the morning I tried to talk to him, but elicted only short unsatisfactory replies. Finally I said:

"Mr. Frederick said such a funny thing last night. He said something about Mr. Scott being a very bad man to have for an enemy. I was awfully afraid you had done something to offend him by the way he spoke. You haven't have you?" Neil flushed and looked decidedly uncomfortable. I could have cried because his aunt just then came into the room, so making it unnecessary for him to answer.

"Please come into the library a moment Neil," I said as we finished breakfast. Without a word he followed me in. "This came yesterday." I handed him the bill which we had been asked to remit.

"Well, what of it."

"Nothing particular, only isn't it rather strange they should ask us for money when you think of how much we have spent with them?"

"Oh, I don't know! probably temporarily hard up and ask the ones they know can give it to them. I shouldn't be in a hurry to pay it."

He had not once glanced at the amount.

"I can't pay it Neil. You will have to look after it."

"You don't mean to say this bill is right?" It was an interior decorator's bill and expensive tapestries etc., were included in the items.

"Yes. I looked it over carefully. It is correct."

"Well he'll wait awhile for it, that's sure. I need every cent I've got just now." I wondered if he were going to 'buy Scott off' as Mr. Frederick had expressed it when I overheard them talking the night before.

"Neil won't you please forgive me—about that letter? You haven't kissed me since that day."

"I told you I didn't want to talk about it! I am disgusted with the whole business," and he flung out of the room and out of the house.

Aunt went out with the nurse and Robert for a morning walk. I ungrily accompanied her, but this morning I excused myself. I wanted to be alone, I must think. I couldn't bear to have Neil treat me so, neither could I bear to have him take the attitude that because I had done wrong, an unethical act, that I had no right to say a word no matter what he did. It made me feel like a stranger almost—and I loved him so dearly.

I sometimes have wondered what would have happened had I not loved my husband; how the tangle of our lives would have straightened out. But I loved him with the same adoring affection as when we were first married, added to which was the feeling that I must shield him from unjust or unkind criticism. The mother feeling women who love have toward their husbands.

I felt a crisis coming. Felt it and was powerless to do anything; even to analyze the feeling. Had it not been for the caution engendered by remarks I had heard or overheard Mr. Frederick make I should have gone on much longer in my blindly adoring way. But now I was convinced that something was radically wrong. That Neil had to say the least overreached himself. I still thought him the tool of others to a certain extent, but not as I had thought a short time back. These dinners and suppers, the tales of gambling, and of different women at Mrs. Orton's home had wakened a bitterness I could not overcome even by my love for him. Then that letter. If anyone should help a man to success, any woman, it should surely be his wife.

Once more I went back over my married life. Had I done wrong in refusing to receive the men Neil seemed to think necessary to his success. Had I been more lenient could I have gradually weaned him away from them, or would he have drawn me into the same sort of company Blanche Orton received for his sake. I knew Mrs. Orton well enough to be sure she did not really care for that sort, she was innately luxurious and refined. Yet for Neil's sake she had made her home a rendezvous for them. Would she have done it for anything but love? This question I had asked myself dozens of times. Never had I answered it. Mr. Frederick had hinted it was because she needed money. To me that seemed even more disgusting, the while I felt relieved that it might be so. One could forgive what was done for love—but to make one's home into a business place for the furtherance of—perhaps crooked schemes I could not understand.

I did not realize that the turning point was at hand. That all my theories, my entire existence was to undergo an upheaval.

The Sea—What It Means to You!

YOU would be surprised to learn how little many people know about the relation our prosperity bears to the problems of shipping.

With the exception of our purely domestic trade and that with our neighbors to the South, every dollar's worth of goods we produce must cross the seas, and so exports are largely the measure of our wealth as a nation. Submarine losses have placed a heavy premium on ships, so that we cannot rely on foreign vessels to carry our goods, but must build and MAN our own mercantile fleet.

Above all, we must see that CANADIAN seamen are available to man Canadian vessels as they become ready for our export service.

A Patriotic Duty
An Economic Necessity

The work of training Canadian boys for the sea is carried on by the Boys' Naval Brigades. Funds are absolutely imperative if the work is to be carried on and extended at this critical period. The appeal to the patriotic spirit is strong to give our lads a chance.

Help by giving—and giving liberally. Then help again by putting the great need before another. The Nelson Day Campaign is going to be a great success and it will be because of the loyal co-operation of public-spirited citizens like yourself.

What YOU do to-day counts much for Canada's future and your own! Assist generously.

Aims of the NAVY LEAGUE OF CANADA

To emphasize Canada's opportunities and responsibilities on the sea.

To raise funds for the relief of our merchant seamen, injured in the war, and for dependents of those who were killed.

SEAWEED TO BIND CONCRETE

Concrete dwellings of a remarkable type are promised as the very latest contribution toward the solution of the housing problem in England.

The new concrete may be described as one of the romances of modern invention. It possesses the magic of Aladdin's lamp, in that it supplies new things for old. It is not the concrete associated with ordinary building operations, but is something that would probably never have been discovered but for the war, which placed a premium on worse material.

Experiments showed that a substance—called concrete for want of a better word—could be produced from slag and other waste products and satisfactorily utilized in the manufacture of a new kind of brick or building block which would simplify building operations very considerably. The exact constituents of the new material are not generally known, but large quantities of seaweed are used as a strengthening and binding element.

Arrangements are now being made to put up a large number of houses composed entirely of this new concrete. A well-known architect has designed the dwelling, which will possess many novel features.

In the first place, the house will be made in sections, and when suitable foundations have been laid the sections will simply be bolted together—just as children fit together miniature houses with the toy bricks of the nursery. Doors, window frames, mantelpieces — all will be made of the same material. The window frame is a new idea in itself. The glass in one large pane, slips into a slot and the edges of the moulding are then turned over so as to grip it.

It is claimed that to mend a broken window constructed on this principle will be a very easy matter, and will not need the services of a glazier. All that will be necessary will be to cut a new pane of glass turn back the moulding, slip the glass in the slot and replace the moulding again.

A member of the firm which has arranged for the various patents involved says that so far as the interior is concerned the principle employed in the equipment of a passenger liner will be followed. The beds will form part of the fixtures of the house and will be constructed on the bunk principle, built so as to fold up into a recess in the wall. The same plan will be followed in regard to wardrobes, cupboards, wash basins, looking glasses and so on.

Hot water will be provided by a kitchener, and the rooms will be warmed by hot water pipes. The houses will have a living room, kitchen, scullery, the usual offices and three or four bedrooms. The new dwellings will be damproof and thoroughly warm.

Denmark's National Flag.

The flag of Denmark, a plain red banner, bearing on it a white cross, is the oldest flag now in existence. For over 300 years both Norway and Sweden were united with Denmark under this flag. In the year 1219 King Waldemar of Denmark, when leading his troops to battle against the Livonians, saw, or thought he saw, a bright light in the form of a cross in the sky. He held this appearance to be a promise of Divine aid, and pressed forward to victory. From this time he had the cross placed on the flag of his country and called it the Dannebrog—that is, the strength of Denmark. — Family Herald.

A NOVEL BREATHING CURE FOR THROAT & CHEST.

The introduction of Peps, the famous, new breatheable remedy for coughs, colds and chest troubles, has revolutionized the treatment of these ailments.

Previously, when suffering from any of these, it was customary to dose oneself with drugs, which were not only harmful, but practically useless, because, being generally in liquid form, they did not reach the lungs and chest, but the stomach.

Thinking people, long ago, realised that any remedy that was to reach the lungs direct must be in breatheable form, but for lack of a better treatment the old-fashioned method of swallowing liquids into the stomach continued until science overcame the difficulty by producing Peps. Peps is a breatheable medicine in tablet form and the new Peps treatment is so simple and inexpensive that it is within the reach of all.

You simply dissolve a Pep in your mouth, and the medicinal fumes, which are given off, mingle with the breath and are carried down to the remotest parts of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. These medicinal fumes are antiseptic, healing and strengthening. They stop a cough by destroying the germs which cause the inflammation and consequent irritation. They clear the breathing passages of phlegm—which makes them so splendid for bronchitis—and they soothe and strengthen all the delicate membranes of chest and breathing passages, fortifying them both against infection and sudden changes of temperature.

Peps are free from all trace of opium, laudanum, paregoric, or any other harmful drug, and are therefore best for children's coughs and colds. Write for FREE trial package.

THIS WONDERFUL MEDICINE PROVIDES a natural cure for coughs, colds, sore and relaxed throat, bronchitis, laryngitis, weak chest, catarrh, hoarseness, children's coughs and colds, croup and other throat and chest ailments.

PEPS "A Pine Forest in Every Home"

"T. C." of British Army Played an Important Part In Winning the Great War

A VIVID picture of Sir Travers Clarke, the British Quarter-master-General, is furnished by an ex-staff officer in the London Daily Telegraph. As a regimental officer in the '90s "T.C." never seemed to get an opening.

"Nor did his early staff work bring him much recognition. But an officer of his to-day, who was a clerk under him when he was first a staff captain, insists that he always gave the impression of great power in reserve. 'He believed in the British army, in hard work, and in himself.' That was the foundation of the career of a man who, once an opening showed, forged ahead with marvelous speed to his destiny.'"

Although it took him ten years to become a major, within the next ten years he had become lieutenant-general and quartermaster-general to the British armies in France. In this post he showed himself "a great leader of men and a superb organizer." To quote further:

"'T.C.' had the ideal personality for a military leader. You were always dreadfully afraid of him and sincerely fond of him. No general ever made sterner demands on his officers and men. If you could not stand up to a gruelling day's work and the next day's, until the need had passed, you were no use, and you moved on to some less exacting sphere. But you were working under a worker, and you found yourself part of a massive machine which was rolling flat all obstacles. That made it easy. Further, there was the most generous appreciation of good work and a keen personal sympathy. An incident to illustrate this: A very lame officer appeared on the staff one day.

"The cobblestones of Montreuil are hard going and this officer found the half-mile walk from G. H. Q. to his billet a painful part of his day. 'T. C.,' who could see a little thing as easily as he could see a million rounds of ammunition circulating up to the front, noticed the limping officer, who the next day heard from the A. D. C. to the general that a billet was cleared for him at the threshold of his office. That was a very little bit of 'quartermastering,' but it showed the leavening of personal sympathy and made hard tasks easy."

"T. C." had one inflexible rule to which there was no exception—the fighting man was to be considered first and last.

"In France he was quite willing that the staff should labor to the extreme point of endurance to take the load off the man in the trenches. He did not like about him men, however clever, who had not seen fighting. It was the first duty of the staff, he insisted, to enter with the completest sympathy into the feelings and the difficulties of the fighting man. 'Bad staff work mostly arises from not knowing the difference between an office and a trench,' was one of his aphorisms.

"Toward the end of the war, as we all know, supplies of comforts and luxuries distributed through the expeditionary force canteens became slender. There was trouble about distribution. The men at the bases did better than the men at the front line. 'T. C.' put the position right with one order. The territory we were holding was divided into two sections, one army areas, the other base and lines of communication areas. Luxuries in very short supply, such as chocolate and cigarettes, could go into the army areas only; napoo for the back areas. Of other luxuries one-fifth of the total could go to back areas, four-fifths to army areas. Always before the back areas had had the best of it. But Sir Travers Clarke was for the man in front."

His way of disposing of obstacles was to cut short, sharp lines through them.

"Once upon a time it was decided that it was impossible to keep up the supply of beer to the troops. The submarine menace was at its worst and beer was bulky stuff to carry across Channel. The War Cabinet regretted, but there it was.

"'T. C.' agreed. Beer was bulky, but more than nine-tenths of it was water. He leased breweries from the French in army areas, imported the malt and hops (which were not so very bulky), and the army still had its beer, and nine-tenths of the freight was saved."

When "T. C." took over the reins at the end of 1917 the British army was expecting a German attack in the spring. One reads:—

"It was a matter of working against time and working with a painful shortage of material, owing to transport and other difficulties. Barbed wire, wood, animals, forage, foodstuffs, all were short. Very early in the spring the attack came with a fierceness and a strength that was momentarily disconcerting. The position was saved with very little to spare. One of the great elements in its saving was a reserve stock of motors that Sir Travers Clarke had built up. They were needed, bitterly needed, for the railways, which had been put under 'civilian expert' control, could not suit the exigencies of a great military emergency.

"That crisis over, the Q. M. G., France, had to grapple with the big series of problems arising from the switching of French armies into the midst of ours and of the British armies into the midst of French; and, in addition, the equipping of our reinforcements and of the American army, which was rushed over to be equipped by the British forces.

"Then the final glorious work had to be done of providing transport and material for our victorious advance. This was the hardest task of all, and magnificently was it carried through."

Sun's Heat Forecasts Weather.

The little town of Calama, Chile is located in one of the driest regions on the face of our globe. Day after day, almost without break throughout the year, the sun shines from a cloudless sky. Weather of this sort certainly has no appeal for the average man; yet two scientists from the Smithsonian Institution of Washington, D.C., find it ideal. As might be expected, their task is an unusual one, involving daily measurement of the heat reaching Calama from the sun, 93,000,000 miles away. Despite appearances, the work is thoroughly practical, as a striking correspondence has been discovered between the changing weather on our little planet and the fluctuating value of this solar radiation. In fact the two observers already telegraph their results each day to the Government of Argentina, which makes them the basis of temperature forecasts for several days to come; and with such success that plans are now suggested for similar stations in other rainless portions of the earth, as in Australia, South Africa, Egypt and India. By co-ordinating such widespread observations, it is felt that remarkable results could be secured. —Popular Mechanics.

David Was a Wise Youth.

The ignorance of some elements of the rising generation as to the Bible is often deplored; but occasionally the young men of to-day display an aptness of comment on Scriptural subjects that is gratifying. Here is an example quoted by a subscriber of Outlook: The young artilleryman had said that Germany was a bully and a coward and carried her defeat in her make-up. The Biblical commentator instanced, as proof of this, Goliath in full armor parading up and down and cursing the Israelites, while the "young and inexperienced" David slew him with a smooth stone from the brook. To this the artilleryman rejoined: "Don't believe for a moment that David was ignorant or inexperienced. He knew perfectly the value of the projectile. He knew that armor and a spear with a shaft like a weaver's beam' were clumsy and useless offensives against well-selected and well-aimed projectiles!"

ONLY TABLETS MARKED "BAYER" ARE ASPIRIN

Not Aspirin at All without the "Bayer Cross"

The name "Bayer" stamped on tablets positively identifies the only genuine Aspirin,—the Aspirin prescribed by physicians for over nineteen years and now made in Canada.

Always buy an unbroken package of "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin", which contains proper directions for Colds, Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Joint Pains, and Pain generally.

Handy tin boxes containing 12 tablets cost but a few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer" packages.

There is only one Aspirin—"Bayer"—You must say "Bayer"

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assist the public against imitations, the Tablets of Bayer Company will be stamped with their general trade mark, the "Bayer Cross."

TESTING AIRMEN.

Those Who Have Played Games Generally the Best.

"Medical and Surgical Aspects of Aviation" is to be the title of a book which will appear presently in England, and, according to the London Times, the problem of the proper selection of pilots—which becomes increasingly important with the development of civil aviation—will be fully dealt with. The writer continues:—

"It has been written by Major Graeme Anderson, surgeon, Royal Air Force Central Hospital (a doctor in possession of a pilot's certificate), and to which Col. Martin Flack, Director of Medical Research to the Royal Air Force, and Major Oliver Gotch, physician to the Royal Air Force Central Hospital, have contributed chapters. Lord Weir has written an introduction.

"The author illustrates in a very forcible manner the results of failure to test the would-be airman thoroughly and to 'keep him fit.' The ideal airman must possess good health and a cool temperament. Men who have played games and led an outdoor life are given the palm. But there are exceptions to this rule. The author says:—

"'Every now and then one meets the type, with splendid physique and apparently unshakable courage, and finds that he learns to fly indifferently or is unable to learn at all; and, again, one meets the weedy, pale type, learning quickly to fly and turning out a first-class pilot.'

The tests which have been devised are of a very searching kind. The eye especially are subject to scrutiny. The author believes that the airman is, for the most part, dependent on impressions conveyed through the eyes to his sense of balance during a flight. The visual reaction time is carefully observed. This is the time which elapses between the point at which the eye sees anything and the point which consequent muscular action takes place.

"In a similar way hearing and the sense of touch can be tested and the 'reaction times' of these senses determined.

"Col. Flack deals with 'oxygen want,' and insists on the need of a good 'vital capacity'—i.e., lung air space. He has devised means of estimating this, and uses a modification of an ordinary gas meter for the purpose. Again, pilots who wear well have good expiratory force, due to good abdominal muscles. This force can be tested by causing the candidate to blow against the pressure of a column of mercury. Soundness of heart is, of course, as essential as soundness of wind.

"The study of airplane accidents has proved of great value. The causes of these, so far as the pilot is concerned, are classified as error of judgment, loss of head, brain fatigue, fear, physical illness. Error of judgment is the commonest cause of all, and this most frequently occurs during the process of landing, 'flattening out' too soon, and so on. Fear is said to be rare, as the mind is too much occupied.

"The air has given us a new kind of fracture, comparable with the 'chauffeur's fracture' of early motoring days. It is called 'aviator's astragalus,' and consists of the breaking of one of the bones of the ankle.

"The author throws out the suggestion that flying may be found to have a therapeutic value. He recalls that Baldwin in 1786 heartily recommended balloon ascents for convalescents, and that Falmmarion ascended in a balloon with an attack of influenza on him, and when he came to earth he was completely cured."

Shakespeare on Huns.

While Englishmen have been reading Shakespeare to find expressions showing what the dramatist would think nowadays of Germany, a Frenchman has been compiling evidence in favor of yet another candidate for the distinction of writing the plays. This latest "discovery" is William Stanley, sixth Earl of Derby, for, as one critic has remarked, those who refuse to believe that Shakespeare wrote his own plays differ as to who wrote them, but agree on an aristocrat. Mr. Abel Lefrane, who has discovered Lord Derby, produces various reasons for his opinion without materially altering the literary situation. But why, one wonders, hasn't some German savant learnedly unfolded "proof" that Shakespeare was a real German who spent a part of his time in England, wrote the plays, and let his English actor friend William take the credit because that was the easiest way to get them presented?

Muskrat Lore.

The feed of the muskrat consists of grasses, apples, bark of trees, water plants, carrots, turnips, cabbage and corn, and crayfish.

Although millions of these brown-colored rats are trapped each year for their fur, the number does not seem to decrease. When the fur is made into clothing it is called Russian mink or Baltic seal.

One of the ways of trapping the muskrat is to set a trap three or four inches below the surface of water in a place where he has been in the habit of leaving the water. In this way he will step into the trap as he undertakes to leave the water. Still another way is to place the trap just below the entrance into his home. Some trappers use apples or turnips as bait.

The home quarters is usually quite a large cavity and contains much grass and sticks. During the first two or three weeks of the life of the young the mother muskrat does not leave the home but depends upon the male to furnish the feed supply.

A SURE WAY TO END DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

Makes a hit the first time —says Bobby

The Garden Of Eden

THE FIRST IRRIGATED AREA IN THE WORLD

"And the Lord God planted a garden to the eastward of Eden. And a river went out of Eden to water the garden; and it was parted into four heads."—Genesis.

Sir William Willcocks, who, in behalf of the British Government, had charge of the wonderful irrigation works in Egypt, was assigned not long ago to the duty of planning a similar large-scale enterprise for the restoration of ancient Babylonia to its former agricultural productiveness.

Thus it happened that he located, to the reasonable satisfaction of archaeologists, the veritable site of the Garden of Eden. For reasons wholly practical, he thought that the best way to begin.

Starting from the spot where Jewish tradition placed the Gates of Paradise—the word paradise meaning "garden" — he followed the traces of the four streams mentioned in Genesis, which, as therein named, were the Pison, the Gihon, the Hiddekel and the Euphrates.

The Euphrates (known by that name to-day) flowed through the great city of Babylon. The Gihon is now called the Hindia. The Hiddekel is the modern Sakhlawia, which flows into the Tigris at Bagdad. The Pison has gone dry, but is represented by many-armed channels "encompassing the whole land of Havilah" (see Genesis), which lay between Egypt and Assyria.

The Euphrates enters its delta a few miles below Hit, there leaving the desert and debouching into a vast alluvial plain. In this departure it has a considerable fall, with a number of cataracts, and along a narrow valley giant water-wheels lift water to irrigate the land on both sides of the stream.

The entrance to this valley, according to Jewish tradition, was the gate of the Paradise in which Adam and Eve dwelt, and from which they were expelled for disobeying a divine command. There the traveler first meets the date palm, which is a "tree of life" (see Genesis) to the whole Arab world.

Along the valley garden succeeds garden. It is to-day a veritable paradise, orchards and date groves checkered with fields of cotton. The climate is everlasting summer, so that three or four crops a year may be grown.

Anciently the cataracts were much higher, and water-wheels were unnecessary, the water being led off by ditches.

The Garden of Eden, indeed, gains interest from the fact that it seems to have been the first irrigated area in the world.

HUNGARIAN DESPOT PATRON OF SCHOOLS

Deeply Interested in Education and Encouraged Fairy Tales.

Much has been said about the ogreness and brutality of Bela Kun, the deposed despot of Austria-Hungary, but the Manchester Guardian gives another view of him. It points out that his chief efforts were used to promote education among his people, and that during his regime he increased the rates or state pay, of schoolmistresses until they received one-third more than the Cabinet Ministers did, including Bela Kun himself.

As a Jew he was deeply interested in education—in that education that did not consist merely in the t[illegible]ulation of facts. He encouraged [illegible]stitution of fairy storey telling Budapest School curriculum, a[illegible]tended their use to the children' [illegible]pitals, orphanages, colonies, an[illegible]lums, in[illegible]tes, and convalescent homes. Excursions were made into the woods with the pupils, with fa[illegible] stories as part of the entertainment. Kun had planned greatly extending his work.

SCARCITY OF COPPERS CAUSES 15 CENT LOAF

No 'Change" in Regina and Bakers Profit.

REGINA, Oct. 20.—Although they could charge 12 cents for an individual loaf of bread in the city and still make a reasonable profit, the retailers are not doing so because of the difficulty in securing coppers that would become essential under such conditions.

From the evidence given at the investigation by the Board of Commerce into bread prices, it was apparent that the main cause of complaint was that 15 cents is the price of one loaf of bread.

Commissioner Rankin suggested that much of the difficulty could be overcome if Regina was in the "copper belt," and he thought there was no reason why it should not be.

A GREAT CANADIAN

Dr. Crozier Has A Place In Intellectual Aristocracy.

Dr. John Beattie Crozier is a Canadian who has won his way by unaided merit to the highest ranks of Britain's intellectual aristocracy. On April 23, his seventieth birthday, he received a letter expressing warm appreciation of his "eminent services to British scholarship and speculation," and his "unselfish endeavors for human welfare," signed by Lord Morley, O.M., Lord Bryce, O.M., Mr. Frederic Harrison, Prof. Sir William Osler, Bt., Lieut.-Col. Sir Francis Younghusband, Mr. St. Leo Strachey, Dr. W. L. Courtney, Mr. H. W. Massingham, Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M.P., Dr. John Clifford, Mr. J. L. Garvin, Mr. J. A. Hobson, Mr. Arthur Sherwell, Mr. James F. Muirhead, Mr. G. P. Gooch, and Mr. Bailey Saunders. These are the names of leading public men, writers, physicians, scientists, editors, historians, social workers, and political economists. Few men have had so significant a tribute paid them in their lifetime as this spontaneous testimonial by Dr. Crozier's contemporaries.

Dr. Crozier was born in Galt in 1849, and graduated in medicine from the University of Toronto in 1872 as a double medalist. He went to England in the same year to begin his career. His books were produced by immense industry, in the hours spared from the practice of his profession. His monumental work, "History of Intellectual Development on the Lines of Modern Evolution," begun in 1897 and completed in 1904, won him official recognition in the form of a pension from the civil list, which enabled him to devote more time to his literary labors. The titles of his volumes—"The Religion of the Future," "Civilisation and Progress," "Lord Randolph Churchill: A Study of English Democracy," "My Own Life," "The Wheel of Wealth," "First Principles of Investment," and "Sociology as Applied to Practical Politics," show the versatility of his interests and the range of his research. He has recently lost his wife and his only son, the latter killed in the war. "I sit here desolate," he writes a Canadian friend, "except for kind friends who come in relays every afternoon to see me and talk." But he can look back upon a life of distinguished achievement, crowned by the praise of his fellow-workers.

Dr. Crozier tells a Canadian correspondent that he left Canada because "at that time our Canadians would have nothing but the imprimatur of London and the English—no colonial at any price!" Have Canadians altogether outlived this reproach? Is it not true to-day that they are reluctant to recognize or encourage native merit until it comes back with the hall-mark of London or New York? The number of Canadians of talent who have found it necessary to leave the country to find a field is not flattering to national pride.

Chinese Fans.

China exports about $6,000,000 fans annually, mostly from Canton and Ningchow, the greater number being palm-leaf fans.

Alcohol is greenish in color when pure, while water is distinctly blue in shade.

WONDERFUL STONES

Probably the largest stones ever used in any building are seen in the western wall of the great temple of Baalbek, in Syria, and the problem is still unsolved as to the methods used in conveying them from the quarries and of placing them in position. The quarries from which these blocks were undoubtedly cut can be seen about a half a mile to the southwest of the temple. The three stones lie horizontally and form part of the other wall of the building. They are not on the lowest part of the masonry, but are twenty-three feet above the first row of stones. Each stone is over sixty feet long, thirteen feet high and ten feet thick.

The most wonderful block of all still lies in the quarries, for something must have occurred to stop the work of separating it completely from the rock, and the great stone has lain there for centuries awaiting completion. This stone is seventy feet long, fourteen feet high and thirteen feet thick. The three sides and part of the fourth have been beautifully chiseled and are smooth and even.

Trivial Annoyances.

It is surprising how trivial are the annoyances which suffice to make some men miserable. A lump of soot falling on a man's linen, a beefsteak overdone, losing a railway train by forty seconds after running himself out of breath, a visit from a bore when he is overwhelmed with cares, the rasping of his nerves by a hand organ when he is weary, inclined to headache or trying to sleep; even the want of a pin or a shirt button flying off at an unlucky moment, as when he is dressing for a dinner party and has scant time in which to do it—all these are annoyances which sorely try a man's patience and chafe and vex many a person more than a serious misfortune. Alexander Smith goes so far as to say that if during thirty years all the annoyances connected with defalcating shirt buttons alone could be gathered into a mass and endured at once it would be misery equal to a public execution.

Water and Pure Water.

Pure water is nothing more or less than a chemical curiosity. Even when distilled it cannot rightly be considered perfectly pure. Mineral matter is the most common foreign substance found in "Adam's ale." This is largely owing to the fact that all water passes through rock and soil at some time or other. In moderate quantities these mineral salts are quite desirable, as they are particularly needed for our bones and muscles. When water is distilled these mineral substances become detached; hence distilled water is useless for drinking. But if more than a hundred grains of such salts as magnesium or sodium sulphate are contained in a gallon of water it should then be regarded as a mineral beverage rather than a good drinking material. The importance of water can be well realized when we consider that the very elasticity of our muscles, cartilages and tendons is due to the amount of water that these tissues contain.—Pearson's.

Elephant's Teeth.

The elephant has what a dentist calls "magazine gun teeth" because of the curious fact that when the big pachyderm wears off a front tooth it is replaced by the one just behind it, the whole row moving up a tooth. It is said this takes place continually, so Jumbo always is guaranteed a set of teeth, no matter how many he wears out.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

PROHIBITION WORKERS WERE JUBILANT AT VICTORY MEETING

EXCHANGED CONGRATULATIONS AT INFORMAL MEETING — CITIZENS THANKED FOR THEIR SUPPORT—PRESS INCLUDED IN THE GREETINGS.

COMMITTEE WAS APPRECIATIVE

It was a jubilant and thankful gathering of the friends of the Referendum Movement that thronged the Y. M.C.A. building within an hour after the closing of the polls. The convenience of the rooms had been placed at the disposal of the committee for the day as a headquarters, and to this the friends gravitated in groups to exchange congratulation and give place to others. Always leaving a throng of friends offering personal congratulations on the magnificent showing that was rolling in.

The results more than justified the hard and incessant work of the last two months. This activity resulted in that the several polling places were thoroughly and efficiently manned, and womaned, with almost faultless precision. Side by side with this the committee had the use of hundreds of cars in which to bring to the polls the "new woman," who for the first time came out and showed her interest. As the day was fine men were largely left to navigate to the voting places while the women were taken care of in the matter of transportation.

Majority Evident at Nine.

By nine o'clock the decisive majority was announced, the figures being for reference in another part of this issue. Side by side with expressions of satisfaction were shown a deep thankfulness that the moral side of the question had been so thoroughly sustained. That the majority given was practically double that expected by even those most confident of a favourable result. Little reference was made to the political issues, attention being concentrated on the one main object, the retention of the Act and its main provisions.

Shortly after nine o'clock a meeting of the Executive commmittee of the Referendum, including the ward captains, both those having charge, and the polling divisions captains, with the women workers in and out of office was held in the assembly room, and at which business growing out of the campaign was transacted. It was first decided that the organization would be kept together and intact, and full records were directed to be made of all participating and their several functions, including all who acted as scrutineers, etc. So that in any further campaign all could be called together for action in the good cause.

Thanked the Press.

Then followed a series of resolutions, being the last public official act of the Executive committee. First to the Press, that the thanks of the organization be extended to both the local papers, and that the committee desired to express cheerful and hearty thanks for the strong, able and untiring support given from day to day to the cause. The resolution was moved by Mr. R. C. Braund and Mr. H. G. Walker, and carried.

Many young ladies had given practical and valuable service in the detail work, and these were remembered by a resolution, that included the workers who had so diligently and faithfully assisted. Moved by Mr. George Leader and Mr. Wilfrid Shiner and carried most positively.

Thanks to the Citizens.

This brought to the fore an expression of appreciation of the older people who had striven in the work for results. It was proposed to make a list by name. These were mentioned so rapidly and frequently that it was seen that individual mention could not be made else the already generous assistance of the Press be overworked. But Mrs. Kendry and Mrs. Shields were not content to let the matter go as it stood and moved a resolution that was wide and covering and wished it to be known to all and singular, that the deepest thanks of the Executive are due and tendered in appreciation of the men and women, the very best of our citizens who had come forward to aid and sustain the object in view, that of future dry Peterborough. These had entirely left to one side all consideration of a party issue and concentrated on the greater and larger object before the electorate and had vitally contributed to the magnificent success. The resolution was at once carried and with applause.

Mr. A. B. Cunningham, the president of the local organization, presided at the meeting and remembered about every one except himself. This omission was rectified by the ever considerate Mrs. Kendry, assisted by Mr. Leader, and presently most complimentary and appreciative remarks were made with reference to the untiring part taken by Mr. Cunningham, who had practically given up the last six weeks to attending to details. Recognition was made of his thoroughness, his untiring attention to all details, his anticipation of the situation and making provision to meet all emergencies. On the rolls of the committee suitable mention of these activities was directed to be inscribed. The resolution as put to the meeting included thanks to Mr. F. H. Dobbin, secretary of the organization for valuable assistance in the work of the campaign.

Other Appreciation.

Then some one who had been waiting a chance to say something produced the thought that it would never do for the meeting to adjourn without recognizing in a formal way the good offices of the friends who provided cars. This resolution was received with subdued cheers, none the less hearty if not noisy. So all who gave of transportation facilities may remember that they were remembered, and that a grateful committee, let alone those who were ferried to and from the polls, appreciate the kindness and the convenience, and if this recognition may be inadequate it is only that words do not always express the real situation, but appreciation was there all the same.

And after all of which the meeting adjourned, just to catch up with the news coming in from all over the province that Toronto had gone dry, that Brantford had lined up with Toronto, that Hamilton's feet were slightly in the moist territory and that countless other places were clenching the good work as fast as the wires could carry the news.

STOMACH ON A STRIKE

"Pape's Diapepsin" puts Sour, Gassy, Acid Stomachs in order at once!

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sick, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented and turned sour; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food—just eat a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin to help neutralize acidity and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless antacid is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs so little at drug stores.

THIS SPEAKER LIKES PETERBORO

ENJOYS HUNTING AND FISHING IN THIS DISTRICT.

"We have been in Peterborough just two days," said Tris Speaker, noted ball player and manager, last evening, "but thanks to Chris Graham and his friends we have had the most enjoyable hours ever spent in Canada."

Mr. Speaker, manager of the Cleveland "Indians," American League runners-up for two straight seasons, is spending a week with Chris. With him is Leslie Nunamaker, catcher on the Cleveland team, and Morris Ackerman, writer on fishing and hunting.

The boys went out yesterday and bagged a few ducks, and "Spoke," as Tris is known to ball fans the world over, landed his first maskalunge. The boys were guests in the evening of Mrs. Chris. Graham, where the fish was consumed with a great deal of relish by the visitors.

The party left, in company with Mr. Graham, this morning for a duck hunting and fishing trip at Rice Lake. They will be located on Margaret's Island part of the time on on Idyl Wyld Island the rest of the time, as guests of Mr. Thomas Hooper.

Speaker leaves October 26 to attend the marriage of Ray Chapman, shortstop on the Cleveland team, returning to Toronto on the thirtieth, where he will join Nunamaker and Ackerman for a moose and caribou hunt along the line of the C.P.R. near Nipigon.

The boys are high in their praise of this locality for fishing and hunting. All of them have fished and hunted extensively in the provinces.

BITRO-PHOSPHATE IS GOOD FOR THIN NERVOUS PEOPLE

A French scientist has discovered an organic phosphate which should be a very effective remedy for weak nerves, sleeplessness, thinness and lack of strength, energy, and vigour.

Its substance is described by specialists as identical in composition with certain vital elements naturally found in brain and nerve cells and one which when taken into the human system is quickly converted into healthy, living tissue.

This phosphate is already widely known among druggists in this country as Bitro-Phosphate, and some physicians claim that through its use strength, energy, vigour, and nerve force are frequently increased in two weeks' time.

Dr. Frederick Kolle, Editor of New York Physicians' "Who's Who," says it should be prescribed by every doctor and used in every hospital in the United States. As there are a great variety of so-called phosphates, those who wish to test the substance should be sure to get the genuine Bitro-Phosphate.

WOULD GRAFT GLAND OF DEAD ON LIVING

French Surgeon Extends His Plan for Perpetual Youth.

PARIS, Oct. 20.—Dr. Serge Voronoff, who claims he can postpone old age by grafting interstitial glands points out in an article in the Journal that the internal section of glands, such as the thyroid and suprarenal, continue alive for three hours after the death of the body, and, therefore, advocates that bodies of young and healthy persons killed in accidents should be rushed to special hospitals, where patients are suffering from curable maladies. He says the grafting glands could be grouped and put in cold storage, where they can be kept indefinitely "Unfortunately," writes Dr. Voronoff, "prejudices and law now prevent this. Our secular customs require that our perishable bodies be consigned to the earth, where they slowly and uselessly are consumed."

DENIES CHARGE MADE BY SAM

(U.F.O. Publicity, in the Lindsay Post.)

At Bobcaygeon last week Gen. Sir Sam Hughes is said to have made the statement that Mr. F. G. Sandy charged a returned soldier $10 for the use of his house, where a shower was given to the young man and his English bride. This is an absolute falsehood and one would think that a man who once occupied the position of Minister of Militia for the Dominion of Canada would not assist in its circulation.

SIMPLE RULES FOR TIMING MAGNETO

When overhauling a motor it is frequently necessary to retime a magneto. In this operation it is necessary:

(1) To place the crank for cylinder No. 1 on the dead centre, with the piston on compression. Disconnect the magneto coupling.

(2) Put the circuit breaker in full retard position and rotate the magneto until the distributor registers for No. 1 cylinder.

(3) Rotate the magneto shaft until thes circuit breaker starts to separate the points. This is the firing point, and you can now connect the magneto coupling.

(4) connect the remaining spark plugs in the order of firing. For four-cylinder motors this is usually 1-2-3-4, always counting from the clutch side of the motor.

DON'T MISS IT.

If you do not choose well, you will live to rue the day you did not see "Choosing a Wife." It is at the Allen Theatre to-day for the last time.

Matrimony is life's greatest problem. You will be brought to a realization of this after after seeing "Choosing a Wife" at the Allen. It tells the remarkable story of a man who for three years unintentionally led a woman to believe that he loved her. This period represents the time he was in the South Seas and when he comes back he suddenly finds himself called upon to choose between the woman whom he should rightfully marry, and the woman he really loves.

Local Theatrical Events

What the Local Playhouses Have to Offer---News of the Movie World.

PATRONS SHOULD BE AT THE GRAND EARLY TO-MORROW NIGHT

FIRST CAR OF GRAND OPERA COMPANY WILL REACH PETERBOROUGH EARLY TO-MORROW.

Many of the gorgeous voices of the world will be heard in Peterborough to-morrow, according to the exchanges from Montreal and Ottawa, where the San Carlo Grand Opera Company has been drawing immense audiences. Salazar, the heroic-voiced Spanish tenor, acknowledged one of the premier dramatic artists of the day, is coming to sing his great role of "Canio," in "Pagliacci"; Rosina Zotti, the eminent dramatic soprano, will be heard opposite him in the Leoncavallo opera, and Bula Ray Shull, the American star, now making her first American tour, will sing the leading feminine role in "Cavalleria Rusticana." The event is indeed rich in promise from every angle viewed, and that there is a widespread interest in the opera event is indicated by the heavy seat sale, many coming for miles to participate in the pleasures of the affair. The opera is of particular value to students of song whose opportunities to hear the big voices occur all too infrequently.

Grand Opera is a form of art all by itself, combining as it does a great orchestra, big chorus, superb scenic effects, brilliant costuming, all linked together by the solos of the principal singers. There are many who go simply to enjoy the instrumental section, for every instrument depicts some certain mood or sentiment in the action of the opera. Some attend to hear the splendid choruses, for the operatic ensembles are among the finest. Others will prefer the dramatic action of the opera, and still a further class will revel in the magnificent scenery and costuming. There is really so much to see and hear. A decidedly welcome feature of this— Peterborough's first real opera event—is the matter of prices, which have, in reality, been reduced as compared to those charged in Montreal and Ottawa by the San Carlo management. This reduction was decided upon by the advance manager of the organization for the reason that music-lovers of this community should all be given opportunity to hear the productions without undue strain upon the purse-strings. The local theatre—the Grand—is of modest proportions, too, still the scale of prices has been arranged so that most every one who loves music in its highest and most interesting form, may partake of the event. There is much disappointment in London (Ont.) musical circles because the San Carlo Company cannot now appear there, but the fact that the opera people graciously gave up the theatre in that city that the Prince of Wales might occupy the playhouse for the purpose of a reception, has greatly allayed that disappointment. Peterborough's social and musical contingent will unquestionably enjoy the songbirds as much as London, and it is understood that, if the patronage of the opera here fully justifies, this community may be permanently placed upon the Canadian itinerary of the San Carlo. The present coming of the artists, however, will do much to strengthen the city's position on the musical map.

The San Carlo forces, one hundred in number, will come down from Ottawa to-morrow, arriving about noon. A special extra-length baggage car containing the scenery and costuming equipment for "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci," was sent on ahead this morning, in charge of several of the company stage hands, who will see to it that the material is transferred from the cars to the theatre early to-morrow, that there may be no delay in starting the performance at 8.15 to-morrow evening. In this connection, the opera management writes that, because of the beautiful preludal music in the Mascagni opera, by the orchestra, patrons are requested to be in their seats at the time mentioned. The opera will be over by 11.10 or 11.15.

First Opera
CAVALLERIA RUSTICANA
CAST:

Santuzza	Bula Ray Shull
Lola	Ada Louise Armstrong
Turiddu	Franco DeGregorio
Alfio	Paolo Galazzi
Mama Lucia	Alice Homer

Second Opera
I'PAGLIACCI

Nedda	Rosina Zotti
Canio	Manuel Salazar
Tonio	Mario Valle
Silvio	Paolo Galazzi
Beppe	Luciano Rossini

Signor Gaetano Merola, chief musical director, will conduct both performances. Brief synopsis of each opera follows:

Brief Story of
CAVALLERIA RUSTICANA.

The scene is laid in Sicily, on Easter morn. The curtain rises on Easter festivities of the peasants. Turiddu, son of Dame Lucia, keeper of the village inn, having returned home from service in the army, soon becomes the favourite of all the village maidens. Among these is Santuzza, who is the chosen one, but who is soon betrayed by Turiddu. Previous to his joining the army Turiddu had courted the pretty Lola, the village belle, but on his return finds her wedded to Alfio, the carrier. Wounded in love and vanity, he takes up Santuzza.

When Turiddu and Lola meet they are reconciled, and he neglects Santuzza, while Lola is faithless to her husband. Santuzza, distracted at being abandoned, informs Alfio of the intrigue of the guilty pair. He challenges Turiddu to mortal combat. The latter unwillingly accepts the challenge, bids his sorrowing mother adieu and is killed in the duel.

Brief Story of I'PAGLIACCI
Prologue:

The story is introduced by the clown, Tonio, who sings before the curtain, of the tragic sorrows and passions that sway buffoons as well as the great and noble.

Act I.

Canio is the chief of a little band of strolling mountebanks. His wife, Nedda, is a vain, pretty baggage and he does not trust her. Tonio, a humpback, malicious, the clown, makes desperate love to her in the village where they are to play on the day of their arrival. She repulses him, laughs at him and finally strikes him with a whip. In revenge he brings Canio upon Nedda and her lover. Silvio, a farmer in the neighborhood. The latter runs away and Canio does not see his face. There are bitter words between man and wife, and Canio, in agony, prepares for his clowning.

Act II.

The people gather to see the show and Silvio is in the crowd. The play is the old story of Pantaloon's jealousy and the love of Columbine and Harlequin. The crazed Canio acts with such realism that the peasants are enraptured. Suddenly he asks the name of the lover. Nedda defies him. He then stabs her, and kills Silvio, who starts from his place in the crowd.

Laughing madly, he cries out, 'The Comedy Is Finished."

"THE DUMBELLS"

Probably the most unique and interesting attraction that has ever been offered to the theatre-goers of Canada is "The Dumbells", an organization of soldier-actors, presenting their original overseas revue, "Biff, Bing, Bang", with the same great veteran cast and chorus which entertained our Canadian boys with over five hundred performances in France.

This wonderful organization of hero entertainers will play an engagement of 2 nights and one matinee commencing with Friday evening at the Grand.

"VIRTUOUS MEN" IS INTENSELY DRAMATIC MELODRAMA

Intense, vivid, the story of the struggle of two women for one man, and still a story without a suggestive line or situation in it is the description given "Virtuous Men" the big melodrama, starring E. K. Lincoln, which comes to the Allen Theatre for two days commencing to-morrow.

Settings for the picture are the forts along the Canadian border and a great shipbuilding plant. The story tells of the way that a young society man who has just lost his fortune is able to foil the designs of a group of radicals bent on his destruction.

Another claim made for the production is that it is remarkably well balanced, but that is expected in a picture made by so famous a director as Ralph Ince. Although Mr. Lincoln is the principal actor he is not kept constantly on the screen as in the case of so many of the stars who think that the production cannot be a success without them constantly in front of the camera.

As an example of the cleverness of the direction is the manner in which the director has used the two principal women characters, Grace Darling, a pronounced blonde and the girl whom the hero wins in the end, and Clara Joel, a striking brunette, who has the role of the girl who jilted Lincoln when she learned that he had lost his fortune and who is now an agent of the radicals and planning his ruin as he climbs back to the top by strength of mind and body.

Still another contrast is furnished by the big scenes. Thousands of people are used in these. One of these is staged in the lumber camp and another in gigantic shipyards. These are naturally of the rough and ready type. But there is another big scene which shows a masked ball in New York and here are seen hundreds of dancers wearing the most exquisite of frocks. An actual society event was utilized for this, the men and women taking part deeming it a huge frolic.

As a matter of fact the genuineness of the various scenes is one of the greatest points of the picture. In the shipyard scenes real workmen are shown and in the earlier chapters the actors are largely men who earn their daily bread by felling timber.

Mr. Ince declares that this picture represents his best work, and since he declines to be tied down by contracts that force him to make hurried productions and confines himself to but two or three pictures a season, that statement from him is full of meaning.

"Virtuous Men" is emphatically not a war story, but a tale of a strong man's battle against heavy odds. Mr. Ince was put to extra expense in transporting his entire company from the Canadian woods to the shipyards and to those who have never seen our mammoth boats constructed, this scene will be educational as well.

MAN PROPOSES AND GOD DISPOSES

"Choosing a Wife" the first National attraction at the Allen to-day answers the question of whether a young and beautiful girl should attract a man of middle age more than a woman only a little younger than himself.

In this picture which is filled with remarkably dramatic situations, a woman well past the first bloom of youth, through a strange series of circumstances is led to believe that a distinguished scientist, who has left to explore a remote part of the world, has proposed to her.

In reality this man desires to marry her niece, a girl of twenty. The misunderstanding continues during the scientist's absence and when he returns he is stunned to find that the woman of forty has been preparing to marry him as he had written to her she should.

He goes to her to talk it over. Their conversation by no means ends the picture, which goes on to a logical but unsuggested denouement. Minna Grey has the part of the woman of forty, Isobel Elsom, the role of the younger woman, and C. M. Hallard, that of the scientist.

ACTIVITIES AT THE Y.W.C.A

Those taking the course in story-telling at the Young Women's Christian Association are asked to note that the meeting will be held this week on Thursday night at 8 o'clock instead of Friday, in order that it may not conflict with the Teachers' Guild. The topic for the evening will be "What a Story Really Is."

On Wednesday evening, the second of the series of talks on the programme of the Canadian Girls-In-Training will be held. The physical standard and how it may be worked out in the organised Sunday School class will be under discussion.

Next Sunday at 4.30, the first of the Y.W.C.A. vesper services will be held in the Green Room. Miss Layton will speak on the subject, "The Way of Friendly Hearts." Tea will be served after the meeting, followed by an hour of music until church time.

Friday, 31st October, is the night of the big Hallowe'en party, followed by one for juniors on Saturday afternoon, 1st November, at 3.30.

The date of the annual bazaar has been set for 2nd December. Keep this in mind.

PREMIER EXPECTED TO SWEEP COUNTRY

(Special to The Examiner.)

SAULT STE. MARIE, Oct. 20.—Premier Hearst in a short address at Columbia Hall thanked his supporters conceding Cunningham election at the Soo. The Premier would not make any prophecy as to the complexion of the next government, saying the attitude of the farmers was uncertain. He said he had expected the government would sweep the country. "The Temperance Act," he said, "no doubt had a great deal to do with my defeat, but I did what was right and if I had it to do again we would do the same thing."

AMERICAN COLONEL GIVES FREE ADVICE TO RHEUMATICS

SAYS IT'S SHEER FOLLY FOR ANYONE TO SUFFER THESE DAYS.

Rheumatism can't be cured so long as your system is weak and run down. You must first build up and get strength to fight off the disease.

Ferrozone cures because it builds up, because it renews the blood and dissolves the Uric Acid and the poisons that cause rheumatism.

It is proved right here that Ferrozone does cure.

Col. H. M. Russ, of Edwards, St. Lawrence Co., one of the fine old heroes of the Civil War, was completely restored by Ferrozone. Read his statement:

"I couldn't get around without a cane, and then only with difficulty.

"Rheumatism took complete control of my limbs.

"Suffering was more intense than hardships on the battlefield.

"When my doctor had done his best I got Ferrozone.

"Then came a quick change.

"Ferrozone gave me comfort at once, eased the pain and took the stiffness out of my muscles.

"I am well to-day. Ferrozone cured completely. I can jump and run like I did forty years ago.

Be sensible about your case. If your present medicine is useless give it up.

Don't experiment again. Ferrozone is known on all sides to be a cure that does cure. Why not get a supply to-day. The sooner you begin Ferrozone the quicker you'll get well. Price 50c. per box or six for $2.50, at all dealers, or direct by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

TRUCK SMASHED INTO THE BRIDGE

WILLIAM CLANCY, DRIVER OF TRUCK HAD NARROW ESCAPE

The heavy tank truck of the Imperial Oil Company crashed into the railing on the south side of the Smith street bridge this afternoon at 3 'clock, carrying it away for a distance of thirty feet and leaving the truck stranded over the base of the cement pickets with the front part of the car suspended in mid air and the hind wheels on the sidewalk. The truck was driven by Mr. William Clancy, Jr., whose father is local agent of the Imperial Oil Company, and judging from appearances of both the railing and the car the truck was travelling east across the bridge, and whether through loss or control or too near the side of the bridge, the truck struck the railing on the south side and in the middle of the bridge, carying away one of the cement pickets and breaking off the hub cap of the front wheel of the car.. The impact sent the truck to the opposite side of the bridge, and it crashed into the north railing on the east end, carrying it away and bowling over the pickets like scenes in "The Last Days of Pompei."

Nobody was injured, and at the time of going to press the truck was still suspended in mid air. Mr. William Clancy and Postman No. 6, with a number of willing workers, drained the oil from the tank and were attempting to bring the tanker back to terra firma by means of splintered bridge pickets and borrowed railway ties.

The river is deep at this point and numerous bystanders expressed their surprise that the car had the momentum to jump the sidewalk and crash into the railing.

START TO-MORROW AND KEEP IT UP EVERY MORNING

Get into the habit of drinking a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their systems with drugs. "What's an inside bath"? you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles according to hot water enthusiasts.

There are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is intended to flush the stomach, liver, kidneys and intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which if not eliminated every day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels, the quick result is poisons and toxins which are then absorbed into the blood, causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, bad taste, colds, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, impure blood and all sorts of ailments.

People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply can not get feeling right are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

MAY GO TO COUNTRY ON G.T.R. DEAL

Government May Seek Re-election on Public Ownership Plank.

MONTREAL.—There is a feeling here that the Dominion Government may go to the country on the Grand Trunk purchase scheme. The vote in the House indicates support of Western group that otherwise would refuse support on the tariff issue. The Government, it is thought, feels that Government ownership policy would outshadow in swift election campaign the tariff issue and Liberal opposition would be in the position of opposing the G.T.R. deal.

ESTEREAY'S RESULTS UPSET ALL POLITICIAL PRECEDENTS

...ive Liberals, U.F.O. and Labour. "The elections," declared Mr. King ... morning, "show that the Progressive forces are determined to do away ... Tory government. It is a people's victory against a government that has been reactionary, and the ... ally of the Federal government."

Mr. King thinks that the close association of the Hearst administration with the Ottawa government is one of the chief causes of its downfall. "The significance of the Ontario results," said Mr. King, "on the Federal situation is so apparent that there is no necessity of labouring the point." He thinks the Ontario vote will give a powerful impetus to those democratic forces which have been emerging to various parts of the country.

Not Popular Situation With Politicians.

To judge from the talk in hotels and corridors most of the Federal members on both sides of politics are much disturbed over the Ontario elections. It is not a popular situation with old time politicians. Time after time you ... hear members lamenting the fact that neither the Conservatives nor the Liberals are able to form an administration by themselves. Conservatives would rather have seen a straight Liberal majority than the combinations of U.F.O. and Labour members which has upset all political precedents. "Whoever heard of such a thing," exclaimed one prominent member this morning. "Why you can't even know from the election who is going to be Prime Minister of Ontario. This represents, to a politician's mind, one of the depths of chaos. Certain business men also, although they don't like to say much publicly, are disturbed over the situation. In the event of a Farm-Labour government they forsee an era of experimentation in politics such as we have never known. The ruling power has shifted from where it has been for a long time, and in the process of shifting no one knows what will come. Labour is known to be radical and on many issues the farmers are equally advanced. Both forces agree in an indifference amounting to open disrespect towards customs laws and institutions, merely because they have existed in the past. Public affairs will be subjected to a scrutiny more intense than they have ever received from the traditional parties. Ottawa is not a good place in which to get a reflection of immediate public opinion throughout the country. The members here represent the era of 1917, and although that was an entirely different period from 1911, yet it is also entirely different from 1919. After the next Federal election, Ottawa, at least for a time, will be a truer index of opinion, but yesterday's happenings in Ontario will make Federal members all the more anxious to hold their seats as long as they can before walking out into the night.

Politicians Handing Out Suggestions.

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—It is suggested in political circles to-day that the U.F.O., which holds the lead in the Legislature, might do well to select Sir Adam Beck as their leader, notwithstanding his rejection by London electors. This move would strengthen the U.F.O. in the House as Sir Adam would bring over to new government many of the straight Conservatives elected yesterday who in the past have been, and still are, strong supporters of Beck's Hydro projects. The U.F.O. is committed by its platform to an aggressive Hydro policy and the selection of Sir Adam as leader would not be a wholly unnatural one whether the farmers will trust leadership to one who, until this election has been an avowed Conservative, is another matter. They will probably prefer a straight out and out farmer leader and Premier.

CONTROL OF CITY COUNCIL LABOUR'S NEXT OBJECTIVE

ALD. M'INTYRE MENTIONED AS A LABOUR MAYOR AND OTHER MEMBERS OF TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL ARE ALDERMANIC POSSIBILITIES.

SECOND BIG VICTORY

Two sweeping victories within the past ten months have demonstrated organized Labour's new spirit of cohesion and resulting power in Peterboro as in many other electoral constituencies of Ontario.

And in the heat of the campaign that closed with last night's triumph in the election of Mr. Thomas Tooms as a member of the Provincial Legislative Assembly, some of the leaders in this full blown movement paused to remark that the next objective was the control of the City Council.

Ald. McIntyre has been mentioned as a Labour candidate for Mayor, both by reason of his membership in the Trades and Labour Council, his long experience as an alderman and his sympathy and support for practically every proposal that Labour has submitted for the council's approval.

As some of the Labour men have remarked this year they have not been strong enough to accomplish all their wishes in the city council. It was brought home to them on occasions that they had only five members out of the total of eleven. They had their own four members and Ald. McIntyre who was not elected last January with the Labour group.

The various manifestations of their strength in the city have shown them that the next step should be as easy of achievement as either of the victories they have to their credit. A Labour Mayor and two or three more Aldermen, it has been said, would give Labour a working majority in the council.

Several members of the Trades and Labour Council have been mentioned as prospective candidates. One of these is Tom McMurray, who was one of Mr. Tooms' chief lieutenants in his campaign, and who worked just as hard in the municipal elections last year. Jim Runnett is also a possibility according to the gossip that has been heard among some of the Labour men.

Object to Property Qualifications.

Ald. Gainey has intimated that he will make a fresh attempt in the Council to secure the passing of a resolution asking the Legislature to remove the property qualifications now demanded of candidates for the City Council. He remarked recently that if a candidate for the Legislature was not required to own propetry or to make any election deposit perty or to make an yelection deposit why restrictions should be placed upon candidates in the municipal field.

The Council has already rejected a motion to this effect, and it has been remarked that this same spirit, that will make no concessions, has been the greatest impetus to the organized Labour movement, and an inspiration that solidified the insurgency against old conditions and barriers that has carried Labour to many victories within the past year.

Y.M.C.A. BOWLING LEAGUE TO COMMENCE SEASON.

There will be a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Bowling Committee in the Y.M.C.A. at 7.30 to-night to arrange for a Bowling League and to talk over all matters pertaining to this particular form of recreation during the coming winter months. The Alleys are now ready for the first game having been refinished and a complete outfit of Five and Ten Pin equipment has been added. Mineralite balls have been secured to replace those formerly used so that a first class opportunity awaits the "high man" to become higher still in his bowling averages.

Mr. Bert Hamilton has returned to the City from the West to take his place as a member of the Y.M.C.A. staff. Mr. Hamilton will be secretary of the New Bowling League. He will be present at the meeting to-night and being in on the ground floor will be able to deal with all matters as they arise.

Counting nowadays may be summed up in a uestion mark, a dollar mark, and a period.

Taxes Raised By Hard Times

Burden is Lighest in Communities Boasting Live and Thriving Towns

Farmer Feels the Effect

Is Inclined to Forget, at Times, That He is Most Vitally Interested in Prosperity of Mear-by Cities

(Copyright 1917, Western Newspaper Union.)

Taxes are always heavy—to the man who has to pay them—but taxes in some communities are much higher than in others. If you have ever stopped to investigate the matter you have discovered that the lowest taxes are found in the most prosperous communities. And there's a reason.

The prosperous community has the lowest taxes because there is a large amount of wealth in the community against which the taxes may be assessed. There are prosperous merchants with large stocks of goods upon which taxes are levied. Property values are high and there are thriving industries which pay a large proportion of the taxes.

The higher the property values and the greater the wealth of the community the lower are the tax levies, for a lower tax on each hundred dollars of valuation is required to produce the necessary revenue for the administration of the city and county governments.

Other Taxes Are Raised.

On the other hand, take a dead town. Property values are low. Merchants' stocks are small and they have little money in the bank. Industries which ordinarily pay a large part of the taxes of a community have closed down. There are vacant store buildings which were formerly filled with stocks of merchandise upon which the owners paid heavy taxes. Who pays the taxes that were once paid by the merchants, the manufacturers, the bankers, and the men who had large holdings of high-priced property! The taxes to conduct the city and county governments, to maintain the schools, to build and repair the roads must be collected from someone. Who pays them? The man who owns his little home or the vacant lot or two upon which he had been planning to build his home must pay double or triple the amount which he paid in the times when the town was prosperous, to make up for the taxes which are not paid now by the merchants, the bankers, the manufacturers, and the big property owners who bore the heaviest burdens of taxation when times were good.

The farmers in the country surrounding the town are also among the heaviest sufferers from the ebbing of the town's prosperity. A certain amount of money must be raised by taxation to provide for the expenses of the county. Roads must be built and kept in repair. Bridges must be built and maintained. Salaries of county officers must be paid. County institutions for the care of the sick and the poor must be maintained. In counties which contain one or more thriving towns, a large proportion of the taxes for the county are paid by the towns. The greater the wealth of the towns and the higher the property valuations, the lower the tax levy for the entire county. When the tax levy is low the burden placed upon the farmer is light.

Burden Falls on Farmer.

When the county contains no prosperous and wealthy towns, the greater part of the burden of taxation for the county falls upon the farmer. The value of the farmer's property does not fall in proportion to the value of the property in the town and the higher tax levy that results from the lower property values in the towns makes his taxes higher.

The farmer forgets at times that he is vitally interested in the prosperity of "his town." He thinks that it is up to the town to take care of itself and that it is up to him to take care of himself, and he overlooks the fact that the prosperity of the town means as much to him as it does to those who live in it. The farmer who is inclined to overlook this fact has only to think of the matter of taxes and he is likely to change his point of view, for taxes are one thing that neither he nor anyone else can escape, and they are one thing in which the farmer ordinarily takes a very lively interest.

How Farmer Can Help.

There is just one way in which the farmer can best promote prosperity in the town near which he lives, and that is by spending his money in that town instead of sending it away to the far-distant city. Every time the farmer sends an order to a mail order house he helps to destroy the prosperity of his own community and to boost his own taxes. When he sends a dollar away from home he gets none of it back. When he spends a dollar at home, a part of that dollar comes back to him in some way. It helps the town where it is spent to provide a profitable market for his products, and it helps the town pay a large part of his taxes.

The farmer is the one man in the community, above all others, who should have no love for the mail order houses, for they are doing more to add to his troubles than any other one agency.

If you Buy Out of Town, and I Buy Out of Town, What will Become OUT of OUR Town

The Dollar You Spend in Peterboro will "Come Home To Boost"

The "Examiner's" "Buy-at-Home" Campaign

ARE YOU LOYAL TO YOUR HOME TOWN?

Is is the women or the men who trade out of town most? Who is prepared to answer? Here is a case that tells its own tale, and which too often occurs:

Recently a returned soldier was happily married. The bride, it seems, was an active member of one of our local societies, and, as is usual in cases of this kind, it was decided to make a presentation to the happy couple of a piece of furniture to help furnish the sitting room. The committee of ladies selected to choose the article, after making an industrious tour of our local furniture stores, reported that they could buy a very suitable article for $12, but that they had found that the identical same article could be purchased from an out-of-town department store for $7, according to the catalogue. It was decided to order the out-of-town article, and so save the difference. When the article arrived it was found to be exactly like the picture in the catalogue, but not made from the same wood as the genuine article found in our local store. It could not be returned, or was not returned and so hangs a tale.

Now it so happens that this organization, so thoughtful of their newly married member's happiness, is one of many others who regularly appeal to our local merchants for voluntary contributions on behalf of their funds and their appeals are usually generously responded to. The out-of-town merchants escape these complimentary contributions, and so might be expected to quote a little lower.

Is it fair?—that's the question. Now, this is a season of heavy buying, and the closer home you keep your dollar the quicker it will get back to you. Home buying promotes home prosperity; foreign buying promotes foreign prosperity. Which will you help?

PROF. WALLACE'S ADDRESS.

Professor M. W. Wallace will address the alumni of Toronto University at Collegiate Institute to-night.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our dear Mother, Mrs. William Fleetwood, died Oct. 21st, 1918:
In a near and silent cemetery
Where the trees their branches wave,
Rests a true and loving mother,
In her cold and silent grave.
She bid no one her last farewell;
Her spirit fled before we knew,
That she from us had gone.
When we leave this world of changes,
When we leave this world of care
We shall find our missing loved one
In our Father's mansion fair.
—Inserted by sorrowing Husband and children.

The death occurred suddenly last evening at the age of 67 years, of Mr. Edward J. Hickey, 767 Bethune street. He is survived by his wife and three sons and one daughter, Thomas at home, Edward, Westcott street; Sylvester, also of this city, and Mrs. Michael Pearson.

The late Mr. Hickey was born in Ennismore but has lived here the last eighteen years.

ELECTION NOTES

ANOTHER CHANCE TO WEEP.

The members of the executive committee of the local Conservative Association that wept when they learned that ex-Premier Hearst had manfully decided to sacrifice, if necessary, his political career on the rocks of Prohibition, will have a chance to weep again—this time for Mr. R. J. Soden, the defeated candidate.

PROUD MOMENT.

It was the proudest moment of his life when William Hayes, 533 Concession Street, who is approaching his ninety-fifth year, cast his vote for temperance on all four questions.

"Get Out."

"Get out of my committee room", demanded Mr. R. J. Soden of Mr. Guise-Bagley as the latter strolled into Tory headquarters last evening. It was evident that Mr. Soden looked upon the inoffensive looking Mr. Bagley as an enemy who had contributed to his defeat.

The Old Timers

Some of the old warriors showed their disappointment as the returns came in and their favourites were swallowed up by the tide.

The First Poll.

The first poll heard from was number eight at the corner of Hunter and Aylmer streets, Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine was in charge of this booth.

Poor Man's Candidate

"The poor man's candidate", was the label that adorned Mr. T. Tooms as he was conveyed down the main thoroughfare in what looked like a peanut vendor's pushcart.

SOCAL AND PERSONAL

Lieut. A. C. Gillespie spent Thanksgiving with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Gillespie.

Miss Ethel Rehill is spending her vacation visiting relatives at Owen Sound.

Mr. John Martin, Foreman of Public Works, Huntsville, Muskoka, spent the week-end with his family at 136 Lock street.

A message from Niagara Falls, Ontario, tells of the death at an early hour this morning of Mrs. Wright H. Buckley. Mrs. Buckley is the sister of Mrs. (Rev.) J. R. Webb.

Dr. J. E. Middleton has gone to Toronto to-night to attend a lecture on Root Canal Treatment, given to the Toronto and Hamilton Dental Society, by Dr. E. S. Best, a lecturer in Columbia Dental College.

In honour of her approaching marriage which took place to-day the Board of Managers and Elders of St. Andrew's Church presented Miss Jessie Rollins with a handsome tea set of Crown Derby.

Mr. Price of Ottawa was the guest of his uncle, Mr. R. J. Soden to-day.

Mr. Harold Paul of Montreal, spent the week end in the city with his sister, Miss Ann Paul, who is visiting the Misses Hill, Brock street.

DEATH.

COSTAIN.—At St. Mary's Hospital, Peterborough, Ont., on Tuesday, 21st October, 1919, Miriam Alice (Mimi), dearly loved infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Costain, Monaghan Road, aged 2 years and 10 months.—Funeral to-day, 3 p.m. (private).

Flowers were not only originally intended for Children to love and for Sweethearts to adore. WEDDING BELLS

O'REILLY—HARRINGTON.

St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, was the scene of a pretty but quiet wedding on 7th October, when Miss Elizabeth Harrington, the youngest daughter of Edward Harrington, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Cornelius O'Reilly, by Rev. J. V. McAuley. The bride, who was becomingly attired in a handsome blue suit of botany serge, with picture hat to match, entered the church to the strains of the Wedding March, played by Mrs. Daniel Crough. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Rosella, while Mr. Patrick O'Reilly supported the groom. After the ceremony the happy couple motored to the home of the bride's father, where a dainty repast was served. Eloquent and appropriate speeches were rendered at the dinner table by Rev. J. V. McAuley, Rev. P. J. McGuire, and Rev. Paul Costello.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold wrist watch, to the bridesmaid a gold brooch, and to the groomsman gold cuff-links. The bride was also the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents, which testify to the high esteem in which the young couple are held. Mr. and Mrs. O'Reilly will reside at Lakeview Farm, Ennismore.

Relatives from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clark, Lindsay; Mr. Patrick Clark, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McGuire, Harvey; Mr. and Mrs. John McGuire, Otonabee; Mr. Ed. Harrington, Bird's Eye; Messrs. Walter and Victor Young, Young's Point; Mr. Quirk, Michigan; Mrs. J. F. McGuire, Toronto; Miss May E. Moloney, East Emily; and Mrs. I. E. King, Lakehurst.

BARKER—ROLLINS.

St. Andrew's church, charmingly decorated with palms and ferns, was the scene of a quiet wedding at 11.30 this morning when Jessie Kathleen, daughter of Rev. James and Mrs. Rollins was united in matrimony to Harry Christie Barker, M.C., Lieut. Royal Canadian Regiment, son of the late Henry T. Barker, St. John's N.B.

The bride charmingly attired in her travelling suit of navy serge, grey fox furs and smart black toque, with French blue tip, and carrying a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley, entered the church under the escort of her uncle, Mr. J. Stuart McCann, of Kingston, to the wedding march played by Mr. John Crane. She was attended by Miss Bessie Mather, of Peterborough, who wore a navy suit and black hat and carried American Beauty roses. The groom was supported by Capt. W. S. McCann, M.C., Kingston. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, Captain Rev. James Rollins, pastor of St. Andrew's church. During the signing of the register, Miss Helen MacLaren sang "O Perfect Love" very sweetly.

As the bridal party left the church after the ceremony to return to St. Andrew's manse, where a small reception was held, St. John's Chimes pealed appropriate airs. Later the bride and groom motored to Port Hope, from where they will proceed to New York and Washington. They will reside at St. John, N.B.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mrs. F. C. Foster, of St. John, N.B.; Major L. W. Barker, D.S.O., and Mrs. Barker and Miss Phyllis Barker of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. David Gillies, of Carlton Place; Major A. B. Gillies, O.B.E., Mrs. Gillies and Master David Gillies, of Kingston; Captain W. S. McCann of Kingston, and Miss Curlette, of Toronto.

The decorations in the church were provided by the Young Ladies Mission Band of St. Andrew's.

UNION STATION FOR PETERBORO

INITIAL STEPS TAKEN BY CITY COUNCIL LAST EVENING.

Steps were taken by the Council last night for the erection of a union railway station for both the C. P. R. and Grand Trunk lines.

Ald. J. J. Turner brought the matter to the attention of the council, and moved, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald, Ontario Land Surveyor, be requested to make an examination for a suitable site for a union station west of the crossing of the C.P.R. and G.T.R. tracks in the city.

The station would be so placed that the railway track on Bethune street would be removed, thus eliminating another public eyesore.

Ald. Edgar and Crowe wished to call the two railways into consultation, but their amendment was lost, and the original motion carried.

Sewage Disposal.

City Engineer R. H. Parsons, who has been on a scouting tour of some of the American cities, inspecting sewage disposal plants, in Fitchburg, Mass., Albany and Schenectady, N.Y., also at Rochester, reported to the City Council last night.

Nothing definite was decided upon by the Council except that they decided to take over the whole farm of Mr. A. Wilson, Otonabee. The original motion read 35 acres of Mr. Wilson's farm.

Close a Street.

The Council gave the Grand Trunk Railway permission to close Bethune street from Brock to Murray street for eight or ten days while they are rebuilding their bridge, provided that access to Fitzgerald's coal yards is not cut off.

The railway must in return assume all liability for any damage caused by the closing of the street and must erect signs to that effect.

City Clerk Armstrong wrote the Industrial Commission of the Grand Trunk Railway System regarding the Nashua Gummed and Coated Paper Company, which intends to open a branch here. Mr. Armstrong received the following letter a few days ago:

Grand Trunk Railway System.
Montreal Que., September 30, 1919
W. S. H. Armstrong,
City Clerk,
Peterboro, Ont.

Dear Sir,—I have your very interesting letter of 20th instant and wish to thank you for the information contained therein and also wish to congratulate you upon the acquisition of the desirable industries named. The Nashua Gummed & Coated Paper Company is the concern referred to in our correspondence of July and August. At that time they were not agreeable to our divulging their name principally because they were fairly satisfied with a location that they had quite thoroughly looked into. At the same time, Peterboro's advantages impressed them very much. They are a good concern. Mr. W. L. Carter, their Treasurer, is I understand associated with the Carter's Ink People and this Paper Company is only one of several enterprises he is in. Perhaps other concerns might follow when this one gets settled down. I trust the by-law will be duly carried. Again thanking you for your letter and hoping to see you before long.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) Wm. P. Fitzsimons
Commissioner of Industries.

BELLOU, MURDERER, PAID HIS EEBT

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—Thomas Bellou, murderer, did more than pay society's debt at San Quentin Penitentiary.

He forfeited his life for the life he had taken, and after death he gave the interstitial glands of his dead body to an aged convict, whose virility and strength had ebbed within the prison walls.

It was another of a series of remarkable operations which have been performed in the San Quentin Hospital, utilising the glandular theory which Dr. Serge Voronoff, of Paris, recently claimed to have discovered, although it has been in use in the United States for a number of years.

At 10.25 this morning the trap was sprung beneath Bellou, the murderer of his mother-in-law. Eleven minutes later the prison doctor, dropping his stethoscope from the breast of the swaying form, pronounced life extinct.

The body was rushed to the prison hospital. Beside the operating table stood Dr. C. David Kelker, of the prison medical staff, and Drs. R. L. Draper and Leo Van Aradale, of Lane Hospital.

On the table lay a convict, sixty years of age. The body of Bellou was lifted to an adjoining table. With scientific precision the interstitial glands were cut away.

The scalpel next turned to the man of sixty. Incisions were made and the glands transplanted into his body. Unable to feel the pain of the operation because of the anaesthetic injected into the spine, he talked with the doctors as they cut and sewed.

The surgeons are satisfied that new strength, mental as well as physical, will follow the operation. Similar results have come from such operations previously performed at the prison by Dr. Lee L. Stanley, prison surgeon, and his assistant, Dr. Kelker. Dr. Stanley could not be present at the operation, however.

THE CHIMES WERE RUNG

The People's Chimes were rung this morning at 11.30 o'clock by the authority of St. John's Church in compliment to the marriage of Miss Jessie Rollins, daughter of Rev. James Rollins of St. Andrew's Church. Among the airs rendered were the wedding march, a number of Scotch airs and "Oh Canada".

MR. GILLESPIE

Thanks the Electors

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

I frankly confess that the result of the election in West Peterborough yesterday was somewhat of a surprise as much to myself and to my supporters, as it must have been to the successful candidate.

I have no hesitation in saying that, up to within a few days of the polling day, my election was generally conceded to be a foregone conclusion. Few were aware of the quiet, underlying strength of the Labour influence which turned the tide and I heartily congratulate Mr. Tooms on the splendid efforts of his friends which resulted in his election.

Personally, I have not a single complaint to make regarding the election. My only regret is for my loyal and energetic supporters, who worked so faithfully in my behalf without gaining their object. To you, therefore, ladies and gentlemen, I take this opportunity of returning my sincere thanks for your unselfish and generous support, which I will not soon forget.

It may be a little premature at present to state my views on the results of the election throughout the Province. This much I am quite sure of:—that there has been equally startling surprises in other constituencies as well as West Peterborough, and that in the majority of these cases the strength of the Liberal party will be found to be greatly augmented.

My hope for the successful passing of the Referendum Bill was strong—that by an overwhelming vote the voice of the electorate will have declared emphatically for a "dry" Ontario.

Your obedient servant,

GEO. A. GILLESPIE

cases explainable by local circumstances. While resentment over what considered a reversal of the Whitney policy undoubtedly showed promin by the results, yet the world-wide dissatisfaction with the Governments, desire for more radical measures for the good of the masses, and the fee that pecial interests should have particular representation had much to with the sweeping verdict.

Nobody can say that the slump to the U. F. O. had any relation to passing of the Ontario Temperance Act, unless, indeed, that neither pa was to be trusted to enforce the will of the people in favour of Prohibit caused the temperance farmers to vote for their own candidates regard of the party ties of a lifetime. The fact that the Conservatives ran Good ham, a distiller, against Dewart, the Liberal Leader, and that Hon. McGarry and Hon. Mr. Ferguson, the latter the Government campa organiser, was not credited with being enthusiastic in support of the Onta Temperance Act, probably encouraged the slump.

A striking fact is that the official Opposition in the House, notw standing the great upheaval throughout the Province, was not able to prove its own position.

CLAIMS C.P.R. HELPED TO DEFEAT BECK.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, October 21.—Explanations of Sir Adam Beck's defeat London are coming forward. Hydro supporters claim that the C. P. The new women vote went almost solidly Prohibition. The wom vote also eventually went largely to the Conservative Government, a without it the Conservative showing would have been a much more soo one than it is. Admission that the women's vote did much to elect the was made by the victorious Conservative candidates on thanking the electo for the victory after the results became known.

A JOB FOR SIR WILLIAM HEARST.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, October 21.—It is freely stated to-day among the Premie close friends that Sir William Hearst will become the next Lieut.-Governo of Ontario. The Premier's friends say he had the promise of the Lieutena Governorship in the event of his defeat. The promise, it is said, was ma immediately after the Hon. Frank Cochrane's death, Mr. Cochrane, up to t time of his fatal illness, having the assurance of receiving the post when is vacated by Sir John Hendrie.

A CASE FOR THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, October 21.—"I think this is a case for the Lieutenan Governor," said Sir John Hendrie, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, wh asked at noon to-day if he could throw any light on a situation without pr cedent in Canada, and never conceived by authorities on constitutional la which results from yesterday's Ontario election.

"I believe that under the circumstances I can call any one in the Legi lature or out of it, and ask him to form a Government. Of course, it wo without saying that such a man would have to have the support of a ma jority of the Legislature in order to carry on," said Sir John.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, October 21.—"I am gratified," said the Hon. N. W. Row at noon to-day, "that the Ontario Temperance Act has been sustained i such a decisive majority. I never had any doubt as to the verdict of th people on this issue."

OTTAWA, October 21.—There is no special indication here of any in tention on the part of the Government to drop its temperance Bills, wha ever may be the final result of the Ontario Referendum. It was stated de finitely by more than one Minister this morning that the Government ha not considered any other course. The Federal Bills are merely enabling Bill to allow the Provinces to become just as dry as they themselves want to be If the Federal Bills pass, and if the Ontario vote is undecisive at leas on the fourth question, there would not be much likelihood of the Ontari Legislature asking for a bone-dry Referendum. But that would be a ques tion for the Ontario, and not the Ottawa, Government to decide.

FIVE LIBERALS IN TORONTO CAMP.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—There is no explanation of the election of fiv Liberals in Tory Toronto, other than the fact that the number of disgruntl Toronto Conservatives was much larger than was ever imagined, even t those in the confidence of the Conservative electorate. Another cause wa particularly demonstrated in South-West Toronto—the mistake of the Hon G. Howard Ferguson, organiser for the Government, in having nominated as Government and temperance candidates in certain Toronto ridings men whose associations had in past elections been with the liquor interests. The example of George H. Gooderham, distiller and Conservative candidate in South-West Toronto, opposing Hartley Dewart, and claiming to be the Simon-pure temperance candidate, was little short of a comedy, and that the electors viewed it as such is evidenced by the majority of 5,000 given in Dewart's favour.

Mackenzie King is Satisfied.

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.— Hon. W. L. M. King is a very pleased man today. He is delighted with both the Federal and Ontario elections. As a result of the former he finds himself elected to the House of Commons by acclamation, ready to take his seat in a few days as leader of the Liberal party in Canada. While in Prince Edward Island recently Mr. King challenged anyone to contest the seat with him on the issue of his war record, but no one took up the challenge and the result is an acclamation for Mr. King. As for the Ontario elections Mr. King looks upon them as clearly a victory for "the Progressive forces," in which he is

(Special to the Examiner)

TORONTO, Oct. 22. — "I said nothing yesterday that would indicate that Mr. Dewart was or was not the man I had in view", said Lieut. Governor Sir John Hendrie when shown the statement issued to the press last night by Mr. H. Hartley Dewart claiming that Sir John's natural course was to call upon "the successful leader" of the Liberal party to form a Government". I mentioned no names yesterday and Mr. Dewart could have taken nothing to himself", continued the Lieut.-Governor. "The situation is very interesting. Here are four parties none of them strong enough to form a government that would have a majority support. It is obvious that a government would carry on by virtue of the support of an opposition section." In the meantime the business of the Province must be carried on. The great public works, such as those of Sir Adam Beck cannot be neglected or left undone. "If no party is strong enough to form a government then you could call in an outsider who would have the support of a majority?

"Yes, I believe I could. Then if Mr. Hardy is strong enough to form a Government, I don't have to accept the resignation of any Government," said Sir John.

Soldiers, it was stated today, would oppose any effort by the Lieut.-Gov. to call in an outsider to form a government.

United Farmers Are Holding Conference in Toronto To-day

THE FARMERS ARE SATISFIED IN THE THREE WESTERN PROVINCES

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, October 22.—Concerning the next Provincial elections in the West, Roderick McKenzie, vice-president of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, said yesterday that he did not anticipate that candidates of the Farmer's party would be placed in the field. In the three Prairie Provinces, he said, Provincial Governments are in closer touch with the farmers than was Hearst of Ontario. He defined the main questions with which the Provincial Governments of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta are concerned.

"Indications up to the present," said McKenzie, "have been that the farmers' movement in the West will confine its activities to national issues for some time to come."

McKenzie pointed out that in the Manitoba Legislature the majority of members were farmers at present, and doubtless this would remain true indefinitely. A similar condition prevailed in Saskatchewan and Alberta. The case of the Western Provinces was by no means a parallel with that of Ontario, McKenzie said.

SIR WILLIAM HEARST HAS NO SOLUTION TO OFFER AT PRESENT

RETURNED TO TORONTO THIS MORNING FROM SAULT STE. MARIE—AN INTERVIEW WITH THE EXAMINER IN WHICH SIR WILLIAM DISCUSSES THE LANDSLIDE.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, October 22.—Sir William Hearst, accompanied by Lady Hearst, arrived in Toronto this morning from his home in Sault Ste. Marie, where he put up a strenuous but losing fight against the Labour forces of that riding. The Premier looked tired and worn after the strenuous campaign, and was unable to explain the landslide from the Government at the polls on Monday, or give any solution for the question of how to form a Cabinet that would secure the support of a majority of the new Legislature.

"It's a tangle at present, and as yet I can see no way to unravel it," said Sir William Hearst.

There was a lot of weariness in his voice as he discussed the result of the election. He appeared utterly at a loss to explain the landslide against the Government. The defeat of his Cabinet Ministers affected him deeply.

Sir William frankly admitted that the defeat of Sir Adam Beck was one of the greatest surprises to him; nor could he understand the defeat of Hon. T. W. McGarry and the Hon. I. B. Lucas.

"They apparently wanted a change," said Sir William regarding the result of his own riding.

"Otherwise, how can you explain the fact that they endorsed my stand on the temperance question?"

"What are your plans for the immediate future?" inquired The Examiner.

"I would rather not say anything for publication until I have seen my colleagues and have had time to reason the matter out," replied Sir William.

"I think there was something more than the general unrest underlying the defeat of the Government—something I had not sensed during my tour of the Province. Look at the great meeting we had at Chatham; and yet—"

Sir William left the sentence unfinished.

As to whether a Coalition of any of the parties was likely, the Premier could not say. He was anxious to know how Toronto regarded the situation and inquired whether the farmers had given any indication of a desire to form a Government.

On being told that it was thought the U. F. O. members would decline to form an administration, Sir William said that even if the Liberals and Conservatives united, they would be at the mercy of the U. F. O. "They could say, If you are not good, we shall turn you out!" said Sir William.

With a shrug of his shoulders, the Premier intimated that he had intended to take a rest following the election, but would not do so now until the present tangled state of affairs is cleared up.

LETTER FROM MR. FRANK ARNOLD FORMERLY OF C.G.E. HERE.

Mr. Frank S. Arnold, formerly of the Canadian General Electric Company, who is now mechanical engineer with Carter-Rice and Company of Nashua, New Hampshire, in a letter to Mr. William E. Payton, 305 King street, complimented Peterborough on obtaining the Nashua Gummed and Coated Paper Company.

"I was very glad indeed to get your letter and clipping. Your city will be fortunate indeed if you get our company to locate there. It is Carter, Rice & Company, with another name. I am not connected with the wax paper as I am in the machine department, which is in another part of the city. We have machines in Toronto and shall undoubtedly have some in Peterborough when we commence to make our paper there. I told the man who is to take charge what a fine city you have. . . I am travelling quite a lot and may happen near enough to Peterborough to visit you and see how you all are. I don't suppose I would know very many of the band boys, but I might know a few. . . HUNT FOR SEWAGE DISPOSAL SITE STILL IN PROGRESS

The sewage disposal site committee, composed of Aldermen Phelan, Hamilton, McIntyre, Turner and Mayor Duncan, held a lengthy session last evening. Mr. Dawson Kennedy, who owns a farm of 86 acres in Otonabee on the river bank, asked $100 an acre for his land or $86,000 for the sewage disposal plant. He finally stated that if the Council would offer $85,000 they would accept.

Mr. E. R. Wilson and Mr. R. Wilson were heard in regard to their property. They asked $18,000 for 17 1-2 acres; for 85 acres $86,000 or for the whole farm of 188 acres $45,000, including the buildings. The committee offered Mr. Wilson $10,000 for the 85 acres, which he promptly declined. After considerable dickering the chairman asked if they accept $17,500 for 85 acres if the Council would pay it. They replied that they would consider $20,000.

Nothing more was done.

INTERESTING INTERVIEW WITH MR. J. J. MORRISON, SECRETARY OF THE U.F.O., NOT IN FAVOUR OF A COMBINATION.

WILL NOT BE SPOILED

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—J. J. Morrison, secretary of the United Farmers' Association, was a busy man this morning preparing for the conference of the elected of that body with the executive, to be held this afternoon. He found time in which to state his view on the overtures that were being made to the farmers to join with the Liberals in the formation of a coalition government. The coalition as suggested by H. H. Dewart, he said, would not be a real coalition at all. To be such it would have to represent all the farmers. As to the advisability on joining on such an administration he would not express an opinion.

"Oh, we are on the globe," said the secretary, in reference to the advances that are being made, the official being somewhat amused at the sudden popularity of the movement in certain quarters.

"What have you to say in reference to the proposals made for a coalition government?" asked the Examiner.

"In view of this meeting this afternoon it would be very unfair for me to make a statement," replied Mr. Morrison.

"What are your personal views?"

"That," replied the secretary, "it would not be a coalition one that would be alignment with or absorption by any party of the U.F.O."

"How will the government be carried on?"

"As to that it is impossible to say. The government must go on, but why call on the United Farmers any more than any of the others? We haven't a majority of the members of the House. Why should the votes of the government fall on us more than not the Labor party? We should be a minority in the House."

"What about Mr. Dewart's proposal?"

"That would not be a coalition at all. That would be an alignment. A true coalition would be made up of all the elected representatives."

"Will you elect a leader to-day?"

"I do not think so."

"So that if the Lieut.-Governor called on one of the U.F.O. he would have to make his own selection?'

"Yes, I suppose."

Replying to a query, Mr. Morrison said that he did not think that the U. F.O. would be spoiled by the taste of power. "I don't think that it will do them any harm at all," he said. "They will feel their responsibility."

Recall Pledge.

"What is the nature of the recall pledge which is taken by the U.F.O. candidates?"

"There was never any authorized recall pledge that is prepared by themselves. The effect of it is that if 65 per cent. of the people called for their resignation the resignation was to be put in."

"But would that not give the other parties an opportunity to join in a combination and secure the recall of elected U.F.O. members?"

"No; they would have to be supporters of the U.F.O., who asked for the recall."

"This recall is not legalized," said Mr. Morrison; "and it is not binding; but this is the means we propose to introduce. We must have the recall; all progressive men feel that."

Questioned further in reference to the Globe's suggested combination, Mr. Morrison reiterated that that would be an alignment to force their views on the others, and to this they were opposed.

"But it is pointed out that your policy and that of the Liberal party are almost identical?"

"That," replied the U.F.O. Secretary, "would not be a fair representation. We believe in proportional representation. That is a part of our platform. If we had that kind of a coalition suggested by the Globe we would not be living up to our principles."

"How many will be present at this afternoon's meeting?"

Mr. Morrison replied that all U.F. O. members would attend and also many of the defeated members. Probably there would be an attendance of seventy.

"The Globe calls it a caucus," said Mr. Morrison, "but it is hardly that; it is a conference."

"But will it be private?"

"Yes; a statement will be made afterwards."

"What about the proposal that Sir Adam Beck head a new Parliament, including the U.F.O.?"

"I haven't heard anything about such a proposal."

"What do you think of the idea?"

"I would not care to express an opinion."

RUSSIAN SITUATION

CONFLICTING REPORTS RECEIVED TO-DAY—STREET FIGHTING IN PETROGRAD.

NAVAL SKIRMISH

(United Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Conflicting reports were received here to-day regarding the progress of the anti-Bolshevik attack against Petrograd.

A Berlin despatch quoted the Russian paper Prisyw as saying that an official communique from General Yudenitch declared he had reached the city proper from the south, and that street fighting was going on in the outskirts.

Other despatches, however, reported the Bolsheviki not only successfully resisting the attack on Petrograd, but winning victories on other fronts.

While the Red Armies were keeping the anti-Bolsheviki forces from the city gates by frequent sorties, it was said that both Denikine and Kolchak received setbacks.

(Canadian Press.)

HELSINGFORS, Oct. 22. — The capture of Krasnaia Gorka, on the Gulf of Finland, nearly opposite Kronstadt, by the North-western Russian Army is announced from that army's headquarters to-day.

The capture was effected on Monday after severe fighting.

The battle is still continuing.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Two Bolshevik torpedoboat destrovers were sunk in Koporia Bay, Gulf of Finland, when they attempted to attack Esthonian vessels and British destroyers on Tuesday, the British Admiralty announced to-day.

Six survivors from the Bolshevik vessels were picked up.

The British and Esthonians sustained no casualties.

A SEWER WANTED ON DUBLIN STREET

ACCOUNTS SUBMITTED AT LAST NIGHT'S MEETING OF BOARD OF HEALTH.

During the month of September there were two cases of diphtheria in Queen Mary Hospital and three cases of smallpox and one case of scarlet fever.

David Hooey, Aylmer street, complained by letter to the Board of Health last evening of the unsanitary condition of the road on the east side of Aylmer street, north of London street. The matter was referred to the City Council. The Board also recommended to the City Council that the city construct a sewer on Dublin street from Aylmer to a point 100 feet west.

List of Accounts.

The following accounts were submitted and ordered to be paid:

Dr. McPherson, M. O. H., pointed out that there are no cases of typhoid fever this year in the city so far, showing that the Utilities Commission have used chlorine to good advantage. He did not think however, that this warranted the city from not building a filtration plant. The Board decided to second the efforts of the Utilities Commission to obtain a filtration plant here. They will, with the Commission, strenuously support four by-laws to be submitted to the people in January at the same time as the municipal elections.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 22. — Economy is the watchword of the session of Parliament which opens to-day, and efforts are to be made by members of the House of Commons to throw into discard the military programme outlined in the last Budget.

A new education scheme and the proposal to construct at cost thousands of homes for working men, Governmental military and financial commitments, national policy regarding Russia, military occupation of Ireland, with a plan for Irish Home Rule, and the Labour Party's demand for nationalisation of mines and railways, will be important matters to come before Parliament this session.

It is expected that the members of the House will closely question the Government as to its policies, especially regarding expenditures, and Mr. Lloyd-George may answer these questions in a few days.

HALBERT'S OPPONENT DIES SUDDENLY

ALL CAMPAIGN ACTIVITIES HAVE BEEN SUSPENDED—RALLY POSTPONED.

BEAVERTON, Oct. 22. — Due to the sudden death yesterday afternoon at Cannington of James Cowan, Conservative candidate in the North Ontario Federal election all campaign activities have been suspended.

The elections were supposed to be held on Monday next and both Mr. Cowan and his U. F. O. opponent, R. Y. Halbert, were conducting vigorous campaigns.

Mr. Halbert arrived here last night accompanied by Hon. T. W. Crearar, the former Minister of Agriculture, and Mr. R. W. E. Burnaby, president of the U.F.O. Cooperative Co'y, and all arrangements were complete for a rousing local rally.

Speculation is rife as to how the situation now stands. Some of Mr. Halbert's adherents stoutly maintain that he gets the seat by acclamation while others are dubious and believe new nominations must be held.

Mr. Halbert had no opinion to express when questioned to-day by the reporters.

TENDENCY WILL BE TO HANG ON AS LONG AS THEY CAN—MAY FORCE A CRISIS.

THE STORM

(Special to the Examiner)

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.— While the first natural inclination of the government and of Private Members after the Ontario blow up is more than ever to sit tight and take advantage of power and seats as long as possible before venturing into the storm outside there are premonitory fears that such a course may not be possible. There are forces within Parliament that may seek to compel a crisis.

The next session may be a Tariff Session and out of that issue may come a situation that cannot be solved without an early appeal to the people. After the Ontario Elections and the phenominal successes of the Farmers, private members from the West and from rural constituencies in Ontario realize more than ever that political parties in the old sense have disappeared, and that they will have to think of their constituents rather than of any party if they wish to have the shadow of a chance of coming back to Parliament. Even Quebec members to-day are talking of the possibility of a farmer's party in that province and the name of a prominent member of the Gouin Administration is being mentioned as the possible leader of the movement.

General Unsettlement

Nothing succeeds like success and the rise of labour and farm elements in Ontario is almost sure to be repeated in other provinces, spreading rapidly to the Federal Fields where it is already apparent in the pending bye elections.

Although the Liberal party is also affected by the new movement, which may not be willing to join forces with any of the old groups, yet the general unsettlement is more favorable to the present opposition than to the Government. It is always those in power, who inevitably are the easiest targets for the discontented ones who now seem to be in the majority in city and country alike.

The Liberal party within a day or two will pass directly under the leadership of Mackenzie King, who is distinctly favorable to what he refers to as the Democratic forces of farm and labor. In what remains of the present parliament, whether it be one two or more sessions, the Liberal party under Mr. King has an opportunity of pushing a vigorous agitation for specific returns demanded by the Agrarian and Urban labor movements. And quite apart from the Liberals the Western members may take a more aggressive position and carry on an agitation that may lead to a decision.

SUIT AGAINST CITY OF WINNIPEG

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Oct. 22. — That the City of Winnipeg pay damages of $8,000.00 caused by the action of City Solicitor Hunt in gaining an injunction against the Winnipeg Electric Railway Company restraining them from collecting increased fares, is an action filed by the company to-day in the Court of the King's Bench.

Mr. Hunt, after losing three actions against the company, was reproved by Commissioner McDonald, Judge Galt, and Chief Justice Perdue for methods he had used in gaining the injunction.

BIG LABOUR VOTE IN ST. THOMAS

(Special to the Examiner)

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 22.—It is doubtful if there was more of a political land slide in the whole province yesterday than in thecity of St. Thomas which has given a Conservative candidate a huge majority at every provincial election in its history. The Labor vote and the Labor vote alone turned the tables in eight Labor divisions that previously gave Hon. P. G. Macdiarmid smashing majorities the Minister of Public Works who was the loser to Peter G. Cameron of almost two to one.

BIFF!

Stop Jolting Liver and Bowels with violent drugs,-but take "Cascarets."

"Dynamiting" bile out of your system with calomel and other sickening purgatives is all wrong. Salts Oil, and Cathartic Waters act by flooding the bowels with the digestive juices which are vital to the stomach. Cascarets are different. They act as a tonic to the bowel muscles which is the only sensible way to relieve a bilious attack, a sour acid stomach, or constipated bowels. There is no griping or inconvenience. You naturally return to regularity and cheerfulness. Cascarets cost very little and they work while you sleep.

NOTES ON THE REFERENDUM

To the Editor, of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir,—Every ward in the city gave a substantial majority on all four questions.

The West Ward gave the largest majority 1,208 on question No. 1.

The North Ward gave the largest majority 807 on question No. 4.

There are 10,366 names on the voters list; including names added over 9,000 voters exercised their franchise including those who spoiled their ballots, this means that over 5-6 of the voters went to the polls, a remarkable record.

The referendum committee polled over a 70% majority on question No. 1 and over 60% majority on all the others, this means more than a three fifth majority on all, a record of which our city may well feel proud.

The referendum polled over 1,200 more votes in the city than all three candidates combined.

Contrary to popular prediction the percentage of spoiled ballots was not large, a proof of the splendid work of our canvassers.

The Referendum Organization will remain intact until the transportation and manufacture of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes, is prohibited in the Province, indications are that this will be accomplished within a year.

This campaign was unique in that there was not a public meeting held or campaign speakers employed and demonstrates that the personal canvas and organization for polling the vote was all that was required under the present condition of enlightened public opinion.

A. B. Cunningham.

CURIOSITY.

To the Editor—Please, sir, can you tell me what a "Rummage Sale" is? I never heard tell of such a thing in the old country and I am curious to know. We often have bazaars, soirias, dorcas, society teas, wakes and christenings, but a "rummage sale" is something new to me.

Yours,
Curiosity.

Note.—The editor, in his dilemma, tossed your inquiry into my basket. I confess you've got me beat. If you had asked me what a "political rummage" was I might have helped you out. VICTORY LOAN CAMPAIGN OPENS MONDAY, OCT. 27

ORGANIZATION COMPLETE AND PLANS PREPARED TO ROLL UP PETERBORO SHARE OF THE NEW LOAN—SHOULD BE OVER SUBSCRIBED.

PERSONNEL OF COMMITTEE

A few days more—Monday, October 27th is the date—and Peterborough, City and County, will be in the grip of Victory Loan canvassers, who will have for their objective the raising of $1,000,000 including special subscriptions. Readers of The Examiner should read the pointed appeal of the Campaign Chairman, which appears in this issue. It tells the need of the hour; it refers with pride to the splendid response Peterborough has made in the past by patriotic effort, and calls for a final effort to keep Peterborough in her proud position.

Nothing is being left undone, in the effort to give to the Victory Loan Campaign the success it deserves.

Many of Peterborough's busy business and professional men will break away from their own interests and co-operate one with the other in an endeavor to reach the objective set for Peterborough, and help in the Dominion-wide effort to pile up the money which the Government so urgently needs.

Everybody is giving a hand. From the County comes word that preparations are being made for real work. The Council of North Monaghan, at the last regular meeting, passed the following resolution:

Moved by Mr. Wilson:
Seconded by Mr. Henry:
That the Municipal Council of the Township of North Monaghan hereby approves of the 1919 Victory Loan as being benficial to the farmers in financing the sale of the products of the farm.
—Carried.

The Great War Veterans' Association, Peterborough branch, and the Independent Labor party, also have endorsed the Victory Loan. At a recent meeting of the Veterans, Comrade R. E. Layfield addressed the members of the branch with reference to the Loan and the resolution of endorsement was moved by Comrade Miller and seconded by Mr. Goodfellow, the latter a member of the Independent Labor party.

WHAT CANADA HAS ACHIEVED IN WAR

WONDERFUL EFFORTS OF CANADIANS IN FINANCING ARE NOT FULLY REALIZED.

When one considers that war and war-financing were efforts unknown to Canadians the record of her achievements in arms and in providing the sinews of war are all the more praiseworthy.

On another page of this paper will be found an official statement of how Canada spent the $610,000,000 raised by the Victory Loan of last year and to what uses the money asked for by the new and final Victory Loan will be directed.

Put concisely in catechism form the account touches every point of vital interest in a manner satisfactory to the most critical. The page advertisement should be read carefully, and then cut out and preserved for future reference. Its facts and figures are so well presented that students of them are sure to realise their obligations to Canada's soldier sons and their responsibility for maintenance of Canada's prosperity during the reconstruction period and to pledge themselves to buy Victory Bonds to the limit of their ability.

Easy to Make This Pine Cough Remedy

Thousands of families swear by its prompt results. Inexpensive, and saves about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine is famous for this purpose.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a 16-oz. bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make 16 ounces—more than you can buy ready-made for $2.50. It is pure, good and very pleasant—children take it eagerly.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

JOPEPH MANTELL VOTED FOUR NO'S

"I voted four no's because I had feeling for my fellow-beings and a brighter prospect for the women and children of the future," said Joseph Mantell, age 100, of 40 Rainsford road, Toronto, yesterday.

"I have always been a strong Conservative," he said, "and have tried to support a man whose interests were other than salary and position."

When referring to the gains made by the U. F. O., he recalled to mind the days when as a farmer he sold beef for 7½ cents a cwt. and potatoes for 12 cents a bushel. "Many a time I could not get that much," he added.

Mr. Mantell waxed indignant yesterday when he was asked if he could walk to the polls.

He has excellent eyesight despite his age and reads all the newspapers without the aid of glasses. He has lived in Canada 60 years and Riverdale for the past ten years.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 22ND, 1919.

A SHORT RUN.

The career of General Ross as an Ontario Cabinet Minister was a short one.

ONE SATISFACTION.

The Liberal party has the satisfaction of proving that no fewer than fifteen of the seats won by the Dewart candidates were snatched out of the hands of Conservatives.

NO DOUBT OF THIS.

The Toronto Telegram tries to blame Mr. Dewart for the defeat of Sir Adam Beck in London. There is nothing in that but it must be admitted that the Liberal leader had considerable to do with beating George H. Gooderham in South-west Toronto.

WELCOME ADDITIONS.

Although not larger numerically the Liberal representation in the Legislature has gained some notable additions as the result of Monday's election. The election of Messrs. John O'Neil and J. W. Curry in Toronto brings two splendid members into the Liberal groups in the Legislature. Both are strong men in every sense of the term, men who have served in various public capacities capably and fearlessly. Both are of Cabinet calibre, able, honest, and energetic. Liberals throughout the Province will rejoice that they have been successful.

ONE SOLUTION.

A possible solution of the tangle in which the surprising results of the provincial elections have left the political situation is the plan that is known to be favored by a number of the United Farmers, a development of the group system by which each group; Conservative, Liberal, United Farmers and Labor would name a number of Cabinet ministers. The Legislature, under this novel plan, would operate on the same lines as does a municipal council, and those who advocate the adoption of the group system in provincial affairs contend that the public business could be carried out just as easily and as effectively as are the affairs of a county administered by the county council or of a city by the board of aldermen. No organized opposition is necessary, declare the friends of this suggestion and it should be possible to transact the busines of the Province without serious friction. However, whether the Farmers will propose this plan following their meeting to-day, or not, remains to be seen and in the meantime any speculation as to the future development of the present complex situation would be idle.

THE FARMERS' RESPONSIBILITY.

Upon the shoulders of the members of the United Farmers who have been elected to the Legislature may fall the responsibility of attempting to form a Government and of carrying on the business of the Province. Their task would not be an easy one. The unrest that exists and which, with the dissatisfaction of the people with the Hearst Government resulted in their election, would now have to receive their attention. Theirs would be the duty of attempting a solution of the many grave problems that must be handled. From the role of critics they have passed to an executive position. The magnitude of what lies before them is probably discerting even to the U.F.O. leaders. In the first place they have not a working majority and a coalition with the other groups is apparently not thought of. Again, their strength, from a public-service standpoint, is an unknown quantity. Many of their candidates have had no training in public life: their ability to produce Cabinet material from among those elected remains to be proven. They must be given a fair chance to make good and criticism, in all fairness, should be withheld until the new force in Ontario's political life has had an opportunity to demonstrate its capabilities. Much depends upon their meeting in Toronto to-day.

THE BY-LAWS.

The ratepayers of the city, although the provincial elections and the referendum are over, should remember that they will have another opportunity of voting on Friday when they will be asked to express their opinions on two by-laws.

With both of the measures to be voted upon there should be no question of the result. One by-law is to authorize the exemption of the G. W. V. A. Hall, on Murray Street, from taxation and is submitted in order that the City Council may be given the power to complement a promise that was made to the veterans of the war. The G.W.V.A. were promised by the Council, when their project of preparing new quarters was being undertaken, that the building would be exempt from municipal taxes. Afterwards it was discovered that the exemption could not be given without the passing of a by-law and accordingly the ratepayers are being asked to indicate their opinion on Friday. The by-law should carry unanimously.

The war veterans have earned a much greater gift at the hands of their fellow citizens than the exemption of a few dollars taxes and surely there is no one in Peterboro who will have any objection to this exemption being granted.

The other by-law affords Peterboro a chance to secure another promising industry in the Nashua Gum and Coated Paper Company, a concern that has grown to very large proportions in the United States. The probabilities are that the Canadian branch which is to be established in Peterboro will have an equally rapid growth and become one of the city's most flourishing manufacturing concerns. Briefly, the ratepayers are asked to authorize the city to purchase the former plant of the Metal Products Company, at $50,000, spend $7,000 on repairs, and rent it to the Nashua Company at 7 per cent. on the whole cost. The city's interests are well protected in this transaction. The investment is itself an excellent one and it brings with it an industry that should be welcomed with open arms. The project has been strongly endorsed by the Board of Trade, after being considered from all angles. There are many reasons for supporting this measure and no valid excuse for voting against it. The ratepayers should understand, however, that two-thirds of those who vote must answer in the affirmative in order to carry the by-law.

Both issues to be voted on on Friday should have decisive majorities.

A POLITICAL REVOLUTION.

Ontario is to have her first experience of coalitions. The King's Government must be carried on. It is evident that the Hearst Ministry, shattered and rent at the polls, and discredited before the country, cannot hope to receive from the United Farmers and the Labor members the co-operation and support necessary to its retention of office. The verdict of the electors, whatever else it may mean, does unquestionably mean that a majority of the people of Ontario are against the Hearst Government, and desire that the Seven Sleepers shall be replaced by a live and progressive Administration.

The defeat of five members of the Cabinet is proof positive that outside of the question of the prohibition referendum and the liquor legislation the Government had outstayed its welcome. The desire of all the people for advancement and change is shown in many ways. The heavy gains made in industrial centres outside of the city by the Labor men is one. They carried both Hamiltons, London against such a dominant personality as Sir Adam Beck, Sault Ste. Marie against Sir William Hearst himself, St. Catharines, South Waterloo, Fort William, beating Conservative opponents in all of these. In South Brant, another industrial community, the Labour candidate won against a Liberal.

Gains were made by the Liberals also in the industrial centres against the Conservative candidates. In Toronto, where five seats were won; Welland, Niagara Falls; West Kent, where the city of Chatham went Liberal for the first time; South Ontario, which is becoming an industrial centre, the dissatisfaction against the Government and the desire to test new policies were plainly expressed.

The sweep of the United Farmers of Ontario in the country ridings at the expense of both Liberals and Conservatives is another indication of the changing currents of opinion, and a warning that the traditional parties are not conceded to have a monopoly of wisdom. It is too early to say just how many members the United Farmers will muster in the new Legislature, but they will most assuredly hold the balance of power. It is clear that neither the Liberals nor the Conservatives can organize the House on strictly party lines. This means the beginning of group government in Ontario. Should the farmers refuse to ally themselves definitely with either of the existing parties it will be necessary that there shall be organized a coalition Government including Farmer representatives. No Government would consent to take upon itself such a task without some assurance that the Farmer members would permit its members to carry on. A vote of confidence at least, and more likely a working organization, will be necessary before a Government can enter securely upon its duties.

The majorities recorded for the Farmer candidates are so extraordinarily large as to dispel the fears of a distinct cleavage between the people of the smaller towns and those of the rural sections which some profess to be able to see. This is a happy augury for understanding, and another indication of the wide sweep of opinion, that the Government has failed to keep abreast of the march of events.

There are lively political times ahead for this Province.

AN AMERICAN VIEW.

"The Dominion Government has already been liberal with the veterans to the limit of its capacity if the country is to hold its own in competive trade. The line should be drawn before the country commits itself to projects that would put a crushing burden upon the backs of the taxpayers, a load so heavy that prosperity would be deferred beyond any man's calculation. To add $800,000,000 to the amount by providing for a bonus of $2,000 for each soldier would obviously put the country in a precarious position economically. Where would the money come from?

"Evidently the predicament in which Canada finds herself had its origin in the failure of her public men to speak out plainly against the tendencies of injudicious indulgence in the sentiment of gratitude to her fighting men when the strain of war was past and their heroism was on everybody's lips.

"If it was a fault in the view of Ministers who have responsibilities it was a very human fault; but Canada might have been a Monte Cristo nation instead of one that must scan her budget, judging from her bounty and generosity to the men who fought to keep the Empire whole."

VOTE TO CONTROL INDUSTRY

Both Australian Houses Adopt Amendments to the Constitution.

MELBOURNE, —Both Houses of the Australian Parliament have passed the proposed Constitutional amendments giving the Government aupower to deal with all industrial matters. The amendment proposed by the Opposition to place the railway employes under the Commonwealth Arbitration act was defeated by large majorities.

The proposed amendments must be indorsed by a Commonwealth convention before the end of 1920; otherwise they will apse. They give the Govrnent authority to control combinations, trusts, and monopolies, and also to make arrangements regarding the production, manufacture and supply of goods.

Fashion of fastening a flower here and there is a happy one, as it breaks the monotony of the flounces; but it should be done with restraint, for two flowers on a shirt are generally enough.

A Positive Way to Cut Costs
The most progressive manufacturers employ efficiency experts to lessen the cost of production. These experts charge large fees, which are willingly paid because they usually return the expense incurred a hundred-fold.
In Canada there are many manufacturers who could wisely and profitably employ an efficiency expert; many of them are paying for power which they never use and they do not realize that their present equipment is stealing part of their profits.
It is to give expert service on Transmission Belting that we maintain a Service Department, absolutely free to manufacturers, as a means of cutting their cost of production. The services of these experts are available through any of our Service Branches—that your present power waste may be eliminated, that the majority of your transmission troubles may be done away with, that you may learn the benefits to be derived from our

GREAT BRITAIN NEEDS ALL CANADA'S SURPLUS

Farmers and City Men Should Assist in Maintaining Foreign Markets.

The strain of war has been heavier upon Great Britain and our European Allies than upon Canada, and in comparison Canada has reason to expect that she will get over the period of adjustment after the war in much shorter time than the Mother Country and the Allies.

This much-to-be-desired achievement is possible of the business man, the working man, and the farmer join forces and subordinate everything to the maintenance of the prosperity of Canada. The war enabled Canada to secure good markets for her surplus products of the farm. She spent long years in cultivating the British markets, and it is up to every Canadian to stand by his country in holding what she has gained in this respect.

Unfortunately Great Britain, as a result of the war, is short of ready cash, and for a time she must buy on credit. Canada's ability to extend this credit and maintain this desirable outlet for her surplus products rests upon the success of the Victory Loan, 1919. Every true Canadian wants to realise to the fullest extent the bountiful harvests of the West. He can realise this a[illegible]y putting all the dollars he can spare into Victory Bonds.

The Promoter's Wife

BY JANE PHELPS

BARBARA DECIDES TO WITHHOLD MRS. ORTON'S LETTER.

CHAPTER XCVII

Often at this time I wondered if ever a woman had so perplexing a life as did I. If men in other kinds of business were obliged to resort to such expedients as Neil appeared to consider necessary to win success. I thought of father's quiet, uneventful respected existence. Of men like Mr. Powers to whom all looked up, and whose name was a synonym for honesty and square dealing. Then of Mr. Frederick, his blunt honesty, his habit of calling 'a spade a spade' as he so often expressed it, and of how even Neil admired his rough goodness and probity. Then I would think of Neil, the man I loved, the father of my boy, and long with all my heart and soul to have him like these others.

I had been very proud of my handsome husband's success. Very blind to the manner of its making. I had been very happy also at first. Now all of this was changed. I was no longer so proud of his success; no longer quite so blind. And I was no longer happy. The upheaval had been gradual in a way, but it had come.

Now my whole mind was fixed upon saving my husband from the mortifying blame of the public. He was so boastfully proud of his success, so ambitious to become one of the rich men of the city, that it seemed terrible to me that he should perhaps be disappointed. That he would meekly yield to circumstances I did not imagine. He would fight for what he believed his rights regardless of what I, what anyone could do. If I accomplished anything it must be by seeming not to drive him, and he had treated me so coldly since the letter episode I had not much hope of being able to coax him.

I worried until I looked ill, and aunt was anxious about me, although I assurred her I was all right. Neil still preserved his attitude of coldness, but someway I did not feel quite so resentful since I had heard him declare that no one could say anything about his relations with Blanche Orton. I was obsessed with the idea that if I had received his friends perhaps I could have prevented much that must have happened, even tho'I was unaware just what it was. You see not even yet did I understand about Neil's business never had he explained the slightest transaction to me.

Suddenly a thought came to me. I would show Neil that I too could be a "good fellow" as I so often had heard him describe Blanche Orton. It might not be too late for me to retrieve my mistake in driving him to make her home not mine, his place of meeting men who preferred to do business over a dinner or supper table to the more conventional way of at a man's office.

With this thought in mind I telephoned Mr. Frederick:

"Can you tell me when the next dinner is to come off at Mrs. Orton's?" I asked.

"Yes—on tomorrow night," a world of wonder in his voice.

"Thank you." And after a little desultory talk I hung up.

I had been thinking about what he had said about Mr. Scott. I knew where Mr. Scott's office was, and making myself as attractive as possible I went down to the building in which it was located. I would waylay him when he went out to luncheon. I had heard Neil say that 'one could set his watch by Scott's luncheon hour' so if he were in town I had no fear that I should have to wait long. I scarcely had taken a position where it disgorged its crowd of busy hungry men when I spied him coming toward me. I walked briskly along, until I was beside him, when I said:

"How do you do, Mr. Scott? It is a long time since I have seen you." I had extended my hand in friendly fashion.

"I am in a hurry, you will have to excuse me," he said, merely touching his hat, and entirely ignoring my outstretched hand. Tears of mortified pride filled my eyes. He had seemed to like me in the days he used to come to the house. I had conceived the idea that if I were nice to him, asked him to visit us, perhaps I could persuade him to be lenient with Neil. I had failed, miserably. I would do something. I would not give up. I would go to Blanche Orton's dinner. I would show Neil that I too could help him, if it were help to entertain men like Scott. I did not confess it, not even to myself, but I knew that I had intended to go ever since I had called Frederick on the telephone and asked when it was to be

But why had Mr. Scott so insulted me? It must be because of something Neil had done, and Mr. Frederick had said he was a bad man to have for an enemy.

FLEW UPSIDE DOWN OVER THE ATLANTIC DURING FLIGHT

WONDERFUL FEATS OF AERIAL NAVIGATION DESCRIBED BY SIR ARTHUR WHITTEN BROWN AT THE GRAND TO-MORROW.

Speaking of the non-stop Atlantic flight made by himself and Capt. Alcock on June 14 Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, who lectures at the Grand on Thursday evening, says that at times they were flying upside down because of the fogs and the mists of the north Atlantic blotting out the sun, moon and stars.

During the flight from the coast of Newfoundland to Ireland, a distance of 1,900 miles, they flew through atmosphere so cold that ice caked on the instruments, shortly after the "take-off" the small propeller designed to drive the dynamo which generated current for the wireless radio set, jarred loose and was blown away. The men were left without any means of signalling for aid.

Both Alcock and Brown were knighted by the King shortly after the completion of their stupendous feat, the Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, whilst announcing to them the honour of knighthood at the same time presented them with the Lord Northcliffe's "Daily Mail" prize of $60,000.

Lady Beatty, wife of Vice-Admiral Sir David Beatty, commander of the grand fleet of Great Britain, has just begun a campaign to raise a fund of $4,700,000 for the building of a maternity home for the wives of British sailors.

IN MEMORIAM

GOSELIN—In loving memory of my dear brother, Isadore Goselin, who passed away October 23rd 1918.

The midnight stars are gleaming
On a lone and silent grave
Beneath sleeps one we love
But we could not save
His weary hours and days of pain
His troubled nights are past,
His ever patient worn out frame
Has found sweet rest at last.
We little thought when we said Good Bye,
That we were to part forever
And you were to die;
Grief that we felt, words cannot tell,
For we could not be near
To bid you fare well.

—Sister, Lillian.'

IN MEMORIAM

GOSELIN— In fond and loving memory of my dear brother, Isadore Goselin, who entered into rest, October 23rd, 1918.

One year has passed since that sad day,
'The brother I loved was called away;
God took him home, it was his will,
But in my heart he liveth still.
This day brings back our memories fresh,
Of my dear brother, who has gone to rest,
'There is no link death cannot sever,
Love and remembrance last forever,
It is hard to lose a brother dear,
But God who knoweth best
Held wide his loving arms and said,
"Come unto Me and rest".

Sadly missed by his sister,
Gertrude.

Voice Of The People

A Glaring Injustice and Illegal Challenge of a Citizen's Right to Vote.

A lady who has been a British subject and has lived in Canada all her life, who has lived in this city since July 9th last, thus meeting every condition of the Ontario Election Act, was challenged at the polls last Mohday, and prevented the use of her rightful franchise; and yet we boast of "British Fair Play."

Now it will not do to say that we were governed by a referendum regulation; this might hold had there been no political contest on the 20th; but since there was a political election on the same date as the referendum all regulations became subordinate to the "Ontario Election Act."

Now, this "Act" is very clear as to who may vote:

1. A British subject. 2, A resident of Canada for 12 months prior to the date of nomination. 3, A continuous resident in the electoral district for three months immediately preceding the nomination (not enumeration), and of 21 years of age.

Then, when we consider that the woman in question had legal advice from one of the most reliable legal firms in the city, the case becomes still more ridiculous.

The point at issue is made quite clear by the Ontario election act, which requires, as we have pointed out, three months' residence in the electoral district prior to the date of nomination, not enumeration. This lady was a resident of the city of Peterboro for three months and five days prior to the date of nomination.

All we ask for is that which is due to a loyal British subject.

BOY HAD MANIA FOR BICYCLES

FIVE DECORATED THE GUARD ROOM OF THE POLICE STATION TO-DAY

Bicycles appealed to a local boy, not yet in his 'teens. He admitted in police court this morning to stealing seven, and said that he rode them for awhile and then left them on the street. The police found bicycles all over the city and the guard room held no less than five. The police set a trap for the bicycle stealer, which shut down on him Saturday morning. The fine amounted to $30.10.

For cutting a corner with his car, a local autoist paid $9.10 in police court this morning.

A Coated Tongue? What it Means

A bad breath, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, languor and debility are usually signs that the liver is out of order. PROF. HENMETER says: "The liver is an organ secondary in importance only to the heart." We can manufacture poisons within our own bodies which are as deadly as a snake's venom.

The liver acts as a guard over our well-being, sifting out the cinders and ashes from the general circulation.

A blockade in the intestines piles a heavy burden upon the liver. If the intestines are choked or clogged up, the circulation of the blood becomes poisoned and the system becomes loaded with toxic waste, and we suffer from headache, yellow-coated tongue, bad taste in mouth, nausea, or gas, acid dyspepsia, languor, debility, yellow skin or eyes. At such times one should take castor oil or a pleasant laxative. Such a one is made of May-apple, leaves of aloe and jalap, put into ready-to-use form by Doctor Pierce, nearly fifty years ago, and sold for 25 cents by all druggists as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—Doubts concerning a number of seats have to-day been cleared away, with the result that the U.F.O. and Labour parties combined have a majority of one over the other parties in the Legislature. G. HOWARD FERGUSON IS THE BELL-WHETHER OF REMAINDER OF FLOCK.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—For the first time in fifteen years, a defeated Premier and a Cabinet deprived of its vested powers by the veto of the electors, sat in the government office at Queen's Park to-day. The Council meeting, upon which the political future of Ontario may hinge, opened at ten o'clock this morning. Sir Wm. Hearst arrived on an early train from the battle ground where he had met defeat, and from all parts of the province his colleagues followed. Of the ten ministers who sat in conference, but four have been returned to their seats, and two of these, Hon. Dr. Cody and Hon. A. E. Ross, by acclamation. Hon. G. H. Henry and Hon. G. H. Ferguson are the only two who weathered the electoral storm on Monday. The atmosphere throughout the Parliament Buildings was tense with subdued anxiety and lines of care furrowed the Premier's brow as he entered his office, although he had a smile and a clasp of the hand for his associates. Hon. Dr. Ross was the first to arrive, following the Premier. Hon. W. D. McPherson paused to exchange upon the weather. Hon. Dr. Cody, who looms even larger as a tentative leader of the Conservative or Coalition forces, and Hon. Dr. Preston, came next. The latter appeared cheerful despite his defeat in North Lanark after he had apparently massed a safe majority. Hat askew and smiling, as Queen's Park has known him since his first day in the Legislature, Hon. G. H. Ferguson, the main spring of the remaining Conservative forces, appeared to be feigning a confidence he lacked inwardly as he appeared upon the scene.

Seldom Smiles.

Hon. F. G. MacDiarmid, who seldom smiles, did not violate his custom to-day. Hon. T. W. McGarry, on the contrary, strode cheerfully down the hall, exchanging greetings with all and sundry. A muffled cheer from his colleagues echoed throughout the corridor as the popular Provincial Treasurer entered the hallowed precincts of the Council or Chamber. Hon. I. B. Lucas, whose "ear to the ground" is reported to have given him an intimation of his fate in Centre Grey two weeks ago, was one of the last arrivals on the scene. The Attorney-General smiles as blandly as ever, but the smile must have cost him an effort.

MAJORITY FOR "DRY" ONTARIO.

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—Majorities for "No's" up to late last night were as follows: Question one, 238,806; Question two, 194,002; Question three, 213,423; Question four, 142,902.

Large Picturesque Hats, Medium Brimmed Models and Snug Fitting Numbers

With a Variety of Trimming Only Equalled by the Diversity of Shapes

There is a hat for every face this season, and for every hour in the day, but perhaps none are quite so alluring or becoming as the large hat—it is everywhere a favourite. It may be daringly tilted or demurely drooped. Of course the smaller shapes are not without merit as several in our show rooms will illustrate.

We are showing several pleasing numbers that are embellished in many ways, with ribbons, double-faced effects or solid colors. Then there are those with tiny gold and silver edges—oftentimes this being the only trimming. The materials are so rich that they require merely a touch.

You can spend a most interesting hour in our show rooms with the many new models thar are now on display.

Winsome Bits of Crepe, Lace, Pique, Etc. Fashioned Into Modish Neck-Fixings

They are not expensively priced but nevertheless they will contribute a stylish finished note to your suit or dress. In some, the charm of simplicity is to the fore and others rely upon much tucking and frilling to secure your acclamation.

A Tuxedo shape of White Net, with inner and outer edges of fine pleats. Three narrow tucks in the centre continue all around. Price $1.50.

A Stock Collar of White Net Lace, with a tiny patterned scalloped edge at the end of the Jabot. All the edges are trimmed with a narrow Guipure Lace. The price is $1.50.

A Sailor Collar of White Georgette Crepe, with a wide Fillet Lace border. Possibly you will find it very effective for that Dress you are planning. Price $1.25.

A plain Tuxedo Collar of White Pique, with two rows of hemstitching outlining the edge. It is plain, but effective, and is moderately priced at 50c.

A Vestee and Collar of plain White Wash Satin. It is simplicity itself, for it is without trimming of any sort. The price is $2.50.

U.F.O. LEADER SAYS A CONFERENCE HAS BEEN HELD WITH SIR ADAM BECK.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Oct. 22.— That Hartley Dewart, leader of the Liberals in the new Ontario Legislature, will be called on to form a Provincial government, but that Hon. Adam Beck, defeated Independent Conservative in London, and chairman of the Provincial Hydro Commission, will be the next Premier of Ontario. This seems to be the most popular opinion here to-day among fairly well informed people discussing the much mixed political situation in this province. This is assuming that Sir William Hearst whose government was defeated on Monday, and who is meeting with his Cabinet to-day, decides to hand in the resignation of himself and Ministers to Lieut.-Governor Sir John Hendrie. This action is naturally expected, as the position of the government has grown worse in the matter of supporters during the last twenty-four hours by news of the reversal in South Grey, where it is now conceded that Hon. Dr. Jamieson, Speaker in the last House, has been defeated by G. M. Leeson, a farmers candidate, according to completed figures. This gives the U.F.O. forty-five straight members in a House of 111 seats, and if they combine with the Labour delegation of 11 members and one soldier and one Independent Liberal, the Farmers' Coalition would have a majority of 5 over all others in the House. However, it is conceded generally to-day that the Lieutenant-Governor constitutionally would have the right to call on Hartley Dewart, leader of the last "official" Opposition in the House, to form a new government, although his Liberal following in the newly-elected House is second to the U.F.O. in numbers. In an interview to-day Sir John Hendrie, Lieutenant-Governor, in reply to a criticism made by Mr. Dewart in reference to a statement made by Sir John yesterday, said: "Why should Mr. Dewart think he is not the man I will call on to form a government? Government has to be carried on, however, by somebody at present outside the elected House if he cannot be found among the already elected members. Unless Mr. Dewart can form a coalition, which hardly seems likely, the Lieutenant-Governor will then probably call on the leader of the United Farmers, and it would be no surprise to many people if the farmers at their convention here this afternoon, chose as their leader Sir Adam Beck. The situation regarding the U.F.O., as far as could be gathered from conversation with U.F.O. delegates before they met to-day in convention, seemed to favour the creation of a coalition government, with the U.F.O. in control, under a strong leader, to be chosen probably this afternoon. The leaders of the farmers to-day stated that a conference had been held with Sir Adam Beck on the subject, and their representations to be made to the convention this afternoon.

Sir Wm. Hearst and his colleagues of Ontario Conservative Cabinet were in session all morning in regard to the situation arising from the elections on Monday. On adjourning for lunch the statement was given out that no decision had been arrived at and the conference would be resumed this afternoon.

ABOUT FOOTWEAR

SHOE DEALERS THINK PRICES STILL LIKELY TO ADVANCE.

The recent announcement made in New York by the head of a boot and shoe manufacturers' association that the prices of shoes would come down 20 per cent. to the customer by next April is, say local dealers, unfair to them, inasmuch as it gives the public a wholly erroneous impression that it is they who are holding up prices. A dealer pointed out to-day that the very shoes which this manufacturer said would come down 20 per cent. are actually selling for from $2.00 to $3.00 more per pair than last month, and would probably be from $2.00 to $5.00 higher than that by next spring. Just how much reliance can be placed in manufacturers' promises is evident that, instead of dropping 20 per cent. since last August as predicted, prices have really advanced 33 per cent. One local dealer stated this morning that he was selling certain grades of footwear at about cost price. But that was because he was buying a stock in the city, and was forcing down the prices to near cost basis in order to reduce the stock to a certain limit.

NEW VICTORY LOAN ESSENTIAL FOR CANADA'S NEW PROSPERITY

MR. W. H. BRADBURN, CHAIRMAN OF PETERBORO COUNTY'S COMMITTEE APPEALS FOR LOCAL SUCCESS OF THE 1919 PEACE LOAN—$1,800,000 IS THE QUOTA ALLOTTED TO THIS COUNTY.

It is my privilege to be able to state that I have again been selected to serve in the Victory Loan Campaign of 1919 as Chairman of the organization that is now about completed. I the more buoyantly enter on the duty because of the magnificent efforts made here in the two previous campaigns. In the last we eclipsed by a very large sum our previous effort and gained a well deserved place of distinction among the cities that had over-subscribed the allotments. May I venture to predict that this will come about again.

Need I put before you the need of united effort to support the Loan. Setting aside the matter of Civic Pride, in that we shall hold up our end in this great National Undertaking, we are faced with the fact that markets of the world, hitherto available, are now closed against the country when national funds require to be raised.

Canada must turn in on herself. Must become in a measure self-supporting. She has to uphold at home in all fields of action the world-renowned record made by her sons on the battlefield. In supporting the Victory Loan we will do something that the world is ready to notice and approve.

People in a Position to Buy.

Let it not be said that in this wealthy city and county there is not money for the purpose. Accredited comment says that the savings banks hold accounts now equal or larger than at time of the last campaign. Loyal, helpful citizens, those who recognize their responsibility, will know what to do. Pass over the money and brace up the loan.

You have security and reward. The investment will richly pay and repay. From a financial point of view and in the sense of a public duty well performed. It is asked that this be a People's Loan, an effort direct from the people to assist the Government in its closing up of war work and war expense and to provide for the immediate future.

As a citizen of Peterborough, as a man identified most vitally in the prosperity and progress of the city and county in which you and I live, I respectfully ask that the hands of the Committee be supported in this canvass. In subscribing we pledge our confidence in our country, in its great future, in its absolute integrity of purpose and show our intention to hoe our own row and be self-reliant and successful.

All Sums, Large and Small, Welcome.

I bespeak for all concerned in the proposition a courteous hearing and nothing less than financial recognition. All sums are welcome. The savings of the working man are as essential to the success as the contribution of the wealthy. May I recall the Attic insignia of the bundle of sticks. Bound together there is strength. United in purpose there is concord and work accomplished.

During the campaign, now dated to begin the week following, full particulars will be laid before you. It will be the business of those soliciting your favors to advise in all things. I ask that there be no hesitation as to the validity of the Loan, no reluctance to invest money, no hindrance to removing from the bank or stocking the savings, for the funds will earn for you more than in any other investment that you can safely make.

Peterborough Should Respond Again.

My entreaty to you is to again put Peterborough on the map. To bring Peterborough right up in the front line in amount, rapidity of subscription and community of effort. You are not asked to give—only to lend. He who lends quickly in this Great Undertaking injects a measure of confidence to the campaign that will be an inspiration to those who have taken on the work.

What this old world needs just now, as much as anything is a little decent encouragement. That men do commend the acts of others. That we boost and cease knocking. What Canada needs is men to catch hold and lift. And your cheerful assistance, to the extent of your means, will prove an incentive to others to do likewise.

I bespeak for myself and confreres a favorable chance to interest you in the Loan. In doing as they do they are taking on a share of your work, for we all stand or fall together in this matter. Canada needs money. Let her citizens find it.

Respectfully,
W. H. BRADBURN,
Chairman, Victory Loan Organization,
Peterborough.

NELSON DAY MONEY WILL MAKE SAILORS.

Canadians will have to Depend More than Ever on the Mercantile Marine.

"Canadians must sail the Seas," is a slogan of the "Nelson Day" campaign to raise $500,000 on October 21, 22, 23. This money is required by the Navy League of Canada for the maintenance of the Sailors' Institutes at Canadian ports and for the training of Canadian boys for service on the sea.

Every nation in the world to-day realises that its foreign trade is dependent upon its possession of an adequate merchant marine and is straining every nerve to gain its place as a maritime power. The United States, France, Italy, Japan, and our old enemy Germany, are all in the race. Now is the time for Canada to claim her share in maintaining the maritime supremacy of the Empire.

To keep the blood of commerce flowing in our Empire's veins, the British fleet must maintain its supremacy.

There is no unit of the Empire more dependent upon foreign trade, and therefore upon a strong fleet of cargo ships than Canada.

Canada's continued prosperity is absolutely dependent upon foreign trade and now that the world markets are starved and call for her goods is the time for Canada to build up a mercantile marine which will give her her rightful place in world commerce.

The Navy League of Canada is doing a great work in educating the people upon these lines and its navy brigades are training many young men to become qualified sailors.

The Luikart Children

A deep sigh of joy and relief came from the hearts and lips of all conversant with the case on receipt of the news that, barring unforeseen complications, the little Luikart children will recover. The act of an unbalanced mother had placed their lives in jeopardy and the unnatural impulse and the youth and helplessness of the victims roused great interest in them. Toys, candy, flowers, everything that could promote the children's happiness or alleviate their pains, were showered upon them, while the courage and hopefulness of the father won general admiration. It is to be hoped that the sympathy so freely expressed may take a tangible form; he must be both father and mother as well as provider now, and deserves help to help himself and restore his confidence in life, and his fortunes.

This recovery from a poison almost invariably fatal will be assigned to various causes. It will be regarded as a triumph of medical science over the forces of Nature by the profession. Others will ascribe it to the powers of thought through the father's firm faith that the children would recover, while the religious will see it as the result of Divine intervention, or an answer to prayer. "Many men of many minds"; each to his own, so the end is that desired.

There is a powerful lesson for wives and mothers to be read from the Luikart case, and it relates to the mental state arising from brooding over fancied deprivations. Here was a kind and industrious husband, doing his best to provide for his family, and a mother discontented and unhappy because denied the material things she coveted and which money only could buy. The growth of the obsession that finally unseated reason could only be traced by a psychoanalyst, but we know the beginning and the end. Herein lies the warning, not to surrender the mind to any emotion or thought until it is fixed and becomes a dominating force. No one can avoid all the worries of life, but most of us manufacture a special brand of our own and surrender ourselves to them thus imperilling our sanity. We stress too much, as did this unfortunate mother, the value of the things we have not, instead of those we have. Nine-tenths of the people in the world believe that happiness depends upon what one possesses—on having the thing that Emerson said "are in the saddle and ride mankind"—and that as soon as possessed lose value and are replaced by another desire.

One thing is certain—"the rest is lies"—money, and the things money can buy, cannot make happiness; it cannot be bought. It is not in things that happen or that we possess. It is in our hearts, or it is nowhere. It is life's choicest gift; we can make it ours, or we can barter it, as thousands do and as this mother did, for that which only brings sin and sorrow. CUSTOMERS READ OWN METERS.

At a meeting of the Guelph light and heat commission the secretary outlined a new system of reading gas and electric light meters, on account of so many complaints from the residential customers about meter readers going into their premises. The commissioners decided to try out a scheme whereby the residential customers will be asked to mark the position of the hands of the meters on blank forms furnished from time to time by this department. The success of this plan will depend entirely on the co-operation of the customers.

How Much Tobacco Will My Heart Stand

A Question Vital to Every Man Who Smokes or Chews

IT MAY COST A PRECIOUS LIFE TO FIND OUT BY EXPERIMENT.

The heart of every user of tobacco bears a double burden. It does its ordinary task and then fights nicotine for supremacy. As tempted the heart wins he loses; within it knows the signs, but before the final victory of nicotine you pass through many symptoms, thinking and telling yourself perhaps, that to pay a penalty—some say ignorance others, science; therefore, some hearts will stand more tobacco than others, but there is a limit to what any heart can stand, and no man who puts this additional strain on his heart a dozen times a day by smoking cigarettes, a pipe or cigars—or chewing tobacco—is taking a needless chance with health and life to him and nothing to win but the pleasure to use that form of tobacco. He is developing the habit at the expense of precious health. Ask any doctor anywhere, and he will tell you that using tobacco is injurious and that it is far better to quit the habit, than to experiment to find how much tobacco your heart will stand without distress or trouble.

But the thought of quitting is unpleasant to most men—even to those who know that tobacco injures them—and to easily quit—since most will power then itself fails, and causes more suffering than they will voluntarily endure. To quit the habit make it easy for yourself by getting Nicotol tablets and taking them as directed. The habit really quits you, and its departure is a pleasure equal to its indulgence.

If you want to know how much easier it is to quit the habit with Nicotol than without it, go twenty-four hours without tobacco and note what an effort it costs you; then begin using it as usual and take Nicotol tablets. At the end of a week discontinue smoking or chewing for a day, and it is probable you will have no desire to resume. At least your desire will be greatly diminished, and another week or two should make it not only possible, but a pleasure, to quit.

Nicotol, Dr. Cramer, formerly of Johns Hopkins Hospital, under whose advice Nicotol has often been used, said when this statement was shown to him: "I have known Nicotol to conquer the tobacco habit in less than two days' time, and I can therefore recommend it highly." When the doctor's statement was shown to one of our leading druggists he said: "Nicotol is truly a wonderful remedy for the tobacco habit, way ahead of anything we have ever sold before. We are authorized by the manufacturers to refund the money to every dissatisfied customer, and we would not permit the use of our name unless the remedy possessed unusual merit." Nicotol is sold in this city under an iron-clad money-back guarantee by all up-to-date druggists. (3)

TOLD FOREMAN TO GET ANOTHER MAN

O'BRIEN SAID HE DID DOT THINK HE WOULD EVER BE ABLE TO WORK AGAIN.

"Tanlac is undoubtedly the finest medicine I have ever taken in my life," said J. T. O'Brien, of 24 Larch Street, Toronto, Ontario.

"For a long time," he continued, "I was in a terribly run-down condition, suffered from disordered stomach and kidneys, and just seemed to be played out. I had no appetite and suffered agonies from indigestion and gas on my stomach. I had a dull, aching pain right across the small of my back all the time and I would get home from work at night feeling completely exhausted. Nothing did me any good. I lost hope of ever getting well and told the foreman where I work that he'd have to take on somebody in my place, as I felt I couldn't hold out any longer.

"Then one of the men at the works advised me to try Tanlac. I did so, and I am back on the job every day now, and feeling just fine. My appetite is splendid. I eat anything and haven't a sign of indigestion. My kidneys don't bother me and I have gained several pounds in weight. Tanlac relieved my stomach of twenty years standing and that's why I'm boosting it like I do."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Limited.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

MOTHER OUT OF WEDLOCK MUST NOT BE HELD IN DISGRACE

FRENCH WOMAN DOCTOR MAKES PLEA FOR THE UNMARRIED MOTHER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—A plea for motherhood out of wedlock was made here at the international conference of women physicians by Dr. Anna Moutet of France.

"In a country, the population of which is decreasing," she said, "it is important above all to favor the rate of birth by every means to do away with all obstacles in the protection of all children indiscriminately.

"Motherhood outside of marriage must no longer be held as a disgrace or a burden. The girl mother must be lifted. The prejudice which makes her an object of general censure must be combatted, and if irregular birth is no longer a disgrace to the child, neither must it be a dishonor to the mother.

"She must find in society for herself and for her child the support which in the past was refused her."

Describing what France has done in the matter, Dr. Moutet said: "The law has assured the protection of the child born out of wedlock, first in creating a bond of right between him and his parents, when that is possible; then, in assisting the mother when she is alone aid without resources, and, finally, in taking full responsibility in rearing the child."

EMPRESS HOTEL LOBBY WAS A NOISY PLACE WHEN SONGBIRDS ARRIVED TO-DAY

SOME CARRIED JAPANESE POODLES, OTHERS WHITE MICE AND ANGORA CATS--ALL READY FOR THE BIG OPERA TO-NIGHT.

France, Italy, Spain, England, Greece, Japan and the United States were all represented in the big galaxy of songbirds of the San Carlo when they arrived in Peterborough to-day. Salazar the Spanish tenor, came with his countryman Vincente Ballester; Stella DeMette, the contralto, is a French lady; Rosina Zotti, Giuseppe Agastini, the tenor, Mario Valle the baritone, and others, are Italian; Queena Mario, the little coloratura, who has captured Montreal-ers, is Greek and American. Franco De Gregorio comes from the Quinlan Opera forces, London, while Bula Ray Shull, the dramatic soprano, is Virginia's most brilliant singer.

All is in readiness on the Grand Opera House stage for the double performance of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" this evening. An army of expert stage hands have set the big scenic pieces, and Manager Dahn of the Grand has had the brass rail and one row of seats in the orchestra pit removed, to make room for the San Carlo Orchestra, all seasoned, experienced opera players.

The lobby of the Empress hotel was one noisy place when the singers arrived. Some carried Japanese poodles; others marmosets from the tropics; others bird-cages, white mice and angora cats. They were a happy prattling lot, and Manager Chris Graham of the Empress stated that the hotel register looked like a conglomeration of unpronounceables when the big aviary had all secured rooms.

Third-octave trills and vocal pyrotechnics soon began coming out through the transoms and the corridors were a medley of discord as each song bird warbled a few bars from the two operas to be sung this evening.

The Opera starts at 8.15 sharp and a large and fashionable audience is ready for the music—music which will unquestionably linger long in the memories of those who hear it, until perhaps the artists come again.

E. K. LINCOLN POPULAR STAR IN "VIRTUOUS MEN"

A MELODRAMA WITH A PUNCH

Many of the scenes for "Virtuous Men" which comes to the Allen Theatre for two days only, commencing to-day, were made on the Canadian Border. All of the lumber camp scenes, which are so plentiful in the opening chapters of the production, were photographed along the border and most of them on the Canadian side.

Aside from its strong dramatic interest the production is unusually interesting because it has shipbuilding for the background. The first scenes are in a lumber camp and show the mighty timbers being felled for their shipment to the coast and then the settings carry us through the construction of a ship to the very launching. While it is by no means an "educational" picture, the producers have shown rare sense in combining spirited action with settings that are not only unusual but of some genuine interest.

Only a few of the scenes are interiors, because the story deals with red-blooded men, the sort who live their lives out of doors. E. K. Lincoln, the featured player, is always at his best in roles of vigorous manhood and many of his critics insist that this is the cleverest thing he has yet done. He certainly has ample opportunity to exhibit the great strength for which he is noted and there are any number of scenes that will cause the spectator to grip the arms of his seat.

Briefly, it tells the story of a young society man who suddenly loses his wealth and who finds that the butterfly who promised to love him so much in wealth, quickly loses interest with the disappearance of his fortune. Then he turns to manual labor for livelihood and we are introduced to him in the lumber country where he seeks work. His welcome from the foreman is a blow that sends him to the ground and from that moment he has to fight his way through. But the virtue of the man quickly wins the reward—it would be spoiling the wonderful suspense of the production to tell the full story of it here.

Ralph Ince, one of the best known of motion picture directors, is responsible for this production and he has had an unusual cast with which to work. Mr. Lincoln, the star, is one of the finest specimens of young manhood. He never has to "fake" scenes or resort to "doubles" as is the case of so many actors. During the making of this picture he bore many bruises to bear testimony to the strenuous scenes. Grace Darling, one of the most beautiful of actresses, whose rise to fame has been remarkable has the principal feminine role although Clare Joel, an opposite type, is quite prominent in the cast, as the woman who attempts to ruin the the hero. There are fully twenty in the cast who are well known to every motion picture goer, while in some of the scenes thousands of "extras" are employed.

LILY ELSIE, ENGLAND'S MOST BEAUTIFUL STAGE STAR, TO APPEAR IN "COMRADESHIP"

According to the producers of "Comradeship" the English production, which comes to the Allen Theatre on Friday and Saturday, the picturization of this story has brought about a record that is seldom scored in motion pictures in that there is not a single "set" in the entire offering. "Set" is a technical expression for the artificial representation of either an exterior or interior. In most cases what appears to be a ballroom or a magnificent mansion is merely a clever arrangement of scenery built for the purpose. However, in producing "Comradeship" the directors were able to find just the exact spots desired in one of the best known of the English villages and all but a few scenes of the picture were made there.

Among the scenes that are pictured are those of Armistice Day in London. In this case the pictures are quite unconscious that they are "registering" for the camera and one is able to enter fully into the spirit of the celebration.

"Comradeship" features the famous English beauty, Lily Elsie, and notable names found in the cast are Gerald Ames, Guy Newall, Peggy Carlisle, Teddy Arundell and Dallas Cairns.

BALL PLAYERS TAKE TO BOWLING

This Speaker and Leslie Nunamaker, the noted members of the Cleveland Americans, who are visitors in the city, were at the Water street alleys Monday evening. The famous manager of the Indians states that bowling is one of his favourite methods of keeping in shape during the winter months and that he finds it beneficial to both the eye and arm. Speaker also states that business men have adopted bowling extensively in the States as a means of keeping physically fit.

Stockridge of Toronto, commenced duty Tuesday evening, but after working for about 10 minutes he reported to Chief Rae that he did not care for the job and quit forthwith.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW DEFENDS GERMAN POLICY IN BELGIUM

REPLIES TO WILLIAM ARCHER—SAYS ALLIED SOLDIERS WERE NOT SAINTS EITHER

(William Archer is a leading dramatic critic of Britain. Recently he himself tried his hand on a play calling it, War is War, or The Germans in Belgium: A Drama of 1914." George Bernard Shaw, who no doubt had reason to feel the cruel sallies of the famous critic, now comes back, handing it back to his old enemy in a truly Shovian fashion.)

LONDON—Mr. Archer, as doyen of our critics of the theatres, must many times during the last 40 years have provoked British playwrights to cry: "Oh, that mine enemy would write a play!" But now that he has done it, they will not get from it the sort of satisfaction they craved; for it is a play, achieved not by any of the methods which Mr. Archer has recommended to playwrights, but by the only method that ever has produced a good play; that is having a story to tell; feeling strongly that it ought to be told; and using the device of theatrical representation to tell it effectively. The astonishing part of the business is that Mr. Archer has never written a play before (for certain wild oats that he sowed in that direction do not count) He must be an amazing insensitive man; for though he has, as this attempt shows, plenty of faculty for playwriting, it has taken a European catastrophe to knock a play out of him. He is like a gun with a trigger so stiff that it takes several armies to pull it; millions of them losing their lives in the effort. For there is nothing that has not been going on all his life. The materials were ready to his hand when he was fifteen. For instance, he put into the mouth of a German the picturesque expression invented by our own soldiers to describe that burning of households which is part of the routine of our Indian punitive expeditions. When his German surgeon says: "The red cock is crowing over your house," meaning that it is being burnt by order, we know (or ought to) that the surgeon has been in England, and has heard British soldiers tell of their work in India and South Africa. One asks whether Mr. Archer's gorge has been rising slowly for 40 years until it has at last overflowed into dramatic expression, or whether he simply felt nothing at all until the horror attained such a magnitude and struck so closely home that at last he felt all at once what it meant, and struck back at it.

The Value of Evidence.

To those of us who have been striking at it all our lives, Mr. Archer's appendix, containing his pieces, justificatives, is pathetically inadequate. Most of it has no documentary value whatever. If "what the soldier said is not evidence," what are we to say to what the newspaper said the soldier said? How can we demur to the official and entirely credible comment that "it appears on investigation that the affirmatives contained in the soldier's letter are based on accounts which it is impossible to verify?"

Then again, the relevance of six pages of fictious incidents from a German novel is hardly established by the not very convincing remark that the works of the author were "said to have been the favorite family reading of the Kaiser."

I have ascertained on really credible evidence that the Kaiser liked to have the sermons of Bishop Boyd Carpenter read to him after dinner; but I wonder what Mr. Archer would say to me if I dismissed his play as a libel on so pious a monarch. I see nothing in these citations except occasion for a slight surprise that Mr. Archer should have thought them worth making. It is when I come to the solid facts cited that my surprise is no longer slight; I rub my eyes and ask whether this is Uncle Toby and Corporal Trim indulgently recalling the pecadilloes of our armies in Flanders ,or an indignant Briton exposing the atrocities of his enemies in Belgium. Fancy these fiends of Germany, cries Mr. Archer, actually breaking into cellars; drinking up the wine; and then taking away all the goods they could lay their hands on! I can fancy it very well. Ask any provo-marshall in the British, French, Italian, American or any other army whether he finds any difficulty in fancying that and a good deal more about his own flock; and you will get nothing out of him but a shrug of pity for Mr. Archer's amazing but not unamiable innocence.

War is war, as Mr. Archer says: but he cannot know the value of his own definition unless he knows what war is. I am not going to attempt to tell him here what it is. I will only say that if any nation exists that can claim that its military history of the Germany army as presented by Mr. Archer in his play and appendix, it may also claim to be the most civilized nation at present on earth.

More Effective Than Exact.

The truth is, as Mr. Archer's title is more effective than exact, he should have called his play simply "Invasion." In a war like the present one, which resolved itself into a starvation match, it may seem grotesque for the side that won to bandy atrocities with the side that lost. Nobody has ever raised the question whether in the Massacre of the Innocents, Herod's soldiers were instructed to tread on the mothers' toes or not; and the exploit in which we have just out-Heroded Herod leaves those who are capable of grasping its infernal magnitude no emotion to spare for the small change of more blackguardism and disorder.

But if it is worth insisting on the fact that the German army behaved worse than its adversaries on the West front, it should be pointed out that it did so, not because it was a German army, but because it was an Invading army. It is easy to be good-natured in the midst of a friendly population: indeed, of an enthusiastically admiring and grateful population, with both law and overflowing good-will to protect and help you. But suppose you are outlawed in the midst of a population which mortally hates you, and regards killing you at sight as an act of patriotism for the civilian and a duty for the soldier. That is the position of an invading army; and for it there is only one protection, the protection of ruthless intimidation. Your advance patrols dare not draw water from the village well without forcing the women of the village to come with them to prevent them from sniping. When the bigger battalions arrive they have to convince the inhabitants that any attempt on the lives of one of the invaders will be punished by the laying waste of ten miles of territory. And as you can only produce such conviction by doing it, the red cock is soon crowing. That is why the Germans behaved like devils in Belgium, where the British and French behaved like angels in comparison. But war is war; and you have only to go back to the cases in which the British and French were the invaders to find just the same devilry. Ask the hill men of India and the Afghans. If you doubt such outlandish testimony, ask General Smuts and General Botha. Or better still as they will probably tell you) let bygones be bygones.

Mr. Archer's play is a vivid and not at all overdone picture of what may happen, and did happen in Belgium often, in any invaded town. It is, in fact, underdone; for the worst of the truth is unbearable. It needs only one touch to make the spectator feel, as he should be made to feel, that war being war, Schrecklichkeit is inevitable, and, in its frightful way, reasonable. The play, as it stands, leaves the impression that the franc tireur is a myth. That is a mistake. No doubt there is seldom more than one franc tireur for every thousand the invaders imagine. Mr. Archer does not exaggerate the jumpiness; I was myself, in 1914, within an ace of being shot as a German invader by a jumpy coastguard at a time when the appearance of a German soldier within several hundred miles was much less probable than the appearance of a polar bear. Several less fortunate persons were killed at that time. But the franc tireur is a reality for all that. Mr. Archer remembers a remarkable play written by an officer (a brother of Mr. Du Maurier), which ended with a German invasion of England, and a typical patriotic villa proprietor blazing away from his drawing-room windows at the Kaiser's legions in a blind fury of revenge and hostility, utterly incapable of understanding the consequence of his reckless pugnacity. That sort of man exists everywhere. You will say he is a stupid man; but when there was some fear of a German raid here at the beginning of the war a reckless injunction to all Britons whatsoever to hang at sight all Germans in uniform whom they might meet under any circumstances was published, not by the stupidest man in England, but by the cleverest. If before the war was seriously begun one excited Frenchman killed Jaures and, after it was over, another tried to kill Clemenceau, what is the worth of the plea put forward (very naturally) by the unfortunat hostages in Mr. Archer's play, "that no Belgian would be so imprudent as to raise his hand, save in the way of kindness, to a German invader?"

Gives Plenty of Atrocities.

Mr. Archer gives us plenty, but not

SIX MEN IN DISABLED LAUNCH ARE RESCUED

After drifting aimlessly for over 24 hours in the middle of Lake Ontario, Captain Currie, a Canadian, working in Buffalo, and a party of five men from the same city, were finally picked up late on Friday afternoon by the car ferry Ontario No. 1 about 20 miles off Braddock's Point. The party was going from Buffalo to the Bay of Quinte.

When the men left Buffalo on Thursday they had food enough to last them for about a day. Early in the afternoon the gasoline engine which furnished the motive power for the craft ceased to work and despite the efforts of the captain, it absolutely refused to start again.

Early on Friday morning food began to get low and finally gave out altogether. The lake was rough due to the rather heavy winds, and owing to the fact that they were outside the usual course of navigations, things commenced to look blue for the party; many of them began to show signs of fatigue and worry and lack of food. None of the party could swim.

As Captain Sam McCaig of the Ontario No. 1 was going across the lake about 4 o'clock in the afternoon he was surprised to hear several shots fire in rapid succession. Taking up his glasses he looked over the water and saw the launch some distance to the west of the boat.

He ordered the car ferry put about and started for the yacht, picked up the captain and his five companions, put them on board of his craft and took the launch in tow. The deck hands on board the Ontario said that some of the party were nearly frantic when finally rescued.

When the boat reached the Genesee docks the men disappeared without giving their names and took the next train for their home town. Aside from that of the captain the names of none of the party are known.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW DEFENDS

too much of the legends current among the Germans, of gouged-out eyes and crucifixions, perhaps the most mischievous kind of fiction. We who remember how common and persistent those two legends were among us, and how we had to comfort the wives of our men at the front by assuring them that the stories about German pouches full of British eyes were silly and heartless inventions, will not question the truth of the picture. Also, there is a moral to be drawn from his sketch of German discipline. At a time when our own militarists thought no more of sentencing a British soldier to a thousand lashes than of caning a schoolboy, the Duke of Wellington complained that it was impossible to get an order obeyed in the British army except in a couple of crack regiments, and not even then after eight o'clock at night, because the non-commissioned officers were all drunk by then. The moral of the futility of Zabern disciples seems to be the same, though I have always been withheld by my recollection of a certain "on the knee" incident in our own army from laying too much stress on Zabern.

For Mr. Archer's final tribute to German chivalry by making his German hero blow out his brains sooner than obey a terrorist order there is, I am afraid, no authority, whatever. The order was diabolical: but it was militarily reasonable, militarily logical, militarily necessary as part of the general proposition that war is war. A more tragic conclusion would have been the admission by the officer that this was so, and his scrupulous obedience to the order.

And now will somebody write a play describing all the kindly and chivalrous things done by Germans during the war? For the credit of our just now heavily discredited human natures, let me say that in my own experience the first-hand evidence, carefully as it has been kept out of the papers, all goes to show that the natural human German is not a bit like the paper one, and that Jerry and Tommy are as like one another as might be expected from the fact that they both come from the same shop. So far it has been left to Mr. John Drinkwater, with his Lincoln play, to maintain the noblest prerogatives of the drama single-handed by holding it above the partialities and rancours of war; and the fact that his play is bringing crowds daily to a suburban theatre shows that the water of life is more potent still than the bile of the civilian who sits at home (or say at Maidenhead to escape the raids) and hates. But Lincoln's war happened more than half a century ago. Now that Mr. Archer has at last got his hand in as a playwright, why should he not give Wilson a turn?

'DRY' CAMPAIGN IN GLASGOW

Women of Scotland to be Canvassed on Prohibition Issue

LONDON, —Announcement was made at a great prohibition mass meeting held at Glasgow last night that women throughout Scotland would be canvassed on the question of prohibition.

W. E. Johnson, the Anti-Saloon League organizer, who has been conducting a prohibition movement in Great Britain for some time, had a great reception at the meeting.

WILL BUILD BIRD HOUSES.

The St. Thomas city council has granted $125 to erect bird houses in the city park to preserve bird life. This grant was made after an address was made to the council by R. Rewbotham, an ornithologist, who for many years has been caring for and protecting wild birds in the district. This money will be expended in building gmodel bird houses to accommodate 500 birds each.

Your Country's "Promise to Pay"

WHEN you buy Victory Bonds you hold Canada's solemn promise to repay you their full face value in money at the time stipulated in the bond with interest every six months.

THEREFORE, in point of security, Canada's Victory Bonds are in the first rank of the world's investments because——the principal and interest are as certain of payment as anything can be—backed by the whole assets of Canada—the pledge of honour of Her people—and all the assets of all the people of Canada.

—Victory Bonds are also the most "liquid" form of investment. Without trouble or delay they can be converted into cash at any time.

—Victory Bonds pay a good rate of interest—more than any other investment having equal security—nearly twice the interest paid by Savings Banks.

• • • •

FOR the investment of estate funds, trust funds, sinking funds and all other money which by law or other necessity must be placed only in unquestioned securities, Canada's Victory Bonds are the premier investment.

EXECUTORS, trustees, municipalities, public service corporations, officers of lodges and fraternal societies, and all others with trust funds to invest, can further their own and their country's interest by investing their funds in Victory Bonds.

• • • •

AND because of the good rate of interest which Victory Bonds pay, together with the supreme security behind them, there is every reason to believe that Canada's Victory Bonds, 1919, will increase in value in the open market, as have Victory Bonds of all previous issues.

• • • •

BUT Victory Bonds, 1919, are much more than a sound money investment. They are vital to the continued prosperity of the country. The proceeds of the Victory Loan, 1919, will furnish the means of retaining our great export business, by bringing to Canada foreign orders for agricultural and industrial products, which mean the continued prosperity of every citizen. The Victory Loan, 1919, will also enable Canada to carry out her necessary plans of demobilization—fulfill her pledges to her fighting forces—and to readjust the country from War to Peace conditions.

IN HIS PERSONAL INTEREST—

—to obtain an investment of unrivalled security

—to secure an investment yielding a high interest return

AGAIN IN HIS OWN INTEREST AND THAT OF CANADA—

—to ensure the continued prosperity of the nation

—to enable Canada to discharge her duty to her soldiers

—in order to finance Canada's period of readjustment from War to Peace

BOARD FAVOUR CONCRETE ARCH FOR NEW BRIDGE

BOARD OF WORKS COMMITTEE MET LAST NIGHT—A NEW USE FOR CRAWFORD'S GROVE.

BOUNDARY ROADS

The old question of who was to pay Mr. H. W. Christie, an inspector on the Hunter street bridge again agitated the members of the Board of Works last night. Mr. Christie was present and seemingly only anxious that he get paid, but not caring whether it comes from Engineer Frank Barber or the city. The City Fathers disliked the idea of paying Mr. Christie nearly $200 a month for perhaps 18 months and they stalled the matter again by referring it to the Special Bridge Committee for settlement.

Minor Revisions

Engineer Frank Barber submitted some minor revisions in the bridge plans mainly affecting the Quaker Oats Company. Instead of a ramp on the north side of bridge a platform will be built for the convenience of the Quaker Oats. The Board instructed the City Engineer to examine the plans after which they will be approved.

Lease Part of Street.

The Peterboro Canoe Company wished to lease part of King street from Water street to the C.P.R. track. They will be taxed a nominal rental of $25 a year and the lease can be discontinued on three months notice. The property will not be closed to city employees and if a fence is erected on the property the City Engineer will have supervision.

Special Constable

A former member of the Dominion Police Force was sworn in sometime ago to take charge of traffic over the Hunter street bridge. His salary was charged up to the city but the Board decided last night that the Quigley-Townsend Company should pay the constable and that if not required longer that it is their duty to discharge him.

Steel Arch

A steel arch on the new bridge was again mooted but the other members promptly quashed the idea and decided that the concrete arch would be adhered to.

Permission Granted.

The Bell Telephone were granted permission to erect two poles on the east side of Stewart street between King and Charlotte streets.

Sewer for new School

The Board of Health anticipated and asked the Board to look after a sewer for the Memorial School yet to be erected. The matter was referred to the City Engineer.

Remove Trees.

On recommendation of Engineer Parsons Rev. Ben Greatrix was given permission to remove five trees from in front of his property at the corner of Park and Brock streets.

Boundary Roads

The Township Council of Douro will be asked by the city to maintain the boundary roads jointly with the city.

Crawford's Grove

Mr. O. N. Gordon acting for a local party offered the city Crawford's Grove for a sewage disposal plant for the sum of $12,000. Crawford's Grove was not looked favourably upon and Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Edgar, that the City Engineer be instructed to prepare plans for a sewage disposal works to be placed on the 35 acres of the A. Wilson property in Otonabee and that the city take steps to expropriate this property and the roadway from it to the travelled road. This resolution received the assent of the rest of the Board.

The City Engineer is preparing plans for the sewage disposal plant will be directed by his recommendations to the Council last week by providing for Imhoff tanks and a pumping station.

Snow Ploughing.

Winter is looming on the horizon and with it obstructed highways. Mr. Parsons was instructed to advertise for tenders for snow ploughing this winter for the same districts as last year.

WHY A PLAYER PIANO?

One important reason that urges one to own a player piano is that anyone can play it, even though they are lacking a musical education. To put it very plain it is the case that anyone can play on the player piano and the finest selections are at their disposal. We are writing now of the player piano manufactured by Ye Olde Firme of Heintzman & Co., Limited, George and Hunter streets, Peterborough.

REASON WHY THE U.F.O. DID TOT SEEK OUT IDE POLITICAL ALIGNMENTS.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Oct. 23.—Col Fraser, chairman of the political committee of the U. F. O., in an interview this morning, stated that the reason the U.F.O. members elect decided at yesterday's conference to keep free from political alignments was that they considered they had better Cabinet material within the U.F.O. and Labour ranks than it was possible to find outside.

WILSON WAS READY EARLY IN THE WAR

VON BERNSTORFF GIVES EVIDENCE BEFORE INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE.

(United Press.)

BERLIN, Oct. 23.—Bolsann von Bernstorff, former German Ambassador to the United States testifying before the Reichstag committee investigating the war declared that before America was drawn into the war President Wilson was ready to bring about a peace conference without knowing Germany's Concrete conditions.

Replying to question by Dr. Sinsheimer von Bernstorff said that he sent a cable to Chancellor von Bethmann Holeweg after the latter's visit to German headquarters in the spring of 1917 but that it was "too late, as America soon declared war." "Did you understand that your instructions were to tell President Wilson that Germany was ready for Peace," Sinsheimer asked.

"Yes", Von Bernstorff replied.

"Was President Wilson also ready?"

"Yes."

Sinshemed then asked if Wilson was ready to prepare for an international peace conference without knowing what Germany would demand in Concrete terms. Von Bernstorff replied in the affirmative.

The Vote Friday

CITIZENS ARE REQUESTED TO TURN OUT AND VOTE FOR THE WAR VETERANS' BY-LAW.

THE TAXES

Peterborough, Ont., Oct. 23rd, 1919.

To the Citizens of Peterborough:

To-morrow, Oct. 24th, you are asked to vote to authorize the partial exemption to taxation on the Great War Veterans' Headquarters.

The property and rooms of the Great War Veterans was presented to them by the citizens of Peterborough and the Veterans accepted this magnificent donation from the citizens with thankfulness and pride of their citizens.

When the grant of $10,000 was given towards this work, the matter was taken up with the Provincial Secretary of Toronto and it was stated that an act would be passed incorporating in the Municipal Act the necessary legislation to enable the municipalities to grant exemption from taxation. This was only partially carried out, as exemption did not include school taxes, and also made the exemption subject to the vote of the ratepayers.

The taxes paid formerly on this property was about $150.00 a year. The Veterans taking this property which was only assessed for $4,600.00, increased its value to such an extent that it is now assessed for $15,000.00, taxes of which are about $400.00. If the citizens will go to the polss and vote in favour of exemption, school taxes will be approximately $140.00 or after granting this exemption $10.00 more than was received originally per annum. Surely it is not the intention and wish of the citizens who donated these quarters to the Veterans that returned soldiers are loaded up with a fixed charge, $40.00 per month, an amount which will take the dues of eighty members to pay. It is really a hardship to pay $150.00 as we based our estimates at the beginning of the year on promises we received from both the City Council and the Provincial Legislature, the latter did not grant what they promised they would do.

We would ask the citizens to inconvenience themselves to the extent of going to the polls and settle this question; make a point to do this small favour for the Veterans. We have no organization for this election, we have engaged no rigs to drive you there; it is up to the citizens to voluntarily carry out the promises of the City Council as far as they have it in their power.

As citizens of the town we would ask you to consider favourably the by-law to encourage the new industry in Peterborough. We would also recommend to you the Victory Loan.

Yours faithfully,

THE GREAT WAR VETERANS' ASSOCIATION.

H. Staunton, President,
R. E. Layfield, Chairman of Building Committee.

The Labour Members Invited to Conference With United Farmers

MR. BURNHAM IS QUITE SERIOUS

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, October 23.—Mr. J. H. Burnham, of Peterborough, told The Examiner yesterday that he was quite serious in proposing that provision be made for Prohibition by Referendum of the use of playing cards, birds' feathers, and tobacco, as well as intoxicating liquor, in the Prohibition Bills now before Parliament. He said he had spoken to the Minister of Justice yesterday afternoon, and had asked him to include the new provisions in the Bills.

Mr. Burnham is openly opposed to Prohibition, but he declares that the Referendum system now appears to be so popular he thinks it should be extended to other commodities than intoxicating liquors if the people wish to declare themselves.

In a statement issued yesterday afternoon, Mr. Burnham said that Prohibition has superseded "the old cry of salvation." "If the Prohibition of one possible means of evil," he said, "is right and proper, the prohibition of all such means is just and proper."

The general impression is that Mr. Burnham's motion is a "reductio ad [illegible]urdum," but Mr. Burnham himself affirms his serious intention.

COMMISSIONER OF MANITOBA POLICE

APPOINTMENT WILL MEAN RESIGNATION OF REV. J. N. McLEAN.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 23.—Col. Rattray, of Pipestone, Man., will become Commissioner of the Manitoba Police Force if he accepts the office offered to him by the Government of Manitoba. He is in conference with Attorney-General Johnston. He will have jurisdiction over the Liquor Act enforcement, game guardians and police engaged on criminal cases. It will mean the resignation of Rev. J. N. McLean, who has been drawing $6,000 a year as Commissioner of the Liquor Act Department.

FORTIFIED CITY HAS BEEN TAKEN

ANTI BOLSHEVIK[illegible] ARE MAKING SLOW PROGRESS—HEAVY FIGHTING.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Krasnia Gorka, the fortified city on the southern shore of the Gulf of Finland, about thirty miles west of Petrograd, has been taken by anti-Bolshevik troops, according to Helsingofrs advices. South and south-west of Petrograd, the North-western Russian army seem to be making slow progress. Advices received here, however, would appear to indicate a slight advance by Gen. Yudenitch during the last few days; it being said a severe struggle is in porgress six and one-half miles south of the city. Soviet forces are reported to have arrived ta Petrograd from Moscow and to be engaged in battle. Gen. Denikine has again defeated the Bolsheviki in Volga region, having driven the Soviet forces back near Kamyshin, north of Tearitsyn, according to a wireless message received here form the Denikine headquatrers. The Soviet government, on the other hand, claims to have broken in the apex of the great wedge driven northward toward Moscow by Denikine army, the villages of Sievsk and Kromy having been taken. It is said that the Denikine Corsacks are being pursued southward in this region.

CONDEMNS THE SINN FEINERS

SAYS MOVEMENT IS BACKED UP BY A GREAT SECRET ARMY.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Oct 23.— Speaking at Wallasey, Cheshire, last night, Field Marshal Viscount French, Lord Lieutenant and Governor-General of Ireland, made a bitter attack upon the Sinn Fein government of Ireland. Among other things, he said the self-constituted, illegal and insane Sinn Fein government is possessed of a great secret army called the Irish Volunteers, to which are attached assassins whose business it is to murder police and soldiers who question their decrees in any community. The people are frightened into screening offenders, and courageous efforts on the part of the police are abortive. We are anxious to give self-determination and to be faithful and just to all, but little can possibly be done until law and order are established. When people bear of coercion, I hope they will consider the matter in a just light.

SIR ADAM BECK FOR THE FARMERS

THIS IS THE WAY THE WIND IS BLOWING FROM U.F.O. AND LABOUR CIRCLES.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Oct. 23.—"While Sir William Hearst and members of his defeated Conservative Government at the palatial Parliament Buildings in Queen's Park to-day were in secret session discussing how best to relinquish the reins of power in this Province, the victorious United Farmers of Ontario, with equal privacy, at their dingy, antiquated headquarters near the St. Lawrence Market, wrestled with the problem of selecting an official leader who would probably be the next Premier of Ontario.

They also discussed the important matter of policy and their possible alliance with the Independent Labour Party.

It is understood that some statement as to the Conservative Government's plans will be forthcoming this afternoon.

Members of the Cabinet, when they emerged from the Council Room, declined to make any statement until the official announcement is given out by the Premier.

As for the U. F. O. leadership, with its heavy responsibilities, it is understood that the name of Sir Adam Beck, the popular Hydro chairman, defeated in London, was prominently before this morning's gathering of the farmers.

The Labour members, of whom there are eleven elected, will meet in Hamilton on Saturday to discuss their position, but it is generally understood that they would not be averse to a union with the farmers on certain conditions.

Hartley Dewart, K.C., Liberal leader, had no further comment to make in his controversy with the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir John Hendrie, as to the latter's duty in the present crisis. Sir John himself, who is the man to take action, was out of the city to-day. The fact that his term of office ended on 15th October, although no successor has been appointed, makes the situation more interesting.

CARS WANTED

Automobile owners are requested to assist in securing votes on the Nashua Gummed and Coated Paper Company By-Law, on Friday October 24th., by mobilizing at the Board of Trade, corner Simcoe and George at 9 a.m. Friday or 'phoning No. 1300 volunteering the use of cars for any period during the day.

Cars are urgently required to secure as many votes as possible on this By-Law.

INDEPENDENT LABOUR PARTY MEMBERS WILL MEET IN CONVENTION IN HAMILTON ON SATURDAY NEXT.

DEVELOPMENTS IN THE POLITICAL SITUATION

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Oct. 23.—Right on the heels of the United Farmers' announced decision that it will handle its own destinies without the assistance or guidance of either Grits or Tories, comes the announcement that the Independent Labour Party members-elect will meet in convention in Hamilton on Saturday to lay their plans.

At the present sessions of the U.F.O. caucus only those Labour men who have been endorsed by the U.F.O. as well, were invited. It is now stated, however, that all Labour members will be invited to confer with the U.F.O.

Hamilton has been as the logical place for the convention, in view of its being the Labour stronghold by virtue of having sent two I. L. P. nominees to the Provincial Legislature. As anticipted yesterday, Mr. W. R. Rollo, one of the Hamilton members, will assume the temporary lead of the group, until he is either formally endorsed or a successor chosen to replace him.

Sir Adam Beck.

TORONTO, Oct. 23.—It seems to me that a combination of the U.F.O. and Labour would make the best working group of the present parties to form a government," said Geo. C. Halcrow to the Examiner, one of the successful Labour men at Hamilton, making the fifth Labour man of the eleven who were elected to express the same opinion. Questioned as to what he thought of Sir Adam Beck as a possible premier, he said: "I think that Sir Adam is the biggest man in the province and the country at the present moment, and he seems to me to be the central figure. We ought to get together. I think we can form a working, efficient government in the present circumstances. Another election, in my opinion would not substantially alter the present standing. We are going to meet at Hamilton on Saturday to come to an unanimous agreement."

Government Must Go.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Oct. 23.—"I have not been offered the position of Attorney-General by the U.F.O. or have heard nothing about such an eventuality," said J. Walter Curry, K.C., Liberal member-elect. "It's a matter that I should have to consider carefully to find out what my duty would be," he added. "Don't you think that it would be unreasonable that I should express my opinion about what I should do in such a case. The whole situation is entirely different to-day than it was when I was elected by my people. A man who is elected has at least four duties; First, the duty to himself; second, the duty to the people; third, the duty to his party; and fourth, second only to duty to his country, the duty to the constituents who elected him."

"I have no advice to give, either to the Farmers or the Labour men," said Mr. Curry. "It would be a piece of impertinence on my part to give any. I believe that each of them is quite capable of managing their own affairs."

"As far as I am concerned, why should I say anything about a situation that is changing every minute?" said Mr. Curry, but in an Irish fashion he did express a little of what he thought.

"The present government ought not to be kept in power or any member of it. It looks at the present moment that the Lieut.-Governor was considering such a possibility. As the Globe says this morning, that would be going back to the time of the Stuarts. As I understand constitution-

Oppose Board

MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION OBJECT TO METHODS EMPLOYED BY THE BOARD OF COMMERCE.

A CONFERENCE

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—If there are forces in the community in favour of the Board of Commerce and the work it is doing, they should let their voices be heard, or the Government will think everyone is against the Board.

In the House of Commons, the rural members on both sides have been carrying on an active campaign against it, and now the Canadian Manufacturers' Association has come out openly in opposition.

There were reports that yesterday the Canadian Manufacturers' Association deputation to the Government was in conference on tariff matters, but it appears now that complaints against the Board of Commerce were the basis of the discussion. There were seven Cabinet Ministers present at the interview.

The Government promised close consideration of the representations laid before them by the deputation.

The manufacturers contend that the activities of the Board of Commerce are having an unsettling effect on business. They do not so much ask that the Board should be discontinued altogether, but that its methods be changed. One chief complaint is that the Board has to be fishing about for evidence, and that in the process much injustice is done to firms whose business is being carried on in a legitimate and praiseworthy way.

STEEL INDUSTRY IS EXPANDING

Several New Open Hearth Furnaces Will Be Constructed by Steel Firm.

(Special to The Examiner.)

SYDNEY, N.S., Oct. 23.—New and larger open hearth furnaces are to be constructed by the Dominion Steel Co. immediately. Several are to be built and they will have a capacity of about seven tons each. With the plate mill in operation the present furnaces will be unable to supply the necessary steel for all purposes, hence the necessity for erecting larger furnaces.

Mr. Gauvreau Suggests Amnesty With Peace Proclamation.

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—J. A. Gauvreau (Temiscouata) has given notice that he will inquire in the House on Thursday if it is the intention of the Government to advise the Imperial authorities that it would be desirable that King George should proclaim a general amnesty, throughout the whole British Empire, in favor of those who have violated the Military Service Act, in any part of the Empire, on the official proclamation of peace.

He also asks the Government if it intends to proclaim a general amnesty coinciding with the proclamation of peace, to all defaulters, and particularly farmers' sons in Canada "who have always understood that their services were just as valuable as those who had enlisted for overseas service."

A SICKLY WIFE NO FIT MATE FOR ANY MAN

GIRLS AND WOMEN SHOULD LOOK WELL TO THEIR HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

Never before was physical health and vigor so highly esteemed and so eagerly sought for as to-day.

No man finds happiness in a sickly wife, and the woman who wishes to enjoy the pleasures of life should spare no effort to maintain perfect health.

Is your daughter growing up strong and ruddy? Has she strength to drink in greedily all the pleasures that youth so zealously seeks—or is she compelled to use the street car instead of enjoying the delightful exercise of walking—does she after the ball arise refreshed and vigorous, or is she exhausted, indifferent, and perhaps irritable?

When strength and vigor can be so easily maintained by Ferrozone, when the glow of health is so quickly brought to the cheeks and elasticity to the step, it is plainly a mother's duty to see that Ferrozone is on hand to assist her daughter back to health.

Upon the wake of Ferrozone quickly follows a stream of rich, nourishing blood which imparts that power and surplus so earnestly desired by those in ill-health.

Stop and think what this means to your daughter—certainly a great deal and it can be accomplished by Ferrozone.

Every growing girl and young woman derives enormous benefit in many ways from this nutritive, vitalizing tonic.

It is specially suited for young women and is a guarantee of health and regularity as long as it is used.

Ferrozone is free from alcohol and perfectly safe to use. Prepared in the form of a chocolate-coated tablet and sold in 50c boxes or six for $2.50 at all dealers, or direct from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

GUM TENDERNESS — A TOOTH-MENACE

It is true that four out of five people over forty suffer from gum-shrinkage, or Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease). But many people even under thirty have Pyorrhea. Women, particularly after the baby comes, are peculiarly subject to Pyorrhea. At such time they cannot be too careful about their teeth.

Pyorrhea commences with tender gums, or with gum-bleeding, at tooth-brush time. Gradually the gums become spongy. They inflame and then shrink. The teeth become exposed to decay at the base and tiny openings in the gums become the breeding places of disease germs which infect the joints—or tonsils—or cause other ailments.

Beware of that first gum tenderness! Try Forhan's for the gums. It positively prevents Pyorrhea, if used in time and used consistently. No ordinary tooth paste will do this.

And Forhan's cleans teeth scientifically as well. Brush your teeth with it. It keeps the teeth white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment. 35c and 60c tubes. All druggists.

A CHALLENGE

(Lindsay Post.)

BOBCAYGEON.—I hereby challenge Dr. Wood, Chas. D. Logan or the Editor of the Watchman Warder to prove to the electors that Chas. D. Logan has been a prominent U.F.O. member for the last six years. I will give either of these three $100 if they can get six men who belong to either of the Farmers' Clubs that Mr. Logan has belonged to, to sign a paper stating that he has been a prominent U.F.O. worker for the last six years. I will add another hundred to any person who can find his name on the Secretary's book as being a member for 1918. On looking over mine I see 142 names, but Mr. Logan's is not there. I will give another $100 to any person who can prove that I, as Secretary, ever got any communication from the Head Office, telling us what we should do about political matters before our convention.

Yours,
THOS. H. MARTIN,
Sec.-Treas. B. D. F. C.

A GERMAN "PLUMB PLAN."

Frankfort Railway Workers Take Part in Directors' Meetings.

AMSTERDAM. — According to German newspapers, 20,000 railway men in Frankfort-on-the-Maine recently demanded for a labor commission the right to take part in the regular meetings of the railway Board of Directors.

Their demand, it was stated, was agreed to, with the reservation that the final decision would rest with the Government Ministry. Similar demands by the men have previously been refused.

"I Hope Every City and District Will Win My Flag"

When Edward, Prince of Wales—eager, bright eyed, smiling and sincere—arrived in Canada in August, and when he voiced his great admiration of the wonderful achievements of Canadians, on the fields of battle and at home, once again we were thrilled with joyous pride.

He asked concerning Canada's reconstruction programme, and when he was told of the Victory Loan 1919, he graciously consented to the use of his Coat of Arms on a flag, which is to be the prize of honour for districts achieving their quota in the loan.

In dedicating "The Prince's Flag" at Ottawa on Labor Day, His Royal Highness said in part:—

"It is a great joy to me to be associated with the loan, which is the bridge between war and peace, and which is finishing off the job."

"I hope every city and district will win my flag."

Striking, and beautiful in design, this flag will form not only an unique memento of Victory Year, but a lasting and outstanding souvenir of the visit of His Royal Highness—a visit which will remain as one of the most memorable events in Canada's history.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

The flag is made in two sizes, 4 feet 6 inches by 9 feet for small cities, towns and villages, and 7 feet by 13 feet 6 inches for cities of over 10,000 population.

Canada has been divided into canvassing districts by the Victory Loan Organization. Each city forms one district. Other districts have been determined according to population.

Each of these canvassing districts has been allotted a certain amount in Victory Bonds to sell. To win the Prince's Flag, therefore, a district has to sell its allotment. That is the one and simple condition.

Anticipating that many districts will buy far beyond their allotment, the organization decided that for each twenty-five per cent. excess of the quota one Prince of Wales' Crest be awarded. Thus the workers in a district doubling its quota will be the proud winners of four small crests for their Honour Flag. These crests will be sewn to the flag. The Prince's Crest—the three ostrich plumes—is shown at the top of the coat of arms.

To every organization with fifty or more employees, where seventy-five per cent. of the enrollment invests a total of ten per cent. of the annual payroll in Victory Bonds, a supplementary Prince of Wales Flag in smaller form—48 inches by 34 inches—will be awarded.

The allotment for each district has been carefully considered, and is based on a conservative estimate of the purchasing power of the district.

Your district can sell its allotment and thus win the Prince's Flag, provided each person does his or her share.

You will gladly do your part and encourage your neighbour to do his.

Remember YOUR purchase may be the one that decides whether or not your district is to be the proud possessor of the Prince's Flag.

The Prince's Motto is "I Serve"
Will You also Serve?

SIX MILLION DIRTY COLLARS IN NEW YORK

Strike Makes Father Knickerbocker Worry What to Wear.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—With the last clean collar in the bureau drawer—and that one of an ancient model, Father Knickerbocker to-day began to look a day or two ahead, wondering what he will wear around his neck.

The laundry strike is in its tenth day. The laundrymen didn't bring back last week's bundle nor call for one this week. From old styles down to soft ones and celluloid brands, the city's male population finds himself in a quandry.

Hand and steam launders estimated at from 4,000 to 40,000 have tied up the city's washing and ironing business until the average citizen's supply of clean linen has become dangerously lowered.

S. J. Callison, manager of the Crown Laundry, estimated to-day there are 6,000,000 dirty collars and probably twice as many soiled shirts in New York.

The manager of a haberdashery with branches in all parts of the country said three times the normal sales of collars have been made in the last three days.

Makers of celluloid neckwear assert more cuffs have been made for the "clean-your-own" brand than ever before in the history of New York.

Indications were to-day that the laundry-workers will not soon recede from their stand for more money.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

THURSDAY, OCT. 23RD, 1919.

GOOD NIGHT.

It was a case of "Good Night, Good Knight" with the late Prime Minister.

THE NEXT PREMIER.

Guessing the name of the new Premier is a more difficult task now than before the election.

SOME RELIEF.

The party politician must sigh with relief at the announcement that there is little likelihood of the Farmers placing candidates in the field in provincial elections in the three prairie provinces.

A CHALLENGE.

The powers-that-be at Ottawa are shutting their ears to the challenge from the U.F.O.—"Bring on your Dominion election now"—as voiced in the Farmers' Sun.

THE SARCASTIC MR. BURNHAM.

The latest freakish action of the member for West Peterborough in the Dominion House to give notice that on the reading of orders for the first sitting of the Committee of the Whole on the on the Prohibition Act he will move a resolution that the committee be given power to extend the provisions of the Act to inculde the banning of "playing cards, of the use of the feathers of wild birds for dress or other ornamental purposes and of tobacco in any form." Mr. Burnham's purpose in moving this absurd resolution is obvious. It is merely his idea of sarcasm, an attempt to ridicule the action of the people of Ontario is voting to retain the Ontario Temperance Act unamended. Mr. Burnham's resolution is a deliberate insult to the thousands of his constituents who voted "no" on Monday. In the face of the big dry majority rolled up in the riding, which is so unfortunate as to have him as its representative in Ottawa. Mr. Burnham has the effrontery to attempt to mock the temperance sentiments of the majority of the people of West Peterborough. No other motive can be read into the motion that he proposes to make. It is another striking proof of the fact that Mr. Burnham is utterly out of touch with the people he misrepresents and his belated attempt to pose as the friend of organized labour at the eleventh hour in the recent provincial campaign is not destined to succeed in saving his prestige.

SUPPORT THE BY-LAWS.

The rate-payers are again reminded that to-morrow they have an opportunity of passing upon two by-laws, one exempting the G.W.V.A. Hall from municipal taxation and the other authorizing the city to purchase the Metal Products' Building, repair it, and rent it to the Nashua Gum and Coated Paper Company at 7 per cent. of the total cost.

The first by-law is merely to give the Council a chance to render justice to the Great War Veterans and to fulfil a pledge made to them when they commenced work upon their new building. The ratepayer who would vote against this by-law has a very poor sense of gratitude. The remission of the taxes on the G.W.V.A. Hall is a concession that has been many times earned by the Veterans and the measure should be enthusiastically carried.

The passing of the second by-law will bring to Peterboro an industry that will commence operations here with most encouraging prospects for a speedy and notable development. The city is asked to purchase the old plant of the Metal Products Company at $50,000, to spend approxi-

it to the Nashua Company at a yearly rental of 7 per cent. of the total cost. The propostion has been carefully investigated and endorsed by the Board of Trade, which will help to get the vote out to-morrow. Rate-payers who are interested in the development of Peterboro should not hesitate in voting "Yes" on this by-law. It is important too that they should take the trouble to get out and vote, for there is in Peterboro an element that persistently goes to the polling booths and attempts to block any money by-law, no matter what its purport may be. It requires a favorable vote of two-thirds of the total vote polled to carry the by-law.

THE REFERENDUM.

The referendum totals, although by no means complete, not only show a big dry majority on each of the four questions but reveal unmistakably the utter failure of the Citizens' Liberty League to impress its opinions upon the voters. The League's chief aim was to induce the people to vote "Yes" on all four questions. That their policy was not generally carried out is shown by the varying vote in the "wet" column. The slogan "Vote Yes Four Times" was a failure. There were far more wet votes on the second and fourth questions than on the other two, showing that the electors preferred to use their own judgment and could not be beguiled by the Liberty League into voting the whole ticket and expressing their approval of something they did not want. Many a man who paid a dollar to become a member of the League is doubtless looking ruefully at his League's button and wondering if its purchase was worth while.

The outstanding feature of the referendum was the decisive vote against the open bar. The first question, which was interpreted as meaning a return to the bar system, if the majority voted in the affirmative, was marked by the biggest "No" vote of all, the proportion being 2 to 1, while Question 3, which sought for an expression of opinion on the advisability of permitting the sale of beer over the bar in standard hotels brought out an almost as emphatic negative.

THE UNHAPPY UNIONISTS.

Advices from Ottawa are to the effect that the Union government will put off as long as possible an appeal to the country. The announcement will occasion no surprise in view of the slaughter of the Ontario government on Monday, and the spectacular demonstration of the voting power of the farmers of Ontario when united under their own banner. The Unionists at Ottawa realize all too clearly, for their own peace of mind that the resentment the Ontario farmers had against the Hearst government was mild indeed to the grievances they hold against the Borden administration. With their appetite whetted by their success in the Provincial arena and with their anger against Union government still at its limit of intensity, the farmers are yearning for a chance to bury the Unionists under an avalanche of ballots. The feeling is natural. The farmers were betrayed by the Borden government. Promised before the election of 1917 that their sons and hired men actively engaged in agriculture would be exempt from conscription, the farmers found, after the election was over, that the government's promise was of no value. When they realized that they had been deceived and sent a deputation to Ottawa they were refused a hearing and newspapers favourable to the government denounced them as slackers. No wonder the farmers were angry and no wonder they resolved to place themselves in such a position that they would not again be made victims of political intrigue. The failure of the government afterward to institute any progressive legislation on behalf on the agrarian interests, the establishment of daylight savings in 1918 in the face of the opposition from the rural sections of Canada, the continuance of order-in-council government at Ottawa, all these have been contributing factors in the steadily growing resentment in the rural constituencies against Union government. The number of Conservative members who would be returned to power at Ottawa in a general election if their ridings were rural, could be counted on one hand. And Liberal Unionists would have no more chance than their Conservative confreres. Imagine what the farmers of Durham would do to Hon. N. W. Rowell if that Minister were to appear before them as standard-bearer of the Union government. Bad as was the defeat handed to J. J. Preston the other day, it would appear as nothing against the adverse vote that would be rolled up against the President of the Privy Council if he had to face the electors who chose him by a big majority as their representative in 1917. And the turn-over on Monday shows that under the new order of things no ridings can be counted as safe. Mr. J. A. Sexsmith in East Peterborough undoubtedly experienced a sinking sensation on Monday night when he heard that his Provincial political partner, Mr. James Thompson, was among the victims of the landslide and realized that the same organization that won the riding for the United Farmers in the Ontario House is ready and waiting to send a representative to Ottawa.

These are not happy days for Unionist members of Parliament.

NOT A DEPENDENT OF REV. DAVID S. K. BYRNE

PORT HOPE PREACHER NOT THE "MILLIONAIRE" REFERRED TO BY HAMILTON MAGISTRATE.

Rev. David S. K. Byrne informs the Examiner that he is not the millionaire philanthropist referred to in a report of a Hamilton police court case in which a Mrs. Sarah Kidd figured. The Hamilton report of the case reads as follows:

HAMILTON, Oct. 17.— In the case of Sarah Kidd, 185 Rebecca street, Inspector Shain stated in the police court yesterday that two houses owned by the defendant were considered by the Board of Health to be unfit for habitation.

Dr. Roberts, the M.H.O., said the case had not been brought up with the idea of punishing. Mrs. Kidd, whose physical condition prevented her from looking after her affairs properly. He thought that she being practically blind, should be placed where she would be properly looked after.

"I understand that this woman's husband is practically a millionaire, and is giving away a lot of money to charity, and for the erection of memorials and so forth. It would be much better if he were to contribute to her support, even if he is separated from her," said the magistrate, who instructed Inspector Hunter to communicate with her husband. He reserved his decision in the meantime.

Mr. Byrne states that the above report might imply that he was the "millionaire" referred to and he further states that he is well able to take care of anyone including his wife, who may be dependent upon him. Mr. Byrne refers anyone who may entertain any doubt as to his reputation, to Judge Ward of Port Hope and other prominent residents of that district where Mr. Byrne spent his younger days.

An ounce of jolly goes farther than a ton of advice.

"OLD CLOTHES LEAGUES" ARE BECOMING POPULAR IN LONDON

PATCHES ON TROUSERS, SHINY COAT SLEEVES AND SEWN-UP SPLITS IN BOOTS ARE BADGES OF HONOUR.

LONDON, Oct. 23.— Fashionable London tailors are said to be somewhat perturbed over the reported popularity of a clothes conservation "movement."

The "movement" has manifested itself in the organization of "old clothes leagues"—societies with the single pledge slogan—"No more clothes of the new variety until prices go down." Those who assume this pledge are expected to regard patches on trousers, shiny coat sleeves and sewn-up splits in boots and shoes as badges of honor. The turning of old suits, sewing in of new linings and other things which make old trousers, old coats and vests serve the purpose of new suits at a third the cost, is another of the league's precepts.

The New Magna Charta of Labor

THE attention given to industrial relations by the Peace Conference, gives this all-important phase of human effort its rightful place in the consideration of the people. Progress and prosperity depend on the good relations of employer and employed. Industrial strife will lead to chaos.

For this reason employer and employee should keep informed on the trend of events in the Industrial World.

Coming events in Canada are charged with unprecedented importance. Employer and employed have been in conference at Ottawa, under the auspices of the authorities, with a view to furthering the good work of the Peace Conference, and arriving at some common understanding for future peace and accord — the development of Canadian Industry and Commerce.

Important conferences are taking place in the United States, Great Britain, France, Australia, the neutral countries—and even in Germany itself. All these have, and will have, a great and growing influence and bearing on conditions in Canada.

Employer and employed cannot afford to fail in keeping themselves informed on the issues discussed and decisions arrived at. The Globe is very specially fitted to give this service.

Its staff of editorial writers are chosen for their ability to interpret, explain, and point out the many intricate questions involved. Governed by sober thought, The Globe expresses its opinions on these important subjects, with careful regard for the interests of employer and employed. Its view of industrial economics is that both sides have rights.

The Globe's cable and other news services are maintained as much for the purposes of publishing the world's industrial news as any other news.

To keep informed on all the big questions of the world—to follow the trend of important events in Canada during the coming months—you should read

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. A DESPERATE RESOLVE

CHAPTER XCVIII

I was in a perfect fever of unrest, impatience, and something very like fear all the rest of that day, and the next. Neil had told us at breakfast that he would not dine at home. I wondered what I should tell his aunt to excuse my absence also when she knew I was not with him. But I had not excuses to make fortunately. Aunt developed a sick headache and went to bed about four o'clock.

I dressed as carefully as I ever had in my life. I knew Blanche Orton's fondness for dress, her exquisite if sometimes bizarre taste. I would look as well as possible. I allowed myself just time to reach there by seven o'clock, as I judged that would be her dinner hour. I did not take the car, but walked to the corner and hailed a passing taxi. I would take no one, not even the chauffeur into my confidence.

As I rang the bell I trembled so I could scarcely stand. When the maid opened the door the sound of laughter and voices nearly caused me to turn and flee. But I had come for a purpose—to help Neil. Had it been for any other reason under the sun I could not have gone through with it. But the thought of Neil gave me courage.

"Go right up stairs please and lay off your things," the maid said. She of course had not recognized me and thought me one of the invited guests.

I walked slowly up the stairs. I laid aside my cloak, then walked even more slowly down again. Blanche Orton came into the hall just as I reached it, and I immediately spoke to her:

"You will forgive me for intruding won't you Mrs. Orton?" I asked in my most gracious tones. "But I know Neil often comes to you for help in his business. I do so want to help him also, so as I knew you were to have a dinner to-night—a business dinner, I could not have intruded upon a social affair, I determined to come and ask you to give me a lesson in helping my husband. You see I was foolish. I did not care for some of the men he wished to entertain, so I did not compel me to receive them. I am sorry now. Will you help me retrieve my error?" It was not at all what I had intended to say; not at all what I wanted to say. But the words seemed to come of their own volition.

Mrs. Orton had first looked surprised, then a look of something near chagrin crossed her face, then, to my surprise, one of pity. I was totally unprepared for her answer:

"Indeed I will help you all I can! you are very brave to acknowledge your mistake. Don't let anyone know I did not invite you. I will say I telephoned you to join us."

As I followed her into the room where her guests were assembled, I thought of the old saying that 'there is some good in the worst of us.' She had risen to the occasion, and to my help wonderfully. She could make any explanation she saw fit of my presence. My greatest cause of embarrassment was gone—that it would be known that I had joined them without an invitation, and that Neil might think I was spying upon him.

"Ladies and gentlemen let me introduce Mrs. Forbes. Aren't you surprised Neil? I thought it was time your wife joined us and looked after you. You might get too fond of me you know." Her voice sounded a bit strained; her speech labored, and rather unlike her usual easy nonchalance. But no one seemed to notice, and altho Neil looked absolutely dumfounded he answered in a facetious manner, when she said, "You tell her who the people are Neil. She already knows Mr. Frederick I think." I had not noticed him until she spoke. In fact the room and everyone in it all save Neil was a blur. But as she mentioned Frederick's name a wave of gladness rushed over me. If he were there I should not be so afraid, or so alone.

"I knew you would come," he said very low as he immediately crossed to me. "You intended to when you telephoned me."

"And you came because you knew I"—I stopped short for two reasons. One that I was taking a good deal for granted, and letting him see it. The other because Neil had joined us and was presenting Mr. Tearle, then Mr. Connor. Scott was not there, but Mr. Thompson came in later. These with two women, overdressed ordinary women who seemed ill at ease until after the wine was served, when they were very talkative and very gay. I never had met women of their type before and it was as hard, even harder to talk to them than to Tearle and Connor. But I had come to help Neil, so while refusing to take any wine, I chatted with each of them in turn until the conversation turned upon some mining proposition. Then I listened.

To-morrow—Neil suggests that Barbara leave early.

SEES BOOM IN SOUTH AFRICA

Cape Town Man Tells How War Forced Country's Development.

South Africa has learned an amazing lesson in home production since the war began, according to John Elliott of Cape Town, who is here for a short time. Before the war, Mr. Elliott says, all the foodstuffs for South Africa were imported, but when these importations were cut off the country yearned to produce its own foodstuffs.

"South Africa is certainly on a boom," said Mr. Elliott, "and never was the chance so great for American enterprise and initiative. Johannesburg has grown from a small village into a city of tall buildings, street cars, theatres and hotels. The great diamond mines at Kimberly are also booming, the demand for diamonds never being so great in the history of the world. South Africa has more chance to grow and more room than any other country. Our white population is around 2,000,000 and the entire population of the South African country is only 5,000,000.

"Our people have made great strides in producing their own food during the last two or three years. Before the war we even had eggs shipped to us from England, but now we raise all the chickens we need for our own consumption. We are also manufacturing butter and cheese, some coffee is being raised, and every one turned to raising their own vegetables. Gradually there will be textile industries and machine shops, but these are very slow in coming, because of the difficulty of getting such industries started. The American trade possibilities with South Africa are very great now. No clothing to speak of is being manufactured there and all machinery is imported."

FARMERS WILL FORM GOVERNMENT.

TORONTO, Oct. 23. — Members-elect of the United Farmers decided not to enter into an alliance with either of the old parties, but will attempt to form a government on their own platform.

A NEW SCHEME.

LONDON, Oct. 23. — It is stated here that the ex-Kaiser and the former Crown Prince are attempting to form a new Royalist party.

WITHDREW LABOUR MEN.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—President Gompers withdrew his labour delegation from the Industrial Congress after the failure of the manufacturers to agree on collective bargaining and arbitration for the steel strike.

GERMAN OPERA HAS RESULTS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. — Rioting broke out last night around the Lexington Theatre, where a German opera is being put on. One man was injured.

VETS MAKE DEMONSTRATION.

TORONTO, Oct. 23.—A crowd of thirteen hundred United Veteran rioters surrounded the home of W. E. Turley, secretary of the Provincial G. W.V.A. last night. Police reserves had to be called out before the crowd dispersed.

NEW STAMPS FROM RUSSIA.

Ukraine and Georgia Put Out Original Forms.

LONDON.—Postage stamps of the new "People's Republic of the Ukraine," are triangular, typifying the dominance of the Christian faith over the Mohammedan. The form stands for the Holy Trinity and is said to be reproduced from sacred candelabra in the cathedral of St. Sophia at Kiev.

Further south the Transcaucasian Republic of Georgia has put out stamps of barbaric appearance, on which is seen the figure of a Georgian knight upon a prancing steed, surrounded by constellations.

The Bolshevist Government of interior Russia, it is stated, has increased postage to 35 kopeks and registration to double that figure, and has issued stamps of these values in a design prepared by the Kerensky administration.

VETERANS FIGHT TO STOP PRODUCTION OF GERMAN OPERA.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. — Despite the decision by Mayor Hylan that German opera should not be given in New York until the Peace Treaty is signed, "Die Meistersingers" was presented in German at the Lexington Theatre here, while thousands of soldiers, sailors, marines, and civilians fought with the police in an attempt to reach the theatre and stop the production.

Several shots were fired as the former service men time and again charged the police lines or laid down a barrage of bricks, stones, and other missiles in an attempt to force their way through.

Soon after the performance started a crowd of about 300 service men were driven away from the vicinity of the theatre, but after reaching Times Square were reinforced and, about one thousand strong, started back, only to be met by a squad of mounted police, who scattered them.

During the remainder of the performance the crowd fought valiantly to reach the theatre, but failed.

If a man ever speaks the truth it's when he is angry.

Happy Mothers

Many mothers who in order to keep the home neat and attractive, the children well fed and dressed, continually overdo.

The experience of motherhood alone causes a severe strain upon the system, from which many women recover slowly, and serious feminine disorders may develop unless great care is taken to prevent them.

To such women Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is invaluable. For many years this root and herb medicine has been recognized as the standard remedy for woman's ills, restoring them to a normal, healthy condition.

Mrs. Walsh's Case

Avonport, N. S.—"I have obtained great benefit by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had five children and have taken the Vegetable Compound before each of them was born, except the first one, and if I was pregnant again I would take it. I was always troubled with a bearing down feeling when on my feet but since taking Vegetable Compound I feel a lot better. I hope you will publish this letter if it will help some other suffering women."

MRS. SEYMOUR WALSH, Avonport, Nova Scotia.

A Word to Childless Women

There are women everywhere who long for children in their homes yet are denied this happiness on account of some functional disorder which in many cases would readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Such women should not give up hope until they have given this wonderful medicine a trial.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

WOULD EXTEND THE PROHIBITION TO CARDS, TOBACCO AND FEATHERS

MR. BURNHAM WISHES TO GIVE PEOPLE CHANCE FOR FULL EXPRESSION OF THEIR DESIRES UNDER PROHIBITION MEASURE.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., has given notice that on the reading of orders of the day for the first sitting of the committee of the whole on the Prohibition Act, he will move the following resolution:

That it be an instruction to the committee of the whole on said bill that the committee do have power to extend the provisions of the said bill and of the act sought to be amended thereby relating to intoxicating liquors, to playing cards, the feathers of wild birds for dress or other ornamental purposes, and to tobacco in any form.

Referring to his proposed amendment to the Prohibition Bill, Mr. Burnham said to-day:

"I believe the scope of such a bill should be as wide as the request of the people of a province may require, and not confined to one article. For example, a nation-wide crusade has been begun in the United States for Sunday observance, and if the present bill does not show itself capable of extension a province would not be properly equipped to express its wish by referendum. A new era of expressing the people's will has arrived, and the methods defined by a Federal enabling bill should be complete."

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS

DISASTER IN CORNWALL.

(Canadian Press.)

PENZANCE, England, Oct. 23.—A disaster in the Levant Mine at St. Just, Cornwall, to-day caused about forty deaths. Many miners were injured.

OREL RE-TAKEN.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Orel has been re-taken by the Bolsheviki, who also have defeated nineteen regiments of General Mamontoff's army outside of Voronezh, according to wireless despatch sent out by the Soviet Government.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED.

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Four persons were killed and several injured, when the north-bound Third Avenue elevated train crashed into the rear end of the second train, stalled, early to-day. Slippery rails caused the disaster.

BRITAIN TO KEEP DOWN RENT BOOSTS

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Prime Minister Lloyd George to-day announced the Government proposed to provide security for tenants against increases in their rent and against the sale of the farms upon which they are working.

THE LABOUR MEMBERS INVITED TO CONFERENCE

al government, they must go. The unusual and extraordinary statement of the Lieut.-Governor that he doesn't have to accept the resignation of any Minister is so astounding that I have not come to any conclusion as to what he might do, or whom he might ask to form a government."

Commenting on the ability of the farmers to form a government, and suply the necessary leadership, he said: "The farmers have rightly, I think, taken an interest in discrediting the Hearst government. Having discredited it, they must take the responsibility of forming a new government. I quite agree with what the Globe says to-day, that to smash a government and not to take the responsibility for their actions and not form a government, leads only to anarchy.

"The farmers are new as a party, and it is unfair to expect them to develop a leader at the start. They are a very intelligent and progressive part of the community and I've no doubt that leaders will grow up in their party."

Canon Cody.

Mr. Curry had no use for Dr. Cody, and does not see why he should be in any coalition cabinet. Speaking of the fact that Labour seemed to be so averse to retaining Dr. Cody in his position as Minister of Education, Mr. Curry said: "Why should any man be in favour of Canon Cody as a leader of a party or a Minister of Education? Why should he, with apparently no knowledge of what had taken place within the government of Canada, of which he became a member, undertake to give a certificate of character to a discredited Minister. And the fact that his certificate of character was unwarranted, is proved by the fact of the defeat of that party he so praised throughout the province. I have no use for the man."

"Real Canadians."

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Oct. 23.— "It's sheer guess upon the part of a newspaper," said Mr. Gordon Waldron to the Examiner, with reference to the rumour that he would likely be chosen Attroney-General in the United Farmers' Cabinet. "In due time the party will make their statements and select a Cabinet. No plans have been made public as yet."

"Will the farmer representatives who have had practically no political experience, call upon other public men who are sympathetic to the platform to enter the government?" asked the reporter.

Mr. Waldron displayed a tendency to discredit any remark that the farmers were not capable of taking upon themselves the duties of forming an administration.

"We are politicals in this country from childhood up," he said. "Since we have not literature or art nor national religion, we look upon politics as a sort of amusement."

"He thought that the official statement issued last night by the U. F. O. leaders was wise and important. "It is the decision to take the responsibility which the public have put on their shoulders. There is now no doubt that they will form an administration. I know that they will succeed and I believe that the public will approve of what they have done. I am sure as the matters develop, wise and patriotic men will come to the aid of the farmers from all classes.

"Do you think that urban interests will suffer with representatives of the agricultural class of the community in power?" he was asked. "Already this province and couptry have been dominated by distinct classes for many years. Look at the manufacturers and labour, don't they belong to classes?" "The farmers have no class ideas except to set themselves free from class. There are real Canadians in power now and I say more power to their elbow."

BELMONT RATE 40 1-2 MILLS.

The tax rate for Belmont & Methuen this year is 40 1-2 mills on the dollar, in addition to the Trustee rate and School Debenture rate. In some school sections the ratepayers are called upon to contribute a very large rate. For instance the ratepayers of S. S. No. 12, at Cordova, are assessed a rate of 87 1-2 mills, and those of S. S. No. 15 or Havelock a rate of 80 mills.

Why Do French Women Always Look Young

In France, mothers and daughters look like sisters. How are the women there able to retain their youthful looks until long past middle age? Is it because they are much given to the use of mercolized wax? This wax possesses a remarkable absorbent property which quickly removes the fine particles of cuticle which are constantly dying and which are the immediate cause of an old-looking complexion. Thus the livelier, healthier younger skin beneath is given a chance to breathe and to show itself. Try this treatment yourself. Most likely it will not require two weeks to make your complexion as clear, soft, and beautiful as a young girl's. Just one ounce of mercolized wax (all American druggists have it) usually does the work. The wax is put on nights like cold cream and washed off mornings.

DEATH DUE TO ALCOHOL

The adjourned inquest into the death of Herbert Rawlinson, of Port Hope, who was found in a dying condition in an automobile on the morning of September 18, by dancers leaving the town hall, has been completed. Analysis of the stomach showed traces of alcohol. Witnesses testified that the deceased had been drinking heavily during the evening The jury returned a verdict that death was caused by alcoholic poisoning.

BLISS NATIVE HERB TABLETS

Restore a Healthy Condition

Why permit your liver and kidneys to remind you constantly of their unhealthy condition, when Bliss Native Herb Tablets taken at regular intervals will free you from pain, and keep your system in sound physical health. Don't neglect them, for to do so will lead to perhaps very serious consequences. Take Bliss Native Herb Tablets at the first sign of trouble, and you will be agreeably surprised at the results. They are recognized everywhere as the standard herb remedy for all ills due to a disordered stomach. Constipation disappears, the liver and kidneys function properly, the blood becomes pure and healthy, the appetite improves, and the general system becomes invigorated.

Mrs. Francis Mercier, Beauseville, Qu., writes: "My liver and kidneys were very bad, but thanks to Bliss Native Herb Tablets, I have not a trace of my old trouble now. I shall continue to keep them on hand, just as long as I can get them."

PEACE POLICY

The annual meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Red Cross Society was held yesterday afternoon in the Public Library. The members present listened with interest to the reports of the treasurer, secretary, and conveners of the various committees. The president, Mrs. J. C. Davidson, in her opening address, reviewed the activities of the society during the past year, and urged the continued interest and loyal support of the members for the ensuing year in carrying out the comprehensive peace policy outlined by headquarters.

The society voted $100.00 to the Navy League Fund, for which a campaign is being carried on this week.

Before the close of the meeting, the diploma presented by the Italian Red Cross to the local society in recognition of its services in helping to raise the amount collected on the Italian Red Cross tag day, was exhibited, and the cordial letter of thanks accompanying it was read.

ONE "WHY" OF VICTORY LOAN

It is your duty to buy Victory Bonds because:

The broken bodies and shattered nerves of our soldiers must be rebuilt by the very best surgical and medical care; their family life must be "rebuilt" in many cases, and the breadwinner must be "rebuilt" according to the condition in which the war has left him, so that he may fit into the fabric of normal life. All this means tremendous expenditures on Hospitals, Vocational Training, Land Settlement, Pensions and Gratuities.

It is also your opportunity to invest your money at 5 per cent. with the Dominion of Canada as security.

COUNCIL ENDORSES LOAN.

Moved by Alderman Gainey;
Seconded by Alderman Morrison:
That this Council of the City of Peterborough heartily commends the 1919 Victory Loan to the support of the people, as a matter of business as well as a patriotic duty, as its success will be of benefit to the agricultural and business life of the country, and enable the Government to carry out the work of civil re-establishment of the returned soldiers.

Dandruff Soon Ruins The Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

BECAME TOTALLY BLIND DURING THE NIGHT

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 23.—Mr. William Breen, of Tweed Village, awoke on Monday to ascertain that he was totally blind. Some years ago he lost the sight of one eye, and some time during Sunday night, the bursting of a blood vessel in the retina of the good eye destroyed the sight.

Another delightful model is on a silver tissue ground, but is principally billlows of silk net delicately tinted with helio and blue. The bodice is of shot silk in corresponding colours. The sleeves are mere nothings; just tinted bits of net, but very effective, nevertheless. Price $54.

A particularly handsome model is of pink taffeta. From the waist falls an overskirt of maline, which in turn is trimmed with three narrow ruffles of the silk itself. The bodice is draped of the material and edge with deep silver lace. A corsage bouquet of metallic cloth makes a charming finish. Price $52.

If gold and black meets your fancy this number will prove interesting. The foundation is of gold cloth and there is an overskirt and skirt of black maline. The bodice is of gold cloth and gold lace and the sleeves are butterfly pattern. Price $59.

EPWORTH LEAGUE CONVENTION WILL OPEN TO-MORROW

There is every indication that the convention of the Young People's Societies of the Methodist Church for the Bay of Quinte conference, which opens on Friday afternoon of this week in Port Hope, will be the largest affair of its kind held in Eastern Ontario in recent years.

During the war, many of the Epworth Leagues and other Young Peoples' Societies disbanded, and their members concentrated their energies on Red Cross and similar war work.

Now that the war is over, Young Peoples' Church Societies are taking a fresh hold on their work. The Port Hope convention is the first Bay of Quinte Conference convention held for four years. It is under the auspices of the Epworth League, but all other Mehodist Young People's Societies are entitled to be represented. The convention is being held over a week-end—from Friday afternoon to Sunday night. This is a new idea, and is planned to encourage the attendance of High School students, school teachers, and young men who could not leave their work in the middle of the week, but might get away over the week-end.

A splendid programme has been prepared. Some of the speakers will be Rev. Frank Langford, general secretary of Young People's Work for the Methodist Church; Rev. F. C. Stephenson, secretary of the Young People's Forward Movement for Missions; Rev. (Major) Harry Frost, of Trenton, Rev. S. T. Tucker, of Millbrook, Rev. Dr. R. M. Burns, of Toronto, Rev. C. C. Washington, of Baltimore, Rev. A. H. Foster, of Belleville, Rev. W. P. Rodgers, of Napanee, President of the Conference; and Miss Doris Browning, of Toronto, specialists in Junior League work; and Rev. J. F. Chapman, of Peterborough.

Friday evening's session will be of special interest, showing the use of the dramatic instinct in young people's church work.

A missionary pageant in two acts will be given in costume by the Port Hope young people, assisted by Cobourg Methodist orchestra..

A number of young people from Peterborough are planning to be in attendance.

The delegates will be billeted free for bed and breakfast in the Port Hope homes. The meals will be served in the Methodist Church at a nominal price to all registered delegates. A registration fee of one dollar is being charged, and all young people of the Methodist Church will be cordially welcomed.

The song book used in the meetings of Billy Sunday will be used, and the music will be under the direction of Rev. C. S. Applegarth, pastor of Port Hope Methodist Church.

U.F.O. PLATFORM

1. To cut out all expenditures that are not absolutely essential.
2. To abolish the system of party patronage.
3. To limit Government activity repecting commercial co-operation, to legislation facilitating co-operative effort, to the keeping of accurate records, and to general education along co-operative lines.
4. To provide equal educational opportunities for all the children of all the people by greatly extending and improving educational facilities in the rural districts.
5. To substitute for the policy of expensive Provincial highways a policy of organized continuous road maintenace, and of making good roads for all, rather than high grade roads for a few, the cost or road construction and maintenance being equitably distributed between city and country.
6. To promote a system of forestry which will maintain and increase the public revenues from this source, protect and perpetuate our forest resources, reforest the waste places of Old Ontario, and to encourage municipalities to engage in forestration enterprises.
7. To encourage and cheapen Hydro-Electric development and maintain effective public control over it.
8. To enact and enforce such prohibitory legislation against the liquor traffic as the people may sanction in the approaching referendum and as lies within the power of the Province. Prohibition is an integral part of the Farmer's platform, and the United Farmers of Ontario will use its influence in that direction.
9. To extend the policy and practice of direct legislation through the initiative and the referendum.
10. To apply the principle of proportional representation to our election methods.

MANITOBA FARMERS ENDORSE MOVEMENT

Western Farmers Will Have Representatives in the Federal House.

(Special to The Examiner.)

R. Wood, secretary of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association, said last night.

COMMISSION DEAL WITH EVIDENCE

MAGISTRATE DUMBLE'S BILL GOES BACK TO COUNCIL

Discussion over the evidence in the Police Commission investigation was held behind closed doors by the Police Commission yesterday afternoon. Chief Thompson was excluded and the press barred. Nothing will be allowed to be made public until the evidence is conned thoroughly and a finding drawn up. The conference will be continued this afternoon, at four o'clock.

Truuant Officer F. W. Miller reported that he made six investigations of truancy and all were settled satisfactorily.

On recommendation of the Chief Constable, P. C. Harry Young, a returned veteran, who has been on the local police force a year last October 1 was promoted to second class constable which automatically raises his pay to $1,000 a year. The usual resolution was duly passed authorizing the Chief to purchase any uniforms which might be needed for the force. The Chief stated that the expense would not be heavy this year as the coat and vest outwear the trousers, which would be the principal garment to purchase.

Magistrate's Bill.

Magistrate Dumble's bill of $109 for postage, extending over a period of 36 years, an expense which he incurred in his capacity of Police Magistrate was brought to the attention of the Commission. Mr. Dumble addressed the bill to the City Council but they not knowing in what way the expense was incurred referred to the Police Commission. The Commission was in a quandary and did not know what to do with it. Mayor Duncan asked Mr. Dumble why he did not send in an annual bill instead of waiting for 36 years.

"Because I am good-natured," replied Mr. Dumble.

The Judge suggested that the matter be left to the City Council to deal with and that Mr. Dumble appear before the City Fathers which was decided upon.

CAMPAIGN FOR NEW MEMBERS

THE "Y" CAMPAIGN IS OFF TO A GOOD START.

The Y.M.C.A. Membership Campaign is off to a good start and the workers report very good results. The campaign, which opened Tuesday with an objective of 350 new members for the "Y" will last until Friday.

The workers have been picked carefully, on the principle that busy men get the best results and have been organized into teams. The objective for each worker is a member a day and from the results so far and the enthusiasm shown the officials predict that the objective will be surpassed. The fact that Belleville has also started a drive for members should add interest to the local campaign.

The officials believe that the drive is being launched at the right moment as the newly remodelled building and the new features of the gymnastic and social programme will prove a strong attraction to new members.

SAYS BRITAIN SHOULD ALLOW UNITED STATES TO SHARE IN THE CONTROL OF GIBRALTAR

MORGENTHAU SUGGESTS THIS AS EVIDENCE OF CO-OPERATION.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—A suggestion that Great Britain share the control of Gibraltar with the United States was made by Henry A. Morgenthau on his return from a seven months' trip abroad, primarily as chairman of a commission appointed by President Wilson to investigate pogroms in Poland.

Referring to his previous advocacy of the acceptance by the United States of a mandate for Constantinople, Armenia and Anatolia, Mr. Morganthau said:

Your people will expect Great Britain to welcome us in the Mediterranean and the near East, not as a rival or competitor, but as a full partner with all rights, privileges, and responsibilities. I have thought deeply as to how Great Britain can demonstrate her willingness and think the best way would be by her giving us an equal control of the straits of Gibraltar."

It's His Own Plan.

Mr. Morganthau said he offered the suggestion on his own initiative without the knowledge of any governmental authorities. The idea did not occur to him, he said, until he was bound for New York on the Adriatic.

Asked if he knew how English statesmen would feel toward such a suggestion, he said: "I was told by leading English statesmen that they would be willing to accept almost any conditions for the United States to assume these mandates.

"The British are extremely anxious for us to take this mandate. The question is whether, if we do so, we would have absolutely safe egress and ingress to the near east. The open door is needed at all times.

Would be Evidence of Co-operation.

Owing to the propaganda here, there seems to be a feeling of doubt among Americans as to what sort of treatment would be accorded them. A certain bridge is needed over which these peoples can get together. I think Americans would consider it the greatest evidence of co-operation by Great Britain if she would share with us one of her dearest possessions. If we invested hundreds of millions in the near east and put our fleet in the Mediterranean we would want to have the absolute right to go there when we like and do as we like."

Referring to the question of mandates, he said: "If the United States does not rise to its responsibilities we will be looked upon as shirkers." He expressed confidence that the people at large would assume these responsibilities.

THREE DIE AS RESULT OF DRINKING ALCOHOL MIXED WITH ACETONE

Many Have Lost Lives From Consuming Same Liquid in Nobel.

PARRY SOUND, Oct. 22.—Peter Ferguson, his brother George Ferguson, and his son, Thomas Ferguson, all of Nobel village are dead from drinking the contents of a bottle found in their home, labelled alcohol, and which had been treated with acetone for the manufacture of explosives. George Taylor of this town, who had a former experience, repeated the foolish trick and is dangerously ill. A large number of men have lost their lives in the munition works at Nobel through drinking this mixture.

A ROAD OF EPSOM SALTS

New Paving Material Is Used Near Rockport, Texas.

AUSTIN, Tex.—A road of Epsom salts is an attraction Texas can soon hold out to tourists, according to the State Highway Department.

Ten miles of road out of Rockport are being surfaced with a material which analyzes more than one-fourth Epsom salts. The material is obtained from flats where constant evaporation of gulf water has left salt strongly impregnated with salts, among which the Epsom variety predominates.

Highway engineers say the mixture forms an excellent road surfacing material. The salt absorbs enough moisture from the air to keep the roads damp, free from dust, and firm on the driest days. One trouble, however, is that the road becomes very slippery during wet weather, but this is overcome by adding a small portion of shell and regulating the slope of the surface.

INDIAN CEREMONY UNNATURAL TO THEM

Brantford, Oct. 21.—The conversation of two or three Indian maids at the pow-wow here in honor of the Duke gives a peculiar slant on the nature of the modern Indian. The girls were dressed daintily in white and were duskily pretty. "This is unnatural," they repeated several times, until at last they were asked what they meant. "It is forced," they replied. "It gives wrong impressions. We don't do these things now. We're civilized. We have to rehearse this for a month." These girls knew no other language than English.

OLD RUGBY DOPE WAS BADLY UPSET

FANS WERE TREATED TO SERIES OF SURPRISES IN SATURDAY'S GAMES.

TORONTO, Oct. 20.—Upsetting the dope that his Majesty King Rugby has been feeding to his subjects lately seems to be a regular practice with the majority of the football clubs this season. Not even the most sanguine supporters of the Argonauts hoped to pull out a victory in Montreal on Saturday against the M.A.A.A. who had beaten the Tigers the previous week even though the Double Blue had secured a few good subs to take the place of their cripples, but imagine their delight and surprise when they saw the Scullers romp home a one point winner.

But if their win was unexpected how much more so was that of the Tigers. With two straight victories to their credit, and as far as Ottawa was concerned, the Rough Riders were figuring on what they were going to do with the championship, but the Tigers entered the capital with a number of the veterans to bolster up their team and bingo went the capital's visions of the honors. One wonders what has happened to that supply of coal the Ottawa supporters were going to purchase with the wagers they won from the Hamiltonians. Some toasting!

Then Varsity gave T. R. and A. A. one of the battles of the season. The Black and White were hard pressed to keep the Collegians from wresting the honours from them at one stage. Few realised that Hal DeGruchy, the sterling T. R. and A. A. halfback, had his nose broken early in the game, but like the game boy he is he returned to the fray and played on eof the best games he has ever shown. DeGruchy is a perfect glutton for work and rarely loses a chance to get in on every play.

"COMRADESHIP" NOT A WAR PICTURE

POWERFUL STORY OF BROTHERLY LOVE.

Just about an ideal English cast is promised in "Comradeship" a story which is described as breathing the great spirit of Democracy that has come out of the war, and which will be the attraction at the Allen Theatre Friday and Saturday.

While Miss Lily Elsie, who is considered by many a perfect specimen of English beauty, is the featured player, there are a number of other players who are favorites in the British cinema world and whose name are rapidly becoming well known to Canadians.

Gerald Ames is cast as the young tradesman and he has a difficult role, for in the opening scenes he is shown as a fanatic who opposes war with Germany, but who has not yet learned the spirit of Democracy among his own people. It is really around him that the action centers and the title of the production comes.

Teddy Arundell has the role of the happy-go-lucky British soldier, combining an element of comedy with his part in the secondary love story. Guy Newall adds another bit of comedy and is refreshing as a scion of the higher strata. Dallas Cairns is another leading English actor who has an important role to play in "Comradeship" in the thankless part of a German.

Pretty little blonde Peggy Carlisle has the ingenue role and gives an excellent account of herself. Miss Elsie herself has a somewhat more emotional role and her acting is of the repressed type that will appeal to many.

Showing "Comradeship" will afford an excellent opportunity to compare British motion picture acting with the school prevailing in the States. It is the first British feature promised by the local manager, Mr. Rosenthal, a short time ago to his patrons. It is a picture worth while seeing, as can be judged by the remark of King George, when he said: "I hope that the Comradeship of the battlefield will be kept alive in peace," and Admiral Beatty: "We have been through four and a half years of a great struggle. We have all learned something—the true value of Comradeship. Comradeship has enabled us to win the war."

URIC ACID IN MEAT CLOGS THE KIDNEYS

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rehumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes, and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

SILK SUITS FOR MEN.

London.—"Nucloth" is the name of a silk fabric just produced by a Pudsley manufacturer from the short ends of silk after the combers have extracted the long lengths. It is intended to meet the present demand for economical clothing. It is claimed for this cloth that it is untearable, equal in appearance and wear to worsted, yet can be sold at the price of shoddy. It is estimated that a boy's suit can be made for $8.75 and a man's suit for $15.75.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE SAN CARLO COMPANY.

Seldom have the music-lovers of Peterborough been given an opportunity to hear Grand Opera as presented by the San Carlo Company at the Grand last night in a double bill, consisting of Leon Cavallo's "I'Pagliacci" and Mascagni's great one-act opera, "Cavelleria Rusticana." The choice of offerings was such as to present an unusual treat inasmuch as it gave a chance to hear two sets of principals and to judge of the wonderful capabilities of the San Carlo organization. The result was an evening of thorough enjoyment for students and lovers of music.

It is difficult to say which opera most pleased the audience ,or which of the artists carried off the biggest share of the honours. Leon Cavallo's work, which opened the programme, was flawlessly presented, and there could be no possible adverse criticism of "Cavalleria Rusticana," the chorus work of which alone was sufficient to stamp it as a triumph.

Manuel Salazar was the Canio in I'Pagliacci and sang the role in faultless fashion, his rendition of the immortal "Vesti la giubba" at the close of the first act being a masterpiece, while he rose to heights of genius in his denunciation of Nedda. Sofia Charlebois, a Canadian artist, sang "Nedda" in a most successful manner, exhibiting a rich and true soprano. Mario Valle scored a personal triumph as Tonio, his singing of the prologue leaving nothing to be desired, while Paolo Galazzi revealed a magnificent baritone in the part of Silvio.

In the Mascagni offering another splendid tenor was heard in Francisco De Gregorio, who sang and acted Turiddu, whose work throughout was delightful. Alice Homer, a magnificent contralto, and Bula Ray Shull, a soprano of unusual ability, shared the honours with him, while Paolo Galazzi added to the laurels he had won earlier in the evening. The chorus scored heavily in this offering, which affords better opportunites for ensemble work than the opening number. The San Carlo chorus is beautifully balanced and their singing was a revelation.

A splendid symphony orchestra, under the direction of Gaetano Merola, added greatly to the success of the evening, and one of the features was its rendition of the ever popular intermezzo from Cavalleria Rusticana.

The two operas were lavishly produced with a richness of costume and scenery that was in keeping with the general excellence of the organization. Incidentally the acting of the company was on a par with the singing, which is something that cannot always be said of Grand Opera stars.

It's better to mend your ways before you go broke.

"THE DUMBELLS"

The "Dumbells", the favorite theatrical troupe of the Canadian soldiers in France, and now making a home-coming tour of the larger Canadian cities, presenting their original overseas musical revue, "Biff, Bing, Bang," will be the attraction at the Grand for Friday and Saturday, matinee and evening.

The members of this organization are all soldiers who have served an average of sixteen months in the front lines before having been chosen by Capt. M. W. Plunkett for service in the entertainment branch of the service. They hold a record of over five hundred performances given immediately behind the lines in France, as well as forty performances given since the armistice in Brussels, and fifty eight performances in London, England, two weeks of which they were the attraction at the Coliseum, where they played to 91,200 people, who were anxious to see just how the boys were entertained at front. The concensus of opinion as voiced by the press and public, seems to be that the soldier boys were "sitting on the world" when it came to amusements.

This clever group of actor-soldiers present an up-to-the-minute-musical revue, with special stage settings gorgeous, gowns and dazzling effects. It is the only all man "girl show" in the world and the singing of both the principals and chorus might be likened to a symphony played upon a great pipe organ, full of rich, deep tones.

There are about twenty song numbers in the show and a half dozen dancing specialties.

"VIRTUOUS MEN," BIG MELODRAMA, THRILLS AUDIENCE AT THE ALLEN

Several critics who were invited to see "Virtuous Men" the special feature which is appearing at the Allen Theatre for the last time, commented on the fact that E. K. Lincoln, the featured player, seemed to really enjoy his work in this story of the great out of doors, although many of the scenes in which he appears call for great physical effort.

They were right, for as a matter of fact, Mr. Lincoln is one motion picture player who acts purely for the love of it. He is wealthy and has one of the most delightful homes around New York. He need never worry about the wolf scratching at the door, but he so thoroughly enjoys appearance on the screen that he takes part in several productions each season. He is fortunate, too, in that he is able to select just what pictures he will appear in, as he refuses to tie himself up to any company for a long contract.

Mr. Lincoln and his wife are especially fond of the society of motion picture folk and at almost any time during the summer one may find a group of famous players visiting at his Long Island home. One of the great events of the season is his entertainment of the writers for the motion picture press, for these men who have come to know Lincoln so intimately that they forget to call him anything but "Eddie" are his constant companions.

One of the features of his country place are his kennels. He devotes a great deal of his time to raising fine dogs, and has taken blue ribbons at a number of exhibitions. He has a number of prize winners who are valued at several thousand dollars each.

A real six-footer, he is also a real athlete and goes in for all sorts of sports, yet he likes those best that keep him with his dogs and horses. On the stage he has been largely identified with out-door types having appeared in such successes as "Strong-heart" "The Squaw Man" and "The Virginian". Some three years ago he deserted the speaking stage for the screen and then appeared with such players as Anita Stewart, Clara Kimball Young and Edith Storey, before winning stardom for himself.

In "Virtuous Men" he has the role of a young society man who suddenly loses his wealth and with it the girl who has pretended to love him and then has to fight his way to a self-made fortune, with a woman who has once promised to be his wife as his arch enemy, always scheming his ruin and ever assisting in plotting his death.

"Virtuous Men" is packed with thrills, dramatic situations and big scenes. It is a picture for redblooded people and as such was welcomed by the large audience last night. Those who love to see excitement on the screen came to see it, and were not disappointed. It is the big melodrama of the year, and is different from the everyday love story seen on the screen.

SAYS GIRLS IN BRITISH CAMP AT HURST PARK LED IMPROPER LIVES

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The Hon. Violet Douglas-Pennant, daughter of Baron Penrhyn, testifying before a House of Lords committee in an inquiry into her dismissal as commandant of the Women's Royal Air Force Service, declared that girls at the Hurst Park camp had led most improper lives. They were given night passes and taken to London in government cars, and brought back drunk, sometimes the following morning. The officer in command, she added, behaved most improperly with a woman officer.

Miss Douglas-Pennant admitted that she knew of no specific case of immorality in the camp, but said she had heard of bad conditions existing in many camps.

LETTER FROM MR. BURNHAM

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—These opinions are those of a private individual. As a member I try to represent the wish of the people.

Prohibition has superseded the old cry of Salvation. If the prohibition of one possible means of evil is right and proper, the prohibition of all such means is right and proper. It is plain that this method should have been adopted from the first and that the Creator made a serious mistake in allowing humanity to run wild when he could have stopped it all by prohibiting all means of evil.

Prohibition marks a new era. The Christian era dating from the death of Christ founded upon the regeneration of the hearts of men is no more. Regeneration has given way to prohibition. Henceforth the clergy will preach the prohibition of the means of committing the seven deadly sins. The modern idea is that an ounce of prevention is worth a ton of cure. People will yet live to regret that they have rejected the Divine plan in favour of their own. It is useless to point to the ravages of sin in all its forms and to the means of salvation through repentance when the people have rejected the advisability of repentance in favour of abolishing the means of sin. Regulation is control and self-regulation or self-control is the command of God, both through natural and revealed religion. Henceforth we are to be told that religion is not a voluntary matter, that the free will and the free agency are discarded theories. When a regiment of the saved march into heaven, it will be under the flag of compulsion. They were not saved through the death of Christ, but through the law of prohibition. That prohibition is a ready and effective means to the attainment of the end no one will deny, but is it God's plan? If it is, why was Christ called on to die when prohibition lay ready at hand as an effective means of gaining salvation from their sins of mankind? The scepticism of the 18th century was not more fundamental than that which seeks to prohibit that part of creation which has been the cause of evil. In the last analysis the responsibility of the individual ceases and the will of the majority has taken its place. We have yielded to a new temptation and have cut ourselves off from the fatherhood of God and the only means by which under heaven mankind may be saved.

A familiar instance will show my meaning perhaps more clearly to those who have no time to follow up the philosophic and religious principle underlying. Of the fruit of the apple tree sweet cider is made. What is known as the yeast germ (universally prevalent) turns it to hard cider without the knowledge of mankind. Hard cider is heavily alcoholized and intoxicating. Will the prohibitionist condemn hard cider made wholly by the Creator through His own natural process?

MAJOR CALVIN FEE HAS RETURNED AFTER A LONG ABSENCE

MAJOR FEE SAW LONG SERVICE ON VARIOUS WAR FRONTS—INTERVIEW WITH THE EXAMINER.

Major Calvin P. Fee, formerly of the staff of the Canadian General Electric Works, arrived in the city this morning after five years spent on the French and Russian fronts and is at 311 Stewart street, for a few days previous to leaving for the coast.

The Major joined the 22nd Battery Canadian Field Artillery mobolized in Kingston in November 1914 and sailed in February of the following year and was sent to Shorncliffe where the 6th Field Artillery to which he was subsequently attached was used as reinforcement for the 1st Canadian Divisional Artillery. He left in May 1915 for France with the 1st Canadian Divisional Artillery with which he served until June of 1916, when he was appointed Adjutant Staff Captain of the Canadian Reserve Artillery and Staff Captain at Headquarters O.M.F. of C. at London, also D. A. Quartermaster General at Witley.

Sent to Russia

At the latter part of 1918 he proceeded to the Murmansk front with the Canadian Syren Mobile Party, Malumute Company. He was on that front till August 22nd 1919, when the Headquarters of the party with the Malumute Company returned to England for demobilization. At the time of leaving Russia, Major Fee stated, everything was very satisfactory as far as the Murmansk area was concerned, but the proposed arrangement for withdrawing all allied troops had a very bad effect upon all good Russians, who are anxious to assist the allies to put Russian affairs upon a satisfactory basis again. He found the Russians a very satisfactory people to deal with. A great deal of the Major's work in Russia lay with the Bolsheviks.

Received Decoration

For distinguished service Major Fee received the Russian Order of St. Stanislaus.

During his term of service in Russia Major Fee was intimately acquainted with several Intelligence Officers, who were close to the scene of the execution of the Czar and was assured that the murder, so often contradicted, was undoubtedly an actual fact. The people with whom Major Fee came in contact in Russia are, he said, increasingly indignant over the murder of their ruler.

Paris.—A monster all-sports meeting will be held for the purpose of raising funds to erect a monument to the memory of the French and Allied boxers who made the supreme sacrifice.

SIR WHITTEN BROWN LIKES PETERBORO

FAMOUS AVIAVOR WOULD LIKE TO SEE AN AERODROME ESTABLISHED HERE.

One of the biggest factors which will serve to bind the British Empire together will be aviation, Sir Arthur Whitten Brown told the Examiner this morning, when interviewed at the Empress Hotel. Speedy transport inevitably brings points together and directly Canada and Liverpool are brought within two days travelling distance the Old Country and the Dominion will be more securely united than ever before. "This will," Sir Arthur continued, "be accomplished in a very short time."

WORLD'S RECORD.

Accompanied by Lady Brown, Sir Arthur arrived in America some weeks ago, shortly after accomplishing the sensational feat of crossing the ocean without a stop in 15 hours and 57 minutes, making the world's record for being the first man to do so. In the United States, where he commenced his course of lectures, speaking in New York and Boston, he was given a hearty reception, and speaks for the first time in Canada in the Grand Opera House this evening.

In appearance the navigator is a slightly built, unassuming young man, with a frank, wideawake expression and a friendly manner. Irish by descent but Scot by birth and education he appeared to be more willing to talk about his work than about himself.

He states that he foresees a great future in flying especially commercially. War, he said, had served to develop aviation, but we must forget all about the war and start the commercial development of the plane using it to chase a dollar instead of the enemy. Directly flying is developed to any great extent seaports will cease to be the only ports and inland towns will become ports.

NOT LESS EXPENSIVE.

After a short discussion of the comparative safety of flying which Sir Arthur states is according to statistics much safer than travelling by train, the percentage of deaths per mile in flying being much smaller than those in travelling by rail, he stated that he does not predict that at any time planes will be less expensive. The air like the sea, is a jealous mistress and only the best materials can be used in conquering it.

GREATEST ENEMIES.

The newspapers he said are the greatest enemies to the air man. Each accident in the air is exploited in head lines while an accident on the railway or in any other mode of travelling is given comparatively little publicity.

In Ireland.

He spoke in glowing terms of the reception tendered to him upon landing in Clifton, Ireland, after making his trip across the Atlantic by air, and very proudly displayed a handsome Claddagh ring which was presented to him by the Galway people shortly after arriving in Ireland.

Though unwilling to speak much about himself, he told The Examiner that he served with the Royal Flying Corps during the past war, and was a prisoner in Germany for two years. "A fact," he added, "which I never exploit."

Sir Arthur concluded his interview with a few complimentary remarks about the city, which struck him as a most progressive and promising centre, and hoped that in a short time Peterborough may have a municipal aerodrome.

The plane in which he crossed the Atlantic has been presented to the British Government to be placed in the British Museum.

Sir Whitten Brown will lecture in the Grand Opera House this evening.

COMPANIES PLAN TO CUT OFF MANY EXCESS BENEFITS

HEALTH AND ACCIDENT INSURANCE RATES DUE FOR REVISION SOON.

TOO MANY "FRILLS"

Influenza Epidemic, With Its Attendant Heavy Losses, Has Paved the Way for Concerted Action.

There will probably be a general revision of rates and policies in connection with sickness and accident insurance in the near future. Representatives of the companies which write this class of insurance in Canada have held several meetings lately at which the matter has been discussed and the opinion is general that health and accident insurance must be brought down to as solid an actuarial basis as any other class of insurance if the casualty companies are not to continue to lose money on it. Though the effects of the influenza epidemic, which hit many of the companies rather hard, have brought the necessity for a revision of rates and policies more clearly before the companies, the matter has been pending for some time. Thoughtful insurance men have foreseen that the competition and rather haphazard methods of writing health and accident insurance that have prevailed in the past could not continue indefinitely.

The first step, undoubtedly, will be to cut out what are known as the "frills." The ordinary policy at first consisted of an agreement by the insuring company to pay a certain sum in event of death by accident, smaller sums for the loss of an eye, an arm, or a leg, etc., and a weekly indemnity for sickness, or time lost as the result of an accident. The rates were quite uniform among all the companies and were about $60 a year where the weekly indemnity was $25 for total disability, half that for partial disability, and the life insurance $5,000. But as new companies entered the field they began to add extra benefits to these. Indemnities were doubled where the accident occurred in an elevator or a train, and triple indemnities were allowed by some companies if the insured were hurt while riding as a passenger in an elevator or on a train.

Some of the "Frills"

A typical policy now adds surgeon's and doctor's fees, hospital bills, and a number of other such "frills" to the benefits. Several companies insure the beneficiaries for large amounts without extra cost and one company went so far as to insure the children and other near relatives of the person named in the original policy. All these extar benefits were given with no increase in the rate, which itself was hardly sufficient to cover the original scale of benefits, when viewed from a strictly actuarial standpoint.

Reference to the figures contained in the Canadian annual report of the Superintendent of Insurance for Canada for 1918 will show how the companies have fared under this system of competition. The total premiums received during the year for sickness insurance were $1,567,255. Losses incurred were $1,415,519. Even allowing a generous amount for losses which might be successfully resisted, it is clear that the small margin allowed the companies was not enough to pay their current expenses. Seven companies actually paid out more than they took in. The figures are not so bad for accident insurance or for the combined accident and health policies. In the first case, premium income was $1,797,738 and losses incurred, $662,640. In the second premium income was $915,662 and losses incurred, $609,845.

It stands to reason that if the insurance companies are losing money on accident and sickness insurance, they must make it up some other way. Either their shareholders lose out or those who take out the other forms of casualty insurance written up by the same companies must pay the difference. Either arrangement is equally poor business and the companies realize that only a general paring down of excess benefits and a revision of rates will make health insurance popular again.

SHELLS FOR PLOWSHARES

Italy is Making the Barren Campagna Fertile by Blasting It.

ROME.—The Campagna Romana, which extends for miles around Rome is hardly cultivated at all through lack of irrigation and the presence of a stratum of tufa just below the surface of the ground, which prevents the growth of any vegetation except grass. If it were possible to cultivate the Campagna to its fullest extent the products would be more than sufficient to feed the population of Rome and the neighboring villages.

At last a method has been applied by which the tufa is broken up by explosives which are placed twenty inches below the ground. Good cultivable soil is thus obtained. The system is applicable to volcanic districts covered with lava which hitherto have been supposed to require over twenty years for restoration through the action of the roots of certain plants and trees, especially the olive.

To this work of cultivation the Government is devoting vast stores of explosives left over from the war.

Days of sadness still come over me,
Tears of sorrow often flow,
For the one we loved so dearly
Left us just one year ago.

IN MEMORIAM.

In fond and loving memory of my dear son, James Fagan, who passed away Oct. 23rd, 1918:

How hard it is to part with those
We hold on earth so dear,
The heart no greater trial knows
No sorrow more severe.

Grieve not, dear parent, but be content
For I was only to you lent,
For love I lived, in peace I died,
You asked my life but was denied.

IN MEMORIAM.

GOSELIN.—In sad and loving memory of our dear brother, Isidore Goselin, died 23rd October, 1918.

More and more each day we miss him,
Friends may think the wound has healed,
But they little know the sorrow
Deep within our hearts concealed.

His memory is as dear to-day
As in the hour he passed away.
Sleep, loved one; sleep, and take thy rest;
God calls home first whom he loves best.

GOSELIN.—In loving memory of our darling son, Isidore, who departed from us on 23rd October, 1918.

We think of our dear son,
And our hearts are sad with pain;
Oh, this earth would be heaven
Could we hear his voice again.

Just one year ago he left us—
How we miss his lovin[illegible] face.
But he left us to remember
None on earth can take his place.
—Sadly missed by Mother and Father.

A NEW MODE OF TRAVELLING

A new mode of travelling was indulged in by a local man to-day at noon. He was alighting from a street car at the corner of Edinburgh and George streets but did not notice a bicycle coming in the same direction. As he stepped from the street car the bicycle gave him a gentle bump, precipitating him on the front wheel and he was carried for some distance before the bicycle was stopped.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT FROM FARMERS

The text of the statement handed out after the meeting of the U. F. O. leaders last night by Secretary J. J. Morrison reads:

"The members-elect of the United Farmers of Ontario, after due consideration of the matter, have decided that it would be unwise for them to enter into alliance with either of the old parties as parties.

"They are prepared to assume the fullest share of responsibility and form a Government in co-operation with such members of other parties as are in sympathy with their platform and principles and are free to give support thereto.

"In the formation of a Cabinet full consideration will be given to the various interests of the Province."

LLOYD GEORGE GOVERNMENT MAY RESIGN

POSITION SERIOUS

TERDAY'S VOTE LEAVES BRITISH GOVERNMENT IN PRECARIOUS SITUATION.

THE ALIEN BILL

By Ed. L. Keen.

(United Press.)

LONDON Oct. 24. — The Lloyd George government faces a serious situation as the result of last night's defeat in the House of Commons, according to the opinion generally expressed by the press to-day.

The question on which the government lost, 185 to 119, was a minor one, having to do with an amendment to the Alien Bill, but the impression prevailed that the vote was an indication of Parliament's attitude toward the present Cabinet.

The Government position was discussed at a Minister Council in Downing street to-day, after which a full Cabinet meeting was to be held.

As soon as the vote was announced, Andrew Bonar Law, the Government spokesman, obtained an adjournment until Monday, to permit the Cabinet to decide upon its next move. Many officials and political experts professed to believe that the resignation of Premier Lloyd George was certain.

The amendment to the Alien Bill, offered by Home Secretary Shortt, would have changed the clause barring aliens from receiving British pilot certificates, to exclude the French, so as not to conflict with the Anglo-French agreement of 1918. Unionists and Labourites united in defeating the amendment. Even in case the Cabinet decides not to resign en masse, it was believed that Shortt, as author of the amendment, would resign.

"If the Government defeat is further sustained, or its attempt at reconstruction inadequate, Lloyd George must resign," the Chronicle said to-day.

"The King doubtless will entrust him with the formation of a new ministry, but from whence will he derive his support? It was the coalition vote that brought down the administration. Lloyd George will be compelled to seek fresh authority at a general election."

"This (the defeat) alone is sufficient ground for resignation," in the opinion of the Post, "but it indicated that the Commons is disappointed regarding the Government. The defeat was due to the government's obstinacy in disregarding national security."

The Post declared that many losses were due to permitting foreign pilots, particularly Germans, to obtain familiarity with the British coast.

"The rebuke went far beyond the question of admitting foreign pilots to British waters," said the Mail. "It reflected the rising feeling in the country; it meant the refusal of the Commons to become a mere machine in registering the Cabinet's decrees. It was the healthiest sign of vitality Parliament has shown in years. The division will test the Labourites' value and sincerity. They must prove their worth if they wish to be entrusetd with the government."

"Such a catastrophe so early in the session cannot fail to shake the government's position, especially since it came from friends," said the Daily News. However, an immediate revolt probably can be ended by concessions, if the Government wishes."

Arthur J. Balfour and Lord Curzon will exchanged portfolios, the former becoming Lord President of the Council, and the latter Secretary for Foreign Affairs.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 24.—It was reported early this afternoon the Cabinet was devising a method by which the Commons might reconsider its decision regarding the aliens' pilot certificats, on which the government was defeated. It is pointed out that such certificates are restricted to a few French cross channel pilots daily entering British ports in return for similar privileges to British pilots. Yesterday's result in the House was a refusal to modify the restrictions forbidding pilot certificates from all aliens.

Union Organizations On Nationalization

OWNERSHIP OF THE MINES AND RAILWAYS BY THE GOVERNMENT, WITH THE WORKERS SHARING IN THE MANAGEMENT—MINERS AND RAILWAY MEN TO FORM ALLIANCE.

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.— Committees of Miners and Railway Brotherhood Men, representing two of the strongest Union organizations in America, planned to meet here to-day to discuss nationalization of their industries.

By nationalization, members of both committees mean the ownership of mines and railways by the government, with the workers having a share of their management, operation and profits.

The Miners' committee, which was appointed at the recent Cleveland convention, is headed by W. D. Van Horn of Terre Haute, In.

"We hope to bring about a permanent alliance with the railway men," said Van Horne to-day. One of the principal aims of this alliance, if it is formed, will be to further nationalization.

"The railway men have endorsed nationalization and so have the miners. Combined, the two unions would give powerful support to the plan.'

Officials of the railway unions, which have always refused to combine with any other labour organization, to-day had little to say about the possibility of an alliance with the miners. W. G. Lee, head of the railway trainmen, declared that the miners had sought the conference.

Before the meeting to-day this was the situation of the miners and railway men:

Both have indorsed nationalization.

The miners have called a strike for November 1, demanding more wages, a five day week and a six hour day. The railway men have demands drawn up which they want complied with before the roadsare turned back to their owners, an action the President has said he will take January 1.

The miners declare, however, that their pending strike has nothing to do with their nationalization programme, which they say is a political and not an economical question.

The railway men have also told Congressional committees that they would never strike to force adoption of the Plumb plan.

GRAND TRUNK BILL WIGGLED INTO COMMITTEE DESPITE AMENDMENT

THE GOVERNMENT HAD THREE BOLTERS—BILL WILL NOW GO TO THE SENATE.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Oct. 24.—The dying days of the session are not without their uncertainties to the Government. By the comfortable majority of 30 the Grand Trunk Bill got into committee last night in the face of the Mackenzie dilatory amendment, and its passage through the Commons is assured.

But that does not end the worries of this important piece of legislation and of its sponsors. It is a notable fact that in spite of the certainty that the Bill would pass the Conservative opposition to it outside of Parliament has not for one moment ceased, and that the Montreal papers are still running half-page advertisements fulminating against it, while Board of Trade resolutions continue to pour in.

These advertisements and petitions have a purpose, and that purpose would appear to be the working up of a public sentiment in favour of drastic action by the Senate, which is the court of last resort so far as Canadian legislation is concerned.

There were only three Government bolters on the vote in the Commons last night. One of these, General McLean, has always been a pronounced opponent of public ownership. Another, F. J. Dohanlon, of East Mountain, has been habitually voting with the Opposition. The third, Major Andrews, voted for the amendment after warning the Government that he would do so unless a debate was granted until such time as the proposals for soldier re-establishment, as contained in the report of the Calder Committee, were made known.

THE DUMBELL'S GIVE GREAT SHOW

FAMOUS OVERSEAS ENTERTAINMENT SCORES BIG HIT WHEREVER THEY PLAY.

The famous Dumbells arrived in town at noon to-day in charge of Capt. Plunkett, ready for their engagement which opens at the Grand Opera House to-night, and will be continued with matinee and evening performances to-morrow. The boys who entertained Canada's fighters overseas, and who are themselves soldiers, have been delighting audiences all over Canada.

They were in London recently, and the Free Press says London theatregoers were presented with something new, something which they have not seen here before last evening when the Dumbells in their original overseas revue "Biff, Bing, Bang," opened a three-day engagement at the Grand. The house was packed to the roof, and if the boys in France got as much fun out of the entertainment as those present last evening, life on the other side was not as Black as most folk imagine.

Those who are responsible for the way "Biff, Bing, Bang" goes over, are deserving a great deal of credit. It is funnier than anything seen in London in a good many years and there have been some funny situations brought about on the stage here. There is at least a laugh for every scene. London is lucky in having this organization make its first appearance in Canada in this city."

This is indeed a dirty-looking old world to the man who is too lazy to clean his spectacles.

THE GOVERNMENT WILL NOT RESIGN

HOME SECRETARY MAY RESIGN AS RESULT OF VOTE ON ALIEN BILL

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 24.— Members of Lloyd George's cabinet are to-day considering the situation which has arisen as a result of the adverse vote in the House of Commons yesterday when the government's amendment to the alien bill was rejected by a vote of 185 to 119. Because of the fact that members of the House in their seats when the vote was taken, it is believed the government will not resign, but it is possible that Edward Shortt, the Home Secretary, who was in charge of the alien bill, may quit office. Andrew Bonar Law, the government leader in the House, secured a delay until Monday for his colleagues by moving an adjournment immediately after the result of the vote on the alien bill had been announced. Bonar Law's declaration that any subsequent action by the ministry would "depend upon the view of the House of Commons as a whole," may indicate an intention on the part of the government to ask for a vote of confidence at an early date. The Ministerial Council, under the presidency of Lloyd George, discussed the political situation this morning and later the entire Cabinet assembled.

The extent to which the world's resources are called upon to supply the needs of Peterboro is well exemplified in the Florists business. Messrs. Jordan Bros. have received shipments of bulbs and plants from four foreign countries. They include: Hyacinths, Tulips, Daffodils and Crocus from Holland; Narcissus and Roman Hyacinths from France; Caster Lillies from Japan, and Palms, Azalias and Araucarias from Belgium. They also have a daily Chrysanthemum show of cut bloom from their own greenhouses. Their supply of all other cut flowers in season promises to be ample, also a large stock of winter flowering plants, and ferns, including Primulas, Primroses and Begonias. They were never better prepared to care for their customers requirements in plants, bulbs and cut flowers.

WATCHFUL WAITING

THE UNITED FARMERS WILL MEET AGAIN ON WEDNESDAY.

BALLOTS SPOILED

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Oct. 24. — Watchful waiting by the four parties in the Provincial Legislature elect while a small sub-committee of the predominating United Farmers selects an acceptable leader, seems to be the position of things to-day. Except the Liberals who gathered under the leadership of Hartley Dewart this morning to further discuss the situation, there was no meeting of the parties to-day. The United Farmers "stand adjourned" and have gone back to their fall ploughing, to assemble here again on Wednesday to hear the report of their committee regarding a leader. E. C. Drury of Simcoe, and Sir Adam Beck, still seem to be the most prominently mentioned for this post, but the name of Dr. Creelman, president of the Ontario Agricultural College, and former Commissioner of Agriculture under the Hearst government, was mentioned to-day as a possibility. The Labour men will meet at Hamilton to-morrow to decide upon their course and it is expected that the Conservatives will meet next week. It was rumoured to-day that Sir William Hearst, the defeated Conservative Premier, might be appointed Lieut.-Governor of Ontario when Sir John Hendrie relinquishes that office shortly.

As the ballot boxes are officially opened and the ballots counted, large numbers of spoiled ballots are reported. It was reported to-day that thirty per cent. of the general election ballots cast in North-west Toronto were spoiled presumably mostly by women who were not sufficiently acquainted with the procedure of election. The percentage of referendum ballots spoiled was much smaller. It is estimated that twenty thousand ballots on the elections were spoiled in Toronto alone, and perhaps fifty thousands throughout the province.

TELEGRAM FROM MR. J. H. BURNHAM

"Ottawa, Oct. 23, 1919.

"The Examiner, Peterboro, Ont.

"Your editorial charging me with deliberately insulting my constituents is incorrect. I see in this partial bill of the Commons an excellent chance to force the recognition of the principles of the referendum on the Comons which, if successful, will be a big step gained. I had to give examples of what I meant and I gave some, and I am giving more, such as the undermining of the authority of the Scriptures by criticism, which is ten times over, the greatest of al causes of evil—J. H. Burnham."

VOTING LIGHT ON THE BY-LAWS

Voting on the two by-laws is comparatively light. No organized effort is being made to oppose them, and it is so apparent that they will be carried that the ratepayers are not taking the trouble to vote. Since the Ontario Legislature decided that a majority of the ratepayers did not have to vote on a bylaw to make it legal no effort is being made to get the people out to vote and the result is apparent.

Mr. Charles Stickney, with his solicitor, Mr. C. W. Gordon, was early on the job this morning watching for the result of his poll. If the bylaw on the Nashua Paper Company is carried Mr. Stickney's factory, the old Cordaire Works, will be bought by the city for $50,000.

The Police Commissioners Exonerate Police Force

REPORT OF THE INVESTIGATION, ADDRESSED TO THE PEOPLE OF PETERBORO, DISPROVES ALL CHARGES MADE AGAINST THE POLICE FORCE.

COPY OF REPORT

Following is the report of the Police Commission of the City to the people of Peterborough covering the recent investigation.

"We, the members of the Police Commission of Peterborough, beg to report as follows:

Various charges were made, circulated and implied against certain members of our Police Force; this fact being brought to our attention we deemed it our duty to investigate them, and in so doing made the scope of our investigation as broad as possible and with the fullest publicity. We publicly asked all citizens to give us any information known affecting our police force. We sat seven days hearing evidence which in some instances affected other individuals and officials. With these we have nothing to do and confine our findings solely to such facts as affected our police and them only.

Origin of Trouble.

The origin of the trouble was in a statement made by one Hamilton, first made verbally to the local liquor license Inspector and later reduced to writing, but not signed, and filed in the License Department at Toronto. This was not made known to us by the Department, but a copy was shown to certain of our citizens and in this way became semi-public property. Detective Newhall, one of the men affected, learned of this, and asked that his conduct and the statements made against him be investigated. To this we agreed believing if the charges made were true, that he should be dismissed, but if untrue, it should be so shown and he reinstated in the public esteem and confidence.

The Statement.

The written statement by Hamilton was made on 13th May, 1919, and is:—

"This information is private that I am about to give and it came to me from Rae Sullivan of Peterboro', who runs a barber shop and pool room, about Saturday, the 3rd of May, in my house. He told me that he could get Police protection to steal twenty cases of whisky stored at Moore's house. Moore is High Constable of the County. I then asked him what Police protection he had and he said that Detective Newhall and Taylor had been talking among themselves and Sullivan said that Newhall and Taylor would get Moore out of the house if he could get the whiskey and Sullivan would be cleared. This was to be done on Saturday night, May 3rd, between 7 and 9 o'clock. It was calculated that Moore's wife would be up town at that time. They proposed to send Moore to the Police Station and while he was at the police station Sullivan was to get men and go to the house and take the whiskey. Sullivan would be at the Police Station when Moore comes over. The object in getting the whiskey was to clear Sullivan against a charge which was being made by the Inspector in regard to illegal possession of whiskey which was seized by the Inspector at Kendry, a flag station on the C.P.R., it having come off the morning train from Montreal on April 30th. Newhall was to see there would be no policemen there to interfere in taking the whiskey. Newall and a man named Wiggs are going to swear that they saw Sullivan on the morning of the seizure. Newhall will say he saw Sullivan in town on that morning. Police Constable Wiggs will swear he saw Sullivan at 7.30 a.m. in Peterboro'.

Hamilton, we find, was likely to lose his license and thought by so making it, he would get a new license or be helped in procuring it by so doing. He admitted on oath before us he did not believe what he said he had been told, and had no reason for thinking he could procure police protection for wrongdoing.

It is also significant that he had shortly before been fined $500.00 through the direct action of Detective Newhall.

Charges Disapproved.

As to the charges themselves, they were wholly disproved. No evidence was given to show that Newhall even in any way connived with law-breakers or protected them or promised them protection. We find that neither Newhall nor P. C. Wigg said or swore to anything false in the matters spoken of and we believe them both to be careful and conscientious officers. The suggested charges against them both wholly failed and should never have been made or circulated. The only direct evidence against them as to this was by one Dunford, a local carter and

FARMERS SEND A BATTERY DOWN TO CARLETON VICTORIA BYE-ELECTION

(Special to The Examiner.)

WOODSTOCK, N.B., October 24.—The bye-election campaign in Carleton, Victoria, is entering upon new and important phases. Not only have the United Farmers sent organisers from their successful organisation in Ontario, down here to take a stand in the campaign on behalf of Thomas W. Caldwell, the Farmers' candidate, but members of the Federal Union Government Cabinet are in the constituency to-day to speak at some of the most important centres in the interest of Lieu.-Col. W. W. Melville, Unionist.

Hon. Arthur Meighen, Minister of the Interior, is to speak at Woodstock to-night, and Hon. Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labour, is to speak at the meeting in the interest of Col. Melville at Centreville.

Campaigners who are working for the election of Colonel Melville, to-day expressed the opinion that he was daily gaining ground in the two counties, but results in Ontario have buoyed the United Farmers up to great efforts, and they believe a victory in this election will have much effect upon the political future of their organisation in not only New Brunswick, but in all the Maritime Provinces.

Unless something happens to turn the tide in the meantime, shrewd politicians will be surprised if the United Farmers do not carry Carleton, Victoria.

REPORT OF RICH FIND OF GOLD

NEW FIELD IS NEAR FORT WILLIAM AND PORT ARTHUR.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 24.—Report of a rich gold find five miles south of Scribner, Ontario, was brought to the city by Joe. Pederson, pectors in the employ of the Duck petcors in the employ of the Duck Lake Mining Company, Fort William, have uncovered a find which essays from thirty to fifty dollars per ton in gold in a body of ore three miles in length and 85 feet in width, according to Pederson. There has been a big rush to the field from Port Arthur, Fort William and Sudbury and staking has been done within a radius of several miles of the original find.

THE GREAT HOP ACROSS ATLANTIC

SIR ARTHUR WHITTEN BROWN TELLS THE STORY OF THE NON-STOP FLIGHT.

A firm believer in a great future for aviation is Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, companion of Sir John Alcock, in the historic non-stop flight across the Atlantic, who lectured in the Grand Opera House last night. Sir Arthur in telling the story of the great exploit, terminated his address by referring to what could be expected in the next few years in the way of aerial transportation. The war he said had achieved in five years what would nominally have taken twenty years to accomplish.

A very small audience heard the distinguished aviator — a disappointing attendance in view of the world fame of the speaker. A most unassuming likable young chap was Sir Arthur. His lecture, which told of the difficulties of finding an aerodrome at St. John's and of the work of assembling the Vimy plane, and then the details of the record-breaking flight, was a matter of fact record of the greatest aerial exploit in history. The most graphic detail was the story of the anxious moment when lost in the fog the aviators plunged downwards towards the sea and were almost into the waves before they discovered their danger and found that they had been flying almost upside down.

The lecture was illustrated by moving pictures showing the trial flight of the Vimy bombs and the reception of Brown and Alcock in Ireland, and by many slides showing the various stages in the assembling of the machine at St. John's. Later on remarkable moving pictures of flight from London to Amsterdam in a Vimy plane were shown.

SATISFIED WITH SIR ADAM BECK

HALCROW WOULD FAVOUR HIM AS HEAD OF THE LEGISLATURE.

HAMILTON, Oct. 24.— A misunderstanding of a statement attributed to him in the local press was responsible for the impression which has been caused that Controller George Halcrow, Labour member-elect for East Hamilton, is involved in a move to institute a new Provincial election for the purpose of strengthening Labour's position in the Ontario Legislature.

Mr. Halcrow's views are that the longer the Independent party can keep clear of entangling alliances the better. Personally he can see no advantage in repealing the election, as he believed the result would be the same as before so far as Labour is concerned.

He said that while unable to speak for the I. L. P. until after the party caucus on Saturday, he personally considered Sir Adam Beck the strongest man in the Dominion, and would be satisfied to see him head the Ontario Legislature.

EXECUTED WHILE SITTING DOWN

(United Press.)

PARIS, Oct. 24. — Pierro Lenois, implicated in the Bolo Pasha and Joseph Caillaux treason case, was executed this morning. Because of partial paralysis he was permitted to sit down while the rifle squad fired. Three reporters, who secretly made their way into the enclosure to witness the execution, were arrested.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Lenoir was doomed to death on May 8, 1918, and desperate but futile efforts were made to gain commutation of his sentence. September 19 last, when the firing squad was in position and all preparations for his execution made, his life was spared for a time in a most dramatic manner. His attorney asserted that Lenoir would give evidence wanted in the case of Joseph Caillaux, who was yesterday brought before the High Court of the French Senate on a charge of "conspiring." Lenoir was given a searching examination by the judicial authorities, but subsequently it was announced that the sentence would be carried out.

A LETTER FROM MR. J. H. BURNHAM

OTTAWA, Oct. 24.—It is announced that the Baptist convention of Canada will meet here next week and will debate amongst other things, the authority of the Scriptures. It is said that the Almighty is awaiting their decision in fear and trembling.

People seem to thing that a referendum can settle the ultimate rights and wrongs of anything. The gradual closing of the side-line churches marked the autumn of the Protestant faith, but debating the authority of the Scriptures has "got them all beat."

The public needs to cultivate its brains and not its emotions. To the making of foolishness there seems to be no end.

WORKERS HELD A RALLY LAST NIGHT

TEMPERANCE FORCES MEET IN TORONTO AND DISCUSS THE OUTCOME

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Oct. 24.—"If the Premier had taken the advice of wise men," said Dr. A. S. Grant, the Dominion Secretary for Prohibition at the great rally of temperance workers last night, in the Assembly room of the Timothy Eaton Memorial church, "he would have left the business of the elections until he had the other matter of prohibition settled up, for he shut our mouths. If he had left the election till after the referendum we should have gone in on his behalf openly wit all our undivided might. Premier Hearst has made the greatest contribution of any public man to the power of prohibition in this province or in any other province of the Dominion."

The sentiments of this many-sided meeting on the whole coincided with the views of Dr. Grant. It was a generous "victory banquet" of more than four hundred leaders in the provincial and city temperance cause, and included representatives of all denominations and proved a great tribute to the work of Rev. Peter Bryce, who organized the city campaign. It was also a meeting distinctly Conservative in sympathy.

Fortunate is the man who acquires his knowledge from the experience of the other fellow.

expressman. His evidence was most unsatisfactory, his manner shifty and unconvincing. Even if uncontradicted, it was so unsatisfactory and contradictory as not to be credited by us. On his own showing he was hired by his own friends and accomplices to draw liquor from neighbouring railway stations, and then informed on them to the Inspector, telling him where and when the liquor could be seized and his friends and employers convicted. For these particular betrayals his reward was 20 per cent of the fines, netting him $300.00. However this may have been as to other persons, and as to which we make no finding; his references to the police, Detective Newhall, in particular, were overwhelmingly offset, not by Newhall alone, but by various independent witnesses whose names were mentioned by Dunford as knowing about it. His charges against the police or any of them we find absolutely untrue.

Other Charges

Other charges were made or suggested at the hearing against other members of the Force.

Sergeant Blade was charged with conspiring with one Akey, a liveryman, to steal liquor from Inspector Stewart's Office. We find this charge disproved—indeed no serious effort was made to prove it.

Detective Newhall, Sergeant Blade and P. C. Boyd were charged with at various times making insulting and jeering remarks at and of Inspector Stewart, thus interfering with his duties and lessening his efficiency. These charges we find untrue.

A charge was also made that some members of the force, names not given, were wont to advise Hamilton, the hotel keper, by telephone, when the Inspector was going to his house so he should not be caught in illicit liquor selling.

This charge we find not proved, and it was contradicted flatly by all members of the Force asked about it and one Howden, from whom it was said to have emanated, denied all knowledge of it.

Charge Against Boyd.

A charge was made against P. C. Boyd by one Faux. Faux last Spring was in goal serving a six months sentence. While there one Johnstone was also an inmate awaiting trial for illicit liquor dealing. Johnstone was to be taken down to the police court for trial by Inspector Stewart. Faux's story was that Boyd was at the gaol with or for a prisoner and told him, Faux to tell Johnstone while Stewart was taking him down to break away from Stewart and he would receive police assistance and protection to get away out of town. He said he told this to Johnstone and immediately after so advised Mr. Robt. Rae, Turnkey at the gaol. Faux's story apd demeanor in themselves did not impress us, and it was flatly and wholly contradicted by both Boyd and Rae: Johnstone was not present nor could he be found. We fully exonerate Boyd on this charge.

The Missing Beer.

Grave charges were also made against Chief Thompson.

The first one dates back to 1915. One Lavasseur had been convicted of selling beer in what had been a so-called club. Some of his liquor there was seized. This beer was taken to the police station and the Chief was charged with taking it to his own home and using it there. It was alleged the Chief admitted so doing, and that Sergt. Kidd said he (Kidd) took it there. Kidd is now Chief of Police at Parry Sound and was called down to testify. Both he and Chief Thompson denied ever taking it to the house or saying it had been so taken. In addition Chief Kidd swears he enquired if it could be used in any of the hospitals or homes, and says he sent it to St. Joseph's Hospital and House of Prividence Ed. Cooney, a local expressman, swears he took it there on Kidd's instructions about Christmas, 1915, and it is further shown that the cases are still there, with some of the liquor still unused.

This charge we find wholly disproved

Another charge against the Chief was in connection with some beer seized (and wrongly so as it appears) on the way to Bridgenorth in 1916. This beer was ordered to be given up to the owners. Some of it was not called for, and it was alleged the Chief took this, or some of it, away north on a hunting trip that fall. Sergt. Brown, now Chief of Police at Sudbury, was given as the authority for this statement. Chief Brown was brought down from Sudbury. Both he and Chief Thompson most emphatically denied that this was done, or that they or either of them had ever said so. It was further proved to our satisfaction that these cases remained for a long time at the station, that the manufacturers asked for the return of the cases, and that Sergt. James Reid in the presence of another official and to the knowledge of several, emptied the beer into the sewer and the cases and bottles were returned to the brewers. The receipt of the Brewers' agent for these cases and bottles was produced.

This charge therefore is wholly disproved and falls to the ground.

Missing Whiskey.

Another charge against the Chief was that in 1918 he stole four bottles of whiskey while in the custody of the court. One Birdenaw had been convicted of bringing liquor from Montreal in a valise. The valise and contents were confiscated and nineteen bottles were sent to the Department at Toronto according to the regulations. One bottle was broken, making 20 in all. It was alleged there were 24 bottles and that Chief Thompson misappropriated the remaining four. Birdgentw had at first said there were 24 bottles, but later, on 29th of Nov., 1918, wrote retracting this statement and apologized for making it. He said he had been mistaken, and that only 20 bottles were taken from him, which were all accounted for. The Chief, of course, said he had obtained 20 bottles in all, which we find to be correct. The unfortunate circumstance in this matter was that after Birdgenaw's correction and apology were made, this untrue statement regarding the Chief was persistently repeated and circulated throughout the city.

This charge, too, we find wholly unfounded.

In conclusion we desire to say that we have purposely made this investigation as broad and thorough as possible. We have called all available evidence and invited relevant information from any possible source. We fully realize that one of the chief assets of a police force is its honesty and reliability. If public confidence is impaired the usefulness of the police is gone. We have fully and fairly investigated every charge or suggestion made and nothing improper or dishonest has been disclosed. We assure our citizens that in our judgment and according to our information, we believe our police force to be reliable as well as alert and that the public may rely not only on the men's efficiency but upon their honesty and integrity as well.

All of which is respectfully summitted.

FATE OF ONTARIO LICENSE BOARD

BOARD IS IN A PECULIAR POSITION IS RESULT OF ELECTION.

TORONTO, Oct. 24. — With the Ontario Temperance Act sustained by the vote of the province, the government which placed the Act on the statute defeated, the Ontario License Commission finds itself in rather an anomalous position. Pending the resignation of the Cabinet and the formation of a new government, the Board is carrying on as before, but what the future will bring forth is as much a sealed book to them as to the public. We are going on with our work just as usual for the present, J. D. Flavelle, chairman of the Board, told the Examiner to-day. In consequence of the verdict given by the referendum vote there has been no change necessitating the administration of the Ontario Temperance Act The possibility of the establishment of more government dispensaries has been mooted, but this is a question which will probably be left to the new government.

The formation of a farmers' cabinet, it is expected, would involve no great alterations in the statutes or powers of the License Board since prohibition is one of the strongest planks in the U.F.O platform. There might, however, be changes in the personnel of of the Board.

LABOUR MAJORITY IS INCREASING

Sir Adam Beck's Opponent is Rolling Up a Big Vote.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The majority of Dr. Hugh A. Stevenson, Labour candidate, over Sir Adam Beck in the Provincial elections, is increasing, according to the official count by the returning officers. So far only fifty subdivisions of the city have been counted out of seventy-one, but these have added fifteen votes to Dr. Stevenson's total. Then the railway vote was 129 for Stevenson and 67 for Sir Adam. No further counting will be done until three o'clock this afternoon, so the full count of the candidates votes will not be announced before to-night, and the returning officer, W. G. Fitzgerald, does not expect to begin counting the referendum votes until Monday.

BOLSHEVIKI PACKING UP

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 24.— The Bolsheviki are considering the evacuation of Soviet Russia, according to reports reaching General Denikine, a wireless despatch received to-day from his headquarters says. The reported plan is for the removal of the cabinet to Tashkend, after the abandonment of Moscow, and the withdrawal of the troops on all fronts to Turkestan.

SUBMIT COUNTER PROPOSALS.

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, Oct. 24. — The Bulgarian peace delegates submitted a number of counter proposals to their treaty this noon.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain

How to Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acids and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

NOT IN GOOD TASTE.

The common person who suggested that the San Carlo Opera Company sounded like the first session of the U.F.O. Cabinet cannot be said to have good taste, politically or musically.

NO ONE WILL MOURN.

And now a recount may result in the elimination of Hon. G. H. Ferguson from the Legislature. There will be many more cheers than groans if such prove to be the case.

NOT MUCH TO BEAT.

Some newspapers are worrying over the fact that the United Farmers may have difficulty in securing an Attorney-General. But at least they would not have to look very far to find a lawyer who would fill the bill much more competently than the last incumbent of the office.

THE SIMPSON BOOM.

There is an attempt in some quarters to boom James Simpson of the Canadian Labour Party, as a possible leader for the United Farmers-Labour alliance. Fortunat ly for the welfare of the province, there does not seem much likelihood of any such development in the situation, although Mr. Simpson ran as a joint U.F.O.-Labour candidate in Monday's election, and although defeated, has been prominent in the conference of the United Farmers' in Toronto. Whatever may be thought of him in Labour circles, and varied opinions have been heard, his radical Socialistic tendencies would make it impossible for him to capture and hold the confidence of the p ple of the province. The United Farmers, however, having by far the largest group in the new Legislature, may be counted upon to choose a leader from their own number, and the Simpson boom will not get very far.

MR. BURNHAM'S LATEST.

"The proposal to extend the Federal prohibition Bill to tobacco and playing cards is made by Mr. Burnham, an anti-prohibitionist. But nobody takes Mr. Burnham seriously—except Mr. Burnham," declares the Toronto Globe, and there will be few electors of West Peterboro inclined to differ from the Globe's opinion. The member for West Peterboro states that he is in earnest in his proposal to widen the scope of the Federal bill but Mr. Burnham's views on prohibition are so well known that his suggestion cannot be accepted in any other light than that mentioned in The Examiner yesterday. It is merely an attempt on Mr. Burnham's part to cast ridicule upon the people who saw differently from him on Monday's issue. He should be told that the two out of every three electors in his riding who voted "No" on Monday object to being misrepresented at Ottawa by Mr. Burnham or anybody else.

SIR ARTHUR WHITTEN BROWN.

Only two men in the history of the world have ever stood in America and in Europe on the same day. One of them, Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, navigator for Sir John Alcock, in the first non-stop flight across the Atlantic, honored Peterborough with a visit yesterday, and it cannot be said that the city arose to the occasion. The presence of one of the gallant spirits who won for Great Britain the honour of being the first to "hop" across the 1950 miles between Newfoundland and Ireland in less than sixteen hours, created as little flurry as if Sir Arthur had been an R. A. F. cadet on his first leave home from training camp. There were no civic greetings for the famous aviator, and last evening when he told the story of the historic flight at the Grand Opera House, he was greeted with row after row of empty seats, and only a few score people heard the simple but gripping recital of the most wonderful aerial achievement in the world's history. Such a reception for a world figure like Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, Knighted by the King for his astounding exploit, does not reflect favorably upon the community nor is it anything upon which the city can pride itself.

Upon the few who were fortunate enough to hear him the aviator made a most favorable impression. Plainly nervous, handicapped by a bad cold, and having none of the arts of the professional orator, Sir Arthur told the story of the preparations for the perilous air voyage and the details of the record breaking journey, in a simple, modest, matter-of-fact way, that won his hearers. There was no striving for sensational effects, no emphasizing of the perils and difficulties of the exploit. The audience was left to picture for themselves the strain under which the two flyers must have been when for hours they could not see either the sky or the sea, because of clouds and mist; their wireless disabled and communication with the world cut off, and their only company the shadow of the Vimy plane upon the clouds beneath them.

In his concluding remarks, Sir Arthur left no doubt as to his great belief in the development of aerial transportation. He urged the audience to interest themselves in the subject and to agitate that Canada should take the lead.

WILL CARRY ON.

The United Farmers have decided against coalition with either of the old political parties. With the assistance of the Labour members they "are prepared to assume the fullest share of responsibility and form a Government, in co-operation with such members of other parties as are in sympathy with their platform and principles and are free to give support thereto." The Farmers will not lose prestige by a revelation of the fact that they are courageous enough to grapple with the situation which their success at the polls on Monday has thrust upon them. There is no doubt that the development is one that was not foreseen by the leaders of the movement; the election of a strong body of farmers, numerous enough to be able to influence to a considerable extent the legislation brought before the House was the limit of the Farmers' ambition. To find that their efforts had been so widespread in success that the responsibility for carrying on the government of the province had been placed on them was for the moment disconcerting but they have manfully accepted the charge and will endeavour to establish a Government, Labour party being of course a necessary adjunct of the decision. Much will depend upon how they are led in the critical months that are ahead of them. The people of the province voted for a new deal on Monday—they showed that they were thoroughly dissatisfied with the Hearst administration. Now they will expect from the United Farmers a better government, more progressive legislation, a greater consideration for the common people. The turning out of the Hearst crowd does not mean the end of unrest in Ontario; it was merely concrete proof that there is unrest and the United Farmers or any other party that attempts to govern will find that the people expect from them adequate results. Otherwise the same conditions that wound up the career of the late Government will send the new movement to oblivion just as completely as the Hearst administration was banished. The Farmer-Labour alliance have a chance to establish themselves firmly in the public confidence under wise leadership. Their task is not an easy one, and in the meantime suspended judgment is the one fair course for the people of Ontario to follow.

AN AMERICAN GUESS.

Ignorance of Canadian affairs in the smaller newspapers of the United States is something that is not to be wondered at but for a great journal like the New York Herald one has the right to expect a more accurate knowledge of what is transpiring in the Dominion than is evidenced in the following editorial reference to the Ontario referendum and elections, which appears in Wednesday's edition of the Herald.

Ontario is to remain dry. The election of Monday was on the proposition, "Are you in favor of the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act?" The vote was "No!" by a plurality of more than 14,000 out of a total vote of about 152,000 votes. Premier Sir William Hearst, with four of his Ministers, went down to defeat. In the Provisional Parliament the Conservatives will have twenty-eight seats, the Liberals twenty-seven seats, while the new party called the Citizens' Liberty League, will have the balance of power with thirty-two seats.

It would have been a bad day for Ontario if the Herald's placing of the Citizens' Liberty League as the strongest group in the Legislature had been borne out by the facts.

"CEETEE"

THE PURE WOOL UNDERCLOTHING THAT WILL NOT SHRINK

'CEETEE' underwear is made especially for those who appreciate quality and comfort.

While the first cost is higher than ordinary underwear, the better wear, greater warmth, lighter weight and all-round satisfaction make it much more economical in the long run.

You cannot buy poor 'CEETEE'—it is not made.

The process of manufacture is different and expensive—there is nothing else like it made in Canada—special machinery—specially trained operators—each garment with individuality.

Only the very finest, safest and cleanest Australian Merino wool is used—so soft that a baby can wear it.

There are no seams—as the garments are made with a selvedge and the joins are knitted together—not sewn as in ordinary garments.

Each 'CEETEE' garment is knit, not cut, to fit the body.

CHAPTER XCIX

Of course I understood very little of what they discussed. I noticed however, that not only Mrs. Orton but the other two women as well as the men seemed perfectly familiar with all the details. Occasionally the hostess would interrupt with some remark, and I noticed that whatever she said received attention. It was not so with the others. As I observed this I recalled what Frederick had said: they were invited to amuse and entertain men like Tearle and Connor. When the coffee was served the discussion had become quite heated. Mrs. Orton, Neil and Tearle talking fast and earnestly. She and Neil were trying to prove to Tearle that if he put up a large amount of money, his returns were bound to be enormous. I noticed that Frederick had not once joined in the conversation.

Finally we all rose from the table and adjourned to the drawing room where card tables had been placed while we were at dinner.

"Mrs. Forbes does not play," Neil's voice startled me. I played an excellent game of bridge, but never had played poker, the game they intended to play.

"That is too bad! suppose we do not"—

"I will chat with Mrs. Forbes. You do not need me in the game," Mr. Frederick interrupted. He at once placed a chair for me some distance from the table, and sat himself near, asking permission to smoke. Then: "Why did you do it?"

"I had to." I did not pretend to misunderstand him, "I must find some way to help Neil—instead of having him come here," I spoke very low.

"You were very brave. I don't understand how you accomplished it."

"I will tell you some time. I will tell you now however that I never liked Mrs. Orton so well as I do tonight. She came to my aid wonderfully."

"She is a remarkable woman—in many ways," he returned slowly. Then for a few moments we did not speak. I noticed that both Neil and Mrs. Orton frequently glanced in my direction. Once I overheard one of the women say:

"It's stupid tonight!" and I knew she was referring to my presence. Frederick also had heard and commenced talking. After a few moments another remark was made, so palpably with me in mind that no one could mistake its meaning. I flushed, to my annoyance, then regained my composure as Neil said:

"As you don't play cards, Bab, why not play the piano." Then: "My wife is a finished musician," he added to no one in particular.

"Oh, do Mrs. Forbes! I haven't heard any really good music in ages," Mrs. Orton urged.

I immediately went to the piano. I played gay little airs which I thought would be appreciated. Then at Neil's request more serious music, and music in which I always lost myself. For over an hour I played, then turned around to see Neil get up from the table and stagger toward me. I knew he had been drinking too much wine, yet I was totally unprepared for what followed.

"Go on home now, Bab. You're a good girl all right! I won't have you coming here. Blanche is all right too, she's a brick. But she knows about things, and you don't."

"But I can learn, Neil," I said in a trembling voice, laying my hand on his arm, and not observing Mrs. Orton who had come up behind him. "If I go home will you come with me Please do, dear."

"Of course he will there is nothing more to be done with Tearle tonight," she whispered. "If there is I can manage him better than you can, You run along with Mrs. Forbes. And thank you for coming to me tonight,' she extended her hand to me. "I have been very glad and proud to have you." she looked me steadily in the eyes as she spoke. I knew she meant me to know she admired me for my action.

"I will run along also if you will excuse me," Frederick said. "I have a taxi waiting outside. I will take you home if I may," he turned to Neil.

Long afterward I found out that he had the taxi wait sure I intended to be there, and fearing a scene, had planned to get me away.

Neil accepted his offer rather ungraciously. He did not want to leave, and showed it plainly. But Mrs. Orton insisted that he accompany me, and that she did not need him.

A GREAT ENGLISH NEWSPAPERMAN

A frail little men in his sixty-eighth year, with a Scottish accent, which over thirty years of London has done nothing to mitigate. A little man whose appearance only in part indicates his force of character or the frequent fierceness of his opinions. This is a bald superficial description of Sir William Robertson Nicoll, editor of the British Weekly, founder of the Bookman, literary adviser to Messrs. Hodder & Stoughton, discoverer of poets and novelists, preacher, theologian, critic and most expert popular jounralist.

As Versatile as a Syndicate.

Sir William's range of interest is limitless. Hymns and politics, Charlotte Bronte and the Greek Testament hold his inerest in almost equal degrees, and on them all (and on scores of other subjects) he has a scholar's knowledge. Incidently, he is an amazing worker, and so many and so various are his vocations that an astounded novelist once declared his belief that William Robertson Nicoll was the name of a syndicate and not of an individual.

High Priest of the Kailyard.

Some of us (alas!) are old enough to remember the vogue of the "kailyard school" of fiction, and how we used to struggle manfully to discover the meaning of the Scotch words and the Scotch phrases. Sir William was the high priest of the kailyard. Many generations before he was born the Scotch had conquered England. But he was the man who compelled the English to learn the language of his conquestors. Sir J. M. Barrie might still be a Nottingham reporter if Sir William had not induced the English to look through "A Window in Thrums" and discover the good things that were hidden behind it. Mr. Crockett was his debtor for much advice and encouragement. He actually persuaded Ian Maclaren to start novel writing Maclaren, like Sir William, was a Presbyterian minister, and the critic was attracted by his friend's dramatic capacity for relating anecdotes. "Why don't you try and write?" he asked. Maclaren was not keen, but Dr. Nicoll scented a possible novelist and was insistent. Maclaren wrote a short sketch which was a failure. He tried a second—that was a little better, Dr. Nicoll was not discouraged. Maclaren must try again. He did, and the result was the famous novel "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush."

"Nicoll's Young Men."

But Sir William has not confined his encouragement or his discoveries to his fellow-countrymen. Mr. Frank Bullen, the sea writer, was among "Nicoll's young men," and he persuaded Miss Ellen Thorneycroft Fowler to write "Isabel Carnaby." because he felt that there was a demand for a sympathetic, accurate fictional study of British Nonconformity. The Bookman, too, particularly in its early days, did a great deal to establish the fame of hitherto unknown young writers of genius, among them W. B. Yeats, the Irish poet.

"Claudius Clear."

It is, however, as editor of the "British Weekly" that Sir William has done his most characteristic and valuable work, and it is in the columns of that paper that he really lives. The Morning Post once jeeringly said that Sir William endeavours to make "the best of both worlds in his earthly and heavenly journal." I do not suppose that he would deny the perfectly proper ambition, and the description seems to me accurate and complimentary. Sir William has made the British Weekly the organ of broad-minded and literary Nonconformity. Its most distinctive feature is his own "Letters of "Claudius Clear," essays on literature and life, often profound in thought, always expressed in the simplicity of phrase easily understandable by the great class that is eager to solve the insistent problems of living but is not expert in the jargon of the schools. It is the fashion to decry Sir William Robertson Nicoll both as scholar and thinker, because he is essentially a popular writer, because he writes for him who works to read. That surely is his greatest distinction!

A One-Man Journal.

The Brtish Weekly is an intensely individual publication. It is Nicoll from beginning to end, in the literary articles, in the religious reflections, in the political pronouncements. Slightly to alter Walt Whitman, "This is no paper, who touches this, touches a man." Sir William unquestionably gained his great ability mainly by the charm of his essays and the stimulant of his literary guidance. But he has used his influence to guide and affect Nonconformist opinion both in matters theological and matters political. During the war he was perhaps Mr. Lloyd George's most important ally. He rallied Dissent to the national cause and persuaded the Chapel that the war was just. He boldly declared against handing over Ulster to a Home Rule Parliament after war broke out, Home Ruler though he be. He fought against muddle and hesitation while the Prime Minister was still Minister of Munitions. He was bold enough to demand that Lord Northcliffe should be first Air Minister. He is unconventional. He has no respect for shibboleths. He wants a good wholesome earth even though he looks forward to an eternity in heaven.

His Career.

Sir William Robertson Nicoll was born in Aberdeenshire and was educated at the Aberdeen Grammar School and Aberdeen University, of which he is M.A. and L.L.D. He was ordained a minister of the Free Church in the early seventies, and held charges at Dufftown and Kelso. In 1885 he took the journey south which Dr. Johnson declared was the one journey all Scotsmen yearn to take, and he was appointed editor of the British Weekly in 1886.

Recently Sir William has passed through a severe illness and his frail body has grown still frailer, but the spirit of the man is unchanged. He is the literary warrior, indeed the happy literary warrior.

Principal Says Farewell.

Sir William Peterson, who is retiring as principal of McGill University, after 24 years of service, to be succeeded by Sir Auckland Geddes, said farewell in a letter which was read at the annual convocation. "My colleagues in the administration and on the teaching staff know how greatly I have valued their co-operation and loyal support during these 24 years," said Sir William. "May the record of McGill in the next quarter of a century outshine and eclipse everything that has been accomplished in the past. In any case the friends of the university may rest assured that her progress and prosperity will always have a foremost place in my thoughts and affections."

The announcement from the Carnegie Foundation that a retiring allowance of $4,000 had been voted to Sir William Peterson was received with gratification by every one connected with McGill. In his letter the secretary of the Carnegie Foundation said: "The executive committee in taking this action desired me to express to you, as best I might, their affectionate and kindly feeling, as well as to assure you in this official way of their appreciation of the magnificent services for civilization which you were able to do during the four hard years of war which have passed. The committee hope that there will be left for you many years of activity and influence in education and statesmanship such as can come only from a man of your ripe experience and knowledge."

Tobacco Habit Dangerous

says Doctor Conner, formerly of Johns Hopkins Hospital. Thousands of men suffering from fatal diseases would be in perfect health to-day were it not for the deadly drug, Nicotine. Stop the habit now before it's too late. It's a simple process to rid yourself of the tobacco habit in any form. Just go to any up-to-date drug store and get some Nicotol tablets; take them as directed, and the pernicious habit quickly vanishes. Druggists refund the money if they fail. He wants to read large and interesting announcement by Doctor Conner soon to appear in this paper. It tells of the danger of nicotine poisoning, and how to avoid it. In the meantime try Nicotol tablets; you will be surprised at the result. (6)

Miss Canada Gives Account of Her Stewardship

And explains her War Financing to her citizens

Miss Canada: In humility, because of the sacrifices which have been made for me, but in pride because of the Spirit of Fortitude of your Sons, I come to enlist your most sympathetic support, as expressed by your financial aid, to enable me to meet the many obligations that still remain towards the men who fought. I also wish you to provide me with sufficient National Working Capital to consolidate the position in the world's markets, that you, by your industry, have so honourably won.

Citizens: Perhaps you might like to take this opportunity of telling us how you expended the $610,000,000 we loaned to you last year?

Miss Canada: I would. You will recall that I asked you for funds to carry on the war, and to enable me to advance credits to Great Britain and our Allies, who, by their purchases here, have prospered our farms and factories. Do you want details?

Citizens: Yes. The more facts and figures you give us, the more fully will you answer the natural queries of those to whom you are now appealing for a further loan.

Miss Canada: Very well, then. I suggest you ask me questions. That is the best way to bring out the facts.

Citizens: How much of the Victory Loan 1918 did you use for war expenditures?

Miss Canada: Three-fifths of it —$380,900,000 in fact. Before giving this expenditure in detail I wish to explain that your demobilization expenses as against those of mobilization have been concentrated within a few months. The expense of transporting our Army overseas was spread over more than four years. Consequently the cost of it did not bulk so large in any one year's budget. But to bring home in a few months hundreds of thousands of men, spread from England, France and Flanders, Italy, Egypt, Palestine to far-off Siberia, was a gigantic and expensive task. It taxed all my resources.

Citizens: Realizing the conditions you faced, because of the shortage of shipping, and remembering that other parts of the Empire were eager for the speedy return of their men, we think you did very well. Give us now the details of your war expenditures.

Miss Canada: $312,900,000 was spent for the payment of soldiers since the Armistice—the cost of feeding them, part cost of bringing them home, separation allowances to their dependents, the maintenance of hospitals, their medical and nursing staffs, in Britain as well as Canada, the organization and conduct of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment (which includes the Vocational Training Schools) and the financing and operation of the Soldier's Land Settlement Act.

In addition to this, I have already authorized and am paying gratuities to soldiers on their discharge.

Citizens: What is the amount of the gratuity?

Miss Canada: I used $59,000,000 of the Victory Loan 1918 for this purpose, and expect to use $61,000,000 of Victory Loan 1919.

Citizens: Did you make any other disbursements under the heading of war expenditures?

Miss Canada: Yes, $9,000,000 was spent at Halifax, to be used in reconstruction after the disaster.

Citizens: We quite appreciate the fact that these were all necessary war expenditures. Perhaps you will tell us now what you did in the way of advancing credits to Great Britain and our Allies?

Miss Canada: With pleasure. I advanced Great Britain $173,500,000 to help purchase your grain; and I loaned her another $30,000,000 to buy other food stuffs.

Citizens: Did Great Britain buy any fish from us?

Miss Canada: Yes, $9,000,000 worth. I loaned her the money to pay you for it.

Citizens: Were there any other loans to Great Britain?

Miss Canada: Yes, Great Britain bought $2,900,000 worth of ships built here. I loaned her the money to pay for them. Then I loaned her $5,500,000 to meet other obligations in connection with munition purchases.

Citizens: What security have you for all this?

Miss Canada: Great Britain's pledge to repay—backed by the resources that made her Banker, Manufacturer and Bulwark to her Allies during the war.

Citizens: That's good enough. Did you do anything for our Allies?

Miss Canada: I loaned them $8,200,000 to buy your foodstuffs, raw material and manufactured products.

Citizens: That accounts for last year's Loan. Will you tell us now why you need another Loan, and how you purpose using it?

Miss Canada: I need another loan to finish paying the expenses of demobilization, since the proceeds of the 1918 Loan were exhausted, and to meet the obligations I still owe to your Soldier Sons. I also need money for National Working Capital.

Citizens: What are the obligations to soldiers?

Miss Canada: The cost of bringing them home. The payment of all those still undemobilized, including sick and wounded, who are still in hospital, and who of course remain on the Army Payroll until discharged. The upkeep of hospitals, and their medical and nursing staffs.

Citizens: How much will these items entail?

Miss Canada: $200,000,000.

Citizens: Does that include the gratuities?

Miss Canada: No. I shall need $61,000,000 of the New Loan to finish paying these.

Citizens: Will that include the money to finance the Dept. of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, including the Vocational Training Schools, and the working out of the Soldiers' Land Settlement Act?

Miss Canada: No. I estimate $57,000,000 for this. I have already approved loans to the amount of $26,000,000 to soldiers already settled on the land under this Act.

Citizens: How many soldiers are taking advantage of it?

Miss Canada: Up to August 15th, 29,495 soldiers had applied for land under the terms of the Act. 22,281 applications had been approved. 9,043 men were already placed on farms, and millions of acres will be under cultivation, that might otherwise be idle.

Citizens: What do you consider the great national advantage of having soldiers become farmers, apart from increased production of food.

Miss Canada: The love of outdoor life and the resourcefulness of our soldier citizens are just the qualities to make them successful farmers, and upholders of the best Canadian tradition.

Citizens: Have you any other war obligations?

Miss Canada: Not that I foresee. I have covered the major ones.

Citizens: You purpose extending further credits to Great Britain and our Allies, do you not?

Miss Canada: Yes, to the extent that your Loan will permit me to.

Citizens: Why sell to Great Britain and our Allies if they can't pay cash?

Miss Canada: Their orders are absolutely essential to the continuance of your agriculture and industrial prosperity. The magnitude of their orders, and the amount of employment thus created will depend upon the success of the Victory Loan 1919.

Citizens: Will you explain simply this idea of credit, and why it is so necessary that we should give it?

Miss Canada: Farmers and manufacturers (and that includes the workers on these orders) must be paid cash for their products.

Therefore I must borrow money from you to give credit, temporarily, to Great Britain and our Allies.

Actually, no money will pass out of Canada.

If you do not grant this credit, other countries will; and they will get the trade, and have the employment that should be yours, to distribute amongst their workers.

And remember, you absolutely need these orders to maintain employment. If you don't finance them, employment will not be as plentiful, business will feel the depression and conditions everywhere will be adversely affected.

Citizens: Will you use the proceeds of the Loan for any other purpose?

Miss Canada: Yes. I must carry out the National Shipbuilding and Reconstruction programme. I am also committed to advance loans to Provincial Housing Commissions.

Citizens: What are individual—personal advantages to be gained in buying Victory Bonds?

Miss Canada: The fact that Victory Bonds are among the world's premier investments—in security—in good interest yield—and in ready saleability.

Citizens: What do you mean by Security?

Miss Canada: I mean that the whole resources of Canada—all the assets of all the people—plus all the wealth yet to be discovered is behind my pledge to repay you your principal when due and to meet each interest payment.

Citizens: What do you mean by "good interest yield?"

Miss Canada: You receive on your savings deposits 3%. Invest in my Bonds, with the security of all Canada behind you, and you get 5½%.

Citizens: What do you mean by "ready saleability?"

Miss Canada: I mean that if, at any time, you wish to get cash for Victory Bonds—that is, sell them—you can do it at a moment's notice. Or, if you want to borrow money on them, any bank will loan it to you and accept them as security. For all practical purposes Victory Bonds are as good as money, except that if you keep a bill in a box at home, or in a vault, it doesn't earn interest—but Victory Bonds do.

Citizens: Would you advise a person to take money out of a Savings Bank and invest it in Victory Bonds, and if so, why?

Miss Canada: I would—because I pay almost double the interest paid by Savings Banks and my obligation is undoubted.

Citizens: Do you think Victory Bonds will increase in value?

Miss Canada: They ought to. Every person who subscribed to Victory Bonds last year has made money. I have every reason to believe my credit position must steadily advance.

Citizens: You have given a good account of your stewardship, Miss Canada, and realising the obligations we have to our soldier sons,—our brothers—to our farmers and industrial producers—to our workers everywhere—to You, the Spirit of our beloved country—to those who have so gladly and gallantly died for her—we pledge ourselves to buy your Victory Bonds to the absolute limit of our ability, and thus ensure the realization of our highest and best aspirations for Canada and all Her peoples.

Cut this out and read it carefully. It will answer a great many of the questions you may be thinking of in connection with the

DOCTOR PRAISES ZAM-BUK

"For sixteen years," writes Dr. P. Shibley of Washington, D.C., I have used Zam-Buk in my practice, and am convinced that there is nothing to compare with it for skin troubles, from roughness and irritation to chronic skin diseases. Zam-Buk, without a doubt, has wonderful curative properties, and when I have occasion to recommend a balm to my patients, I always recommend Zam-Buk. I have found the results from its use to be perfectly satisfactory."

Members of the medical profession are noted for their caution in recommending a remedy—only doing so when they have absolute confidence in it. The fact that Zam-Buk is so highly recommended by doctors the world over, and that in Dr. Shibley's experience it has stood the test of sixteen years' constant use, puts it, decisively, in a class by itself.

For the home, in the office, shop and factory, on the farm and when travelling, Zam-Buk should be kept always handy. It is indispensable for all cuts, eczema, boils, ulcers, bleeding, sore and piles, as well as for burns, bruises, burns and scalds. All dealers 50c. box.

Locke's Inspiration.

Readers of William J. Locke's novel "The Rough Road" will be interested to know how it came to be written. We quote from Mr. Locke's own words: "One evening a couple of months after I had finished 'The Morning Planet' I was tearing my hair and saying that this time I really had come to the end of things and would never again have the ghost of an idea for another book, when my wife, who was sitting on the divan in the drawing-room playing unconcernedly with our little Pekingese—she had heard this cry of wolf so many times before—addressed the little beast in the maudlin tone of which both are guilty: 'Why doesn't he write a nice book about you, darling?' Whereupon I clapped my hand to my forehead and cried: 'I will. I will write a story about a man who got up like that damn dog and jumped into the war!' And I went straight into my study and set to work on the scheme. It may also be of interest to know that the central idea of the rescuing of Jeanne's lover from the well in No Man's Land is an incident that actually happened in practically every detail. It was told me long before I thought of 'Septimus' by the intelligence officer who went to the billet to get confirmation of the apparent looter and slacker's extraordinary story. The only difference was that the real original Tommy wasn't wounded."

NO SHOES WORTH MORE THAN $12.00.

Manufacturer Says Value Not In Them at Higher Price.

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 22.—Testifying before the High Cost of Living Commission, Isaac M. Roden, of the Roden Leather Company, Grand Rapids, declared that the only way to check the constantly advancing scale of shoe prices was for the public to cease buying shoes.

"I never saw a pair of shoes that was actually worth more than $12.00 a pair, and when a person pays more than that, he is getting nothing in return for his money," said Mr. Roden. "The remedy for high-priced shoes will come only when people stop buying something which is worth nothing. You get far less value for your money put into shoes at $15.00 and up than you do when you pay $5.00 a pair."

There is at this time a sufficient supply of hides, according to Mr. Roden, and he charged high prices to manipulation by Chicago packers.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

ALD. TAYLOR WILL LIKELY BE CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

MAYOR DUNCAN CONCLUDES HIS CIVIC WORK THIS YEAR---SOME CITIZENS SUGGEST THAT THE ALDERMEN SHOULD RECEIVE A SALARY---TIME FOR A COMMISSION?

MUNICIPAL CONTEST TAKING SHAPE.

Alderman Taylor will be a candidate for Mayor in the municipal elections next January. While he did not signify his intentions in the form of an announcement he told The Examiner that he "would either make the grade or quit." The Council's Minister of Finance was elected for one year last January, and with the experience he has gained in the administration of the city's affairs during his comparatively long term of office he doubtless feels that he has acquired the experience necessary to qualify him for Mayor Duncan's position.

With ten weeks for Christmas shopping still to be rolled up the municipal contest may bring forth entries that are not thought of at present. Two likely candidates for the Mayoralty are Ald. McIntyre and Ald. Taylor, and Alderman Edgar has generally been considered as a participant in this year's race. The Labour ticket will doubtless loom large again as the year draws to a close. A committee has already interviewed a number of Union men who have served faithfully in the Trades and Labour Council and who, it is believed, would be acceptable to the citizens as a whole. Mr. J. A. Sharpe is one of those who have been approached for the Aldermanic slate, but it is still too early to expect any definite intimations.

Mayor Duncan Through.

Mayor Duncan denies that he has any desire to continue in office. "I think I have done my bit," he remarked to The Examiner, "and I am perfectly content to make way for others. I have tried to give the citizens good government with the help of the other members of the Council. I have spent a great deal of time attending to the city's business and whoever succeeds me will find that he will have to give many of his days and nights exclusively to municipal matters. If at any time in the future I should be called upon to stand for the Council I think I would be willing to take up the work again in the Aldermanic ranks."

Salary for Aldermen.

Not only have some of the members of the Council expressed the opinion that the Aldermen should be remunerated for their services but other citizens also have approved this suggestion. One Labour man remarked that Peterboro was outgrowing the small city stage and did not realize it. The year's work by the Council was virtually the managing and directing of the greatest industry in the city. At least the amount of money expended, the magnitude of some of the undertakings, and the general importance of the Council deserved more appreciation by the citizens and more recognition as a responsibility than has been shown hitherto. Several of the citizens interviewed on this point expressed themselves as being in favor of a commission to carry on the municipality's business, and the question was asked why the Council had not made some move to investigate the different forms of the commissions that have been developed. It was admitted by these citizens that an Alderman must necessarily devote much of his time in the prosecution of the city's business, that this was a responsible service and should be paid for by the people just as they have to pay for everything else that is worth anything to them. It was further stated that if the office carried some salary, not a large one that might be paid to city managers or commissioners, that the ratepayers would be more careful in the nomination of candidates. It is improbable that any action will be taken along this line this year, but the opinions indicate that the public recognizes that the large projects under consideration require the closest attention and the best brains the city can attract from the ranks of the electors.

When The Day Is Over

When the household cares and the worries of everyday life have dragged you down, made you unhappy, and there is nothing in life but headache, backache and worry, turn to the right prescription, one gotten up by Dr. Pierce fifty years ago.

Everything growing out of the ground was intended for some use in establishing natural conditions. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found out what is naturally best for women's diseases. He learned it all through treating thousands of cases. The result of his studies was a medicine called Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is made of vegetable growths that nature surely intended for backache, headache, weakening pains, irregularities, inflammations, and for the many disorders common to women in all ages of life. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is made of lady's slipper root, black cohosh root, unicorn root, blue cohosh root and Oregon grape root. Dr. Pierce knew, when he first made this standard medicine, that whiskey and morphine are injurious, and so he has always kept them out of his remedies. Women who take this standard remedy know that in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they are getting a safe woman's tonic as good that druggists everywhere sell it, in liquid or tablet form.

MILLBROOK CORRESPONDENCE

MILLBROOK, Oct. 28.— The October meeting of St. Thomas' W. A. was held on Monday night at the home of Mrs. Harkness. The devotional exercises were conducted as usual by the President. After the reading of reports by the officers, the following items of business were brought before the meeting.

1. The Forward Movement, and committees were appointed for distribution of literature.

2. Discussion of Dorcas work for the year. An outfit for a girl in an Indian school was decided on.

The president, Mrs. Allan, announced that the juniors had reorganized under her leadership.

Mrs. Whyte was appointed leaflet secretary. Mrs. Ranson then read the first chapter of the "goal of India," illustrated by a map of that country, which proved to be most instructive.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Medd.

Mr. Walter Thompson of Brunswick, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. McComb on Friday.

October Wedding and Double Christening.

Raymes—Richards.

The marriage of Mr. George Hamil Raymes, son of Mr. G. Raymes, of Port Perry, to Miss Cordelia June Richards, younger daughter of Mr. Harry Richards, Millbrook, was solemnized at the home of the bride, King street, on Thursday, Oct. 16, Rev. S. T. Tucker, pastor of Methodist church, officiating.

Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present.

The bride was attired in her travelling suit of navy gabardine trimmed with fur. She was given away by her father. The parlour and dining room were artistically decorated with flowers and ribbons.

Among those from a distance who atended the happy event were: Mrs. G. Raymes, Mr. and Mrs. S. McMillland and Mr. W. Raymes (just home from active service), all of Port Perry; Ruby Husk and Miss Gladys Parker, of Cavan.

After the ceremony and congratulations being extended to the bride and groom, all present partook of a dainty supper.

The happy couple left amid showers of confetti, rice and old boots on the evening train and will spend a short honeymoon at Toronto, Port Perry, Niagara Falls and Buffalo.

The bride, who was a teacher in the S. S. was the recipient of a handsome marble clock from the officers and teachers of the school, and numerous other presents as a token of the high esteem in which she is held. The groom's gift was a set of sable furs.

Mr. Raymes is a relief agent for the G.T.R. and is popular with all his acquaintances.

Another pleasing event at the same home was the christening of the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Richards, Henry Arthur and Gertrude.

Death of Mrs. L. Nicholson.

Isabella, daughter of the late Johnry, and the Misses Ilein, Mae and Evelyn McKim, of Peterborough, Miss Stinson and his wife, Charlotte Rice, was born at Omemee on May 18th, 1860. At the age of nine years she was left without a mother's care. On Feb. 17th, 1886 she was united in marriage by Rev. Dr. Torrance, of Peterborough, to Lancelot Nicholson, and with him took up residence in Souht Monaghan. During the pastorate of the late Rev. J. Kilgour, she united with the Methodist church and used her energies in its activities, later becoming a member of the W.M.S. Early last winter she was stricken with apoplexy and has been gradually weakening until death ensued on Oct. 15th. The funeral service was held at the home, lot 16, con. 1, South Monaghan, on Oct. 17th, and was attended by a large number of acquaintances and relatives. The service was conducted by Rev. M. W. Leigh, B.A., and interment was made at Little Lake cemetery, Peterborough. The pallbearers were Walter Finnie, John Finnie, John Fletcher, Thomas Rice, Robert Henderson, John Williams.

Besides her sorrowing husband she leaves a family of two sons, Almanson and Harry; and three daughters, Mary, Mrs. R. Bullock of Lakefield and Annie. Four sisters, Mrs. A. Leiter of Brockport, N.Y., Mrs. F. Smith of Rochester, N.Y., Mrs. Chas. Callender and Miss Stinson of Toronto, and one brother, John Stinson of Toronto, cherish also the memory of her useful busy life.

TORONTO HOGS $18.60; CHICAGO'S PRICE $12.00, PETERBORO'S PRICE $17.00

Canadian and American hog quotations are farther apart than ever. Commission men at the Union Stock Yards say that they have never known such a wide difference. Just why the Canadian prices should be so much higher than those existing in the United States commission men and drovers cannot say. Packers say that the trouble lies with the farmers in holding back their product, but during the early summer the farmers held back their shipments quite as much as they are doing now, yet the difference between Chicago and Toronto prices at that time did not exceed $1.25 and $1.50 per hundredweight. One or two of the buyers at the Union Stock Yards yesterday claimed that they had not bought a hog, and therefore were unable to give any opinion on the situation. There was, however, a few hogs sold around $18 and $18.25, but in one of more instances $18.60 per hundredweight was paid, which was 70 cents higher than the top quotation of Tuesday, and $7.10 higher than the prices recorded in some transactions in the Chicago yards. At Chicago another $1 a hundredweight was taken off nearly all classes of hogs, while in Buffalo the top price was $14, Chicago prices ranged from $11.50 to $12 per hundredweight.

The farmers' version of the situation was somewhat different to that of the packers. Farmers around the yards yesterday said that they were merely accepting the general market quotation, and that they were not finding it at all difficult to cash their holdings.

To-day hogs are quoted in Peterboro at $17 and in Toronto at $18.25 to $18.50.

No need for any member of your family to suffer with the heat because of a fuel famine if you are of a confidential turn of mind. An Electric Heater will keep the temperature of the room in which it is used to your liking, and the price is not prohibitive.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR HAIR BEAUTIFUL

Ten Minutes' Home Treatment Works Wonders, Stops Falling Hair and Dandruff, and Makes the Hair Soft, Brilliant, Lustrous and Fluffy.

Better than all the so-called "hair tonics" in the world is a simple, old-fashioned home recipe consisting of plain Bay Rum, Lavona (de Composee) and a little Menthol Crystals. These three mixed at home in a few minutes, work wonders with any scalp. Try it just one night and see. Get from your druggist 2 oz. Lavona, 6 oz. Bay Rum and ½ drachm Menthol Crystals. Dissolve the Crystals in the Bay Rum and pour in 8 oz. bottle. Then add the Lavona, shake well and let it stand for an hour before using. Apply it by putting a little of the mixture on a soft cloth. Draw this cloth slowly through the hair, taking just one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair and scalp of dirt, dust and excessive oil and makes the hair delightfully soft lustrous and fluffy. To stop the hair from falling and to make it grow again rub the lotion briskly into the scalp with the finger tips or a medium stiff brush. Apply night and morning. A few day's use and you will not find a single loose or straggling hair. They will be locked on your head as tight as a vise. Dandruff will disappear. You will find fine downy new hairs sprouting up all over your scalp and this new hair will grow with wonderful rapidity.

Any druggist can sell you the above The prescription is very inexpensive and we know of nothing so effective and certain in its results

INVESTIGATING THE LICENSE DEPARTMENT

CHARGES CONCERNING ADMINISTRATION OF TEMPERANCE ACT.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Oct. 24.—With a view to investigating charges of lack of efficiency in administering the Manitoba Temperance Act, all inspectors under the Department are being called to the Government Buildings to-day, partly as a result of numerous rumors that have been rife in the city, and they will be given opportunity to express their view upon the situation generally in Winnipeg. It is claimed that boot-leggers have tampered with certain officials.

Hon. T. H. Johnson, Attorney-General, stated he would make the meeting an occasion for speaking to the inspetcors and that he would bring home to them the fact that the Provincial Government always has stood for rigid enforcement of the Temperance Act and is determined that the statute shall be carried out to the letter.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

TELLS SAFE AND SIMPLE WAY TO TREAT AN RELIEVE AT HOME.

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost. Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double Strength.) Take this home and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dullness, cloudy thinking ,etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh and there must, therefore, be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment.

BRIDGE PARTY

Bewitchingly adorned in Hallowe'en decoration the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dunsford, 748 Water street, was the scene of a most successful bridge party, last evening, given under the auspices of the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. The guests numbering about 64 were greeted on entering the door by a broom cleverly dressed to represent a ghost lady and at intervals flower pots disguised as pumpkins afforded many surprises when tiny boys jumped unexpectedly from within. The fire places were draped in crepe paper over which all manner of ghosts, black cats and witches were festooned, while all the walls were literally covered with ghostly decorations suitable to Hallowe'en.

The winner of the ladies first prize in progressive bridge was Miss Mary Archer and of the first non-progressive, Mrs. Duncan Walker. Mr. J. W. Fraser carried off the gentlemen's first prize in progressive bridge and Mr. W. H. Dunsford in non-progressive.

Those Present

A few of those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Sangster, Miss Helen Dennison, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stratton, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Coulthard, Mr. and Mrs. George MacDonald, Mrs. Gardiner, Mr. and Mrs. Kilialy, Mrs. Chris. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Stinson, Mr. and Mrs. Seels Miss Nan Hall, Dr. and Mrs. Young, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Aylmer, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Hall, the Misses Dunsford, Miss English and Mr. and Mrs. Robinson.

WHICH IS THE MOST BEAUTIFUL?

A BLONDE OR BRUNETTE?

That age-old discussion as to which is the more beautiful, the brunette or the blonde is apt to be revived in when "Comradeship" will be shown at the Allen Theatre to-day and to-morrow. For two of the most beautiful women on the English stage, and of opposite types appear in this British production.

Miss Lily Elsie, who has been called the most lovely of all British actresses and who is the featured player is a decided brunette. She is of the more classic kind of beauty and her profile has been the inspiration for many artists. In fact her beauty has attracted such attention of all classes that she has been more than once mentioned as the sought off bride of members of the nobility.

Miss Peggy Carlisle is the blonde of the cast. She has the role of a young and trusting shop girl who finds real love in the end of a story. Her hair is very light and she is rather small in stature and decidedly petite. She is really of what is known on the stage as the "ingenue" type. But whether she is more beautiful than her brunette rival a mere man writer hesitates to say.

These are only two of the notable cast that appears in "Comradeship" which is the story of the closer understanding of one another that has come out of the war. It is built around a statement of King George, who declared in a recent speech: "I hope that the splendid spirit of comradeship on the battlefield will be kept alive in peace." Without mentioning the sect the picture shows how real comradeship is a perfect antidote for Bolshevism.

Gerald Amés, one of the most popular of English actors, has the leading male role, while Teddy Arundell, another player who is well known to Canadian motion picture goers has the principal comedy part. Guy Newall and Dallas Cairns also have prominent parts.

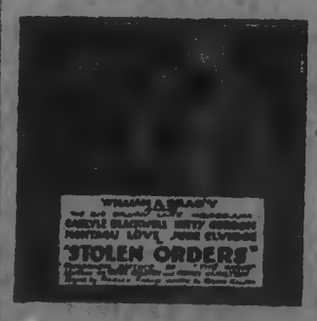
Most of the scenes for this picture were taken from real English country life and are apt to prove most interesting to all Canadians. The picture scored a great success during its showing at the principal English picture houses and is now being exhibited on this continent for the first time.

SIX FAMOUS STARS IN "STOLEN ORDERS"

SUPERB CAST ASSEMBLED FOR INTERPRETATION OF THIS MASTER FILM.

Six famous stars — Kitty Gordon, Carlyle Blackwell, Montague Love, June Elvidge, George MacQuarrie, and Madge Evans — all appear in William A. Brady's sensationally big picture success, "Stolen Orders," which comes to the Allen Theatre next Monday for two days only.

The immensity and strength of this tremendous production can be judged from the extraordinary assemblage of stars secured for the presentation of this exceptional attraction.



"Stolen Orders" is a big picture in every sense of the word. It is a gripping drama and it is a spectacular treat. The last reel in which a fight in the car of a dirigible balloon is staged, and in which the two combatants tumble into the ocean below is one of the most thrilling things ever shown on the screen. The rescue of the girl by a hydro-aeroplane is another one of the many thrills with which "Stolen Orders" abounds.

Picture fans who remember Mr. Brady's big picture success, "The Whip," will be interested in knowing that in "Stolen Orders," Mr. Brady has created an even bigger production than "The Whip." This new picture has all the thrills and exciting drama of "The Whip" and it is filled with even more spectacular scenes than "The Whip."

Strong gingham or Japanese crepe is the most serviceable material for winter work dresses.

A good hard sauce is made of 1-2 cup butter, 1 cup powdered sugar, 1 teaspoonful of vanilla and the stiff white of an egg.

FARMERS WILL ASK A RECOUNT

Some Reports Say his Present Majority is only Two — U. F. O. Taking Steps Toward a Recount.

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 24. — Reports reaching here to-day from different portions of Grenville county do not indicate that Hon. G. Howard Ferguson's election is a certainty. While the returning officer, W. S. Johnston of Prescott, has not made his returns or issued a statement of the result, reports are that the late Minister leads by only two, while others say that his majority at most will not be over sixty.

Some polls in the north part of the riding, the home of Mr. Ferguson, failed to give out statements of the result on Monday night, and this has led to the United Farmers of the riding deciding to ask for a recount. The officials of that party were here to-day taking steps to set such machinery in motion.

Mr. Ferguson's opponent, G. Arthur Payne, U. F. O., of Cardinal, made a remarkable run in the face of tremendous odds and by some it is predicted the recount will show him elected. In Precott town, it is stated, about 600 votes were not cast, due to the apathy of the electors; also to the excitement over the referendum.

WHAT TO DO WHEN NERVES GO WRONG

A SPECIALIST'S ADVICE

Men and women who suffer from weak nerves, who tire easily, can't sleep, have brain fag, low vitality, general weariness, loss of strength, dulled ambition, lack of will power, or any of those symptons that so surely arise from poor, unsteady, unstrung nerves, or nerve force run low, should try taking a little Ferro-Peptine with their feals for a few days and note results. This preparation is the greatest 'ginger-up stimulant and nerve vitalizer ever known for putting the good old "pep," ambition, courage and real vital energy into a tired, run-down and shattered nervous system.

Here is a test worth trying. The next time you feel tired, blue, or when your nerves are fairly crying out, take a Ferro-Peptine nerve tablet. Then wait for just ten minutes, and note results. Ferro-Peptine seems to go straight to the nerve cells and starts work the minute it reaches them. It brings a ten-minute change from that awful dull, weak, lazy, don't-give-a-hang, feeling; to brightness, strength, clear headedness and courage. It calms and strengthens the nerves of people who get the "jumps" and fidgets, and gives them poise, power and tremendous reserve energy. Ferro-Peptine Tablets are absolutely harmless, contain no dope or habit-forming drugs, and are always safe, easy pleasant and efficient. All leading druggists in Peterborough and vicinity sell it in large boxes—42 tablets to a package—on an absolute guarantee of satisfaction, or money back.

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE

Don't Stay Gray! Here's an Old-Time Recipe that Anybody can Apply.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

SLIGHT INCREASE IN THE FAMILY BUDGET

Labour Gazette Shows 12 Cent Weekly Increase.

The average cost of the weekly family budget, based on the average cost of staple goods in some 60 Canadian cities, was $14.88 at the middle of September, compared with $14.45 in the middle of August, according to current number of the Labour Gazette. This is a decrease of 12 cents in the aforementioned f.b.; but what one could purchase with such a picayune sum is not easy to find. Market reports show that this might be applied to the purchase of one pounds of hens' feathers for a pillow to get a little respite from worrying over the increased cost of cigarettes and shoes, or it might buy a couple of bunches of sage or parsley or a pumpkin, but taking it for and by 19 cents doesn't go far. The average cost of a family budget of the same commodities in September, 1914, was $7.74.

The movement in prices was marked by increases in some lines with decreases in others, many of the most important changes being seasonable or due to abnormal conditions, according to the Labour Gazette. In wholesale prices the index number, based on the price of 272 commodities in 1890-99, was very little changed, reaching with 301.4 for September, as compared with 301.1 for August, 285.8 for September, 1918, and 184.4 for September, 1913. The important changes for the month were increases in fruits, building material, furniture and raw furs, and decreases in grain, live stock, meats and fish. There were smaller decreases in butter, eggs, sugar, home metals and fuel. In retail prices meats averaged lower in nearly all lines, and potatoes showed considerable declines; but there were advances in eggs, milk, butter, rolled oats, rice, evaporated apples, and sugar.

HAD TO LIE IN BED MOST OF THE TIME

MRS. BARTELS COULD EAT ONLY MILK AND CRACKERS—IS NOW LIKE NEW PERSON.

"Of all medicines in the world none can equal Tanlac," said Mrs. Henry Bartels of 788 Van Buren street, St. Paul, Minn., the other day.

"I suffered from indigestion so bad that what I ate wouldn't stay on my stomach," she continued. "I had to diet myself for a long time on milk and crackers, and I lost weight rapidly, going down from one hundred and thirty-five to one hundred and nineteen pounds, an actual loss of sixteen pounds in about three months' time. Gas would form on my stomach, and sometimes rise up into my chest and press against my heart so bad that I could hardly get my breath. I was restless all the time and couldn't sleep good at night. I had awful headaches, and at times I was so dizzy that I couldn't get out of bed in the morning. Finally I got so frightfully run down that I had to lie in bed most of the time and have my daughter do the housework. I tried everything to build up my system, medicines, treatments, dieting, everything else I knew of but none of them did me any good.

"One day I noticed in the paper about Tanlac, and decided to try it. And it proved to be the thing I've been looking for. I've taken four bottles now, and it seems like a dream the way I've improved. My appetite came right back, and it's the truth I can hardly get enough to eat now. I don't suffer at all from gas or indigestion, and that has made my breathing like it ought to be. I am never restless or nervous, and can sleep all night long, and when I get up I don't feel tired and drowsy like I used to, but feel rested and refreshed. Headaches and dizzy spells don't trouble me any more, and I'm gaining in weight and strength right along. It's wonderful how Tanlac has built up my whole system, and made a new woman out of me altogether. I'm only too glad to tell others about my experience with such a remarkable medicine as Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. E. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Tringle & Son.

ALADDIN'S CAVE IN ABBEY

Austrian Smugglers Tunnel 700 Yards Through Frontier.

GENEVA.—A smugglers' tunnel 700 yards long, under the Swiss-Austrian border has been found, it is reported, by the police at Kreazlinzen, a small town at the lower end of Lake Constance. The newly discovered tunnel leads from an ancient Augustine abbey, in which the smugglers made an Aladdin's cave.

Lose Your Fat, Keep Your Health

Superfluous flesh is not healthy, neither is it healthy to diet or exercise too much for its removal. The simplest method known for reducing the overfat body two, three or four pounds a week is the Marmola Method, tried and endorsed by thousands. Marmola Prescription Tablets containing exact doses of the famous prescription, are sold by druggists at $1, for a large case, or if you prefer you can obtain them by sending direct to the Marmola Company, 864 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. They are harmless and leave no wrinkles or flabbiness. They are popular because effective and convenient.

IN SEARCH FOR PLATINUM.

Columbia produces an average of 30,000 troy ounces of platinum a year, practically all coming from the Quibdo district. The high prices prevailing during the war greatly stimulated the production of this important metal and entire districts along the coast and rivers west of Cartagena were depopulated, the people emigrating to the platinum district to wash for platium gold.

When it comes to speaking ill of their neighbors, most people are there with the goods.

STARTLING EVIDENCE IN THE TEMPLETON CASE

Public interest in the Templeton case has been accentuated by a volume of further evidence which has been submitted to prove that Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules do remedy Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout, Lumbago and many of their kindred diseases.

Canadian soldiers from the front claim that these capsules were of the utmost benefit in relieving them of sciatic pains and preventing the development of rheumatic troubles. One well known Canadian General was a constant user of T.R.C.'S and his persistent demand for them is proof that they gave him the relief he sought.

Men such as our Canadian soldiers are not prepared to make false statements. T.R.C.'S fixed them up and they are glad to say so in order that others may benefit by their experience. There is no denying the fact that T.R.C.'S do all we claim they will. Convince yourself. Try them.

Ask your Druggist or write us for our new booklet; it is interesting and costs you nothing (Templeton, 142 King West, Toronto). We mail T.R.C.'s anywhere on receipt of $1.00.

ONLY THE INTEREST TAXABLE ON THE NEW VICTORY BOND ISSUE

GET-TOGETHER MEETING HELD AT THE EMPRESS YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

William Shakespeare's advice "neither a borrower or a lender be" was ruled out of order by the Victory Loan Organization, when the members met and dined at the Empress Hotel yesterday afternoon, and had a get-together rally in preparation for the big campaign which opens on Monday morning. As Shakespeare missed acquaintance with Bill Hohenzollern and his gang, it was felt by the meeting that the day was at hand for some up-to-date advice. Furthermore, it was believed that Mr. Shakespeare wouldn't mind the change, and nobody expressed the fear that he would get wind of it. Hence when another William suggested "Buy Till/You Have to Borrow" as a slogan for the Campaign everybody concurred and so it remains.

Mr. W. H. Bradburn, county chairman, presided. With him at the head table were the speakers from outside points and the committee chairmen. It was a hundred per cent. attendance with all the salesmen lined up and ready for the getaway. The principal speakers were Mr. G. Tower Ferguson, of Toronto, vice-chairman of the Ontario committee and chairman of the finance committee, and Mr. G. R. Warburton, divisional chairman of the Trent Valley district, of which Peterborough is a part. Members of the local organization also spoke. Musical numbers were contributed by Mr. F. E. Walden, organist at Knox Presbyterian Church.

England Needs Money.

While the meeting was largely for the benefit of the salesmen, many things of value and interest to the people of Peterboro were brought out by the speakers. For example, Mr. Ferguson in his fine address made this point: that while England can never use up her credits, she has used up her money, and money she must have at once. If Canada does not care to lend the money, England will be compelled to ask credits elsewhere. What follows? Canada's markets suffer, and when Canada's markets suffer, Canadians suffer. If not from the viewpoint of the patriot then as a business proposition, the people of Canada should subscribe the full amount of the Loan.

Funds Not Tied Up.

The interest is 5½ per cent., the security can be seen from any railway coach. Another point is that the subscriber does not tie up his money. If he finds it necessary, he can, without delay, get the equivalent in money. He can take his bonds to the banker, the real estate agent, the merchant, no matter what he asks in goods, be it a house or a supply of coal, and he can buy just as conveniently as with bank notes.

Only Interest Taxed.

Mr. Harold Fry, County Organizer, straightened out a phase of the Loan that has been misunderstood by many persons. The 1919 Victory Bonds are taxable under the Government's Income Tax, but, as Mr. Fry pointed out, it is only the income a bondholder derives from his bonds that he must account for in his statement to the Government. The principal or in other words the amount invested in purchasing bonds is not taxed.

Mr. J. G. Campazzie, Chairman of the Publicity Committee, whose enthusiastic work is worth a great deal to the orgnization dealt with the task assigned to his committee. Mr. Vincent Eastwood, Vice-President, gave the workers some splendid advice gained from the experiences of the last campaign, and said he was confident that Peterborough would win the Prince of Wales' flag with crest.

SUGGEST SOME OTHER DAY FOR HALF HOLIDAY

The local Council of Women wish to state their attitude toward the mail carriers' Saturday half holiday.

Complaints received by the L.C.W. from many citizens indicated a general dissatisfaction with the long holdup of mail when a public holiday falls on Monday.

To relieve this condition, without depriving the mail carriers of their weekly half holiday, the L.C.W. proposed that this half holiday fall on some day other than Saturday when the following Monday is a public holiday. By order—

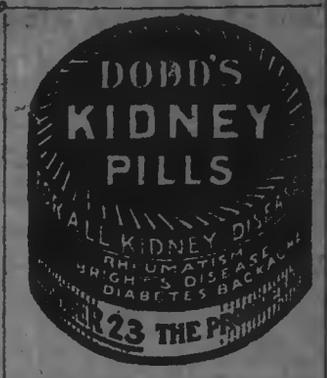
ELECTION BET COST THIS MAN HIS FARM

TORONTO, Oct. 24. — Charles Robb, deputy returning officer, of polling division No. 5 in West York, is richer by one farm as the result of a single vote cast at the election. While most political prophets are resolving never to prophesy again, Mr. Robb is chuckling. William Hutchinson was so convinced that Reeve J. G. Whitmore, an erstwhile Liberal, would forget his new U.F.O. ties that he wagered his farm on the polling of the Reeve's vote. Not knowing what was at stake Mr. Whitmore entered the polls and demanded an open ballot. Being duly sworn he proceeded to silence the murmurings about what he would do by marking his "X" against the name of James Simpson.

BRITISH JUDGE SURPRISED AT FEMALE GULLIBILLITY.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—In sentencing Hyslop Jones, a Canadian soldier, to nine months for bigamy, the Judge at the Old Bailey expressed astonishment at the number of cases in which Canadian soldiers had deceived British girls by bigamous marriages.



THOUSANDS MUST STAY IN ENGLAND

CANADIANS WHO CANNOT GET PASSAGE HOME FOR SIX MONTHS.

OTTAWA, Oct. 23. — The Department of Immigration and Colonization has received by cable a warning from England that there are thousands of Canadians on the other side anious to come home but unable to secure return passage for at least six months. It is said that this situation is being accentuated by the arrival of visitors from Canada.

When the cagle was sent from England rationing had been resorted to. The weekly allowance was, butter, one ounce; sugar, six ounces; coal, 100 lbs., meants, 40 cents worth. Canadians who contemplate a visit to the Old Country within the next few months should take into consideration the impossibility of returning within a few weeks after arriving there. Unless therefore visitors are financially and otherwise prepared to stay in the Mother Country for from six months to a year they should defer making visits until the shipping situation has cleared up.

ROBBERS TAKE SAFE.

Philadelphia, Pa. — While pedestrians watched them with interest thieves wheeled a safe through the front door of the Child's restaurant, at 708 Chestnut street, loaded it into an automobile and drove away early yesterday morning. When the manager opened the restaurant several hours later he discovered the theft. The safe weighed 900 pounds and contained $80.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Drink plenty of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is aching; if what you eat sours and forms acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entird alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before eating more food.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate, which is inexpensive and almost tasteless.

Men and women who are usually constipated, billious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast.

INSURANCE EDUCATIONAL CONGRESS TO BE HELD NOVEMBER 6TH AND 7TH

WILL BE HELD IN PETERBOROUGH—DISTINGUISHED SPEAKERS TO BE HERE.

The forthcoming Insurance Educational Congress which the local Association of Life Underwriters are holding in Peterborough on the 6th and 7th of November, promises to be the most important gathering of insurance men ever held between Toronto and Montreal.

Distinguished speakers are being secured for the occasion, among whom will probably be Mr. H. C. Cox, of Toronto, and J. E. Kavanagh, of New York. It is expected there will be several hundred insurance men attending from all over Central Ontario and representatives from the head offices of the various companies doing business here will also be present.

Peterborough is unique for its size in having the branch offices for so many companies located in the city. It is estimated that nearly twice as much insurance business passes through Peterborough offices as passes through any other city of its size in Canada.

LONDON APPROVES OF POLICEWOMEN

After Ten Months' Trial Authorities Decide to Engage More.

LONDON, —After ten months of trial, the higher authorities of the metropolitan police have decided that women police officers have made good, and the 100 now on duty will be retained. They must be of good education, possessing tact, kindliness and a sympathetic nature, willing to work seven hours a day for $10 a week and be ready at all time for duty.

The force was recruited from the patro workers of the National Union of Women Workers employed by the commissioner in 1916 to aid in the protection of thecity. They did excellent work, but last November it was felt that the pressing need for them had passed, and they were disbanded.

Their work was preventive in a large measure, particular attention being devoted to young girls who might be attracted to such places. So well did they carry out the plan that their permanent worth has now been recognized.

These policewomen may be seen any night in the West End, covering regular beats near the theatres and hotels in pairs, dressed in navy blue, with a businesslike cap and regulation whistle. They work under the direction of a woman chief, whose headquarters are in Scotland Yard. If a woman is accosted by some man who does not know her, she can cause his arrest by appealing to the woman officer, and it frequently happens arrests are made without complaint.

All women applicants for the force are training for eight weeks in the regular duties of a policeman, but they are not sworn in as constables, and they are only liable for such duty as the commissioner may direct.

"All our women are most carefully chosen," said their chief, Mrs. Stanley, "but we have no place for the 'prude or the prowl.'"

TURTLE AN OLD SETTLER.

Christiana, Pa.—Charles P. Sweigher, finding a large turtle that appeared very old, turned it over and found carved on the breast of its shell: "J. Homsher, 1840." Mr. Homsher, who was for many years a prominent citizen of lower Lancaster county, died years ago.

BEWARE OF DECEPTION

Statistics show that when egg albumen is used as a constituent of baking powder, the amount so used is too small (usually 15/100 of 1%) to affect the quality or effectiveness of the baking powder containing it, and when so used, is plainly for the purpose of fraud. Intelligent buyers will not permit themselves to be deceived by the water glass test.

MEMORIAL TABLET WAS UNVEILED IN WARSAW PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

EIGHTEEN RETURNED SOLDIERS TOOK PART IN THE PARADE—WARSAW NEWS.

ELECTION NEWS

WARSAW, Oct. 22. — Sunday was a day to be remembered in the Presbyterian church as it was the occasion of the unveiling of the Memorial Tablet to the four boys who had been connected with that church, and who fell. The service was at 3 p.m. The church was decorated with flags. Back of the choir a large union jack caught up with four maple leaves, four Jacks were on the organ, a Jack draped the pulpit. The Tablet stood on an easel in front of the pulpit and was veiled with a Canadian flag. At the foot stood a magnificent Star of Bethlehem. On either side of the pulpit were palms. Between the windows were crossed Canadian flags Below the lamps were small flags of all the allies. Over the entrance door were St. Andrew's flags. Long before the hour for service the little church was packed.

Seats were reserved for the overseas men and behind them were the immediate friends of the boys who fell.

About 18 men in khaki from the immediate neighborhood, among whom was a military medal man marched from the post office corner and were met at the entrance by a nursing sister and all marched into the little church.

The congregation rose and all remained standing until after the singing of the doxology.

The invocation was made by Rev. Hugh Brown, the minister of the church, followed by the singing of the stanzas of Ps. XLVI.

Rev. Mr. Archibald of Lakefield and Warsaw, who had kindly withdrawn his own services for that afternoon, read the Scripture lesson, Rev. 11, 32-40.

Rev. Mr Hilliard lead in a prayer suited to the occasion.

Mrs. Charles Foster sang "He'll Wipe the Tear from Every Eye."

Rev. Hugh Brown lead in a "Commemoration of the Fallen," the choir and the congregation chanting the responses. Then while the congregation stood with bowed heads, Misses Vivian Jackson and Harstance Thompson unveiled the tablets, revealing the names of Percy Braw, Harley Thompson, Clayton Selkirk and Thomas Hawthorne. The tablets bears also the battalion to which each man belonged, at what battle he was killed or wounded, and when he died, and his age. It is a beautiful brass tablet mounted on oak. Mr. Bell designed and made it.

As the boys reached their seats the National Anthem was sung.

Mrs. Turriff came forward, read the name of the Ladies Aid presented the tablet to the congregation and Dr. Munro as chairman of the Board of Managers, accepted the tablet, and made a few fitting remarks.

The choir sang "Sweetly Remember Me." Rev. Hugh Brown then spoke of each of the boys. Percy Braw had been in Mrs. Brown's Sunday school class and he was well versed in Scripture, and like Timothy had been taught by his grandmother. Clayton Selkirk had been a fine young man, a leader among fellows, true and brave. Harley Thompson was another splendid fellow. Mr. Brown had seen him Kings on a few days before he sailed, and he said. "I am going over there; I do not know what ahead of me, do not forget to pray for me."

A meeting of the Warsaw Presbyterian Ladies' Aid will be held on Thursday afternoon to decorate the church and make final plans for Sunday.

Union Service.

There will be a Union temperance service in the Methodist church Sunday evening, when Hugh Brown conducted the service and Mr. Lees, Inspector of public schools for East Peterborough, gave the address. A really excellent address, "The responsibility of the citizen and the duty of Christian people" were among his points.

The musical numbers were suitable to the occasion, as a duet sung by Mesdames Hall and Wasson. The choir sang "Bring It Down, Down, Down," Misses Hills of Peterborough, had kindly come out and sang "The Crystal Stream" and another selection.

Rev. Mr. Hilliard conducted services in the Baptist church on Sunday morning.

Next Sunday all the churches will hold their regular services.

Temperance Meeting.

Thursday evening there was a splendid temperance meeting. Mr. Jas. Greystock, chairman of riferendum, was present. The hall was not as full as it might have been, but the programme was good. Rev. Hugh Brown gave an address and pointed out the X was not a cross or the ballot was void. He explained several points which the referendum committee were exceedingly thankful.

Rev. Mr. Kilgour gave a good address and it was suggested that more people who were against prohibition were not there to vote it. Some people had wondered that the ministers were not on the committee, but some members explained that it had been thought the minister would have a more free hand if they were not tied by being on a committee, and that really not less, more, was expected of them.

Girls' Club.

The Girls' Club held their weekly meeting in Mr. Allen's hall on Friday afternoon. In the absence of Miss Emma Batten, president, Miss Alice Wason, vice-president, took the chair. No business was transacted. First Aid work was taken up, lessons being "bandaging," some of triangular and roller bandages, singing the National Anthem. The librarians distributed some of the books of the Travelling Library. Next meeting will be held on Friday afternoon, Oct. 24, in Mr. Calder's hall.

Election Day.

Election day was quiet, but there was an under-current of excitement over both the referendum and the election. Some of the electors were not a little amused to see Mr. John Rose, scrutineer for the Conservative party, and his son, Mr. David Rose, scrutineer for the U.F.O. The day was perfect and there was a large vote polled. Both candidates polled a large vote, but in Warsaw Mr. MacDonald won by 60.

It was noticed that several men thought they could vote for the Legislature and on the referendum because they paid taxes on some property in the village, as they vote in the municipal elections. Of course, if that were the case, people could get in two or more votes for the one candidate. So far as we can learn more men made that mistake than the women (perhaps the women kept quiet about it), but the vote was a new thing to women and they intended to know all about it. This seemed to be the reason most gave, who thought of it.

Mr. Wallace Anderson, president of the U.F.O., got the Warsaw returns as soon as they were made up and shouted out the news. The stores were packed with eager, but well behaved men until a late hour, but all returns, even from the township, could not be had even by midnight.

Came Home to Vote.

Mr. Wm. B. Ailkens and Mr. Vivian Jackson, left Monday morning for Pittsburg, Pa. These young men are returned soldiers and had seen it hard in France and Belgium. Their health now is not what it once was. They had tried to get on some of the courses promised to the soldiers and could not neither could the country for which they had risked so much, and ruined their health give them suitable employment, so they were forced to accept a position offered them in Pittsburg, Pa., U.S.A. Many others of our young men are in the same plight. In this connection your correspondent is asked to say that the thought of these two young fellows taking part in the memorial service of their old chums, waiting to cast their vote in their own country and then having to go to another country to earn a living, has made many of the overseas men very sore, and was the cause of more than one vote against the government. Must Canada lose these young men, whom the States are glad enough to get and take the foreigner instead?

Annual Dance

On Friday evening last the Hockey Club, gave their annual dance. All who attended had a delightful time. Music was supplied by Warsaw Orchestra. It came at a time when many who would otherwise have attended, had so many other irons in the fire they could not.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. David Drain went to Norwood on Sunday.

Miss Annie Hamblin is visiting in Peterboro.

Mrs. Nathan Payne is visiting her daughter, Mrs. MacMillan in Petrolia.

Mr. John Selkirk, Peterboro, was in the village Sunday and took his place with the men in khaki, at the memorial service.

Many from Warsaw and neighbourhood attended Norwood Fair. The village stores soon ran out of gasoline at night.

Thomas Hawthorne, he had not know so well, but he could never forget his kind thoughtfulness, when Mrs. Brown was ill. Each one of the four boys was especially dear to the pastors heart, and he wanted to say a little about them, but felt it would have been impossible for him to have preached the sermon and was glad the Ladies Aid had wished for Mr. Jull. Then the hymn: "For all the Saints who from their labors rest", was sung.

Rev. Jull of Lakefield, preached the sermon. He had not known anyone of the boys, but they had fought and died, given their lives, as we must give ourselves in the great battles of life. He emphasized that it is not what we get but what we give that counts. We are hero worshippers, but we do not consider a man a hero merely because he has a million dollars, it is because of what he does—what he gives of himself that we think much of him and that makes him worth while in the world. While the war was on people came to see the need of righteousness, but lately worldiness seemed to becoming to the fore and men and women to-day must stand bravely for their principles as these boys had.

After singing "Now to Him, Who Loved Us", the Benediction was pronounced by Rev. Hugh Brown and the congregation dispersed. Those who love the little church, felt that another milestone in the churches' history had been passed and that the service had been a very special one, and if perhaps a little trying, still one that should be. The day was all that could be desired even if there had been rain the night before and there was a little hint of it in the afternoon. The one soldier who came from Peterboro, belonged to Warsaw, and who was in uniform lived very near. Some overseas men were present in civilian clothes.

Among the Indians time is calculated by moons instead of months. January is called "the hard moon"; February, "the raccoon moon"; March, "the sore eye moon"; April, "the moon in which geese lay eggs"; May, "the planting moon"; June, "the moon when strawberries are red"; July, "the moon when choke berries are ripe"; August, "the harvest moon"; September, "the moon when rice is laid up to dry"; October, "the rice-drying moon"; November, "the deer-killing moon"; and December, "the deer moon."

Power Boats in Rapids.

Capt. Klaus Larsen, in his little motor boat Ferro, made a successful trip from the foot of the cataract through the Whirlpool rapids of Niagara Falls on September 19, 1919. Despite the battering of the Whirlpool rapids, Larsen went through safely; the little boat was lost to sight most of the time, but at Great Wave it was shot 20 feet out of the water. Except the old Maid of the Mist, sent through in 1844 to avoid seizure, Larsen's is the only engine-propelled craft to have gone through the rapids.

"AND THERE SHALL BE NO MORE MULTI-MILLIONAIRES"

"And there shall be no more multi-millionaires!"

"This was the first impression I brought back with me from visiting Charles M. Schwab in that colossal mansion—no other description quite so adequately fits it!—which makes such an imposing addition to the characteristically American medley of architecture adorning Riverside Drive, New York," says Mr. Stanley Naylor in a very interesting interview in the Sunday Times.

A Millionaire's Home.

"In this gorgeous pile he has erected to serve his needs as a town-house the famous multi-millionaire has certainly possessed himself of a multi-millionaire's home, if ever there was one. It is, indeed, a home so resplendently ornate in its furniture and trappings, so richly ornamental in decoration and design, that the puzzle at first is to find anything home-like about it at all. Its atmosphere is surcharged with luxury and opulence; there hovers round it an air of such limitless expense that when as a solitary stranger you are first ushered in you feel rather as though you had been suddenly wafted to some staid and formal chamber of the Louvre in Paris or the Pitti Palace in Florence. You almost expect an obliging attendant to hand you a catalogue.

"Happily, this impression of being in a museum rather than a private house is quickly dispelled when you see Mr. Schwab. From his powerful but unassuming personality he radiates just those home-touches his costly home lacks. The full force of his magnetism, his genius for getting things done, and, what is still better, for getting other men to do them—all this is felt as soon as you meet him.

His War Work.

"Schwab became a dollar-a-year man immediately America entered the war. That is to say, he was one of the first of the men standing at the head of big industrial organizations who volunteered to work for the State at a dollar-a-year wage. This was hardly surprising, for he had been a pro-Ally enthusiast from the beginning. He spent the autumn of 1914 in England in conference with Kitchener and Churchill, the result being that the vast output of the Bethlehem Steel Works was almost entirely secured to Great Britain. In the manufacture or armaments, Mr. Schwab then frankly boasted he would 'beat Krupps' at their own game.' How well he managed it was shown when, later in the war, he scornfully refused an offer from Germany of a hnuderd million dollars for the whole of his plant.

Income Tax Leveller.

"But why should Charles Schwab, of all people, declare that multi-millionaires, as a species of the human race, will soon be defunct? His answer to the question is simple and direct. He points first to the ever-growin~ income tax, just now a thorn in the side of so many wealthy Americans. 'This tax is a great leveller,' he says, without bitterness. 'Faced with the payment of it, our so-called millionaires quickly become men of moderate means. I do not see how present-day Americans will ever amass such great fortunes as they have done in the past. Personally, I am sorry there will be small room in the civilized scheme of things for millionaires in the future. One does ont like to think there should be this clog to initiative; that there should be this set limit to the heights to which an ambitious and hard-working young man may attain.'

High Prices Come to Stay.

"On the subject of the high prices that just now rule the world, Mr. Schwab is also pessimistic. 'My own belief is that these high prices are here to remain. Once having gone up, they will not easily, if ever, come down. It surprises me to hear experienced business men say they will do this or do that as soon as prices become normal, because I feel that the higher rate at which we now pay for most things is unlikely to grow less. I believe that abnormal prices have become so much a fixture of our present-day finance that henceforth we shall have to regard them as normal.'

"Continued high prices as Mr. Schwab interprets them do not mean, however, that we shall all spend less. Instead he thinks we shall inevitably spend more, and to cope with our increased expenditure, more money and still more money will have to be made. Since high consumption must be met by high production, the world's commerce, the whole standard of our productivity must be 'speeded up and increased all over the globe."

A Passion to do Things.

"Yet, despite these gloomy reservations, Mr. Schwab is no pessimist. He predicts that we may look for rapid trade expanison in the very near future. 'The war has brought into being a vast mass of men and women with a passion to do things, and, depend on it, they'll do them.' To give full rein to this new universal zest for achievement, normal business relations must be resumed between the different countries with all possible speed. Friendly business competition he regards as the most potent of all factors in welding nations together. Why should not England and America cultivate a spirit of sporting rivalry in business, such as Sir Thomas Lipton introduced into yacht racing, with his motto of 'May the best boat win'? Man is by nature a sporting animal. Let him keep the sporting note uppermost in his business affairs and all will be well.

Rival Work-Shifts.

"Of how Mr. Schwab himself contrives to combine sportmanship with business, setting cocks fighting in the best sense of the term, here is a story: 'How many boats has your shift made to-day?' he recently asked an operative at the end of the day's work in one of his mills. 'Six,' was the reply, whereupon Mr. Schwab, feeling this was not nearly enough, said nothing, but chalked a big '6' on the floor of the factory. When the night-shifts came in they evidently grasped the meaning of this curious '6,' for next morning, when Mr. Schwab visited the mill, the '6' had been rubbed out and a big '7' substituted. On his return again in the evening he found the day-shift had done even better, for the big '7' was replaced by a still bigger '10'. And so the sporting contest between the day and night shifts continued, until this particular mill eclipsed all records for production in the Bethlehem plant.

My 20,000 Partners.

"'Put men on their mettle in this way and they won't fail their employers, says Mr. Schwab, provided—But the provisos he makes are very important. One of the first of them is profit sharing. This he has introduced whenever possible—even into his home. His steward is paid a percentage on the savings he effects in the household bills. And at the Bethlehem Steel Works Mr. Schwab refers to his work-people as 'My 20,000 partners.' Everybody shares in the profits, from the directors, who sometimes net a million dollars a year for themselves, down to the men whose jobs are so menial as the wheeling of a barrow or the handling of a shovel.

"Collective bargaining also holds sway. Every three hundred workmen have their own appointed spokesman who voices any grievance they may have to the management. That much-abused word 'Bolshevism' troubles not Mr. Schwab. According to him, Capital and Labor do not fly at one another's throats when each meets the other half way."

There may be some kind of future punishment for bachelors, but most married men believe they get theirs right here on earth.

A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Miss Kelly Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Newark, N. J.—"For about three years I suffered from nervous breakdown and got so weak I could hardly stand, and had headaches every day. I tried everything I could think of and was under a physician's care for two years. A girl friend had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she told me about it. From the first day I took it I began to feel better and now I am well and able to do most any kind of work. I have been recommending the Compound ever since and give you my permission to publish this letter."—Miss FLO KELLY, 476 So. 14th St., Newark, N. J.

The reason this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, was so successful in Miss Kelly's case was because it went to the root of her trouble, restored her to a normal healthy condition and as a result her nervousness disappeared.

"We [illegible] rendered absolute beggars," he [illegible] mendicants," he said. "[illegible] nothing but despair facing [illegible] ical provisioning of Vienna [illegible] nths ago. The Austrian [illegible] barely suffices for Upper [illegible] while the rest of the country [illegible] dependent on importation.

[illegible]hospitals are about to be [illegible]ne after another, so we are prepared for a terrible death rate. Our schools are without fuel and must be closed.

"The number of unemployed increases daily, and it now seems certain that within a few weeks there will be no railway transportation whatever within our country. The great depreciation in our currency makes impossible the purchase of fuel or raw materials from abroad, and thus to resume our industrial life. Only a foreign loan can save us and we appeal to America."

With the temperature just above freezing, a large part of the population now is seeking the coffee houses, where they herd all day to avail themselves of the warmth generated by their bodies. Swarms of beggars of all ages and both sexes infest the streets, many of them shoeless and clad in rags. Even the best hotels are entirely without heat, while prices asked for the meagre food supply obtainable mount daily.

The correspondent made a tour of the shops to-day, comparing the current prices with those of one month ago. He found that clothing had more than doubled in price. In some shops Austrian money is refused altogether, the shopkeepers demanding payment in foreign money at rates higher that those in London.

EDGE EMPLOYEES RESENTED THE FOREMAN'S LASHING LANGUAGE

ON VERGE OF STRIKING THIS MORNING BUT WERE ADDRESSED BY MR. TOOMS AT NOON AND AFTERWARDS VOTED TO CONTINUE WORK

MAYOR WAS CALLED

...reatened strike involving all ...rkmen on the Hunter street ... except the carpenters was ... at noon to-day through the ...on of Mr. T. Tooms, M.P.P., ... agent for the Allied Build...dus. The labourers and steam ...ang had complained that Dan ..., one of the foremen, was ...hement and explosive in his ...e when giving orders, and ...s instructions were generally ...with harsh and abusive terms. ...e o'clock this morning the ...as all set for a walkout. May...ican and Ald. Phelan received ...y-up" telephone call from Mr. ...and, the contractor, and Mr. ... was present in behalf of the ...Mayor Duncan instructed the ...tor to retain O'Leary as long ... was giving satisfaction as a ...n. The crisis was deferred ...on when Mr. Tooms address... assembled workmen and laid ... them all the conditions and ...e effects of a strike. He ex...d the belief that the foreman ...tone down his language to a ...able form, that it was import... ...e work should proceed this ... and that the men should ...dvantage of the weather to ...e at work while it was agree...indoors.

...Tooms strongly denies that he ...stating the men to seek high...es. He asserts that there ...have been no trouble whatever ...foreman hadn't been so strew...nd downright abusive in his ...e. The men asked only for ...eatment and resented any att... in which they felt they were ...driven with undue severity.

...as stated that the workmen ...a practice on the bridge work ...y a man who might be inclined to lag in one gang was transferred to O'Leary's and if he failed to respond to the special brand of exhortations he was then graduated to the retired list.

Mr. Tooms remarked that from all he could learn Mr. O'Leary was an efficient foreman from the employer's standpoint, but regarded from the men's position he was unnecessarily domineering. It was said that the men particularly resented profanity punctuating the orders.

The settlement of this difficulty, on the understanding that the men would receive what they considered fair treatment, concludes Mr. Tooms' association with the Building Trades. He will still continue to interest himself in the welfare of the Labourer's Union, but he finds that his political duties will prevent him from giving to the Allied Trades the time and attention they require. Mr. Tooms goes to Toronto to-morrow to attend a caucus of the newly elected provincial Labour group.

When the men took a vote on the question of striking at noon only three hands appeared. The rest of the men voted to continue at work.

IN MEMORIAM.

In ever loving memory of Mabel Rae, who died October 24, 1918:

We little thought when she left home,
She would no more return,
That she so soon in death would sleep,
And leave us here to mourn.

No loved one stood beside her,
To bid a fond farewell;
No word of comfort could she leave,
To those she loved so well.

CANNOT SELL PAPERS AFTER NINE O'CLOCK

Complaints have reached the police that youngsters nine and ten years of age are selling papers on the streets at all hours of the night. Chief Thompson intends to put a stop to it, and although there is no Curfew Law, boys ten years of age and under can sell papers only up to nine o'clock and after that only boys of sixteen years of age and over are allowed to ply their trade. A girl must be sixteen years of age to sell papers on the street any time of the night. If any children are found on the streets without adults after the time which they are permitted to roam, they are liable to be taken by the arm by a policeman and escorted home. The parents or guardian would be summoned and fined in police court. Last evening a girl of tender years was found selling newspapers on the street and was told to go home by a constable

ACCIDENT TO MISS CHAMBERLEN

A regrettable accident with serious consequences took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when Miss Jemima Chamberlen, one of the oldest and best known residents of this city, was the victim of an accident which will likely confine her to her home for the rest of her life. The British Government Crisis Ends in a Compromise

Week-end Activity

DOUBTFUL MAY DEVELOP A PLAN OF ACTION THIS AFTERNOON AT THE HAMILTON CONFERENCE.

LIBERALS WAITING

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—Activity in the political situation in Ontario over the week-end is centred largely in the gathering at Hamilton ths afternoon of the eleven Labour candidates elected to the Legislature.

The U. F. O., Conservatives, and Liberals have suspended conferences until next week, although various commissions of each are busy on important questions of leadership and policy entrusted to them.

The Hamilton Labour meeting this afternoon is expected to develop plans for a strong and energetic policy that will make itself a factor in Provincial legislation, whether the Labourites decide to throw in their lot with the U. F. O. or sing an anvil chorus as an independent minority.

From the executive offices at the Legislative Buildings, where the Hearst Government still holds the reins of office, comes to-day no intimation of probable line of action.

Nothing is expected to be decided until the United Farmers meet again next week and announce their leader and policy.

The Liberals also have adopted the slogan, "Wait and see."

The Provincial Referendum Committee having ceased the tabulation of returns when the aggregate majority for the drys had reached the neighbourhood of seven figures, there will be no further tabulation or report until Allan Dymond, chief returning officer for the Province, receives from the returning officers the official figures and has them officially counted. This may be a matter of weeks.

BEAR SHOT NEAR THE NICHOLLS OVAL

NEWSMAN HAD AN EARLY MORNING BEAR HUNT, BEAR RETURNED TO HISTORIC HOME.

Auburn Woollen Mill employees rubbed their eyes twice this morning at 5 o'clock when they espied a large brown bear rambling through the woods just north of the mill. They 'phoned th epolice station and Sergt. Blude and Constable Wigg started on a bear hunt. Arriving on the scene they noticed Mr. Walter Kitney, caretaker of Nicholl's Oval, holding on to the bear and calling it by endearing terms. The two stalwart Constables wondered whether it was not a man in disguise but shifting their position heard:

"Dear bear, come with me, dear bear, you will get lots to eat. Come home with me bear" and other equally lovable terms. But the bear was not flattered by Mr. Kitney's remarks and bit his hand and took a side swife at his former keeper with his pins-nailed paw. Mr. Kitney beat a hasty retreat and Bruin took after him with his long shambling gait. He gained on the pursued and Mr. Kitney took the nearest tree while King bear camped contentedly to wait until the person above was forced to come down. Mr. Kitney espied the two constables and called frantically to them to shoot it or take it away or do something. A tree is a cold place at 5.30 in the morning.

Despatcher Animal

Constable Wigg, who is a crack shot, borrowed a rifle from a neighbouring house and killed the "pet" bear at the first shot. The charge entered the bear below the right ear killing it instantly. Mr. Kitney cautiously ventured down from the tree and helped to take the bear which weighs 250 pounds to Jopling's meat store where it is now on exhibition.

The bear was supposed to be a pet and was kept by Mr. Kitney at Nicholl's Oval. Sometime ago the Council appropriated a sum of money for a meat ticket for the "pet" but through some unknown means the bear escaped and took to its natural retreat—the woods.

BEAR IN NORTH END OF THE CITY

AUBURN WOOLLEN MILL EMPLOYEES PELTED ANIMAL WITH STONES.

A very amusing incident occurred just after six o'clock this morning as some of the night operatives of the Auburn Woollen Mills who reside on the west side of the river were going home, and upon nearing the bridge a black bear suddenly appeared from the other side of the railway embankment, whereupon a couple of young men suddenly thought of home and mother and made most excellent time in that direction. Others more courageous pelted it with stones, while his bearship trotted briskly off toward the north.

THE LLOYD GEORGE GOVERNMENT CONFERRED WITH SOME OF THEIR SUPPORTERS IN THE HOUSE.

THE BILL WILL BE TAKEN UP AGAIN

(United Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 25.— The British Cabinet crisis apparently had ended to-day with a proposed compromise of the amendment to the alien bill.

The defeat of the Government in the House of Commons Thursday was generally accepted as showing lack of confidence in the Lloyd George Administration. As originally framed the amendment accepted Frenchmen from the clause, barring aliens from holding British pilot's licenses. From a day long conference yesterday between members of the Cabinet and leaders of the opposing factions was announced that a compromise amendment had been reached.

HAD CONFERENCE

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Members of Lloyd George cabinet conferred with some of their supporters in the House of Commons to-day relative to situation which has arisen through defeat on Thursady of the Government to alien bill. It was stated during the day that an understanding had been arrived at by which a new clause in the bill which would be acceptable to the Government would be moved by members of the House It is expected in this way to surmount the difficulty which brought about the defeat of the former amendment and to avoid the abandonment of the bill.

FORT WILLIAM HAS OWN MEAT PLANT

Profits Were $900 in 6 Months—1,600 animals Slaughtered in 12 months

The Fort William City Abattoir, the management of which is to be separated from the management of the board of health, after several years of city operation, has been a small utility designed to give service to the public at cost, as well as to protect people from the risk of having diseased meat sold to them. During the eleven months preceding October 1, there were 1,600 animals slaughtered at this institution, including cattle, calves, sheep and swine. For the same period the receipts to the city were $1,200, while the expenditure was a little over $900 For the previous twelve months the abattoir was run at a profit of about ten per cent, and it will show a slightly higher percentage to the good for the year ending October 31, 1919.

HARDWARE AND METAL MARKETS

A SUMMARY OF THIS WEEK'S MARKET.

Price changes are numerous again this week and almost without exception upward. Carborundum products show one of the heaviest advances, the new quotations being 25 per cent. higher than former figures, says Hardware and Metal this week. Clothes pins move up ten per cent., screen doors about seven per cent. and screen windows the same.

Advances are also shown in the prices of toilet skates; crumb sweepers, apple picker baskets, round shank jobbers' drills, auto coaster waggons, japanned hitching rings and Jellstone.

Ingot metals are reported firm.

Spot linseed continues very scarce. Prices are firm, but within a week or two easier markets are looked for. Turpentine prices are holding unchanged. Deliveries are only fair and advices from the South are to the effect that factors are holding back looking for higher prices as supplies generally were never known to be so scarce.

THE BYE-ELECTIONS ON MONDAY NEXT

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 25.—"I am waiting for the results of the four bye-elections to be held next Monday before I make any prediction of the place the farmers will occupy in Dominion politics," stated F. F. Lambert, secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, when asked for his opinion.

"The election in Ontario was entirely Provincial, and while it may not have a bearing on the Federal situation; but the elections on Monday in Assiniboia, Sask., North Ontario and Stormont, Glengarry in Ontario, and Carleton in New Brunswick, where members are to be elected for the Dominion Parliament, where there are candidates on the farmers' platform, will give a better idea of the way the Federal political wind may be expected to blow."

TROTSKY HAD A NARROW ESCAPE

HIS ENTIRE STAFF WAS CAPTURED BY ANTI-BOLSHEVIK TROOPS

(Canadian Press.)

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 25.—Entire staff of Leon Trotsky, Bolshevik Minister of War and Marine of Russia, has been captured at Tsarskeo-Selo according to a Reval despatch to the National Tidende Trotsky, himself escaped by clinging to a railroad car and later fleeing from the scene in an automobile.

Troops of the Northwestern Russian army pursued the Minister and fired upon his car, but Trotsky succeeded in reaching Petrograd. The left flank of General Yudenitch's army is reported to be under fire from Bolshevik dreadnought Poltava, which is lying in Narva River, inside of the limits of Petrograd and shooting over the house tops.

MODERATE PRICED HOMES EXEMPTED

THIS IS ONE OF THE PLANKS IN PLATFORM OF [illegible] LABOR

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 25th.—Labor wins control of the city government at the elections this fall, the civic employees discharged at the time of the strike will be reinstated. The "pledge" will be abolished and civic employees will be allowed to unionize again. Municipal trading and cold storage plants will be established to check profiteering, and homes assessed at $3,000 or less will be exempted from taxation. These are planks in the labor platform adopted by the party's executive last evening.

The labor platform on which S. I. Farmer will campaign for the Mayoralty and the various labor aldermanic candidates will stand, confirms the assumption that this year's elections will be fought out on the main issues of the recent general strike platform.

(Special to The Examiner.)

Eight elections were originally set down for decision on Monday, but in two seats, Kingston and Prince. Sir Henry Drayton and the Hon. W. L. M. King were returned by acclamation. The other, North Ontario, has been postponed following the sudden death of the Unionist candidate, W. J. Cowan, of Cannington.

PUT DYNAMITE IN CAR; DEAD

Aged Man Commits Suicide in a Novel Way.

(Special to Examiner.)

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 25. — The body of 60 year old Thomas Gray was found this morning in his little shack at Port Weller, having apparently killed himself by sticking a dynamite cartridge in his right ear and attaching a fuse to it, lighting the fuse and then lying down on the floor to wait for the explosion. The cartridge was found sticking in his head which was partly blown off.

Gray was working on the Welland ship canal and yesterday he told some of the men he felt badly and intended to blow himself up. He explained that he used to [illegible] [illegible] down south and [illegible] he had to be killed that would put [illegible] dynamite cartridge in their ear and attach a fuse to it.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEDURE FOR LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY SUGGESTS GEO. HALCROW

BY THIS MEANS INDIVIDUAL MEMBERS COULD FOLLOW THEIR OWN CONVICTIONS—THE LAWS OF DEAD MEN.

A SOLUTION TO PRESENT DIFFICULTY

HAMILTON, Oct. 25.—Organized Labour of Ontario is meeting here to-day in caucus to dissect one of the most novel solutions of the Provincial political tangle yet offered. The rural and industrial electorate of the province presented to its embryonic legislators one of the knottiest problems possible—that of establishing a stable government with four political parties, no one of which is of sufficient strength alone to carry on the administration.

A government constituted along the lines of a municipal administration is the plan twelve emmbers elect of the Independent Labour Party are wrestling with. The scheme is the suggestion of Controller George G. Halcrow, M.P.P., East Hamilton, who outlined it to the Examiner to-day.

"This system," he said, "is the logical sequel to the vote of the people. They clearly indicated their dissatisfaction with the machine politics, an administration similar in constitution to the municipal system would eliminate all party machines."

The Legislative Assembly would function as a City Council. As a whole it could select its cabinet which would correspond to a Board of Control and a Premier who would preside as a Mayor.

Room For Initiative.

"Individual members then could follow their convictions without fear of overthrowing the administration through a vote of non-confidence. How many times does it occur that a Board of Control fails to concur in a majority recommendation or that a City Council rejects the decision of a Board of Control, to the great advantage of the citizens as a whole? Yet under present methods of lack of confidence in the whole cabinet is necessary. Of course, where the selected cabinet would repeatedly have its recommendations rejected or its policy condemned the House as a whole could re-organize the Cabinet.

Classes Represented.

"Old party politics are dead and buried. Every class is now represented as never before, and it is absolutely imperative that a new system be evolved to meet the new order. All that we have to justify the continuance of the practice that an administration should go to the people following a vote of non-confidence, is precedent. We have been living on the laws of dead men since the Magna Charta.

"Some of the laws have been adequate in the past, but it does not follow that they are immutable if inadequate now.

"I do not believe there is anything in the British North America Act which would preclude an administration of the Provincial business as suggested.

"Despite our sympathy of purpose, I believe it improbable that Labour and the U.F.O. party could coalesce for a full term of four years.

"As a mater of fact, to carry on a coalition administration for this period, we would have to rely upon a highly perfected party machine, and this is diametrically opposed not only to the principles of the I.L.P. and the U.F.O., but also to the wishes of the people, as expressed at the polls."

Mr. Halcrow then emphasized the point that Provincial Legislatures have no jurisdiction over such highly controversial subjects as tariff or questions of international relations, which are strictly federal issues. On these the viewpoint is sharply divided and a political division inevitable, but even the Federal House, he continues, have to confront a situation parallel to that which now exists in this province. This, due to the fact that both Labour and the U.F.O. expect to place a number of candidates in the Commons. Therefore, while the new Parliaments might see eye to eye on certain issues, it would be absurd to expect agreement on all. The result then would inevitably mean an insecure government.

"With this in view," he concluded, "would it not perhaps be well to try out the new plan? Should it be found impracticable no evil could be caused during its trial, whereas its success might offer a key to the solution of the impending Federal complications."

FINAL STAGE OF THE BYE ELECTION

MANY REINFORCEMENTS HAVE BEEN RUSHED INTO THE RIDING FROM OTTAWA.

WOODSTOCK, N.B., Oct. 25.—The final stage of the Carleton Bye election was marked by the arrival here to-day of Hon. Arthur Meighen Minister of the Interior and Hon. Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor, who have come from Ottawa to take a hand in the campaign in the interests of Lieut. Col. W. W. Melville, who is running as the Unionist Candidate of the United Farmers to seek election in New Brunswick. Hon. Mr. Meighen, when asked regarding the effect upon the situation at Ottawa of the result of the recent Ontario Provincial election said:

"The Government at Ottawa has nothing to do with Provincial election in Ontario or any other province. We are carrying on the work which we were elected to perform and if there are any criticisms to be made of what we are doing we will answer these criticisms at Ottawa, and make no mistake we can answer them successfully."

When Hon. Mr. Robertson, the Minister of Labor, asked whether the heralded coalition of the United farmers and the Labor members in Ontario for the formation of a Government was feasible, said:

"If the farmers and labor agree upon the adoption of an eight hour day then I will begin to have some hope of their being able to affect a coalition."

WHY EXPERIMENT?

Any optician can buy glasses of a certain kind; so can an artist buy paints of any color. But, glasses won't help you unless they fit, nor paints make a picture unless properly applied. Do not take unnecessary chances with your eyesight. Our lenses are the best made, they are perfectly fitted properly adjusted, you always look well in them. You take no chances in consulting W. H. Lacey, Optical Specialist. Open Wednesday and Saturday evening, 410 George street.

Hon. Mr. Robertson was given a most hearty reception. He dealt briefly with what the Department of Labour has accomplished. He declared that it was utterly impracticable and impossible for any one class of farmers or labour or anybody else to carry on government for the benefit of themselves alone as every citizen must have equal rights. Any government that attempted to carry on the administration of affairs of the country for one class cannot survive," it is said.

Drastic Measure

UNITED STATES MAY FORMULATE A DRAFT LAW TO COMPEL THE MINERS TO OPERATE THE MINES.

NEGOTIATIONS OFF

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The belief that the government will take whatever steps are necessary to keep the country's soft coal supply normal, prevailed here to-day, following the failure of President Wilson's appeal to halt the miners' strike called for November first.

The President in his appeal to the miners and operators made plain, as had Secretary of Labour Wilson, that the interests of the public will be placed above those of either the miners and operators who broke off negotiations a few hours after the President's appeal was read to them.

Officials to-day were studying possible plans of action, believing that all chance to get the miners and operators together has now definitely passed. Interest was expressed in the suggestion of the National Wholesale Coal Association, that a draft law be revived to keep the mines running.

The plan of having soldiers run the mines also has been suggested, but it pointed out that few soldiers are skilled miners. To meet the problem, officials say, the men who are now working the mines must be kept there.

LOOKING FOR BRISK TRADE

The bustling bargain store of P. Black at the corner of King and George streets, is now well primed with a full stock of new fall and winter goods for a brisk season. Mr. Black has made several trips recently to the wholesale houses in Montreal and Toronto, and personally selected a well assorted stock of men's and women's seasonable clothing, fashionable millinery and general dry goods. Mr. Black has [illegible] of being able to offer the bargains his store is known for. He secured some special snaps in ladies' coats, dresses, waists, skirts, sweaters, hosiery and millinery that he believes he can offer at very moderate prices. Fall and winter clothing for men and boys are also shown at very low prices.

MARKETING OLD HENS

Egg Production Falls Off After Month of May.

Small Cold Storage Plant Both Practical and Profitable on Each Progressive Farm — It Adds to the Comfort of the Family and Increases the Profits — Essential Factors of Construction Explained.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

IN almost every flock there is a percentage of hens who are poor layers. These hens lay so few eggs that they frequently do not pay for the feed they eat and therefore reduce the profits of the better layers. The market price is high for old hens, and where the birds are not good producers it is a good plan to market them fairly early. There are also in most flocks a number of hens that were hatched in 1917 or earlier. Our figures suggest that most hens fall back about twenty eggs annually in their production. It is true that most of this occurs during the winter months, but one must also consider that the number of eggs falls off considerably after the month of May and, moreover, it is not uncommon for July and August to be poor egg-producing months.

The price of old hens usually is at its lowest point during the fall of the year, so that in many cases it pays best to sell the old birds not wanted for next year fairly soon, as the decline in price frequently is more than the profit made upon the eggs laid from June to October.

In a word the hen that has bright yellow legs and beak at this season is a poor producer, as is also usually the bird that has a large amount of internal fat or is very full and hard in the space between the end of the breast bone and the tail.

A good laying hen is active. If of the yellow-legged breeds her feet are usually faded, as is also the bill. Her toe-nails are shorter than her poorer laying mates. She appears as if she had worked harder, that is she is not so sleek and fat. Her skin is usually thin and soft. She is busy and not a loafer.

The non-laying hen has a small dry vent whereas the laying hen has a large moist vent.

Small Cold Storage for Every Farm.

Cold storage practice so far has been connected with the large produce warehouses in our towns and cities. These establishments could not do successful business if their plants were not provided with large storage chambers kept cool and in other particulars suitable for the long storage of perishable products of the farm, such as eggs, butter, meat, cheese, fruit, and so forth. Some day, probably not so far distant after all, the farmers may become sufficiently well organized to build and equip mechanical cold storage warehouses of their own, whereby they will be able to have complete control over the products of their own labor until they are disposed of to the consuming public. Personally, I believe the problem of cold storage on the farms should be handled through co-operatively owned warehouses provided with adequate cold storage facilities.

Apart, however, from the question of a cold storage with up-to-date mechanical equipment for the farm or farmers' association as suggested above, there is the problem on almost every farm pertaining to the storage for a few days of small quantities of various foods used on the table from day to day, such as butter, meat, milk, etc. It is certainly a great saving and matter of convenience to have on the farm a small cold storage chamber or refrigerator in which to keep these very perishable articles of food in a good fresh and wholesome condition for use on the table during the warm season of the year. This is made possible by the use of ice, and as it is procurable in almost every district of this country at a reasonable cost, there is no excuse for farmers not laying by in the winter season a few tons in some cheap form of icehouse. In the summer time this ice will be found most useful for cooling the milk and cream, supplying an ice-box or refrigerator in which the butter, for example, may be kept firm, the milk and cream sweet, and the foods in good condition for the table day by day. With ice always so handy and the best of cream available, it is possible for the house-wife to make such delicious and wholesome delicacies as ice-cream, sherbets, and many delightful and cool drinks, all of which are most refreshing and stimulating to the folks on the farm in the hot and busy season of the year. In case of sickness, too, ice is sometimes a necessity. There is no doubt then about the fact that every farmer would find a supply of good ice a great advantage in many ways, whether it be stored in some bin from which it is removed as required or in some form of small ice-cold storage where it cools automatically a small refrigerator room adjoining the ice storage room. There are several types of small ice-cold storages suitable for use on the farm. In using these small ice-cold storages, however, it must be kept in mind always that the temperature cannot be maintained lower than about 40 or 45 degrees Fahrenheit scale, which of course is not low enough to keep perishable products like fresh meat longer than a few days, and large quantities of perishable articles must not be stored in a small chamber, nor too many kinds at one time. In a subsequent article I will deal with a few of the most common and practicable forms of small ice-cold storages for the farm.—E. R. Graham, B.S.A., O. A. College, Guelph.

ANOTHER VICTIM OF RHEUMATISM

Entirely Well After Six Weeks' Treatment With "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MR. AMEDEE GARCEAU

32 Hickory St., Ottawa, Ont.

"I was for many years a victim of that terrible disease, Rheumatism. In 1918, I was laid up for four months with Rheumatism in the joints of the knees, hips and shoulders and was prevented from following my work, that of Electrician.

I tried many remedies and was under the care of a physician; but nothing did me any good. Then I began to take 'Fruit-a-tives' and in a week I was easier, and in six weeks I was so well I went to work again.

I look upon this fruit medicine, 'Fruit-a-tives', as simply marvellous in the cure of Rheumatism, and strongly advise everyone suffering with Rheumatism to give 'Fruit-a-tives' a trial."

Constitutional Act was passed.

This park has been top dressed with fertilizers annually for the last 60 years. At the beginning of this period it was producing about 1¼ tons, and in a third case 4.1 tons, dozers have been used the average yield per acre for 50 years has been in one case, 2.7 tons; in another 3.3 tins, and in a third case 4.1 tons, depending upon the amount of top-dressing applied. This is really a wonderful result and should make farmers who are harvesting their meadows year after year and paying no attention to the up keep of plant food in the soil—"mining" instead of farming—feel that possibly they are not using to the fullest the opportunities given them.

It is possible by top dressing alone to bring back the run down meadows and pasture in this country and this without one dollar of cost for labor, excepting for spreading the fertilizer. The results obtained at the Rothamsted Station can be duplicated in this country wherever equally favorable soil and moisture conditions prevail.

SATURDAY, OCT. 25TH, 1919.

NOT A SURPRISE.

The announcement that Swamp Lake has gone "wet" should not cause any surprise. Could you expect a place with a name like that to vote dry?

A BLANKET BILL.

Mr. Burnham's amendments to the Dominion Prohibtion Act would make that bill a blanket one. If there is any little thing you want prohibited, wire Mr. Burnham and he will probably include it in his resolution.

THE FARMERS' LEADER.

The Farmers have narrowed down their field of choices for a leader to five names. So far as is known that of R. N. Scott is not included in the list of eligibles.

CABINET MATERIAL?

Mr. E. N. McDonald of East Peterborough is mentioned as a Cabinet possibility in the new government. His predecessor did not even get to the "mentioned" stage.

A WARNING.

The United Farmers say they do not propose to be dictated to by the newspapers in the choice of a leader. The U.F.O. had beter be careful. They can expect no support from the Toronto Telegram unless the "Tely" picks the mare.

TORONTO'S TROUBLES.

If the smashing of restaurants and attempts to mob citizens like W. E. Turley of the G.W.V.A. continue, the Queen city will soon lose its title of "Toronto the good" and earn a less creditable title.

BACK TO THE LAND.

One of the causes of the formation of the United Farmers' organization was to check the drift from the farms to the urban cities. But it appears that the farmers themselves started a considerable drift cityward on Monday when they sent 45 members to the Legislature.

IT IS UP TO SIR WILLIAM.

Toronto advices are to the effect that Sir William Hearst is unable to give any statement as to his intentions for the present. But in view of the announcement from the United Farmers that they are prepared to assume the responsibility of forming a government, there does not seem any reason why Sir William should not speedily place the resignation of his government in the hands of the Lieutenant-Governor and make room for the new regime. The people have shown conclusively that they are completely dissatisfied with the Hearst administration and the sooner the former Government step out of the way the better pleased will be the majority of the electors of the province. Any lingering for a longer period than is absolutely necessary would be resented by the people.

CANADA A GOING CONCERN

Canadians who are in reality shareholdetsd in their country, and whose personal interest is the national interest, are not ready to ask for a winding up order. They know Canada is a going concern that will continue to grow in power and productiveness. Every thrifty and far-seeing Canadian is asked to treat Canada as such and invest in the new stock issue that is necessary for her to carry on with, and meet the great responsibilities created by the sacrifices of war and the problems of peace. In plain terms the Victory Loan 1919 is a stock issue offered to the shareholders to enable the country to carry out its plans for re-establishing the returned soldier and making him a national asset; and for maintaining the great international markets which are a necessary complement of increased production. These markets for Canadian products have in a large measure been created by the credits to Great Britain and other countries which could only have been financed by the great popular loans of the past. Everyone who regards Canada as a going concern and whose interest it is to keep her in that happy state of equilibrium owes it to himself to support the new Victory Loan by his surplus profits or savings, by his enthusiasm and by his sense of patriotism.

THE BY-LAWS.

The ratepayers showed by their votes yesterday—at least those who are anxious to assist in Peterboro's industrial development and that they took sufficient interest in the matter to exercise the franchise—that they appreciate the service rendered by the returned soldiers. Proof of the first is furnished by the endorsing by the necessary two-thirds vote of the by-law authorizing the city to purchase the old Metal Products plant and rent it to the Nashua Gum and Coated Paper Company, and of the second by the passing of a measure exempting the War Veterans' building from municipal tax. Both by-laws were easily carried.

Peterboro thus secures an industry that gives every promise of speedy development into a large concern. The American plant of the Company, which commenced only a few years ago with a small number of hands now gives employment to 750 people and similar growth is expected from the Peterboro grant.

A HEADLIGHT DANGER.

As the danger from their use is greater on the country roads than in the cities, there is some hope that the new Legislature may be inclined to give more consideration to the question of glaring motor headlights than the Hearst government could be induced to pay to this important subject. Motorists have frequently complained to the Examiner of having had narrow escapes from serious accident, owing to the blinding light from other cars. The Ontario Motor League has for some time been pressing for legislation to reduce the candle power of the front illuminants, but up to the present time no legislation has been passed, in spite of the fact that motorists as a whole are convinced that the use of some of the lights now in vogue are a menace to the safety of those have to use the rural roads by night.

THE DISTILLERS, TOO!

"It appears that everybody has sadly misjudged the distillers in connection with the vote on the referendum," says the Toronto Star.

"It is now announced that they were solidly in favor of the Ontario Temperance Act, and voted four solid "Noes" for it. Not only so, but they urged everybody that they could hope to influence to vote four solid "Noes."

All this is explained in an Ottawa despatch to the Mail and Empire. Mr. R. T. Ferguson of Winnipeg, counsel for the distillers of Canada, tells all about it. It seems that the distillers did not want the bars back, so they wanted everybody to vote "No" to the first question. They did not "approve of the introduction of a new system of selling liquor over the counter," so they urged everybody that they could influence to vote "No" on the other three questions.

The way Mr. Ferguson puts it one would almost conclude that it was the distillers who originated the idea of abolishing the bars and who have now succeeded in confirming that action. "They have all along been opposed," he says, "to a return to the public drinking bars, and the vote in the first place proves that in this they are supported by public opinion." In saying this Mr. Ferguson certainly does not misread public opinion.

We gather from Mr. Ferguson's interview that what the distillers wanted was not over-the-counter sale of liquor, but ver-the-bonder sale of it to cellar-fillers. So they supported the four "No" campaign, favored the Ontario Temperance Act unamended, and now want the cellar-filling process to begin.

All this is a fine next-morning explanation of the attitude of the distillers. But we daresay they would have borne a four "Yes" victory with cheerful fortitude.

What chance has the Citizens' Liberty Leage—we ask you, what chance had the league of succeeding with their four-yes campaign, with public opinion, the Prohibitionists, the distillers, and everybody against them? And isn't it curious that the league didn't even suspect what it was up against!"

A stout box having several compartments, and lined with oilcloths is a good place to keep vegetables ready for immediate use.

MR. BURNHAM'S EXPLANATION

In a telgram to the Examiner, Mr. Burnham complains that the editorial references to his proposal to widen the scope of the Federal Prohibitoin Bill, to include playing cards, tobacco and the use of feathers for decorating hats, were incorrect. The reason for his action, he says is that the present seems an excellent opportunity to impress upon the Commons the principles of the referendum. It would appear to the casual observer, however, that Mr. Burnham has taken a rather strange way of carrying out his purposes. The resolution is generally regarded as a joke, where it is not regarded as a jibe at the people who voted for prohibition.

No matter what motive lay behind it, however, Mr. Burnham may find himself transformed from anti-prohibitionist into the white hope of the ultra reformers, judging by the following wire sent to him from Toronto: "Congratulations on your intended stand for a clean Canada. Thousands of Toronto citizens beseech you to add theatres and dancing to your bill."

RECREATION AND THE CHILD.

"Play," says Max Eastman in one of his most beautiful essays, "is nearer to the heart of nature than aspiration. I think the essence of what we call classical in an artist's attitude is his quite frank acknowledgment that—whatever great things may come of it—he is at play."

"The Athenians were educated," he goes on to say, "as all free men should be, for play. They were making things, and the eagerness of their hearts flowed out like a child's through their eyes upon the things that they made. It was their custom to "loaf and invite their souls," to be "satisfied—see, dance, laugh, sing." People are in the depth of them, and on the average, as they are born, still natural, still savage. And there is no doubt that nature never fashioned them to work harder, or be more serious, or filled with self-conscious purports, than was necessary. She meant them to live and flow out upon the world with the bright colors of their interest."

The child passes, year by year, so students tell us, through all the various stages of savagery and barbarism through which the human race itself has passed. It craves open spaces and mysterious wooded nooks just as our remote ancestors craved them; it hates artificial refinements, and cramped surroundings as heartily as ever did the noble savage. In fact, the child is a savage; noble or ignoble, according to the surroundings in which it finds itself.

The relation of recreation to the child welfare problem is not therfore a remote or a distant relation. The child is a natural savage—a young animal. Just as the youthful puppy, colt, or kitten, frolics, scampers, romps all day long, so the child instinctively craves recreation from daybreak to sundown. The happy and satisfatcory child is the child who gets that recreation whether he gets it at home, at school, in the gutters, or in the gardens. I have seen happy urchins who did not know where their next meal was coming from. I have seen miserable fretful children in luxurious homes. The first had what all young animals need—recreation. They tumbled about the streets, made mud pies, climbed fences, raced with stray dogs, and had a glorious time. Their poor little rich brothers, on the other hand, were boxed up in neat clothes, forbidden to play, except along prescribed lines, forbidden to romp lest they should get overheated. The first children are likely to develop, despite privation and poverty, into satisfactory and forceful men and women. The second will probably develop into little mannikins who, cruelly deprived of initiative and enterprise by ignorant parents, will manage to amble somehow through life, because backed with private incomes.

When the fundamental needs of the child—food, water, air—are provided for, its next and most pressing need is for wisely-directed recreation. Not for education! Education should be an adjunct of recreation. Proper recreation automatically includes education. A playground may and should be the finest of schools, and the best preparation for a useful life.

That the battle of Waterloo was won on the playgrounds of Eton is true in a figurative if not in a literal sense. More than one battle of international significance will be fought and won, within the next few years, on the playgrounds of our country. The battle with disease and death; the battle with insularity and prejudice; the battle with that distressing and stupid superstition that human beings born under other skies are necessarily different, and in some way inferior, to ourselves. These battles are being unconsciously and silently fought to-day by the future citizens of Canada on our playgrounds; we hope that many are being won.

There is one battle that could be—but is not, I fear—being waged upon our playgrounds. That is the battle against cruelty to our dumb comrades—the "kind half-souls" whom St. Francis loved and prayed for. Think what an educator a playground pony with a proper guardian might make! Think of the cruelty which might be averted if children could be taught at first hand the nature of a horse! Think of the profit as well as pleasure which might accrue if they were taught to be "friends with" a horse before cruel custom had hardened them into its oppressors. Prevention is a thousand times cheaper as it is a thousand times more valuable than cure.

Judge Choquette of the Juvenile Court of Montreal has remarked more than once on the close relationship between juvenile crime and lack of playgrounds. A locality poorly supplied with recreation grounds yields more than its just quota of youthful delinquents. Where play flourishes crime declines.

"An idle mind is the devil's workshop"; but proper recreation employs and exercises the mind along healthful channels. Do you think that a child at play is idle? No more than the artist at his canvas, the beaver at his dam. It would be truer to say that a child at play is never idle. No bodily exercise is too vigorous; no flight of fancy too prolonged or strenuous. A child will voluntarily calculate the number of his marbles, subtract the "alleys" from the sum total of his treasures, divide with other children who wish to play with him, multiply correctly the number of taw-ups left by the number of children to whom he has lost the rest; and all this before he has been taught to make a straight line and call it "One." If thrown with children of other nationalities he will quickly acquire their languages and become an accomplished French, Italian or German scholar without so much as suspecting that he is performing an educational feat. In the geographical and sociological line, he will learn more of the habits and customs of other countries from their small representatives, his playmates, than he will ever learn from books. He will, in short, furnish himself with all the rudiments of a first-class education provided the elements of that education be within his grasp and supplied to him through the proper channels—the play channels.

A carpenter's bench, properly equipped, is perhaps the cheapest and safest antidote to vice ever invented. Children who make things of use and beauty with tools for which they love and care are not likely to become either idle or wicked. Children who own their tiny plots of ground and raise beautiful and interesting things there seldom drift into reformatories or Juvenile Courts.

The relation of Recreation to Child Welfare Problems is the relation primarily of doctor to patient. Given proper recreation, intelligently directed, a large majority of Child Welfare problems will vanish into thin air.

—Social Welfare.

A COALITION OF NON-PARTY GROUPS.

If the non-party groups in the House can agree upon a common basis of action it may be possible for them to carry on government, notwithstanding that together they hold but three seats more than the two old parties hold. For Speaker they might select a Conservative or Liberal member in whose fairness they would have confidence. That would give them a majority of four, which though ordinarily too small a working margin, might suffice under existing conditions. We do not say that it is by any means impossible for Conservatives and Liberals to join forces in Opposition, but the chances of their doing so to take advantage of the momentary absence of a few U. F. O. members for the purpose of defeating the Government are less than they would be in a similar situation as between solid Government party and a solid Opposition party. Unless for the purpose of bringing on another general election, a combination of Liberals and Conservatives would have nothing to gain by an overthrow of the Government. Together the Conservatives and Liberals could not carry on government because they have less than a majority of the seats. They would need to be very intimately associated together as a Union party, and would need to have a Union party organization in the constituencies before they could think of forcing a dissolution and bringing about an appeal to the country. In all this it is assumed that there is a good working understanding among the groups composing the Governmentside. If there is such an understaiding and it is lived up to, there will be no extreme or provocative policies put forward by the Government. That is, there will be nothing to goad the two old parties in Opposition into joint action to bring about a change in the composition of the House and in the Government. The Labour party and the Farmers' party do not naturally coalesce, but in the present circumstances they would doubtless recognise the necessity of avoiding very radical measures and content themselves with moderate policies. If radical measures are not avoided it will be impossible for the groups to themselves to go on together. By keeping in the middle of the road they would greatly lessen the danger of their being pounced upon in an unguarded moment and defeated in the House by their combined opponents. If the non-party groups can see thir way to joint action on reasonable lines, there is no reason why, even with the extremely small majority they could jointly face the House with, they might not go on government for some considerable time. There is a chance, too, that members of the two old parties who represent agricultural constituencies might gravitate to the U. F. O. delegation, thereby lessening the strength of the Opposition and increasing that of the Government.—Mail and Empire.

NEIL FORBIDS BARBARA TO GO TO MRS. ORTON'S PARTIES

CHAPTER C.

Neil scarcely spoke all the way home. But I tried to talk to Mr. Frederick altho I felt very little like conversing. It made me uncomfortable to think he had seen Neil drinking too much. I couldn't help wondering also what he must think of me for going to Mrs. Orton's. I realized perfectly that he knew I had received no invitation. That while she had made the others, even Neil, think she had invited me, he knew it was not so.

With his usual kindness, however, he tried to put me at ease by talking of the latest play and other things connected with what had happened that evening. I was glad when we reached home, and altho Neil was cross and rather surly I felt happy to think he was with me, instead of with those other women at Blanche Orton's.

"What in the devil did you come over there for" Neil asked.

"You heard what Mrs. Orton said. And why shouldn't I go where you do—especially when it happens to be to visit a widow?"

"Well don't do it again — I won't have you trailing me."

I started to deny that I followed him, then thought better of it and said nothing.

"I won't have it, do you hear?"

"Yes, Neil."

"See that you don't let it happen again. Those people aren't the kind I want my wife to associate with. Blanche is all right, but the others aren't your kind. He yawned prodigiously, and I hurried to bed without relpying. There was no use arguing with him in his present condition.

The next morning he woke with a headache, but insisted upon getting up and going to the office. I did not urge him to remain at home. He had acted anxious and disturbed for days. Perhaps his affairs needed his attention, and if I kept him at home, he might blame me. Aunt had annoyed him with questions, until as I went to the door with him he said in an exasperated whisper:

"Why doesn't she go home? She's staid long enough."

"Neil acts peevish. He must be ill I am sure he is overworking," she remarked when I returned to the dining room where she was drinking her third cup of coffee. I felt like telling her it was wine instead of overwork; wine and her questions: But I restrained the desire and proposed we take Robert and go to the park for a morning walk. I felt choked in the house. I wanted to think, and I could always think better out of doors. I had twice tried to do something to help Neil rather to put myself in a position to help him, and had failed both times. Was there nothing I could do? Was I to make a faux pas of everything I undertook.

It was nearly luncheon time when we returned to the house. To my surprise I saw Neil's hat and coat on the rack in the hall. I called then went to the library. Neil lay on the divan, his hand shading his eyes. He neither moved nor spoke when I went in. I laid my hand over his and asked:

"What is it dear? Are you ill?"

"No!" shortly.

"Can I help you Neil? I wish you would tell me what is worrying you. I know something is," I added in response to a dissenting gesture.

"No — let me alone."

I went quietly out and closed the door. I told his aunt he still was suffering with a headache, and so would not join us at luncheon, and so would not join us at luncheon. The telephone rang two or three times but I would not disturb him, altho his office asked for him.

"Have him call us," I recognized the pert stenographer's voice.

"I can't get any peace even at home," he grumbled when I gave him her message. But he went into the hall and answered the call, carefully closing the door so that I could not hear. At least that is what I thought. When he returned he again threw himself down upon thecouch. He looked so worried, so anxious that my heart went out to him, and I kissed him softly ,telling him how I loved him, and that I always should, no matter what happened. Then I told him how sorry I was that I ever had displeased him by going to his office, and by taking that letter.

"I was foolishly jealous of Mrs. Orton, Neil. I am not any longer and I want you to forgive me, and love me as you used to."

SOWING WINTER WHEAT

Dawson's Golden Chaff the Most Popular Variety.

Life of Machinery Shortened by Standing Exposed to Weather After Harvest — All Machines Should Be Overhauled and Stored as Soon as Operations Are Completed.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

WINTER wheat is one of the great cash crops of Ontario. It has been found by farm surveys in the United States and Canada that in very many instances, even in the live stock districts, cash crops can frequently be grown to great advantage. Ontario is an important producer of winter wheat, especially of the white varieties which yield well and bring good prices for pastry, breakfast foods, etc.

Winter wheat can be grown satisfactorily on a variety of soils. It thrives particularly well, however, on a rich loam containing a considerable amount of vegetable matter. This crop fills an important place in the rotation and generally thrives well after beans, peas, and especially after a clover sod or a bare summer fallow.

In experiments conducted at Guelph the winter wheat which has been sown about the end of August or in the first week of September has given the most satisfactory results. If the land is in especially good condition, as in the case of a summer fallow, the seeding might be delayed a little later. In sowing winter wheat it is important to use large, plump, sound, well matured seed of strong vitality at the rate of about six pecks per acre on average soil.

The Dawson's Golden Chaff has been the popular winter wheat of Ontario for a number of years past. It is very stiff in the straw and usually furnishes a high yield per acre. A new variety called the O. A. C. No. 104, originated at the Ontario Agricultural College from a cross of the Dawson's Golden Chaff and the Bulgarian, is very promising. In the past six years it has produced an annual average yield of grain per acre of 45 bushels, while the Dawson's Golden Chaff for the same period has produced 40.8 bushels and the Bulgarian 37.5 bushels. It has also taken the lead over Ontario in the co-operative experiments in each of the past two years. This variety will again be distributed in the fall of the present year for co-operative experiments over Ontario to be tested with one or two other varieties in plots one rod wide by two rods long. Those wishing to conduct this experiment should apply to the Director of Co-operative Experiments in Agriculture, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.—Dr. C. A. Zavitz, O. A. College, Guelph.

A New Landmark.

A new landmark will shortly appear above the trees of Kew Gardens near London. Already there is of course the famous Pagoda, but the new landmark will rise many feet into the air above the Pagoda. It is the giant flagstaff, weighing 16 tons, and 215 feet long, presented by the British Columbian Government to Kew Gardens some four years ago. Arriving in London by the R. M. S. P. in December, 1915, it was afterward towed up the river to Kew, and is now about to be erected by Canadians in the gardens. Its first use, so it is said, will probably be that of flying the Flag of Victory and Peace in the forthcoming peace celebrations.

IN STARVING INDIA.

A missiona rywriting of famine conditions in India, says: "The condition of the people grows steadily worse. Last Sunday a schoolmaster made the rounds here in Kodoli and reported thirty five homes in which the fire was not lighted because there was nothing to eat," wrote the missionary in that district "People from miles around come every day, sometimes twenty and thirty at a time asking for help—a loan to keep them while the crops are ripening, a little clothing or a little to eat. Hundreds are at the end of their clothing. Women are ashamed to appear in public as they are in rags. The price of clothing like everything else is away up. My wife went into the home of a supposedly well-to-do family a few days ago, and found bedding enough for one in a family of eight, and no food.

PRINCE'S GEMS STOLEN.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Prince Felix Youssoupoff, slayer of Rasputin, has been robbed in London of jewels valued at $3,500.00 under mysterious circumstances.

"THEY SAY."

As much harm is caused by the two apparently simply words "they say" as by any two words in the English language. Unfortunately there are still a few old tabbies in Peterboro who like to repeat unwholesome tales about their neighbors and in lieu of authority to quote these tales as coming from any particular person, they always begin "They say" such and such a thing is true. The next time you hear anyone begin a sentence with "they say," just stop him and ask him "who says?" Ten to one he can't tell you. Of course this particular person may be innocent of any wrong-doing, for probably the person who told him introduced his remarks with "they say." It is best not to repeat unpleasant tales at all, but never repeat such stories unless you have absolute foundation for their truth, and "they say" is anything but such.

Love in a cottage may often be less heavenly than it is generally supposed to be, but it can never be as bad as constant nagging in a $45 a month apartment.

Work hard but don't be afraid to take a minute to laugh or joke. It helps you, it helps your fellow worker, and it helps the work you are doing.

* * *

It is hard to lose faith in your best friend, but even that is bearable so long as you keep faith in yourself.

DIGNIFY YOUR JOB.

A great many of us are very much afraid of having our dignity lowered; yet most of us make the mistake of believing that dignity comes from outward circumstances, whereas, it is, in reality, an attitude of mind. Many of us seek high sounding titles believing that they increase our dignity. They do have a long distance effect, but as soon as people come in personal contact with us, our dignity gets a fearful bump unless we have true dignity within us. Any work that is honorable is dignified, and it depends on the worker whether or not it appears so. A delivery boy can put just as much dignity into his job as a bank president. Don't think any kind of labor is beneath you if it is honorable work, because just as sure as you feel this way, you will work down to your job instead of up and the job will certainly "pan out" accordingly.

There is always some discussion amongst wise heads about the comparative aid from inventions which men and women have in turning out their work. It was the writer's fortune recently to hear a discussion of the very point, and it developed that contrary to what is generally believed, women really have as great a number of labor saving devices to aid them with their house work as men have to aid them with their farm work. But the commonly accepted idea arises, much to the discredit of husbands in general, from the fact that women as a rule are not supplied with labor saving devices by the men of their family in anything like the same proportion that the men buy labor saving devices for themselves. Undoubtedly the men feel that they earn the living and should be permitted to have as much aid as mechanical skill can give them. Of course there is much truth in this, but let me say that a man can earn just twice as good a living if he leaves and returns daily to a home which is well-kept and to a wife who is fresh and happy and not worn out with drudgery. And how can he expect her to keep up with all modern demands on her time unless she has a few modern labor saving inventions to help her out?

Think this over, husbands, and surprise your wife some Saturday night with some new wrinkle that will save her many a backache and perhaps a heartache. You'll find you'll get your money back with interest when you see her happy smile.

To whatever occupation a young man or a young woman expects to devote life, whatever business or trade or profession be chosen, let him first be a man—let her first be a woman. broadminded and great-hearted. But this requires education and education requires effort—great and prolonged effort—for there is "no royal road to intellectual eminence," and effort requires decision. To all the opportunity comes, but each must decide for himself whether he will seize the opportunity or let it slip by.

Nothing can be accomplished by constant nagging, for those who are nagged soon become accustomed to it and give no heed. It is useless and unnecessary and often destroys the peace and happiness of the home.

* * *

Don't allow yourself to be bored. It makes you uninteresting and old in spirit—if not in years. If it is not natural for you to be interested in things about you, force yourself to be for awhile and soon it will become natural and enjoyable to listen to others. Their varied interests are every bit as worthwhile as yours, and if you have a friendly feeling toward your fellow men and show yourself interested in their comings and goings, you will find your own life many times as interesting.

What do we live for? Is it to find fault with everyone about us, or cheerfully lend a hand when needed and do our best toward making this a happy world?

A Land of Deluges.

The bottom of the Pacific ocean—approximately six miles below the surface—is an exceedingly wet spot, but the "wettest place upon earth," in accordance with the usual meaning of this term, is Cherra Punji, in Assam, India. Here the rainfall averages 458 inches, a deluge of 300 inches falling during the summer months. This is a summer average of three inches a day, but more than 30 inches a day have been recorded on five successive days, approximately 150 inches falling in 120 hours.

An Anecdote.

The scene which occurred between the King of Spain and the German Ambassador, Prince de Ratibor, when his Majesty heard of the escape of the German submarine U.C.-52 from Cadiz harbor has hitherto remained unrelated. A French journal gives the incident and the conversation which took place on that somewhat heated occasion. The King, when informed that the U.C.-52 had escaped in spite of the engagement taken by its officers, was attending a function at San Sebastian. He left immediately and drove alone to the Prince de Ratibor's. The following duologue took place in French:

"I am told that the U.C.-52 has left Cadiz harbor."

"That is so, sire, the U.C.-52 has made for the open sea."

"How can this be? Your officers gave me their word!"

"In Germany only the word of honor counts; a simple promise does not bind."

"Then, in Spain, let me tell you, there is only one kind of word, and once given it is respected."

"Sire, I am the German Ambassador."

"Foutres-moi la paix!"

And, furious, the king strode out of the ambassador's room, slamming the door.

Thackeray's Notebook.

Turning the pages of Thackeray's notebook for "The Virginians," even if one could not afford to owe such a treasure for manuscript collectors, would be highly interesting to anybody familiar with the novel. There are several pages of notes on the history and manners of the period, including a reminder of Queen Caroline's bad spelling, a description of King George's manners, notes about stagecoaches, Indians, colonial warfare, and various other points that the author felt it would be well to remember as his story developed. Here and there he made a pen and ink sketch by the way, ranging from a portrait of the Duke of Cumberland to a sailor in the costume of 1741 and two men in wigs and capes watching a horse race. Some of the material in the notebook was evidently discarded by the author in writing the novel.

Horseshoeing.

Horseshoeing is a very ancient practice, and William the Conqueror introduced horseshoes into England. Stirrups were, however, unknown to the ancients, who had posts erected on their roads to enable horsemen to mount.

Are Canadians Dishonest?

Canadians have been greatly astonished by the very small number of citizens who were honest enough to make their income tax returns for the year 1917. It is almost astounding to compare the figures given out in the House of Commons with those of the city of Toronto:—

Total number of people in Toronto who paid income tax to city on 1917 assessment, 31,867

Total number of people in Canada who paid tax to Dominion on 1917 incomes 31,310

Municipal exemptions—$500 for single men, and $1,500 for married men.

Dominion exemptions (1917-18) $1,500 for single men, and $3,000 for married men.

The figures given above show that more people in Toronto paid incomes taxes to the city than the number in the whole of the Dominion who paid Federal income taxes.

The comparison is all the more startling when it is remembered that thousands of people who have to pay to the Government are exempt from municipal taxation on their incomes. For instance, rents from real estate, profits from industries and business places and dividends from shares are exempt from municipal taxes, but are taxed by the Government.

Toronto officials are of the opinion that if the city could levy taxes on the same incomes that the government collects a tax from, and to the extent of the same percentage, the total income tax paid to the city by residents of Toronto would almost equal, if it did not equal, the total that was paid to the Dominion by individuals throughout the whole of Canada.

CHICAGO FOLLOWS LONDON'S LEAD, OLD CLOTHES SOCIETY ORGANIZED

DEPARTMENTS OF MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT FORM CHAPTERS, WITH OBJECT OF GLORIFYING IN THE WEARING OF SHINY PATCHED CLOTHES.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—The Chicago Old Clothes' Society was organized by clerks in the City Hall here to-day with "chaters" in each of the principal departments of the municipal government. The object is to glorify the wearing of patches, frayed or shiny suits, soft collars, re-soled shoes and revived neckties as a means of combatting the high cost of living. The society is said to have had its inception in despatches from London relating the perturbation of fashionable English tailors over the growth of "old clothes' leagues" in the British metropolis.

Clever, isn't it?

No one thought it possible to design a cuff that would fold as neat and flat when turned in as when turned out.

But it has been done.

Now when the cuff of your W. G. & R. shirt gets soiled, you turn the other side of the Double Wear Cuff. This enables a man to wear his shirt twice as long before sending it to the laundry. It cuts your laundry bills on shirts clean in two.

It adds months to the life of your shirt, because everyone knows that laundering a shirt is harder on it than wearing it.

And remember:—

These shirts cost no more than good shirts should.

NOW IS THE TIME of the year when it is necessary to start fires in the furnace and range, the same to be kept up for the next six months, day and night, whether you are on hand to look after them or not. It is important to see that everything is kept in good condition to avoid accidents which may occur, and also more important to see that your fire insurance is in force and in a good company. Do not delay to get your policy made out and in your possession. You never know when or where a fire is going to break out. Be prepared for it at all times even if it never happens. The cost of maintaining a good policy is very small if you let us write it. But your protection will be perfect, and your loss, should one occur, promptly settled. ANDREW CARNEGIE MADE A FORTUNE OF MILLIONS, THEN HE SPENT IT FREELY

ANDREW CARNEGIE, Laird of Skibo, is dead, and the world will wait with interest to see whether he fulfilled his implied promise when he made the famous assertion that it was a crime for a man to die rich. One does not need to see his probated will to know that he died much poorer than he might, had his ambition been to leave great riches for those who came after him. It has been estimated that in his time he gave away $350,000,000, which is far more than any other man ever disbursed in his lifetime unless an exception is made of John D. Rockefeller, who certainly has given away hundreds of millions. Mr. Carnegie's chief benefices were in the form of libraries. He had an almost childlike confidence in the wonder-working powers of reading, and attributed much of his own success to a library that was placed at his disposal when he was a young man with his foot on the first rung of the ladder.

He was a practical sympathiser with college professors and established a great trust fund whereby American and Canadian professors after having served a certain number of years and reached a certain age might retire and draw a pension for life from the Carnegie endowment. It is interesting to recall that when President Wilson retired as the head of Princeton to become Governor of New Jersey he applied to the Carnegie trustees for an allowance from the fund, and put up a strong argument why he should participate in it. The trustees, however, refused his request, on the ground that he was about to draw a large salary as governor of the state. This action on the part of Mr. Wilson was gravely censured at the time, as it was felt that as Governor of New Jersey he should be independent of any private citizen.

Andrew Carnegie was born at Dunfermline, Scotland, and went to the United States as a boy with his father. The Carnegie family settled near Pittsburg, and Andrew's first job was as bobbin boy in a mill, working from daylight to dark for $1 a week. At fourteen he was earning $2.50 a week as errand boy in the offices of the Ohio Telegraph Co. at Pittsburg, and was the main support of his family. When the Pennsylvania Railroad was completed to Pennsylvania he took a position with Thomas A. Scott, the superintendent, and received $25 a month. He remained with the railroad for several years, displaying great industry and keenness. It is said that he originated the system of running trains by telegraphic signals between stations, thus ensuring the maximum of safety with greater speed. When Mr. Scott was elected vice-president of the road, Carnegie succeeded him as superintendent of the Pittsburg division. By this time he had acquired a little capital, for he was drawing a good salary, and on Mr. Scott's advice had mortgaged his home for almost its full amount in order to buy ten shares of the Adams Express Co.'s stock.

He had another stroke of fortune when he became interested in the inventor of a sleeping car, introduced him to Mr. Scott and later on helped organize the company. It was the profits from this enterprise that laid the foundations of his fortune. Shortly afterward, with two friends, he bought a farm, on which oil had been found, for $40,000. In one year the dividends amounted to a million dollars, and the company's stock was worth $5,000,000. Carnegie was now a capitalist. He organized the Keystone Bridge Co., for he foresaw the day when iron and steel bridges would be universally used by railroads, and his company built the first great iron railroad bridges in the country. From his observations in England he concluded that steel would take the place of iron as rails, and returned to introduce the Bessemer process in the several mills that he had acquired. By the end of 1888, he controlled eight great steel rail and bridge mills, the largest of them being the Homestead steel works. These were later consolidated into the Carnegie Steel Co., with a capital of $90,000,000, and eventually became the United States Steel Trust.

When the trust was organized, Carnegie sold out his interests for $300,000,000 in steel bonds, leaving to his former partners, numbering some forty, the preferred and common stock. Having sold out, Mr. Carnegie devoted his remaining years to his philanthropies and philosophisings. Though a Scotchman by birth, he became an American citizen when his father was naturalized, and took great glory in his adopted country.

An Added Grace.

M. Anatole France delivered all the instalments of a story at once to a newspaper before going on a holiday, relates the Liverpool Post. Returning to Paris and looking up the files of the journal, he was amazed to find that by some misadventure the instalments had been reversed and the story printed backwards! "Well, it made no difference," said the editor; "nobody noticed anything wrong and it made the story no less charming."

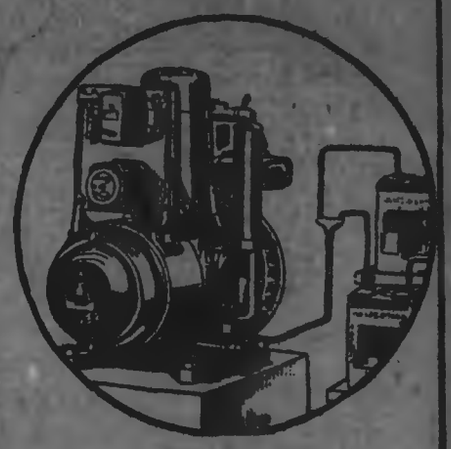
A Business Proposition for Farmers

WE want you to size up Delco-Light as you would a new farm hand before you hired him.

Will Delco-Light do a good day's work on the farm every day? Will it cost much to keep? Will it earn money for you? Will you get along pleasantly with it?

Over 75,000 Delco-Light users have answered these questions for themselves and for you.

Delco-Light gives them all the electric light and power they need.



As a result—

They do chores before daylight or after dark, because house and barns are well lighted.

They have stopped working small machines by hand—milking machine, churn, separator, grind-stone, washing machine, fanning mill, water-pump. They have running water wherever it is needed. They no longer hamper themselves with a lamp or lantern while working. There are no lamps to clean and fill. The ironing is done by electricity.

All this means time saved for every member of the farm family. It means more time spent at money-making work. On some farms it means doing away with hired help.

And the money now spent for coal oil will operate Delco-Light. Four times as much light from a gallon of coal oil is the record of Delco-Light over oil lamps. A few cents a day for all the electric light and power you can use.

Where there is a boy on the farm he looks after Delco-Light. A few minutes each week is all the attention it needs. Note these exclusive features of Delco-Light construction. They insure care-free, long-lasting service for you.

It is direct-connected. There are no belts to slip, break or be replaced.

It is self-cranking. Pressing down on a lever starts the engine and it stops automatically when the batteries are charged.

It is air-cooled. There is no water to carry, to freeze, or to boil away.

There is only one place to put oil. There are no grease cups.

A simple mixing valve regulates the fuel supply. There is no complicated carburetor.

Ball and roller bearings cut down friction and increase efficiency.

Thick-plate batteries are long lasting.

You can see that on every point Delco-Light is a good business proposition—that it pays for itself. It does a lot of work for you. It saves you time. It gives you time for money-making work. It costs little to operate. It is easy to look after.

BESIDE ALL THIS, Delco-Light gives you the wonderful comfort and pleasure of electric light in the home. Floods of clear, bright light at the pressing of a button. No matches; no danger. Lots of light. Pleasant evenings; happy mother and children. You can't know the untold benefits of electricity until you try it.

Delco-Light users know all these things. They have written us letters telling us. We quote from some of these letters. We have printed some of them in a little folder. Illustrated with photographs. We want you to get this book and read it. It will open your eyes to the possibilities for greater profit and greater comfort on the farm. Write your nearest distributor for a free copy.

(a) DELCO-LIGHT has made it possible for us to do without one man, whose wages and keep amounted to $50.00—he would cost us more now.

By operating the above mentioned appliances Mrs. Peck has been so relieved from her ordinary household duties that she is able to spend a great deal of her time helping to care for the milk, and we are now able to do all of our own work, which has solved the hired help problem for us, and securing help nowadays is the farmers' greatest problem.

(b) Delco-Light saves us every day about one hour doing the chores around the farm—this would mean for my son and I about 730 hours a year at 30c. per hour, which is, figuring very low, about $219.00 saved.

(c) The time and labor saved every week over the old way is as follows:

Cream Separator	6	hours
Washing Machine	5	"
Flat-iron	2	"
Pumping water	6	"
Vacuum Cleaner	4	"
Power Stand on Fan Mill and various things	2	"
Total	25	" per week

(d) I save about 2 hours a week on the washing, and 7 hours a week on separating. It saves one man about 4 hours to clip my team. On churning it saves my wife 3 hours a week. It saves about 30 minutes on grinding our sausage per hundred pounds.

(e) We figure that it has saved us in way of labor for pumping and milking not less than $1,200.00 during the two years. The plant requires very little attention and only about $2.00 per month for fuel. We could almost afford to buy a new one each year and still be ahead on labor and satisfaction, aside from the advantages of having the lights, of which we have 50 in the house and barns.

(f) I light my residence, a house of fourteen rooms and one of five, my garage, two barns and a workshop. I operate an automatic water pump, maintaining a pressure of 40 pounds for the entire water supply of the place, including hose for watering the garden. We have a 3-horse power Delco-Light Power Stand, which is used for churning and working the butter, turning the grindstone and running the washing machine. I expect to attach it later to the cream separator.

(g) This plant is paying for itself in several different ways. The fuel saving alone amounts to about $460.00 per year, as follows:

Where we formerly used 55 gallons of gasoline per week, at 25c. per gallon ($15.75) to operate the milking machine and pump alone, we now use 35 gallons of kerosene per week at 14c. per gallon ($4.90), which is a net saving of $8.85 per week, or $460.20 per year.

Also, in addition to this, we are lighting four houses, horse barn and cow barn and doing the washing and ironing.

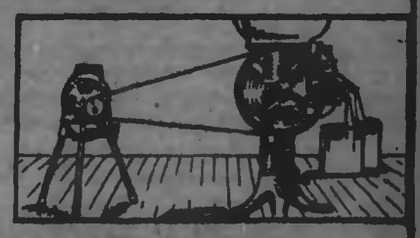
Another instance of saving is that we save the time of one man (4 hours a day) handling lanterns alone in our cow barn. We figure this a saving of 30c. per hour, making $1.20 per day, $36.00 per month, or $432.00 per year.

(h) "I consider my purchase of a Delco-Light plant one of the best improvements I have made on my farm."

DUNCAN MARSHALL,
Minister of Agriculture, Alberta, Canada

(i) The plant has not given us a bit of trouble, there had been no repairs to date and the operating cost has been less than $2.00 per month.

(j) Any child can run it and it beats any of your coal-oil lamps for light and safety.



Before acquiring a Delco-Light I could not rest good at night for fear of children lighting a match and thereby possibly setting fire to something. Now I sleep like a log because all that is necessary for the children to do is to press the button and the light is there, and a most excellent light at that. It is much cheaper than Coal-oil and no danger of upsetting a lamp.

ARMENIA ALSO STARVING.

Reports received from Armenia during the last week by Cleveland H. Dodge, Treasurer of Near East Relief, place the number of destitute Armenians who will require assistance until the harvest of next year at 800,000. One of these reports which was in the form of a cablegram from Col. William N. Haskell, Joint High Commissioner for Armenia, and representatives there of Near East Relief, estimated that the minimum relief requirements would amount to 7,000 tons of flour monthly until the harvest of 1920, in addition to one full cargo for the relief of 150,000 children for three months.

AVENUE OF TREES ALONG THE CANAL EMPHASIZE NEGLECT OF CITY STREETS

An impressive example of the beautifying effect of trees in an otherwise bare and uninteresting landscape is offered to the view from the upper platform of the Lift Lock. An avenue of Carolina poplars extending to the C. P. R. bridge, lines the waterway on either side in parallel rows. On the north side of the Lock they reach as far as the Norwood Road bridge. Touched by the frosts to a dull rusty gold the trees pace the entire distance in regular intervals, merging their foliage into high hedges of autumn splendour. They sharply define the uniform course and lend to the scene a touch of nature, spoiled somewhat by the severe and limited art of the planter, that delights the eye of the beholder, and insinuates the suggestion that similar efforts on the city streets would work a wonderful transformation in Peterboro.

Some one who appreciated the possibilities of garbing the plain, unattractive banks, of filling the empty spaces in the prospect, deserves the gratitude of those visitors who respond to the scenic appeal. Each year should bring improvement, although the trees even now are approaching maturity, with a fullness of foliage that makes a delightful picture from spring, when the birds appear, until November's winds and rains have stripped the branches.

Many of Peterboro's streets are well lined with trees, but it is a regretable fact that, within recent years, there has been no definite policy of planting new streets and of filling the too numerous gaps that are becoming conspicuous elsewhere. Perhaps a Labour Council that has not expended its enthusiasm in fruitless "city beautiful" programmes may recognize their opportunity and undertake to correct the obvious results of too many years of indifference to a simple and inexpensive scheme that would yield a welcome legacy to the next generation. It is too late to begin the work this year, and the suggestion will probably be ignored, but some committee of the Council could prepare to launch a modest effort next spring by securing the information that would serve as a guide and an inspiration for a New Year's civic resolution.

GROCERY MARKET

The feature of the grocery markets this week is the arrival of new dried fruits and southern rices. New seedless raisins are selling slightly easier than the old crop. A shipment of evaporated peaches also arrived this week. New rice of splendid quality is selling at 16 cents. On the whole however grocery commodities are steady and strong this week and teas and coffees continue very firm.

Prices of groceries are for the most part steady this week, changes being very few in number. The receipt of new California raisins has resulted in slightly easier quotations on the new crop as compared with the prices old crop raisins were bringing. New southern rice is also for sale on the market this week. The rice is of very fine quality and the figure at which it is selling is fairly reasonable, considering the higher quotations that have been ruling on top quality rice. News of damage to the rice crop by heavy rains, however, is likely to influence prices to a stronger level, as no doubt supplies for this market will be curtailed. New apricots and prunes from California have not yet arrived, but a car of dried peaches reached Toronto dealers this week. Prices on all these fruits are likely to be high and considerably above the opening prices of a year ago. The sugar situation is still acute and supplies are in very limited quantities. Some of the refiners and wholesalers express the opinion that there will not be no-mal supplies of sugar until after the new year. There is an extremely heavy demand for sugar just now. Prices are likely to remain at present high levels as quotations on raws are very strong. The movement of new canned goods to the retail trade is very active. Prices are strong at the opening figures. Rolled Oats in bulk are offered at a lower figure this week, $4.90 being the quotation on bags of 90 lbs. No changes are reported on package lines. Crisco has advanced another 20c. the price for ones and threes being $12.65, and for fours and sixes $12.50. Cigarettes also show new advances this week, two well known lines advancing to $14 per thousand, another kind selling at $12.50 a thousand. Teas and coffees are very strong, with practically no changes in quotations as compared with a week ago. Spices, too, are very strong and in active demand.

In produce lines fresh meats and provisions still rule at the easier prices inaugurated a fortnight ago. In fact in some instances slightly lower figures prevail. Cheese, eggs and butter are stronger, largely because of increased demand. There is a good demand for fish at steady prices and the receipts of poultry are fairly heavy. Ontario potatoes are offered slightly lower this week at from $1.75 to $1.85 per bag.

The election has thrown the government out of power and Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Commission, has called a meeting of the Hydro Commissioners next Tuesday to find out where they stand. Mr. G. N. BANQUET FOR RETURNED MEN OF ST. ANDREW'S

WILL BE THE MEANS OF GETTING THE CONGREGATION TOGETHER FOR SOCIAL EVENING.

The most enjoyable and most successful banquet held by any church organizations of the city, are credited to the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. The Young Ladies' Mission Band, together with the newly formed Young Men's Guild are undertaking the active work in connection with the banquet to the returned men of the church on Tuesday, Nov. 4th.

Like every other congregation in the city a number of men went overseas from St. Andrew's who were practically strangers to a great many in the church and the banquet is being arranged for the purpose of a reception to the men, and a general social evening, so that the congregation will be better acquainted with themselves and the work of St. Andrew's.

Tickets are now on sale and will be reserved for members of St. Andrew's all next week, after that they will be open to the public, and if any of St. Andrew's people are disappointed it is through no fault of the committee.

Tickets are limited to 300 and are 50c each. Telephone your reservation to Miss Morrison at the Royal Bank, or W. A. Richardson, the Peterboro Canoe Co.

Arrangements are being made for an out of town after dinner speaker of prominence.

FRANCE LOST 27 WARSHIPS DURING THE WAR.

PARIS, Oct. 24. — Twenty-seven war vessels were lost by France in the course of the war. This is shown by an Order of the Day issued by Georges Leygues, the Minister of Marine, citing this number of warcraft destroyed. Included in the list are three battleships, the Danton, the Gaulois, and the Suffren.

The Danton, of [illegible] tons, was sunk by a German submarine in the Mediterranean on 19th March, 1917, with the loss of 296 men. The Gaulois, of 11,000 tons, which aided in the Dardanelles bombardment, in the course of which she was damaged, but afterwards repaired, was likewise torpedoed in the Mediterranean by a German U-boat on 27th December, 1916. The Suffren, of 12,500 tons, another of the French fleet at the Dardanelles, was lost with all on board in battle in December, 1916. The German Admiralty announced that she had been torpedoed and sunk.

ARTHUR MEIGHEN SEES LITTLE HOPE FOR SUCCESS IN THE U. F. MOVEMENT

ADDRESSES A MEETING OF THE ELECTORS LAST EVENING IN EFFORT TO SAVE THE RIDING.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WOODSTOCK, N.B., Oct. 25. — The United Farmers' political movement in Canada is "an endeavour to stir up class against class and disseminate selfish unrest and dissatisfaction at a time when a united effort of the people of the Dominion is most essential to the future prosperity of the country," in the eyes of the government of Canada. Thus it was characterized by Hon. Arthur Meighen, Minister of the Interior at the Hayden Gibson theatre last night in the first public pronouncement that has been made by a member of the Federal House since United Farmers succeeded in electing the largest number of candidates who were successful in the recent Provincial elections in the Province of Ontario. He was addressing an audience which almost completely filled the same auditorium which the United Farmers had held a meeting the previous evening in Carleton, Victoria by-election campaign in Western Canada. Hon. Mr. Meighen said the United Farmers had done a lot of good work which would be for the benefit of themselves and the country and there is an ample sphere for them to do good in their co-operative work just as labour had its sphere of endeavour, but he did not believe Canada should have occupational politics. "If there is to be class politics," asked the Minister of the Interior, "where is it going to end?"

If there was to be a political party of farmers it would be not unnatural for the rest of the country to combine as a party against the farmers, and asked his audience to consider whether that would be in the best interests of Canada. Boldly and logically Hon. Mr. Meighen placed the cold facts before the people of the united counties and unhesitatingly declared that it was in the interests of the country not to combine occupations in political parties, but the policies of the political parties of the country should be broad enough for everybody. The United Farmers' Political Party, like everything else, is not built upon logical foundation and cannot last, he told his audience, while a policy that does not appeal to every occupation and class is not doing enough for this country.

THE GALEDONIANS HELD A MEETING

MUSICAL PROGRAMME PROVIDED— WILL HOLD A BANQUET

Last evening, at a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Caledonian Club, held in the Woodmen of the World Hall, arrangements were completed for the big banquet, dance, and card party to be tendered to the returned Scottish veterans by the club, and the date was set for Friday evening next (Hallowe'en).

It was decided to place tickets for such of the veterans as wished to attend the banquet with Mr. John A. Smith, 216 Charlotte Street, and with Mr. Ed. Hardie, 457 Cedar Street.

Mr. Alex. Gibson will be in charge of the evening's arrangements.

New Members.

The enthusiasm of the club is increasing with the growing membership, and last evening 18 members, prominent men of the city, were admitted to membership.

Musical Programme.

Last evening a splendid informal programme of music was presented upon the completion of the routine business, and solos rendered by Messrs. John Moyes, H. F. Taylor, Robert Hendry, and Strovan Leith.

Mr. Ed. Hardie, president of the club, who was in charge of the meeting, spoke briefly on the club's history.

In 1641, on the 23rd of October, the Catholics in Ireland arose, under the leadership of Phelim O'Neil, and massacred 4000 Protestants—men, women and children.

MISUNDERSTOOD

(Appended is the fifth chapter of "Misunderstood," written by Evangelist H. D. Kennedy of this city. Three editions of this book have been issued, and the work has been copyrighted. The publisher is William Briggs, of Toronto.)

CHAPTER V.

True Kingship.

A man is only as strong as he is when alone. What he can do then is the test of his strength. We cannot see the grains of sand in the flowing stream, but dip out a glassful and let it stand and soon the sand will be seen at the bottom. A man's weaknesses are not discovered during his hour of great achievement, but during his hour of loneliness. We cannot measure Elijah on Carmel, inspired by the mighty hosts surrounding him; we must measure him under the juniper tree. We cannot measure David before Goliath, with the magnetic power of two armies on him; we must measure him in the cave when he cried, "There is but a step betwixt me and death." We cannot measure Napoleon at the head of his "Imperial Guard"; we must measure him at St. Helena.

But when we measure Jesus in the hour of triumphal entry into Jerusalem, and in the hour of His deepest loneliness, we find him ever the same—always a King. He was a King when He withstood Satan in the wilderness; He was a King when he overthrew the tables of the money-changers; He was a King when His would-be captors fell prostrate before Him; He was a King even when, girt with a towel, He washed the feet of His disciples.

He would teach a world how a king should rule. The gift of the Holy Ghost at His baptism was given to Him "without measure," and by this power must His work be done. True He was divine and the Father that dwelt in Him did the works, wrought the miracles by Him to convince the world that He indeed was the Son of the Highest and the long-looked-for Redeemer. But never once was that power used for a selfish purpose or to relieve a pain of His own. Even on the cross He would take no vinegar. He would drink His Father's cup and not let one drop trickle down the side untasted.

He had a purpose in living and a definite plan in his life. Nothing could tempt Him from it. He resented all interference, whether coming from His enemies, His kinsfolk, or His disciple Peter. How often we hear Him say, "Mine hour is not yet come." His eye was on the goal, where it remained till He cried, "It is finished." Even those who understood Him best but faintly comprehended the true meaning of His mission. The Pharisee failed to see why a great Teacher should choose fishermen for His disciples and mingle constantly with the poor and the outcast; or how a Jew could break the Sabbath day and eat with unwashed hands. The seventy disappointed, leave Him. His brethren could not understand Him. One day they undertook to advise Him. "Depart hence and go into Judea that Thy disciples also may see the works that Thou doest. For there is none that doeth anything in secret, and he himself seeketh to be known openly." If Thou doest these things, show Thyself to the world." They could not see how He could ever become King by keeping so quiet about the miracles He did. One day His own family thought he was "beside Himself," and feared their home would be disgraced. The mob heard Him say He was a King and marvelled that He would never allow Himself to be placed on the throne. His own disciples were continually standing in His way, and once even to Peter He had to say, "Get thee behind me, Satan," and that, too, right after that disciple's bold confession, "Thou art the Christ."

"What would Jesus do?" Well, it would be hard to say, for no one knew when He was here what He would do. He always seemed to do the thing they thought He would not. How often His cleverest enemies turned away and marvelled at what He said and did! Even His disciples never knew what to expect. They wondered at Him talking with a Samaritan woman. There is always a power in doing the unexpected. In the contest it will never do to let our opponent know what we will do. David killed the giant with sling and stone, but never tried it again; Samson never tried the jawbone a second time; the ram's horns of Joshua worked once because never heard in Canaan before; Gideon used his lambs and pitchers, but once; and Shamgar never tried his ox-goad again. The Pharisees were bound to stay by the old things and make, if they could, the form of church service stereotyped. But Christ never conducted two meetings the same way. With Him God was everywhere present: on the mountain, by the seashore, in the desert, or on the street; it mattered not to Him. The more formalism there is about a church service the less power—"Where the spirit of the Lord is there is liberty."

Christ never talked to two individuals in the same way. To Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews, He said, "Ye must be born again." But of the woman at the well He asked a drink. Formality never controlled an action of His. His passion was love. He loved this woman, and began His conversation with her where she could begin, and before He got through preached the new birth to her as truly as He did to Nicodemus. To the rich young ruler He said, "Go sell all you have and give to the poor." But to the disciples He said, "Except ye become as little children ye shall not enter the kingdom." This to them must be the new birth: they must pass through the door of humility, while the rich young ruler must enter by unselfishness and kindness. His preaching was not like that of any other man. In the Sermon on the Mount He said a great many practical things that touched men's hearts, and consciences, and lives, and all who heard were astonished at His sayings; "He taught as one having authority."

He may have been educated by the rabbis, and yet His teachings seem not to clash with all others of His time. "He was like a palm tree growing in the desert." He grew from within. He handled Moses and the prophets with a free hand. For four thousand years God had been speaking to men through patriarch, priest, and prophet; but when Jesus came He taught in its perfection what they had taught but in the germ. And even John, the greatest of them all, faded before Him like teh morning star before the rising sun.

He knew what was in in man, both good and bad, and never committed Himself to anyone. He could unroof the hearts of the Pharisees and lay bare their darling sins, yet never become entangled in their question. He was always master of Himself. He was a King. He explained no apparent inconsistency. Only a weakling is continually prefacing every act with an apology. But He dared to say, "I do always those things that pleaseth my Father." "Which of you convinceth Me of sin?" In God's sight He knew His life was in harmony with the Divine plan and will. So He battled on, knowing that what he taught was best for man, and that the truth He lived was eternal. The world might reject Him, men might kill Him, still He knew the truth He lived and taught would live on, and He believed it would some day be accepted by the world. "He trod the winepress alone, and of the people there were none with Him."

Yes, He was really alone, for in a world of selfishness and sin He lived a life of purity and love. None had done it, none were doing it. But He believed that love would redeem the race. Man to Him, even wrecked and ruined by the fall, was still priceless. No matter under what disease or deformity the pearl was hidden, His eyes of love saw it. He was the man that saw the field wherein there was a treasure, a pearl of great price. The field was the world; the treasure, the pearl was lost man, and "He came to seek and to save that which was lost," and for the joy thereof He sold all He had and purchased the field. "For the joy that was set before Him He endured the cross, despising the shame." "He was rich, yet for our sakes He became poor," and "made Himself of no reputation" that He might redeem the field, and with His own blood purchase the treasure, the pearl of great price, and bring the soul of man back into harmony with God, that man through His poverty might be rich. None saw the pearl but Himself. Even the angels desired to look into the things He was doing. In Zaccheus He sees a son of Abraham. And in the woman of Samaria He sees after all a woman, though His disciples would have passed her by, for they marvelled that He would speak with her. Yet He poured into her soul the living water, and she became a bold messenger for His kingdom.

Let me repeat once again to every dreamer—believe in God, in yourself, and in your mission, whether anyone else does or not. Scientists tell us that every atom in the universe, no matter how dense the substance, is surrounded by an atmosphere of its own. And is it not also true as regards yourself? Are there not a thousand and one things about your own inner life that no one can ever know? After all, must not "every man bear his own burden?" Even your most intimate friend cannot know all. Yes, the battlefields of the soul—the encounters, the conflicts, the victories, the defeats, that take place there, are witnessed by no eye but your own. You must fight on alone. If you do not believe this now you will when you come to the end, when your soul passes down through the chilly Jordan to the border of the eternal world. The real life within you will then be revealed. If righteous it will shine forth like Christ on Tabor, but if unrighteous you will tremble like a Belshazzar. All human faces will vanish; your nearest friend cannot avail. And then, if underneath you are not the "Everlasting arms," you will tread your winepress alone; and of the people there will be none with you. You will see them if never before, that you are alone, therefore, learn now that you are alone; alone you must enter your wilderness of temptation; alone you must pass through your Gethsemane; alone you must climb your Calvary. Yes, you must, indeed, tread your winepress alone, as did your Redeemer. Was He not terribly alone on that last night, when, forsaken by every friend He stood a prisoner in Pilate's judgment hall accused of sedition and blasphemy? But was He not then in truth, in majestic dignity, a king confident in God, in Himself, and in His mission?

Week-Old Corns

Should Be Unthinkable

These positive facts are now known to millions.

The pain of a corn can be instantly stopped, and forever.

The corn itself can be ended completely, and usually in two days.

The method is scientific. It consists of attaching a Blue-jay plaster, forgetting the corn, and letting things take their course.

The results have been proved by experience.

They have been proved to so many people that corns are now comparatively uncommon.

Corn aches are needless.

Paring corns is folly.

Old-time harsh and messy treatments have no place today.

You will know these facts, and quickly, if you'll try a Blue-jay on one corn. Do it tonight, and the whole corn question will settle itself forever.

WANT RECOUNT REFERENDUM BALLOTS

The following letter is addressed to I. B. Lucas:

October 23rd, 1919.

Honorable I. B. Lucas, K.C., ney-General,

Parliament Buildings,

TORONTO.

Dear Sir,—Referring to the conference that Mr. Bill of the Citizens' Liberty League and I had to-day with you and Mr. A. M. Dymond, K.C., I beg to point out again to you the questions discussed at our interview. Under the Order-in-Council of October 24th, 1919, the Citizens' Liberty League was appointed the representative of the affirmative side of the questions being voted upon under the Referendum Act, and being thus placed in the position of a candidate we have been furnished by the Deputy Returning Officers with a certificate from each Polling Sub-division or Polling Place in the Province showing what ballots were cast for the affirmative side and what ballots were cast for the negative side, and giving also the number of ballots rejected at each Polling Sub-division or Polling Place. This was not done, except in a few instances, but as was called to your attention to-day, the returns received were most complete. It is impossible to say from them what number of persons voted on the affirmative, and what number on the negative.

The form furnished by the Government to the Returning Officers and by the Returning Officers to the Deputy Returning Officers has provision in two columns for filling in the number of votes cast. At the top of the one column is the word "for" and at the top of the other the word "against," and in the certificate received on the Government form from the Deputy Returning Officer for Polling Place 42A, South-west Toronto, the total would appear to be on Question 1, 88 "for" and 146 "against," and so on with reference to the other three questions asked under the Referendum. It is impossible to say what "for" means, or what "against" means, and further we would draw attention to the fact that the form under the Election Act has not in it any such words.

It has come to the knowledge of the Citizens' Liberty League, as we stated to you to-day, that shortly prior to October 20th telegrams were sent by the Government to Returning Officers in the Province intimating that this Form 21 was incorrect in that word "yes" should be in the place of the word "for" and the word "no" in the place of the word "against" where they appear in the form supplied. Apparently from information obtained the Deputy Returning Officers were not aware in least in some instances that any error existed in the Form 21 and proceeded to the performance of the duties of making their returns of voting in their Polling Sub-divisions or Polling Places with the result that errors undoubtedly have taken place in the computation of the votes in many of the Polling Sub-divisions and Polling Places throughout the entire Province, and it is impossible now to say what was the vote on the different questions asked under the Referendum Act. The information received indicates that the error was discovered too late to possibly advise all Deputy Returning Officers.

The Government stated that they desired to have a true mandate from the electors on the different questions asked, and the Citizens' Liberty League, irrespective of other considerations, feels that the returns made by the Deputy Returning Officers of the votes in the Polling Sub-divisions and Polling Places may not be at all the correct vote given on the different questions asked, and that the only possible way to rectify the error made in the form, is to have a recount of the votes in each and every Polling Sub-division and Polling Place throughout the entire Province. The Citizens' Liberty League, therefore, considers that the only proper action for the Government to take is to have a recount of the ballots in each and every Polling Place throughout the Province.

Your very truly,

T. L. MONAHAN,

Solicitor for the Citizens' Liberty League.

Don't forget to sew parsley seed in the kitchen window box to have a supply all winter.

STOCK MARKETS

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, N.Y., Oct. 25.—Leading issues with the exception of General Motors, were lower at the stock market opening to-day. General Motors opened at 231 1-2, up 1. U. S. Steel opened at 103 3-8, off 5-8, Retail Stores at 116 1-2, off 3-4. American Petroleum at 131 14, off 1 1-4, Bethlehem B at 106, off 5-8, Baldwin at 147, off 1 3-4, Studebaker at 138 1-2, off 1-4; New Haven at 34, off 1-2, Marine at 61 1-8, off 5-8; Central Leather at 106 3-4, off 1 1-8; American Tobacco 311 3-4, off 34.

Prices were lower during the first half hour, although at no time was the market really weak. Some motor stocks and oils registered the largest declines. Studebaker was off four points from the opening and Mexican Pet. sold below 280. Columbian Graphophone at 70 was off 5 from the opening. Gooderich led the tire stocks, above 80.

Tells How to Stop a Bad Cough

If you have a severe cough or chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with croup and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth). Pour this into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes 16 ounces of really, remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Bishop of the Mosquitoes.

It is not given to every one to bear the unique title of Bishop of the Mosquitoes. This distinction is enjoyed by the Rt. Rev. Edward Arthur Dunn of the Church of England Bishop of British Honduras — and incidentally bishop of the republics of Panama, Costa Rica, San Salvador, Guatemala and Spanish Honduras as well. "Bishop of about everything in that part of the world except the canal zone," as the bishop naively puts it.

But about the mosquitoes. They aren't of the insect variety—they're Indians—the Mosquito Indians, to be exact, says the New York Sun. They are real human beings and very, very heathen, as Bishop Dunn modestly admits. And they were the first heathens his Episcopal lordship had ever seriously encountered, according to his own statement.

"But," he went on, "they became very devout. They were offered lumber—piece lumber—which they had to bring forty miles in order to use. They didn't complain, but hauled it and dressed it and went to work on their little church. It was strictly a hand-made church. And it was as beautifully done as a piece of embroidery. They had an almost abnormal sense of reverence, too, for when the building was finished they locked it up tight and kept it that way until I got there to consecrate it. These Indians live in Bitapura, Nicaragua, and used to be under British protection. At one time they crowned a king of their own."

Calls "Jass" Dance Disease.

At the recent annual meeting of the Maidenhead Preventive and Rescue Association, Canon Drummond strongly condemned jazz dancing. He declared that people had lost their "sense of high respect for themselves" and that "mean, low entertainment appealed to them."

One of the most degrading symptoms of the present day, in the opinion of the canon, was shown in Maidenhead by the announcement that somebody's jazz band would play at certain dances. According to the report of his speech in the London Times, he said he had no personal experience of the art of jazz dancing, and only knew of it by what he read and heard; but it seemed to him to be a most degrading condition for any part of society to get into to encourage a dance so low, so demoralizing, and of such a low origin—the dance of low negroes in America, with every conceivable crude instrument, not to make music but to make a noise. It was the symptom of a very grave disease which was infesting the country, and which had something to do with creating more work for preventive and rescue associations.

PETERBORO FREE FROM INFLUENZA

THIS TIME LAST YEAR THE EPIDEMIC WAS RAGING.

That the city is remarkably free from sickness and everything is practically normal as regards the health of the citizens, is the statement of Dr. A. W. McPherson M.O. H., to-day. Peterboro, he continued, has been remarkably free from infectious diseases during the entire Summer and Fall with the exception of a few mild cases of small pox, which like diptheria has been unusually prevalent in this district during the past few months.

The number of cases in the Isolation Hospital at present is 6, five patients suffering from diptheria and one from scarlet fever. The health authorities state that this is a very low percentage for this time of year.

Weather Helpful.

The ideal weather conditions that have prevailed throughout September and since the beginning of the present month undoubtedly account for the absence of sickness in Paterboro.

This state of affairs is certainly most gratifying when one takes into account the fact that the influenza epidemic was raging at this time last year, and bringing death, sorrow and distress to so many homes.

The Doctor was unwilling to admit that weather conditions had anything to do with the epidemic of last year and said that there has not been any distinct cause discovered as yet. He said that while the weather is practically similar this year to that of last there has not been one single case of influenza reported to him so far. The disease, he emphatically stated, is reportable. Whooping cough and a number of sore throats have come to his notice lately.

A Comparison.

A distinct comparison between conditions this year and last may be made by a review of the press report for the same time in 1918. The situation as it then existed, is described in the following words:

"The epidemic of influenza is spreading and several deaths have occurred since last Saturday, due to pneumonia, which followed attacks of the disease. The physicians of the city have been simply rushed off their feet, attending to the heavy list of cases and all admit that instead of abating the number of cases are increasing steadily."

Churches Were Closed.

It will be remembered that the city authorities ordered the closing of all theatres and requested the pastors of the city churches to suspend all religious services with a view to checking the spread of the disease.

It was stated to-day, by physicians in a position to know, that the recurrent alarmist reports that there were a number of influenza cases in the city at the present time, are absolutely unwarranted.

NO ANNEXATION.

Australia is Opposed to Taking German Islands.

Public opinion in Australia as expressed by some of the newspapers of Sydney and Melbourne is represented as opposing the idea that Australia wants to annex the formerly German islands of the South Pacific. They point out that there has been a misapprehension in Paris and elsewhere as to the attitude of Australians on this point. For example, the Melbourne Age says:—

"An unhappy and untrue picture of Australia is being drawn by the Peace Conference. We are represented as demanding German territory as payment for our services in the war. A wrong impression may very well be due to misrepresentation of Australian opinion. Mr. Hughes (Premier) appears to have given the unfortunate impression that Australia wants to annex the Pacific islands. The only datum he can have is the resolution passed by both Houses of Parliament in November last, declaring that the captured German colonies must not be handed back to Germany, and that Australia should be consulted over their disposition. This is a very different thing from a claim for annexation. We want, in fact, to have as little responsibility for them as is consistent without safety. It would be a calamity if they were given to Australia as a gift. Australia is not in a position to manage an empire in the Pacific. We have already far more territory than we can populate and develop."

The Sydney Daily Telegraph also disavows any desire by Australia to "start a little empire" of her own. "What would have suited us best would have been the assumption of control in the Pacific by Britain herself," says the Telegraph. 'Or even America, if America had seen her way clear to stretch her idea of anti-imperial policy. Most Australians if they had been consulted would have preferred not to take them (the former German possession near Australia) at all if security could be obtained in any other way."

The Melbourne Argus declares that, since the whole Australian people were united in the determination that the islands should not go back to Germany, Australia cannot shirk the duty of accepting a mandate from the League of Nations but it adds that the "burden will be heavy, the responsibilities great, the cost severe and the return, except in security, problematical."

Power From Air.

The idea of getting power from the explosion of carburetted air is a very old one. In 1678 the Abbe Hautefeiuille and in 1680 Huyghens worked on a motor using a mixture of air and gas, powder for fuel. September 28, 1799, Philip Lebon, the discoverer of illuminating gas, got the first patent on a motor using a mixture of air and gas. Two years later he built his first apparatus and it bore a striking resemblance to the motors of the future. Except for a never explained dagger thrust which struck down Lebon one evening as he walked among the trees of the Champs Elysees, the roads of the world might have been rutted by motor cars and the skies greased by airplanes a century earlier.

The fifty choristers under the direction of Prof. Jones of Chicago rose tier upon tier in the extended choir loft and as the mighty waves of music swelled and faded with the professors' baton, the bright glisten of eyes and teeth, seemed to lend spirituality in purity and power. One moment the chorus faded to the lightness of an evening zephyr and the next, with that fine frenzy characteristic of the colored race, there pealed forth a mass of sound like the thunderous roll of mountainous waves in a diluvian storm.

Advises People to Cure Constipation Without Drugs; Suffered Ten Years, Well in Three Weeks by Internal Bathing.

Did you ever hear of a person being cured of chronic constipation with drugs? They relieve at the time some, but larger doses are usually necessary from time to time. Nature's own cure, just pure sterilized water, and administered with the J.B.L. Cascade, is the only scientific and permanent treatment. Don't force Nature wtih drugs. Bathe internally.

Mrs. A. McLeod, Middleboro', B. C., writes: "For ten years I suffered from constipation, and for the last year I became a wreck. I had awful pains in my back, severe headaches, indigestion and swollen limbs. I tried all kinds of medicine, and many doctors without permanent benefit. It was an act of Providence that I saw the J.B.L. Cascade advertised. The first time I used it I felt relieved, and in three weeks I was completely cured. My habits are now quite regular, and am in better health than I have been for years. I am very thankful to be doing my own work again."

The J.B.L. Cascade is the perfected invention of Dr. Chas. A. Tyrell of New York for internal bathing. It is now being shown and explained at Warne Drug Co.

Phone or ask them for free booklet all about it—or write Tyrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College St., Toronto.

Canadian Pacific Royal Train

The Canadian Pacific Royal Train Carrying the Prince of Wales Through Canada

The Prince of Wales will travel in Lord Shaughnessy's private car "Killarney", which the Chairman of the C. P. R. has placed at the Prince's disposal.

In addition to the "Killarney" the train is to have a second private car, the "Cromarty", belonging to Commander J. K. L. Ross. The "Cromarty" is finished in satinwood and fitted with every comfort imaginable. The remainder of the train consists of the compartment car "Empire", the dining car "Canada"; two sleeping cars the "Carnarvon" and the "Chester", and the car "Chinook", with two baggage cars at the head of the train.

The engine and several of the cars, notably the "Chinook", the compartment and baggage cars, have been completed for the occasion, but are specially interesting in that they are the first of a new series that have been adopted for the entire C. P. R. System, and are equipped with everything that is modern in railway carriage building. After this journey these cars will be drafted into the regular service.

During his visit to Canada the Prince of Wales will live on the train for about two months, making the "Killarney" his headquarters throughout the trip. The train is accordingly equipped with modern devices and conveniences, thus enabling the Prince and his suite to enjoy as nearly as possible the comforts of a stationary dwelling. Nothing has been overlooked from the handle set at the royal bedside to regulate the temperature of the stateroom, which is a standard appliance in Canadian Pacific equipment, to the telephone that brings him in touch with all parts of the train.

In order to distinguish it from all other cars on the line, the "Killarney" will bear the coat of arms of the Prince of Wales, having beneath it the inscription "Ich dien". The car is entered by means of a small observation platform at the rear, small yet large enough to accommodate several arm chairs from which the royal party will view the wonders of the Rockies or the fascinating wheat fields of the prairies. The first compartment is also devoted to observation, a compact little room fitted with a lounge, easy chairs, a table and electric fans. On rainy days or in cold weather the passing scenery may be viewed more pleasantly through the large windows on either side, than from the platform outside. A speed recorder adds interest to the constant enticement of the journey, while an air pressure gauge indicates the application of the brakes by the engineer.

Next to the observation compartment comes a section devoted to the Prince's secretary, after which one reaches the bedroom to be occupied by His Royal Highness in person. A rich simplicity characterizes this compartment, which is finished in white mahogany inlaid with a fine line of ebony outlining the panels. Built into the walls across the end is the bedstead, finished with little ornamentation in the white mahogany of the room. Over the bed may be pulled a roller curtain to protect the occupant from the dust and draughts of the ventilators in the ceiling. The door is a full length mirror and an oval glass is set above the dressing table. The fittings of the dressing table and toilet are brass in harmony with the woodwork and a large receptacle is screwed into the wall to hold a thermos bottle for hot or cold drinks during the night. Next to the royal bedroom is a second stateroom, with two berths similar to the first assigned to the secretary. Then in a niche in the wall is a shower bath of white tiles and porcelain.

The central portion of the car is devoted to the dining room which is tastefully decorated in royal blue. Beneath the little extension table is a heavy pile carpet of blue, with six chairs upholstered in tapestry to match. The curtains and even the drawers of the sideboard carry out the color scheme, for the silver table service reposes between divisions of blue tapestry velvet. Between the sideboard and the window is a secretaire with pens and paper ready for many social notes that will be imposed upon the Prince and his secretary. Above it is a miniature bookcase, just large enough for a few delightful volumes specially furnished, and all by Canadian authors.

With steel walls finished in imitation mahogany, a kitchenette, pantry, icebox, service counter, charcoal heater and chef's bedroom, have been fitted into limited space beyond the dining room.

The compartment car "Empire" is reminiscent of an English coach, for the seats are partitioned off and joined only by the narrow corridor that runs down the length of the car. At each end is a commodious drawingroom with a sofa in addition to the upper and lower berths. The color scheme of the compartment car is grey and green, the grey of the marbleized wall finish contrasting happily with the green of the heavy frisette plush upholstery. In each room is to be found an individual heating control.

The members of the Prince's immediate suite will occupy the "Killarney" and dine with him in the exclusive dining room laid for six. Six more can be accommodated in the "Cromarty", but a special car will be provided for the remainder of the party. The main dining car is a pleasant place where tables for four and tables for two are placed in the windows down each side of the car. The rich brown tones of the Cuban mahogany walls and ceilings combined with the green hangings and accentuated with inlaid lines of satinwood harmonize beautifully. The diner will accommodate thirty persons at a sitting.

The three remaining sleepers present only one feature of exceptional interest to the travelling public well acquainted with the details of the C. P. R. sleeping cars. Tucked away in a corner is a dispensary as shipshape as the doctor's office on a ship. A special chair has been arranged for the patient if such there be, and the showpiece of the little office is a patent light fixture with which the physician can examine the throat.

In one of the baggage cars the darkroom and workroom of the official photographer have been arranged. There are shower baths and sleeping compartments in the baggage cars too, and cold storage cupboards where the chef keeps his supplies. An auxiliary generator is also installed here, to provide electric light throughout the train if it is stationary for any length of time.

BELLEVILLE TEAM HERE FOR A GAME

WILL PLAY THE COLLEGIATE TEAM AT N'CHOLLS OVAL.

The Belleville High School Rugby team arrived in town this morning for their afternoon game with the local Collegiate team at Nicholl's Oval. Both teams are waiting expectantly and seem fairly evenly matched The Belleville team is the heavier of the two but the Collegiate boys have shown some fast team work in their practices and the game should be a close one.

The returning game will likely be played in Belleville soon.

Not Fish Stories

Some Strange Rainstorms That Are Historic.

Next time someone tells you of it's raining fish or frogs, don't laugh; the story may be true, says Popular Science. There is, for instance, record of a fish rain in 1666 that showered smelts all over Stranstead Parish in merry England.

At Baton Rouge in 1896, it rained ducks, catbirds and woodpeckers.

We pause right here to say that scientists explain these showers by the lifting power of the wind and the ancient principle that what goes up must come down; and you never can be sure what's up.

Getting down to 1917, John Lewis of Aberdale, Wales, reports: "I was startled by something falling all over me. On putting my hand down my neck, I was surprised to find they were little fish."

No less a person than Alexander von Humboldt writes of a downpour of fishes in the Andes which seemed to be aided and abetted by a very active volcano. The natives said they rather counted on fish showers to reduce the H. C. L., usually having several a season.

Singapore, as might be expected, holds the shower record, with a rain of 15-inch catfish, which the Chinese gathered up by the bucketful.

Nine native eye witnesses, urged by a canny Scot, made depositions before a magistrate attesting the truth of their tales of a shower in Bengal during which at least five kinds of fish fell from the heavens.

Boston, in the days of the "plug" hat, had what it called (being Boston) "a piscatorial deluge." But in Connecticut the same year it rained fish and ice together, which we call thoughtful.

Lessons in Scientific Complexion Renewing

Everyone has a beautiful skin underneath the one exposed to view. Bear that in mind and it will be easier to understand the correct principle in acquiring a lovely complexion. Nature is constantly shedding the top skin in flaky particles like dandruff, only much smaller in size. In abnormal conditions or in advancing years these particles are not shed as rapidly as in robust youth. The longer they remain the more soiled or faded they become—that's the immediate cause of a "bad complexion."

It has been discovered that ordinary mercolized wax, to be had at any drug store, will absorb these worn-out particles. The absorption, while hastening Nature's work, goes on gradually enough to cause no inconvenience. In a week or two the transformation is complete. The fresh, healthy-hued, youthful underskin is then wholly in evidence. You who are not satisfied with your complexions should get an ounce of mercolized wax and try this treatment. Use the wax nightly, like cold cream, washing it off mornings.

Sir HARRY LAUDER

Achieved Success as a Comedian First in Ireland

Strange to say, Harry Lauder achieved success as a comedian first in Ireland. As an amateur he had appeared before many audiences in Scotland, but it was not until he crossed the Irish Sea and made his debut in Belfast that he firmly established himself on the stage. His initial venture was a song entitled "Calaghan," a name that lent itself to punning. Who that remembers the Harry Lauder of the early days can forget the grotesque figure he cut when he sang:

Says I to Callaghan, you'll have to call again,
To Callaghan to call again, says I;
Says I to Callaghan, you'll have to call again
For you haven't got your m-o-n-e-y.

To say that the famous Scottish comedian gained recognition through his effective baritone voice, his remarkable sense of humor, his queer antics, or his clever dancing is to talk idly. No one of these would have sufficed, had he lacked the diligence and care with which he applied himself to every task confronting him. He is a finished artist, and as such never overlooks the smallest detail to produce effect, whether it be in the shake of the hand, the twist of the foot, the peculiar make-up, or the choice of song. He knows his audience in many cases better than it knows itself, and, when necessary, does not hesitate to tell it so. Let it ask for "Stop Yer Ticklin', Jock," "Tobermory," "I Love a Lassie" and some other familiar song in the same breath, and he will reply sharply: "You don't know what you want, so I'll just tell you a story," and he proceeds to do so. But if it is only a story he is relating he makes it his business to tell it perfectly. He takes his hearers into his confidence, whispers a secret about "Doughy the Baker," or the boy who, caught in the act of taking apples from a tree, declared that he was "only trying to stick on the apples that fell off," and leaves his listeners with the distinct impression that they have been admitted to the chamber of privacy. By such arts he commands attention.

And what versatility he shows when the occasion demands it! Let him sing "I love to be a sailor," and he brings to the stage a breath of the "briny deep"; let his depict "Doughy," and the Gallowgate is brought to view; hear him describe "The Wedding o' Lackie McGray," and the fun seems never ending. He catches the spirit of a gathering, seizes ridiculous situations, exaggerates them, and never spares himself to present them in the best possible way. Thus he maintains his position as the greatest Scottish comedian, and the first in his line to make himself a world figure.

Credit is due a man of his stamp. He never knew defeat, from the time he left Portobello to work in the flax mills of Arbroath, or to pick his way through hard coal, in the light of a cruise, to earn enough to start him on the road to fame as an entertainer. He has always plodded on, despite many obstacles, carried his banner above his head when the battle seemed against him, and held straight to his course until his aims were accomplished. During the war he labored, without ceasing, to arouse democracy to "carry on" to victory. From early morn till night he sang the praises of the British army, paid tribute to the "lads of other lands who were fighting for freedom," and gave first place to no one in his efforts to repair some of the loss to which his country, with others, was subjected. His work for incapacitated soldiers still continues. To afford them the means of earning a livelihood is his first object. For this and other services to his country he has been honored. For all he has done no honor is too high. Of all the honors he has won, perhaps he will cherish none more than that which King George has conferred upon him, which places him on the records as Sir Harry Lauder. — The Christian Science Monitor.

Victimized Punch.

Punch, which deserves at least the D.S.O. for the conspicuous sanity of its humor during the war, is the innocent victim, in its issue of April 23, of thievery. The verses "A Germless Eden," beginning "The antiseptic baby and the prophylactic pup," which Punch prints as original, were written by Arthur Guiterman, and first appeared in the Woman's Home Companion for July, 1906. They appear also in Mr. Guiterman's book, "The Laughing Muse," published by Harper's in 1915. These, for some reason, are the stalest verses we know of. They were offered to Puck in 1908 by A. Frances Walker, and their publication was stopped because some one happened to remember that they were not Mr. Walker's. But Walker sold them, in May, 1906, to the New York World. Then Rafter of Righteousness exposed the theft, but Mr. Walker told Mr. Pulitzer that he had written the verses, before July, 1906, for a newspaper in Sydney or Melbourne. The editor of this paper, in response to a cable from Mr. Pulitzer, said this was untrue. We wonder who the thief was who sold it to Punch.—New York Tribune.

The Royal Coachman.

The trouble when Queen Victoria first traveled by train (seventeen years after their institution in England), was not who should follow, but who should go before it. The chief royal coachman maintained that he must ride on the engine, as, though he could not drive the train, he ought to make a pretense of doing so. Finally it was decided that he should go on the pilot engine, which preceded the royal train. But the smuts from the engine played such havoc with his scarlet livery that the proud functionary abjured the honor afterward.

"BIFF, BING, BANG" A SNAPPY CLEVER SHOW

IS REPEATED TO-NIGHT

By all means, do not miss the chance you have to-night of seeing "Biff, Bing, Bang," the big revue of "The Dumbells" at the Grand, one of the brighest, snappiest, cleverest entertainments that has been seen in Peterborough in many moons. The Dumbells, as you should know, were the concert party of the 3rd Canadian division and are known to practically every Canadian soldier who went overseas. They have given their famous revue over five hundred times close behind the lines in France, and in addition gave forty performances in Brussells and played for a month in old London, two weeks of the engagement being at the Coliseum. The members of the company have averaged sixteen months' service in the trenches.

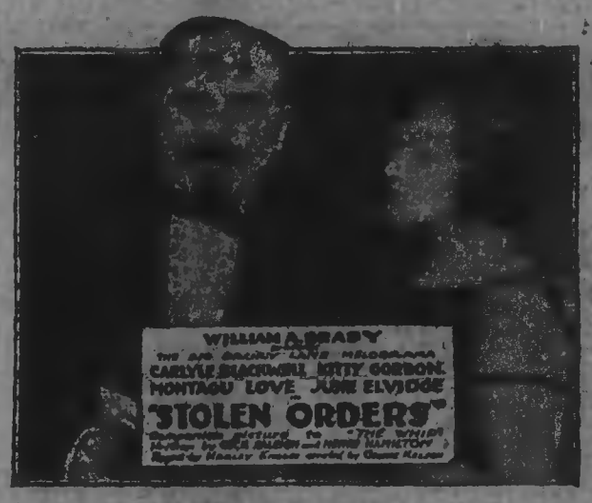
But the Dumbells do not depend upon their military record to carry their production through. Their programme is clever enough to stand by itself without the prestige of overseas service and the big audience who saw the production last night pronounced the offering as a winner from the opening chorus to the last curtain. With a wealth of good music, plenty of comedy, clever specialties, two funny skits, a performance that goes at top speed from overture to finale, "Bing, Bing, Bang" provides every accessory for a solid evening's entertainment and Capt. Plunkett and his associates are to be congratulated upthe unifrom excellence of the performance.

There were so many good things in the programme last night that it is almost impossible to attempt to pick out the gems. No mention of the Dumbells, however, would be complete without a reference to Messrs. Ross Hamilton and Allan Murray, who, as "Marjorie" and "Marie" give as clever an impersonation of girl roles as has been seen here. The make-up in each case was perfect and they got their song and dance numbers over most effectively. Al Plunkett scored heavily in several songs, notably in "Oh You Wild Women," which was sung with a breezy snap that was irresistible. Messrs. Langley and Tennant rendered the duet, "Watchman, What of the Night" in most pleasing style and both registered a triumph in their solos, the former with his "Floral Dance" song and the latter in the song "Shoes." Bert Newman's comic number, "A Lovely War," was most cleverly rendered, and was one of the hits of the evening. Ben Allen, in blackface, told some funny stories—on at the expense of the Rainbow Dovision that we won't tell because of those who will want to hear it for themselves to-night—and gave a negro sermon based on the subject of "Kit Inspection" that caused many a laugh. "I Said Goodbye," a duet by Messrs. Allen and Plunkett, was one of the most enjoyable numbers of the evening. The two comedy sketches, "Commandeered" and "The Morning After" were decidedly funny, and there were half a dozen other features up to the standard of those that have been mentioned, including a well-balanced quartette.

There are no dull moments in "Biff, Bing, Bang". The revue is a glittering success and the company will be heartily welcomed if they come back to Peterborough. Their present engagement culminates with a performance at the Grand to-night and there is sure to be a capacity audience.

FAMOUS STARS SEEN IN "STOLEN ORDERS"

Six famous stars —Kitty Gordon, Carlyle Blackwell, Montague Love, June Elvidge, George MacQuarrie and Madge Evans—all appear in William A. Brady's big picture success, "Stolen Orders," which comes to the Allen Theatre next Monday for two days only.



"Stolen Orders" is a big picture in every sense of the word. It is gripping drama and it is a spectacular treat. The last reel, in which a fight in the car of a dirigible baloon is staged, and in which the two combatants tumble into the ocean below, is one of the most thrilling things ever shown on the screen. The rescue of the girl by a hydro-aeroplane is another one of the many thrills with which "Stolen Orders" abounds.

Picture fans who remember Mr. Brady's big picture success, "The Whip," will be interested in knowing that in "Stolen Orders" Mr. Brady has created an even bigger production than the "Whip." This new picture has all the thrills and exciting drama of "The Whip," and it is filled with even more spectacular scenes.

LILY ELSIE SEEN IN "COMRADESHIP"

NOTED ENGLISH STAGE BEAUTY PLEASES IN EXCEPTIONAL PHOTOPLAY.

For a motion to present a complete prevention for Bolshevism without the word Bolshevism ever being mentioned through its entire length, is the achievement accomplished in "Comradeship," the British feature shown at the Allen Theatre last night, and to be repeated to-day for the last time.

The picture is based on a recent expression of King George in which His Majesty said: "I hope that the splendid spirit of comradeship on the battlefields will be kept alive in peace," and certainly this production has put the words of the Sovereign into practice and has shown some of the results of the great conflict.

"Comradeship" is a war story only to the extent that it shows the change in men and women that has come from these four years of trial before the light of victory shone, but it is essentially a story of after the war problems and after the war triumphs It is a picture that touches conditions that exist in every hamlet in the Dominion and though the actual events need to perhaps be altered to suit circumstances the story will come close home to all of us.

There are two love stories running through the picture, one that brings together two elements of English life, and another that pictures misguided womanhood and a care-free Britisher who is sure to delight all who see the offering to-night.

Some of the best known of English cinema players are in the cast, Lily Elsie, who has been called the most beautiful woman on the British stage, is featured, and others are Gerald Ames, Guy Newall, Peggy Carlisle, Teddy Arundell and Dallas Cairns.

Excavations.

With the passing of Mesopotamia out of Turkish control comes the opportunity to recover, so far as orderly and wisely planned excavations can do it, the history of the civilizations that once flourished there. An expedition is about to begin work which for the first time will make a complete chart of the country, locating every trace of ancient ruins in this land where all the architectural grandeur of cities, great and populous long before the Christian era, has gradually disappeared under the surface of the earth. No such investigation was possible while the Turks ruled Mesopotamia, for the conditions under which Turkey allowed the archaeologists to work were more discouraging than helpful, and many promising spots for examination were in the possession of unfriendly native tribes over which Turkish authority had little control. With changed conditions the recovery of the past is now about to be undertaken so systematically that a reasonably comprehensible history of Babylon and Sumer will probably at last be written from their ruins.

Children Cry for Fletcher's
CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. VICTORY LOAN CAMPAIGN WILL OPEN EARLY MONDAY MORNING

THE BEST SELLING PROPOSITION EVER OFFERED TO THE CITIZENS OF PETERBORO—NAMES OF CANVASSERS FOR THE CITY AND COUNTRY.

An organization of forty salesmen who know the city and county like a book, will set out Monday morning with the best selling proposition ever offered to the people of Peterborough. On Monday, Old Sol will introduce the 1919 Victory Loan campaign and if putting it across is improbable as some people seem to think, these forty canvassers will demonstrate that the probabilities were wrong again. Enthusiasm is high in all quarters, not the kind of enthusiasm of the sure-thing calibre, but the staff that wins where the road is not strewn with the prettiest of roses. These men realize that they are confronted with a big job, but they are out to beat it. It will be remembered that a fellow once said: "Here we are in a line of fortifications, come on over and get us." The Canadian soldiers accepted the invitation and blew the "stronghold" into smithereens.

It is up to the people of Peterborough to buy Victory Bonds for the next two weeks, if not from a fervent feeling of patriotism, then as a money-making proposition.

The canvassers for Peterborough City and County are as follows:

ALLIED TROOPS TO BE SENT TO THE PLEBISCITE AREAS

PARIS, Oct. 24. — Marshal Foch appeared before the Supreme council to-day to outline the preparations for the military occupation of regions in which, according to the Peace Treaty, plebiscites will be held and other military measures involved in the coming into effect of the treaty. There is reason to believe that the concentration and transportation of the allied troops which are to occupy the plebiscite areas will be ended by the beginning of November, so that the treaty could then be put into effect.

TERMS OF NEW VICTORY LOAN

ATTRACTIVE FEATURES OF $300,000,000 BOND ISSUE BY GOVERNMENT.

INTEREST 5 1-2 PER CENT

ARRANGEMENTS WITH BANKS FOR SMALL SUBSCRIBERS—NO TAX EXEMPTION.

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, has made known the terms of the forthcoming Victory Loan.

The prospectus will ask for a minimum amount of $300,000,000, with the right to accept all or any part of subscriptions in excess of that sum.

As in previous years, subscribers will be given a choice of maturity, five-year bonds due 1st November, 1924, or 15-year bonds, due 1st November, 1934. The securities will carry interest at the rate of 5½ per cent. per annum, payable 1st May and 1st November, and the issue price will be 100 and accrued interest for both maturities, making the income return 5½ per cent. per annum. Purchasers may pay in full on application or in five installments, as follows:

Terms of Payment.

Ten per cent. on application; 20 per cent. 9th December, 1919; 20 per cent 9th January, 1920; 20 per cent. 10th February, 1920; 20 per cent. 10th 10th February, 1920; 31.21 per cent. 9th March, 1920. The last payment of 31.21 per cent. covers 30 per cent. balance of principal, and 1.21 per cent., representing accrued interest at 5½ per cent. from 1st November to due dates of the respective installments.

As a full half-year's interest will be paid on 1st May, 1920, the cost of the bonds will be 100 per cent. and interest. If payment is made at the time of application the price will be 100 flat. After the initial payment subscribers to have the privilege of paying in full on any due date thereafter, with accrued interest computed at the rate of 5½ per cent. per annum.

For Small Subscribers.

Arrangements have again been made with the banks for the purchase of bonds by small subscribers on the installment card system, spreading the payments over ten months. Up to their capacity the banks will also accept bonds from small investors for safe-keeping, without charge, for a period of one year.

As in 1918, bearer bonds will be available through the banks for delivery at the time of application to subscribers making payment in full. Bonds registered as to principal only, or both as to principal and interest, in authorised denominations will be delivered to subscribers making payment in full as soon as the required registration can be made. Bonds with coupons will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, and $1,000, and may be registered as to principal. Fully registered bonds, the interest on which is paid directly to the owner by Government cheque, will not be issued in denominations lower than $500. The subscription lists will open on 27th October, and close on or before 15th November, 1919.

Not Exempt From Tax.

As previously intimated by the Minister of Finance, the bonds of the new issue will not carry the tax-exempt privilege which was attached to the issues made during the war. This means that in computing his Dominion income tax the holder of the new securities who is subject to the tax will be required to include the interest as part of his taxable income.

In making the announcement Sir Henry Drayton said: "This is not my loan; it is not the Government's loan; it is the loan of the people of Canada, backed by all the resources of Canada. It is to be spent to discharge our war committments and provide national working capital. The security is undoubted, the interest return exceptionally attractive. I confidently appeal to the Canadian people for the same full measure of support that has been given to the previous flotations, which have heralded to the world Canada's capacity and standing."

Purposes of Loan.

The purposes of the loan, which are set out in detail in the official advertisements and literature of the campaign, are described in general terms in the prospectus as follows:

"The proceeds of the Loan will be used to pay indebtedness incurred, and to meet expenditures to be made in connection with demobilisation (including the authorised war service gratuity to our soldiers, land settlement loans and other purposes connected with their re-establishment into civil life), for capital outlay upon shipbuilding and other national undertakings forming part of Canada's industrial reconstruction programme, and for the establishment of any necessary credits for the purchase of grain, foodstuffs, timber, and other products, and will be spent wholly in Canada."

Previous War Loans Were:

First—December, 1915, $100,000,000, 5 per cent., 10 years, issued at 97.5.

Second—October, 1916, $100,000,000, 5 per cent., 15 years, issued at 97.5.

Third—March, 1917, $150,000,000, 5 per cent., 20 years, issued at 96.

The Victory Loans Were:

First—November, 1917, $150,000,000, 5½ per cent., 5, 10, and 20 years, issued at 100.

Second—November, 1918, $300,000,000, 5½ per cent., 5 and 15 years, issued at 100.

Eugene Quesnel, of Montreal, was suffering from kidney trouble—and had suffered for five long years. This is his letter:—

"I could not sleep nights and on some occasions could hardly walk. I had been treated by some of our best physicians but without relief. I lost over 15 pounds and was very weak, and friends who knew me before were astonished. One day I met one of our leading hotelkeepers, who had been cured by your famous Gin Pills. He advised me to try them. I bought two boxes and before I had used one box I felt a big change. Before I finished the second one I was completely cured, and I can assure you if I had only known what I know now, I would not have spent one hundred dollars for nothing—when two boxes of Gin Pills cured me."

A TONIC FOR THE NERVES

The Only Real Nerve Tonic is a Good Supply of Rich, Red Blood.

"If people would only attend to their blood, instead of worrying themselves ill," said an eminent nerve specialist, "we doctors would not see our consulting rooms crowded with nervous wrecks. More people suffer from worry than anything else."

The sort of thing which the specialist spoke of is the nervous run-down condition caused by overwork and the many anxieties of to-day. Sufferers find themselves tired, morose, low-spirited and unable to keep their minds on anything. Any sudden noise hurts like a blow. They are full of groundless fears, and do not sleep well at night. Headaches, neutritis and other nerve pains are part of the misery, and it all comes from starved nerves.

Doctoring the nerves with poisonous sedatives is a terrible mistake. The only real nerve tonic is a good supply of rich, red Blood. Therefore to cure nervousness and run-down health Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be taken. These pills actually make new, rich blood, which strengthens the nerves, improves the appetite, gives new strength and spirits, and makes hitherto despondent people bright and cheerful. If you are at all "out of sorts" you should begin curing yourself to-day by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Airplanes Prevent Invasion.

About the middle of the past century a British army was destroyed in retreating from Cabul through the Khyber Pass to India. Recently a formidable Afghan army attempted a raid through this Pass on the Indian frontier, but bombing by British airplanes made the Pass untenable to the Afghans, and they soon asked for a cessation of hostilities.

KAISER'S ANTECEDENTS.

Descended Directly From Great French Admiral.

The former German Kaiser is of French blood and French descent, descended, indeed, from one of the most famous and noble figures in the annals of France.

A daughter of Gaspare de Coligny, admiral of France and the incomparable leader of the Huguenots, who was murdered among his compatriots in the massacre of St. Bartholomew's Day, so the annals run, in 1533, married William of Nassau-Dillenburg. From this union was born Frederick Henry, Stradtholder of the Netherlands; and his little daughter, Louise Henriette, married Frederick William I, of Bradenburg, the Great Elector. The son of the Great Elector, Frederick I, King of Prussia, married the Princess Sophia Charlotte, who bore him eleven children, among whom was the great-great-grandmother of the present Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands.

Frederick I of Prussia was succeeded by his own son, Frederick II, called the Great, who in turn was succeeded by his nephew, Frederick William II, who again was succeeded by Frederick William III. Two sons of the latter reigned in turn, Frederick William IV, and William I. The last named became German Emperor in 1871; was succeeded by his son, Frederick, and he, finally by William II.

The former Kaiser is, therefore, descended directly from the great French Admiral, in the tenth generation.

EXCUSE FOR LATE HOURS.

London.—Because she returned to her duties rather late one evening after peace celebrations Sarah Walker, an Ashby-de-la-Zouch domestic servant, was dismissed by her employer.

She was awarded damages in the County Court for wrongful dismissal, the Judge holding that a little latitude might well have been allowed. The girl had to walk four miles to her employer's house.

Indians as Farmers.

It is expected that Indians in the three Western Provinces will have 2,000 acres of grain to harvest this year. With a favorable season the Indians will garner over two and a half million bushels of coarse grain, to say nothing of the hay crop which will be harvested for the live stock. During the past three years they have made phenomenal strides of advancement in agriculture generally, and their live stock, having come through the winter in prime condition, will show considerable increase in numbers.

Sawdust offers a prolific source of fuel oil when present supplies are exhausted, according to an English professor, who has obtained seven gallons from a ton of vegetable matter.

Tainted Money.

Eugene was not accustomed to receiving sums of money coins of a larger denomination than the nickel, and pennies were more familiar. A wealthy relative who was visiting the family and wished to talk over subjects that were not for young ears gave him a quarter and bade him go downtown and spend it. His eyes shone. In the three and a half years of his life he had never had so much money. Then craft entered into his soul. "If I take the money do I have to stay out a long time?" he inquired. On being told that this was expected of him he coolly but firmly returned the money and kept his freedom of action.

Egg-O is absolutely pure and efficient—And double acting, that is, its first action occurs in the mixing bowl when cold water or milk in its various forms is added. Allowing the dough to stand for 15 or 20 minutes will give better results. When you put your baking in the oven Egg-O will continue to rise until your cakes are properly baked.

Buying Egg-O in the larger tins is most economical for family use.

ANOTHER LITTLE ORPHAN

(By H. F. GADSBY)

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—Of course Parliament could say nothing about gratuities or the bone dry bills until Premier Hearst's little trouble was over so the Grand Trunk bargain came as a good subject to chew on. The members can go home now at the end of the month with a clear conscience and they have earned their money.

That does not lessen the blame, however, which must attach to the government for bringing in a transaction of this size in the dying days of the session to be frisked through with a lick and a promise instead of getting a clean wash which would expose some of its sinister features.

That it has sinister features we cannot doubt because Sir Thomas White who now acts as candid friend to the government, a sort of unofficial Cassandra who shows us the worst we can expect if we don't get back to work and save money,—it has sinister features, I repeat, because Sir Thomas White, handing out his little blue pills of reasonable pessimism, says that this country is in a serious condition financially and that its back may be broken if it takes on a heavier load. In the same breath Sir Thomas prophesies that there will be another loan besides the one already afoot which means that inside of twelve months we shall be borrowing five hundred million dollars to pay for a peace demobilization which should cost not more than half of our war effort.

Following out Sir Thomas' frank logic—which by the way has already thrown a chill into the current Victory Loan—it is allowable to surmise that if this country cannot afford to pay from four hundred millions to a billion dollars to the soldiers in gratuities neither can it afford to take over a railway which will cost us in interest and principal about two hundred and forty-five million dollars not counting settlements which will cost perhaps two hundred million dollars more. One way and another the Grand Trunk promises to set us back five hundred million dollars and where we are to get the money, heaven only knows. It is a cinch that the Union Government has no idea how it is going to raise the wind.

Loans present and to come will soon make our war debt two million dollars, which means in interest alone—not to mention the sinking fund to retrieve these bonds within twenty years—an addition to our current expenditure of ten hundred million dollars a ...

We are told on high authority that it will cost four hundred million dollars to put the C.N.R. in shape and it is not unreasonable to suppose that the other railways which have become a public charge will take another two hundred millions to bring them up to the mark as public carriers. In six years if public ownership behaves as it is doing now the railways will have run behind three hundred million dollars in accumulated deficits. This brings our prospective railway burden up to about a billion and a half dollars. What then? Do we refund our domestic loans say at three, or two, or even one per cent., or do we repudiate? Our annual revenue outside of the railways, is at present two hundred and eighty million dollars. Our annual obligations for some years to come, threaten to be seven hundred million dollars. How are we going to cut our cloth to make the coat fit? Can it be done at all?

All of which is to say that just now is a bad time to bring down another half baked public ownership railway deal—to take another little beggar into the poor house who will be like Oliver Twist and keep crying for "more." These orphan railways cost us a lot of money and all they seem willing to do after they drop into our arms is to be fed. The Transcontinental and the C. N. R. and the Grand Trunk Pacific were our misfortunes. They were left on our doorsteps, so to speak — take your brats—but the G. T. R. is our own fault. We reached for it.

As soon as we get it we can depend on it falling asleep. The Canadian Snorethorn has done it already. Likewise the Trancecontinental and the Grand Trunk Soporific. The railways are the only ones that can afford to sleep—the taxpayers have to keep awake to find the money. And speaking of sleep why doesn't the enterprising Canadian Northern management of the Canadian National Railways give us blankets that will cover our shoulders and our feet at the same time? However let that pass—there are graver things to be discussed.

I own to a leaning toward public ownership of railways if only politics can be kept out of them, but Chairman Frank Carvell of the Railway Commission is authority for the statement that the Almighty himself could not keep politics out of a Government railway. I am also convinced that public ownership of railways is a good thing for the public if the government owns all the railways and can run them for service rather than for profit. That would mean that the Government would have to own the C.P.R. too —instead of the C.P.R. owning the Government as has been the case in the past—and I am afraid there is not much chance of that. As matters stand at present, the C.P.R. being a far more solvent institution than the Government in Canada there is a better prospect of the C.P.R. buying out the Government railways than of the Government buying out the C.P.R. Not to put too nice a point on it where would the Government find another billion to buy the C.P.R.?

The warmest admirers of public ownership—of whom I am one—cannot but admit that since the Government took over certain railways the operating expenses and the freight rates have gone up and the service has gone down. The freight rates went up because the Government railways needed the money. The C.P.R. didn't need the money but it reaped the benefit. The C.P.R. is rich and as the Bible says, to him that hath shall be given. The only way the Government could think of to get around the difficulty of making the C.P.R. richer at the expense of the other railways was to ask the C.P.R. to hand over that extra fifteen per cent. of found money. Up to date I have not heard of the C.P.R. doing any such things. One can hardly blame it for balking at such an unfair tax on good management.

It may be that the executive of the Canadian National Railways seeks to demonstrate that public ownership is a lemon. I notice that Sir William Mackenzie and Mr. Z. A. Lash are frequently in Ottawa to see how Mr. Hanna is getting along. On the other hand they may be doing the best they can. But best or worst the result threatens to be the same. After, say, three hundred million dollars of accumulated deficits the people may tire of their costly plaything and say "Sell out." In that case the Government which has been so "busy getting" together this nest of bad eggs, may either hold a public auction and sell to the highest bidder or ask a regenerated Canadian Northern outfit to take the bad bargain off its hands for the amount of the deficits and say two hundred million dollars to boot.

The C.P.R. might also be willing to buy on these terms but I doubt if the Government would sell, its object being since public ownership had failed, to give the C.P.R. a little healthy competition. At all events it would appear from this angle that Government ownership is sowing for somebody else to reap, and perhaps, Canada, staggering under her load of debt, will find that the best way out of it.

It is true that the Grand Trunk bargain postpones ultimate payment for thirty years, meanwhile guaranteeing dividends such as the shareholders never enjoyed before, but this is a sort of Wilkins Micawber finance which considers the debt paid when the note is signed. Any Government that expects to retrieve two billion dollars' worth of war bonds in twenty years and then after a ten years' breathing spell pay for another railway shows a great deal more hope than common sense. Meanwhile we shut our eyes to the fact that men of Canada were able to pay for the Grand Trunk at the end of thirty years, the United States Government might say No. How is it possible for the Government of Canada to own a railway in the United States, where the most profitable part of the Grand Trunk lies? Such a paradox as one government permitting another foreign government to own road within its territory is against all national law and precedent. I do not believe that we could even make a "corridor" arrangement with Uncle Sam. Mr. Meighen does not mention this matter at all.

REJECTED THE WILSON PROPOSAL.

(Canadian Press)

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 24.—Operators and miners again to-day rejected the proposal of Secretary of Labour Wilson that they negotiate a new wage agreement calculated to avert the strike of soft coal miners called for 1st November.

ALD. EDGAR WILL NOT ENTER MAYORALTY RACE

INTIMATES THAT THE LABOUR WRITING ON THE WALL IS CLEAR TO HIM.

"Not after Monday's vote," was Ald. Edgar's reply this morning, when asked whether he would be a candidate for Mayor next January. "What would be the use of standing for election when you know that the Labour vote would be practically solid for their candidate?" he remarked.

Ald. Edgar is one of the most experienced members of the Council. The Railway committee is largely his own idea. He at least developed it to its present degree of usefulness. His aldermanic term expires this year, and although he did not say whether he would remain in the field or not, it is expected that he will be a candidate.

A BATTLE WITH ICE.

How the "Lake Ontario" Reached the Ocean.

The Lake Ontario, built on the Great Lakes, began her career by forcing her way to the ocean through ice in the St. Lawrence river to think that Canadian ice-crushers gave it up. Having got her hand in, so to speak, she became one of the mine-carriers operated by the naval overseas service. In this work she dodged torpedoes and floating mines, was followed one thousand miles by a German submarine, drove off another sub with five well-placed shots, was used as live bait in a convoy to trap a submarine, weathered an eighty-five-mile gale while steaming four miles an hour astern with her engines turning 100 revolutions per minute on the "go ahead," and through it all never had an accident.

These are some of the high lights in her very interesting story, which is told by her commanding officer, Lieut.-Col. E. Gordon Rattray, in the Chicago Tribune. According to Commander Rattray:

The Lake Ontario was launched November 20, 1917. Five days later we left Manitowoc for New York City.

While in Montreal, on the way to New York, we received orders to proceed with seven other ships through the ice to Quebec before we were all frozen in, as was the last fleet out. It was then from seven to ten degrees below zero, with the rivers and small lakes covered with ice.

The huge Government ice-crusher, Lady Gray, met us to break a way through the ice as far as Quebec, where we would receive the assistance of another large Canadian Government ice-crusher, Bell View. The two were then to break the fleet out through to clear water. The Lake Ontario was last to leave Two Rivers and first to arrive at Quebec, steaming her way through seven feet of ice at Victoria bridge. The fleet stopped all night at Quebec. The next morning at 7 o'clock we started out through very heavy ice. After proceeding for five hours through ice that measured up to twenty feet, the Canadian ice-crushers turned back with six of the other ships.

The Lake Ontario continued breaking the ice, with the War Fox following. This is where the battle commenced. All the ships were gone for 150 miles in this river, carried out by the heavy ice, in tides that ran as high as seven knots per hour in places.

This battle with ice lasted three days and nights with a temperature of 16 degrees below zero. At times ice started to come over the top of the ship and her sides and frames were springing in and out with the pressure and grinding of ice, which had reached a thickness of thirty feet. By the twisting of the tides and by filling the cargo hold aft with water and laying her down on her side, we managed to "crank upon water after three days and nights of continuous work. The ice extended for 540 miles, from Montreal out into the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The balance of the fleet was frozen in at Quebec, the steamship Angelina going down. We lost track of the War Fox off Father's Point in the ice that night. She kept coming, however, as she was a game little "laker." We both dropped anchor at Port Hawkesbury, Gut of Canso, Nova Scotia. We started out together again, but the Lake Ontario, being faster, we arrived in New York first.

After being fitted for naval operations as a mine-carrier with depth charges, and guns mounted fore and aft, we made the trip from New York to Norfolk, Virginia, thence to Tampico, Mexico. We fueled up two warships while there and proceeded back to Key West, where we finished discharging our cargo at the naval station.

While in convoy bound from Norfolk to Lochinch, Scotland, we passed over a nest of eight mines which had been laid for us the night previous by a submarine. These were picked up the next day by British trawlers and mine-sweepers. After leaving Kyle we returned to Glasgow for fuel and provisions. On [illegible] from Glasgow to Hampton [illegible] we passed over the United [illegible] steamship Lake Moor's wreck.

After receiving numerous [illegible] messages from ships being attacked by German submarines, we [illegible] in Hampton Roads none the [illegible] for our trip. VICTORY LOAN CAMPAIGN WILL OPEN EARLY MONDAY MORNING

THE BEST SELLING PROPOSITION EVER OFFERED TO THE CITIZENS OF PETERBORO—NAMES OF CANVASSERS FOR THE CITY AND COUNTRY.

An organization of forty salesmen who know the city and county like a book, will set out Monday morning with the best selling proposition ever offered to the people of Peterborough. On Monday, Old Sol will introduce the 1919 Victory Loan campaign and if putting it across is improbable as some people seem to think, these forty canvassers will demonstrate that the probabilities were wrong again. Enthusiasm is high in all quarters, not the kind of enthusiasm of the bure-thing calibre, but the staff that wins where the road is not strewn with the prettiest of roses. These men realize that they are confronted with a big job, but they are out to beat it. It will be remembered that a fellow once said: "Here we are in a line of fortifications, come on over and get us." The Canadian soldiers accepted the invitation and blew the "stronghold" into smithereens.

It is up to the people of Peterborough to buy Victory Bonds for the next two weeks, if not from a fervent feeling of patriotism, then as a money-making proposition.

The canvassers for Peterborough City and County are as follows:

TERMS OF NEW VICTORY LOAN

ATTRACTIVE FEATURES OF $300,000,000 BOND ISSUE BY GOVERNMENT.

INTEREST 5 1-2 PER CENT

ARRANGEMENTS WITH BANKS FOR SMALL SUBSCRIBERS—NO TAX EXEMPTION.

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, has made known the terms of the forthcoming Victory Loan.

The prospectus will ask for a minimum amount of $300,000,000, with the right to accept all or any part of subscriptions in excess of that sum.

As in previous years, subscribers will be given a choice of maturity, five-year bonds due 1st November, 1924, or 15-year bonds, due 1st November, 1934. The securities will carry interest at the rate of 5½ per cent. per annum, payable 1st May and 1st November, and the issue price will be 100 and accrued interest for both maturities, making the income return 5½ per cent. per annum. Purchasers may pay in full on application or in five installments, as follows:

Terms of Payment.

Ten per cent. on application; 20 per cent. 9th December, 1919; 20 per cent 9th January, 1920; 20 per cent. 10th February, 1920; 20 per cent. 10th 10th February, 1920; 31.21 per cent. 9th March, 1920. The last payment of 31.21 per cent. covers 30 per cent. balance of principal, and 1.21 per cent., representing accrued interest at 5½ per cent. from 1st November to due dates of the respective installments.

As a full half-year's interest will be paid on 1st May, 1920, the cost of the bonds will be 100 per cent. and interest. If payment is made at the time of application the price will be 100 flat. After the initial payment subscribers to have the privilege of paying in full on any due date thereafter, with accrued interest computed at the rate of 5½ per cent. per annum.

For Small Subscribers.

Arrangements have again been made with the banks for the purchase of bonds by small subscribers on the installment card system, spreading the payments over ten months. Up to their capacity the banks will also accept bonds from small investors for safe-keeping, without charge, for a period of one year.

As in 1918, bearer bonds will be available through the banks for delivery at the time of application to subscribers making payment in full. Bonds registered as to principal only, or both as to principal and interest, in authorised denominations will be delivered to subscribers making payment in full as soon as the required registration can be made. Bonds with coupons will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, and $1,000, and may be registered as to principal. Fully registered bonds, the interest on which is paid directly to the owner by Government cheque, will not be issued in denominations lower than $500. The subscription lists will open on 27th October, and close on or before 15th November, 1919.

Not Exempt From Tax.

As previously intimated by the Minister of Finance, the bonds of the new issue will not carry the tax-exempt privilege which was attached to the issues made during the war. This means that in computing his Dominion income tax the holder of the new securities who is subject to the tax will be required to include the interest as part of his taxable income.

In making the announcement Sir Henry Drayton said: "This is not my loan; it is not the Government's loan; it is the loan of the people of Canada, backed by all the resources of Canada. It is to be spent to discharge our war commitments and provide national working capital. The security is undoubted, the interest return exceptionally attractive. I confidently appeal to the Canadian people for the same full measure of support that has been given to the previous flotations, which have heralded to the world Canada's capacity and standing."

Purposes of Loan.

The purposes of the loan, which are set out in detail in the official advertisements and literature of the campaign, are described in general terms in the prospectus as follows:

"The proceeds of the Loan will be used to pay indebtedness incurred, and to meet expenditures to be made in connection with demobilisation (including the authorised war service gratuity to our soldiers, land settlement loans and other purposes connected with their re-establishment into civil life), for capital outlay upon shipbuilding and other national undertakings forming part of Canada's industrial reconstruction programme, and for the establishment of any necessary credits for the purchase of grain, foodstuffs, timber, and other products, and will be spent wholly in Canada."

Previous War Loans Were:

First—December, 1915, $100,000,000, 5 per cent., 10 years, issued at 97.5.
Second—October, 1916, $100,000,000, 5 per cent., 15 years, issued at 97.5.
Third—March, 1917, $150,000,000, 5 per cent., 20 years, issued at 96.

The Victory Loans Were:

First—November, 1917, $150,000,000, 5½ per cent., 5, 10, and 20 years, issued at 100.
Second—November, 1918, $300,000,000, 5½ per cent., 5 and 15 years, issued at 100.

Kill the Germs of Catarrh

By Acting To-day You Can Quickly Cure Catarrh and Avoid Bronchitis, Perhaps Consumption.

Most Agreeable and Surest Cure Is Catarrhozone Which Cures Every Curable Case.

Catarrhozone proves especially good in those chronic cases where mucous drops down the throat, sickens the stomach, and pollutes the breath. When the nostrils are stuffed, only a few breaths through the inhaler are needed to clear the passages and where there is coughing and sore bronchial tubes, the soothing, healing properties of Catarrhozone act almost as magic.

ALLIED TROOPS TO BE SENT TO THE PLEBISCITE AREAS

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Marshal Foch appeared before the Supreme council to-day to outline the preparations for the military occupation of regions in which, according to the Peace Treaty, plebiscites will be held and other military measures involved in the coming into effect of the treaty. There is reason to believe that the concentration and transportation of the allied troops which are to occupy the plebiscite areas will be ended by the beginning of November, so that the treaty could then be put into effect.

Eugene Quesnel, of Montreal, was suffering from kidney trouble—and had suffered for five long years. This is his letter:—

"I could not sleep nights and on some occasions could hardly walk. I had been treated by some of our best physicians but without relief. I lost over 15 pounds and was very weak, and friends who knew me before were astonished. One day I met one of our leading hotelkeepers, who had been cured by your famous Gin Pills. He advised me to try them. I bought two boxes and before I had used one box I felt a big change. Before I finished the second one I was completely cured, and I can assure you if I had only known what I know now, I would not have spent one hundred dollars for nothing—when two boxes of Gin Pills cured me."

Gin Pills are the finest preparation for kidney and bladder trouble ever produced. At the first warning pain in back or side, get Gin Pills. They work like magic, reducing congestion, soothing, healing inflamed, irritated tissues, building them into normal and active condition and relieving pain. At all druggists and dealers, 50c. A TONIC FOR THE NERVES

The Only Real Nerve Tonic is a Good Supply of Rich, Red Blood.

"If people would only attend to their blood, instead of worrying themselves ill," said an eminent nerve specialist, "we doctors would not see our consulting rooms crowded with nervous wrecks. More people suffer from worry than anything else."

The sort of thing which the specialist spoke of is the nervous run-down condition caused by overwork and the many anxieties of to-day. Sufferers find themselves tired, morose, low-spirited and unable to keep their minds on anything. Any sudden noise hurts like a blow. They are full of groundless fears, and do not sleep well at night. Headaches, neutritis and other nerve pains are part of the misery, and it all comes from starved nerves.

Doctoring the nerves with poisonous sedatives is a terrible mistake. The only real nerve tonic is a good supply of rich, red Blood. Therefore to cure nervousness and run-down health Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be taken. These pills actually make new, rich blood, which strengthens the nerves, improves the appetite, gives new strength and spirits, and makes hitherto despondent people bright and cheerful. If you are at all "out of sorts" you should begin curing yourself to-day by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Airplanes Prevent Invasion.

About the middle of the past century a British army was destroyed in retreating from Cabul through the Khyber Pass to India. Recently a formidable Afghan army attempted a raid through this Pass on the Indian frontier, but bombing by British airplanes made the Pass untenable to the Afghans, and they soon asked for a cessation of hostilities.

KAISER'S ANTECEDENTS.

Descended Directly From Great French Admiral.

The former German Kaiser is of French blood and French descent, descended, indeed, from one of the most famous and noble figures in the annals of France.

A daughter of Maspare de Coligny, admiral of France and the incomparable leader of the Huguenots, who was murdered among his compatriots in the massacre of St. Bartholomew's Day, so the annals run, in 1572, married William of Nassau-Dillenburg. From this union was born Frederick Henry, Stradtholder of the Netherlands; and his little daughter, Louise Henriette, married Frederick William I, of Brandenburg, the Great Elector. The son of the Great Elector, Frederick I, King of Prussia, married the Princess Sophia Charlotte, who bore him eleven children, among whom was the great-great-grandmother of the present Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands.

Frederick I of Prussia was succeeded by his own son, Frederick William I, called the Great, who in turn was succeeded by his nephew, Frederick William II, who again was succeeded by Frederick William III. Two sons of the latter reigned in turn, Frederick William IV, and William I. The last named became German Emperor in 1871; was succeeded by his son, Frederick, and he, finally by William II.

The former Kaiser is, therefore, descended directly from the great French Admiral, in the tenth generation.

VOCATIONAL BRANCH OPENED IN PETERBORO RECEIVE MANY APPLICATIONS FOR COURSES

MAJOR F. D. GIFFORD, M.C., IS IN CHARGE OF THE LOCAL OFFICE —WHAT THE DEPARTMENT IS DOING FOR THE RETURNED SOLDIERS.

While the offices of the Vocational Training branch of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, located in the Barrie Building, have only been open in Peterborough for a little over a week, already seventy-three men have been placed in training either for business or for trades. A simillar office was opened recently in Oshawa, but it was found that so many men came from Peterborough, where the office was originally intended to be opened, that on the request of the Great War Veterans, and on the advice of Major F. D. Gifford, M.C., the local branch was opened.

Office Staff.

The office staff is composed entirely of returned men, Major F. D. Gifford, M.C., who is a member of the 2nd Battalion, is in charge with Mr. C. H. Reid, Dr. Sutton, Mr. C. M. Robinson, Mr. James Abraham, Mr. Harry Barrett, F. D. Gerald, T. Smith and H. Jobbit as assistants. Mr. Smith, who recently returned from overseas, was formerly a member of the Dumbells Company, which played in the city last evening and to-day.

Minors and Disabled Men.

The object of the office is to handle minors and disabled men. Of the latter there are 500 in the district who will require vocational training, but some of the men who were seriously wounded, from Peterborough, are still in hospital, and will need assistance presently. The minors, the boys who enlisted before eighteen years of age, came to the office at the rate of easily three a day, and sometimes many more. A large percentage of them were school boys when they joined up and upon returning do not care to go back to school, but are ambitious enough to wish for a good business education. Of these boys, Major Gifford could not speak highly enough. "They are the blood of the country," he said, "and no employer can make any mistake in employing any of them. They went out and faced hardships and almost certain death and have returned anxious to make good. They are absolutely filled with ambition. Statistics show that 85 per cent. of the men trained through the Vocational Training make good."

Industries Co-operate.

The manufacturers are lending hearty co-operation to the officers in charge and have already placed a great many of the applicants for vocational training in their businesses, where the boys may learn a trade. The men who have been sent to the Business College, and there are 27 now on roll there, are more than making good and appreciate what the training means to them and take full advantage of it.

Totally Blind.

Asked for some specific case in which the vocational training has benefitted, Major Gifford said that the office has not come in touch as yet with any out of the way cases in the city, but recounted his experience with a man who returned from overseas to Toronto totally blind. The man, seemingly past all help, was taken into the Vocational Training offices, taught to read and to write on the typewriter, and in a short time became an expert office man. He walks about the office without help and has so far controlled his facial expression that his blindness cannot be detected even by the closest observer. This is but one case in hundreds, the Major continued, and probably typical of what will be accomplished here.

THE FALL WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day is warm and bright and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NOSE GRAFTED ON MAN AFTER BEING CUT OFF

LONDON. —William Robertson was recently discharged from the King Edward VII Hospital, Windsor, with his nose, which had been cut off in an accident, successfully replaced by a surgeon.

"I was in a stable at Windsor on August 15," said Robertson, "when a skylight fell and cut my nose clean off. I was taken to the King Edward VII Hospital, where the arteries were tied up. The surgeon then asked, 'Where is the missing nose?' The son of a doctor cycled to the stable and made a search, finding my nose amongst the straw. It was brought back to the hospital, and an operation performed to replace it. My nose was off for three-quarters of an hour to an hour."

Asked how he felt, Robertson replied, similingly, "Everything is going on satisfactorily, and my nose is on all right, as you can see."

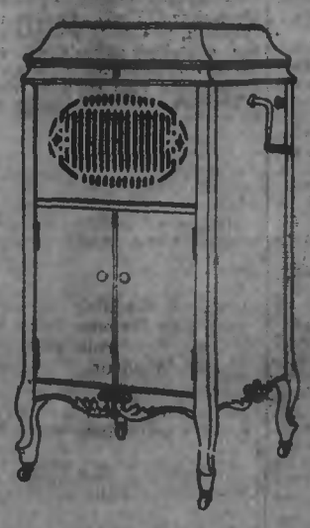
What Shape IS a Horn?



Made in Canada

Did you ever hear of a horn or a megaphone that was square?

Do you know why they never send water through a square pipe?

Every phonograph or talking machine has a "horn," but they call them "amplifiers." They are really the megaphones of the machine. It is their duty to round out the tone and send it to the listeners.

Now what shape do you think this "horn" should be to give the best "tone"—and what do you thinks it should be made of—resonant, vibrating metal or wood—built on the violin principle?

Before you buy any phonograph, find out the shape of the horn and what it is made of.

One of the secrets of the Brunswick's wonderful tone on ALL records is the exclusive patented OVAL tone chamber and throat—built entirely of wood, like a fine violin.

It actually DOES eliminate all harshness, all the stridency, and that "tinny" timbre that we have always thought a necessary evil of the old style "Talking Machines.

All we ask is that you use your own ears—your own judgment—see this wonderful improvement with your own eyes—compare it with anything you like—at any price.

You cannot afford to make a mistake, and it costs you nothing to be sure.

Remember, the Brunswick Oval Horn is Built Entirely of Wood

FEW TEACHERS TAKING COURSE

THE TREND OF MODERN EDUCATION.

Orillia Times.

An instance of the trend of modern education is the fact that 86 pupils are attending Commercial classes in the Collegiate Institute, the Business College is filled to capacity with students, while only nine are taking the teacher's training course at the Model School. The reason for this is that the Commercial Course is so much shorter than the teacher's course and the earning power of the graduates of the former so much greater, that few are willing to face the four or five years' diligent study before one can hope to qualify as a professional teacher and then be offered a salary much less than the commercial graduates who started with them in the scholastic race are receiving.

The two poorest paid professions in Canada to-day are those of the minister and the school teacher, and undeniably the empty college halls in both cases is largely due to the meagre remuneration promised at graduation. School Boards are largely to blame for the existing condition of things, because few of them are willing to pay adequately for either experience or merit. * * * * If the brilliant intellects are to be retained for the most important profession from a national stand point, that of training the young, the emolument for properly qualified teachers must be very materially increased, in both rural and urban districts.

LARGE BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED.

Canadian Gen. Electric Would Erect $135,000 Structure at King and Simcoe Street.

TORONTO, Oct. 24. — Building permits issued from the office of the City Architect yesterday reached a high total as regards the value of the buildings to be erected; by reason of the extensions which several Toronto firms are making to their premises.

The Canadian General Electric Company received a permit to build a new $135,000 warehouse at the corner of King and Simcoe streets, and a further permit to bridge the private lane between the new warehouse and their present one, at an estimated cost of $2,000. The structure will be six stories high.

A third permit was issued to the Canadian Allis-Chalmers Company for the erection of a pipe galvanizing plant at the corner of King and Simcoe streets, which will cost $35,000; and the Massey-Harris Company were authorized to make a twelve hundred dollar addition to their No. 8 warehouse at the corner of Stafford and Wellington streets.

DEATH FROM SPLINTER.

A HAPPY HUNTING GROUND

The summer sun beat down on the heaving cradle of the deep, and little Bill lay dozing on the long, lazy swells. Forty miles away the dim outlines of the mountains of Vancouver Island drew a faint fretwork against the horizon. Closer the bold point of Point Grey loomed high, and closer still the rugged entrance to Howe Sound met in endless battle with the charging rollers from the Gulf of Georgia. Little Bill's mother was somewhere in the depths looking for anything in the line of fish, but preferably salmon.

A smudgy smear appeared on the skyline. It drew rapidly nearer. Little Bill saw it not. Pushing herself along at the rate of eighteen knots the fast C. P. R. steamer Princess Patricia raced for harbor, keeping a railroad schedule, and piling a huge wave from each side of her sharp bows. She came close to Bill, who had not yet been christened, the roar of machinery, the rumbling rush of the wash startled him, and as he looked he was turned over and over in the big wave from the steamship. Little Bill forgot home and mother and all things but escape. Making his little flippers fly he drove himself toward the safety of a cove on Bowen Island, where, in the placid reaches, he rested again, feeling much more comfortable.

This is a true story. Bill is a young hair-seal. There are many thousands of his kind in the coast waters of British Columbia. They do no harm, excepting perhaps that of eating a few million salmon each season and destroying a few thousand yards of salmon nets that entangle them. The only other possible annoyance they might prove to create is that of following trolling fishermen and taking the fish off the hooks when the fisherman thinks he has caught one sure. Otherwise they are fat, lazy, comfortable, intelligent and kindly. They respond quickly to human attention. And the strange thing is that the human appeal is not made through the stomach. Young seals will make friends with men who never fed them a thing to entice them to closer relationship.

For instance there is the illustration of Bill. He rested in the warm cove at Bowen Island. He heard a seductive whistling sound, and he raised his head to look. There, not a hundred yards away he saw some two-legged creatures playing about in the water, and one who was sitting on a floating log was making the attractive noises with his lips. Bill slipped beneath the surface.

Picture the astonishment of the boys on the raft. Suddenly in their midst there came a little spotted seal that swam gently through them and drew up against the raft, asking as clearly as anything could, to be invited into the revels. One boy reached down, placed his hands behind the tiny flippers and lifted Bill out. They petted him and scratched him, dove and swam about with him. He seemed to enjoy himself fully as much as they. The day drew to a close and the lads went homeward, leaving their deep-sea playfellow alone. Next morning when they came to swim they whistled again. Close beside the raft a sleek little head like that of a wet spaniel raised itself, and small flippers wriggled joyously. The daily play was on again. It was then he was christened Bill, and learned to know the name. This happened weeks ago and still Bill plays tirelessly and in utter confidence. He rustles his own food, he asks nothing but friendship and companionship. Somewhere on the sandbars of the Fraser river his mother sleeps of nights, gorged with pink salmon, and perhaps dreaming of her wandering lad. But Bill, apparently, dreams of nothing but the coming day, and his friends in woollen tights.—L. V. K.

WEDDING BELLS

GREER—FELL

An event of great interest to the resident of Bailieboro and vicinity took place at the home of William Fell, hardware merchant at 2 p.m. on Wednesday October 22nd, when his eldest daughter, Phyllis Jacobina, was united in marriage to Roy Cecil son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Greer. In the presence of over thirty guests the ceremony was conducted by Rev. M. W. Leigh, B. A., of Fraserville. The bride, attired in a very becoming gown of white mirco, trimmed with pearls and lace, with a beautiful veil trimmed with, real orange blossoms, entered the drawing-room accompanied by her father, and taking her place under the arch of white and green and beside the groom took the usual marriage vows. The only attendant was a cousin of the bride, little Miss Edna Jewison, who in a pretty pale blue dress acted the part of flower girl. Lohengrin's Wedding march was played by Mrs. Rev. M. W. Leigh. The witnesses, who signed the register were Victor R. Fell, M.M., with bar, brother of the bride and Mary E. Greer, sister of the groom and a nurse-in-training at Nicholls Hospital, Peterboro. After the congratulations and the signing of the register, the guests enjoyed the bountiful wedding dinner provided. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful set of black fox furs, to the flower girl a gold pendant and to the pianist a cameo lace pin. The wedding gifts consisted of a variety of furniture, silverware, cut glass, linen and many other valuable and useful articles. The bride's travelling suit was of navy blue serge. Amid showers of confetti and expressions of goodwill the happy couple started on their honeymoon.

EVEN CHINA IS BUILDING SHIPS.

In these days of planning for commercial prestige, even the Chinese are building ships. At Shanghai is a shipyard, the Kiangnan, operated by the Government, which is turning out ships regularly, even though its capacity is limited, and the methods employed in many instances are antiquated. Chinese directors are in charge of the plant, though the engineering problems are superintended mainly by Englishmen. The workmanship appears to be of high quality, and vessels of the composite type which are constructed there are insured by Lloyd's for twenty years. In the last ten years an average of thirty-one vessels a year have been turned out. Many have been for the use of the American Government in Philippine waters.

MESSAGE ON MARROW

LONDON.—"War time, 1916, dig and be saved. Peace time, 1918, dig and be damned" was the inscription grown in the skin of a marrow presented to Council F. C. Arney, president of the Acton Food Production Show, in commemoration of his outburst against conflicting government policy with regard to allotments when the attempt was made to eject holders from Acton Vale.

CANADIAN SHIPS FOR OVERSEAS MUST HAVE WIRELESS EQUIPMENT

All Vessels Must Conform With New British Parliament Act.

OTTAWA, Oct. 24.—All Canadian ships sailing for ports in the United Kingdom will be obliged in the future to carry wireless installation and wireless operators, in order to conform to the requirements of an act passed by the British Parliament The naval service department has been informed that this act requires every sea-going British ship registered in the United Kingdom, being a passenger steamer or a ship of 1,600 tons gross tonnage or upwards to equip with a wireless installation.

IN MEMORIAM

FAGAN—In loving memory of James Fagan, who died October 23, 1918.

The happy hours we once enjoyed
How sweet their memory still,
But Death has left a vacant place
The world can never fill.

A voice had whispered, come,
And in the silence of that night
God took his loved one home.

We think of him in silence
And his name we oft recall
For there's nothing left to answer
But his photo on the wall.

May the Heavenly winds blow softly
O'er that sweet and hallowed spot
Tho' distance divides his grave from us.
He will never be forgot.
A Friend.
